thing have I desired of the Lord, that I will require, even that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to visit his Temple. For in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his Tabernacle: in the secret place of his pavilion shall he hide me, and set me up upon a rock. And now shall he lift up mine head above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his Tabernacle sacrifices of joy: I will sing and praise the Lord. Harken unto my voice, O Lord, when I cry: have mercy also upon me and hear me. When thou saidst, Seek ye my face, mine heart answered unto thee, O Lord, I will seek thy face. Hide not therefore thy face from me, nor cast thy servant away in displeasure: thou hast been my succour: leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation. Though my father and my mother should forsake me, yet the Lord will gather me up. Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a right path, because of mine enemies. Give me not unto the lust of mine adversaries: for there are false witnesses risen up against me, and such as speak cruelly. I should have fainted, except I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living. Hope in the Lord: be strong, and he shall comfort thine heart, and trust in the Lord.

A Psalm of David.

Unto thee, O Lord, do I cry: O my strength, be not deaf toward me, lest, if thou answer me not, I be like them that go down into the pit. Hear the voice of my petitions, when I cry unto thee, when I hold up mine hands toward thine holy Oracle. Draw me not away with the wicked, and with the workers of iniquity: which speak friendly to their neighbours, when malice is in their hearts. Reward them according to their deeds, and according to the wickedness of their inventions: recompense them after the work of their hands: render them their reward. For they regard not the works of the Lord, nor the operation of his hands: therefore break them down, and build them not up. Praised be the Lord, for he hath heard the voice of my petitions. The Lord is my strength and my shield: mine heart trusted in him, and I was helped: therefore mine heart shall rejoice, and with my song will I praise him. The Lord is their strength, and he is the strength of the deliverances of his anointed. Save thy people, and bless thine inheritance: feed them also, and exalt them forever.

A Psalm of David.

Give unto the Lord, ye sons of the mighty: give unto the Lord glory and strength. Give unto the Lord glory due unto his Name: worship the Lord in the glorious Sanctuary. The voice of the Lord is upon the waters: the God of glory maketh it to thunder: the Lord is upon the great waters. The voice of the Lord is mighty: the voice of the Lord is glorious.

The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars: yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Lebanon. He maketh them also to leap like a calf: Lebanon also and Shirion like a young unicorn. The voice of the Lord divideth the flames of fire. The voice of the Lord maketh the wilderness to tremble: the Lord maketh the wilderness of Kadesh to tremble. The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to calve, & discovereth the forests: therefore in his Temple doth every man speak of his glory. The Lord sitteth upon the flood, and the Lord doth remain King forever. The Lord shall give strength unto his people: the Lord shall bless his people with peace.

A Psalm or song of the dedication of the house of David.

I will magnify thee, O Lord: for thou hast exalted me, and hast not made my foe to rejoice over me. O Lord my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast restored me. O Lord, thou hast brought up my soul out of the grave: thou hast revived me from them that go down into the pit. Sing praises unto the Lord, ye his Saints, and give thanks before the remembrance of his Holiness. For he endureth but a while in his anger: but in his favour is life: weeping may abide at evening, but joy cometh in the morning. And in my prosperity I said, I shall never be moved. For thou Lord of thy goodness hadst made my mountain to stand strong: but thou didst hide thy face, and I was troubled. Then cried I unto thee, O Lord, and praised to my Lord. What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to the pit? shall the dust give thanks unto thee? or shall it declare thy truth? Hear, O Lord, and have mercy upon me: Lord, be thou mine helper. Thou hast turned my mourning into joy: thou hast loosed my sack and girded me with gladness. Therefore shall my tongue praise thee and not cease: O Lord my God, I will give thanks unto thee forever.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

In thee, O Lord, have I put my trust: let me never be confounded: deliver me in thy righteousness. Bow down thine ear to me: make haste to deliver me: be unto me a strong rock, and an house of defense to save me. For thou art my rock and my fortress: therefore for thy Names sake direct me and guide me. Draw me out of the net, that they have laid privily for me: for thou art my strength. Into thine hand I commend my spirit: for thou hast redeemed me, O Lord God of truth. I have hated them that give themselves to deceitful vanities: for I trust in the Lord. I will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy: for thou hast seen my trouble: thou hast known my soul in adversities, and thou hast not shut me up in the hand of the enemy, but hast set my feet at large. Have mercy upon me, O Lord: for I am in trouble: mine eye, my soul and my belly are consumed with grief.

For my life is wasted with heaviness, and my years with mourning: my strength faileth for my pain, and my bones are consumed. I was a reproach among all mine enemies, but specially among my neighbours: and a fear to mine acquaintance, who seeing me in the street, fled from me. I am forgotten, as a dead man out of mind: I am like a broken vessel. For I have heard the railing of great men: fear was on every side, while they conspired together against me, and consulted to take my life. But I trusted in thee, O Lord: I said, Thou art my God. My times are in thine hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that persecute me. Make thy face to shine upon thy servant, and save me through thy mercy. Let me not be confounded, O Lord: for I have called upon thee: let the wicked be put to confusion, and to silence in the grave. Let the lying lips be made dumb, which cruelly, proudly and spitefully speak against the righteous. How great is thy goodness, which thou hast laid up for them, that fear thee! and done to them, that trust in thee, even before the sons of men! Thou dost hide them privily in thy presence from the pride of men: thou keepest them secretly in thy Tabernacle from the strife of tongues. Blessed be the Lord: for he hath shewed his marvelous kindness toward me in a strong city. Though I said in mine haste, I am cast out of thy sight, yet thou heardest the voice of my prayer, when I cried unto thee. Love ye the Lord all his Saints: for the Lord preserveth the faithful, and rewardeth abundantly the proud doer. All ye that trust in the Lord, be strong, and he shall establish your heart.

A Psalm of David to give instruction.

Blessed is he whose wickedness is forgiven, and whose sin is covered. Blessed is the man, unto whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile. When I held my tongue, my bones consumed, or when I roared all the day, (For thine hand is heavy upon me, day and night: and my moisture is turned into ye drought of summer. Selah) then I acknowledged my sin unto thee, neither hid I mine iniquity: for I thought, I will confess against myself my wickedness unto the Lord, and thou forgavest the punishment of my sin. Selah. Therefore shall every one, that is godly, make his prayer unto thee in a time, when thou mayest be found: surely in the flood of great waters they shall not come near him. Thou art my secret place: thou preservest me from trouble: thou compassest me about with joyful deliverance. Selah. I will instruct thee, and teach thee in the way that thou shalt go, and I will guide thee with mine eye. Be ye not like an horse, or like a mule, which understand not: whose mouths thou dost bind with bit and bridle, lest they come near thee. Many sorrows shall come to the wicked:

but he, that trusteth in the Lord, mercy shall compass him. Be glad ye righteous, and rejoice in the Lord, and be joyful all ye, that are upright in heart.

Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous: for it becometh upright men to be thankful. Praise the Lord with harp: sing unto him with viole and instrument of ten strings. Sing unto him a new song: sing cheerfully with a loud voice. For the word of the Lord is righteous, and all his works are faithful. He loveth righteousness and judgement: the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord. By the word of the Lord were the heavens made, & all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. He gathereth the waters of the sea together as upon an heap, and layeth up the depths in his treasures. Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all them that dwell in the world, fear him. For he spake, and it was done: he commanded, and it stood. The Lord breaketh the counsel of the heathen, and bringeth to nought the devices of the people. The counsel of the Lord shall stand forever, and the thoughts of his heart throughout all ages. Blessed is that nation, whose God is the Lord: even the people that he hath chosen for his inheritance. The Lord looketh down from heaven, and beholdeth all the children of men. From the habitation of his dwelling he beholdeth all them that dwell in the earth. He fashioneth their hearts every one, and understandeth all their works. The King is not saved by the multitude of an host, neither is the mighty man delivered by great strength. A horse is a vain help, and shall not deliver any by his great strength. Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, and upon them, that trust in his mercy, to deliver their souls from death, and to preserve them in famine. Our soul waiteth for the Lord: for he is our help and our shield. Surely our heart shall rejoice in him, because we trusted in his holy Name. Let thy mercy, O Lord, be upon us, as we trust in thee.

A Psalm of David, when he changed his behaviour before Abimelech, who drove him away, and he departed.

I will always give thanks unto the Lord: his praise shall be in my mouth continually. My soul shall glory in the Lord: the humble shall hear it, and be glad. Praise ye the Lord with me, and let us magnify his Name together. I sought the Lord, and he heard me: yea, he delivered me out of all my fear. They shall look unto him, and run to him: and their faces shall not be ashamed, saying, This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles. The Angel of the Lord pitcheth round about them, that fear him, and delivereth them. Taste ye and see, how gracious the Lord is: blessed is the man that trusteth in him. Fear the Lord, ye his Saints: for nothing wanteth to them that fear him. The lions do lack and suffer hunger, but they, which seek the Lord, shall want nothing that is good. Come children, hearken unto me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord. What man is he, that desireth life, and loveth long days for to see good? Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips, that they speak no guile. Eschew evil and do good: seek peace and follow after it. The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry. But the face of the Lord is against them that do evil, to cut off their remembrance from the earth. The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth them, and delivereth them out of all their troubles. The Lord is near unto them that are of a contrite heart, and will save such as be afflicted in Spirit. Great are the troubles of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all. He keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken. But malice shall slay the wicked: and they that hate the righteous, shall perish. The Lord redeemeth the souls of his servants: and none, that trust in him, shall perish.

A Psalm of David.

Plead thou my cause, O Lord, with them that strive with me: fight thou against them, that fight against me. Lay hand upon the shield and buckler, and stand up for mine help. Bring out also the spear and stop the way against them, that persecute me: say unto my soul, I am thy salvation. Let them be confounded & put to shame, that seek after my soul: let them be turned back, and brought to confusion, that imagine mine hurt. Let them be as chaff before the wind, and let the Angel of the Lord scatter them. Let their way be dark and slippery: and let the Angel of the Lord persecute them. For without cause they have hid the pit & their net for me: without cause have they digged a pit for my soul. Let destruction come upon him at unawares, and let his net, that he hath laid privily, take him: let him fall into the same destruction. Then my soul shall be joyful in the Lord: it shall rejoice in his salvation. All my bones shall say, Lord, who is like unto thee, which deliverest the poor from him, that is too strong for him! yea, the poor and him that is in misery, from him that spoileth him! Cruel witnesses did rise up: they asked of me things that I knew not. They rewarded me evil for good, to have spoiled my soul. Yet I, when they were sick, I was clothed with a sack: I humbled my soul with fasting: and my prayer was turned upon my bosom. I behaved myself as to my friend, or as to my brother: I humbled myself, mourning as one that bewaileth his mother. But in mine adversity they rejoiced, and gathered themselves together: the abjects assembled themselves against me, and knew not: they tare me and ceased not, with the false skoffers at banquets, gnashing their teeth against me. Lord, how long wilt thou behold this? deliver my soul from their tumult, even my desolate soul from the lions. So will I give thee thanks in a great Congregation: I will praise thee among much people. Let not them that are mine enemies, unjustly rejoice over me, neither let them wink with the eye, that hate me without a cause. For they speak not as friends: but they imagine deceitful words against the quiet of the land. And they gaped on me with their mouths, saying, Aha, aha, our eye hath seen. Thou hast seen it, O Lord: keep not silence: be not far from me, O Lord. Arise and wake to my judgement, even to my cause, my God, and my Lord.

Judge me, O Lord my God, according to thy righteousness, and let them not rejoice over me. Let them not say in their hearts, O our soul rejoice: neither let them say, We have devoured him. Let them be confounded, & put to shame together, that rejoice at mine hurt: let them be clothed with confusion and shame, that lift up themselves against me. But let them be joyful and glad, that love my righteousness: yea, let them say always, Let the Lord be magnified, which loveth the prosperity of his servant. And my tongue shall utter thy righteousness, and thy praise every day.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David, the servant of the Lord.

Wickedness saith to the wicked man, even in mine heart, that there is no fear of God before his eyes. For he flattereth himself in his own eyes, while his iniquity is found worthy to be hated. The words of his mouth are iniquity and deceit: he hath left off to understand and to do good. He imagineth mischief upon his bed: he setteth himself upon a way, that is not good, and doth not abhor evil. Thy mercy, O Lord, reacheth unto the heavens, and thy faithfulness unto the clouds. Thy righteousness is like the mighty mountains: thy judgements are like a great deep: thou, Lord, dost save man and beast. How excellent is thy mercy, O God! therefore the children of men trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be satisfied with the fatness of thine house, and thou shalt give them drink out of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the well of life, and in thy light shall we see light. Extend thy loving kindness unto them that know thee, and thy righteousness unto them that are upright in heart. Let not ye foot of pride come against me, and let not the hand of ye wicked men move me. There they are fallen that work iniquity: they are cast down, and shall not be able to rise.

A Psalm of David.

Fret not thyself because of the wicked men, neither be envious for the evil doers. For they shall soon be cut down like grass, and shall wither as the green herb. Trust thou in the Lord & do good: dwell in the land, and thou shalt be fed assuredly. And delight thyself in the Lord, and he shall give thee thine hearts desire. Commit thy way unto the Lord, & trust in him, and he shall bring it to pass. And he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, & thy judgement as the noon day. Wait patiently upon the Lord and hope in him: fret not thyself for him which prospereth in his way: nor for the man that bringeth his enterprises to pass. Cease from anger, and leave off wrath: fret not thyself also to do evil. For evil doers shall be cut off, and they that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the land. Therefore yet a little while, and the wicked shall not appear, and thou shalt look after his place, and he shall not be found. But meek men shall possess the earth, and shall have their delight in the multitude of peace. The wicked practiseth against the just, and gnasheth his teeth against him. But the Lord shall laugh him to scorn: for he seeth, that his day is coming. The wicked have drawn their sword, and have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy, and to slay such as be of upright conversation. But their sword shall enter into their own heart, and their bows shall be broken. A small thing unto the just man is better, then great riches to the wicked and mighty. For the arms of the wicked shall be broken: but the Lord upholdeth the just men. The Lord knoweth the days of upright men, and their inheritance shall be perpetual. They shall not be confounded in the perilous time, & in the days of famine they shall have enough. But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall be consumed as the fat of lambs: even with the smoke shall they consume away. The wicked borroweth and payeth not again. but the righteous is merciful, and giveth. For such as be blessed of God, shall inherit the land, and they that be cursed of him, shall be cut off. The paths of man are directed by the Lord: for he loveth his way. Though he fall, he shall not be cast off: for the Lord puteth under his hand. I have been young, and am old: yet I saw never the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread. But he is ever merciful and lendeth, and his seed enjoyeth the blessing. Flee from evil and do good, and dwell forever. For the Lord loveth judgement, and forsaketh not his Saints: they shall be preserved for evermore: but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off. The righteous men shall inherit the land, and dwell therein forever. The mouth of the righteous will speak of wisdom, and his tongue will talk of judgement. For the Law of his God is in his heart, and his steppes shall not slide. The wicked watcheth the righteous, and seeketh to slay him. But the Lord will not leave him in his hand, nor condemn him, when he is judged. Wait thou on the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee, that thou shalt inherit the land: when the wicked men shall perish, thou shalt see. I have seen the wicked strong, and spreading himself like a green bay tree. Yet he passed away, and lo, he was gone, and I sought him, but he could not be found. Mark the upright man, and behold the just: for the end of that man is peace. But the transgressours shall be destroyed together, and the end of the wicked shall be cut off. But the salvation of the righteous men shall be of the Lord: he shall be their strength in the time of trouble. For the Lord shall help them, and deliver them: he shall deliver them from the wicked, and shall save them, because they trust in him.

A Psalm of David for remembrance.

O Lord, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chastise me in thy wrath. For thine arrows have light upon me, and thine hand lieth upon me. There is nothing sound in my flesh, because of thine anger: neither is there rest in my bones because of my sin. For mine iniquities are gone over mine head, and as a weighty burden they are too heavy for me. My wounds are putrefied, and corrupt because of my foolishness. I am bowed, and crooked very sore: I go mourning all the day. For my reigns are full of burning, and there is nothing sound in my flesh. I am weakened and sore broken: I roar for the very grief of mine heart. Lord, I pour my whole desire before thee, and my sighing is not hid from thee. Mine heart panteth: my strength faileth me, and the light of mine eyes, even they are not mine own. My lovers and my friends stand aside from my plague, and my kinsmen stand a far off. They also, that seek after my life, lay snares, and they that go about to do me evil, talk wicked things and imagine deceit continually. But I as a deaf man heard not, and am as a dumb man, which openeth not his mouth. Thus am I as a man, that heareth not, and in whose mouth are no reproofs. For on thee, O Lord, do I wait: thou wilt hear me, my Lord, my God. For I said, Hear me, lest they rejoice over me: for when my foot slippeth, they extol themselves against me. Surely I am ready to halt, and my sorrow is ever before me. When I declare my pain, and am sorry for my sin, then mine enemies are alive & are mighty, and they that hate me wrongfully are many. They also, that reward evil for good, are mine adversaries, because I follow goodness. Forsake me not, O Lord: be not thou far from me, my God. Haste thee to help me, O my Lord, my salvation.

To the excellent musician Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

I thought, I will take heed to my ways, that I sin not with my tongue: I will keep my mouth bridled, while the wicked is in my sight. I was dumb & spake nothing: I kept silence even from good, and my sorrow was more stirred. Mine heart was hot within me, and while I was musing, the fire kindled, and I spake with my tongue, saying, Lord, let me know mine end, and the measure of my days, what it is: let me know how long I have to live. Behold, thou hast made my days as an hand breadth, and mine age as nothing in respect of thee: surely every man in his best state is altogether vanity. Selah. Doubtless man walketh in a shadow, and disquieteth himself in vain: he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who shall gather them. And now Lord, what wait I for? mine hope is even in thee. Deliver me from all my transgressions, and make me not a rebuke unto the foolish. I should have been dumb, and not have opened my mouth, because thou didst it. Take thy plague away from me: for I am consumed by the stroke of thine hand. When thou with rebukes dost chastise man for iniquity, thou as a moth makest his beauty to consume: surely every man is vanity. Selah. Hear my prayer, O Lord, & hearken unto my cry: keep not silence at my tears, for I am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner as all my fathers. Stay thine anger from me, that I may recover my strength, before I go hence and be not.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

I Waited patiently for the Lord, and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry. He brought me also out of the horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon the rock, and ordered my goings. And he hath put in my mouth a new song of praise unto our God: many shall see it and fear, and shall trust in the Lord. Blessed is the man that maketh the Lord his trust, and regardeth not the proud, nor such as turn aside to lies. O Lord my God, thou hast made thy wonderful works so many, that none can count in order to thee thy thoughts toward us: I would declare, and speak of them, but they are more then I am able to express. Sacrifice & offering thou didst not desire: (for mine ears hast thou prepared) burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required. Then said I, Lo, I come: for in the roll of the book it is written of me, I desired to do thy good will, O my God: yea, thy Law is within mine heart. I have declared thy righteousness in the great Congregation: lo, I will not refrain my lips: O Lord, thou knowest. I have not hid thy righteousness within mine heart, but I have declared thy truth and thy salvation: I have not concealed thy mercy and thy truth from the great Congregation. Withdraw not thou thy tender mercy from me, O Lord: let thy mercy and thy truth always preserve me. For innumerable troubles have compassed me: my sins have taken such hold upon me, that I am not able to look up: yea, they are more in number then the hears of mine head: therefore mine heart hath failed me. Let it please thee, O Lord, to deliver me: make haste, O Lord, to help me. Let them be confounded & put to shame together, that seek my soul to destroy it: let them be driven backward and put to rebuke, that desire mine hurt. Let them be destroyed for a reward of their shame, which say unto me, Aha, aha. Let all them, that seek thee, rejoice and be glad in thee: and let them, that love thy salvation, say always, The Lord be praised. Though I be poor and needy, the Lord thinketh on me: thou art mine helper and my deliverer: my God, make no tarrying.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

Blessed is he that judgeth wisely of the poor: the Lord shall deliver him in ye time of trouble. The Lord will keep him, and preserve him alive: he shall be blessed upon the earth, and thou wilt not deliver him unto the will of his enemies. The Lord will strengthen him upon ye bed of sorrow: thou hast turned all his bed in his sickness. Therefore I said, Lord have mercy upon me: heal my soul, for I have sinned against thee. Mine enemies speak evil of me, saying, When shall he die, and his name perish? And if he come to see me, he speaketh lies, but his heart heapeth iniquity within him, and when he cometh forth, he telleth it. All they that hate me, whisper together against me: even against me do they imagine mine hurt. A mischief is light upon him, and he that lieth, shall no more rise. Yea, my familiar friend, whom I trusted, which did eat of my bread, hath lifted up the heel against me. Therefore, O Lord, have mercy upon me, and raise me up: so I shall reward them. By this I know that thou favourest me, because mine enemy doth not triumph against me. And as for me, thou upholdest me in mine integrity, & dost set me before thy face forever. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel world without end. So be it, even so be it.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm to give instruction, committed to the sons of Korah. As the hart brayeth for the rivers of water, so panteth my soul after thee, O God. My soul thirsteth for God, even for the living God: when shall I come and appear before the presence of God? My tears have bin my meat day & night, while they daily say unto me, Where is thy God? When I remembered these things, I poured out my very heart, because I had gone with the multitude, and led them into the House of God with the voice of singing, and praise, as a multitude that keepeth a feast. Why art thou cast down, my soul, and unquiet within me? wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks for the help of his presence. My God, my soul is cast down within me, because I remember thee, from the land of Jordan, and Hermonim, and from the mount Mizar. One deep calleth another deep by the noise of thy water spouts: all thy waves and thy floods are gone over me. The Lord will grant his loving kindness in the day, and in the night shall I sing of him, even a prayer unto the God of my life. I will say unto God, which is my rock, Why hast thou forgotten me? why go I mourning, when the enemy oppresseth me? My bones are cut asunder, while mine enemies reproach me, saying daily unto me, Where is thy God? Why art thou cast down, my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks: he is my present help, and my God.

Judge me, O God, and defend my cause against the unmerciful people: deliver me from the deceitful and wicked man. For thou art the God of my strength: why hast thou put me away? why go I so mourning, when the enemy oppresseth me? Send thy light and thy truth: let them lead me: let them bring me unto thine holy Mountain and to thy Tabernacles. Then will I go unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy & gladness: and upon the harp will I give thanks unto thee, O God, my God. Why art thou cast down, my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks, he is my present help, and my God.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm to give instruction, committed to the sons of Korah. We have heard with our ears, O God: our fathers have told us the works, that thou hast done in their days, in the old time: How thou hast driven out the heathen with thine hand, & planted them: how thou hast destroyed the people, & caused them to grow. For they inherited not the land by their own sword, neither did their own arm save them: but thy right hand, and thine arm and the light of thy countenance, because thou didst favour them. Thou art my King, O God: send help unto Jaakob. Through thee have we thrust back our adversaries: by thy Name have we trodden down them that rose up against us. For I do not trust in my bow, neither can my sword save me. But thou hast saved us from our adversaries, and hast put them to confusion that hate us. Therefore will we praise God continually, and will confess thy Name forever. Selah. But now thou art far off, and puttest us to confusion, and goest not forth with our armies. Thou makest us to turn back from the adversary, & they, which hate us, spoil for themselves. Thou givest us as sheep to be eaten, and dost scatter us among the nations. Thou sellest thy people without gain, and dost not increase their price. Thou makest us a reproach to our neighbours, a jest and a laughing stock to them that are round about us. Thou makest us a proverb among the nations, & a nodding of the head among the people. My confusion is daily before me, and the shame of my face hath covered me, for the voice of the slanderer and rebuker, for the enemy and avenger. All this is come upon us, yet do we not forget thee, neither deal we falsely concerning thy covenant. Our heart is not turned back: neither our steps gone out of thy paths, albeit thou hast smitten us down into the place of dragons, and covered us with the shadow of death. If we have forgotten the Name of our God, and holden up our hands to a strange god, shall not God search this out? for he knoweth the secrets of the heart. Surely for thy sake are we slain continually, & are counted as sheep for the slaughter. Up, why sleepest thou, O Lord? awake, be not far off forever. Wherefore hidest thou thy face? and forgettest our misery and our affliction? For our soul is beaten down unto the dust: our belly cleaveth unto the ground. Rise up for our succour, and redeem us for thy mercies sake.

To him that excelleth on Shoshannim a song of love to give instruction, committed to the sons of Korah. Mine heart will utter forth a good matter: I will entreat in my works of the King: my tongue is as the pen of a swift writer. Thou art fairer then the children of men: grace is poured in thy lips, because God hath blessed thee forever. Gird thy sword upon thy thigh, O most mighty, to wit, thy worship and thy glory, and prosper with thy glory: ride upon the word of truth and of meekness and of righteousness: so thy right hand shall teach thee terrible things. Thine arrows are sharp to pierce the heart of the Kings enemies: therefore the people shall fall under thee. Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever: the scepter of thy kingdom is a scepter of righteousness. Thou lovest righteousness, and hatest wickedness, because God, even thy God hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows. All thy garments smell of myrrh & aloes, and cassia, when thou comest out of the ivory palaces, where they have made thee glad. Kings daughters were among thine honorable wives: upon thy right hand did stand the Queen in a vesture of gold of Ophir. Harken, O daughter, and consider, and incline thine ear: forget also thine own people and thy fathers house. So shall the King have pleasure in thy beauty: for he is thy Lord, and reverence thou him. And the daughter of Tyrus with the rich of the people shall do homage before thy face with presents. The Kings daughter is all glorious within: her clothing is of brodered gold. She shall be brought unto the King in raiment of needle work: the virgins that follow after her, and her companions shall be brought unto thee. With joy & gladness shall they be brought, and shall enter into the Kings palace. Instead of thy fathers shall thy children be: thou shalt make them princes through all the earth. I will make thy Name to be remembered through all generations: therefore shall the people give thanks unto thee world without end.

To him that excelleth upon Alamothe a song committed to the sons of Korah. God is our hope and strength, and help in troubles, ready to be found. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be moved, and though the mountains fall into the midst of the sea. Though the waters thereof rage and be troubled, and the mountains shake at the surges of the same. Selah, yet there is a River, whose streams shall make glad the city of God: even the Sanctuary of the Tabernacles of the most High. God is in the midst of it: therefore shall it not be moved: God shall help it very early. When the nations raged, and the kingdoms were moved, God thundered, and the earth melted. The Lord of hosts is with us: the God of Jaakob is our refuge. Selah. Come, and behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth. He maketh wars to cease unto the ends of the world: he breaketh the bow and cutteth the spear, and burneth the chariots with fire. Be still and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, and I will be exalted in the earth. The Lord of hosts is with us: the God of Jaakob is our refuge. Selah.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm committed to the sons of Korah. All people clap your hands: sing loud unto God with a joyful voice. For the Lord is high, and terrible: a great King over all the earth. He hath subdued the people under us, and the nations under our feet. He hath chosen our inheritance for us: even the glory of Jaakob whom he loved. Selah. God is gone up with triumph, even the Lord, with the sound of the trumpet. Sing praises to God, sing praises: sing praises unto our King, sing praises. For God is the King of all the earth: sing praises every one that hath understanding. God reigneth over the heathen: God sitteth upon his holy throne. The princes of the people are gathered unto the people of the God of Abraham: for the shields of the world belong to God: he is greatly to be exalted.

A song or Psalm committed to the sons of Korah.

Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised, in the City of our God, even upon his holy Mountain. Mount Zion, lying Northward, is fair in situation: it is the joy of the whole earth, and the City of the great King. In the palaces thereof God is known for a refuge. For lo, the Kings were gathered, and went together. When they saw it, they marveled: they were astonished, and suddenly driven back. Fear came there upon them, and sorrow, as upon a woman in travail. As with an East wind thou breakfast the ships of Tarshish, so were they destroyed. As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the Lord of hosts, in the City of our God: God will stablish it forever. Selah. We wait for thy loving kindness, O God, in the midst of thy Temple. O God, according unto thy Name, so is thy praise unto the worlds end: thy right hand is full of righteousness. Let mount Zion rejoice, and the daughters of Judah be glad, because of thy judgements. Compass about Zion, and go round about it, and tell the towers thereof. Mark well the wall thereof: behold her towers, that ye may tell your posterity. For this God is our God forever and ever: he shall be our guide unto the death.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm committed to the sons of Korah.

Hear this, all ye people: give ear, all ye that dwell in the world, as well low as high, both rich and poor. My mouth shall speak of wisdom, and the meditation of mine heart is of knowledge. I will incline mine ear to a parable, and utter my grave matter upon the harp. Wherefore should I fear in the evil days, when iniquity shall compass me about, as at mine heels? They trust in their goods, and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches. Yet a man can by no means redeem his brother: he can not give his ransom to God, (So precious is the redemption of their souls, and the continuance forever) that he may live still forever, and not see the grave. For he seeth that wise men die, and also that the ignorant and foolish perish, & leave their riches for others. Yet they think, their houses, and their habitations shall continue forever, even from generation to generation, and call their lands by their names. But man shall not continue in honour: he is like the beasts that die. This their way uttereth their foolishness: yet their posterity delight in their talk. Selah. Like sheep they lie in grave: death devoureth them, and the righteous shall have domination over them in the morning: for their beauty shall consume, when they shall go from their house to grave. But God shall deliver my soul from the power of the grave: for he will receive me. Selah. Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, and when the glory of his house is increased. For he shall take nothing away when he dieth, neither shall his pomp descend after him. For while he lived, he rejoiced himself: and men will praise thee, when thou makest much of thyself. He shall enter into the generation of his fathers, and they shall not live forever. Man is in honour, and understandeth not: he is like to beasts that perish.

A Psalm of Asaph.

The God of Gods, even the Lord hath spoken and called the earth from the rising up of the sun unto the going down thereof. Out of Zion, which is the perfection of beauty, hath God shined. Our God shall come and shall not keep silence: a fire shall devour before him, & a mighty tempest shall be moved round about him. He shall call the heaven above, and the earth to judge his people. Gather my Saints together unto me, those that make a covenant with me with sacrifice. And the heavens shall declare his righteousness: for God is judge himself. Selah. Hear, O my people, and I will speak: hear, O Israel, and I will testify unto thee: for I am God, even thy God. I will not reprove thee for thy sacrifices, or thy burnt offerings, that have not been continually before me. I will take no bullock out of thine house, nor goats out of thy folds. For all the beasts of the forest are mine, and the beasts on a thousand mountains. I know all the fowls on the mountains: and the wild beasts of the field are mine. If I be hungry, I will not tell thee: for the world is mine, and all that therein is. Will I eat the flesh of bulls? or drink the blood of goats? Offer unto God praise, and pay thy vows unto the most High, and call upon me in the day of trouble: so will I deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me. But unto the wicked said God, What hast thou to do to declare mine ordinances, that thou shouldest take my covenant in thy mouth, seeing thou hatest to be reformed, and hast cast my words behind thee? For when thou seest a thief, thou runnest with him, & thou art partaker with the adulterers. Thou givest thy mouth to evil, and with thy tongue thou forgest deceit. Thou sittest, and speakest against thy brother, and slanderest thy mothers son. These things hast thou done, and I held my tongue: therefore thou thoughtest that I was like thee: but I will reprove thee, and set them in order before thee. Oh consider this, ye that forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, & there be none that can deliver you. He that offereth praise, shall glorify me: and to him, that disposeth his way aright, will I shew the salvation of God.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David, when the Prophet Nathan came unto him, after he had gone in to Bath-sheba.

Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindness: according to the multitude of thy compassions put away mine iniquities. Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin. For I know mine iniquities, and my sin is ever before me. Against thee, against thee only have I sinned, and done evil in thy sight, that thou mayest be just when thou speakest, and pure when thou judgest. Behold, I was borne in iniquity, and in sin hath my mother conceived me. Behold, thou lovest truth in the inward affections: therefore hast thou taught me wisdom in the secret of mine heart.

Purge me with hyssop, & I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be whiter then snow. Make me to hear joy and gladness, that the bones, which thou hast broken, may rejoice. Hide thy face from my sins, and put away all mine iniquities. Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me. Cast me not away from thy presence, and take not thine holy Spirit from me. Restore to me the joy of thy salvation, and stablish me with thy free Spirit. Then shall I teach thy ways unto the wicked, and sinners shall be converted unto thee. Deliver me from blood, O God, which art the God of my salvation, and my tongue shall sing joyfully of thy righteousness. Open thou my lips, O Lord, and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise. For thou desirest no sacrifice, though I would give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering. The sacrifices of God are a contrite spirit: a contrite and a broken heart, O God, thou wilt not despise. Be favourable unto Zion for thy good pleasure: build the walls of Jerusalem. Then shalt thou accept ye sacrifices of righteousness, even the burnt offering and oblation: then shall they offer calves upon thine altar.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David to give instruction.

When Doeg the Edomite came and shewed Saul, and said to him, David is come to the house of Abimelech. Why boastest thou thyself in thy wickedness, O man of power? the loving kindness of God endureth daily. Thy tongue imagineth mischief, and is like a sharp razor, that cutteth deceitfully. Thou dost love evil more then good, and lies more then to speak the truth. Selah. Thou lovest all words that may destroy, O deceitful tongue! So shall God destroy thee forever: he shall take thee and pluck thee out of thy tabernacle, and root thee out of ye land of the living. Selah. The righteous also shall see it, and fear, and shall laugh at him, saying, Behold the man that took not God for his strength, but trusted unto the multitude of his riches, and put his strength in his malice. But I shall be like a green olive tree in the house of God: for I trusted in the mercy of God forever and ever. I will always praise thee, for that thou hast done this, and I will hope in thy Name, because it is good before thy Saints.

To him that excelleth on Mahalath. A Psalm of David to give instruction. The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. they have corrupted & done abominable wickedness: there is none that doth good. God looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that would understand, and seek God. Everyone is gone back: they are altogether corrupt: there is none that doth good, no not one. Do not the workers of iniquity know that they eat up my people as they eat bread? they call not upon God. There they were afraid for fear, where no fear was: for God hath scattered the bones of him that besieged thee: thou hast put them to confusion, because God hath cast them off. Oh give salvation unto Israel out of Zion: when God turneth the captivity of his people, then Jaakob shall reioice, and Israel shall be glad.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Psalm of David, to give instruction.

When the Ziphims came and said unto Saul, Is not David hid among us? Save me, O God, by thy Name, and by thy power judge me. O God, hear my prayer: hearken unto the words of my mouth. For strangers are risen up against me, and tyrants seek my soul: they have not set God before them. Selah. Behold, God is mine helper: the Lord is with them that uphold my soul. He shall reward evil unto mine enemies: Oh cut them off in thy truth! Then I will sacrifice freely unto thee: I will praise thy Name, O Lord, because it is good. For he hath delivered me out of all trouble, & mine eye hath seen my desire upon mine enemies.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Psalm of David to give instruction.

Hear my prayer, O God, and hide not thyself from my supplication. Hearken unto me, & answer me: I mourn in my prayer, and make a noise, for the voice of the enemy, and for the vexation of ye wicked, because they have brought iniquity upon me, and furiously hate me. Mine heart trembleth within me, and the terrours of death are fallen upon me. Fear and trembling are come upon me, and an horrible fear hath covered me. And I said, Oh that I had wings like a dove: then would I fly away and rest. Behold, I would take my flight far off, and lodge in the wilderness. Selah. He would make haste for my deliverance from the stormy wind and tempest. Destroy, O Lord, and divide their tongues: for I have seen cruelty and strife in the city. Day and night they go about it upon the walls thereof: both iniquity and mischief are in the midst of it. Wickedness is in the midst thereof: deceit and guile depart not from her streets. Surely mine enemy did not defame me: for I could have borne it: neither did mine adversary exalt himself against me: for I would have hid me from him. But it was thou, O man, even my companion, my guide and my familiar: Which delighted in consulting together, and went into the House of God as companions. Let death sense upon them: let them go down quick into the grave: for wickedness is in their dwellings, even in the midst of them. But I will call unto God, and the Lord will save me. Evening and morning, and at noon will I pray, and make a noise, & he will hear my voice. He hath delivered my soul in peace from the battle, that was against me: for many were with me. God shall hear and afflict them, even he that reigneth of old, Selah. because they have no changes, therefore they fear not God. He laid his hand upon such, as be at peace with him, and he brake his covenant. The words of his mouth were softer then butter, yet war was in his heart: his words were more gentle then oil, yet they were swords. Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and he shall nourish thee: he will not suffer the righteous to fall forever. And thou, O God, shalt bring them down into the pit of corruption: the bloody, and deceitful men shall not live half their days: but I will trust in thee.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David on Michtam, concerning the dumb dove in a far country, when the Philistims took him in Gath.

Be merciful unto me, O God, for man would swallow me up: he fighteth continually and vexeth me. Mine enemies would daily swallow me up: for many fight against me, O thou most High. When I was afraid, I trusted in thee. I will rejoyce in God, because of his word, I trust in God, and will not fear what flesh can do unto me. Mine own words grieve me daily: all their thoughts are against me to do me hurt. They gather together, and keep themselves close: they mark my steps, because they wait for my soul. They think they shall escape by iniquity: O God, cast these people down in thine anger. Thou hast counted my wanderings: put my tears into thy bottle: are they not in thy register? When I cry, then mine enemies shall turn back: this I know, for God is with me. I will rejoyce in God because of his word: in the Lord will I rejoyce because of his word. In God do I trust: I will not be afraid what man can do unto me. Thy vows are upon me, O God: I will render praises unto thee. For thou hast delivered my soul from death, and also my feet from falling, that I may walk before God in the light of the living.

To him that excelleth. Destroy not. A Psalm of David on Michtam.

When he fled from Saul in the cave. Have mercy upon me, O God, have mercy upon me: for my soul trusteth in thee, and in the shadow of thy wings will I trust, till these afflictions overpass. I will call unto the most high God, even to the God, that performeth his promise toward me. He will send from heaven, and save me from the reproof of him that would swallow me. Selah. God will send his mercy, and his truth. My soul is among lions: I lie among the children of men, that are set on fire: whose teeth are spears and arrows, & their tongue a sharp sword. Exalt thyself, O God, above the heaven, and let thy glory be upon all the earth. They have laid a net for my steps: my soul is pressed down: they have digged a pit before me, and are fallen into the midst of it. Selah. Mine heart is prepared, O God, mine heart is prepared: I will sing and give praise. Awake my tongue, awake viole & harp: I will awake early. I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people, and I will sing unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds. Exalt thyself, O God, above the heavens, and let thy glory be upon all the earth.

To him that excelleth. Destroy not. A Psalm of David on Michtam.

Is it true? O Congregation, speak ye justly? O sons of men, judge ye uprightly? Yea, rather ye imagine mischief in your heart: your hands execute cruelty upon the earth. The wicked are strangers from ye womb: even from the belly have they erred, and speak lies. Their poison is even like the poison of a serpent: like ye deaf adder that stoppeth his ear. Which heareth not the voice of the enchanter, though he be most expert in charming. Break their teeth, O God, in their mouths: break the jaws of the young lions, O Lord. Let them melt like the waters, let them pass away: when he shooteth his arrows, let them be as broken. Let them consume like a snail that melteth, and like the untimely fruit of a woman, that hath not seen the sun. As raw flesh before your pots feel the fire of thorns: so let him carry them away as with a whirlwind in his wrath. The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance: he shall wash his feet in the blood of the wicked. And men shall say, Verily there is fruit for the righteous: doubtless there is a God that judgeth in the earth.

To him that excelleth. Destroy not. A Psalm of David on Michtam.

When Saul sent and they did watch the house to kill him. O my God, deliver me from mine enemies: defend me from them that rise up against me. Deliver me from the wicked doers, and save me from the bloody men. For lo, they have laid wait for my soul: the mighty men are gathered against me, not for mine offense, nor for my sin, O Lord. They run and prepare themselves without a fault on my part: arise therefore to assist me, and behold. Even thou, O Lord God of hosts, O God of Israel awake to visit all the heathen, and be not merciful unto all that transgress maliciously. Selah. They go to and from in the evening: they bark like dogs, and go about the city. Behold, they brag in their talk, & swords are in their lips: for, Who, say they, doth hear? But thou, O Lord, shalt have them in derision, and thou shalt laugh at all the heathen. He is strong: but I will wait upon thee: for God is my defense. My merciful God will prevent me: God will let me see my desire upon mine enemies. Slay them not, lest my people forget it: but scatter them abroad by thy power, and put them down, O Lord our shield, for the sin of their mouth, and the words of their lips: and let them be taken in their pride, even for their periurie and lies, that they speak. Consume them in thy wrath: consume them that they be no more: and let them know that God ruleth in Jaakob, even unto the ends of the world. Selah. And in the evening they shall go to and from, and bark like dogs, and go about the city. They shall run here and there for meat: and surely they shall not be satisfied, though they tarry all night. But I will sing of thy power, & will praise thy mercy in the morning: for thou hast been my defense and refuge in the day of my trouble. Unto thee, O my Strength, will I sing: for God is my defense, and my merciful God.

To him that excelleth upon Shushan Eduth, or Michtam. A Psalm of David to teach.

When he fought against Aram Naharaim, & against Aram Zobah, when Joab returned and slew twelve thousand Edomites in the salt valley. O God, thou hast cast us out, thou hast scattered us, thou hast been angry, turn again unto us. Thou hast made the land to tremble, and hast made it to gape: heal the breaches thereof, for it is shaken. Thou hast shewed thy people heavy things: thou hast made us to drink the wine of giddiness. But now thou hast given a banner to them that fear thee, that it may be displayed because of thy truth. Selah. That thy beloved may be delivered, help with thy right hand and hear me. God hath spoken in his holiness: therefore I will rejoice: I shall divide Shechem, and measure the valley of Succoth. Gilead shall be mine, and Manasseh shall be mine: Ephraim also shall be the strength of mine head: Judah is my lawgiver. Moab shall be my wash pot: over Edom will I cast out my shoe: Palestina shew thyself joyful for me. Who will lead me into the strong city? who will bring me unto Edom? Wilt not thou, O God, which hadst cast us off, & didst not go forth, O God, with our armies? Give us help against trouble: for vain is the help of man. Through God we shall do valiantly: for he shall tread down our enemies.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Psalm of David.

Hear my cry, O God: give ear unto my prayer. From the ends of the earth will I cry unto thee: when mine heart is oppressed, bring me upon the rock that is higher than I. For thou hast been mine hope, and a strong tower against the enemy. I will dwell in thy Tabernacle forever, and my trust shall be under the covering of thy wings. Selah. For thou, O God, hast heard my desires: thou hast given an heritage unto those that fear thy Name. Thou shalt give the King a long life: his years shall be as many ages. He shall dwell before God forever: prepare mercy and faithfulness that they may preserve him. So will I always sing praise unto thy Name in performing daily my vows.

To the excellent musician Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

Yet my soul keepeth silence unto God: of him cometh my salvation. Yet he is my strength and my salvation, and my defense: therefore I shall not much be moved. How long will ye imagine mischief against a man? ye shall be all slain: ye shall be as a bowed wall, or as a wall shaken. Yet they consult to cast him down from his dignity: their delight is in lies, they bless with their mouths, but curse with their hearts. Selah. Yet my soul keep thou silence unto God: for mine hope is in him. Yet is he my strength, and my salvation, and my defense: therefore I shall not be moved. In God is my salvation and my glory, the rock of my strength: in God is my trust. Trust in him always, ye people: pour out your hearts before him, for God is our hope. Selah. Yet the children of men are vanity, the chiefe men are lies: to lay them upon a balance they are altogether lighter then vanity. Trust not in oppression nor in robbery: be not vain: if riches increase, set not your heart thereon. God spake once or twice, I have heard it, that power belongeth unto God, and to thee, O Lord, mercy: for thou rewardest every one according to his work.

A Psalm of David.

When he was in the wilderness of Judah. O God, thou art my God, early will I seek thee: my soul thirsteth for thee: my flesh longeth greatly after thee in a barren and dry land without water. Thus I behold thee as in the Sanctuary, when I behold thy power and thy glory. For thy loving kindness is better then life: therefore my lips shall praise thee. Thus will I magnify thee all my life, and lift up mine hands in thy name. My soul shall be satisfied, as with marrow and fatness, and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips, when I remember thee on my bed, and when I think upon thee in the night watches. Because thou hast been mine helper, therefore under the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice. My soul cleaveth unto thee: for thy right hand upholdeth me. Therefore they that seek my soul to destroy it, they shall go into the lowest parts of the earth. They shall cast him down with the edge of the sword, and they shall be a portion for foxes. But the King shall rejoice in God, and all that swear by him shall rejoice in him: for the mouth of them that speak lies, shall be stopped.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

Hear my voice, O God, in my prayer: preserve my life from fear of the enemy. Hide me from the conspiracy of the wicked, and from the rage of the workers of iniquity. Which have wet their tongue like a sword, and shot for their arrows bitter words. To shoot at the upright in secret: they shoot at him suddenly, and fear not. They encourage themselves in a wicked purpose: they commune together to lay snares privily, and say, Who shall see them? They have sought out iniquities, and have accomplished that which they sought out, even every one his secret thoughts, and the depth of his heart. But God will shoot an arrow at them suddenly: their strokes shall be at once. They shall cause their own tongue to fall upon them: and whosoever shall see them, shall flee away. And all men shall see it, and declare the work of God, and they shall understand, what he hath wrought. But the righteous shall be glad in the Lord, and trust in him: and all that are upright of heart, shall rejoice.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm or song of David.

O God, praise waiteth for thee in Zion, and unto thee shall the vow be perfourmed. Because thou hearest the prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come. Wicked deeds have prevailed against me: but thou wilt be merciful unto our transgressions. Blessed is he, whom thou choosest and causest to come to thee: he shall dwell in thy courts, and we shall be satisfied with the pleasures of thine House, even of thine holy Temple. O God of our salvation, thou wilt answer us with fearful signs in thy righteousness, O thou the hope of all the ends of the earth, and of them that are far off in the sea. He stablisheth the mountains by his power: and is girded about with strength. He appeaseth the noise of the seas and the noise of the waves thereof, and the tumults of the people. They also, that dwell in the uttermost parts of the earth, shall be afraid of thy signs: thou shalt make the East and the West to rejoice. Thou visitest the earth, and waterest it: thou makest it very rich: the River of God is full of water: thou preparest them corn: for so thou appointest it. Thou waterest abundantly the furrows thereof: thou causest the rain to descend into the valleys thereof: thou makest it soft with showers, and blessest the bud thereof. Thou crownest ye year with thy goodness, and thy steppes drop fatness. They drop upon the pastures of the wilderness: and the hills shall be compassed with gladness. The pastures are clad with sheep: the valleys also shall be covered with corn: therefore they shout for joy, and sing.

To him that excelleth. A song or Psalm.

Rejoice in God, all ye inhabitants of the earth. Sing forth the glory of his name: make his praise glorious. Say unto God, How terrible art thou in thy works! through the greatness of thy power shall thine enemies be in subjection unto thee. All the world shall worship thee, and sing unto thee, even sing of thy Name. Selah. Come and behold the works of God: he is terrible in his doing toward the sons of men. He hath turned the Sea into dry land: they pass through the river on foot: there did we rejoice in him. He ruleth the world with his power: his eyes behold the nations: the rebellious shall not exalt themselves. Selah. Praise our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard. Which holdeth our souls in life, and suffereth not our feet to slip. For thou, O God, hast proved us, thou hast tried us as silver is tried. Thou hast brought us into the snare, and laid a strait chain upon our loins. Thou hast caused men to ride over our heads: we went into fire and into water, but thou broughtest us out into a wealthy place. I will go into thine House with burnt offerings, and will pay thee my vows, which my lips have promised, and my mouth hath spoken in mine affliction. I will offer unto thee the burnt offerings of fat rams with incense: I will prepare bullocks and goats. Selah. Come and hearken, all ye that fear God, and I will tell you what he hath done to my soul. I called unto him with my mouth, and he was exalted with my tongue. If I regard wickedness in mine heart, the Lord will not hear me. But God hath heard me, & considered the voice of my prayer. Praised be God, which hath not put back my prayer, nor his mercy from me.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Psalm or song.

God be merciful unto us, and bless us, and cause his face to shine among us. Selah. That they may know thy way upon earth, and thy saving health among all nations. Let the people praise thee, O God: let all the people praise thee. Let the people be glad and rejoice: for thou shalt judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon the earth. Selah. Let the people praise thee, O God: let all the people praise thee. Then shall the earth bring forth her increase, and God, even our God shall bless us. God shall bless us, and all the ends of the earth shall fear him.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm or song of David.

God will arise, and his enemies shall be scattered: they also that hate him, shall flee before him. As the smoke vanisheth, so shalt thou drive them away: and as wax melteth before the fire, so shall the wicked perish at the presence of God. But the righteous shall be glad, and rejoice before God: yea, they shall leap for joy. Sing unto God, and sing praises unto his name: exalt him that rideth upon the heavens, in his Name Jah, and rejoice before him. He is a Father of the fatherless, & a Judge of the widows, even God in his holy habitation. God maketh the solitariness to dwell in families, and delivereth them that were prisoners in stocks: but the rebellious shall dwell in a dry land. O God, when thou wentest forth before thy people: when thou wentest through the wilderness, (Selah) the earth shook, and the heavens dropped at the presence of this God: even Sinai was moved at the presence of God, even the God of Israel. Thou, O God, sendest a gracious rain upon thine inheritance, and thou didst refresh it when it was weary. Thy Congregation dwelled therein: for thou, O God, hast of thy goodness prepared it for the poor. The Lord gave matter to the women to tell of the great army. Kings of the armies did flee: they did flee, and she that remained in the house, divided the spoil. Though ye have lien among pots, yet shall ye be as the wings of a dove that is covered with silver, and whose feathers are like yellow gold. When the Almighty scattered Kings in it, it was white as the snow in Zalmon. The mountain of God is like the mountain of Bashan: it is an high Mountain, as mount Bashan. Why leap ye, ye high mountains? as for this Mountain, God delighteth to dwell in it: yea, the Lord will dwell in it forever. The chariots of God are twenty thousand thousand Angels, and the Lord is among them, as in the Sanctuary of Sinai. Thou art gone up on high: thou hast led captivity captive, and received gifts for men: yea, even the rebellious hast thou led, that the Lord God might dwell there. Praised be the Lord, even the God of our salvation, which ladeth us daily with benefits. Selah. This is our God, even the God that saveth us: and to the Lord God belong the issues of death. Surely God will wound the head of his enemies, and the hairy pate of him that walketh in his sins. The Lord hath said, I will bring my people again from Bashan: I will bring them again from the depths of the Sea: That thy foot may be dipped in blood, and the tongue of thy dogs in the blood of the enemies, even in it. They have seen, O God, thy goings, the goings of my God, and my King, which art in the Sanctuary. The singers went before, the players of instruments after: in the midst were the maids playing with timbrels. Praise ye God in the assemblies, and the Lord, ye that are of the fountain of Israel. There was little Benjamin with their ruler, and the princes of Judah with their assembly, the princes of Zebulun, and the princes of Naphtali. Thy God hath appointed thy strength: stablish, O God, that, which thou hast wrought in us, out of thy Temple upon Jerusalem: and Kings shall bring presents unto thee. Destroy the company of the spearmen, & multitude of the mighty bulls with the calves of the people, that tread under feet pieces of silver: scatter the people that delight in war. Then shall the princes come out of Egypt: Ethiopia shall hast to stretch her hands unto God. Sing unto God, O ye kingdoms of the earth: sing praise unto the Lord, (Selah) to him that rideth upon ye most high heavens, which were from the beginning: behold, he will send out by his voice a mighty sound. Ascribe the power to God: for his majesty is upon Israel, and his strength is in the clouds. O God, thou art terrible out of thine holy places: the God of Israel is he that giveth strength and power unto the people: praised be God.

To him that excelleth upon Shoshannim. A Psalm of David.

Save me, O God: for the waters are entered even to my soul. I stick fast in the deep mire, where no staie is: I am come into deep waters, and the streams run over me. I am weary of crying: my throat is dry: mine eyes fail, whiles I wait for my God. They that hate me without a cause, are more then the hears of mine head: they that would destroy me, and are mine enemies falsely, are mighty, so that I restored that which I took not. O God, thou knowest my foolishness, and my faults are not hid from thee. Let not them that trust in thee, O Lord God of hosts, be ashamed for me: let not those that seek thee, be confounded through me, O God of Israel. For thy sake have I suffered reproof: shame hath covered my face. I am become a stranger unto my brethren, even an aliant unto my mother's sons. For the zeal of thine house hath eaten me, and the rebukes of them that rebuked thee, are fallen upon me. I wept and my soul fasted, but that was to my reproof. I put on a sack also: and I became a proverb unto them. They that sate in the gate, spake of me, and the drunkards sang of me. But Lord, I make my prayer unto thee in an acceptable time, even in the multitude of thy mercy: O God, hear me in the truth of thy salvation. Deliver me out of the mire, that I sink not: let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters. Let not the water flood drown me, neither let the deep swallow me up: and let not the pit shut her mouth upon me. Hear me, O Lord, for thy loving kindness is good: turn unto me according to ye multitude of thy tender mercies. And hide not thy face from thy servant, for I am in trouble: make haste and hear me. Draw near unto my soul and redeem it: deliver me because of mine enemies. Thou hast known my reproof and my shame, and my dishonour: all mine adversaries are before thee. Rebuke hath broken mine heart, and I am full of heaviness, and I looked for some to have pity on me, but there was none: and for comforters, but I found none. For they gave me gall in my meat, and in my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink. Let their table be a snare before them, and their prosperity their ruin. Let their eyes be blinded that they see not: and make their loins always to tremble. Pour out thine anger upon them, and let thy wrathful displeasure take them. Let their habitation be void, and let none dwell in their tents. For they persecute him, whom thou hast smitten: and they add unto the sorrow of them, whom thou hast wounded. Lay iniquity upon their iniquity, and let them not come into thy righteousness. Let them be put out of the book of life, neither let them be written with the righteous. When I am poor and in heaviness, thine help, O God, shall exalt me. I will praise the Name of God with a song, and magnify him with thanksgiving. This also shall please the Lord better then a young bullock, that hath horns and hoofs. The humble shall see this, and they that seek God, shall be glad, and your heart shall live. For the Lord heareth the poor, and despiseth not his prisoners. Let heaven and earth praise him: the seas and all that moveth in them. For God will save Zion, and build the cities of Judah, that men may dwell there and have it in possession. The seed also of his servants shall inherit it: and they that love his name, shall dwell therein.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David to put in remembrance.

O God, haste thee to deliver me: make haste to help me, O Lord. Let them be confounded & put to shame, that seek my soul: let them be turned backward and put to rebuke, that desire mine hurt. Let them be turned back for a reward of their shame, which said, Aha, aha. But let all those that seek thee, be joyful and glad in thee, and let all that love thy salvation, say always, God be praised. Now I am poor and needy: O God, make haste to me: thou art mine helper, and my deliverer: O Lord, make no tarrying.

In thee, O Lord, I trust: let me never be ashamed. Rescue me and deliver me in thy righteousness: incline thine ear unto me and save me. Be thou my strong rock, whereunto I may always resort: thou hast given commandment to save me: for thou art my rock, & my fortress. Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked: out of the hand of the evil and cruel man. For thou art mine hope, O Lord God, even my trust from my youth. Upon thee have I been stayed from the womb: thou art he that took me out of my mothers bowels: my praise shall be always of thee. I am become as it were a monster unto many: but thou art my sure trust. Let my mouth be filled with thy praise, and with thy glory every day. Cast me not off in the time of age: forsake me not when my strength faileth. For mine enemies speak of me, and they that lay wait for my soul, take their counsel together, saying, God hath forsaken him: pursue and take him, for there is none to deliver him. Go not far from me, O God: my God, haste thee to help me. Let them be confounded & consumed that are against my soul: let them be covered with reproof and confusion, that seek mine hurt. But I will wait continually, and will praise thee more and more. My mouth shall daily rehearse thy righteousness, and thy salvation: for I know not the number. I will go forward in the strength of the Lord God, and will make mention of thy righteousness, even of thine only. O God, thou hast taught me from my youth even until now: therefore will I tell of thy wondrous works, yea, even unto mine old age and gray head, O God: forsake me not, until I have declared thine arm unto this generation, and thy power to all them, that shall come. And thy righteousness, O God, I will exalt on high: for thou hast done great things: O God, who is like unto thee! Which hast shewed me great troubles and adversities, but thou wilt return, and revive me, and wilt come again, and take me up from the depth of the earth. Thou wilt increase mine honour, & return and comfort me. Therefore will I praise thee for thy faithfulness, O God, upon instrument and viole: unto thee will I sing upon the harp, O Holy one of Israel. My lips will rejoice when I sing unto thee, and my soul, which thou hast delivered. My tongue also shall talk of thy righteousness daily: for they are confounded and brought unto shame, that seek mine hurt.

A Psalm of Salomon.

Give thy judgements to the King, O God, and thy righteousness to the King's son. Then shall he judge thy people in righteousness, and thy poor with equity. The mountains & the hills shall bring peace to the people by justice. He shall judge the poor of the people: he shall save the children of the needy, and shall subdue the oppressor. They shall fear thee as long as the sun and moon endureth, from generation to generation. He shall come down like the rain upon the mown grass, and as the showers that water the earth. In his days shall the righteous flourish, and abundance of peace shall be so long as the moon endureth. His dominion shall be also from sea to sea, and from the River unto the ends of the land. They that dwell in ye wilderness, shall kneel before him, and his enemies shall lick the dust. The Kings of Tarshish & of the isles shall bring presents: the Kings of Sheba and Seba shall bring gifts. Yea, all Kings shall worship him: all nations shall serve him. For he shall deliver the poor when he cryeth: the needy also, and him that hath no helper. He shall be merciful to the poor and needy, and shall preserve the souls of the poor. He shall redeem their souls from deceit and violence, and dear shall their blood be in his sight. Yea, he shall live, and unto him shall they give of the gold of Sheba: they shall also pray for him continually, and daily bless him. An handful of corn shall be sown in the earth, even in the top of the mountains, and the fruit thereof shall shake like the trees of Lebanon: and the children shall flourish out of the city like the grass of the earth. His name shall be forever: his name shall endure as long as the sun: all nations shall bless him, and be blessed in him. Blessed be the Lord God, even the God of Israel, which only doth wondrous things. And blessed be his glorious Name forever: and let all the earth be filled with his glory. So be it, even so be it. Here end the prayers of David, the son of Ishai.

A Psalm committed to Asaph.

Yet God is good to Israel: even, to the pure in heart. As for me, my feet were almost gone: my steps had well near slipped. For I feared at the foolish, when I saw the prosperity of the wicked. For there are no bands in their death, but they are lusty and strong. They are not in trouble as other men, neither are they plagued with other men. Therefore pride is as a chain unto them, and cruelty covereth them as a garment. Their eyes stand out for fatness: they have more then heart can wish. They are licentious, and speak wickedly of their oppression: they talk presumptuously. They set their mouth against heaven, and their tongue walketh through the earth. Therefore his people turn hither: for waters of a full cup are wrung out to them. And they say, How doth God know it? or is there knowledge in the most High? Lo, these are the wicked, yet prosper they always, and increase in riches. Certainly I have cleansed mine heart in vain, and washed mine hands in innocency. For daily have I been punished, and chastened every morning. If I say, I will judge thus, behold the generation of thy children: I have trespassed. Then thought I to know this, but it was too painful for me, until I went into the Sanctuary of God: then understood I their end. Surely thou hast set them in slippery places, and castest them down into desolation. How suddenly are they destroyed, perished and horribly consumed, as a dream when one awaketh! O Lord, when thou raisest us up, thou shalt make their image despised. Certainly mine heart was vexed, and I was pricked in my reigns: So foolish was I & ignorant: I was a beast before thee. Yet I was always with thee: thou hast holden me by my right hand. Thou wilt guide me by thy counsel, and afterward receive me to glory. Whom have I in heaven but thee? and I have desired none in the earth with thee. My flesh faileth and mine heart also: but God is the strength of mine heart, and my portion forever. For lo, they that withdraw themselves from thee, shall perish: thou destroyest all them that go a whoring from thee. As for me, it is good for me to draw near to God: therefore I have put my trust in the Lord God, that I may declare all thy works.

A Psalm to give instruction, committed to Asaph.

O God, why hast thou put us away forever? why is thy wrath kindled against the sheep of thy pasture? Think upon thy Congregation, which thou hast possessed of old, and on the rod of thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed, and on this mount Zion, wherein thou hast dwelt. Lift up thy strokes, that thou mayest forever destroy every enemy that doth evil to the Sanctuary. Thine adversaries roar in the midst of thy Congregation, and set up their banners for signs. He that lifted the axes upon the thick trees, was renowned, as one, that brought a thing to perfection: But now they break down the carved work thereof with axes and hammers. They have cast thy Sanctuary into the fire, and raised it to the ground, and have defiled the dwelling place of thy Name. They said in their hearts, Let us destroy them altogether: they have burnt all the Synagogues of God in the land. We see not our signs: there is not one Prophet more, nor any with us that knoweth how long. O God, how long shall the adversary reproach thee? shall the enemy blaspheme thy Name forever? Why withdrawest thou thine hand, even thy right hand? draw it out of thy bosom, and consume them. Even God is my King of old, working salvation in the midst of the earth. Thou didst divide the sea by thy power: thou brakest the heads of the dragons in the waters. Thou brakest the head of Liviathan in pieces, and gavest him to be meat for the people in wilderness. Thou brakest up the fountain and river: thou driedst up mighty rivers. The day is thine, and the night is thine: thou hast prepared the light and the sun. Thou hast set all the borders of the earth: thou hast made summer and winter. Remember this, that the enemy hath reproached the Lord, and the foolish people hath blasphemed thy Name. Give not the soul of thy turtle dove unto the beast, and forget not the Congregation of thy poor forever. Consider thy covenant: for the dark places of the earth are full of the habitations of the cruel. Oh let not the oppressed return ashamed, but let the poor and needy praise thy Name. Arise, O God: maintain thine own cause: remember thy daily reproach by the foolish man. Forget not the voice of thine enemies: for the tumult of them, that rise against thee, ascendeth continually.

To him that excelleth Destroy not. A Psalm or song committed to Asaph.

We will praise thee, O God, we will praise thee, for thy Name is near: therefore they will declare thy wondrous works. When I shall take a convenient time, I will judge righteously. The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are dissolved: but I will establish the pillars of it. Selah. I said unto the foolish, Be not so foolish, and to the wicked, Lift not up the horn. Lift not up your horn on high, neither speak with a stiff neck. For to come to preferment is neither from the East, nor from the West, nor from the South, but God is the judge: he maketh lowe and he maketh high. For in the hand of the Lord is a cup, and the wine is red: it is full mixed, and he poureth out of the same: surely all the wicked of the earth shall wring out and drink the dregs thereof. But I will declare forever, and sing praises unto the God of Jaakob. All the horns of the wicked also will I break: but the horns of the righteous shall be exalted.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Psalm or song committed to Asaph.

God is known in Judah: his Name is great in Israel. For in Shalem is his Tabernacle, and his dwelling in Zion. There brake he the arrows of the bow, the shield and the sword and the battle. Selah. Thou art more bright and puissant, then the mountains of pray. The stout hearted are spoiled: they have slept their sleep, and all the men of strength have not found their hands. At thy rebuke, O God of Jaakob, both the chariot and horse are cast a sleep. Thou, even thou art to be feared: and who shall stand in thy sight, when thou art angry! Thou didst cause thy judgement to be heard from heaven: therefore the earth feared and was still, when thou, O God, arose to judgement, to help all the meek of the earth. Selah. Surely the rage of man shall turn to thy praise: the remnant of the rage shalt thou restrain. Vow and perform unto the Lord your God, all ye that be round about him: let them bring presents unto him that ought to be feared. He shall cut off the spirit of princes: he is terrible to the Kings of the earth.

For the excellent musician Jeduthun. A Psalm committed to Asaph.

My voice came to God, when I cried: my voice came to God, and he heard me. In the day of my trouble I sought ye Lord: my sore ran and ceased not in the night: my soul refused comfort. I did think upon God, & was troubled: I prayed, and my spirit was full of anguish. Selah. Thou keepest mine eyes waking: I was astonished and could not speak. Then I considered the days of old, and the years of ancient time. I called to remembrance my song in the night: I communed with mine own heart, and my spirit searched diligently. Will the Lord absent himself forever? and will he shew no more favour? Is his mercy clean gone forever? doth his promises fail for evermore? Hath God forgotten to be merciful? hath he shut up his tender mercies in displeasure? Selah. And I said, This is my death: yet I remembered the years of the right hand of the most High. I remembered the works of the Lord: certainly I remembered thy wonders of old. I did also meditate all thy works, and did devise of thine acts, saying, Thy way, O God, is in the Sanctuary: who is so great a God as our God! Thou art ye God that dost wonders: thou hast declared thy power among the people. Thou hast redeemed thy people with thine arm, even the sons of Jaakob & Joseph. Selah. The waters saw thee, O God: the waters saw thee, and were afraid: yea, the depths trembled. The clouds poured out water: the heavens gave a sound: yea, thine arrows went abroad. The voice of thy thunder was round about: the lightnings lightened the world: the earth trembled and shook. Thy way is in the Sea, and thy paths in the great waters, & thy footsteps are not known. Thou didst lead thy people like sheep by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

A Psalm to give instruction committed to Asaph.

Hear my doctrine, O my people: incline your ears unto the words of my mouth. I will open my mouth in a parable: I will declare high sentences of old. Which we have heard and known, & our fathers have told us. We will not hide them from their children but to the generation to come we will shew the praises of the Lord his power also, & his wonderful works that he hath done: How he established a testimony in Jaakob, and ordained a Law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers, that they should teach their children: That the posterity might know it, and the children, which should be borne, should stand up, and declare it to their children: That they might set their hope on God, and not forget the works of God but keep his commandments: And not to be as their fathers, a disobedient & rebellious generation: a generation that set not their heart aright, and whose spirit was not faithful unto God. The children of Ephraim being armed and shooting with the bow, turned back in the day of battle. They kept not the covenant of God, but refused to walk in his Law, and forgot his Acts, and his wonderful works that he had shewed them. He did marvelous things in the sight of their fathers in the land of Egypt: even in the field of Zoan. He divided the Sea, & led them through: he made also the waters to stand as an heap. In the day time also he led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire. He clave the rocks in the wilderness, and gave them drink as of the great depths. He brought floods also out of the stony rock; so that he made the waters to descend like the rivers. Yet they sinned still against him, and provoked the Highest in the wilderness, and tempted God in their hearts in requiring meat for their lust. They spake against God also, saying, Can God prepare a table in the wilderness? Behold, he smote the rock, that the water gushed out, and the streams overflowed: can he give bread also? or prepare flesh for his people? Therefore the Lord heard and was angry, and the fire was kindled in Jaakob, & also wrath came upon Israel, because they believed not in God, and trusted not in his help. Yet he had commanded the clouds above, and had opened the doors of heaven, and had rained down MAN upon them for to eat, and had given them of the wheat of heaven. Man did eat the bread of Angels: he sent them meat enough. He caused the East wind to pass in the heaven, and through his power he brought in the South wind. He rained flesh also upon them as dust, and feathered fowl as the sand of the sea. And he made it fall in the midst of their camp even round about their habitations. So they did eat and were well filled: for he gave them their desire. They were not turned from their lust, but the meat was yet in their mouths, when the wrath of God came even upon them, and slew the strongest of them, and smote down the chosen men in Israel. For all this, they sinned still, and believed not his wondrous works. Therefore their days did he consume in vanity, and their years hastily. And when he slew them, they sought him and they returned, and sought God early. And they remembered that God was their strength, and the most high God their redeemer. But they flattered him with their mouth, and dissembled with him with their tongue. For their heart was not upright with him: neither were they faithful in his covenant. Yet he being merciful forgave their iniquity, & destroyed them not, but oft times called back his anger, & did not stir up all his wrath. For he remembered that they were flesh: yea, a wind that passeth and cometh not again. How oft did they provoke him in the wilderness? and grieve him in the desert? Yea, they returned, & tempted God, and limited the Holy one of Israel. They remembered not his hand, nor the day when he delivered them from the enemy, nor him that set his signs in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan, and turned their rivers into blood, & their floods, that they could not drink. He sent a swarm of flies among them, which devoured them, and frogs, which destroyed them. He gave also their fruits unto the caterpillar, and their labour unto the grasshopper. He destroyed their vines with hail, & their wild fig trees with the hailstone. He gave their cattle also to the hail, and their flocks to the thunderbolts. He cast upon them the fierceness of his anger, indignation and wrath, and vexation by the sending out of evil Angels. He made a way to his anger: he spared not their soul from death, but gave their life to the pestilence, and smote all the firstborn in Egypt, even the beginning of their strength in the tabernacles of Ham. But he made his people to go out like sheep, & led them in the wilderness like a flock. Yea, he carried them out safely, and they feared not, and the Sea covered their enemies. And he brought them unto the borders of his Sanctuary: even to this Mountain, which his right hand purchased. He cast out the heathen also before them, and caused them to fall to the lot of his inheritance, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tabernacles. Yet they tempted, and provoked the most high God, and kept not his testimonies, but turned back & dealt falsely like their fathers: they turned like a deceitful bow. And they provoked him to anger with their high places, and moved him to wrath with their graven images. God heard this and was wroth, and greatly abhorred Israel, so that he forsook the habitation of Shilo, even the Tabernacle where he dwelt among men, and delivered his power into captivity, and his beauty into the enemies hand. And he gave up his people to the sword, and was angry with his inheritance. The fire devoured their chosen men, and their maids were not praised. Their Priests fell by the sword, and their widows lamented not. But the Lord awakened as one out of sleep, & as a strong man that after his wine crieth out, and smote his enemies in the hinder parts, and put them to a perpetual shame. Yet he refused the tabernacle of Joseph, and chose not the tribe of Ephraim: But chose the tribe of Judah, and mount Zion which he loved. And he built his Sanctuary as an high palace, like the earth, which he stablished forever. He chose David also his servant, and took him from the sheepfolds. Even from behind the ewes with young brought he him to feed his people in Jaakob, and his inheritance in Israel. So he fed them according to the simplicity of his heart, and guided them by the discretion of his hands.

A Psalm committed to Asaph.

O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance: thine holy Temple have they defiled, and made Jerusalem heaps of stones. The dead bodies of thy servants have they given to be meat unto fowls of ye heaven: and the flesh of thy Saints unto the beasts of the earth. Their blood have they shed like waters round about Jerusalem, and there was none to bury them. We are a reproach to our neighbours, even a scorn and derision unto them that are round about us. Lord, how long wilt thou be angry, forever? shall thy gelousie burn like fire? Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen that have not known thee, and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy Name. For they have devoured Jaakob and made his dwelling place desolate. Remember not against us the former iniquities, but make haste and let thy tender mercies prevent us: for we are in great misery. Help us, O God of our salvation, for the glory of thy Name, and deliver us, and be merciful unto our sins for thy Names sake. Wherefore should the heathen say, Where is their God? let him be known among the heathen in our sight by the vengeance of the blood of thy servants that is shed. Let the sighing of the prisoners come before thee: according to thy mighty arm preserve the children of death, and render to our neighbours seven fold into their bosom their reproach, wherewith they have reproached thee, O Lord. So we thy people, and sheep of thy pasture shall praise thee forever: and from generation to generation we will set forth thy praise.

To him that excelleth on Shoshannim Eduth. A Psalm committed to Asaph.

Hear, O thou Shepherd of Israel, thou that leadest Joseph like sheep: shew thy brightness, thou that sittest between the Cherubims. Before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh stir up thy strength, and come to help us. Turn us again, O God, and cause thy face to shine that we may be saved. O Lord God of hosts, how long wilt thou be angry against the prayer of thy people? Thou hast fed them with the bread of tears, and given them tears to drink with great measure. Thou hast made us a strife unto our neighbours, and our enemies laugh at us among themselves. Turn us again, O God of hosts: cause thy face to shine, and we shall be saved. Thou hast brought a vine out of Egypt: thou hast cast out the heathen, and planted it. Thou madest room for it, and didst cause it to take root, and it filled the land. The mountains were covered with the shadow of it, and the boughs thereof were like the goodly cedars. She stretched out her branches unto the Sea, and her boughs unto the River. Why hast thou then broken down her hedges, so that all they, which pass by the way, have plucked her? The wild bore out of the wood hath destroyed it, and the wild beasts of the field have eaten it up. Return we beseech thee, O God of hosts: look down from heaven and behold and visit this vine, and the vineyard, that thy right hand hath planted, and the young vine, which thou madest strong for thyself. It is burnt with fire and cut down: and they perish at the rebuke of thy countenance. Let thine hand be upon the man of thy right hand, and upon the son of man, whom thou madest strong for thine own self. So will not we go back from thee: reuiue thou us, and we shall call upon thy Name. Turn us again, O Lord God of hosts: cause thy face to shine and we shall be saved.

To him that excelleth upon Gittith. A Psalm committed to Asaph.

Sing joyfully unto God our strength: sing loud unto the God of Jaakob. Take the song and bring forth the timbrel, the pleasant harp with the viole. Blow the trumpet in the new moon, even in the time appointed, at our feast day. For this is a statute for Israel, and a Law of the God of Jaakob. He set this in Joseph for a testimony, when he came out of the land of Egypt, where I heard a language, that I understood not. I have withdrawn his shoulder from the burden, and his hands have left the pots. Thou calledst in affliction and I delivered thee, and answered thee in the secret of the thunder: I proved thee at the waters of Meribah. Selah. Hear, O my people, and I will protest unto thee: O Israel, if thou wilt hearken unto me, let there be no strange god in thee, neither worship thou any strange god. For I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open thy mouth wide and I will fill it. But my people would not hear my voice, and Israel would none of me. So I gave them up unto the hardness of their heart, & they have walked in their own counsels. Oh that my people had hearkened unto me, and Israel had walked in my ways. I would soon have humbled their enemies, and turned mine hand against their adversaries. The haters of the Lord should have been subject unto him, and their time should have endured forever. And God would have fed them with the fat of wheat, and with honey out of the rock would I have sufficed thee.

A Psalm committed to Asaph.

God standeth in the assembly of gods: he judgeth among gods. How long will ye judge unjustly, and accept the persons of the wicked? Selah. Do right to the poor and fatherless: do justice to the poor and needy. Deliver the poor and needy: save them from the hand of the wicked. They know not and understand nothing: they walk in darkness, albeit all the foundations of the earth be moved. I have said, Ye are gods, and ye all are children of the most High. But ye shall die as a man, and ye princes, shall fall like others. O God, arise, therefore judge thou the earth: for thou shalt inherit all nations.

A song, or Psalm committed to Asaph.

Keep not thou silence, O God: be not still, and cease not, O God. For lo, thine enemies make a tumult: and they that hate thee, have lifted up the head. They have taken crafty counsel against thy people, and have consulted against thy secret ones. They have said, Come and let us cut them off from being a nation: and let the name of Israel be no more in remembrance. For they have consulted together in heart, and have made a league against thee: The tabernacles of Edom, and the Ishmaelites, Moab and the Agarims: Gebal and Ammon, and Amalech, the Philistims with the inhabitants of Tyrus: Asshur also is joined with them: they have been an arm to the children of Lot. Selah. Do thou to them as unto the Midianites: as to Sisera and as to Jabin at the river of Kishon. They perished at En-dor, and were dung for the earth. Make them, even their princes like Oreb and like Zeeb: yea, all their princes like Zebah and like Zalmuna. Which have said, Let us take for our possession the habitations of God. O my God, make them like unto a wheele, and as the stubble before the wind. As the fire burneth the forest, and as the flame setteth the mountains on fire: So persecute them with thy tempest, and make them afraid with thy storm. Fill their faces with shame, that they may seek thy Name, O Lord. Let them be confounded and troubled forever: yea, let them be put to shame and perish, that they may know that thou, which art called Jehovah, art alone, even the most High over all the earth.

To him that excelleth upon Gittith. A Psalm committed to the sons of Korah. O Lord of hosts, how amiable are thy Tabernacles! My soul longeth, yea, and fainteth for the courts of the Lord: for mine heart and my flesh rejoice in the living God. Yea, the sparrows hath found her an house, and the swallow a nest for her, where she may lay her young: even by thine altars, O Lord of hosts, my King and my God. Blessed are they that dwell in thine house: they will ever praise thee. Selah. Blessed is the man, whose strength is in thee, and in whose heart are thy ways. They going through the vale of Baca, make wells therein: the rain also covereth the pools. They go from strength to strength, till every one appear before God in Zion. O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer: hearken, O God of Jaakob. Selah. Behold, O God, our shield, and look upon the face of thine Anointed. For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand other where: I had rather be a door keeper in the House of my God, than to dwell in the Tabernacles of wickedness. For the Lord God is the sun and shield unto us: the Lord will give grace and glory, and no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm committed to the sons of Korah.

Lord, thou hast been favourable unto thy land: thou hast brought again the captivity of Jaakob. Thou hast forgiven the iniquity of thy people, and covered all their sins. Selah. Thou hast withdrawn all thine anger, and hast turned back from the fierceness of thy wrath. Turn us, O God of our salvation, and release thine anger toward us. Wilt thou be angry with us forever? and wilt thou prolong thy wrath from one generation to another? Wilt thou not turn again & quicken us, that thy people may rejoice in thee? Shew us thy mercy, O Lord, and grant us thy salvation. I will hearken what the Lord God will say: for he will speak peace unto his people, and to his Saints, that they turn not again to folly. Surely his salvation is near to them that fear him, that glory may dwell in our land. Mercy and truth shall meet: righteousness and peace shall kiss one another. Truth shall bud out of the earth, and righteousness shall look down from heaven. Yea, the Lord shall give good things, and our land shall give her increase. Righteousness shall go before him, and shall set her steps in the way.

A prayer of David.

Incline thine ear, O Lord, and hear me: for I am poor and needy. Preserve thou my soul, for I am merciful: my God, save thou thy servant, that trusteth in thee. Be merciful unto me, O Lord: for I cry upon thee continually. Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. For thou, Lord, art good and merciful, and of great kindness unto all them, that call upon thee. Give ear, Lord, unto my prayer, & hearken to the voice of my supplication. In the day of my trouble I will call upon thee: for thou hearest me. Among the gods there is none like thee, O Lord, and there is none that can do like thy works. All nations, whom thou hast made, shall come and worship before thee, O Lord, & shall glorify thy Name. For thou art great and dost wondrous things: thou art God alone. Teach me thy way, O Lord, and I will walk in thy truth: knit mine heart unto thee, that I may fear thy Name. I will praise thee, O Lord my God, with all mine heart: yea, I will glorify thy Name forever. For great is thy mercy toward me, & thou hast delivered my soul from the lowest grave. O God, the proud are risen against me, and the assemblies of violent men have sought my soul, and have not set thee before them. But thou, O Lord, art a pitiful God and merciful, slow to anger and great in kindness and truth. Turn unto me, and have mercy upon me: give thy strength unto thy servant, and save the son of thine handmaid. Shew a token of thy goodness toward me, that they which hate me, may see it, and be ashamed, because thou, O Lord, hast holpen me and comforted me.

A Psalm or song committed to the sons of Korah.

God laid his foundations among the holy mountains. The Lord loveth the gates of Zion above all the habitations of Jaakob. Glorious things are spoken of thee, O city of God. Selah. I will make mention of Rahab and Babel among them that know me: behold Palestina and Tyrus with Ethiopia, There is he borne. And of Zion it shall be said, Many are borne in her: and he, even the most High shall stablish her. The Lord shall count, when he writeth the people, He was borne there. Selah. As well the singers as the players on instruments shall praise thee: all my springs are in thee.

A song or Psalm of Heman the Ezrahite to give instruction, committed to the sons of Korah for him that excelleth upon Malath Leannoth.

O Lord God of my salvation, I cry day and night before thee. Let my prayer enter into thy presence: incline thine ear unto my cry. For my soul is filled with evils, and my life draweth near to the grave. I am counted among them that go down unto the pit, and am as a man without strength: Free among the dead, like the slain lying in the grave, whom thou rememberest no more, and they are cut off from thine hand. Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit, in darkness, and in the deep. Thine indignation lieth upon me, & thou hast vexed me with all thy waves. Selah. Thou hast put away mine acquaintance far from me, and made me to be abhorred of them: I am shut up, and cannot get forth. Mine eye is sorrowful through mine affliction: Lord, I call daily upon thee: I stretch out mine hands unto thee. Wilt thou shew a miracle to the dead? or shall the dead rise and praise thee? Selah. Shall thy loving kindness be declared in the grave? or thy faithfulness in destruction? Shall thy wondrous works be known in the dark? and thy righteousness in the land of oblivion? But unto thee have I cried, O Lord, and early shall my prayer come before thee. Lord, why dost thou reject my soul, and hidest thy face from me? I am afflicted and at the point of death: from my youth I suffer thy terrors, doubting of my life. Thine indignation's go over me, and thy fear hath cut me off. They came round about me daily like water, and compassed me together. My lovers and friends hast thou put away from me, and mine acquaintance hid themselves.

A Psalm to give instruction, of Ethan the Ezrahite.

I will sing the mercies of the Lord forever: with my mouth will I declare thy truth from generation to generation. For I said, Mercy shall be set up forever: thy truth shalt thou stablish in ye very heavens. I have made a covenant with my chosen: I have sworn to David my servant, thy seed will I stablish forever, & set up thy throne from generation to generation. Selah. O Lord, even the heavens shall praise thy wondrous work: yea, thy truth in the Congregation of the Saints. For who is equal to the Lord in the heaven? and who is like the Lord among the sons of the gods? God is very terrible in the assembly of the Saints, and to be revered above all, that are about him. O Lord God of hosts, who is like unto thee, which art a mighty Lord, and thy truth is about thee? Thou rulest the raging of the sea: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them. Thou hast beaten down Rahab as a man slain: thou hast scattered thine enemies with thy mighty arm. The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: thou hast laid the foundation of the world, and all that therein is. Thou hast created the North and the South: Tabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy Name. Thou hast a mighty arm: strong is thine hand, and high is thy right hand. Righteousness and equity are the stablishment of thy throne: mercy and truth go before thy face. Blessed is the people, that can rejoice in thee: they shall walk in the light of thy countenance, O Lord. They shall rejoice continually in thy Name, and in thy righteousness shall they exalt themselves. For thou art the glory of their strength, and by thy favour our horns shall be exalted. For our shield appertaineth to the Lord, and our King to the holy one of Israel. Thou spakest then in a vision unto thine Holy one, and saidest, I have laid help upon one that is mighty: I have exalted one chosen out of the people. I have found David my servant: with mine holy oil have I anointed him. Therefore mine hand shall be established with him, and mine arm shall strengthen him.

The enemy shall not oppress him, neither shall the wicked hurt him. But I will destroy his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him. My truth also and my mercy shall be with him, and in my Name shall his horn be exalted. I will set his hand also in the sea, and his right hand in the floods. He shall cry unto me, Thou art my Father, my God and the rock of my salvation. Also I will make him my first borne, higher then the Kings of the earth. My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and my covenant shall stand fast with him. His seed also will I make to endure forever, and his throne as the days of heaven. But if his children forsake my Law, and walk not in my judgements: If they break my statutes, and keep not my commandments: Then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with strokes. Yet my loving kindness will I not take from him, neither will I falsify my truth. My covenant will I not break, nor alter the thing that is gone out of my lips. I have sworn once by mine holiness, that I will not fail David, saying, His seed shall endure forever, and his throne shall be as the sun before me. He shall be established for evermore as the moon, and as a faithful witness in the heaven. Selah. But thou hast rejected and abhorred, thou hast been angry with thine Anointed. Thou hast broken the covenant of thy servant, and profaned his crown, casting it on the ground. Thou hast broken down all his walls: thou hast laid his fortresses in ruin. All that go by the way, spoil him: he is a rebuke unto his neighbours. Thou hast set up the right hand of his enemies, and made all his adversaries to rejoice. Thou hast also turned the edge of his sword, and hast not made him to stand in the battle. Thou hast caused his dignity to decay, and cast his throne to the ground. The days of his youth hast thou shortened, and covered him with shame. Selah. Lord, how long wilt thou hide thyself, forever? shall thy wrath burn like fire? Remember of what time I am: wherefore shouldest thou create in vain all the children of men? What man liveth, and shall not see death? shall he deliver his soul from the hand of the grave? Selah. Lord, where are thy former mercies, which thou swarest unto David in thy truth? Remember, O Lord, the rebuke of thy servants, which I bear in my bosom of all the mighty people. For thine enemies have reproached thee, O Lord, because they have reproached the footsteps of thine Anointed. Praised be the Lord for evermore. So be it, even so be it.

A prayer of Moses, the man of God.

Lord, thou hast been our habitation from generation to generation. Before the mountains were made, and before thou hadst formed the earth, and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting thou art our God. Thou turnest man to destruction: again thou sayest, Return, ye sons of Adam. For a thousand years in thy sight are as yesterday when it is past, & as a watch in the night. Thou hast overflowed them: they are as a sleep: in the morning he groweth like the grass: In the morning it flourisheth and groweth, but in the evening it is cut down and withereth. For we are consumed by thine anger, and by thy wrath are we troubled. Thou hast set our iniquities before thee, and our secret sins in the light of thy countenance. For all our days are past in thine anger: we have spent our years as a thought. The time of our life is threescore years and ten, and if they be of strength, fourscore years: yet their strength is but labour and sorrow: for it is cut off quickly, and we flee away. Who knoweth the power of thy wrath? for according to thy fear is thine anger. Teach us so to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom. Return (O Lord, how long?) and be pacified toward thy servants. Fill us with thy mercy in the morning: so shall we rejoice and be glad all our days. Comfort us according to the days that thou hast afflicted us, and according to the years that we have seen evil. Let thy work be seen toward thy servants, and thy glory upon their children. And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us, & direct thou the work of our hands upon us, even direct the work of our hands.

Who so dwelleth in the secret of the most High, shall abide in the shadow of the Almighty. I will say unto the Lord, O mine hope, and my fortress: he is my God, in him will I trust. Surely he will deliver thee from the snare of the hunter, and from the noisome pestilence. He will cover thee under his wings, and thou shalt be sure under his feathers: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler. Thou shalt not be afraid of the fear of the night, nor of the arrow that flieth by day: Nor of the pestilence that walketh in the darkness: nor of the plague that destroyeth at noon day. A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come near thee. Doubtless with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked. For thou hast said, The Lord is mine hope: thou hast set the most High for thy refuge. There shall none evil come unto thee, neither shall any plague come near thy tabernacle. For he shall give his Angels charge over thee to keep thee in all thy ways. They shall bear thee in their hands, that thou hurt not thy foot against a stone. Thou shalt walk upon the lion and asp: the young lion and the dragon shalt thou tread under feet. Because he hath loved me, therefore will I deliver him: I will exalt him because he hath known my Name. He shall call upon me, and I will hear him: I will be with him in trouble: I will deliver him, and glorify him. With long life will I satisfy him, and shew him my salvation.

A Psalm or song for the Sabbath day.

It is a good thing to praise the Lord, and to sing unto thy Name, O most High, to declare thy loving kindness in the morning, and thy truth in the night, upon an instrument of tenne strings, and upon the viole with the song upon the harp. For thou, Lord, hast made me glad by thy works, and I will rejoice in the works of thine hands. O Lord, how glorious are thy works! and thy thoughts are very deep. An unwise man knoweth it not, and a fool doth not understand this, (When the wicked grow as the grass, and all the workers of wickedness do flourish) that they shall be destroyed forever. But thou, O Lord, art most High for evermore. For lo, thine enemies, O Lord: for lo, thine enemies shall perish: all the workers of iniquity shall be destroyed. But thou shalt exalt mine horn, like the unicorns, and I shall be anointed with fresh oil. Mine eye also shall see my desire against mine enemies: and mine ears shall hear my wish against the wicked, that rise up against me. The righteous shall flourish like a palm tree, and shall grow like a Cedar in Lebanon. Such as be planted in the house of the Lord, shall flourish in the courts of our God. They shall still bring forth fruit in their age: they shall be fat and flourishing, to declare that the Lord my rock is righteous, and that none iniquity is in him.

The Lord reigneth, and is clothed with majesty: the Lord is clothed, and girded with power: the world also shall be established, that it cannot be moved. Thy throne is established of old: thou art from everlasting. The floods have lifted up, O Lord: the floods have lifted up their voice: the floods lift up their waves. The waves of ye sea are marvelous through the noise of many waters, yet the Lord on High is more mighty. Thy testimonies are very sure: holiness becometh thine House, O Lord, forever.

O Lord God the avenger, O God the avenger, shew thyself clearly. Exalt thyself, O Judge of the world, and render a reward to the proud. Lord how long shall the wicked, how long shall the wicked triumph? They prate and speak fiercely: all the workers of iniquity vaunt themselves. They smite down thy people, O Lord, and trouble thine heritage. They slay the widow and the stranger, and murder the fatherless. Yet they say, The Lord shall not see: neither will the God of Jaakob regard it. Understand ye unwise among the people: and ye fools, when will ye be wise? He that planted the ear, shall he not hear? or he that formed the eye, shall he not see? Or he that chastiseth the nations, shall he not correct? he that teacheth man knowledge, shall he not know? The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanity. Blessed is the man, whom thou chastisest, O Lord, and teachest him in thy Law, that thou mayest give him rest from the days of evil, whiles the pit is digged for the wicked. Surely the Lord will not faile his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance. For judgement shall return to justice, and all the upright in heart shall follow after it. Who will rise up with me against the wicked? or who will take my part against the workers of iniquity? If the Lord had not holpen me, my soul had almost dwelt in silence. When I said, My foot slideth, thy mercy, O Lord, stayed me. In the multitude of my thoughts in mine heart, thy comfortes have rejoiced my soul. Hath the throne of iniquity fellowship with thee, which forgeth wrong for a Law? They gather them together against the soul of the righteous, and condemn the innocent blood. But the Lord is my refuge, and my God is the rock of mine hope. And he will recompense them their wickedness, and destroy them in their own malice: yea, the Lord our God shall destroy them.

Come, let us rejoice unto the Lord: let us sing aloud unto the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his face with praise: let us sing loud unto him with Psalms. For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In whose hand are the deep places of the earth, and the heights of the mountains are his: To whom the Sea belongeth: for he made it, and his hands formed the dry land. Come, let us worship and fall down, and kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God, and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand: to day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your heart, as in Meribah, and as in the day of Massah in the wilderness. Where your fathers tempted me, proved me, though they had seen my work. Forty years have I contended with this generation, and said, They are a people that err in heart, for they have not known my ways. Wherefore I swear in my wrath, saying, Surely they shall not enter into my rest.

Sing unto the Lord a new song: sing unto the Lord, all the earth. Sing unto the Lord, and praise his Name: declare his salvation from day to day. Declare his glory among all nations, and his wonders among all people. For the Lord is great and much to be praised: he is to be feared above all gods. For all the gods of the people are idols: but the Lord made the heavens. Strength and glory are before him: power and beauty are in his Sanctuary. Give unto the Lord, ye families of the people: give unto the Lord glory and power. Give unto the Lord the glory of his Name: bring an offering, and enter into his courts. Worship the Lord in the glorious Sanctuary: tremble before him all the earth. Say among the nations, The Lord reigneth: surely the world shall be stable, & not move, and he shall judge the people in righteousness. Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad: let the sea roar, and all that therein is. Let the field be joyful, and all that is in it: let all the trees of the wood then rejoice before the Lord: for he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth: he will judge the world with righteousness, and the people in his truth.

The Lord reigneth: let the earth rejoice: let the multitude of the isles be glad. Clouds and darkness are round about him: righteousness and judgement are the foundation of his throne. There shall go a fire before him, & burn up his enemies round about. His lightnings gave light unto the world: the earth saw it and was afraid. The mountains melted like wax at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth. The heavens declare his righteousness, and all the people see his glory. Confounded be all they that serve graven images, and that glory in idols: worship him all ye gods. Zion heard of it, and was glad: and the daughters of Judah rejoiced, because of thy judgements, O Lord. For thou, Lord, art most High above all the earth: thou art much exalted above all gods. Ye that love the Lord, hate evil: he preserveth the souls of his Saints: he will deliver them from the hand of the wicked. Light is sown for the righteous, and joy for the upright in heart. Rejoice ye righteous in the Lord, and give thanks for his holy remembrance.

A Psalm.

Sing unto the Lord a new song: for he hath done marvelous things: his right hand, and his holy arm have gotten him the victory. The Lord declared his salvation: his righteousness hath he revealed in the sight of ye nations. He hath remembered his mercy and his truth toward the house of Israel: all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God. All the earth, sing ye loud unto the Lord: cry out and rejoice, and sing praises. Sing praise to the Lord upon the harp, even upon the harp with a singing voice. With shalms and sound of trumpets sing loud before the Lord the King. Let the sea roar, and all that therein is, the world, and they that dwell therein. Let the floods clap their hands, and let the mountains rejoice together before the Lord: for he is come to judge the earth: with righteousness shall he judge the world, and the people with equity.

The Lord reigneth, let the people tremble: he sitteth between the Cherubims, let the earth be moved. The Lord is great in Zion, and he is high above all the people. They shall praise thy great and fearful Name (for it is holy) and the King's power, that loveth judgement: for thou hast prepared equity: thou hast executed judgement and justice in Jaakob. Exalt the Lord our God, and fall down before his footstool: for he is holy. Moses and Aaron were among his Priests, and Samuel among such as call upon his Name: these called upon the Lord, and he heard them. He spake unto them in the cloudie pillar: they kept his testimonies, and the Law that he gave them. Thou heardest them, O Lord our God: thou wast a favourable God unto them, though thou didst take vengeance for their inventions. Exalt the Lord our God, and fall down before his holy Mountain: for the Lord our God is holy.

A Psalm of praise.

Sing ye loud unto the Lord, all the earth. Serve the Lord with gladness: come before him with joyfulness. Know ye that even the Lord is God: he hath made us, and not we our selves: we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. Enter into his gates with praise, and into his courts with rejoicing: praise him and bless his Name. For the Lord is good: his mercy is everlasting, and his truth is from generation to generation.

A Psalm of David.

I will sing mercy and judgement: unto thee, O Lord, will I sing. I will do wisely in the perfect way, till thou comest to me: I will walk in the uprightness of mine heart in the midst of mine house. I will set no wicked thing before mine eyes: I hate the work of them that fall away: it shall not cleave unto me. A froward heart shall depart from me: I will know none evil. Him that privily slandereth his neighbour, will I destroy: him that hath a proud look and high heart, I cannot suffer. Mine eyes shall be unto the faithful of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walketh in a perfect way, he shall serve me. There shall no deceitful person dwell within mine house: he that telleth lies, shall not remain in my sight. Betimes will I destroy all the wicked of the land, that I may cut off all the workers of iniquity from the City of the Lord.

A prayer of the afflicted, when he shall be in distress, and pour forth his meditation before the Lord.

O Lord, hear my prayer, and let my cry come unto thee. Hide not thy face from me in the time of my trouble: incline thine ears unto me: when I call, make haste to hear me. For my days are consumed like smoke, and my bones are burnt like an hearth. Mine heart is smitten and withereth like grass, because I forgot to eat my bread. For the voice of my groaning my bones do cleave to my skin. I am like a pelican of the wilderness: I am like an owl of the deserts. I watch and am as a sparrow alone upon the house top. Mine enemies revile me daily, and they that rage against me, have sworn against me. Surely I have eaten ashes as bread, and mingled my drink with weeping, because of thine indignation and thy wrath: for thou hast heaved me up, and cast me down. My days are like a shadow that fadeth, and I am withered like grass. But thou, O Lord, dost remain forever, and thy remembrance from generation to generation. Thou wilt arise & have mercy upon Zion: for the time to have mercy thereon, for the appointed time is come. For thy servants delight in the stones thereof, and have pity on the dust thereof. Then the heathen shall fear the Name of the Lord, and all the Kings of the earth thy glory, when the Lord shall build up Zion, and shall appear in his glory, and shall turn unto the prayer of the desolate, and not despise their prayer. This shall be written for the generation to come: and the people, which shall be created, shall praise the Lord. For he hath looked down from the height of his Sanctuary: out of the heaven did the Lord behold the earth, that he might hear the mourning of the prisoner, and deliver the children of death: That they may declare the Name of the Lord in Zion, and his praise in Jerusalem, when the people shall be gathered together, and the kingdoms to serve the Lord. He abated my strength in the way, and shortened my days. And I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my days: thy years endure from generation to generation. Thou hast aforetime laid the foundation of the earth, and the heavens are the work of thine hands. They shall perish, but thou shalt endure: even they all shall wax old as doth a garment: as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed. But thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail. The children of thy servants shall continue, and their seed shall stand fast in thy sight.

A Psalm of David.

My soul, praise thou the Lord, and all that is within me, praise his holy Name. My soul, praise thou the Lord, and forget not all his benefits. Which forgiveth all thine iniquity, and healeth all thine infirmities. Which redeemeth thy life from the grave, and crowneth thee with mercy and compassions. Which satisfieth thy mouth with good things: and thy youth is renewed like the eagles. The Lord executeth righteousness & judgement to all that are oppressed. He made his ways known unto Moses, and his works unto the children of Israel. The Lord is full of compassion and mercy, slow to anger and of great kindness. He will not always chide, neither keep his anger forever. He hath not dealt with us after our sins, nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. For as high as the heaven is above ye earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him. As far as the East is from the West: so far hath he removed our sins from us. As a father hath compassion on his children, so hath the Lord compassion on them that fear him. For he knoweth whereof we be made: he remembereth that we are but dust. The days of man are as grass: as a flowre of the field, so flourisheth he. For the wind goeth over it, and it is gone, and the place thereof shall know it no more. But the loving kindness of the Lord endureth forever and ever upon them that fear him, and his righteousness upon children's children, unto them that keep his covenant, and think upon his commandments to do them. The Lord hath prepared his throne in heaven, and his Kingdom ruleth over all. Praise the Lord, ye his Angels, that excel in strength, that do his commandment in obeying the voice of his word. Praise the Lord, all ye his hosts, ye his servants that do his pleasure. Praise the Lord, all ye his works, in all places of his dominion: my soul, praise thou the Lord.

My soul, praise thou the Lord: O Lord my God, thou art exceeding great, thou art clothed with glory and honour. Which covereth himself with light as with a garment, and spreadeth the heavens like a curtain which layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters, and maketh the clouds his chariot, and walketh upon the wings of the wind. Which maketh his spirits his messengers, and a flaming fire his ministers. He set the earth upon her foundations, so that it shall never move. Thou coveredst it with the deep as with a garment: the waters would stand above the mountains. But at thy rebuke they flee: at the voice of thy thunder they haste away. And the mountains ascend, and the valleys descend to the place which thou hast established for them. But thou hast set them a bound, which they shall not pass: they shall not return to cover the earth. He sendeth the springs into the valleys, which run between the mountains. They shall give drink to all the beasts of the field, and the wild asses shall quench their thirst. By these springs shall the fowls of the heaven dwell, and sing among the branches. He watereth the mountains from his chambers, and the earth is filled with the fruit of thy works. He causeth grass to grow for the cattle, and herb for the use of man, that he may bring forth bread out of the earth, and wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oil to make the face to shine, and bread that strengtheneth mans heart. The high trees are satisfied, even the cedars of Lebanon, which he hath planted, that ye birds may make their nests there: the stork dwelleth in the fir trees. The high mountains are for the goats: the rocks are a refuge for the conies. He appointed the moon for certain seasons: the sun knoweth his going down. Thou makest darkness, and it is night, wherein all the beasts of the forest creep forth. The lions roar after their prey, and seek their meat at God. When the sun riseth, they retire, and couch in their dens. Then goeth man forth to his work, and to his labour until the evening. O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches. So is this sea great and wide: for therein are things creeping innumerable, both small beasts and great. There go the ships, yea, that Liviathan, whom thou hast made to play therein. All these wait upon thee, that thou mayest give them food in due season. Thou givest it to them, and they gather it: thou openest thine hand, and they are filled with good things. But if thou hide thy face, they are troubled: if thou take away their breath, they dye and return to their dust. Again if thou send forth thy spirit, they are created, and thou renewest the face of the earth. Glory be to the Lord forever: let the Lord rejoice in his works. He looketh on the earth and it trembleth: he toucheth the mountains, and they smoke. I will sing unto the Lord all my life: I will praise my God, while I live. Let my words be acceptable unto him: I will rejoice in the Lord. Let the sinners be consumed out of the earth, and the wicked till there be no more: O my soul, praise thou the Lord. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise the Lord, and call upon his Name: declare his works among the people. Sing unto him, sing praise unto him, and talk of all his wondrous works. Rejoice in his holy Name: let the heart of them that seek the Lord, rejoice. Seek the Lord and his strength: seek his face continually. Remember his marvelous works, that he hath done, his wonders and the judgements of his mouth, ye seed of Abraham his servant, ye children of Jaakob, which are his elect. He is the Lord our God: his judgements are through all the earth. He hath always remembered his covenant & promises, that he made to a thousand generations, even that which he made with Abraham, and his oath unto Izhak: And since hath confirmed it to Jaakob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant, saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance. Albeit they were few in number, yea, very few, and strangers in the land, and walked about from nation to nation, from one kingdom to another people, yet suffered he no man to do them wrong, but reproved Kings for their sakes, saying, Touch not mine anointed, and do my Prophets no harm. Moreover, he called a famine upon ye land, and utterly brake the staff of bread. But he sent a man before them: Joseph was sold for a slave. They held his feet in the stocks, and he was laid in irons, until his appointed time came, and the counsel of the Lord had tried him. The King sent and loosed him: even the Ruler of the people delivered him. He made him lord of his house, and ruler of all his substance, that he should bind his princes unto his will, and teach his Ancients wisdom. Then Israel came to Egypt, and Jaakob was a stranger in the land of Ham. And he increased his people exceedingly, and made them stronger then their oppressours. He turned their heart to hate his people, and to deal craftily with his servants. Then sent he Moses his servant, and Aaron whom he had chosen. They shewed among them the message of his signs, and wonders in the land of Ham. He sent darkness, and made it dark: and they were not disobedient unto his commission. He turned their waters into blood, and slew their fish. Their land brought forth frogs, even in their King's chambers. He spake, and there came swarms of flies and lice in all their quarters. He gave them hail for rain, and flames of fire in their land. He smote their vines also and their fig trees, and brake down the trees in their coasts. He spake, and the grasshoppers came, and caterpillars innumerable, and did eat up all the grass in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground. He smote also all the first borne in their land, even the beginning of all their strength. He brought them forth also with silver and gold, and there was none feeble among their tribes. Egypt was glad at their departing: for the fear of them had fallen upon them. He spread a cloud to be a covering, and fire to give light in the night. They asked, and he brought quails, and he filled them with the bread of heaven. He opened the rock, and the waters flowed out, and ran in the dry places like a river. For he remembered his holy promises to Abraham his servant, and he brought forth his people with joy, and his chosen with gladness, and gave them the lands of the heathen, and they took the labours of the people in possession, that they might keep his statutes, and obserue his Laws. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise ye the Lord because he is good, for his mercy endureth forever. Who can express the noble acts of the Lord, or shew forth all his praise? Blessed are they that keep judgement, and do righteousness at all times. Remember me, O Lord, with the favour of thy people: visit me with thy salvation, that I may see the felicity of thy chosen, and reioice in the joy of thy people, and glory with thine inheritance. We have sinned with our fathers: we have committed iniquity, and done wickedly. Our fathers understood not thy wonders in Egypt, neither remembered they the multitude of thy mercies, but rebelled at the Sea, even at the red sea. Nevertheless he saved them for his Names sake, that he might make his power to be known. And he rebuked the red Sea, and it was dried up, and he led them in the deep, as in the wilderness. And he saved them from ye adversaries hand, and delivered them from ye hand of the enemy. And the waters covered their oppressours: not one of them was left. Then believed they his words, and sang praise unto him. But incontinently they forgot his works: they waited not for his counsel, but lusted with concupiscence in the wilderness, and tempted God in the desert. Then he gave them their desire: but he sent leanness into their soul. They envied Moses also in the tents, and Aaron the holy one of the Lord. Therefore the earth opened & swallowed up Dathan, & covered the company of Abiram. And the fire was kindled in their assembly: the flame burnt up the wicked. They made a calf in Horeb, and worshipped the molten image. Thus they turned their glory into the similitude of a bullock, that eateth grass. They forgot God their Saviour, which had done great things in Egypt, wondrous works in the land of Ham, and fearful things by the red Sea. Therefore he minded to destroy them, had not Moses his chosen stand in the breach before him to turn away his wrath, lest he should destroy them. Also they contemned that pleasant land, and believed not his word, but murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voice of the Lord. Therefore he lifted up his hand against them, to destroy them in the wilderness, and to destroy their seed among the nations, & to scatter them throughout the countries. They joined themselves also unto Baalpeor, and did eat the offerings of the dead. Thus they provoked him unto anger with their own inventions, and the plague brake in upon them. But Phinehas stood up, and executed judgement, and the plague was stayed. And it was imputed unto him for righteousness from generation to generation forever. They angered him also at the waters of Meribah, so that Moses was punished for their sakes, because they vexed his spirit, so that he spake unadvisedly with his lips. Neither destroyed they the people, as the Lord had commanded them, but were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works, and served their idols, which were their ruin. Yea, they offered their sons, and their daughters unto devils, and shed innocent blood, even the blood of their sons, & of their daughters, whom they offered unto the idols of Canaan, and the land was defiled with blood. Thus were they stained with their own works, and went a whoring with their own inventions. Therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people, and he abhorred his own inheritance. And he gave them into the hand of the heathen: and they that hated them, were lords over them. Their enemies also oppressed them, & they were humbled under their hand. Many a time did he deliver them, but they provoked him by their counsels: therefore they were brought down by their iniquity. Yet he saw when they were in affliction, and he heard their cry. And he remembered his covenant toward them and repented according to the multitude of his mercies, and gave them favour in the sight of all them that lead them captives. Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the heathen, that we may praise thine holy Name, and glory in thy praise. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel forever and ever, and let all the people say, So be it. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth forever. Let them, which have been redeemed of the Lord, shew how he hath delivered them from the hand of the oppressour, and gathered them out of the lands, from the East and from the West, from the North and from the South. When they wandered in the desert and wilderness out of the way, and found no city to dwell in, both hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them. Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, & he delivered them from their distress, and led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation. Let them therefore confess before ye Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before the sons of men. For he satisfied the thirsty soul, and filled the hungry soul with goodness. They that dwell in darkness and in the shadow of death, being bound in misery and iron, because they rebelled against the words of the Lord, and despised the counsel of the most High, when he humbled their heart with heaviness, then they fell down and there was no helper. Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, & he delivered them from their distress. He brought them out of darkness, and out of the shadow of death, and brake their bands asunder. Let them therefore confess before the Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before the sons of men. For he hath broken the gates of brass, and brast the bars of iron asunder. Fools by reason of their transgression, and because of their iniquities are afflicted. Their soul abhorreth all meat, and they are brought to deaths door. Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivereth them from their distress. He sendeth his word and healeth them, and delivereth them from their graves. Let them therefore confess before the Lord his loving kindness, & his wonderful works before the sons of men, and let them offer sacrifices of praise, and declare his works with rejoicing. They that go down to the sea in ships, and occupy by the great waters, they see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.

For he commandeth and raiseth the stormy wind, and it lifteth up the waves thereof. They mount up to the heaven, and descend to ye deep, so that their soul melteth for trouble. They are tossed to and from, and stagger like a drunken man, and all their cunning is gone. Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he bringeth them out of their distress. He turneth the storm to calm, so that the waves thereof are still. When they are quieted, they are glad, and he bringeth them unto the haven, where they would be. Let them therefore confess before the Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before the sons of men. And let them exalt him in the Congregation of the people, and praise him in the assembly of the Elders. He turneth the floods into a wilderness, and the springs of waters into dryness, and a fruitful land into barrenness for the wickedness of them that dwell therein. Again he turneth the wilderness into pools of water, and the dry land into water springs. And there he placeth the hungry, and they build a city to dwell in, and sow the fields, and plant vineyards, which bring forth fruitful increase. For he blesseth them, & they multiply exceedingly, and he diminisheth not their cattle. Again men are diminished, and brought low by oppression, evil and sorrow. He poureth contempt upon princes, & causeth them to err in desert places out of the way. Yet he raiseth up the poor out of misery, and maketh him families like a flock of sheep. The righteous shall see it, and rejoice, and all iniquity shall stop her mouth. Who is wise that he may observe these things? for they shall understand the loving kindness of the Lord.

A song or Psalm of David.

O God, mine heart is prepared, so is my tongue: I will sing and give praise. Awake viole and harp: I will awake early. I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people, and I will sing unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds. Exalt thyself, O God, above the heavens, and let thy glory be upon all the earth, that thy beloved may be delivered: help with thy right hand and hear me. God hath spoken in his holiness: therefore I will rejoice, I shall divide Shechem and measure the valley of Succoth. Gilead shall be mine, and Manasseh shall be mine: Ephraim also shall be the strength of mine head: Judah is my lawgiver. Moab shall be my washpot: over Edom will I cast out my shoe: upon Palestina will I triumph. Who will lead me into the strong city? Who will bring me unto Edom? Wilt not thou, O God, which hadst forsaken us, and didst not go forth, O God, with our armies? Give us help against trouble: for vain is the help of man. Through God we shall do valiantly: for he shall tread down our enemies.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

Hold not thy tongue, O God of my praise. For the mouth of the wicked, and the mouth full of deceit are opened upon me: they have spoken to me with a lying tongue. They compassed me about also with words of hatred, and fought against me without a cause. For my friendship they were mine adversaries, but I gave myself to prayer. And they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my friendship. Set thou the wicked over him, and let the adversary stand at his right hand. When he shall be judged, let him be condemned, and let his prayer be turned into sin. Let his days be few, and let another take his charge. Let his children be fatherless, and his wife a widow. Let his children be vagabonds & beg and seek bread, coming out of their places destroyed. Let the extortioner catch all that he hath, and let the strangers spoil his labour. Let there be none to extend mercy unto him: neither let there be any to shew mercy upon his fatherless children. Let his posterity be destroyed, and in the generation following let their name be put out. Let the iniquity of his fathers be had in remembrance with the Lord: and let not the sin of his mother be done away. But let them always be before the Lord, that he may cut off their memorial from ye earth. Because he remembered not to shew mercy, but persecuted the afflicted and poor man, and the sorrowful hearted to slay him. As he loved cursing, so shall it come unto him, and as he loved not blessing, so shall it be far from him. As he clothed himself with cursing like a rayment, so shall it come into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones. Let it be unto him as a garment to cover him, and for a girdle, wherewith he shall be always girded. Let this be the reward of mine adversary from the Lord, and of them, that speak evil against my soul. But thou, O Lord my God, deal with me according unto thy Name: deliver me, (for thy mercy is good) because I am poor and needy, and mine heart is wounded within me. I depart like the shadow that declineth, and am shaken off as the grasshopper. My knees are weak through fasting, and my flesh hath lost all fatness. I became also a rebuke unto them: they that looked upon me, shook their heads. Help me, O Lord my God: save me according to thy mercy. And they shall know, that this is thine hand, and that thou, Lord, hast done it. Though they curse, yet thou wilt bless: they shall arise & be confounded, but thy servant shall rejoice. Let mine adversaries be clothed with shame, and let them cover themselves with their confusion, as with a cloak. I will give thanks unto the Lord greatly with my mouth & praise him among ye multitude. For he will stand at the right hand of the poor, to save him from them that would condemn his soul.

A Psalm of David.

The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool. The Lord shall send the rod of thy power out of Zion: be thou ruler in the midst of thine enemies. Thy people shall come willingly at the time of assembling thine armie in holy beauty: the youth of thy womb shall be as the morning dew. The Lord sware & will not repent, Thou art a Priest forever after ye order of Melchi-zedek. The Lord, that is at thy right hand, shall wound Kings in the day of his wrath. He shall be judge among the heathen: he shall fill all with dead bodies, and smite the head over great countries. He shall drink of the brook in the way: therefore shall he lift up his head.

Praise ye the Lord. I will praise the Lord with my whole heart in the assembly and Congregation of the just. The works of the Lord are great, and ought to be sought out of all them that love them. His work is beautiful and glorious, and his righteousness endureth forever. He hath made his wonderful works to be had in remembrance: the Lord is merciful and full of compassion. He hath given a portion unto them that fear him: he will ever be mindful of his covenant. He hath shewed to his people the power of his works in giving unto them the heritage of the heathen. The works of his hands are truth and judgement: all his statutes are true. They are stablished forever and ever, and are done in truth and equity. He sent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant forever: holy and fearful is his Name. The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord: all they that observe them, have good understanding: his praise endureth forever.

Praise ye the Lord. Blessed is the man, that feareth the Lord, and delighteth greatly in his commandments. His seed shall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the righteous shall be blessed. Riches and treasures shall be in his house, and his righteousness endureth forever. Unto the righteous ariseth light in darkness: he is merciful & full of compassion & righteous. A good man is merciful and lendeth, and will measure his affairs by judgement. Surely he shall never be moved: but the righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance. He will not be afraid of evil tidings: for his heart is fixed, and believeth in the Lord. His heart is stablished: therefore he will not fear, until he see his desire upon his enemies. He hath distributed and given to ye poor: his righteousness remaineth forever: his horn shall be exalted with glory. The wicked shall see it and be angry: he shall gnash with his teeth, and consume away: the desire of the wicked shall perish.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise, O ye servants of the Lord, praise the Name of the Lord. Blessed be the Name of the Lord from henceforth and forever. The Lord's Name is praised from the rising of ye sun, unto ye going down of the same. The Lord is high above all nations, and his glory above the heavens. Who is like unto the Lord our God, that hath his dwelling on high! Who abaseth himself to behold things in the heaven and in the earth! He raiseth the needy out of the dust, and lifteth up the poor out of the dung, that he may set him with the princes, even with the princes of his people. He maketh the barren woman to dwell with a family, and a joyful mother of children. Praise ye the Lord.

When Israel went out of Egypt, and the house of Jaakob from the barbarous people, Judah was his sanctification, and Israel his dominion. The Sea saw it and fled: Jordan was turned back. The mountains leaped like rams, and the hills as lambs. What ailed thee, O Sea, that thou fleddest? O Jordan, why wast thou turned back? Ye mountains, why leaped ye like rams, and ye hills as lambs? The earth trembled at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jaakob, which turneth the rock into waterpools, and the flint into a fountain of water.

Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy Name give the glory, for thy loving mercy and for thy truths sake. Wherefore shall the heathen say, Where is now their God? But our God is in heaven: he doth what so ever he will. Their idols are silver and gold, even the work of men's hands. They have a mouth and speak not: they have eyes and see not. They have ears and hear not: they have noses and smell not. They have hands and touch not: they have feet and walk not: neither make they a sound with their throat. They that make them are like unto them: so are all that trust in them. O Israel, trust thou in the Lord: for he is their help and their shield. O house of Aaron, trust ye in the Lord: for he is their help and their shield. Ye that fear the Lord, trust in the Lord: for he is their helper and their shield. The Lord hath been mindful of us: he will bless, he will bless the house of Israel, he will bless the house of Aaron. He will bless them that fear the Lord, both small and great. The Lord will increase his graces toward you, even toward you and toward your children. Ye are blessed of the Lord, which made the heaven and the earth. The heavens, even the heavens are the Lord's: but he hath given the earth to the sons of men. The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into the place of silence. But we will praise the Lord from henceforth and forever. Praise ye the Lord.

I love the Lord, because he hath heard my voice and my prayers. For he hath inclined his ear unto me, when I did call upon him in my days. When the snares of death compassed me, and the griefs of the grave caught me: when I found trouble and sorrow. Then I called upon the Name of the Lord, saying, I beseech thee, O Lord, deliver my soul. The Lord is merciful and righteous, and our God is full of compassion. The Lord preserveth the simple: I was in misery and he saved me. Return unto thy rest, O my soul: for the Lord hath been beneficial unto thee, because thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling. I shall walk before the Lord in the land of the living. I believed, therefore did I speak: for I was sore troubled. I said in my fear, All men are liars. What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me? I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the Name of the Lord. I will pay my vows unto the Lord, even now in the presence of all his people. Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his Saints. Behold, Lord: for I am thy servant, I am thy servant, and the son of thine handmaid: thou hast broken my bonds. I will offer to thee a sacrifice of praise, and will call upon the Name of the Lord. I will pay my vows unto the Lord, even now in the presence of all his people, in the courts of ye Lords house, even in the midst of thee, O Jerusalem. Praise ye the Lord.

All nations, praise ye the Lord: all ye people, praise him. For his loving kindness is great toward us, and the truth of the Lord endureth forever. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth forever. Let Israel now say, That his mercy endureth forever. Let the house of Aaron now say, That his mercy endureth forever. Let them, that fear the Lord, now say, That his mercy endureth forever. I called upon the Lord in trouble, & the Lord heard me, and set me at large. The Lord is with me: therefore I will not fear what man can do unto me. The Lord is with me among them that help me: therefore shall I see my desire upon mine enemies. It is better to trust in the Lord, then to have confidence in man. It is better to trust in the Lord, then to have confidence in princes. All nations have compassed me: but in the Name of the Lord shall I destroy them. They have compassed me, yea, they have compassed me: but in the Name of the Lord I shall destroy them. They came about me like bees, but they were quenched as a fire of thorns: for in the Name of the Lord I shall destroy them. Thou hast thrust sore at me, that I might fall: but the Lord hath holpen me. The Lord is my strength and song: for he hath been my deliverance. The voice of joy and deliverance shall be in the tabernacles of the righteous, saying, The right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly. The right hand of the Lord is exalted: the right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly. I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord. The Lord hath chastened me sore, but he hath not delivered me to death. Open ye unto me the gates of righteousness, that I may go into them, & praise the Lord. This is the gate of the Lord: the righteous shall enter into it. I will praise thee: for thou hast heard me, and hast been my deliverance. The stone, which the builders refused, is the head of the corner. This was the Lord's doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes. This is the day, which the Lord hath made: let us rejoice and be glad in it. O Lord, I pray thee, save now: O Lord, I praie thee now give prosperity. Blessed be he, that cometh in the Name of the Lord: we have blessed you out of the house of the Lord. The Lord is mighty, and hath given us light:

bind the sacrifice with cords unto the horns of the altar. Thou art my God, and I will praise thee, even my God: therefore I will exalt thee. Praise ye the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth forever.

Aleph.

Blessed are those that are upright in their way, and walk in the Law of the Lord. Blessed are they that keep his testimonies, and seek him with their whole heart. Surely they work none iniquity, but walk in his ways. Thou hast commanded to keep thy precepts diligently. Oh that my ways were directed to keep thy statutes! Then should I not be confounded, when I have respect unto all thy commandments. I will praise thee with an upright heart, when I shall learn the judgements of thy righteousness. I will keep thy statutes: forsake me not overlong.

Beth.

Wherewith shall a young man redress his way? In taking heed thereto according to thy word. With my whole heart have I sought thee: let me not wander from thy commandments. I have hid thy promises in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee. Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes. With my lips have I declared all the judgements of thy mouth. I have had as great delight in the way of thy testimonies, as in all riches. I will meditate in thy precepts, and consider thy ways. I will delight in thy statutes, and I will not forget thy word.

Gimel.

Be beneficial unto thy servant, that I may live and keep thy word. Open mine eyes, that I may see the wonders of thy Law. I am a stranger upon earth: hide not thy commandments from me. Mine heart breaketh for the desire to thy judgements always. Thou hast destroyed the proud: cursed are they that do err from thy commandments. Remove from me shame and contempt: for I have kept thy testimonies. Princes also did sit, and speak against me: but thy servant did meditate in thy statutes. Also thy testimonies are my delight, and my counselors.

Daleth.

My soul cleaveth to the dust: quicken me according to thy word. I have declared my ways, & thou heardest me: teach me thy statutes. Make me to understand ye way of thy precepts, & I will meditate in thy wondrous works. My soul melteth for heaviness: raise me up according unto thy word. Take from me the way of lying, and grant me graciously thy Law. I have chosen the way of truth, and thy judgements have I laid before me. I have cleaved to thy testimonies, O Lord: confound me not. I will run the way of thy commandments, when thou shalt enlarge mine heart.

He.

Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes, and I will keep it unto the end. Give me understanding, and I will keep thy Law: yea, I will keep it with my whole heart. Direct me in the path of thy commandments: for therein is my delight. Incline mine heart unto thy testimonies, and not to covetousness. Turn away mine eyes from regarding vanity, and quicken me in thy way. Stablish thy promise to thy servant, because he feareth thee. Take away my rebuke that I fear: for thy judgements are good. Behold, I desire thy commandments: quicken me in thy righteousness.

Vav.

And let thy loving kindness come unto me, O Lord, and thy salvation according to thy promise. So shall I make answer unto my blasphemers: for I trust in thy word. And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for I wait for thy judgements. So shall I always keep thy Law forever and ever. And I will walk at liberty: for I seek thy precepts. I will speak also of thy testimonies before Kings, and will not be ashamed. And my delight shall be in thy commandments, which I have loved. Mine hands also will I lift up unto thy commandments, which I have loved, and I will meditate in thy statutes.

Zain.

Remember the promise made to thy servant, wherein thou hast caused me to trust. It is my comfort in my trouble: for thy promises hath quickened me. The proud have had me exceedingly in derision: yet have I not declined from thy Law. I remembered thy judgements of old, O Lord, and have been comforted. Fear is come upon me for the wicked, that forsake thy Law. Thy statutes have been my songs in the house of my pilgrimage. I have remembered thy Name, O Lord, in the night, and have kept thy Law. This I had because I kept thy precepts.

Cheth.

O Lord, that art my portion, I have determined to keep thy words. I made my supplication in thy presence with my whole heart: be merciful unto me according to thy promises. I have considered my ways, and turned my feet into thy testimonies. I made haste and delayed not to keep thy commandments. The bands of the wicked have robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy Law. At midnight will I rise to give thanks unto thee, because of thy righteous judgements. I am companion of all them that fear thee, and keep thy precepts. The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercy: teach me thy statutes.

Teth.

O Lord, thou hast dealt graciously with thy servant according unto thy word. Teach me good judgement & knowledge: for I have believed thy commandments. Before I was afflicted, I went astray: but now I keep thy word. Thou art good and gracious: teach me thy statutes. The proud have imagined a lie against me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart. Their heart is fat as grease: but my delight is in thy Law. It is good for me that I have been afflicted, that I may learn thy statutes. The Law of thy mouth is better unto me, then thousands of gold and silver.

Jod.

Thine hands have made me and fashioned me: give me understanding therefore, that I may learn thy commandments. So they that fear thee, seeing me shall rejoice, because I have trusted in thy word. I know, O Lord, that thy judgements are right, and that thou hast afflicted me justly. I pray thee that thy mercy may comfort me according to thy promises unto thy servant. Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may live: for thy Law is my delight. Let the proud be ashamed: for they have dealt wickedly and falsely with me: but I meditate in thy precepts. Let such as fear thee turn unto me, and they that know thy testimonies. Let mine heart be upright in thy statutes, that I be not ashamed.

Caph.

My soul fainteth for thy salvation: yet I wait for thy word. Mine eyes fail for thy promises, saying, when wilt thou comfort me? For I am like a bottle in the smoke: yet do I not forget thy statutes. How many are the days of thy servant? When wilt thou execute judgement on them that persecute me? The proud have digged pits for me, which is not after thy Law. All thy commandments are true: they persecute me falsely: help me. They had almost consumed me upon the earth: but I forsook not thy precepts. Quicken me according to thy loving kindness: so shall I keep the testimony of thy mouth.

Lamed.

O Lord, thy word endureth forever in heaven. Thy truth is from generation to generation: thou hast laid the foundation of the earth, and it abideth. They continue even to this day by thine ordinances: for all are thy servants. Except thy Law had been my delight, I should now have perished in mine affliction. I will never forget thy precepts: for by them thou hast quickened me. I am thine, save me: for I have sought thy precepts. The wicked have waited for me to destroy me: but I will consider thy testimonies. I have seen an end of all perfection: but thy commandment is exceeding large.

Mem.

Oh how love I thy Law! it is my meditation continually. By thy commandments thou hast made me wiser then mine enemies: for they are ever with me. I have had more understanding then all my teachers: for thy testimonies are my meditation. I understood more then the ancient, because I kept thy precepts. I have refrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy word. I have not declined from thy judgements: for thou didst teach me. How sweet are thy promises unto my mouth! yea, more then honey unto my mouth. By thy precepts I have gotten understanding: therefore I hate all the ways of falsehood.

Nun.

Thy word is a lantern unto my feet, and a light unto my path. I have sworn and will perform it, that I will keep thy righteous judgements. I am very sore afflicted: O Lord, quicken me according to thy word. O Lord, I beseech thee accept the free offerings of my mouth, and teach me thy judgements. My soul is continually in mine hand: yet do I not forget thy Law. The wicked have laid a snare for me: but I swerved not from thy precepts. Thy testimonies have I taken as an heritage forever: for they are the joy of mine heart. I have applied mine heart to fulfill thy statutes always, even unto the end.

Samech.

I hate vain inventions: but thy Law do I love. Thou art my refuge and shield, and I trust in thy word. Away from me, ye wicked: for I will keep the commandments of my God. Stablish me according to thy promises, that I may live, and disappoint me not of mine hope. Stay thou me, and I shall be safe, and I will delight continually in thy statutes. Thou hast trodden down all them that depart from thy statutes: for their deceit is vain. Thou hast taken away all ye wicked of the earth like dross: therefore I love thy testimonies. My flesh trembleth for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgements.

Ain.

I have executed judgement and justice: leave me not to mine oppressours. Answer for thy servant in that, which is good, and let not the proud oppress me. Mine eyes have failed in waiting for thy salvation, and for thy just promises. Deal with thy servant according to thy mercy, and teach me thy statutes. I am thy servant: grant me therefore understanding, that I may know thy testimonies. It is time for thee Lord to work: for they have destroyed thy Law. Therefore love I thy commandments above gold, yea, above most fine gold. Therefore I esteem all thy precepts most just, and hate all false ways.

Pe.

Thy testimonies are wonderful: therefore doth my soul keep them. The entrance into thy words sheweth light, and giveth understanding to the simple. I opened my mouth and panted, because I loved thy commandments. Look upon me and be merciful unto me, as thou vsest to do unto those that love thy Name. Direct my steppes in thy word, and let none iniquity have dominion over me. Deliver me from the oppression of men, and I will keep thy precepts. Shew the light of thy countenance upon thy servant, and teach me thy statutes. Mine eyes gush out with rivers of water, because they keep not thy Law.

Tsaddi.

Righteous art thou, O Lord, and just are thy judgements. Thou hast commanded justice by thy testimonies and truth especially. My zeal hath even consumed me, because mine enemies have forgotten thy words. Thy word is proved most pure, and thy servant loveth it. I am small and despised: yet do I not forget thy precepts. Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and thy Law is truth. Trouble and anguish are come upon me: yet are thy commandments my delight. The righteousness of thy testimonies is everlasting: grant me understanding, and I shall live.

Koph.

I have cried with my whole heart: hear me, O Lord, and I will keep thy statutes. I called upon thee: save me, and I will keep thy testimonies. I prevented the morning light, and cried: for I waited on thy word. Mine eyes prevent the night watches to meditate in thy word. Hear my voice according to thy loving kindness: O Lord, quicken me according to thy judgement. They draw near, that follow after malice, and are far from thy Law. Thou art near, O Lord: for all thy commandments are true. I have known long since by thy testimonies, that thou hast established them forever.

Resh.

Behold mine affliction, and deliver me: for I have not forgotten thy Law. Plead my cause, and deliver me: quicken me according unto thy word. Salvation is far from the wicked, because they seek not thy statutes. Great are thy tender mercies, O Lord: quicken me according to thy judgements. My persecutors and mine oppressours are many: yet do I not swerve from thy testimonies. I saw the transgressours and was grieved, because they kept not thy word. Consider, O Lord, how I love thy precepts: quicken me according to thy loving kindness. The beginning of thy word is truth, and all the judgements of thy righteousness endure forever.

Schin.

Princes have persecuted me without cause, but mine heart stood in awe of thy words. I rejoice at thy word, as one that findeth a great spoil. I hate falsehood and abhor it, but thy Law do I love. Seven times a day do I praise thee, because of thy righteous judgements. They that love thy Law, shall have great prosperity, and they shall have none hurt. Lord, I have trusted in thy salvation, and have done thy commandments. My soul hath kept thy testimonies: for I love them exceedingly. I have kept thy precepts and thy testimonies: for all my ways are before thee.

Tav.

Let my complaint come before thee, O Lord, and give me understanding, according unto thy word. Let my supplication come before thee, and deliver me according to thy promises. My lips shall speak praise, when thou hast taught me thy statutes. My tongue shall entreat of thy word: for all thy commandments are righteous. Let thine hand help me: for I have chosen thy precepts. I have longed for thy salvation, O Lord, and thy Law is my delight. Let my soul live, and it shall praise thee, and thy judgements shall help me. I have gone astray like a lost sheep: seek thy servant, for I do not forget thy commandments.

A song of degrees.

I called unto the Lord in my trouble, and he heard me. Deliver my soul, O Lord, from lying lips, and from a deceitful tongue. What doth thy deceitful tongue bring unto thee? or what doth it avail thee? It is as the sharp arrows of a mighty man, and as the coals of juniper. Woe is to me that I remain in Meschech, and dwell in the tents of Kedar. My soul hath too long dwelt with him that hateth peace. I seek peace, and when I speak thereof, they are bent to war.

A song of degrees.

I will lift mine eyes unto the mountains, from whence mine help shall come. Mine help cometh from the Lord, which hath made the heaven and the earth. He will not suffer thy foot to slip: for he that keepeth thee, will not slumber. Behold, he that keepeth Israel, will neither slumber nor sleep. The Lord is thy keeper: the Lord is thy shadow at thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night. The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall keep thy soul. The Lord shall preserve thy going out, and thy coming in from henceforth & forever.

A song of degrees, or Psalm of David.

I rejoiced, when they said to me, We will go into the house of the Lord. Our feet shall stand in thy gates, O Jerusalem. Jerusalem is builded as a city, that is compact together in it self: Whereunto the Tribes, even the Tribes of the Lord go up according to the testimony to Israel, to praise the Name of the Lord. For there are thrones set for judgement, even the thrones of the house of David. Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: let them prosper that love thee. Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces. For my brethren and neighbours sakes I will wish thee now prosperity. Because of the House of the Lord our God, I will procure thy wealth.

A song of degrees.

I lift up mine eyes to thee, that dwellest in the heavens. Behold, as the eyes of servants look unto the hand of their masters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her mistress: so our eyes wait upon the Lord our God until he have mercy upon us. Have mercy upon us, O Lord, have mercy upon us: for we have suffered too much contempt.

Our soul is filled too full of ye mocking of the wealthy, & of the despitefulness of the proud.

A song of degrees, or Psalm of David.

If the Lord had not been on our side, (may Israel now say) If the Lord had not been on our side, when men rose up against us, they had then swallowed us up quick, when their wrath was kindled against us. Then the waters had drowned us, and the stream had gone over our soul: Then had the swelling waters gone over our soul. Praised be the Lord, which hath not given us as a pray unto their teeth. Our soul is escaped, even as a bird out of the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are delivered. Our help is in the Name of the Lord, which hath made heaven and earth.

A song of degrees.

They that trust in the Lord, shall be as mount Zion, which can not be remooued, but remaineth forever. As the mountains are about Jerusalem: so is the Lord about his people from henceforth and forever. For the rod of the wicked shall not rest on the lot of the righteous, lest the righteous put forth their hand unto wickedness. Do well, O Lord, unto those that be good and true in their hearts. But these that turn aside by their crooked ways, them shall the Lord lead with the workers of iniquity: but peace shall be upon Israel.

A song of degrees, or Psalm of David.

When ye Lord brought again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that dream. Then was our mouth filled with laughter, and our tongue with joy: then said they among the heathen, The Lord hath done great things for them. The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we rejoyce. O Lord, bring again our captivity, as the rivers in the South. They that sow in tears, shall reap in joy. They went weeping and carried precious seed: but they shall return with joy and bring their sheaves.

A song of degrees, or Psalm of Salomon.

Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it: except the Lord keep the city, the keeper watcheth in vain. It is in vain for you to rise early, and to lie down late, and eat the bread of sorrow: but he will surely give rest to his beloved. Behold, children are the inheritance of the Lord, and the fruit of the womb his reward. As are the arrows in the hand of ye strong man: so are the children of youth. Blessed is the man, that hath his quiver full of them: for they shall not be ashamed, when they speak with their enemies in the gate.

A song of degrees.

Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord and walketh in his ways. When thou eatest the labours of thine hands, thou shalt be blessed, and it shall be well with thee. Thy wife shall be as the fruitful vine on the sides of thine house, and thy children like the olive plants round about thy table. Lo, surely thus shall the man be blessed, that feareth the Lord. The Lord out of Zion shall bless thee, and thou shalt see the wealth of Jerusalem all the days of thy life. Yea, thou shalt see thy children's children, and peace upon Israel.

A song of degrees.

They have often times afflicted me from my youth (may Israel now say) they have often times afflicted me from my youth: but they could not prevail against me. The plowers plowed upon my back, and made long furrows. But the righteous Lord hath cut the cords of the wicked. They that hate Zion, shall be all ashamed and turned backward. They shall be as the grass on the house tops, which withereth afore it cometh forth. Whereof the mower filleth not his hand, neither the glainer his lap: Neither they, which go by, say, The blessing of the Lord be upon you, or, We bless you in the Name of the Lord.

A song of degrees.

Out of the deep places have I called unto thee, O Lord. Lord, hear my voice: let thine ears attend to the voice of my prayers. If thou, O Lord, straightly markest iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand? But mercy is with thee, that thou mayest be feared. I have waited on the Lord: my soul hath waited, and I have trusted in his word. My soul waiteth on the Lord more then the morning watch watcheth for the morning. Let Israel wait on the Lord: for with the Lord is mercy, and with him is great redemption. And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

A song of degrees or Psalm of David.

Lord, mine heart is not haughty, neither are mine eyes lofty, neither have I walked in great matters and hid from me. Surely I have behaved myself, like one weened from his mother, and kept silence: I am in myself as one that is weened. Let Israel wait on the Lord from henceforth and forever.

A song of degrees.

Lord, remember David with all his affliction. Who sware unto the Lord, and vowed unto the mighty God of Jaakob, saying, I will not enter into the tabernacle of mine house, nor come upon my pallet or bed, nor suffer mine eyes to sleep, nor mine eye lids to slumber, until I find out a place for the Lord, an habitation for the mighty God of Jaakob. Lo, we heard of it in Ephrathah, and found it in the fields of the forest. We will enter into his Tabernacles, and worship before his footstool. Arise, O Lord, to come into thy rest, thou, and the Ark of thy strength. Let thy Priests be clothed with righteousness, and let thy Saints rejoice. For thy servant David's sake refuse not the face of thine Anointed. The Lord hath sworn in truth unto David, and he will not shrink from it, saying, Of the fruit of thy body will I set upon thy throne. If thy sons keep my covenant, and my testimonies, that I shall teach them, their sons also shall sit upon thy throne forever. For the Lord hath chosen Zion, and loved to dwell in it, saying, This is my rest forever: here will I dwell, for I have a delight therein. I will surely bless her vitals, and will satisfy her poor with bread, and will clothe her Priests with salvation, and her Saints shall shout for joy. There will I make the horn of David to bud: for I have ordained a light for mine Anointed. His enemies will I clothe with shame, but on him his crown shall flourish.

A song of degrees or Psalm of David.

Behold, how good and how comely a thing it is, brethren to dwell even together. It is like to the precious ointment upon the head, that runneth down upon the beard, even unto Aaron's beard, which went down on the border of his garments: And as the dew of Hermon, which falleth upon the mountains of Zion: for there the Lord appointed the blessing and life forever.

A song of degrees.

Behold, praise ye the Lord, all ye servants of the Lord, ye that by night stand in the house of the Lord. Lift up your hands to the Sanctuary, and praise the Lord. The Lord, that hath made heaven and earth, bless thee out of Zion.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise the Name of the Lord: ye servants of the Lord, praise him. Ye that stand in the House of the Lord, and in the courts of the House of our God, praise ye the Lord: for the Lord is good: sing praises unto his Name: for it is a comely thing. For the Lord hath chosen Jaakob to himself, and Israel for his chief treasure. For I know that the Lord is great, and that our Lord is above all gods. Whatsoever pleased the Lord, that did he in heaven and in earth, in the sea, and in all the depths. He bringeth up the clouds from the ends of the earth, & maketh the lightnings with ye rain: he draweth forth the wind out of his treasures. He smote the first borne of Egypt both of man and beast. He hath sent tokens and wonders into the midst of thee, O Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his servants. He smote many nations, and slew mighty Kings: As Sihon King of the Amorites, and Og King of Bashan, & all the kingdoms of Canaan: And gave their land for an inheritance, even an inheritance unto Israel his people. Thy Name, O Lord, endureth forever: O Lord, thy remembrance is from generation to generation. For the Lord will judge his people, and be pacified towards his servants. The idols of the heathen are silver and gold, even the work of men's hands. They have a mouth, and speak not: they have eyes and see not. They have ears and hear not, neither is there any breath in their mouth. They that make them, are like unto them: so are all that trust in them. Praise the Lord, ye house of Israel: praise the Lord, ye house of Aaron. Praise the Lord, ye house of Levi: ye that fear the Lord, praise the Lord. Praised be the Lord out of Zion, which dwelleth in Jerusalem. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth forever. Praise ye the God of gods: for his mercy endureth forever. Praise ye the Lord of lords: for his mercy endureth forever: Which only doth great wonders: for his mercy endureth forever: Which by his wisdom made the heavens: for his mercy endureth forever: Which hath stretched out the earth upon the waters: for his mercy endureth forever: Which made great lights: for his mercy endureth forever: As the sun to rule the day: for his mercy endureth forever: The moon and the stars to govern the night: for his mercy endureth forever: Which smote Egypt with their first borne, (for his mercy endureth forever) and brought out Israel from among them (for his mercy endureth forever) with a mighty hand and stretched out arm: for his mercy endureth forever: Which divided the red Sea in two parts: for his mercy endureth forever: And made Israel to pass through the midst of it: for his mercy endureth forever: And overthrew Pharaoh and his host in the red Sea: for his mercy endureth forever: Which led his people through the wilderness: for his mercy endureth forever: Which smote great Kings: for his mercy endureth forever: And slew mighty Kings: for his mercy endureth forever: As Sihon King of the Amorites: for his mercy endureth forever: And Og the King of Bashan: for his mercy endureth forever: And gave their land for an heritage: for his mercy endureth forever: Even an heritage unto Israel his servant: for his mercy endureth forever: Which remembered us in our base estate: for his mercy endureth forever: And hath rescued us from our oppressours:

for his mercy endureth forever: Which giveth food to all flesh: for his mercy endureth forever. Praise ye the God of heaven: for his mercy endureth forever.

By the rivers of Babel we sate, and there we wept, when we remembered Zion. We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midst thereof. Then they that led us captives, required of us songs and mirth, when we had hanged up our harps, saying, Sing us one of the songs of Zion. How shall we sing, said we, a song of the Lord in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget to play. If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth: yea, if I prefer not Jerusalem to my chief joy. Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem, which said, Rase it, rase it to the foundation thereof. O daughter of Babel, worthy to be destroyed, blessed shall he be that rewardeth thee, as thou hast served us. Blessed shall he be that taketh and dasheth thy children against the stones.

A Psalm of David.

I will praise thee with my whole heart: even before the gods will I praise thee. I will worship toward thine holy Temple and praise thy Name, because of thy loving kindness and for thy truth: for thou hast magnified thy Name above all things by thy word. When I called, then thou heardest me, and hast increased strength in my soul. All the Kings of the earth shall praise thee, O Lord: for they have heard the words of thy mouth. And they shall sing of the ways of the Lord, because the glory of the Lord is great. For the Lord is high: yet he beholdeth the lowly, but the proud he knoweth afar off. Though I walk in the midst of trouble, yet wilt thou revive me: thou wilt stretch forth thine hand upon the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me. The Lord will perform his work toward me: O Lord, thy mercy endureth forever: forsake not the works of thine hands.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

O Lord, thou hast tried me and known me. Thou knowest my sitting and my rising: thou understandest my thought afar off. Thou compassest my paths, and my lying down, and art accustomed to all my ways. For there is not a word in my tongue, but lo, thou knowest it wholly, O Lord. Thou holdest me straight behind and before, and layest thine hand upon me. Thy knowledge is too wonderful for me: it is so high that I cannot attain unto it. Whither shall I go from thy Spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend into heaven, thou art there: if I lie down in hell, thou art there. Let me take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea: Yet thither shall thine hand lead me, and thy right hand hold me. If I say, Yet the darkness shall hide me, even the night shall be light about me. Yea, the darkness hideth not from thee: but the night shineth as the day: the darkness and light are both alike. For thou hast possessed my reigns: thou hast covered me in my mothers womb. I will praise thee, for I am fearfully and wondrously made: marvelous are thy works, and my soul knoweth it well. My bones are not hid from thee, though I was made in a secret place, and fashioned beneath in the earth. Thine eyes did see me, when I was without form: for in thy book were all things written, which in continuance were fashioned, when there was none of them before. How dear therefore are thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is ye sum of them! If I should count them, they are more then the sand: when I wake, I am still with thee. Oh that thou wouldest slay, O God, the wicked and bloody men, to whom I say, Depart ye from me: Which speak wickedly of thee, and being thine enemies are lifted up in vain. Do not I hate them, O Lord, that hate thee? and do not I earnestly contend with those that rise up against thee? I hate them with an unfained hatred, as they were mine utter enemies. Try me, O God, and know mine heart: prove me and know my thoughts, and consider if there be any way of wickedness in me, and lead me in the way forever.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

Deliver me, O Lord, from the evil man: preserve me from the cruel man: Which imagine evil things in their heart, and make war continually. They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent: adders poison is under their lips. Selah. Keep me, O Lord, from the hands of the wicked: preserve me from the cruel man, which purposeth to cause my steppes to slide. The proud have laid a snare for me, and spread a net with cords in my pathway, and set gins for me. Selah. Therefore I said unto the Lord, Thou art my God: hear, O Lord, the voice of my prayers. O Lord God the strength of my salvation, thou hast covered mine head in the day of battle. Let not the wicked have his desire, O Lord: perform not his wicked thought, lest they be proud. Selah. As for the chief of them, that compass me about, let the mischief of their own lips come upon them. Let coals fall upon them: let him cast them into the fire, & into the deep pits, that they rise not. For the backbiter shall not be established upon the earth: evil shall hunt the cruel man to destruction. I know that the Lord will avenge the afflicted, and judge the poor. Surely the righteous shall praise thy Name, and the just shall dwell in thy presence.

A Psalm of David.

O Lord, I call upon thee: haste thee unto me: hear my voice, when I cry unto thee. Let my prayer be directed in thy sight as incense, and the lifting up of mine hands as an evening sacrifice. Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth, and keep the door of my lips. Incline not mine heart to evil, that I should commit wicked works with men that work iniquity: and let me not eat of their delicacies. Let the righteous smite me: for that is a benefit: and let him reprove me, and it shall be a precious oil, that shall not break mine head: for within a while I shall even pray in their miseries. When their judges shall be cast down in stony places, they shall hear my words, for they are sweet. Our bones lie scattered at the graves mouth, as he that heweth wood or diggeth in the earth. But mine eyes look unto thee, O Lord God: in thee is my trust: leave not my soul destitute. Keep me from the snare, which they have laid for me, and from the gins of the workers of iniquity. Let the wicked fall into his nets together, whiles I escape.

A Psalm of David, to give instruction, and a prayer, when he was in the cave.

I cried unto the Lord with my voice: with my voice I prayed unto the Lord. I poured out my meditation before him, and declared mine affliction in his presence. Though my spirit was in perplexity in me, yet thou knewest my path: in the way wherein I walked, have they privily laid a snare for me. I looked upon my right hand, and beheld, but there was none that would know me: all refuge failed me, and none cared for my soul. Then cried I unto thee, O Lord, and said, thou art mine hope, and my portion in the land of the living. Hearken unto my cry, for I am brought very low: deliver me from my persecutors, for they are too strong for me. Bring my soul out of prison, that I may praise thy Name: then shall the righteous come about me, when thou art beneficial unto me.

A Psalm of David.

Hear my prayer, O Lord, and hearken unto my supplication: answer me in thy truth and in thy righteousness. (And enter not into judgement with thy servant: for in thy sight shall none that liveth, be justified) For the enemy hath persecuted my soul: he hath smitten my life down to the earth: he hath laid me in the darkness, as they that have been dead long ago: And my spirit was in perplexity in me, and mine heart within me was amazed. Yet do I remember the time past: I meditate in all thy works, yea, I do meditate in the works of thine hands. I stretch forth mine hands unto thee: my soul desireth after thee, as the thirsty land. Selah. Hear me speedily, O Lord, for my spirit faileth: hide not thy face from me, else I shall be like unto them that go down into the pit. Let me hear thy loving kindness in the morning, for in thee is my trust: shew me the way, that I should walk in, for I lift up my soul unto thee. Deliver me, O Lord, from mine enemies:

for I hid me with thee. Teach me to do thy will, for thou art my God: let thy good Spirit lead me unto the land of righteousness. Quicken me, O Lord, for thy Names sake, and for thy righteousness bring my soul out of trouble. And for thy mercy slay mine enemies, and destroy all them that oppress my soul: for I am thy servant.

A Psalm of David.

Blessed be the Lord my strength, which teacheth mine hands to fight, and my fingers to battle. He is my goodness and my fortress, my tower and my deliverer, my shield, and in him I trust, which subdueth my people under me. Lord, what is man that thou regardest him! or the son of man that thou thinkest upon him! Man is like to vanity: his days are like a shadow, that vanisheth. Bow thine heavens, O Lord, and come down: touch the mountains & they shall smoke. Cast forth the lightning & scatter them: shoot out thine arrows, and consume them. Send thine hand from above: deliver me, and take me out of the great waters, and from the hand of strangers, whose mouth talketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood. I will sing a new song unto thee, O God, and sing unto thee upon a viole, and an instrument of ten strings. It is he that giveth deliverance unto Kings, and rescueth David his servant from the hurtful sword. Rescue me, and deliver me from the hand of strangers, whose mouth talketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood: That our sons may be as the plantes growing up in their youth, and our daughters as the corner stones, graven after the similitude of a palace: That our corners may be full, and abounding with divers sorts, and that our sheep may bring forth thousands and ten thousand in our streets: That our oxen may be strong to labour: that there be none invasion, nor going out, nor no crying in our streets. Blessed are the people, that be so, yea, blessed are the people, whose God is the Lord.

A Psalm of David of praise.

O my God and King, I will extol thee, and will bless thy Name forever and ever. I will bless thee daily, and praise thy Name forever and ever. Great is the Lord, and most worthy to be praised, and his greatness is incomprehensible. Generation shall praise thy works unto generation, and declare thy power. I will meditate of the beauty of thy glorious majesty, and thy wonderful works, and they shall speak of the power of thy fearful acts, and I will declare thy greatness. They shall break out into the mention of thy great goodness, and shall sing aloud of thy righteousness. The Lord is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great mercy. The Lord is good to all, and his mercies are over all his works. All thy works praise thee, O Lord, and thy Saints bless thee. They shew the glory of thy kingdom, and speak of thy power, to cause his power to be known to the sons of men, and the glorious renoume of his kingdom. Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all ages. The Lord upholdeth all that fall, and lifteth up all that are ready to fall. The eyes of all wait upon thee, and thou givest them their meat in due season. Thou openest thine hand, and fillest all things living of thy good pleasure. The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works. The Lord is near unto all that call upon him: yea, to all that call upon him in truth. He will fulfill the desire of them that fear him: he also will hear their cry, and will save them. The Lord preserveth all them that love him: but he will destroy all the wicked. My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord, and all flesh shall bless his holy Name forever and ever.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise thou the Lord, O my soul. I will praise the Lord during my life: as long as I have any being, I will sing unto my God. Put not your trust in princes, nor in the son of man, for there is none help in him. His breath departeth, and he returneth to his earth: then his thoughts perish. Blessed is he, that hath the God of Jaakob for his help, whose hope is in the Lord his God. Which made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keepeth his fidelity forever: Which executeth justice for the oppressed: which giveth bread to the hungry: the Lord loseth the prisoners. The Lord giveth sight to the blind: the Lord raiseth up the crooked: the Lord loveth the righteous. The Lord keepeth the strangers: he relieveth the fatherless & widowe: but he overthroweth the way of the wicked. The Lord shall reign forever: O Zion, thy God endureth from generation to generation. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord, for it is good to sing unto our God: for it is a pleasant thing, and praise is comely. The Lord doth build up Jerusalem, and gather together the dispersed of Israel. He healeth those that are broken in heart, and bindeth up their sores. He counteth the number of the stars, and calleth them all by their names. Great is our Lord, and great is his power: his wisdom is infinite. The Lord relieveth the meek, and abaseth the wicked to the ground. Sing unto the Lord with praise: sing upon the harp unto our God, which covereth the heaven with clouds, and prepareth rain for the earth, and maketh the grass to grow upon the mountains: Which giveth to beasts their food, and to the young ravens that cry. He hath not pleasure in the strength of an horse, neither delighteth he in the legs of man. But the Lord delighteth in them that fear him, and attend upon his mercy. Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem: praise thy God, O Zion. For he hath made the barres of thy gates strong, and hath blessed thy children within thee. He setteth peace in thy borders, and satisfieth thee with the flour of wheat. He sendeth forth his commandment upon earth, and his word runneth very swiftly. He giveth snow like wool, and scattereth the hoar frost like ashes. He casteth forth his ice like morsels: who can abide the cold thereof? He sendeth his word and melteth them: he causeth his wind to blow, and the waters flow. He sheweth his word unto Jaakob, his statutes and his judgements unto Israel. He hath not dealt so with every nation, neither have they known his judgements. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise ye the Lord from the heaven: praise ye him in the high places. Praise ye him, all ye his Angels: praise him, all his army praise ye him, sun and moon: praise ye him all bright stars. Praise ye him, heavens of heavens, and waters, that be above the heavens. Let them praise the Name of the Lord: for he commanded, and they were created. And he hath established them forever and ever: he hath made an ordinance, which shall not pass. Praise ye the Lord from the earth, ye dragons and all depths: Fire and hail, snow and vapours, stormy wind, which execute his word: Mountains and all hills, fruitful trees and all ceders: Beasts and all cattle, creeping things and feathered fowls: Kings of the earth and all people, princes and all iudges of the world: Yong men and maidens, also old men and children: Let them praise the Name of the Lord: for his Name only is to be exalted, and his praise above the earth and the heavens. For he hath exalted the horn of his people, which is a praise for all his Saints, even for the children of Israel, a people that is near unto him. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord. Sing ye unto the Lord a new song: let his praise be heard in the Congregation of Saints. Let Israel rejoyce in him that made him, and let ye children of Zion rejoyce in their King. Let them praise his Name with the flute: let them sing praises unto him with the timbrel and harp. For the Lord hath pleasure in his people: he will make the meek glorious by deliverance. Let ye Saints be joyful with glory: let them sing loud upon their beds. Let the high Acts of God be in their mouth, and a two edged sword in their hands, to execute vengeance upon the heathen, and corrections among the people: To bind their Kings in chains, and their nobles with fetters of iron, that they may execute upon them the judgement that is written: this honour shall be to all his Saints. Praise ye the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise ye God in his Sanctuary: praise ye him in the firmament of his power. Praise ye him in his mighty Acts: praise ye him according to his excellent greatness. Praise ye him in the sound of the trumpet: praise ye him upon the viole and the harp. Praise ye him with timbrel and flute: praise ye him with virginals and organs. Praise ye him with sounding cymbals: praise ye him with high sounding cymbals. Let every thing that hath breath praise the Lord. Praise ye the Lord.

THE PROVERBS OF SALOMON.

The Parables of Salomon the son of David King of Israel, to know wisdom, and instruction, to understand ye words of knowledge, to receive instruction to do wisely, by justice and judgement and equity, to give unto the simple, sharpness of wit, and to the child knowledge and discretion.

A wise man shall hear and increase in learning, and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels, to understand a parable, & the interpretation, the words of ye wise, and their dark sayings.

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction.

My son, hear thy fathers instruction, and forsake not thy mothers teaching. For they shall be a comely ornament unto thine head, and as chains for thy neck.

My son, if sinners do entice thee, consent thou not. If they say, Come with us, we will lay wait for blood, and lie privily for the innocent without a cause: We will swallow them up alive like a grave even whole, as those that go down into the pit: We shall find all precious riches, and fill our houses with spoil: Cast in thy lot among us: we will all have one purse: My son, walk not thou in the way with them: refrain thy foot from their path. For their feet run to evil, & make haste to shed blood.

Certainly as without cause the net is spread before the eyes of all that hath wing: So they lay wait for blood and lie privily for their lives. Such are the ways of every one that is greedy of gain: he would take away the life of the owners thereof.

Wisdom crieth without: she uttereth her voice in the streets. She calleth in the hi street, among the prease in the enterings of the gates, and uttereth her words in the city, saying, O ye foolish, how long will ye love foolishness? and the scornful take their pleasure in scorning, and the fools hate knowledge? (Turn you at my correction: lo, I will pour out my mind unto you, and make you understand my words.) Because I have called, & ye refused: I have stretched out mine hand, & none would regard. But ye have despised all my counsel, and would none of my correction. I will also laugh at your destruction, and mock, when your fear cometh. When your fear cometh like sudden desolation, & your destruction shall come like a whirl wind: when affliction & anguish shall come upon you, then shall they call upon me, but I will not answer: they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me, because they hated knowledge, and did not choose the fear of the Lord. They would none of my counsel, but despised all my correction. Therefore shall they eat of ye fruit of their own way, and be filled with their own devises. For ease slayeth the foolish, and the prosperity of fools destroyeth them. But he that obeyeth me, shall dwell safely, and be quiet from fear of evil.

My son, if thou wilt receive my words, and hide my commandments within thee, and cause thine ears to hearken unto wisdom, and incline thine heart to understanding, (For if thou callest after knowledge, and cryest for understanding: If thou seekest her as silver, & searchest for her as for treasures, then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledge of God. For the Lord giveth wisdom, out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding. He preserveth the state of the righteous: he is a shield to them that walk uprightly, that they may keep the ways of judgement: and he preserveth the way of his Saints) then shalt thou understand righteousness, and judgement, and equity, and every good path. When wisdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge delighteth thy soul, then shall counsel preserve thee, and understanding shall keep thee, and deliver thee from the evil way, and from the man that speaketh froward things, and from them that leave the ways of righteousness to walk in the ways of darkness: Which rejoyce in doing evil, and delight in the frowardness of the wicked, whose ways are crooked and they are lewd in their paths. And it shall deliver thee from the strange woman, even from the stranger, which flattereth with her words. Which forsaketh the guide of her youth, and forgetteth the covenant of her God. Surely her house tendeth to death, and her paths unto the dead. All they that go unto her, return not again, neither take they hold of the ways of life. Therefore walk thou in the way of good men, and keep the ways of the righteous. For the just shall dwell in the land, and the upright men shall remain in it. But the wicked shall be cut off from ye earth, and the transgressours shall be rooted out of it.

My son, forget not thou my Law, but let thine heart keep my commandments. For they shall increase the length of thy days and the years of life, and thy prosperity. Let not mercy and truth forsake thee: bind them on thy neck, and write them upon the table of thine heart. So shalt thou find favour and good understanding in the sight of God and man. Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own wisdom. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy ways. Be not wise in thine own eyes: but fear the Lord, and depart from evil. So health shall be unto thy navel, and marrow unto thy bones. Honour the Lord with thy riches, and with the first fruits of all thine increase. So shall thy barns be filled with abundance, and thy presses shall burst with new wine.

My son, refuse not the chastening of the Lord, neither be grieved with his correction. For the Lord correcteth him, whom he loveth, even as the father doth the child in whom he delighteth. Blessed is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding. For the merchandise thereof is better then the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof is better then gold. It is more precious then pearls: and all things that thou canst desire, are not to be compared unto her. Length of days is in her right hand, and in her left hand riches and glory. Her ways are ways of pleasure, and all her paths prosperity. She is a tree of life to them that lay hold on her, and blessed is he that retaineth her. The Lord by wisdom hath laid the foundation of the earth, and hath stablished the heavens through understanding. By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.

My son, let not these things depart from thine eyes, but observe wisdom, and counsel. So they shall be life to thy soul, and grace unto thy neck. Then shalt thou walk safely by thy way: and thy foot shall not stumble. If thou sleepest, thou shalt not be afraid, and when thou sleepest, thy sleep shall be sweet. Thou shalt not fear for any sudden fear, neither for the destruction of the wicked, when it cometh. For the Lord shall be for thine assurance, and shall preserve thy foot from taking. Withhold not the good from the owners thereof, though there be power in thine hand to do it. Say not unto thy neighbour, Go and come again, and tomorrow will I give thee, if thou now have it. Intend none hurt against thy neighbour, seeing he doth dwell without fear by thee. Strive not with a man causeless, when he hath done thee no harm. Be not envious for the wicked man, neither choose any of his ways. For the froward is abomination unto the Lord: but his secret is with the righteous. The curse of the Lord is in the house of the wicked: but he blesseth the habitation of the righteous. With the scornful he scorneth, but he giveth grace unto the humble. The wise shall inherit glory: but fools dishonour, though they be exalted.

Hear, O ye children, the instruction of a father, and give ear to learn understanding. For I do give you a good doctrine: therefore forsake ye not my law. For I was my father's son, tender and dear in the sight of my mother, when he taught me, and said unto me, Let thine heart hold fast my words: keep my commandments, and thou shalt live. Get wisdom: get understanding: forget not, neither decline from the words of my mouth. Forsake her not, and she shall keep thee: love her and she shall preserve thee. Wisdom is the beginning: get wisdom therefore: and above all thy possession get understanding. Exalt her, and she shall exalt thee: she shall bring thee to honour, if thou embrace her. She shall give a comely ornament unto thine head, yea, she shall give thee a crown of glory.

Hear, my son, & receive my words, and the years of thy life shall be many. I have taught thee in ye way of wisdom, and led thee in the paths of righteousness. When thou goest, thy gate shall not be strait, and when thou runnest, thou shalt not fall. Take hold of instruction, and leave not: keep her, for she is thy life. Enter not into the way of the wicked, and walk not in the way of evil men. Avoid it, and go not by it: turn from it, and pass by. For they can not sleep, except they have done evil, and their sleep departeth except they cause some to fall. For they eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of violence. But the way of the righteous shineth as the light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. The way of the wicked is as the darkness: they know not wherein they shall fall.

My son, hearken unto my words, incline thine ear unto my sayings. Let them not depart from thine eyes, but keep them in the midst of thine heart. For they are life unto those that find them, and health unto all their flesh. Keep thine heart with all diligence: for thereout cometh life. Put away from thee a froward mouth, and put wicked lips far from thee. Let thine eyes behold the right, and let thine eyelids direct thy way before thee. Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be ordered aright. Turn not to the right hand, nor to the left, but remove thy foot from evil.

My son, hearken unto my wisdom, & incline thine ear unto my knowledge. That thou mayest regard counsel, and thy lips observe knowledge. For the lips of a strange woman drop as an honey comb, and her mouth is more soft then oil. But the end of her is bitter as wormwood, and sharp as a two edged sword. Her feet go down to death, and her steps take hold on hell. She weigheth not the way of life: her paths are movable: thou canst not know them. Hear ye me now therefore, O children, and depart not from the words of my mouth. Keep thy way far from her, and come not near the door of her house, lest thou give thine honor unto others, and thy years to the cruel: Lest the stranger should be sealed with thy strength, and thy labours be in the house of a stranger, and thou mourn at thine end, (when thou hast consumed thy flesh and thy body) and say, How have I hated instruction, and mine heart despised correction! And have not obeyed the voice of them that taught me, nor inclined mine ear to them that instructed me! I was almost brought into all evil in ye midst of the Congregation and assembly. Drink the water of thy cistern, and of the rivers out of the midst of thine own well. Let thy fountains flow forth, and the rivers of waters in the streets. But let them be thine, even thine only, and not the strangers with thee. Let thy fountain be blessed, and rejoice with the wife of thy youth. Let her be as the loving hind and pleasant roe: let her breasts satisfy thee at all times, and delight in her love continually. For why shouldest thou delight, my son, in a strange woman, or embrace the bosom of a stranger? For the ways of man are before the eyes of the Lord, and he pondereth all his paths. His own iniquities shall take the wicked himself, and he shall be holden with the cords of his own sin. He shall die for faute of instruction, and shall go astray through his great folly.

My son, if thou be surety for thy neighbour, and hast stricken hands with the stranger, thou art snared with the words of thy mouth: thou art even taken with the words of thine own mouth. Do this now, my son, and deliver thyself: seeing thou art come into the hand of thy neighbour, go, and humble thyself, and solicit thy friends. Give no sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eyelids. Deliver thyself as a doe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler. Go to the pismire, O sluggard: behold her ways, and be wise. For she having no guide, governour, nor ruler, prepareth her meat in the summer, & gathereth her food in harvest. How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep? Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep. Therefore thy poverty cometh as one that travaileth by the way, and thy necessity like an armed man. The unthrifty man and the wicked man walketh with a froward mouth. He maketh a sign with his eyes: he signifieth with his feet: he instructeth with his fingers. Lewd things are in his heart: he imagineth evil at all times, and raiseth up contentions. Therefore shall his destruction come speedily: he shall be destroyed suddenly without recovery. These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, his soul abhorreth seven: The haughty eyes, a lying tongue, and the hands that shed innocent blood, an heart that imagineth wicked enterprises, feet that be swift in running to mischief, a false witness that speaketh lies, and him that raiseth up contentions among brethren.

My son, keep thy fathers commandment, and forsake not thy mother's instruction. Bind them always upon thine heart, and tie them about thy neck. It shall lead thee, when thou walkest: it shall watch for thee, when thou sleepest, and when thou wakest, it shall talk with thee. For the commandment is a lantern, and instruction a light: and corrections for instruction are the way of life, to keep thee from the wicked woman, & from ye flattery of ye tongue of a strange woman. Desire not her beauty in thine heart, neither let her take thee with her eye lids. For because of the whorish woman a man is brought to a morsel of bread, and a woman will hunt for the precious life of a man. Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes not be burnt? Or can a man go upon coals, and his feet not be burnt? So he that goeth in to his neighbours wife, shall not be innocent, whosoever toucheth her. Men do not despise a thief, when he stealeth, to satisfy his soul, because he is hungry. But if he be found, he shall restore seven-fold, or he shall give all the substance of his house. But he that committeth adultery with a woman, he is destitute of understanding: he that doth it, destroyeth his own soul. He shall find a wound and dishonour, and his reproach shall never be put away. For jealousy is the rage of a man: therefore he will not spare in the day of vengeance. He cannot bear the sight of any ransom: neither will he consent, though thou augment the gifts.

My son, keep my words, & hide my commandments with thee. Keep my commandments, and thou shalt live, and mine instruction as the apple of thine eyes. Bind them upon thy fingers, and write them upon the table of thine heart. Say unto wisdom, Thou art my sister: and call understanding thy kinswoman, that they may keep thee from the strange woman, even from the stranger that is smooth in her words.

As I was in the window of mine house, I looked through my window, and I saw among the fools, and considered among the children a young man destitute of understanding, who passed through the street by her corner, and went toward her house, in the twilight in the evening, when the night began to be black and dark. And behold, there met him a woman with an harlots behavior, and subtle in heart. (She is babbling and loud: whose feet can not abide in her house. Now she is without, now in the streets, and lieth in wait at every corner) so she caught him & kissed him and with an impudent face said unto him, I have peace offerings: this day have I payed my vows. Therefore came I forth to meet thee, that I might seek thy face: and I have found thee. I have decked my bed with ornaments, carpets and laces of Egypt. I have perfumed my bed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon. Come, let us take our fill of love until the morning: let us take our pleasure in daliance. For mine husband is not at home: he is gone a journey far off. He hath taken with him a bag of silver, and will come home at the day appointed. Thus with her great craft she caused him to yield, and with her flattering lips she enticed him. And he followed her straight ways, as an ox that goeth to the slaughter, and as a fool to the stocks for correction, till a dart strike through his liver, as a bird hasteth to the snare, not knowing that he is in danger. Hear me now therefore, O children, and hearken to the words of my mouth. Let not thine heart decline to her ways: wander thou not in her paths. For she hath caused many to fall down wounded, & the strong men are all slain by her. Her house is the way unto ye grave, which goeth down to the chambers of death.

Doth not wisdom cry? and understanding utter her voice? She standeth in the top of the high places by the way in the place of the paths. She crieth besides the gates before the city at the entry of the doors, O men, I call unto you, and utter my voice to the children of men. O ye foolish men, understand wisdom, and ye, O fools, be wise in heart. Give ear, for I will speak of excellent things, and the opening of my lips, shall teach things that be right. For my mouth shall speak the truth, and my lips abhor wickedness. All the words of my mouth are righteous: there is no lewdness, nor frowardness in them. They are all plain to him that will understand, and straight to them that would find knowledge. Receive mine instruction, and not silver, and knowledge rather then fine gold. For wisdom is better then precious stones: and all pleasures are not to be compared unto her. I wisdom dwell with prudence, and I find forth knowledge and counsels. The fear of the Lord is to hate evil as pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way: and a mouth that speaketh lewd things, I do hate. I have counsel and wisdom: I am understanding, and I have strength. By me, Kings reign, and princes decree justice. By me princes rule and the nobles, and all the judges of the earth. I love them that love me: and they that seek me early, shall find me. Riches and honour are with me: even durable riches and righteousness. My fruit is better then gold, even then fine gold, and my revenues better then fine silver. I cause to walk in the way of righteousness, and in the midst of the paths of judgement, that I may cause them that love me, to inherit substance, and I will fill their treasures. The Lord hath possessed me in the beginning of his way: I was before his work of old. I was set up from everlasting, from the beginning and before the earth. When there were no depths, was I begotten, when there were no fountains abounding with water. Before the mountains were settled: and before the hills, was I begotten. He had not yet made the earth, nor the open places, nor the height of the dust in the world. When he prepared the heavens, I was there, when he set the compass upon the deep. When he established the clouds above, when he confirmed the fountains of the deep, when he gave his decree to the Sea, that the waters should not pass his commandment: when he appointed the foundations of the earth, then was I with him as a nourisher, and I was daily his delight rejoicing always before him, and took my solace in the compass of his earth: and my delight is with the children of men. Therefore now hearken, O children, unto me: for blessed are they that keep my ways. Hear instruction, and be ye wise, and refuse it not: Blessed is the man that heareth me, watching daily at my gates, & giving attendance at the posts of my doors. For he that findeth me, findeth life, and shall obtain favour of the Lord. But he that sinneth against me, hurteth his own soul: and all that hate me, love death.

Wisdom hath built her house, and hewn out her seven pillars. She hath killed her vitales, drawn her wine, and prepared her table. She hath sent forth her maidens and crieth upon the highest places of the city, saying, Who so is simple, let him come hither, and to him that is destitute of wisdom, she saith, Come, and eat of my meat, and drink of the wine that I have drawn. Forsake your way, ye foolish, and ye shall live: and walk in the way of understanding. He that reproveth a scorner, purchaseth to himself shame: and he that rebuketh the wicked, getteth himself a blot. Rebuke not a scorner, lest he hate thee: but rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee. Give admonition to the wise, and he will be the wiser: teach a righteous man, and he will increase in learning. The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord, and the knowledge of holy things, is understanding. For thy days shall be multiplied by me, and the years of thy life shall be augmented. If thou be wise, thou shalt be wise for thyself, and if thou be a scorner, thou alone shalt suffer. A foolish woman is troublesome: she is ignorant, and knoweth nothing. But she sitteth at the door of her house on a seat in the high places of the city, to call them that pass by the way, that go right on their way, saying, Who so is simple, let him come hither, and to him that is destitute of wisdom, she saith also, stolen waters are sweet, and hid bread is pleasant. But he knoweth not, that ye dead are there, and that her guests are in the depth of hell.

A wise son maketh a glad father: but a foolish son is an heaviness to his mother. The treasures of wickedness profit nothing: but righteousness delivereth from death. The Lord will not famish the soul of the righteous: but he casteth away the substance of the wicked. A slothful hand maketh poor: but the hand of the diligent maketh rich. He that gathereth in summer, is the son of wisdom: but he that sleepeth in harvest, is the son of confusion. Blessings are upon the head of the righteous: but iniquity shall cover the mouth of the wicked. The memorial of the just shall be blessed: but the name of the wicked shall rot. The wise in heart will receive commandments: but the foolish in talk shall be beaten. He that walketh uprightly, walketh boldly: but he that perverteth his ways, shall be known. He that winketh with the eye, worketh sorrow, & he that is foolish in talk, shall be beaten. The mouth of a righteous man is a wellspring of life: but iniquity covereth the mouth of the wicked. Hatred stirreth up contentions: but love covereth all trespasses. In the lips of him that hath understanding wisdom is found, and a rod shall be for the back of him that is destitute of wisdom. Wise men lay up knowledge: but ye mouth of the fool is a present destruction. The rich mans goods are his strong city: but the fear of the needy is their poverty. The labour of the righteous tendeth to life: but the revenues of the wicked to sin. He that regardeth instruction, is in the way of life: but he that refuseth correction, goeth out of the way. He that dissembleth hatred with lying lips, and he that inventeth slander, is a fool. In many words there cannot want iniquity: but he that refraineth his lips, is wise. The tongue of the just man is as fined silver: but the heart of the wicked is little worth. The lips of the righteous do feed many: but fools shall die for want of wisdom. The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he doth add no sorrows with it. It is as a pastime to a fool to do wickedly: but wisdom is understanding to a man. That which the wicked feareth, shall come upon him: but God will grant the desire of the righteous. As the whirlwind passeth, so is the wicked no more: but the righteous is as an everlasting foundation. As vinegar is to the teeth, and as smoke to the eyes, so is the slothful to them that send him. The fear of the Lord increaseth the days: but the years of the wicked shall be diminished. The patient abiding of the righteous shall be gladness: but the hope of the wicked shall perish. The way of the Lord is strength to the upright man: but fear shall be for the workers of iniquity. The righteous shall never be removed: but the wicked shall not dwell in the land. The mouth of the just shall be fruitful in wisdom: but the tongue of the froward shall be cut out. An hypocrite with his mouth hurteth his neighbour: but the righteous shall be delivered by knowledge. In the prosperity of the righteous the city rejoiceth, and when the wicked perish, there is joy. He that turneth away his ear fro hearing the Law, even his prayer shall be abominable.

He that causeth the righteous to go astray by an evil way, shall fall into his own pit, and the upright shall inherit good things.

The rich man is wise in his own conceit: but the poor that hath understanding, can try him.

When righteous men rejoyce, there is great glory: but when the wicked come up, the man is tried.

He that hideth his sins, shall not prosper: but he that confesseth, and forsaketh them, shall have mercy.

Blessed is the man that feareth always: but he that hardeneth his heart, shall fall into evil.

As a roaring lion, and an hungry bear, so is a wicked ruler over the poor people.

A prince destitute of understanding, is also a great oppressour: but he that hateth covetousness, shall prolong his days.

A man that doth violence against the blood of a person, shall flee unto the grave, and they shall not stay him.

He that walketh uprightly, shall be saued: but he that is froward in his ways, shall once fall.

He that tilleth his land, shall be satisfied with bread: but he that followeth the idle, shall be filled with poverty.

A faithful man shall abound in blessings, and he that maketh haste to be rich, shall not be innocent.

To have respect of persons is not good: for that man will transgress for a piece of bread.

A man with a wicked eye hasteth to riches, and knoweth not, that poverty shall come upon him.

He that rebuketh a man, shall find more favour at length, then he that flattereth with his tongue.

He that robbeth his father and mother, and saith, It is no transgression, is the companion of a man that destroyeth.

He that is of a proud heart, stirreth up strife: but he that trusteth in the Lord, shall be fate.

He that trusteth in his own heart, is a fool: but he that walketh in wisdom, shall be delivered.

He that giveth unto the poor, shall not lack: but he that hideth his eyes, shall have many curses.

When the wicked rise up, men hide themselves: but when they perish, ye righteous increase.

-A man that hardeneth his neck when he is rebuked, shall suddenly be destroyed and can not be cured.

When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, the people sigh.

A man that loveth wisdom, rejoiceth his father: but he that feedeth harlots, wasteth his substance.

A King by judgement mainteineth ye country: but a man receiving gifts, destroyeth it.

A man that flattereth his neighbour, spreadeth a net for his steps.

In the transgression of an evil man is his snare: but the righteous doth sing and rejoice.

The righteous knoweth the cause of the poor: but the wicked regardeth not knowledge.

Scornful men bring a city into a snare: but wise men turn away wrath.

If a wise man contend with a foolish man, whether he be angry or laugh, there is no rest.

Bloody men hate him that is upright: but the just have care of his soul.

-A fool poureth out all his mind: but a wise man keepeth it in till afterward.

Of a prince that hearkeneth to lies, all his servants are wicked.

The poor and the usurer meet together, and the Lord lighteneth both their eyes.

A King that judgeth the poor in truth, his throne shall be established forever.

The rod and correction give wisdom: but a child set a liberty, maketh his mother ashamed.

When the wicked are increased, transgression increaseth: but ye righteous shall see their fall.

Correct thy son & he will give thee rest, and will give pleasures to thy soul.

Where there is no vision, the people decay: but he that keepeth the Law, is blessed.

A servant will not be chastised with words: though he understand, yet he will not answer.

Seest thou a man hasty in his matters? there is more hope of a fool, then of him.

He that delicately bringeth up his servant from youth, at length he will be even as his son.

An angry man stirreth up strife, and a furious man aboundeth in transgression.

The pride of a man shall bring him low: but the humble in spirit shall enjoy glory.

He that is partner with a thief, hateth his own soul: he heareth cursing, & declareth it not.

The fear of man bringeth a snare: but he that trusteth in the Lord, shall be exalted.

Many do seek the face of the ruler: but every mans judgement cometh from the Lord.

A wicked man is abomination to the just, and he that is upright in his way, is abomination to the wicked.

The prophecy which ye man spake unto Ithiel, even to Ithiel, and Ucal.

Surely I am more foolish then any man, and have not the understanding of a man in me.

For I have not learned wisdom, nor attained to the knowledge of holy things.

Who hath ascended up to heaven, and descended? Who hath gathered the wind in his fist? Who hath bound the waters in a garment? Who hath established all the ends of the world? What is his name, and what is his sons name, if thou canst tell?

Every word of God is pure: he is a shield to those, that trust in him.

Put nothing unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar.

Two things have I required of thee: deny me them not before I die.

Remove far from me vanity and lies: give me not poverty, nor riches: feed me with food convenient for me, lest I be full, & deny thee, and say, Who is the Lord? or lest I be poor and steal, and take the Name of my God in vain.

Accuse not a servant unto his master, lest he curse thee, when thou hast offended.

There is a generation that curseth their father, and doth not bless their mother.

There is a generation that are pure in their own conceit, and yet are not washed from their filthiness.

There is a generation, whose eyes are haughty, and their eye lids are lifted up.

There is a generation, whose teeth are as swords, and their chaws as knives to eat up the afflicted out of the earth, and the poor from among men.

The horse leach hath two daughters which cry, Give, give. There be three things that will not be satisfied: yea, four that say not, It is enough.

The grave, and the barren womb, the earth that cannot be satisfied with water, and the fire that saith not, It is enough.

The eye that mocketh his father and despiseth the instruction of his mother, let ye ravens of the valley pick it out, and the young eagles eat it.

There be three things hid from me: yea, four that I know not, the way of an eagle in the air, the way of a serpent upon a stone, ye way of a ship in ye midst of the sea, and the way of a man with a maid.

Such is ye way also of an adulterous woman: she eateth and wipeth her mouth, and saith, I have not committed iniquity.

For three things the earth is moved: yea, for four it cannot sustain itself: For a servant when he reigneth, & a fool when he is filled with meat, for the hateful woman, when she is married, & for a handmaid that is heir to her mistress.

These be four small things in the earth, yet they are wise and full of wisdom: The pismires a people not strong, yet prepare they their meat in summer: The conies a people not mighty, yet make their houses in the rock: The grasshopper hath no King, yet go they forth all by bands: The spider taketh hold with her hands, and is in Kings palaces.

There be three things that order well their going: yea, four are comely in going, a lion which is strong among beasts, and turneth not at the sight of any: A lusty grayhound, and a goat, and a King against whom there is no rising up.

If thou hast been foolish in lifting thyself up, and if thou hast thought wickedly, lay thine hand upon thy mouth.

When one churneth milk, he bringeth forth butter: and he that wringeth his nose, causeth blood to come out: so he that forceth wrath, bringeth forth strife.

The words of king Lemuel: The prophecy which his mother taught him.

What my son! and what ye son of my womb! and what, O son of my desires!

Give not thy strength unto women, nor thy ways, which is to destroy Kings.

It is not for Kings, O Lemuel, it is not for Kings to drink wine nor for princes strong drink, lest he drink and forget the decree, and change the judgement of all the children of affliction.

Give ye strong drink unto him that is ready to perish, and wine unto them that have grief of heart.

Let him drink, that he may forget his poverty, and remember his misery no more.

Open thy mouth for the domme in the cause of all the children of destruction.

Open thy mouth: judge righteously, and judge the afflicted, and the poor.

Who shall find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above the pearls.

The heart of her husband trusteth in her, and he shall have no need of spoil.

She will do him good, and not evil all the days of her life.

She seeketh wool and flax, and laboureth cheerfully with her hands.

She is like the ships of merchants: she bringeth her food from afar.

And she riseth, whiles it is yet night: and giveth the portion to her household, and the ordinary to her maids.

She considereth a field, and getteth it: and with the fruit of her hands she planteth a vineyard.

She girdeth her loins with strength, and strengtheneth her arms.

She feeleth that her merchandise is good: her candle is not put out by night.

She putteth her hands to the wherue, and her hands handle the spindle.

-She stretcheth out her hand to the poor, and putteth forth her hands to the needy.

She feareth not the snow for her family: for all her family is clothed with skarlet.

She maketh herself carpets: fine linen and purple is her garment.

Her husband is known in the gates, when he sitteth with the Elders of the land.

-She maketh sheets, and selleth them, and giveth girdles unto the merchant.

Strength and honour is her clothing, and in the latter day she shall rejoice.

She openeth her mouth with wisdom, and the law of grace is in her tongue.

She overseeth the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness.

Her children rise up, and call her blessed: her husband also shall praise her, saying, many daughters have done virtuously: but thou surmountest them all.

Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vanity: but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised.

Give her of the fruit of her hands, and let her own works praise her in the gates.

ECCLESIASTES, OR THE PREACHER

The words of the Preacher, the son of David King in Jerusalem.

Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher: vanity of vanities, all is vanity. What remaineth unto man in all his travail, which he suffereth under ye sun? One generation passeth, and another generation succeedeth: but the earth remaineth for ever. The sun riseth, and ye sun goeth down, and draweth to his place, where he riseth. The wind goeth toward the South, and compasseth toward the North: the wind goeth round about, and returneth by his circuits. All the rivers go into the sea, yet the sea is not full: for the rivers go unto ye place, whence they return, and go. All things are full of labour: man cannot utter it: the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing. What is it that hath been? That that shall be: and what is it that hath been done? That which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun. Is there any thing, whereof one may say, Behold this, it is new? It hath been already in the old time that was before us. There is no memory of the former, neither shall there be a remembrance of the latter that shall be, with them that shall come after.

I the Preacher have been King over Israel in Jerusalem: And I have given mine heart to search and find out wisdom by all things that are done under the heaven: (this sore travail hath GOD given to the sons of men, to humble them thereby) I have considered all the works that are done under the sun, and behold, all is vanity, and vexation of the spirit. That which is crooked, can none make straight: and that which faileth, cannot be numbered. I thought in mine heart, and said, Behold, I am become great, and excel in wisdom all them that have been before me in Jerusalem: and mine heart hath seen much wisdom and knowledge. And I gave mine heart to know wisdom and knowledge, madness and foolishness: I knew also that this is a vexation of the spirit. For in the multitude of wisdom is much grief: and he that increaseth knowledge, increaseth sorrow.

I said in mine heart, Go to now, I will prove thee with joy: therefore take thou pleasure in pleasant things: and behold, this also is vanity. I said of laughter, Thou art mad: and of joy, What is this that thou doest? I sought in mine heart to give myself to wine, and to lead mine heart in wisdom, and to take hold of folly, till I might see where is that goodness of the children of men, which they enjoy under the sun: the whole number of the days of their life. I have made my great works: I have built me houses: I have planted me vineyards. I have made me gardens and orchards, and planted in them trees of all fruit. I have made me cisterns of water, to water therewith the woods that grow with trees. I have gotten servants and maids, and had children borne in the house: also I had great possession of beeves and sheep above all that were before me in Jerusalem. I have gathered unto me also silver and gold, and the chief treasures of Kings & provinces: I have provided me men singers and women singers, and the delights of the sons of men, as a woman taken captive, & women taken captives. And I was great, & increased above all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom remained with me.

And whatsoever mine eyes desired, I withheld it not from them: I withdrew not mine heart from any joy: for mine heart rejoiced in all my labour: & this was my portion of all my travail. Then I looked on all my works that mine hands had wrought, and on the travail that I had laboured to do: and behold, all is vanity and vexation of the spirit: and there is no profit under the sun. And I turned to behold wisdom, and madness and folly: (for who is the man that will come after the King in things, which men now have done?) Then I saw that there is profit in wisdom, more then in folly: as the light is more excellent then darkness. For the wise man's eyes are in his head, but the fool walketh in darkness: yet I know also that the same condition falleth to them all. Then I thought in mine heart, It befalleth unto me, as it befalleth to ye fool. Why therefore do I then labour to be more wise? And I said in mine heart, that this also is vanity. For there shall be no remembrance of the wise, nor of the fool forever: for that that now is, in the days to come shall all be forgotten; how dieth the wise man, as doth the fool? Therefore I hated life: for the work that is wrought under the sun is grievous unto me: for all is vanity, and vexation of the spirit.

I hated also all my labour, wherein I had travailed under the sun, which I shall leave to the man that shall be after me. And who knoweth whether he shall be wise or foolish? yet shall he have rule over all my labour, wherein I have travailed, and wherein I have shewed myself wise under the sun. This is also vanity. Therefore I went about to make mine heart abhor all the labour, wherein I had travailed under the sun. For there is a man whose travail is in wisdom, and in knowledge and in equity: yet to a man that hath not travailed herein, shall he give his portion: this also is vanity and a great grief. For what hath man of all his travail and grief of his heart, wherein he hath travailed under the sun?

For all his days are sorrows, and his travail grief: his heart also taketh not rest in the night: which also is vanity. There is no profit to man: but that he eat, and drink, & delight his soul with the profit of his labour: I saw also this, that it was of the hand of God. For who could eat, and who could haste to outward things more then I? Surely to a man that is good in his sight, God giveth wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the sinner he giveth pain, to gather, and to heap to give to him that is good before God: this is also vanity, and vexation of the spirit.

To all things there is an appointed time, and a time to every purpose under the heaven.

- A time to be borne, and a time to die
- A time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted
- A time to slay, and a time to heal
- A time to break down, and a time to build
- A time to weep, and a time to laugh
- A time to mourn, and a time to dance
- A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones
- A time to embrace, and a time to be far from embracing
- A time to seek, and a time to lose
- A time to keep, and a time to cast away
- A time to rent, and a time to sow
- A time to keep silence, and a time to speak
- A time to love, and a time to hate
- A time of war, and a time of peace

What profit hath he that worketh of the thing wherein he travaileth? I have seen the travail that God hath given to ye sons of men to humble them thereby. He hath made everything beautiful in his time: also he hath set the world in their heart, yet can not man find out the work that God hath wrought from the beginning even to the end. I know that there is nothing good in them, but to rejoyce, and to do good in his life. And also that every man eateth and drinketh, and seeth the commodity of all his labour. This is the gift of God. I know that whatsoever God shall do, it shall be forever: to it can no man add, and from it can none diminish: for God hath done it, that they should fear before him. What is that that hath been? That is now: and that that shall be, hath now been: for God requireth that which is past.

And moreover I have seen under the sun the place of judgment, where was wickedness, and the place of justice where was iniquity. I thought in mine heart, God will judge the just and the wicked: for time is there for every purpose and for every work. I considered in mine heart the state of the children of men that God had purged them: yet to see to, they are in themselves as beasts. For the condition of the children of men, and the condition of beasts are even as one condition unto them. As the one dieth, so dieth the other: for they have all one breath, and there is no excellency of man above ye beast: for all is vanity. All go to one place, & all was of the dust, and all shall return to the dust. Who knoweth whether the spirit of man ascend upward, and the spirit of the beast descend downward to the earth? Therefore I see that there is nothing better then that a man should rejoice in his affairs, because that is his portion. For who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?

So I turned and considered all the oppressions that are wrought under the sun, and behold the tears of the oppressed, and none comforteth them: and lo, the strength is of the hand of them that oppress them, & none comforteth them. Wherefore I praised the dead which now are dead, above the living, which are yet alive. And I count him better then them both, which hath not yet been: for he hath not seen the evil works which are wrought under the sun. Also I beheld all travail, & all perfection of works that this is ye envy of a man against his neighbour: this also is vanity & vexation of spirit. The fool foldeth his hands, and eateth up his own flesh. Better is an handful with quietness, then two handfuls with labour and vexation of spirit. Again I returned, and saw vanity under the sun. There is one alone, & there is not a second, which hath neither son nor brother, yet is there none end of all his travail, neither can his eye be satisfied with riches: neither doth he think, For whom do I travail and defraud my soul of pleasure? this also is vanity, and this is an evil travail. Two are better then one: for they have better wages for their labour. For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but wo unto him that is alone: for he falleth, and there is not a second to lift him up. Also if two sleep together, then shall they have heat: but to one how should there be heat? And if one overcome him, two shall stand against him: and a threefold cord is not easily broken. Better is a poor and wise child, then an old and foolish King, which will no more be admonished. For out of the prison he cometh forth to reign: when as he that is borne in his kingdom, is made poor.

I beheld all the living, which walk under the sun, with the second child, which shall stand up in his place. There is none end of all the people, nor of all that were before them, and they that come after, shall not rejoice in him: surely this is also vanity and vexation of spirit. Take heed to thy foot when thou enterest into the House of God, and be more near to hear then to give the sacrifice of fools: for they know not that they do evil. Be not rash with thy mouth, nor let thine heart be hasty to utter a thing before God: for God is in the heavens, and thou art on the earth: therefore let thy words be few. For as a dream cometh by the multitude of business: so the voice of a fool is in the multitude of words. When thou hast vowed a vow to God, defer not to pay it: for he delighteth not in fools: pay therefore that thou hast vowed. It is better that thou shouldest not vow, then that thou shouldest vow and not pay it. Suffer not thy mouth to make thy flesh to sin: neither say before the Angel, that this is ignorance: wherefore shall God be angry by thy voice, and destroy the work of thine hands? For in the multitude of dreams, and vanities are also many words: but fear thou God.

If in a country thou seest the oppression of the poor, and the defrauding of judgment and justice, be not astonished at the matter: for he that is higher then the highest, regardeth, and there be higher then they. And the abundance of the earth is over all: the King also consisteth by the field that is tilled. He that loveth silver, shall not be satisfied with silver, and he that loveth riches, shall be without the fruit thereof: this also is vanity. When goods increase, they are increased that eat them: and what good cometh to the owners thereof, but the beholding thereof with their eyes? The sleep of him that travaileth, is sweet, whether he eat little or much: but the satiety of the rich will not suffer him to sleep. There is an evil sickness that I have seen under the sun: to wit, riches reserved to the owners thereof for their evil. And these riches perish by evil travel, and he begetteth a son, and in his hand is nothing. As he came forth of his mothers belly, he shall return naked to go as he came, and shall bear away nothing of his labour, which he hath caused to pass by his hand. And this also is an evil sickness that in all points as he came, so shall he go, and what profit hath he that he hath travailed for the wind? Also all his days he eateth in darkness with much grief, and in his sorrow and anger. Behold then, what I have seen good, that it is comely to eat, and to drink, and to take pleasure in all his labour, wherein he travaileth under the sun, the whole number of the days of his life, which God giveth him: for this is his portion. Also to every man to whom God hath given riches and treasures, and giveth him power to eat thereof, and to take his part, and to enjoy his labour: this is the gift of God. Surely he will not much remember the days of his life, because God answereth to the joy of his heart.

There is an evil, which I saw under the sun, and it is much among men: A man to whom God hath given riches and treasures and honour, and he wanteth nothing for his soul of all that it desireth: but God giveth him not power to eat thereof, but a strange man shall eat it up: this is vanity, and this is an evil sickness.

If a man beget an hundred children and live many years, and the days of his years be multiplied, & his soul be not satisfied with good things, and he be not buried, I say that an untimely fruit is better then he. For he cometh into vanity and goeth into darkness: and his name shall be covered with darkness. Also he hath not seen ye sun, nor known it: therefore this hath more rest then the other. And if he had lived a thousand years twice told, and had seen no good, shall not all go to one place?

All the labour of man is for his mouth: yet the soul is not filled. For what hath the wise man more then the fool? what hath the poor that knoweth how to walk before the living? The sight of ye eye is better then to walk in ye lusts: this also is vanity, & vexation of spirit. What is that that hath been? the name thereof is now named: and it is known that it is man: and he cannot strive with him that is stronger then he. Surely there be many things that increase vanity: and what availeth it man? For who knoweth what is good for man in the life and in the number of the days of the life of his vanity, seeing he maketh them as a shadow? For who can shew unto man what shall be after him under the sun?

- A good name is better then a good ointment, and the day of death, then the day that one is borne.
- It is better to go to the house of mourning, then to go to the house of feasting, because this is the end of all men: and the living shall lay it to his heart.
- Anger is better then laughter: for by a sad look the heart is made better.
- The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning: but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.
- Better it is to hear ye rebuke of a wise man, then that a man should hear the song of fools. For like ye noise of the thorns under the pot, so is the laughter of the fool: this also is vanity.
- Surely oppression maketh a wise man mad: and the reward destroyeth the heart.
- The end of a thing is better then the beginning thereof, and the patient in spirit is better then the proud in spirit.
- Be not thou of an hasty spirit to be angry: for anger resteth in the bosom of fools.
- Say not thou, Why is it that the former days were better then these? For thou dost not inquire wisely of this thing.
- Wisdom is good with an inheritance, and excellent to them that see the sun. For man shall rest in the shadow of wisdom, and in the shadow of silver: but the excellency of the knowledge of wisdom giveth life to the possessors thereof.
- Behold the work of God: for who can make straight that which he hath made crooked?
- In the day of wealth be of good comfort, and in the day of affliction consider: God also hath made this contrary to that, to the intent that man should find nothing after him.
- I have seen all things in the days of my vanity: there is a just man that perisheth in his justice, and there is a wicked man that continueth long in his malice.

- Be not thou just overmuch, neither make thy self overwise: wherefore shouldest thou be desolate?
- Be not thou wicked overmuch, neither be thou foolish: wherefore shouldest thou perish not in thy time?
- It is good that thou lay hold on this: but yet withdraw not thine hand from that: for he that feareth God, shall come forth of them all.
- Wisdom shall strengthen the wise man more then ten mighty princes that are in ye city.
- Surely there is no man just in the earth, that doth good and sinneth not.
- Give not thine heart also to all ye words that men speak, lest thou do hear thy servant cursing thee. For often times also thine heart knoweth that thou likewise hast cursed others.

All this have I proved by wisdom: I thought I will be wise, but it went far from me. It is far off, what may it be? And it is a profound deepness, who can find it? I have compassed about, both I and mine heart to know and to inquire and to search wisdom, and reason, and to know the wickedness of folly, and the foolishness of madness, and I find more bitter then death the woman whose heart is as nets and snares, and her hands, as bands: he that is good before God, shall be delivered from her, but the sinner shall be taken by her. Behold, saith the Preacher, this have I found, seeking one by one to find the count: And yet my soul seeketh, but I find it not: I have found one man of a thousand: but a woman among them all have I not found. Only lo, this have I found, that God hath made man righteous: but they have sought many inventions.

Who is as the wise man? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing? the wisdom of a man doth make his face to shine: and the strength of his face shall be changed. I advertise thee to take heed to ye mouth of the King, and to the word of the oath of God. Haste not to go forth of his sight: stand not in an evil thing: for he will do whatsoever pleaseth him. Where the word of ye King is, there is power, and who shall say unto him, What doest thou? He that keepeth the commandment, shall know none evil thing, and the heart of the wise shall know the time and judgment. For to every purpose there is a time and judgment, because the misery of man is great upon him. For he knoweth not that which shall be: for who can tell him when it shall be? Man is not lord over the spirit to retain the spirit: neither hath he power in the day of death, nor deliverance in the battle, neither shall wickedness deliver the possessors thereof. All this have I seen, and have given mine heart to every work, which is wrought under the sun, and I saw a time that man ruleth over man to his own hurt.

And likewise I saw the wicked buried, and they returned, and they that came from the holy place, were yet forgotten in the city where they had done right: this also is vanity. Because sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily, therefore the heart of the children of men is fully set in them to do evil. Though a sinner do evil an hundred times, and God prolongeth his days, yet I know that it shall be well with them that fear the Lord, and do reverence before him. But it shall not be well to the wicked, neither shall he prolong his days: he shall be like a shadow, because he feareth not before God. There is a vanity, which is done upon the earth, that there be righteous men to whom it cometh according to the work of the wicked: and there be wicked men to whom it cometh according to the work of the just: I thought also that this is vanity. And I praised joy: for there is no goodness to man under the sun, save to eat and to drink and to rejoice: for this is adjoined to his labour, the days of his life that God hath given him under the sun. When I applied mine heart to know wisdom, and to behold the business that is done on earth, that neither day nor night the eyes of man take sleep, then I beheld the whole work of God, that man cannot find out ye work that is wrought under the sun: for the which man laboureth to seek it, and cannot find it: yea, and though the wise man think to know it, he cannot find it.

I have surely given mine heart to all this, and to declare all this, that the just, and the wise, and their works are in the hand of God: and no man knoweth either love or hatred of all that is before them. All things come alike to all: and the same condition is to the just and to the wicked, to the good and to the pure, and to the polluted, and to him that sacrificeth, and to him that sacrificeth not: as is the good, so is the sinner, he that sweareth, as he that feareth an oath. This is evil among all that is done under the sun, that there is one condition to all, and also the heart of the sons of men is full of evil, and madness is in their hearts whiles they live, and after that, they go to the dead. Surely whosoever is joined to all ye living, there is hope: for it is better to a living dog, then to a dead lion. For the living know that they shall die, but the dead know nothing at all: neither have they any more a reward: for their remembrance is forgotten. Also their love, and their hatred, and their envy is now perished, and they have no more portion for ever, in all that is done under the sun.

Go, eat thy bread with joy, & drink thy wine with a cheerful heart: for God now accepteth thy works. At all times let thy garments be white, and let not oil be lacking upon thine head. Rejoice with the wife whom thou hast loved all the days of the life of thy vanity, which God hath given thee under the sun all the days of thy vanity: for this is thy portion in the life, and in thy travail wherein thou labourest under the sun. All that thine hand shall find to do, do it with all thy power: for there is neither work nor invention, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest.

I returned, and I saw under the sun that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor yet bread to the wise, nor also riches to men of understanding, neither yet favour to men of knowledge: but time and chance cometh to them all. For neither doth man know his time, but as the fishes which are taken in an evil net, and as the birds that are caught in the snare: so are the children of men snared in the evil time when it falleth upon them suddenly. I have also seen this wisdom under the sun, and it is great unto me. A little city and few men in it, and a great King came against it, and compassed it about, and builded forts against it. And there was found therein a poor and wise man, and he delivered the city by his wisdom: but none remembered this poor man.

Then said I,

- Better is wisdom then strength: yet the wisdom of the poor is despised, and his words are not heard.
- The words of the wise are more heard in quietness, then the cry of him that ruleth among fools.
- Better is wisdom then weapons of war: but one sinner destroyeth much good.
- Dead flies cause to stink, & putrefy the ointment of the apothecary: so doth a little folly him that is in estimation for wisdom, and for glory.
- The heart of a wise man is at his right hand: but the heart of a fool is at his left hand. And also when the fool goeth by the way, his heart faileth, and he telleth unto all that he is a fool.
- If the spirit of him that ruleth, rise up against thee, leave not thy place: for gentleness pacifieth great sins. There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, as an error that proceedeth from the face of him that ruleth.
- Folly is set in great excellency, and the rich set in the low place. I have seen servants on horses, and princes walking as servants on the ground.
- He that diggeth a pit, shall fall into it, and he that breaketh the hedge, a serpent shall bite him.
- He that removeth stones, shall hurt himself thereby, and he that cutteth wood, shall be in danger thereby.
- If the iron be blunt, & one hath not wet the edge, he must then put to more strength: but the excellency to direct a thing is wisdom. If the serpent bite, when he is not charmed: no better is a babbler.
- The words of ye mouth of a wise man have grace: but the lips of a fool devour himself. The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness, and the latter end of his mouth is wicked madness. For the fool multiplieth words, saying, Man knoweth not what shall be: and who can tell him what shall be after him?

- The labour of the foolish doth weary him: for he knoweth not to go into the city.
- Wo to thee, O land, when thy King is a child, and thy princes eat in the morning. Blessed art thou, O land, when thy King is the son of nobles, and thy princes eat in time, for strength and not for drunkenness.
- By slothfulness the roof of the house goeth to decay, and by the idleness of the hands the house droppeth through. They prepare bread for laughter, and wine comforteth the living, but silver answereth to all.
- Curse not the King, no not in thy thought, neither curse the rich in thy bed chamber: for the fowl of the heaven shall carry the voice, & that which hath wings, shall declare the matter.
- Cast thy bread upon the waters: for after many days thou shalt find it. Give a portion to seven, & also to eight: for thou knowest not what evil shall be upon ye earth.
- If the clouds be full, they will pour forth rain upon the earth: and if the tree does fall toward the South, or toward the North, in the place that the tree falleth, there it shall be.
- He that observeth ye wind, shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds, shall not reap.
- As thou knowest not which is ye way of the spirit, nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child: so thou knowest not the work of God that worketh all.
- In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening let not thine hand rest: for thou knowest not whither shall prosper, this or that, or whether both shall be a like good.
- Surely the light is a pleasant thing: and it is a good thing to the eyes to see the sun. Though a man live many years, and in them all he rejoyce, yet he shall remember the days of darkness, because they are many, all that cometh is vanity.
- Rejoyce, O young man, in thy youth, and let thine heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth: and walk in the ways of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: but know that for all these things, God will bring thee to judgment. Therefore take away grief out of thine heart, and cause evil to depart from thy flesh: for childhood and youth are vanity.

Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, whiles the evil days come not, nor the years approach, wherein thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them: Whiles the sun is not dark, nor ye light, nor the moon, nor the stars, nor the clouds return after the rain: When the keepers of ye house shall tremble, & the strong men shall bow themselves, and the grinders shall cease, because they are few, and they wax dark that look out by ye windows: And the doors shall be shut without by the base sound of the grinding, and he shall rise up at the voice of the bird: and all the daughters of singing shall be abased. Also they shall be afraid of the high thing, and fear shall be in the way, and the almond tree shall flourish, and the grasshopper shall be a burden, and concupiscence shall be driven away: for man goeth to the house of his age, and the mourners go about in the street. Whiles the silver cord is not lengthened, nor the golden ewer broken, nor the pitcher broken at the well, nor the wheel broken at the cistern: And dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit return to God that gave it. Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher, all is vanity. And the more wise the Preacher was, the more he taught the people knowledge, and caused them to hear, and searched forth, and prepared many parables.

The Preacher sought to find out pleasant words, and an upright writing, even the words of truth. The words of the wise are like goads, and like nails fastened by the masters of the assemblies, which are given by one pastor. And of other things beside these, my son, take thou heed: for there is none end in making many books, and much reading is a weariness of the flesh. Let us hear the end of all: fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man. For God will bring every work unto judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good or evil.

AN EXCELLENT SONG which was SOLOMON'S

An excellent song which was Solomon's. Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth: for thy love is better then wine. Because of the savour of thy good ointments thy name is as an ointment poured out: therefore the virgins love thee. Draw me: we will run after thee:

the King hath brought me into his chambers: we will rejoice and be glad in thee: we will remember thy love more then wine: the righteous do love thee.

I am black, O daughters of Jerusalem, but comely, as the tents of Kedar, and as the curtains of Solomon. Regard ye me not because I am black: for the sun hath looked upon me.

The sons of my mother were angry against me: they made me the keeper of ye vines: but I kept not mine own vine.

Shew me, O thou, whom my soul loveth, where thou feedest, where thou liest at noon: for why should I be as she that turneth aside to the flocks of thy companions?

If thou know not, O thou the fairest among women, get thee forth by the steps of the flock, and feed thy kids by the tents of the shepherds. I have compared thee, O my love, to the troupe of horses in the chariots of Pharaoh. Thy cheeks are comely with rows of stones, and thy neck with chains. We will make thee borders of gold with studs of silver.

Whilst the King was at his repast, my spikenard gave the smell thereof. My well beloved is as a bundle of myrrh unto me: he shall lie between my breasts. My well beloved is as a cluster of camphire unto me in the vines of Engedi.

My love, behold, thou art fair: behold, thou art fair: thine eyes are like the doves.

My well beloved, behold, thou art fair and pleasant: also our bed is green: The beams of our house are cedars, our rafters are of fir.

I am the rose of the field, and the lily of the valleys. Like a lily among the thorns, so is my love among the daughters.

Like the apple tree among the trees of the forest, so is my well beloved among the sons of men: under his shadow had I delight, & sat down: and his fruit was sweet unto my mouth. He brought me into the wine cellar, and love was his banner over me. Stay me with flagons, and comfort me with apples: for I am sick of love. His left hand is under mine head, and his right hand doth embrace me.

I charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and by the hinds of the field, that ye stir not up, nor waken my love, until she please.

It is the voice of my well beloved: behold, he cometh leaping by the mountains, and skipping by the hills. My well beloved is like a roe, or a young hart: lo, he standeth behind our wall, looking forth of the windows, shewing himself through the grates. My well beloved spake and said unto me, Arise, my love, my fair one, and come thy way. For behold, winter is past: the rain is changed, and is gone away. The flowers appear in the earth: the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land. The fig tree hath brought forth her young figs: and the vines with their small grapes have cast a savour: arise my love, my fair one, and come away. My dove, that art in the holes of ye rock, in the secret places of the stairs, shew me thy sight, let me hear thy voice: for thy voice is sweet, and thy sight comely.

Take us the foxes, the little foxes, which destroy the vines: for our vines have small grapes.

My well beloved is mine, and I am his: he feedeth among the lilies, until the day break, and the shadows flee away: return, my well beloved, and be like a roe, or a young hart upon the mountains of Bether.

In my bed by night I sought him that my soul loved: I sought him, but I found him not. I will rise therefore now, and go about in the city, by the streets and by the open places, and will seek him that my soul loveth: I sought him, but I found him not. The watchmen that went about the city, found me: to whom I said, Have you seen him, whom my soul loveth? When I had passed a little from them, then I found him whom my soul loved: I took hold on him and left him not, till I had brought him unto my mother's house into the chamber of her that conceived me.

I charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and by the hinds of the field, that ye stir not up, nor waken my love until she please.

Who is she that cometh up out of the wilderness like pillars of smoke perfumed with myrrh and incense, and with all the spices of the merchant?

Behold his bed, which is Solomon's: threescore strong men are round about it, of the valiant men of Israel. They all handle the sword, and are expert in war, every one hath his sword upon his thigh for the fear by night. King Solomon made himself a palace of the trees of Lebanon. He made the pillars thereof of silver, and the pavement thereof of gold, the hangings thereof of purple, whose midst was paved with the love of the daughters of Jerusalem.

Come forth, ye daughters of Zion, and behold the King Solomon with the crown, wherewith his mother crowned him in ye day of his marriage, and in the day of the gladness of his heart.

Behold, thou art fair, my love: behold, thou art fair: thine eyes are like the doves: among thy locks thine hair is like the flock of goats, which look down from the mountain of Gilead. Thy teeth are like a flock of sheep in good order, which go up from the washing: which every one bring out twins, and none is barren among them. Thy lips are like a thread of scarlet, and thy talk is comely: thy temples are within thy locks as a piece of a pomegranate. Thy neck is as the tower of David built for defense: a thousand shields hang therein, and all the targets of the strong men. Thy two breasts are as two young roes that are twins, feeding among the lilies. Until the day break, and the shadows fly away,

I will go into the mountain of myrrh and to the mountain of incense.

Thou art all fair, my love, and there is no spot in thee. Come with me from Lebanon, my spouse, even with me from Lebanon, and look from the top of Amanah, from the top of Shenir and Hermon, from the dens of the lions, and from the mountains of the leopards. My sister, my spouse, thou hast wounded mine heart: thou hast wounded mine heart with one of thine eyes, and with a chain of thy neck. My sister, my spouse, how fair is thy love? how much better is thy love than wine? and the savour of thine ointments than all spices? Thy lips, my spouse, drop as honey combs: honey and milk are under thy tongue, and the savour of thy garments is as the savour of Lebanon. My sister my spouse is as a garden enclosed, as a spring shut up, and a fountain sealed up. Thy plants are as an orchard of pomegranates with sweet fruits, as camphire, spikenard, Even spikenard, and saffron, calamus, and cinnamon with all the trees of incense, myrrh and aloes, with all the chief spices. O fountain of the gardens, O well of living waters, and the springs of Lebanon.

Arise, O North, and come O South, and blow on my garden that the spices thereof may flow out: let my well beloved come to his garden, and eat his pleasant fruit. I am come into my garden, my sister, my spouse: I gathered my myrrh with my spice: I ate mine honey comb with mine honey, I drank my wine with my milk:

eat, O friends, drink, and make you merry, O well beloved.

I sleep, but mine heart waketh, it is the voice of my well beloved that knocketh, saying, Open unto me, my sister, my love, my dove, my undefiled: for mine head is full of dew, and my locks with the drops of the night.

I have put off my coat, how shall I put it on? I have washed my feet, how shall I defile them?

My well beloved put in his hand by the hole of the door, and mine heart was affectioned toward him. I rose up to open to my well beloved, and mine hands did drop down myrrh, and my fingers pure myrrh upon the handles of the bar. I opened to my well beloved: but my well beloved was gone, and passed: mine heart was gone when he did speak: I sought him, but I could not find him: I called him, but he answered me not.

The watchmen that went about the city, found me: they smote me and wounded me: the watchmen of the walls took away my veil from me.

I charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem, if you find my well beloved, that you tell him that I am sick of love.

O the fairest among women, what is thy well beloved more than other well beloved? what is thy well beloved more than another lover, that thou doest so charge us?

My well beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefest of ten thousand. His head is as fine gold, his locks curled, and black as a raven. His eyes are like doves upon the rivers of waters, which are washed with milk, and remain by the full vessels. His cheeks are as a bed of spices, and as sweet flowers, and his lips like lilies dropping down pure myrrh. His hands as rings of gold set with the chrysolite, his belly like white ivory covered with sapphires. His legs are as pillars of marble, set upon sockets of fine gold: his countenance as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars. His mouth is as sweet things, and he is wholly delectable: this is my well beloved, and this is my lover, O daughters of Jerusalem.

O the fairest among women, whither is thy well beloved gone? whither is thy well beloved turned aside, that we may seek him with thee?

My well beloved is gone down into his garden to the beds of spices, to feed in the gardens, and to gather lilies. I am my well beloveds, and my well beloved is mine, who feedeth among the lilies.

Thou art beautiful, my love, as Tirzah, comely as Jerusalem, terrible as an army with banners. Turn away thine eyes from me: for they overcome me: thine hair is like a flock of goats, which look down from Gilead. Thy teeth are like a flock of sheep, which go up from the washing, which every one bring out twins, and none is barren among them. Thy temples are within thy locks as a piece of a pomegranate. There are threescore Queens and fourscore concubines & of the damsels without number. But my dove is alone, and my undefiled, she is the only daughter of her mother, and she is dear to her that bare her: the daughters have seen her & counted her blessed: even the Queens and the concubines, and they have praised her.

Who is she that looketh forth as the morning, fair as the moon, pure as the sun, terrible as an army with banners!

I went down to the garden of nuts, to see the fruits of the valley, to see if the vine budded, and if the pomegranates flourished.

I knew nothing, my soul set me as the chariots of my noble people.

Return, return, O Shulamite, return: return that we may behold thee.

What shall you see in the Shulamite, but as the company of an army?

How beautiful are thy goings with shoes, O princes daughter! the joints of thy thighs are like jewels: the work of the hand of a cunning workman. Thy navel is as a round cup that wanteth not liquor: thy belly is as an heap of wheat compassed about with lilies. Thy two breasts are as two young roes that are twins. Thy neck is like a tower of ivory: thine eyes are like the fish pools in Heshbon by the gate of Bath-rabbim: thy nose is as the tower of Lebanon, that looketh toward Damascus. Thine head upon thee is as scarlet, and the bush of thine head like purple: the King is tied in the rafters. How fair art thou, and how pleasant art thou, O my love, in pleasures! This thy stature is like a palm tree, and thy breasts like clusters.

I said, I will go up into the palm tree, I will take hold of her boughs: thy breasts shall now be like the clusters of the vine: and the savour of thy nose like apples, And the roof of thy mouth like good wine, which goeth straight to my well beloved, and causeth the lips of the ancient to speak.

I am my well beloveds, and his desire is toward me. Come, my well beloved, let us go forth into the field: let us remain in the villages. Let us get up early to the vines, let us see if the vine flourish, whether it hath budded the small grape, or whether the pomegranates flourish: there will I give thee my love. The mandrakes have given a smell, and in our gates are all sweet things, new and old: my well beloved, I have kept them for thee.

Oh that thou werest as my brother that sucked the breasts of my mother: I would find thee without, I would kiss thee, then they should not despise thee. I will lead thee and bring thee into my mothers house: there thou shalt teach me: and I will cause thee to drink spiced wine, and new wine of the pomegranate. His left hand shall be under mine head, and his right hand shall embrace me.

I charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem, that you stir not up, nor waken my love, until she please.

(Who is this that cometh up out of the wilderness, leaning upon her well beloved?)

I raised thee up under an apple tree: there thy mother conceived thee: there she conceived that bare thee.

Set me as a seal on thine heart, and as a signet upon thine arm: for love is strong as death: jealousy is cruel as the grave: the coals thereof are fiery coals, and a vehement flame. Much water can not quench love, neither can the floods drown it: If a man should give all the substance of his house for love, they would greatly contemn it.

We have a little sister, and she hath no breasts: what shall we do for our sister when she shall be spoken for?

If she be a wall, we will build upon her a silver palace: and if she be a door, we will keep her in with boards of cedar.

I am a wall, and my breasts are as towers: then was I in his eyes as one that findeth peace.

Solomon had a vine in Baal-hamon: he gave the vineyard unto keepers: every one bringeth for ye fruit thereof a thousand pieces of silver.

But my vineyard which is mine, is before me: to thee, O Solomon appertaineth a thousand pieces of silver, and two hundred to them that keep the fruit thereof. O thou that dwellest in the gardens, the companions hearken unto thy voice: cause me to hear it.

O my well beloved, flee away, and be like unto the roe, or to the young hart upon ye mountains of spices.

ISAIAH

A Vision of Isaiah, the son of Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem: in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah Kings of Judah. Hear, O heavens, and hearken, O earth: for the Lord hath said, I have nourished and brought up children, but they have rebelled against me. The ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib: but Israel hath not known: my people hath not understand. Ah, sinful nation, a people laden with iniquity: a seed of the wicked, corrupt children: they have forsaken the Lord: they have provoked the holy one of Israel to anger: they are gone backward. Wherefore should ye be smitten anymore? For ye fall away more and more: the whole head is sick, and the whole heart is heavy. From the sole of the foot unto the head, there is nothing whole therein, but wounds, and swelling, and sores full of corruption: they have not been wrapped, nor bound up, nor mollified with oil. Your land is waste: your cities are burnt with fire: strangers devour your land in your presence, and it is desolate like the overthrow of strangers. And the daughter of Zion shall remain like a cottage in a vineyard, like a lodge in a garden of cucumbers, and like a besieged city. Except the Lord of hosts had reserved unto us, even a small remnant: we should have been as Sodom, and should have been like unto Gomorah. Hear the word of the Lord, O princes of Sodom: hearken unto the Law of our God, O people of Gomorah. What have I to do with the multitude of your sacrifices, saith the Lord? I am full of the burnt offerings of rams, & of the fat of fed beasts: and I desire not the blood of bullocks, nor of lambs, nor of goats. When ye come to appear before me, who required this of your hands to tread in my courts? Bring no more oblations, in vain: incense is an abomination unto me: I can not suffer your new moons, nor Sabbaths, nor solemn days (it is iniquity) nor solemn assemblies. My soul hateth your new moons and your appointed feasts: they are a burden unto me: I am weary to bear them. And when you shall stretch out your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you: and though ye make many prayers, I will not hear: for your hands are full of blood. Wash you, make you clean: take away the evil of your works from before mine eyes: cease to do evil. Learn to do well: seek judgement, relieve the oppressed: judge the fatherless and defend the widow. Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins were as crimson, they shall be made white as snow: though they were red like scarlet, they shall be as wool. If ye consent and obey, ye shall eat the good things of the land. But if ye refuse and be rebellious, ye shall be devoured with the sword: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. How is the faithful city become an harlot? It was full of judgement, and justice lodged therein, but now they are murderers. Thy silver is become dross: thy wine is mixt with water. Thy Princes are rebellious and companions of thieves: everyone loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards: they judge not the fatherless, neither doeth the widows cause come before them. Therefore saith the Lord God of hosts, the mighty one of Israel, Ah, I will ease me of mine adversaries, & avenge me of mine enemies. Then I will turn mine hand upon thee, and burn out thy dross, till it be pure, and take away all thy tin. And I will restore thy judges as at the first, and thy counselors as at the beginning: afterward shalt thou be called a city of righteousness, and a faithful city. Zion shall be redeemed in judgement, and they that return in her, in justice. And the destruction of the transgressors and of the sinners shall be together: and they that forsake the Lord, shall be consumed. For they shall be confounded for the oaks, which ye have desired, and ye shall be ashamed of the gardens, that ye have chosen. For ye shall be as an oak, whose leaf fadeth: and as a garden that hath no water. And the strong shall be as tower, and the maker thereof, as a spark: and they shall both burn together, and none shall quench them.

The word that Isaiah the son of Amoz saw upon Judah and Jerusalem. It shall be in the last days, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be prepared in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills, and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jaakob, and he will teach us his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the Law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem, and he shall judge among the nations, and rebuke many people: they shall break their swords also into mattocks, and their spears into siethes: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn to fight anymore. O house of Jaakob, come ye, and let us walk in the Law of the Lord. Surely thou hast forsaken thy people, the house of Jaakob, because they are full of the East manners, and are sorcerers as the Philistims, and abound with strange children. Their land also was full of silver & gold, and there was none end of their treasures: and their land was full of horses, and their chariots were infinite. Their land also was full of idols: they worshipped the work of their own hands, which their own fingers have made. And a man bowed himself, and a man humbled himself: therefore spare them not. Enter into the rock, and hide thee in the dust from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his majesty. The high look of man shall be humbled, and the loftiness of men shall be abased, and the Lord only shall be exalted in that day. For the day of the Lord of hosts is upon all the proud and hautie, and upon all that is exalted: and it shall be made low. Even upon all the cedars of Lebanon, that are high & exalted, & upon all the oaks of Bashan, and upon all the high mountains, and upon all the hills that are lifted up, and upon every high tower, and upon every strong wall, and upon all the ships of Tarshish, and upon all pleasant pictures. And the hautinesse of men shall be brought low, and the loftiness of men shall be abased, and the Lord shall only be exalted in that day. And the idols will he utterly destroy. Then they shall go into the holes of the rocks, & into the caves of the earth, from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his majesty, when he shall arise to destroy the earth. At that day shall man cast away his silver idols, & his golden idols (which they had made themselves to worship them) to the mowles and to the backs, to go into the holes of the rocks, and into the tops of the ragged rocks from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his majesty, when he shall rise to destroy the earth. Cease you from the man whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be esteemed?

For lo, the Lord God of hosts will take away from Jerusalem and from Judah the stay and the strength: even all the stay of bread, and all the stay of water, the strong man, & the man of war, the judge and the prophet, the prudent and the aged, the captain of fifty, and the honourable, and the counselor, and the cunning artificer, and the eloquent man. And I will appoint children to be their princes, and babes shall rule over them. The people shall be oppressed one of another, and everyone by his neighbour: the children shall presume against the ancient, and the vile against the honourable. When everyone shall take hold of his brother of the house of his father, and say, Thou hast clothing: thou shalt be our prince, and let this fall be under thine hand. In that day he shall swear, saying, I cannot be an helper: for there is no bread in mine house, nor clothing: therefore make me no prince of the people. Doubtless Jerusalem is fallen, and Judah is fallen down, because their tongue & works are against the Lord, to provoke the eyes of his glory. The trial of their countenance testifieth against them, yea, they declare their sins as Sodom, they hide them not. Woe be unto their souls: for they have rewarded evil unto themselves. Say ye, Surely it shall be well with the just: for they shall eat the fruit of their works. Woe be to the wicked, it shall be evil with him: for the reward of his hands shall be given him. Children are extortioners of my people, and women have rule over them: O my people, they that lead thee, cause thee to err, and destroy the way of thy paths. The Lord standeth up to plead, yea, he standeth to judge the people. The Lord shall enter into judgement with the Ancients of his people & the princes thereof: for ye have eaten up the vineyard: the spoil of the poor is in your houses. What have ye to do, that ye beat my people to pieces, and grind the faces of the poor, saith the Lord, even the Lord of hosts?

The Lord also saith, Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched out necks, and with wandering eyes, walking and mincing as they go, and making a tinkling with their feet, therefore shall the Lord make the heads of the daughters of Zion bald, and the Lord shall discover their secret parts. In that day shall the Lord take away the ornament of the slippers, and the calls, and the round tires, the sweet balls, and the bracelets, and the bonnets, the tires of the head, and the slops, and the head bands, and the tablets, and the earrings, the rings and the mufflers, the costly apparel and the vails, and the wimples, and the crisping pins, and the glasses and the fine linen, and the hoods, and the launes. And instead of sweet savour, there shall be stink, and in stead of a girdle, a rent, and in stead of dressing of the hair, baldness, and in stead of a stomacher, a girding of sackcloth, and burning instead of beauty. Thy men shall fall by the sword, and thy strength in the battle. Then shall her gates mourn and lament, and she, being desolate, shall sit upon the ground.

And in that day shall seven women take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and we will wear our own garments: only let us be called by thy name, and take away our reproach. In that day shall the bud of the Lord be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and pleasant for them that are escaped of Israel. Then he that shall be left in Zion, and he that shall remain in Jerusalem, shall be called holy, and everyone shall be written among the living in Jerusalem, when the Lord shall wash the filthiness of the daughters of Zion, and purge the blood of Jerusalem out of the midst thereof by the spirit of judgement, and by the spirit of burning. And the Lord shall create upon every place of mount Zion, and upon the assemblies thereof, a cloud and smoke by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night: for upon all the glory shall be a defense. And a covering shall be for a shadow in the day for the heat, and a place of refuge and a covert for the storm and for the rain.

Now will I sing to my beloved a song of my beloved to his vineyard, My beloved had a vineyard in a very fruitful hill, and he hedged it, and gathered out the stones of it, and he planted it with the best plants, and he built a tower in the midst thereof, and made a wine press therein: then he looked that it should bring forth grapes: but it brought forth wild grapes. Now therefore, O inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah, judge, I pray you, between me, and my vineyard. What could I have done anymore to my vineyard that I have not done unto it? why have I looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it bringeth forth wild grapes? And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away the hedge thereof, and it shall be eaten up: I will break the wall thereof, and it shall be trodden down: And I will lay it waste: it shall not be cut, nor digged, but briers, and thorns shall grow up: I will also command the clouds that they rain no rain upon it.

Surely the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah are his pleasant plant, and he looked for judgement, but behold oppression: for righteousness, but behold a crying. Woe unto them that join house to house, and lay field to field, till there be no place, that ye may be placed by yourselves in the midst of the earth. This is in mine cares, saith the Lord of hosts. Surely many houses shall be desolate, even great, and fair without inhabitant. For ten acres of vines shall yield one bath, and the seed of an homer shall yield an ephah. Woe unto them, that rise up early to follow drunkenness, and to them that continue until night, till the wine do inflame them. And the harp and viole, timbrel, and pipe, and wine are in their feasts: but they regard not the work of the Lord, neither consider the work of his hands. Therefore my people is gone into captivity, because they had no knowledge, and the glory thereof are men famished, and the multitude thereof is dried up with thirst. Therefore hell hath enlarged itself, & hath opened his mouth, without measure, and their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that rejoiceth among them, shall descend into it. And man shall be brought down, and man shall be humbled, even the eyes of the proud shall be humbled. And the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgement, and the holy God shall be sanctified in justice. Then shall the lambs feed after their manner, and the strangers shall eat the desolate places of the fat. Woe unto them, that draw iniquity with cords of vanity, and sin, as with cart ropes: Which say, Let him make speed: let him hasten his work, that we may see it: and let the counsel of the holy one of Israel draw near and come, that we may know it. Woe unto them that speak good of evil, and evil of good, which put darkness for light, and light for darkness, that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for sour. Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight. Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and to them that are strong to pour in strong drink: Which justify the wicked for a reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him. Therefore as the flame of fire devoureth the stubble, and as the chaff is consumed of the flame: so their root shall be as rottenness, and their bud shall rise up like dust, because they have cast off the Law of the Lord of hosts, and contemned the word of the holy one of Israel. Therefore is the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people, and he hath stretched out his hand upon them, and hath smitten them that the mountains did tremble: and their carcases were torn in the midst of the streets, and for all this his wrath was not turned away, but his hand was stretched out still. And he will lift up a sign unto the nations a far, and will hiss unto them from the end of the earth: and behold, they shall come hastily with speed. None shall faint nor fall among them: none shall slumber nor sleep, neither shall the girdle of his loins be loosed, nor the latchet of his shoes be broken: Whose arrows shall be sharp, and all his bows bent: his horse hoofs shall be thought like flint, and his wheels like a whirlwind. His roaring shall be like a lion, and he shall roar like lions whelps: they shall roar, and lay hold of the pray: they shall take it away, and none shall deliver it. And in that day they shall roar upon them, as the roaring of the sea: and if they look unto the earth, behold darkness, and sorrow, and the light shall be darkened in their sky.

In the year of the death of King Uzziah, I saw also the Lord sitting upon an high throne, and lifted up, and the lower parts thereof filled the Temple. The Seraphims stood upon it: everyone had six wings: with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly. And one cried to another, and said, Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hosts: the whole world is full of his glory. And the lintels of the door cheeks moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke.

Then I said, Woe is me: for I am undone, because I am a man of polluted lips, & I dwell in the midst of a people of polluted lips: for mine eyes have seen the King and Lord of hosts.

Then flew one of the Seraphims unto me with an hot coal in his hand, which he had taken from the altar with the tongs: And he touched my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips, & thine iniquity shall be taken away, and thy sin shall be purged.

Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send? and who shall go for us?

Then I said, Here am I, send me.

And he said, Go, and say unto this people, Ye shall hear indeed, but ye shall not understand: ye shall plainly see, and not perceive. Make the heart of this people fat, make their ears heavy, and shut their eyes, lest they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and convert, and he heal them.

Then said I, Lord, how long? And he answered, Until the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man, and the land be utterly desolate, and the Lord have removed men far away, and there be a great desolation in the midst of the land. But yet in it shall be a tenth, and shall return, and shall be eaten up as an elm or an oak, which have a substance in them, when they cast their leaves: so the holy seed shall be the substance thereof.

And in the days of Ahaz, the son of Jotham, the son of Uzziah king of Judah, Rezin the King of Aram came up, and Pekah the son of Remaliah King of Israel, to Jerusalem to fight against it, but he could not overcome it. And it was told the house of David, saying, Aram is joined with Ephraim: therefore his heart was moved, and the heart of his people, as the trees of the forest are moved by the wind.

Then said the Lord unto Isaiah, Go forth now to meet Ahaz (thou and Sheariashub thy son) at the end of the conduit of the upper pool, in the path of the fullers field, and say unto him, Take heed, and be still: fear not, neither be faint hearted for the two tails of these smoking firebrands, for the furious wrath of Rezin and of Aram, and of Remaliah's son: Because Aram hath taken wicked counsel against thee, and Ephraim, and Remaliah's son, saying, Let us go up against Judah, and let us waken them up, and make a breach therein for us, and set a King in the midst thereof, even the son of Tabeal. Thus saith the Lord God, It shall not stand, neither shall it be. For the head of Aram is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin: and within five and threescore year, Ephraim shall be destroyed from being a people. And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is Remaliah's son. If ye believe not, surely ye shall not be established. And the Lord spake again unto Ahaz, saying, Ask a sign for thee of the Lord thy God: ask it, either in the depth beneath or in the height above.

But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord. Then he said, Hear you now, O house of David, Is it a small thing for you to grieve men, that ye will also grieve my God? Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and she shall call his name Immanu-el. Butter and honey shall he eat, till he have knowledge to refuse the evil, and to choose the good. For afore the child shall have knowledge to eschew the evil, and to choose the good, the land, that thou abhorrest, shall be forsaken of both her Kings. The Lord shall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy fathers house (the days that have not come from the day that Ephraim departed from Judah) even the King of Asshur. And in that day shall the Lord hiss for the fly that is at the uttermost part of the floods of Egypt, and for the bee which is in the land of Asshur, and they shall come and shall light all in the desolate valleys, and in the holes of the rocks, and upon all thorny places, and upon all bushy places. In that day shall the Lord shave with a razor that is hired, even by them beyond the River, by the King of Asshur, the head and the hair of the feet, and it shall consume the beard. And in the same day shall a man nourish a young cow, and two sheep. And for the abundance of milk, that they shall give, he shall eat butter: for butter and honey shall everyone eat, which is left within the land. And at the same day every place, wherein shall be a thousand vines, shall be at a thousand pieces of silver: so it shall be for the briers and for the thorns. With arrows and with bow shall one come thither: because all the land shall be briers and thorns. But on all the mountains, which shall be digged with the mattock, there shall not come thither the fear of briers and thorns: but they shall be for the sending out of bullocks, and for the treading of sheep.

Moreover, the Lord said unto me, Take thee a great roll, and write in it with a man's pen, Make speed to the spoil: haste to the pray. Then I took unto me faithful witnesses to record, Uriah the Priest, and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah.

After, I came unto the Prophetess, which conceived, and bare a son. Then said the Lord to me, Call his name, Mahershalalhash-baz. For before the child shall have knowledge to cry, My father, & my mother, he shall take away the riches of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria, before the King of Asshur.

And the Lord spake yet again unto me, saying, Because this people hath refused the waters of Shiloah that run softly, and rejoice with Rezin, and the son of Remaliah, Now therefore, behold, the Lord bringeth up upon them the waters of the River mighty and great, even the King of Asshur with all his glory, and he shall come up upon all their rivers, and go over all their banks, and shall break into Judah, and shall overflow and pass through, and shall come up to the neck, and the stretching out of his wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O Immanu-el. Gather together on heaps, O ye people, and ye shall be broken in pieces, and hearken all ye of far countries: gird yourselves, and you shall be broken in pieces: gird yourselves, and you shall be broken in pieces. Take counsel together, yet it shall be brought to nought: pronounce a decree, yet shall it not stand: for God is with us. For the Lord spake thus to me in taking of mine hand, and taught me, that I should not walk in the way of this people, saying, Say ye not, A confederacy to all them, to whom this people saith a confederacy, neither fear you their fear, nor be afraid of them. Sanctify the Lord of hosts, and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread, and he shall be as a Sanctuary: but as a stumbling stone, and as a rock to fall upon, to both the houses of Israel, and as a snare and as a net to the inhabitants of Jerusalem. And many among them shall stumble, and shall fall and shall be broken and shall be snared and shall be taken. Bind up the testimony: seal up the Law among my disciples. Therefore I will wait upon the Lord that hath hid his face from the house of Jaakob, and I will look for him. Behold, I and the children whom the Lord hath given me, are as signs and as wonders in Israel, by the Lord of hosts, which dwelleth in mount Zion. And when they shall say unto you, Inquire at them that have a spirit of divination, and at the soothsayers, which whisper and murmur, should not a people inquire at their God? from the living to the dead? To the Law, and to the testimony, if they speak not according to this word: it is because there is no light in them. Then he that is afflicted and famished, shall go to and fro in it: and when he shall be hungry, he shall even freat himself, and curse his King and his gods, and shall look upward. And when he shall look to the earth, behold trouble, and darkness, vexation and anguish, and he is driven to darkness.

Yet the darkness shall not be according to the affliction that it had when at the first he touched lightly the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, nor afterward when he was more grievous by the way of the sea beyond Jorden in Galilee of the Gentiles. The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwelled in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined. Thou hast multiplied the nation, and not increased their joy: they have rejoiced before thee according to the joy in harvest, and as men rejoice when they divide a spoil. For the yoke of their burden, and the staff of their shoulder and the rod of their oppressour hast thou broken as in the day of Midian. Surely every battle of the warriour is with noise, and with tumbling of garments in blood: but this shall be with burning and devouring of fire. For unto us a child is borne, and unto us a Son is given: and the government is upon his shoulder, and he shall call his name Wonderful, Counselor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The prince of peace, The increase of his government & peace shall have none end: he shall sit upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to stablish it with judgement and with justice, from henceforth, even forever: the zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this.

The Lord hath sent a word into Jaakob, and it hath lighted upon Israel. And all the people shall know, even Ephraim, and the inhabitant of Samaria, that say in the pride and presumption of the heart, the bricks are fallen, but we will build it with hewn stones: the wild fig trees are cut down, but we will change them into ceders. Nevertheless the Lord will raise up the adversaries of Rezin against him, and join his enemies together. Aram before and the Philistims behind, and they shall devour Israel with open mouth: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still. For the people turneth not unto him that smiteth them, neither do they seek the Lord of hosts. Therefore will the Lord cut off from Israel head and tail, branch and rush in one day. The ancient and the honorable man, he is the head: and the prophet that teacheth lies, he is the tail. For the leaders of the people cause them to err: and they that are led by them are devoured. Therefore shall the Lord have no pleasure in their young men, neither will he have compassion of their fatherless and of their widows: for everyone is an hypocrite and wicked, and every mouth speaketh folly: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still. For wickedness burneth as a fire: it devoureth the briers and the thorns and will kindle in the thick places of the forest: and they shall mount up like the lifting up of smoke. By the wrath of the Lord of hosts shall the land be darkened, and the people shall be as the meate of ye fire: no man shall spare his brother. And he shall snatch at the right hand, and be hungry: and he shall eat on the left hand, and shall not be satisfied: everyone shall eat ye flesh of his own arm. Manasseh, Ephraim: and Ephraim Manasseh, and they both shall be against Judah yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

Woe unto them that decree wicked decrees, and write grievous things, to keep back ye poor from judgement, and to take away the judgement of the poor of my people, that widows may be their prey, and that they may spoil the fatherless. What will ye do now in the day of visitation, and of destruction, which shall come from far? To whom will ye flee for help? And where will ye leave your glory? Without me everyone shall fall among them that are bound, and they shall fall down among the slain: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still. O Asshur, the rod of my wrath: and the staff in their hands is mine indignation. I will send him to a dissembling nation, and I will give him a charge against the people of my wrath to take the spoil and to take the prey, and to tread them under feet like the mire in the street. But he thinketh not so, neither doth his heart esteem it so: but he imagineth to destroy and to cut off not a few nations. For he sayeth, Are not my princes altogether Kings? Is not Calno as Carchemish? Is not Hamath like Arpad? Is not Samaria as Damascus? Like as mine hand hath found the kingdoms of the idols, seeing their idols were above Jerusalem, and above Samaria: Shall not I, as I have done to Samaria, and to the idols thereof, so do to Jerusalem and to the idols thereof?

But when the Lord hath accomplished all his work upon mount Zion and Jerusalem, I will visit the fruit of the proud heart of the King of Asshur, and his glorious and proud looks, because he said, By ye power of mine own hand have I done it, and by my wisdom, because I am wise: therefore I have removed the borders of the people, and have spoiled their treasures, and have pulled down the inhabitants like a valiant man. And mine hand hath found as a nest the riches of the people, and as one gathereth eggs that are left, so have I gathered all the earth: and there was none to move the wing or to open the mouth, or to whisper. Shall the axe boast itself against him that heweth therewith? or shall the saw exalt itself against him that moveth it? as if the rod should lift up itself against him that taketh it up, or the staff should exalt itself, as it were no wood.

Therefore shall the Lord God of hosts send among his fat men, leans, & under his glory he shall kindle a burning, like the burning of fire. And the light of Israel shall be as a fire, and the Holy one thereof as a flame, and it shall burn, and devour his thorns & his briers in one day: And shall consume the glory of his forest, and of his fruitful fields both soul and flesh: and he shall be as ye fainting of a standard bearer. And the rest of the trees of his forest shall be few, that a child may tell them. And at that day shall the remnant of Israel, and such as are escaped of the house of Jaakob, stay no more upon him that smote them, but shall stay upon ye Lord, ye Holy one of Israel in truth. The remnant shall return, even the remnant of Jaakob unto the mighty God. For though thy people, O Israel, be as the sand of the sea, yet shall the remnant of them return. The consumption decreed shall overflow with righteousness. For the Lord God of hosts shall make the consumption, even determined, in the midst of all the land.

Therefore thus saith ye Lord God of hosts, O my people, that dwellest in Zion, be not afraid of Asshur: he shall smite thee with a rod, and shall lift up his staff against thee after the manner of Egypt: But yet a very little time, and the wrath shall be consumed, and mine anger in their destruction. And ye Lord of hosts shall raise up a scourge for him, according to the plague of Midian in the rock Oreb: & as his staff was upon the Sea, so he will lift it up after the manner of Egypt. And at that day shall his burden be taken away from off thy shoulder, and his yoke from off thy neck: and the yoke shall be destroyed because of the anointing. He is come to Aiath: he is passed into Migron: at Michmash shall he lay up his armour. They have gone over the ford: they lodged in the lodging at Geba: Ramah is afraid: Gibeah of Saul is fled away. Lift up thy voice, O daughter Gallim, cause Laish to hear, O poor Anathoth. Madmenah is removed: the inhabitants of Gebim have gathered themselves together. Yet there is a time that he will stay at Nob: he shall lift up his hand toward the mount of the daughter Zion, the hill of Jerusalem. Behold, the Lord God of hosts shall cut off the bough with fear, and they of high stature shall be cut off, and the high shall be humbled. And he shall cut away the thick places of the forest with iron, and Lebanon shall have a mighty fall.

But there shall come a rod forth of the stock of Ishai, and a grass shall grow out of his roots. And the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him: the Spirit of wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of counsel and strength, the Spirit of knowledge, and of the fear of the Lord, and shall make him prudent in the fear of the Lord: for he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove by ye hearing of his ears. But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and with equity shall he reprove for the meek of the earth: and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked. And justice shall be ye girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reigns. The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie with the kid, & the calf, and the lion, and the fat beast together, and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed: their young ones shall lie together: and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock. And the sucking child shall play upon the hole of the asp, and the wained child shall put his hand upon the cockatrice hole. Then shall none hurt nor destroy in all the mountain of mine holiness: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters that cover the sea. And in that day the root of Ishai, which shall stand up for a sign unto the people, the nations shall seek unto it, and his rest shall be glorious. And in the same day shall the Lord stretch out his hand again the second time, to possess the remnant of his people, (which shall be left) of Asshur, and of Egypt, & of Pathros, and of Ethiopia, and of Elam, and of Shinar, and of Hamath, and of the isles of the sea. And he shall set up a sign to the nations, and assemble the dispersed of Israel, and gather the scattered of Judah from the four corners of the world. The hatred also of Ephraim shall depart, and the adversaries of Judah shall be cut off: Ephraim shall not envy Judah, neither shall Judah vex Ephraim: But they shall flee upon the shoulders of the Philistims toward the West: they shall spoil them of the East together: Edom and Moab shall be the stretching out of their hands, and the children of Ammon in their obedience. The Lord also shall utterly destroy the tongue of the Egyptians sea, and with his mighty wind shall lift up his hand over the river, and shall smite him in his seven streams, and cause men to walk therein with shoes. And there shall be a path to the remnant of his people, which are left of Asshur, like as it was unto Israel in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt.

And thou shalt say in that day, O Lord, I will praise thee: though thou wast angry with me, thy wrath is turned away, and thou comfortest me. Behold, God is my salvation: I will trust, and will not fear: for ye Lord God is my strength and song: he also is become my salvation. Therefore with joy shall ye draw waters out of the wells of salvation. And ye shall say in that day, Praise the Lord: call upon his Name: declare his works among the people: make mention of them, for his Name is exalted. Sing unto the Lord, for he hath done excellent things: this is known in all the world. Cry out, and shout, O inhabitant of Zion: for great is ye holy one of Israel in the midst of thee.

The burden of Babel, which Isaiah the son of Amoz did see. Lift up a standard upon the high mountain: lift up the voice unto them: wag the hand, that they may go into the gates of the nobles. I have commanded them, that I have sanctified: and I have called ye mighty to my wrath, and them that rejoice in my glory. The noise of a multitude is in the mountains, like a great people: a tumultuous voice of the kingdoms of the nations gathered together: the Lord of hosts numbereth the host of the battle. They come from a far country, from the end of the heaven: even the Lord with the weapons of his wrath to destroy the whole land. Howl you, for the day of the Lord is at hand: it shall come as a destroyer from the Almighty. Therefore shall all hands be weakened, and all men's hearts shall melt, and they shall be afraid: anguish and sorrow shall take them, and they shall have pain, as a woman that travaileth: everyone shall be amazed at his neighbour, and their faces shall be like flames of fire.

Behold, the day of the Lord cometh, cruel, with wrath and fierce anger to lay the land waste: and he shall destroy the sinners out of it. For the stars of heaven and the planets thereof shall not give their light: the sun shall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine. And I will visit the wickedness upon the world, and their iniquity upon the wicked, and I will cause the arrogancy of the proud to cease, and will cast down the pride of tyrants. I will make a man more precious then fine gold, even a man above the wedge of gold of Ophir. Therefore I will shake the heaven, and the earth shall remove out of her place in the wrath of the Lord of hosts, and in the day of his fierce anger. And it shall be as a chased do, and as a sheep that no man taketh up. every man shall turn to his own people, and flee each one to his own land. Every one that is found, shall be stricken through: and whosoever joineth himself, shall fall by the sword. Their children also shall be broken in pieces before their eyes: their houses shall be spoiled, and their wives ravished.

Behold, I will stir up the Medes against them, which shall not regard silver, nor be desirous of gold. With bows also shall they destroy ye children, and shall have no compassion upon the fruit of the womb, and their eyes shall not spare the children. And Babel the glory of kingdoms, the beauty and pride of the Chaldeans, shall be as the destruction of God in Sodom and Gomorah. It shall not be inhabited forever, neither shall it be dwelled in from generation to generation: neither shall the Arabian pitch his tents there, neither shall the shepherds make their folds there. But Ziim shall lodge there, and their houses shall be full of Ohim: Ostriches shall dwell there, and the Satyrs shall dance there. And Iim shall cry in their palaces, and dragons in their pleasant palaces: and the time thereof is ready to come, and the days thereof shall not be prolonged.

For the Lord will have compassion of Jaakob, and will yet choose Israel, and cause them to rest in their own land: and the stranger shall join himself unto them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jaakob. And the people shall receive them & bring them to their own place, and the house of Israel shall possess them in the land of the Lord, for servants & handmaids: and they shall take them prisoners, whose captives they were, and have rule over their oppressours. And in that day when the Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear, and from the sore bondage, wherein thou didst serve, then shalt thou take up this proverb against the King of Babel, and say, How hath the oppressor ceased? & the gold thirsty Babel rested?

The Lord hath broken the rod of the wicked, and the scepter of the rulers: Which smote the people in anger with a continual plague, and ruled the nations in wrath: if any were persecuted, he did not let. The whole world is at rest and is quiet: they sing for joy. Also the fir trees rejoiced of thee, and the cedars of Lebanon, saying, Since thou art laid down, no hewer came up against us. Hell beneath is moved for thee to meet thee at thy coming, raising up the dead for thee, even all the princes of the earth, and hath raised from their thrones all the Kings of the nations.

All they shall cry, and say unto thee, Art thou become weak also as we? Art thou become like unto us? Thy pomp is brought down to ye grave, and the sound of thy violes: the worm is spread under thee, and the worms cover thee. How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning? and cut down to the ground, which didst cast lots upon the nations? Yet thou saidest in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, and exalt my throne above beside the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the Congregation in the sides of the North. I will ascend above ye height of the clouds, and I will be like the most high. But thou shalt be brought down to the grave, to the sides of the pit.

They that see thee, shall look upon thee and consider thee, saying, Is this the man that made the earth to tremble, and that did shake the kingdoms? He made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof, and opened not the house of his prisoners. All the Kings of the nations, even they all sleep in glory, everyone in his own house. But thou art cast out of thy grave like an abominable branch: like the raiment of those that are slain, and thrust through with a sword, which go down to the stones of the pit, as a carkeise trodden under feet. Thou shalt not be joined with them in the grave, because thou hast destroyed thine own land, and slain thy people: the seed of the wicked shall not be removed forever. Prepare a slaughter for his children, for the iniquity of their fathers: let them not rise up nor possess the land, nor fill the face of the world with enemies. For I will rise up against them (saith the Lord of hosts) and will cut off from Babel the name and the remnant and the son, and the nephew, saith the Lord: And I will make it a possession to ye hedgehog, and pools of water, and I will sweep it with the besome of destruction, sayeth the Lord of hosts.

The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely like as I have purposed, so shall it come to pass, and as I have consulted, it shall stand: That I will break to pieces Asshur in my land, and upon my mountains will I tread him under foot: so that his yoke shall depart from them, and his burden shall be taken from off their shoulder.

This is the counsel that is consulted upon the whole world, and this is the hand stretched out over all the nations, because the Lord of hosts hath determined it, and who shall disanul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it away? In the year that King Ahaz died, was this burden. Rejoice not, (thou whole Palestina) because the rod of him that did beat thee, is broken for out of the serpents root shall come forth a cockatrice, & the fruit thereof shall be a fiery flying serpent. For the first borne of the poor shall be fed, and the needy shall lie down in safety: and I will kill thy root with famine, and it shall slay thy remnant. Howl, O gate, cry, O city: thou whole land of Palestina art dissolved, for there shall come from the North a smoke, and none shall be alone, at his time appointed. What shall then one answer the messengers of the Gentiles? That the Lord hath stablished Zion, and the poor of his people shall trust in it.

The burden of Moab.

Surely Ar of Moab was destroyed, & brought to silence in a night: surely Kir of Moab was destroyed, and brought to silence in a night. He shall go up to the temple, & to Dibon to the high places to weep: for Nebo & for Medeba shall Moab howl: upon all their heads shall be baldness, and every beard shaven. In their streets shall they be gilded with sackcloth: on the tops of their houses, and in their streets everyone shall howl, and come down with weeping. And Heshbon shall cry, and Elealeh: their voice shall be heard unto Jahaz: therefore the warriors of Moab shall shout: the soul of everyone shall lament in himself. Mine heart shall cry for Moab: his fugitives shall flee unto Zoar, an heiffer of three year old: for they shall go up with weeping by the mounting up of Luhith: and by the way of Horonaim they shall raise up a cry of destruction. For the waters of Nimrim shall be dried up: therefore the grass is withered, the herbs consumed, and there was no green herb. Therefore what every man hath left, and their substance shall they bear to the brook of the willows. For the cry went round about the borders of Moab: and the howling thereof unto Eglaim, and the skriking thereof unto Beer Elim, because the waters of Dimon shall be full of blood: for I will bring more upon Dimon, even lions upon him that escapeth of Moab, and to the remnant of the land.

Send ye a lamb to the ruler of the world from the rock of the wilderness, unto the mountain of the daughter Zion. For it shall be as a bird that flieth, and a nest forsaken: the daughters of Moab shall be at the fords of Arnon. Gather a counsel, execute judgement: make thy shadow as the night in the midday: hide them that are chased out: bewray not him that is fled. Let my banished dwell with thee: Moab be thou their covert from the face of the destroyer: for the extortioner shall end: the destroyer shall be consumed, and the oppressour shall cease out of the land. And in mercy shall the throne be prepared, and he shall sit upon it in steadfastness, in the tabernacle of David, judging, and seeking judgement, and hasting justice. We have heard of the pride of Moab, (he is very proud) even his pride, and his arrogancy, and his indignation, but his lies shall not be so. Therefore shall Moab howl unto Moab: everyone shall howl: for the foundations of Kirhareseth shall ye mourn, yet they shall be stricken. For ye vineyards of Heshbon are cut down, and the vine of Sibmah: the lords of the heathen have broken the principal vines thereof: they are come unto Jaazer: they wandered in the wilderness: her goodly branches stretched out themselves, and went over the sea. Therefore will I weep with the weeping of Jaazer, & of the vine of Sibmah, O Heshbon: and Elealeh, I will make thee drunk with my tears, because upon thy summer fruits, and upon thy harvest a shouting is fallen. And gladness is taken away, and joy out of the plentiful field: and in the vineyards shall be no singing nor shouting for joy: the treader shall not tread wine in the wine presses: I have caused the rejoicing to cease. Wherefore, my bowels shall sound like an harp for Moab, and mine inward parts for Ker-haresh. And when it shall appear that Moab shall be weary of his high places, then shall he come to his temple to pray, but he shall not prevail. This is the word that the Lord hath spoken against Moab since that time. And now the Lord hath spoken, saying, In three years, as the years of a hireling, and the glory of Moab shall be contemned in all the great multitude, & the remnant shall be very small and feeble.

The burden of Damascus.

Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, for it shall be a ruinous heap. The cities of Aroer shall be forsaken: they shall be for the flocks: for they shall lie there, and none shall make them afraid. The munition also shall cease from Ephraim, and the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Aram shall be as the glory of the children of Israel, sayeth the Lord of hosts. And in that day the glory of Jaakob shall be impoverished, and the fatness of his flesh shall be made lean. And it shall be as when the harvest man gathereth the corn, and reapeth the ears with his arm, and he shall be as he that gathereth the ears in the valley of Rephaim. Yet a gathering of grapes shall be left in it, as the shaking of an olive tree, two or three berries are in the top of the upmost boughs, & four or five in the high branches of the fruit thereof, sayeth the Lord God of Israel. At that day shall a man look to his maker, and his eyes shall look to the holy one of Israel. And he shall not look to the altars, the works of his own hands, neither shall he look to those things, which his own fingers have made, as groves and images. In that day shall the cities of their strength be as the forsaking of boughs & branches, which they did forsake, because of the children of Israel, and there shall be desolation. Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation, and hast not remembered the God of thy strength, therefore shalt thou set pleasant plants, and shalt graff strange vine branches: In the day shalt thou make thy plant to grow, and in the morning shalt thou make thy seed to flourish: but the harvest shall be gone in the day of possession, and there shall be desperate sorrow. Ah, the multitude of many people, they shall make a sound like the noise of the sea: for the noise of the people shall make a sound like the noise of mighty waters. The people shall make a sound like the noise of many waters: but God shall rebuke them, and they shall flee far off, and shall be chased as the chaff of the mountains before the wind, and as a rolling thing before the whirlwind. And lo, in the evening there is trouble: but afore the morning it is gone. This is the portion of them that spoil us, and the lot of them that rob us.

Oh, the land shadowing with wings, which is beyond the rivers of Ethiopia, sending ambassadours by the Sea, even in vessels of reeds upon the waters, saying, Go, ye swift messengers, to a nation that is scattered abroad, and spoiled, unto a terrible people from their beginning even hitherto: a nation by little and little, even trodden under foot, whose land the floods have spoiled. All ye the inhabitants of ye world and dwellers in the earth, shall see when he setteth up a sign in the mountains, and when he bloweth the trump, ye shall hear. For so the Lord said unto me, I will rest and behold in my tabernacle, as the heat drying up the rain, and as a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest. For afore the harvest when the flour is finished, and the fruit is riping in the flour, then he shall cut down the branches with hooks, and shall take away, and cut off the boughs: They shall be left together unto the fowls of the mountains, & to the beasts of the earth: for the fowl shall summer upon it, and every beast of the earth shall winter upon it. At that time shall a present be brought unto the Lord of hosts, (a people that is scattered abroad, and spoiled, & of a terrible people from their beginning hitherto, a nation, by little and little even trodden under foot, whose land the rivers have spoiled) to the place of the Name of the Lord of hosts, even the mount Zion.

The burden of Egypt.

Behold, the Lord rideth upon a swift cloud, and shall come into Egypt, and the idols of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst of her. And I will set the Egyptians against the Egyptians: so everyone shall fight against his brother, and everyone against his neighbour, city against city, and kingdom against kingdom. And the spirit of Egypt shall fail in the midst of her, and I will destroy their counsel, and they shall seek at the idols, and at the sorcerers, and at them that have spirits of divination, and at the southsayers. And I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of the cruel Lords, & a mighty King shall rule over them, saith the Lord God of hosts. Then the waters of the sea shall fail, and the rivers shall be dried up, and wasted. And the rivers shall go far away: the rivers of defense shall be emptied and dried up: the reeds and flags shall be cut down. The grass in the river, and at the head of the rivers, and all that groweth by the river, shall wither, and be driven away, and be no more. The fishers also shall mourn, and all they that cast angle into the river, shall lament, and they that spread their net upon the waters, shall be weakened. Moreover, they that work in flax of divers sorts, shall be confounded, and they that weave nets. For their nets shall be broken, and all they, that make ponds, shall be heavy in heart. Surely the princes of Zoan are fools: the counsel of the wise counselors of Pharaoh is become foolish: how say ye unto Pharaoh, I am the son of the wise? I am the son of the ancient Kings? Where are now thy wise men, that they may tell thee, or may know what the Lord of hosts hath determined against Egypt? The princes of Zoan are become fools: the princes of Noph are deceived, they have deceived Egypt, even the corners of the tribes thereof. The Lord hath mingled among them the spirit of errours: and they have caused Egypt to err in every work thereof, as a drunken man erreth in his vomit. Neither shall there be any work in Egypt, which the head may do, nor the tail, ye branch nor the rush. In that day shall Egypt be like unto women: for it shall be afraid and fear because of the moving of the hand of the Lord of hosts, which he shaketh over it. And the land of Judah shall be a fear unto Egypt: everyone that maketh mention of it, shall be afraid thereat, because of ye counsel of the Lord of hosts, which he hath determined upon it. In that day shall five cities in the land of Egypt speak the language of Canaan, and shall swear by the Lord of hosts. one shall be called the city of destruction. In that day shall the altar of the Lord be in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar by the border thereof unto the Lord. And it shall be for a sign and for a witness unto the Lord of hosts in the land of Egypt: for they shall cry unto the Lord, because of the oppressours, and he shall send them a Saviour and a great man, and shall deliver them. And the Lord shall be known of the Egyptians, and the Egyptians shall know the Lord in that day, and do sacrifice & oblation, & shall vow vows unto the Lord, and perform them. So ye Lord shall smite Egypt, he shall smite and heal it: for he shall return unto ye Lord, and he shall be entreated of them and shall heal them. In that day shall there be a path from Egypt to Asshur, and Asshur shall come into Egypt, and Egypt into Asshur: so the Egyptians shall worship with Asshur. In that day shall Israel be the third with Egypt and Asshur, even a blessing in the midst of the land. For the Lord of hosts shall bless it, saying, Blessed be my people Egypt and Asshur, the work of mine hands, and Israel mine inheritance.

In the year that Tartan came to Ashdod, (when Sargon King of Asshur sent him) and had fought against Ashdod, and taken it, at the same time spake the Lord by ye hand of Isaiah the son of Amoz, saying, Go, and loose the sackcloth from thy loins, and put off thy shoe from thy foot; he did so, walking naked and barefoot. And the Lord said, Like as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked, & barefoot three years, as a sign and wonder upon Egypt, and Ethiopia, so shall the King of Asshur take away the captivity of Egypt, and the captivity of Ethiopia, both young men and old men, naked and barefoot, with their buttocks uncovered, to the shame of Egypt. And they shall fear, & be ashamed of Ethiopia their expectation, & of Egypt their glory. Then shall the inhabitant of this isle say in that day, Behold, such is our expectation, whither we fled for help to be delivered from the King of Asshur, and how shall we be delivered?

The burden of the desert Sea.

As the whirlwinds in the South use to pass from the wilderness, so shall it come from the horrible land. A grievous vision was shewed unto me, The transgressour against a transgressour, and the destroyer against a destroyer. Go up Elam, besiege Media: I have caused all the mourning thereof to cease. Therefore are my loins filled with sorrow: sorrows have taken me as the sorrows of a woman that travaileth: I was bowed down when I heard it, and I was amazed when I saw it. Mine heart failed: fearfulness troubled me: the night of my pleasures hath he turned into fear unto me. Prepare thou the table: watch in the watch tower: eat, drink: arise, ye princes, anoint the shield. For thus hath the Lord said unto me, Go, set a watchman, to tell what he seeth. And he saw a chariot with two horsemen: a chariot of an ass, and a chariot of a camel: and he hearkened and took diligent heed. And he cried, A lion: my lord, I stand continually upon ye watchtower in the day time, and I am set in my watch every night: And behold, this mans chariot cometh with two horsemen; he answered and said, Babel is fallen: it is fallen, and all the images of her gods hath he broken unto the ground. O my threshing, and the corn of my floor. That which I have heard of the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, have I shewed unto you. The burden of Dumah. He calleth unto me out of Seir, Watchman, what was in ye night? Watchman, what was in the night? The watchman said, The morning cometh, and also the night. If ye will ask, inquire: return and come. The burden against Arabia. In the forest of Arabia shall ye tarry all night, even in the ways of Dedanim. O inhabitants of the land of Tema, bring forth water to meet the thirsty, and prevent him that fleeth with his bread. For they flee from the drawn swords, even from the drawn sword, & from the bent bow, and from the grievousness of war. For thus hath the Lord said unto me, Yet a year according to the years of an hireling, and all the glory of Kedar shall fail. And the residue of the number of ye strong archers of the sons of Kedar shall be few: for the Lord God of Israel hath spoken it.

The burden of the valley of vision.

What aileth thee now that thou art wholly gone up unto the house tops? Thou that art full of noise, a city full of brute, a joyous city: thy slain men shall not be slain with sword, nor die in battle. All thy princes shall flee together from the bow: they shall be bound: all that shall be found in thee, shall be bound together, which have fled from far. Therefore said I, Turn away from me: I will weep bitterly: labour not to comfort me for the destruction of the daughter of my people. For it is a day of trouble, and of ruin, and of perplexity by the Lord God of hosts in the valley of vision, breaking down the city: and a crying unto the mountains. And Elam bare the quiver in a mans chariot with horsemen, and Kir uncovered the shield. And thy chief valleys were full of chariots, and the horsemen set themselves in array against the gate. And he discovered the covering of Judah: and thou didst look in that day to the armour of the house of the forest. And ye have seen the breaches of the city of David: for they were many, and ye gathered the waters of the lower pool. And ye numbered the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses have ye broken down to fortify the wall, and have also made a ditch between the two walls, for the waters of the old pool, and have not looked unto the maker thereof, neither had respect unto him that formed it of old. And in that day did the Lord God of hosts call unto weeping and mourning, and to baldness and girding with sackcloth. And behold, joy and gladness, slaying oxen and killing sheep, eating flesh, & drinking wine, eating and drinking: for tomorrow we shall die. And it was declared in ye ears of the Lord of hosts. Surely this iniquity shall not be purged from you, til ye die, saith the Lord God of hosts. Thus sayeth the Lord God of hosts, Go, get thee to that treasurer, to Shebna, the steward of the house, and say, What haste thou to do here? and whom hast thou here? that thou shouldest here hew thee out a sepulchre, as he that heweth out his sepulchre in an high place, or that graveth an habitation for himself in a rock? Behold, the Lord will carry thee away with a great captivity, and will surely cover thee. He will surely roll and turn thee like a bal in a large country: there shalt thou die, and there the chariots of thy glory shall be the shame of thy lords house. And I will drive thee from thy station, and out of thy dwelling will he destroy thee. And in that day will I call my servant Eliakim the son of Hilkihah, and with thy garments will I clothe him, and with thy girdle will I strengthen him: thy power also will I commit into his hand, and he shall be a father of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and of the house of Judah. And the key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder: so he shall open, and no man shall shut: & he shall shut, & no man shall open. And I will fasten him as a nail in a sure place, and he shall be for the throne of glory to his fathers house. And they shall hang upon him all the glory of his fathers house, even of the nephews and posterity all small vessels, from the vessels of the cups, even to all the instruments of music. In that day, sayeth the Lord of hosts, shall the nail, that is fastned in the sure place, depart and shall be broken, and fall: and the burden, that was upon it, shall be cut off: for the Lord hath spoken it.

Howl, ye ships of Tarshish: for it is destroyed, so that there is none house: none shall come from the land of Chittim: it is revealed unto them. Be still, ye that dwell in the isles: the merchants of Zidon, and such as pass over the sea, have replenished thee. The seed of Nilus growing by the abundance of waters, and the harvest of the river was her revenues, and she was a mart of the nations. Be ashamed, thou Zidon: for the sea hath spoken, even the strength of the sea, saying, I have not travailed, nor brought forth children, neither nourished young men, nor brought up virgins. When the fame cometh to the Egyptians, they shall be sorry, concerning the rumour of Tyrus. Go you over to Tarshish: howl, ye that dwell in the isles. Is not this that your glorious city? her antiquity is of ancient days: her own feet shall lead her afar off to be a sojourner. Who hath decreed this against Tyrus (that crowneth men) whose merchants are princes? whose chapmen are the nobles of the world? The Lord of hosts hath decreed this, to stain the pride of all glory, and to bring to contempt all them that be glorious in the earth. Pass through thy land like a flood to the daughter of Tarshish: there is no more strength. He stretched out his hand upon the sea: he shook the kingdoms: the Lord hath given a commandment concerning the place of merchandise, to destroy the power thereof. And he said, Thou shalt no more rejoice when thou art oppressed: O virgin daughter of Zidon: rise up, go over unto Chittim: yet there thou shalt have no rest. Behold the land of the Caldeans: this was no people: Asshur founded it by the inhabitants of the wilderness: they set up the towers thereof: they raised the palaces thereof and he brought it to ruin. Howl ye ships of Tarshish, for your strength is destroyed. And in that day shall Tyrus be forgotten seventy years, (according to the years of one King) at the end of seventy years shall Tyrus sing as an harlot. Take an harp and go about the city: (thou harlot thou hast been forgotten) make sweet melody, sing more songs that thou mayest be remembered. And at the end of seventy years shall the Lord visit Tyrus, and she shall return to her wages, and shall commit fornication with all the kingdoms of the earth, that are in the world. Yet her occupying and her wages shall be holy unto the Lord: it shall not be layed up nor kept in store, but her merchandise shall be for them that dwell before the Lord, to eat sufficiently, and to have durable clothing.

Behold, the Lord maketh the earth empty, and he maketh it waste: he turneth it upside down, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof. And there shall be like people, like Priest, and like servant, like master, like maid, like mistress, like buyer, like seller, like lender, like borrower, like giver, like taker to usury. The earth shall be clean emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the Lord hath spoken this word. The earth lamenteth and fadeth away: the world is feeble and decayed: the proud people of the earth are weakened. The earth also deceiveth, because of the inhabitants thereof: for they transgressed the laws: they changed the ordinances, and brake the everlasting covenant. Therefore hath the curse devoured the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are desolate. Wherefore the inhabitants of the land are burned up, and few men are left. The wine faileth, the vine hath no might: all that were of merry heart, do mourn. The mirth of tabrets ceaseth: the noise of them that rejoyce, endeth: the joy of the harp ceaseth. They shall not drink wine with mirth: strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it. The city of vanity is broken down: every house is shut up, that no man may come in. There is a crying for wine in the streets: all joy is darkened: the mirth of the world is gone away. In the city is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction. Surely thus shall it be in the midst of the earth, among the people, as the shaking of an olive tree, and as the grapes when the vintage is ended. They shall lift up their voice: they shall shout for the magnificence of the Lord: they shall rejoyce from the sea. Wherefore praise ye the Lord in the valleys, even the Name of the Lord God of Israel, in the isles of the sea. From the uttermost part of the earth we have heard praises, even glory to the just, and I said, My leanness, my leanness, woe is me: the transgressours have offended: yea, the transgressours have grievously offended. Fear, and the pit, and the snare are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth. And he that fleeth from the noise of the fear, shall fall into the pit: and he that cometh up out of the pit, shall be taken in the snare: for the windows from on high are open, & the foundations of the earth do shake. The earth is utterly broken down: the earth is clean dissolved: the earth is moved exceedingly. The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunken man, and shall be removed like a tent, and the iniquity thereof shall be heavy upon it: so that it shall fall, and rise no more. And in that day shall the Lord visit the host above that is on high, even the Kings of the world that are upon the earth. And they shall be gathered together, as the prisoners in the pit: and they shall be shut up in the prison, and after many days shall they be visited. Then the moon shall be abashed, and the sun ashamed, when the Lord of hosts shall reign in mount Zion and in Jerusalem: and glory shall be before his ancient men.

O Lord, thou art my God: I will exalt thee, I will praise thy Name: for thou hast done wonderful things, according to the counsels of old, with a stable truth. For thou hast made of a city an heap, of a strong city, a ruin: even the palace of strangers of a city, it shall never be built. Therefore shall the mighty people give glory unto thee: the city of the strong nations shall fear thee. For thou hast been a strength unto the poor, even a strength to the needy in his trouble, a refuge against the tempest, a shadow against the heat: for the blast of the mighty is like a storm against the wall. Thou shalt bring down the noise of the strangers, as the heat in a dry place: he will bring down the song of the mighty, as the heat in the shadow of a cloud. And in this mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things, even a feast of fined wines, and of fat things full of marrow, of wines fined and purified. And he will destroy in this mountain the covering that covereth all people, and the vail that is spread upon all nations. He will destroy death forever: and the Lord God will wipe away the tears from all faces, and the rebuke of his people will he take away out of all the earth: for the Lord hath spoken it. And in that day shall men say, Lo, this is our God: we have waited for him, and he will save us. This is the Lord, we have waited for him: we will rejoice and be joyful in his salvation. For in this mountain shall the hand of the Lord rest, and Moab shall be threshed under him, even as straw is threshed in Madmenah. And he shall stretch out his hand in the midst of them (as he that swimmeth, stretcheth them out to swim) and with the strength of his hands shall he bring down their pride. The defense also of the height of thy walls shall he bring down and lay low, and cast them to the ground, even unto the dust.

In that day shall this song be sung in the land of Judah, We have a strong city: salvation shall God set for walls and bulwarks. Open ye the gates that the righteous nation, which keepeth the truth, may enter in. By an assured purpose wilt thou preserve perfect peace, because they trusted in thee. Trust in the Lord forever: for in the Lord God is strength forevermore. For he will bring down them that dwell on high: the high city he will abase: even unto the ground will he cast it down, & bring it unto dust. The foot shall tread it down, even the feet of the poor, and the steps of the needy. The way of the just is righteousness: thou wilt make equal the righteous path of the just. Also we, O Lord, have waited for thee in the way of thy judgements: the desire of our soul is to thy Name, and to the remembrance of thee. With my soul have I desired thee in the night, and with my spirit within me will I seek thee in the morning: for seeing thy judgements are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world shall learn righteousness. Let mercy be shewed to the wicked, yet he will not learn righteousness: in the land of uprightness will he do wickedly, and will not behold the majesty of the Lord. O Lord, they will not behold thine high hand: but they shall see it, and be confounded with the zeal of the people, and the fire of thine enemies shall devour them. Lord, unto us thou wilt ordain peace: for thou also hast wrought all our works for us. O Lord our God, other lords beside thee, have ruled us, but we will remember thee only, and thy Name. The dead shall not live, neither shall the dead arise, because thou hast visited and scattered them, and destroyed all their memory. Thou hast increased the nation, O Lord: thou hast increased the nation: thou art made glorious: thou hast enlarged all the coasts of the earth. Lord, in trouble have they visited thee: they poured out a prayer when thy chastening was upon them. Like as a woman with child, that draweth near to the travail, is in sorrow, and crieth in her pains, so have we been in thy sight, O Lord. We have conceived, we have borne in pain, as though we should have brought forth wind: there was no help in the earth, neither did the inhabitants of the world fall. Thy dead men shall live: even with my body shall they rise. Awake, and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead. Come, my people: enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors after thee: hide thyself for a very little while, until the indignation pass over. For lo, the Lord cometh out of his place, to visit the iniquity of the inhabitants of the earth upon them: and the earth shall disclose her blood, and shall no more hide her slain.

In that day the Lord with his sore and great and mighty sword shall visit Liviathan, that piercing serpent, even Liviathan, that crooked serpent, and he shall slay the dragon that is in the sea. In that day sing of the vineyard of red wine. I the Lord do keep it: I will water it every moment: lest any assail it, I will keep it night and day. Anger is not in me: who would set the briers & the thorns against me in battle? I would go through them, I would burn them together. Or will he feel my strength, that he may make peace with me, and be at one with me? Hereafter, Jaakob shall take root: Israel shall flourish and grow, and the world shall be filled with fruit. Hath he smitten him as he smote those that smote him? or is he slain according to the slaughter of them that were slain by him? In measure in the branches thereof wilt thou contend with it, when he bloweth with his rough wind in the day of the East wind. By this therefore shall the iniquity of Jaakob be purged, and this is all the fruit, the taking away of his sin: when he shall make all the stones of the altars, as chalk stones broken in pieces, that the groves and images may not stand up. Yet the defended city shall be desolate, and the habitation shall be forsaken, and left like a wilderness. There shall the calf feed, and there shall he lie, and consume the branches thereof. When the boughs of it are dry, they shall be broken: the women come, and set them on fire: for it is a people of none understanding: therefore he that made them, shall not have compassion of them, and he that formed them, shall have no mercy on them. And in that day shall the Lord thresh from the channel of the River unto the river of Egypt, and ye shall be gathered, one by one, O children of Israel. In that day also shall the great trumpet be blown, and they shall come, which perished in the land of Asshur: and they that were chased into the land of Egypt, and they shall worship the Lord in the holy Mount at Jerusalem.

Woe to the crown of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim: for his glorious beauty shall be a fading flower, which is upon the head of the valley of them that be fat, and are overcome with wine. Behold, the Lord hath a mighty and strong host, like a tempest of hail, and a whirlwind that overthroweth, like a tempest of mighty waters that overflow, which throw to the ground mightily. They shall be trodden under foot, even the crown & the pride of the drunkards of Ephraim. For his glorious beauty shall be a fading flower, which is upon the head of the valley of them that be fat, and as the hasty fruit afore summer, which when he that looketh upon it, seeth it, while it is in his hand, he eateth it. In that day shall the Lord of hosts be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty unto the residue of his people: And for a spirit of judgement to him that sitteth in judgement, and for strength unto them that turn away the battle to the gate. But they have erred because of wine, and are out of the way by strong drink: the priest and the prophet have erred by strong drink: they are swallowed up with wine: they have gone astray through strong drink: they fail in vision: they stumble in judgement. For all their tables are full of filthy vomiting: no place is clean. Whom shall he teach knowledge? and whom shall he make to understand the things that he heareth? them that are waned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts. For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little, and there a little. For with a stammering tongue and with a strange language shall he speak unto this people. Unto whom he said, This is the rest: give rest to him that is weary: and this is the refreshing, but they would not hear. Therefore shall the word of the Lord be unto them precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little and there a little, that they may go, and fall backward, and be broken, and be snared, and be taken. Wherefore, hear the word of the Lord, ye scornful men that rule this people, which is at Jerusalem. Because ye have said, We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement: though a scourge run over, and pass through, it shall not come at us: for we have made falsehood our refuge, & under vanity are we hid, therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will lay in Zion a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation. He that believeth, shall not make haste. Judgement also will I lay to the rule, and righteousness to the balance, and the hail shall sweep away the vain confidence, and the waters shall overflow the secret place. And your covenant with death shall be disannulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand: when a scourge shall run over and pass through, then shall ye be trod down by it. When it passeth over, it shall take you away: for it shall pass through every morning in the day, and in the night, and there shall be only fear to make you to understand the hearing. For the bed is straight that it can not suffice, and the covering narrow that one can not wrap himself. For the Lord shall stand as in mount Perazim: he shall be wroth as in the valley of Gibeon, that he may do his work, his strange work, and bring to pass his act, his strange act. Now therefore be no mockers, least your bonds increase: for I have heard of the Lord of hosts a consumption, even determined upon the whole earth. Hearken ye, and hear my voice: hearken ye, and hear my speech. Doth the plow man plow all the day, to sow? doeth he open, and break the clots of his ground? When he hath made it plain, will he not then sow the fitches, and sow cumin, and cast in wheat by measure, and the appointed barley and rye in their place? For his God doeth instruct him to have discretion, and doeth teach him. For fitches shall not be threshed with a threshing instrument, neither shall a cart wheel be turned about upon the cumin: but ye fitches are beaten out with a staff, and cumin with a rod. Bread corn when it is threshed, he doeth not alway thresh it, neither doeth the wheel of his cart still make a noise, neither will he break it with the teeth thereof. This also cometh from the Lord of hosts, which is wonderful in counsel, and excellent in works.

Ah altar, altar of the city that David dwelt in: add year unto year: let them kill lambs. But I will bring the altar into distress, and there shall be heaviness and sorrow, and it shall be unto me like an altar. And I will besiege thee as a circle, and fight against thee on a mount, and will cast up ramparts against thee. So shalt thou be humbled, and shalt speak out of the ground, and thy speech shall be as out of the dust: thy voice also shall be out of the ground like him that hath a spirit of divination, and thy talking shall whisper out of the dust. Moreover, the multitude of thy strangers shall be like small dust, and the multitude of strong men shall be as chaff that passeth away, and it shall be in a moment, even suddenly. Thou shalt be visited of the Lord of hosts with thunder, and shaking, and a great noise, a whirlwind, and a tempest, and a flame of a devouring fire. And the multitude of all the nations that fight against the altar, shall be as a dream or vision by night: even all they that make the war against it, and strongholds against it, and lay siege unto it. And it shall be like as an hungry man dreameth, and behold, he eateth: and when he awaketh, his soul is empty: or like as a thirsty man dreameth, and lo, he is drinking, and when he awaketh, behold, he is faint, and his soul longeth: so shall the multitude of all nations be that fight against mount Zion. Stay yourselves, and wonder: they are blind, and make you blind: they are drunken but not with wine: they stagger, but not by strong drink. For the Lord hath covered you with a spirit of slumber, and hath shut up your eyes: the Prophets, & your chief Seers hath he covered. And the vision of them all is become unto you, as the words of a book that is sealed up, which they deliver to one that can read, saying, Read this, I pray thee. Then shall he say, I can not: for it is sealed. And the book is given unto him that can not read, saying, Read this, I pray thee; he shall say, I can not read. Therefore the Lord said, Because this people come near unto me with their mouth, and honour me with their lips, but have removed their heart far from me, and their fear toward me was taught by the precept of men, Therefore behold, I will again do a marvelous work in this people, even a marvelous work, and a wonder: for the wisdom of their wise men shall perish, and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid. Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord: for their works are in darkness, and they say, Who seeth us? and who knoweth us? Your turning of devises shall it not be esteemed as the potters clay? for shall the work say of him that made it, He made me not? or the thing formed, say of him that fashioned it, He had none understanding? Is it not yet but a little while, and Lebanon shall be turned into Carmel? and Carmel shall be counted as a forest? And in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity, and out of darkness. The meek in the Lord shall receive joy again, and the poor men shall rejoice in the holy one of Israel. For the cruel man shall cease, & the scornful shall be consumed: and all that hasted to iniquity, shall be cut off: Which made a man to sin in ye word, and took him in a snare: which reproveth them in the gate, and made the just to fall without cause. Therefore thus saith the Lord unto the house of Jaakob, even he that redeemed

Abraham, Jaakob shall not now be confounded, neither now shall his face be pale. But when he seeth his children, the work of mine hands, in the midst of him, they shall sanctify my Name, and sanctify the holy one of Jaakob, and shall fear the God of Israel. Then they that erred in spirit, shall have understanding, and they that murmured, shall learn doctrine.

Woe to the rebellious children, saith the Lord, that take counsel, but not of me, and cover with a covering, but not by my spirit, that they may lay sin upon sin: Which walk forth to go down into Egypt (and have not asked at my mouth) to strengthen themselves with the strength of Pharaoh, and trust in the shadow of Egypt. But the strength of Pharaoh shall be your shame, and the trust in the shadow of Egypt your confusion. For his princes were at Zoan, and his Ambassadors came unto Hanes. They shall be all ashamed of the people that cannot profit them, nor help nor do them good, but shall be a shame and also a reproach. The burden of the beasts of the South, in a land of trouble and anguish, from whence shall come the young and old lion, the viper and fiery flying serpent against them that shall bear their riches upon the shoulders of the colts, and their treasures upon the bounces of the camels, to a people that cannot profit. For the Egyptians are vanity, & they shall help in vain. Therefore have I cried unto her, Their strength is to sit still. Now go, and write it before them in a table, and note it in a book that it may be for the last day forever and ever: That it is a rebellious people, lying children, and children that would not hear the law of the Lord. Which say unto the Seers, See not: and to the Prophets, Prophecy not unto us right things: but speak flattering things unto us: prophecy errors. Depart out of the way: go aside out of the path: cause the holy one of Israel to cease from us. Therefore thus saith the holy one of Israel, Because you have cast off this word, and trust in violence, and wickedness, and stay thereupon, therefore this iniquity shall be unto you as a breach that falleth, or a swelling in an high wall, whose breaking cometh suddenly in a moment. And the breaking thereof is like the breaking of a potter's pot, which is broken without pity, and in the breaking thereof is not found a sheared to take fire out of the hearth, or to take water out of the pit. For thus said the Lord God, the Holy one of Israel, In rest and quietness shall ye be saved: in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength, but ye would not. For ye have said, No, but we will flee away upon horses. Therefore shall ye flee. We will ride upon the swiftest. Therefore shall your persecutors be swifter. A thousand as one shall flee at the rebuke of one: at the rebuke of five shall ye flee, till ye be left as a ship mast upon the top of a mountain, and as a beaken upon an hill. Yet therefore will the Lord wait, that he may have mercy upon you, and therefore will he be exalted, that he may have compassion upon you: for the Lord is the God of judgement. Blessed are all they that wait for him. Surely a people shall dwell in Zion, and in Jerusalem: thou shalt weep no more: he will certainly have mercy upon thee at the voice of thy cry: when he heareth thee, he will answer thee. And when the Lord hath given you the bread of adversity, and the water of affliction, thy rain shall be no more kept back, but thine eyes shall see thy rain. And thine ears shall hear a word behind thee, saying, This is the way, walk ye in it, when thou turnest to the right hand, & when thou turnest to the left. And ye shall pollute the covering of the images of silver, and the rich ornament of thine images of gold, and cast them away as a menstruous cloth, and thou shalt say unto it, Get thee hence. Then shall he give rain unto thy seed, when thou shalt sow the ground, and bread of the increase of the earth, and it shall be fat and as oil: in that day shall thy cattle be fed in large pastures. The oxen also and the young asses, that till the ground, shall eat clean provender, which is winowed with the shovel and with the fan. And upon every high mountain, and upon every high hill shall there be rivers and streams of waters, in the day of the great slaughter, when the towers shall fall. Moreover, the light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun shall be seven fold, and like the light of seven days in the day that the Lord shall bind up the breach of his people, and heal the stroke of their wound. Behold, the Name of the Lord cometh from far, his face is burning, & the burden thereof is heavy: his lips are full of indignation, and his tongue is as a devouring fire. And his spirit is as a river that overfloweth up to the neck: it divideth asunder, to fan the nations with the fan of vanity, and there shall be a bridle to cause them to err in the chawes of the people. But there shall be a song unto you as in the night, when solemn feast is kept: and gladness of heart, as he that cometh with a pipe to go unto the mount of the Lord, to the mighty one of Israel. And the Lord shall cause his glorious voice to be heard, and shall declare the lighting down of his arm with the anger of his countenance, and flame of a devouring fire, with scattering and tempest, and hailstones. For with the voice of the Lord shall Asshur be destroyed, which smote with the rod. And in every place that ye staff shall pass, it shall cleave fast, which the Lord shall lay upon him with tabrets & harps: and with battles, and lifting up of hands shall he fight against it. For Tophet is prepared of old: it is even prepared for the King: he hath made it deep and large: the burning thereof is fire and much wood: the breath of the Lord, like a river of brimstone, doth kindle it.

Woe unto them that go down into Egypt for help, and stay upon horses, and trust in chariots, because they are many, and in horsemen, because they be very strong: but they look not unto the holy one of Israel, nor seek unto the Lord. But he yet is wisest: therefore he will bring evil, and not turn back his word, but he will arise against the house of the wicked, and against the help of them that work vanity. Now the Egyptians are men, and not God, and their horses flesh and not spirit: and when the Lord shall stretch out his hand, the helper shall fall, and he that is holpen shall fall, and they shall altogether fail. For thus hath the Lord spoken unto me, As the lion or lion's whelp roareth upon his prey, against whom if a multitude of shepherds be called, he will not be afraid at their voice, neither will humble himself at their noise: so shall the Lord of hosts come down to fight for mount Zion, and for the hill thereof. As birds that fly, so shall the Lord of hosts defend Jerusalem by defending and delivering, by passing through and preserving it. O ye children of Israel, turn again, in as much as ye are sunken deep in rebellion. For in that day every man shall cast out his idols of silver, and his idols of gold, which your hands have made you, even a sin. Then shall Asshur fall by the sword, not of man, neither shall the sword of man devour him, and he shall flee from the sword, and his young men shall faint. And he shall go for fear to his tower, and his princes shall be afraid of the standard, sayeth the Lord, whose fire is in Zion, and his furnace in Jerusalem.

Behold, a King shall reign in justice, and the princes shall rule in judgement. And that man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and as a refuge for the tempest: as rivers of water in a dry place, and as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. The eyes of the seeing shall not be shut, and the ears of them that hear, shall hearken. And the heart of the foolish shall understand knowledge, and the tongue of the stutters shall be ready to speak distinctly. A niggard shall no more be called liberal, nor the churl rich. But the niggard will speak of niggardness, and his heart will work iniquity, and do wickedly, and speak falsely against the Lord, to make empty the hungry soul, and to cause the drink of the thirsty to fail. For the weapons of the churl are wicked: he deviseth wicked counsels, to undo the poor with lying words: and to speak against the poor in judgement. But the liberal man will devise of liberal things, and he will continue his liberality. Rise up, ye women that are at ease: hear my voice, ye careless daughters: hearken to my words. Ye women, that are careless, shall be in fear above a year in days: for the vintage shall fail, and the gatherings shall come no more. Ye women, that are at ease, be astonished: fear, O ye careless women: put off the clothes: make bare, and gird sackcloth upon the loins. Men shall lament for the teats, even for the pleasant fields, and for the fruitful vine. Upon the land of my people shall grow thorns and briers: yea, upon all the houses of joy in the city of rejoicing, because the palace shall be forsaken, and the noise of the city shall be left: the tower and fortress shall be dens forever, & the delight of wild asses, and a pasture for flocks, until the Spirit be poured upon us from above, and the wilderness become a fruitful field, and the plenteous field be counted as a forest. And judgement shall dwell in the desert, and justice shall remain in the fruitful field. And the work of justice shall be peace, even the work of justice and quietness, and assurance forever. And my people shall dwell in the tabernacle of peace, and in sure dwellings, and in safe resting places. When it haileth, it shall fall on the forest, and the city shall be set in the low place. Blessed are ye that sow upon all waters, and drive thither the feet of the ox & the ass.

Woe to thee that spoilest, and wast not spoiled: and doest wickedly, and they did not wickedly against thee: when thou shalt cease to spoil, thou shalt be spoiled: when thou shalt make an end of doing wickedly, they shall do wickedly against thee. O Lord, have mercy upon us, we have waited for thee: be thou, which waste their arm in the morning, our help also in time of trouble. At the noise of the tumult, the people fled: at thine exalting the nations were scattered. And your spoil shall be gathered like the gathering of caterpillers: and he shall go against him like the leaping of grasshoppers. The Lord is exalted: for he dwelleth on high: he hath filled Zion with judgement & justice. And there shall be stability of thy times, strength, salvation, wisdom and knowledge: for the fear of the Lord shall be his treasure. Behold, their messengers shall cry without, and ye ambassadours of peace shall weep bitterly. The paths are waste: the wayfaring man ceaseth: he hath broken the covenant: he hath condemned the cities: he regarded no man. The earth mourneth & fainteth: Lebanon is ashamed, and hewn down: Sharon is like a wilderness, and Bashan is shaken and Carmel. Now will I arise, saith the Lord: now will I be exalted, now will I lift up myself. Ye shall conceive chaff, and bring forth stubble: the fire of your breath shall devour you. And the people shall be as the burning of lime: and as the thorns cut up, shall they be burnt in the fire. Hear, ye that are far off, what I have done, and ye that are near, know my power. The sinners in Zion are afraid: a fear is come upon the hypocrites: who among us shall dwell with the devouring fire? who among us shall dwell with the everlasting burnings? He that walketh in justice, and speaketh righteous things, refusing gain of oppression, shaking his hands from taking of gifts, stopping his ears from hearing of blood, and shutting his eyes from seeing evil. He shall dwell on high: his defense shall be the munitions of rocks: bread shall be given him, and his waters shall be sure. Thine eyes shall see the King in his glory: they shall behold the land far off. Thine heart shall meditate fear, Where is the scribe? where is the receiver? where is he that counted the towers? Thou shalt not see a fierce people, a people of a dark speech, that thou canst not perceive, and of a stammering tongue that thou canst not understand. Look upon Zion the city of our solemn feasts: thine eyes shall see Jerusalem a quiet habitation, a Tabernacle that can not be removed: and the stakes thereof can never be taken away, neither shall any of the cords thereof be broken. For surely there the mighty Lord will be unto us, as a place of floods and broad rivers, whereby shall pass no ship with oars, neither shall great ship pass thereby. For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our law giver: the Lord is our King, he will save us. Thy cords are loosed: they could not well strengthen their mast, neither could they spread the sail: then shall the pray be divided for a great spoil: yea, the lame shall take away the pray. And none inhabitant shall say, I am sick: the people that dwell therein, shall have their iniquity forgiven.

Come near, ye nations and hear, and hearken, ye people: let the earth hear and all that is therein, the world & all that proceedeth thereof. For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and his wrath upon all their armies: he hath destroyed them and delivered them to the slaughter. And their slain shall be cast out, and their stink shall come up out of their bodies, and the mountains shall be melted with their blood. And all the host of heaven shall be dissolved, and the heavens shall be folden like a book: and all their hosts shall fall as the leaf falleth from the vine, and as it falleth from the fig tree. For my sword shall be drunken in the heaven: behold, it shall come down upon Edom, even upon the people of my curse to judgement. The sword of the Lord is filled with blood: it is made fat with the fat & with the blood of the lambs & the goats, with the fat of the kidneys of the rams: for the Lord hath a sacrifice in Bozrah, and a great slaughter in the land of Edom. And the unicorn shall come down with them and the heiffers with the bulls, and their land shall be drunken with blood, and their dust made fat with fatness. For it is the day of the Lords vengeance, and the year of recompense for the judgement of Zion. And the rivers thereof shall be turned into pitch, and the dust thereof into brimstone, and the land thereof shall be burning pitch. It shall not be quenched night nor day: the smoke thereof shall go up evermore: it shall be desolate from generation to generation: none shall pass through it forever. But the pelican and the hedgehog shall possess it, and the great owl, and the raven shall dwell in it, and he shall stretch out upon it the line of vanity, and the stones of emptiness. The nobles thereof shall call to the kingdom, and there shall be none, and all the princes thereof shall be as nothing. And it shall bring forth thorns in the palaces thereof, nettles and thistles in the strongholds thereof, and it shall be an habitation for dragons, and a court for ostriches. There shall meet also Ziim and Jim, and the Satyre shall cry to his fellow, and the shricheowle shall rest there, and shall find for herself a quiet dwelling. There shall the owl make her nest, and lay, and hatch, and gather them under her shadow: there shall the vultures also be gathered, everyone with her make. Seek in the book of the Lord, and read: none of these shall fail, none shall want her make: for his mouth hath commanded, and his very Spirit hath gathered them. And he hath cast the lot for them, and his hand hath divided it unto them by line: they shall possess it forever: from generation to generation shall they dwell in it.

The desert and the wilderness shall rejoice: and the waste ground shall be glad and flourish as the rose. It shall flourish abundantly and shall greatly rejoice also and joy: the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it: the beauty of Carmel, and of Sharon, they shall see the glory of the Lord, and the excellency of our God. Strengthen the weak hands, and comfort the feeble knees. Say unto them that are fearful, Be you strong, fear not: behold, your God cometh with vengeance: even God with a recompense, he will come and save you. Then shall the eyes of the blind be lightened, and the ears of the deaf be opened. Then shall ye lame man leap as an hart, and the dumb man's tongue shall sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, & rivers in ye desert. And the dry ground shall be as a pool, and the thirsty (as springs of water in the habitation of dragons: where they lay) shall be a place for reeds and rushes. And there shall be a path and a way, and the way shall be called holy: the polluted shall not pass by it: for he shall be with them, and walk in the way, and the fools shall not err. There shall be no lion, nor noisome beasts shall ascend by it, neither shall they be found there, that the redeemed may walk. Therefore the redeemed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with praise: and everlasting joy shall be upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and mourning shall flee away.

Now in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Saneherib King of Asshur came up against all the strong cities of Judah, & took them. And the King of Asshur sent Rabshakeh from Lachish toward Jerusalem unto King Hezekiah, with a great host, & he stood by ye conduit of the upper pool in the path of the fullers field. Then came forth unto him Eliakim the son of Hilkiah the steward of the house, and Shebna the chanceler, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder. And Rabshakeh said unto them, Tell you Hezekiah, I pray you, Thus saith the great King, the King of Asshur, What confidence is this, wherein thou trustest? I say, Surely I have eloquence, but counsel and strength are for the war: on whom then doest thou trust, that thou rebellest against me? Lo, thou trustest in this broken staff of reed on Egypt, whereupon if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh King of Egypt, unto all that trust in him. But if thou say to me, We trust in the Lord our God. Is not that he, whose high places & whose altars Hezekiah took down, & said to Judah & to Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar? Now therefore give hostages to my lord the King of Asshur, and I will give thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them. For how canst thou despise any captain of the least of my lord's servants? and put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen? And am I now come up without the Lord to this land to destroy it? The Lord said unto me, Go up against this land and destroy it.

Then said Eliakim and Shebna and Joah unto Rabshakeh, Speak, I pray thee, to thy servants in the Aramites language, (for we understand it) & talk not with us in the Jews tongue, in the audience of the people that are on the wall.

Then said Rabshakeh, Hath my master sent me to thy master, and to thee to speak these words, and not to the men that sit on the wall? that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piss with you?

So Rabshakeh stood, & cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and said, Hear the words of the great King, of the King of Asshur. Thus saith the King, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he shall not be able to deliver you. Neither let Hezekiah make you to trust in the Lord, saying, The Lord will surely deliver us: this city shall not be given over into the hand of the King of Asshur. Hearken not to Hezekiah: for thus saith the King of Asshur, Make appointment with me, and come out to me, that every man may eat of his own vine, & every man of his own fig tree, and drink every man the water of his own well, till I come and bring you to a land like your own land, even a land of wheat, and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, lest Hezekiah deceive you, saying, The Lord will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the King of Asshur? Where is the god of Hamath, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharuaim? or how have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand? Who is he among all the gods of these lands, that hath delivered their country out of mine hand, that the Lord should deliver Jerusalem out of mine hand?

Then they kept silence, and answered him not a word: for the King's commandment was, saying, Answer him not. Then came Eliakim the son of Hilkiah the steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah with rent clothes, and told him the words of Rabshakeh.

And when the King Hezekiah heard it, he rent his clothes, and put on sackcloth and came into the House of the Lord. And he sent Eliakim the steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, with the Elders of the Priests, clothed in sackcloth unto Isaiah the Prophet, the son of Amoz. And they said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of tribulation and of rebuke and blasphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is no strength to bring forth. If so be the Lord thy God hath heard the words of Rabshakeh, whom the King of Asshur his master hath sent to rail on the living God, and to reproach him with words which the Lord thy God hath heard, then lift thou up thy prayer for the remnant that are left. So the servants of the King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

And Isaiah said unto them, Thus say unto your master, Thus saith the Lord, Be not afraid of the words that thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Asshur have blasphemed me. Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a noise, and return to his own land, and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

So Rabshakeh returned, and found the King of Asshur fighting against Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish. He heard also men say of Tirhakah, King of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight against thee: and when he heard it, he sent other messengers to Hezekiah, saying, Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah King of Judah, saying, Let not thy God deceive thee, in whom thou trustest, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the King of Asshur. Behold, thou hast heard what the Kings of Asshur have done to all lands in destroying them, and shalt thou be delivered? Have the gods of the nations delivered them, which my fathers have destroyed? as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden, which were at Telassar? Where is the King of Hamath, and the King of Arpad, and the King of the city of Sepharuaim, Hena and Juah?

So Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers and read it, and he went up into the House of the Lord, and Hezekiah spread it before the Lord. And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, saying, O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, which dwellest between the Cherubims, thou art very God alone over all the kingdoms of the earth: thou hast made the heaven and the earth. Incline thine ear, O Lord, and hear: open thine eyes, O Lord, and see, and hear all the words of Saneherib, who hath sent to blaspheme the living God. Truth it is, O Lord, that the Kings of Asshur have destroyed all lands, & their country, and have cast their gods in ye fire: for they were no gods, but the work of man's hands, even wood or stone: therefore they destroyed them. Now therefore, O Lord our God, save thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know, that thou only art the Lord.

Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Because thou hast prayed unto me, concerning Saneherib king of Asshur, this is the word that the Lord hath spoken against him, the virgin, the daughter of Zion, hath despised thee, & laughed thee to scorn: the daughter of Jerusalem, hath shaken her head at thee. Whom hast thou railed on and blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, & lifted up thine eyes on high? even against the holy one of Israel. By thy servants hast thou railed on the Lord, and said, By the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the top of the mountains to the sides of Lebanon, and will cut down the high cedars thereof, and the fair fir trees thereof, and I will go up to the heights of his top and to the forest of his fruitful places. I have digged and drunk the waters, and with the plant of my feet have I dried all the rivers closed in. Hast thou not heard how I have of old time made it, and have formed it long ago? and should I now bring it, that it should be destroyed, and laid on ruinous heaps, as cities defended? Whose inhabitants have small power, and are afraid & confounded: they are like the grass of the field & green herb, or grass on the house tops, or corn blassed afore it be grown. But I know thy dwelling, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy fury against me. Because thou ragest against me, and thy tumult is come unto mine ears, therefore will I put mine hook in thy nostrils, and my bridle in thy lips, and will bring thee back again the same way thou camest. And this shall be a sign unto thee, O Hezekiah, Thou shalt eat this year such as groweth of itself: and the second year, such things as grow without sowing: and in the third year, sow ye and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof. And the remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah, shall again take root downward and bear fruit upward. For out of Jerusalem shall go a remnant, and they that escape out of mount Zion: the zeal of the Lord of hosts shall do this. Therefore thus saith the Lord, concerning the King of Asshur, He shall not enter into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a mount against it. By the same way that he came, he shall return, and not come into this city, saith the Lord. For I will defend this city to save it, for mine own sake, & for my servant David's sake.

Then the Angel of the Lord went out, and smote in the camp of Asshur an hundred, fourscore, and five thousand: so when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses. So Saneherib king of Asshur departed, and went away and returned and dwelt at Nineveh. And as he was in the temple worshipping of Nisroch his god, Adramelech and Sharezer his sons slew him with the sword, and they escaped into the land of Ararat: and Esarhaddon his son reigned in his stead.

About that time was Hezekiah sick unto the death, and the Prophet Isaiah son of Amoz came unto him, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Put thine house in an order, for thou shalt die, and not live.

Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the Lord, and said, I beseech thee, Lord, remember now how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, & have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept sore.

Then came the word of the Lord to Isaiah, saying, Go, and say unto Hezekiah, Thus saith the Lord God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, and seen thy tears: behold, I will add unto thy days fifteen years. And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the King of Asshur, and this city: for I will defend this city. And this sign shalt thou have of ye Lord, that ye Lord will do this thing that he hath spoken, Behold, I will bring again the shadow of the degrees (whereby it is gone down in the dial of Ahaz by the sun) ten degrees backward: so the sun returned by ten degrees, by the which degrees it was gone down.

The writing of Hezekiah King of Judah, when he had been sick, and was recovered of his sickness. I said in the cutting off of my days, I shall go to the gates of the grave: I am deprived of the residue of my years. I said, I shall not see the Lord, even the Lord in the land of the living: I shall see man no more among the inhabitants of the world. Mine habitation is departed, and is removed from me, like a shepherd's tent: I have cut off like a weaver my life: he will cut me off from the height: from day to night, thou wilt make an end of me. I reckoned to the morning: but he brake all my bones, like a lion: from day to night wilt thou make an end of me. Like a crane or a swallow, so did I chatter: I did mourn as a dove: mine eyes were lift up on high: O Lord, it hath oppressed me, comfort me. What shall I say? for he hath said it to me, and he hath done it: I shall walk weakly all my years in the bitterness of my soul. O Lord, to them that overlive them, and to all that are in them, the life of my spirit shall be known, that thou causedst me to sleep and hast given life to me. Behold, for felicity I had bitter grief, but it was thy pleasure to deliver my soul from the pit of corruption: for thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back.

For the grave cannot confess thee: death cannot praise thee: they that go down into the pit, cannot hope for thy truth. But the living, the living, he shall confess thee, as I do this day: the father to the children shall declare thy truth. The Lord was ready to save me: therefore we will sing my song, all the days of our life in the House of the Lord.

Then said Isaiah, Take a lump of dry figs and lay it upon the boil, and he shall recover.

Also Hezekiah had said, What is ye sign, that I shall go up into the House of the Lord?

At the same time, Merodach Baladan, the son of Baladan, King of Babel, sent letters, and a present to Hezekiah: for he had heard that he had been sick, and was recovered. And Hezekiah was glad of them, and shewed them the house of the treasures, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his kingdom that Hezekiah shewed them not. Then came Isaiah the Prophet unto King Hezekiah, & said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they to thee?

And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country unto me, from Babel.

Then said he, What have they seen in thine house?

And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasures, that I have not shewed them.

And Isaiah said to Hezekiah, Hear the word of the Lord of hosts, Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine house, and which thy fathers have laid up in store until this day, shall be carried to Babel: nothing shall be left, sayeth the Lord. And of thy sons, that shall proceed out of thee, and which thou shalt beget, shall they take away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the King of Babel.

Then said Hezekiah to Isaiah, The word of the Lord is good, which thou hast spoken: and he said, Yet let there be peace, and truth in my days.

Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, will your God say. Speak comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned: for she hath received of the Lords hand double for all her sins. A voice cryeth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make straight in the desert a path for our God. Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be straight, & the rough places plain. And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. A voice said, Cry; he said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the grace thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the Spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it: surely the people is grass. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand forever. O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain: O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength: lift it up, be not afraid: say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God. Behold, the Lord God will come with power, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him, He shall feed his flock like a shepherd: he shall gather the lambs with his arm, & carry them in his bosom, and shall guide them with young. Who hath measured the waters in his fist? and counted heaven with the span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure? and weighed ye mountains in a weight, and the hills in a balance? Who hath instructed ye Spirit of the Lord? or was his counselor or taught him? Of whom took he counsel, and who instructed him and taught him in the way of judgement? or taught him knowledge, and shewed unto him the way of understanding? Behold, the nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the dust of the balance: behold, he taketh away the isles as a little dust. And Lebanon is not sufficient for fire, nor the beasts thereof sufficient for a burnt offering. All nations before him are as nothing, and they are counted to him, less then nothing, and vanity. To whom then will ye liken God? or what similitude will ye set up unto him? The workman melteth an image, or the goldsmith beateth it out in gold, or the goldsmith maketh silver plates. Doth not the poor choose out a tree that will not rot, for an oblation? he seeketh also unto him a cunning workman, to prepare an image, that shall not be moved. Know ye nothing? have ye not heard it? hath it not been told you from the beginning? have ye not understand it by the foundation of the earth? He sitteth upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers, he stretcheth out ye heavens, as a curtain, and spreadeth them out, as a tent to dwell in. He bringeth the princes to nothing, and maketh the judges of the earth, as vanity, as though they were not plated, as though they were not sown, as though their stock took no root in the earth: for he did even blow upon them, and they withered, and the whirlwind will take them away as stubble. To whom now will ye liken me, that I should be like him, saith the Holy one? Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, and bringeth out their armies by number, and calleth them all by names? by the greatness of his power & mighty strength nothing faileth. Why sayest thou, O Jaakob, and speakest O Israel, My way is hid from the Lord, and my judgement is passed over of my God? Knowest thou not? or hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord hath created the ends of the earth? he neither fainteth, nor is weary: there is no searching of his understanding. But he giveth strength unto him that fainteth, and unto him that hath no strength, he encreaseth power. Even the young men shall faint, and be weary, and the young men shall stumble and fall. But they that wait upon the Lord, shall renew their strength: they shall lift up the wings as the eagles: they shall run, and not be weary, and they shall walk and not faint.

Keep silence before me, O islands, and let the people renew their strength: let them come near, and let them speak: let us come together into judgement. Who raised up justice from the East, and called him to his foot? and gave the nations before him, and subdued the Kings? he gave them as dust to his sword, and as scattered stubble unto his bow. He pursued them, and passed safely by the way that he had not gone with his feet. Who hath wrought and done it? he that calleth the generations from the beginning. I the Lord am the first, and with the last I am ye same. The isles saw it, and did fear, & the ends of the earth were abashed, drew near, and came. Every man helped his neighbour, and said to his brother, Be strong. So the workman comforted the founder, and he that smote with ye hammer, him that smote by course, saying, It is ready for the soldering, and he fastened it with nails that it should not be moved. But thou, Israel, art my servant, and thou Jaakob, whom I have chosen, the seed of Abraham my friend. For I have taken thee from the ends of the earth, and called thee before the chief thereof, and said unto thee, Thou art my servant: I have chosen thee, and not cast thee away. Fear thou not, for I am with thee: be not afraid, for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee, and help thee, and will sustain thee with the right hand of my justice. Behold, all they that provoke thee, shall be ashamed, and confounded: they shall be as nothing, and they that strive with thee, shall perish. Thou shalt seek them and shalt not find them: to wit, the men of thy strife, for they shall be as nothing, and the men that war against thee, as a thing of nought. For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not, I will help thee. Fear not, thou worm, Jaakob, and ye men of Israel: I will help thee, saith the Lord and thy redeemer the holy one of Israel. Behold, I will make thee a roller, & a new threshing instrument having teeth: thou shalt thresh the mountains, and bring them to powder, and shalt make the hills as chaff. Thou shalt fan them, and the wind shall carry them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them: and thou shalt rejoice in the Lord, & shalt glory in the holy one of Israel. When the poor and the needy seek water, & there is none (their tongue faileth for thirst: I the Lord will hear them: I the God of Israel will not forsake them). I will open rivers in the tops of the hills, and fountains in the midst of the valleys: I will make the wilderness as a pool of water, and the waste land as springs of water. I will set in the wilderness the cedar, the shittah tree, and the myrrh tree, and the pine tree, and I will set in the wilderness the fir tree, the elm and the box tree together. Therefore let them see and know, and let them consider and understand together that the hand of the Lord hath done this, & the holy one of Israel hath created it. Stand to your cause, saith the Lord: bring forth your strong reasons, saith ye King of Jaakob. Let them bring forth, and let them tell us what shall come: let them shew the former things what they be, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them: either declare us things for to come. Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods: yea, do good or do evil, that we may declare it, and behold it together. Behold, ye are of no value, and your making is of naught: man hath chosen an abomination by them. I have raised up from the North, and he shall come: from the East sun shall he call upon my Name, & shall come upon princes as upon clay, and as the potter treadeth myrrh under the foot. Who hath declared from the beginning, that we may know? or before time, that we may say, He is righteous? Surely there is none that sheweth: surely there is none that declareth: surely there is none that heareth your words. I am the first, that sayeth to Zion, Behold, behold them: and I will give to Jerusalem one that shall bring good tidings. But when I beheld, there was none, and when I inquired of them, there was no counselor, and when I demanded of them, they answered not a word. Behold, they are all vanity: their work is of nothing, their images are wind and confusion.

Behold, my servant: I will stay upon him: mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth: I have put my Spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgement to the Gentiles. He shall not cry, nor lift up, nor cause his voice to be heard in the street. A bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench: he shall bring forth judgement in truth. He shall not fail nor be discouraged till he have set judgement in the earth: and the isles shall wait for his law. Thus sayeth God the Lord (he that created the heavens and spread them abroad: he that stretched forth the earth, and the buds thereof: he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein) I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and I will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, and for a light of the Gentiles, that thou mayest open the eyes of the blind, and bring out the prisoners from the prison: and them that sit in darkness, out of the prison house. I am the Lord, this is my Name, and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images. Behold, the former things are come to pass, and new things do I declare: before they come forth, I tell you of them. Sing unto the Lord a new song, and his praise from the end of the earth: ye that go down to the sea, and all that is therein: the isles and the inhabitants thereof. Let the wilderness and the cities thereof lift up their voice, the towns that Kedar doth inhabit: let the inhabitants of the rocks sing: let them shout from the top of the mountains. Let them give glory unto the Lord, and declare his praise in the islands. The Lord shall go forth as a giant: he shall stir up his courage like a man of war: he shall shout and cry, and shall prevail against his enemies. I have a long time holden my peace: I have been still and refrained myself: now will I cry like a travailing woman: I will destroy and devour at once. I will make waste mountains, and hills, and dry up all their herbs, and I will make the floods islands, and I will dry up the pools. And I will bring the blind by a way, that they knew not, and lead them by paths that they have not known: I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them. They shall be turned back: they shall be greatly ashamed, that trust in graven images, and say to the molten images, Ye are our gods. Hear, ye deaf: and ye blind, regard, that ye may see. Who is blind but my servant? or deaf as my messenger, that I sent? who is blind as the perfect, and blind as the Lord's servant? Seeing many things, but thou keepest them not? opening the ears, but he heareth not? The Lord is willing for his righteousness sake that he may magnify the Law, and exalt it. But this people is robbed & spoiled, and shall be all snared in dungeons, and they shall be hid in prison houses: they shall be for a prey, and none shall deliver: a spoil, and none shall say, Restore. Who among you shall hearken to this, and take heed, and hear for afterwards? Who gave Jaakob for a spoil, and Israel to the robbers? Did not ye Lord, because we have sinned against him? for they would not walk in his ways, neither be obedient unto his Law. Therefore he hath poured upon him his fierce wrath, and the strength of battle: and it set him on fire round about, and he knew not, and it burned him up, yet he considered not.

But now thus sayeth the Lord, that created thee, O Jaakob: and he that formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee: I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine. When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee, & through the floods, that they do not overflow thee. When thou walkest through the very fire, thou shalt not be burnt, neither shall the flame kindle upon thee. For I am the Lord thy God, the holy one of Israel, thy Saviour: I gave Egypt for thy ransom, Ethiopia, and Seba for thee. Because thou wast precious in my sight, and thou wast honourable, and I loved thee, therefore will I give man for thee, and people for thy sake. Fear not, for I am with thee: I will bring thy seed from the East, and gather thee from the West. I will say to the North, Give: and to the South, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, & my daughters from the ends of the earth. Everyone shall be called by my Name: for I created him for my glory, formed him and made him. I will bring forth the blind people, and they shall have eyes, and the deaf, and they shall have ears. Let all the nations be gathered together, & let the people be assembled: who among them can declare this and shew us former things? let them bring forth their witnesses, that they may be justified: but let them hear, & say, It is truth. You are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant, whom I have chosen: therefore ye shall know and believe me and ye shall understand that I am: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me. I, even I am the Lord, and beside me there is no Saviour. I have declared, and I have saved, and I have shewed, when there was no strange god among you: therefore you are my witnesses, sayeth the Lord, that I am God. Yea, before the day was, I am, and there is none that can deliver out of mine hand: I will do it, and who shall let it?

Thus sayeth the Lord your redeemer, the holy one of Israel, For your sake I have sent to Babel, and brought it down: they are all fugitives, and the Chaldeans cry in the ships. I am the Lord your holy one, the creator of Israel, your King.

Thus sayeth the Lord which maketh a way in the Sea, and a path in the mighty waters. When he bringeth out the chariot and horse, the army and the power lie together, and shall not rise: they are extinct, & quenched as tow. Remember ye not the former things, neither regard the things of old. Behold, I do a new thing: now shall it come forth: shall you not know it? I will even make a way in the desert, and floods in the wilderness. The wild beasts shall honour me, the dragons and the ostriches, because I gave water in the desert, and floods in the wilderness to give drink to my people, even to mine elect. This people have I formed for myself: they shall shew forth my praise. And thou hast not called upon me, O Jaakob, but thou hast wearied me, O Israel. Thou hast not brought me the sheep of thy burnt offerings, neither hast thou honoured me with thy sacrifices. I have not caused thee to serve with an offering, nor wearied thee with incense. Thou boughtest me no sweet savour with money, neither hast thou made me drunk with the fat of thy sacrifices, but thou hast made me to serve with thy sins, and wearied me with thine iniquities. I, even I am he that putteth away thine iniquities for mine own sake, and will not remember thy sins. Put me in remembrance: let us be judged together: count thou that thou mayest be justified. Thy first father hath sinned, and thy teachers have transgressed against me. Therefore I have prophaned the rulers of the Sanctuary, and have made Jaakob a curse, and Israel a reproach.

Yet now hear, O Jaakob my servant, and Israel, whom I have chosen. Thus sayeth the Lord, that made thee, and formed thee from the womb: he will help thee. Fear not, O Jaakob, my servant, and thou righteous, whom I have chosen. For I will pour water upon the thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground: I will pour my Spirit upon thy seed, and my blessing upon thy buds. And they shall grow as among the grass, and as the willows by the rivers of waters. One shall say, I am the Lords: another shall be called by the name of Jaakob: and another shall subscribe with his hand unto the Lord, and name himself by the name of Israel.

Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel and his redeemer, the Lord of hosts, I am the first, and I am the last, and without me is there no God. And who is like me, that shall call, and shall declare it, and set it in order before me, since I appointed the ancient people? And what is at hand, and what things are to come? Let them shew unto them. Fear ye not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee of old, and have declared it? you are even my witnesses, whether there be a God beside me, and that there is no God that I know not. All they that make an image, are vanity, and their delectable things shall nothing profit: & they are their own witnesses, that they see not nor know: therefore they shall be confounded. Who hath made a god, or molten an image, that is profitable for nothing? Behold, all that are of the fellowship thereof, shall be confounded: for the workmen themselves are men: let them all be gathered together, and stand up, yet they shall fear, and be confounded together. The smith taketh an instrument, and worketh in the coals, and fashioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with the strength of his arms: yea, he is an hungered, and his strength faileth: he drinketh no water, and is faint. The carpenter stretcheth out a line: he fashioneth it with a red thread, he planneth it, and he purtreyeth it with the compass, and maketh it after the figure of a man, and according to the beauty of a man that it may remain in an house. He will hew him down cedars, and take the pine tree and the oak, and taketh courage among the trees of the forest: he planteth a fir tree, and the rain doth nourish it. And man burneth thereof: for he will take thereof and warm himself: he also kindleth it & baketh bread, yet he maketh a god, & worshippeth it: he maketh it an idol and boweth unto it. He burneth the half thereof even in the fire, and upon the half thereof he eateth flesh: he roasteth the roast and is satisfied: also he warmeth himself and saith, Aha, I am warm, I have been at the fire. And the residue thereof he maketh a god, even his idol: he boweth unto it, and worshippeth and prayeth unto it, and sayeth, Deliver me: for thou art my god. They have not known, nor understand: for God hath shut their eyes that they cannot see, and their hearts, that they cannot understand. And none considereth in his heart, neither is there knowledge nor understanding to say, I have burnt half of it, even in the fire, and have baked bread also upon the coals thereof: I have roasted flesh, and eaten it, and shall I make the residue thereof an abomination? shall I bow to the stock of a tree? He feedeth of ashes: a seduced heart hath deceived him, that he cannot deliver his soul, nor say, Is there not a lye in my right hand? Remember these (O Jaakob and Israel) for thou art my servant: I have formed thee: thou art my servant: O Israel forget me not. I have put away thy transgressions like a cloud, and thy sins, as a mist: turn unto me, for I have redeemed thee. Rejoice, ye heavens: for the Lord hath done it: shout, ye lower parts of the earth: brast forth into praises, ye mountains, O forest and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Jaakob and will be glorified in Israel. Thus sayeth the Lord thy redeemer and he that formed thee from the womb, I am the Lord, that made all things, that spread out the heavens alone, and stretched out the earth by myself. I destroy the tokens of ye southsayers, and make them that conjecture, fools, and turn the wise men backward, and make their knowledge foolishness. He confirmeth the word of his servant and performeth the counsel of his messengers, saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be inhabited: and to the cities of Judah, Ye shall be built up, and I will repair the decayed places thereof. He saith to the deep, Be dry and I will dry up thy floods. He saith to Cyrus, Thou art my shepherd: and he shall perform all my desire: saying also to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built: and to the Temple, Thy foundation shall be surely laid.

Thus sayeth the Lord unto Cyrus his anointed, whose right hand I have holden to subdue nations before him: therefore will I weaken the loins of Kings and open the doors before him, and the gates shall not be shut: I will go before thee and make the crooked straight: I will break the brasen doors, and burst the iron bars. And I will give thee the treasures of darkness, and the things hid in secret places, that thou mayest know that I am the Lord which call thee by thy name, even the God of Israel. For Jaakob my servant's sake, and Israel mine elect, I will even call thee by thy name and name thee, though thou hast not known me. I am the Lord and there is none other: there is no God besides me: I girded thee though thou hast not known me, that they may know from the rising of the sun and from the West, that there is none besides me. I am the Lord, and there is none other. I form the light and create darkness: I make peace and create evil: I the Lord do all these things. Ye heavens, send the dew from above, and let the clouds drop down righteousness: let the earth open, and let salvation and justice grow forth: let it bring them forth together: I the Lord have created him. Woe be unto him that striveth with his maker, the potsherd with the potsherds of the earth: shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, What makest thou? or thy work, It hath none hands? Woe unto him that sayeth to his father, What hast thou begotten? or to his mother, What hast thou brought forth?

Thus saith the Lord, the holy one of Israel, and his maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the works of mine hands: command you me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, whose hands have spread out the heavens, I have even commanded all their army. I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways: he shall build my city, and he shall let go my captives, not for price nor reward, saith the Lord of hosts.

Thus saith the Lord, The labour of Egypt, and the merchandise of Ethiopia, and of the Sabeans, men of stature shall come unto thee, and they shall be thine: they shall follow thee, and shall go in chains: they shall fall down before thee, and make supplication unto thee, saying, Surely God is in thee, and there is none other God besides. Verily thou, O God, hidest thyself, O God, the Saviour of Israel. All they shall be ashamed and also confounded: they shall go to confusion together, that are the makers of images. But Israel shall be saved in the Lord, with an everlasting salvation: ye shall not be ashamed nor confounded world without end.

For thus saith the Lord (that created heaven, God himself, that formed the earth, & made it: he that prepared it, he created it not in vain: he formed it to be inhabited) I am the Lord, and there is none other. I have not spoken in secret, neither in a place of darkness in the earth: I said not in vain unto the seed of Jaakob, Seek you me: I the Lord do speak righteousness, and declare righteous things. Assemble yourselves, & come: draw near together, ye abject of the Gentiles: they have no knowledge, that set up the wood of their idol, and pray unto a god, that cannot save them. Tell ye and bring them, and let them take counsel together, who hath declared this from the beginning? or hath told it of old? Have not I the Lord? and there is none other God beside me, a just God, and a Saviour: there is none beside me. Look unto me, and ye shall be saved: all the ends of the earth shall be saved: for I am God, and there is none other. I have sworn by myself: the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness, and shall not return, That every knee shall bow unto me, and every tongue shall swear by me. Surely he shall say, In the Lord have

I righteousness and strength: he shall come unto him, and all that provoke him, shall be ashamed. The whole seed of Israel shall be justified, and glory in the Lord.

Bel is bowed down: Nebo is fallen: their idols were upon the beasts, and upon the cattle: they which did bear you, were laden with a weary burden. They are bowed down, and fallen together: for they could not rid them of the burden, and their soul is gone into captivity. Hear ye me, O house of Jaakob, & all that remain of the house of Israel, which are borne of me from the womb, and brought up of me from the birth. Therefore unto old age, I the same, even I will bear you until the hoar hears: I have made you: I will also bear you, and I will carry you and I will deliver you. To whom will ye make me like or make me equal, or compare me, that I should be like him? They draw gold out of the bag & weigh silver in the balance, and hire a goldsmith to make a god of it, and they bow down, and worship it. They bear it upon the shoulders: they carry him and set him in his place: so doth he stand, and cannot remove from his place. Though one cry unto him, yet can he not answer, nor deliver him out of his tribulation. Remember this, and be ashamed: bring it again to mind, O you transgressors. Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none other God, and there is nothing like me, which declare the last thing from the beginning: and from of old, the things that were not done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do whatsoever I will. I call a bird from the East, and the man of my counsel from far: as I have spoken, so will I bring it to pass: I have purposed it, and I will do it. Hear me, ye stubborn hearted, that are far from justice. I bring near my justice: it shall not be far off, and my salvation shall not tarry: for I will give salvation in Zion, and my glory unto Israel.

Come down and sit in the dust: O virgin, daughter Babel, sit on the ground: there is no throne, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou shalt no more be called, Tender and delicate. Take the millstones, and grind meal: loose thy locks: make bare the feet: uncover the leg, and pass through the floods. Thy filthiness shall be discovered, and thy shame shall be seen: I will take vengeance, and I will not meet thee as a man. Our redeemer, the Lord of hosts is his Name, the holy one of Israel.⁵ Sit still, and get thee into darkness, O daughter of the Chaldeas: for thou shalt no more be called, The lady of kingdoms. I was wroth with my people: I have polluted mine inheritance, and given them into thine had: thou didst shew them no mercy, but thou didst lay thy very heavy yoke upon the ancient. And thou saidest, I shall be a lady forever, so that thou didst not set thy mind to these things, neither didst thou remember ye latter end thereof. Therefore now hear, thou that art given to pleasures, and dwellest careless, She sayeth in her heart, I am and none else: I shall not sit as a widow, neither shall know the loss of children. But these two things shall come to thee suddenly on one day, the loss of children and widowhood: they shall come upon thee in their perfection, for the multitude of thy divinations, and for the great abundance of thine enchanters. For thou hast trusted in thy wickedness: thou hast said, None seeth me. Thy wisdom and thy knowledge, they have caused thee to rebel, & thou hast said in thine heart, I am, and none else. Therefore shall evil come upon thee, and thou shalt not know the morning thereof: destruction shall fall upon thee, which thou shalt not be able to put away: destruction shall come upon thee suddenly, or thou beware. Stand now among thine enchanters, and in the multitude of thy southsayers (with whom thou hast wearied thyself from thy youth) if so be thou mayest have profit, or if so be thou mayest have strength. Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counsels: let now the astrologers, the star gazers, and prognosticatours stand up, & save thee from these things, that shall come upon thee. Behold, they shall be as stubble: the fire shall burn them: they shall not deliver their own lives from the power of the flame: there shall be no coals to warm at, nor light to sit by. Thus shall they serve thee, with whom thou hast wearied thee, even thy merchants from thy youth: everyone shall wander to his own quarter: none shall save thee.

Hear ye this, O house of Jaakob, which are called by the name of Israel, and are come out of the waters of Judah: which swear by the Name of the Lord, and make mention of the God of Israel, but not in truth, nor in righteousness. For they are called of the holy city, & stay themselves upon the God of Israel, whose Name is the Lord of hosts. I have declared ye former things of old, and they went out of my mouth, & I shewed them: I did them suddenly, and they came to pass. Because I knew, that thou art obstinate, & thy neck is an iron sinew, & thy brow brass, therefore I have declared it to thee of old: before it came to pass, I shewed it thee, lest thou shouldest say, Mine idol hath done them, and my carved image, and my molten image hath commanded them. Thou hast heard, behold all this, & will not ye declare it? I have shewed thee new things, even now, & hid things, which thou knewest not. They are created now, and not of old, and even before this thou heardest them not, lest thou shouldest say, Behold, I knew them. Yet thou heardest them not, neither didst know them, neither yet was thine ear opened of old: for I knew that thou wouldest grievously transgress: therefore have I called thee a transgressour from the womb. For my Name's sake will I defer my wrath, and for my praise will I refrain it from thee, that I cut thee not off. Behold, I have fined thee, but not as silver: I have chosen thee in the furnace of affliction. For mine own sake, for mine own sake will I do it: for how should my Name be polluted? surely I will not give my glory unto another. Hear me, O Jaakob and Israel, my called, I am, I am the first, and I am the last. Surely mine hand hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath spanned the heavens: when I call them, they stand up together. All you, assemble yourselves, and hear: which among them hath declared these things? The Lord hath loved him: he will do his will in Babel, and his arm shall be against the Chaldeans. I, even I have spoken it, and I have called him: I have brought him, and his way shall prosper. Come near unto me: hear ye this: I have not spoken it in secret from the beginning: from the time that the thing was, I was there, and now the Lord God and his Spirit hath sent me.

Thus saith the Lord thy redeemer, the Holy one of Israel, I am the Lord thy God, which teach thee to profit, and lead thee by the way, that thou shouldest go. Oh that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! then had thy prosperity been as the flood, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea. Thy seed also had been as the sand, and the fruit of thy body like the gravel thereof: his name should not have been cut off nor destroyed before me. Go ye out of Babel: flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of joy: tel and declare this: shew it forth to the end of the earth: say ye, The Lord hath redeemed his servant Jaakob. And they were not thirsty: he led them through the wilderness: he caused the waters to flow out of the rock for them: for he clave the rock, and the water gushed out. There is no peace, sayeth the Lord, unto the wicked.

Hear ye me, O isles, and hearken, ye people from far. The Lord hath called me from the womb, and made mention of my name from my mothers belly. And he hath made my mouth like a sharp sword: under the shadow of his hand hath he hid me, and made me a chosen shaft, and hid me in his quiver, and said unto me, Thou art my servant, Israel, for I will be glorious in thee.⁴ And I said, I have labored in vain: I have spent my strength in vain and for nothing: but my judgement is with the Lord, and my work with my God. And now sayeth the Lord, that formed me from the womb to be his servant, that I may bring Jaakob again to him (though Israel be not gathered, yet shall I be glorious in the eyes of the Lord: and my God shall be my strength) and he said, It is a small thing that thou shouldest be my servant, to raise up the tribes of Jaakob, and to restore the desolations of Israel: I will also give thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the world.

Thus sayeth the Lord the redeemer of Israel, and his Holy one, to him that is despised in soul, to a nation that is abhorred, to a servant of rulers, Kings shall see, and arise, and princes shall worship, because of the Lord, that is faithful: and ye Holy one of Israel, which hath chosen thee.

Thus sayeth the Lord, In an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I helped thee: and I will preserve thee, & will give thee for a covenant of ye people, that thou mayest raise up the earth, and obtain the inheritance of the desolate heritages: That thou mayest say to the prisoners, Go forth: and to them that are in darkness, Shew yourselves: they shall feed in the ways, and their pastures shall be in all the tops of the hills. They shall not be hungry, neither shall they be thirsty, neither shall the heat smite them, nor the sun: for he that hath compassion on them, shall lead them: even to the springs of waters shall he drive them. And I will make all my mountains, as a way, and my paths shall be exalted. Behold, these shall come from far: and lo, these from the North and from the West, and these from the land of Sinim. Rejoice, O heavens: and be joyful, O earth: brast forth into praise, O mountains: for God hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted. But Zion said, The Lord hath forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me. Can a woman forget her child, & not have compassion on the son of her womb? Though they should forget, yet will I not forget thee. Behold, I have graven thee upon the palm of mine hands: thy walls are ever in my sight. Thy builders make haste: thy destroyers and they that made thee waste, are departed from thee. Lift up thine eyes round about and behold: all these gather themselves together and come to thee: as I live, sayeth the Lord, thou shalt surely put them all upon thee as a garment, and gird thyself with them like a bride. For thy desolations, and thy waste places, and thy land destroyed, shall surely be now narrow for them that shall dwell in it, and they that did devour thee, shall be far away. The children of thy bareness shall say again in thine ears, The place is strait for me: give place to me that I may dwell. Then shalt thou say in thine heart, Who hath begotten me these, seeing I am barren and desolate, a captive and a wanderer to and fro? And who hath nourished them? Behold, I was left alone: whence are these?

Thus sayeth the Lord God, Behold, I will lift up mine hand to the Gentiles and set up my standard to the people, and they shall bring thy sons in their arms: and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders. And Kings shall be thy nursing fathers, and Queens shall be thy nurses: they shall worship thee with their faces toward the earth, and lick up the dust of thy feet: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord: for they shall not be ashamed that wait for me. Shall the prey be taken from the mighty? Or the just captivity delivered? But thus sayeth the Lord, even the captivity of the mighty shall be taken away: and the pray of the tyrant shall be delivered: for I will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will save thy children, and will feed them that spoil thee, with their own flesh, and they shall be drunken with their own blood, as with sweet wine: and all flesh shall know that I the Lord am thy saviour and thy redeemer, the mighty one of Jaakob.

Thus sayeth the Lord, Where is that bill of your mother's divorcement, whom I have cast off? or who is the creditour to whom I sold you? Behold, for your iniquities are ye sold and because of your transgressions is your mother forsaken. Wherefore came I, & there was no man? I called, & none answered: is mine hand so shortened, that it cannot help? or have I no power to deliver? Behold, at my rebuke I dry up the Sea: I make the floods desert: their fish rotteth for want of water, and dieth for thirst. I clothe the heavens with darkness, and make a sack their covering.

The Lord God hath given me a tongue of the learned, that I should know to minister a word in time to him that is weary: he will raise me up in the morning: in the morning he will waken mine ear to hear, as the learned. The Lord God hath opened mine ear and I was not rebellious, neither turned I back. I gave my back unto the smiters, and my cheeks to the nippers: I hid not my face from shame and spitting. For the Lord God will help me, therefore shall I not be confounded: therefore have I set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be ashamed. He is near that justifieth me: who will contend with me? Let us stand together: who is mine adversary? let him come near to me. Behold, the Lord God will help me: who is he that can condemn me? lo, they shall wax old as a garment: the mother shall eat them up. Who is among you that feareth the Lord? let him hear the voice of his servant: he that walketh in darkness, and hath no light, let him trust in the Name of the Lord, and stay upon his God. Behold, all you kindle a fire, and are compassed about with sparks: walk in the light of your fire, and in the sparks that ye have kindled. This shall ye have of mine hand: ye shall lye down in sorrow.

Hear me, ye that follow after righteousness, and ye that seek the Lord: look unto the rock, whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit, whence ye are digged. Consider Abraham your father, and Sarah that bare you: for I called him alone, and blessed him, and increased him. Surely the Lord shall comfort Zion: he shall comfort all her desolations, and he shall make her desert like Eden, and her wilderness like the garden of the Lord: joy and gladness shall be found therein: praise, and the voice of singing. Hearken ye unto me, my people, and give ear unto me, O my people: for a Law shall proceed from me, and I will bring forth my judgement for the light of the people. My righteousness is near: my salvation goeth forth, and mine arms shall judge the people: the isles shall wait for me, and shall trust unto mine arm. Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein, shall perish in like manner: but my salvation shall be forever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished. Hearken unto me, ye that know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my Law. Fear ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their rebukes. For the mother shall eat them up like a garment, & the worm shall eat them like wool: but my righteousness shall be forever, and my salvation from generation to generation. Rise up, rise up, and put on strength, O arm of the Lord: rise up as in the old time in the generations of the world. Art not thou the same, that hath cut Rahab, and wounded the dragon? Art not thou the same, which hath dried the Sea, even the waters of the great deep, making the depth of the Sea a way for the redeemed to pass over? Therefore the redeemed of the Lord shall return, and come with joy unto Zion, and everlasting joy shall be upon their head: they shall obtain joy, and gladness: and sorrow and mourning shall flee away. I, even I am he, that comfort you. Who art thou, that thou shouldest fear a mortal man, and the son of man, which shall be made as grass? And forgettest the Lord thy maker, that hath spread out the heavens, and laid the foundations of the earth? and hast feared continually all the day, because of the rage of the oppressour, which is ready to destroy? Where is now the rage of the oppressour? The captive hasteneth to be loosed, and that he should not die in the pit, nor that his bread should fail. And I am the Lord thy God that divided the Sea, when his waves roared: the Lord of hosts is his Name. And I have put my words in thy mouth, and have defended thee in the shadow of mine hand, that I may plant the heavens, and lay the foundation of the earth, and say unto Zion, Thou art my people. Awake, awake, and stand up, O Jerusalem, which hast drunk at the hand of the Lord the cup of his wrath: thou hast drunken the dregs of the cup of trembling, and wrung them out. There is none to guide her among all the sons, whom she hath brought forth: there is none that taketh her by the hand of all the sons that she hath brought up. These two things are come unto thee: who will lament thee? desolation and destruction and famine, and the sword: by whom shall I comfort thee? Thy sons have fainted, and lye at the head of all the streets as a wild bull in a net, and are full of the wrath of the Lord, and rebuke of thy God. Therefore hear now this, thou miserable and drunken, but not with wine. Thus saith thy Lord God, even God that pleadeth the cause of his people, Behold, I have taken out of thine hand the cup of trembling, even the dregs of the cup of my wrath: thou shalt drink it no more. But I will put it into their hand that spoil thee: which have said to thy soul, Bow down, that we may go over, and thou hast laid thy body as the ground, and as the street to them that went over.

Arise, arise: put on thy strength, O Zion: put on thy garments of thy beauty, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for henceforth there shall no more come into thee the uncircumcised and the unclean. Shake thyself from the dust: arise, and sit down, O Jerusalem: loose the bands of thy neck, O thou captive daughter, Zion. For thus sayeth the Lord, Ye were sold for naught: therefore shall ye be redeemed without money. For thus saith the Lord God, My people went down afore time into Egypt to sojourn there, and Asshur oppressed them without cause. Now therefore what have I here, saith the Lord, that my people is taken away for naught, & they that rule over them, make them to howl, saith the Lord? And my Name all the day continually is blasphemed? Therefore my people shall know my Name: therefore they shall know in that day, that I am he that do speak: behold, it is I. How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him, that declareth and publisheth peace? That declareth good tidings, and publisheth salvation, saying unto Zion, Thy God reigneth? The voice of thy watchmen shall be heard: they shall lift up their voice, and shout together: for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion. O ye desolate places of Jerusalem, be glad and rejoice together: for the Lord hath comforted his people: he hath redeemed Jerusalem. The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the sight of all the Gentiles, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God. Depart, depart ye: go out from thence and touch no unclean thing: go out of the midst of her: be ye clean, that bear the vessels of the Lord. For ye shall not go out with haste, nor depart by fleeing away: but the Lord will go before you, and the God of Israel will gather you together. Behold, my servant shall prosper: he shall be exalted and extolled, and be very high. As many were astonished at thee (his visage was so deformed of men, and his form of the sons of men) so shall he sprinkle many nations: the Kings shall shut their mouths at him: for that which had not been told them, shall they see, and that which they had not heard, shall they understand.

Who will believe our report? And to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed? But he shall grow up before him as a branch, and as a root out of a dry ground: he hath neither form nor beauty: when we shall see him, there shall be no form that we should desire him. He is despised and rejected of men: he is a man full of sorrows and hath experience of infirmities: we hid as it were our faces from him: he was despised and we esteemed him not. Surely he hath borne our infirmities, and carried our sorrows: yet we did judge him, as plagued, and smitten of God, and humbled. But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was broken for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him, and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray: we have turned everyone to his own way, and the Lord hath laid upon him the iniquity of us all. He was oppressed and he was afflicted, yet did he not open his mouth: he is brought as a sheep to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearer is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth. He was taken out from prison, and from judgement: and who shall declare his age? For he was cut out of the land of the living: for the transgression of my people was he plagued. And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death, though he had done no wickedness, neither was any deceit in his mouth. Yet the Lord would break him, and make him subject to infirmities: when he shall make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed and shall prolong his days, and the will of the Lord shall prosper in his hand. He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied: by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many: for he shall bear their iniquities. Therefore will I give him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong, because he hath poured out his soul unto death: and he was counted with the transgressors, & he bare the sin of many, and prayed for the trespassers.

Rejoice, O barren that didst not bear: break forth into joy and rejoice, thou that didst not travail with child: for the desolate hath more children then the married wife, sayeth the Lord. Enlarge the place of thy tents, & let them spread out the curtains of thine habitations: spare not, stretch out thy cords & make fast thy stakes. For thou shalt increase on the right hand and on the left, and thy seed shall possess the Gentiles, and dwell in the desolate cities. Fear not: for thou shalt not be ashamed, neither shalt thou be confounded: for thou shalt not be put to shame: yea, thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and shalt not remember the reproach of thy widowhood anymore. For he that made thee, is thine husband (whose Name is the Lord of hosts) and thy redeemer the Holy one of Israel, shall be called the God of the whole world. For the Lord hath called thee, being as a woman forsaken, and afflicted in spirit, and as a young wife when thou wast refused, saith thy God. For a little while have I forsaken thee, but with great compassion will I gather thee. For a moment, in mine anger, I hid my face from thee for a little season, but with everlasting mercy have I had compassion on thee, saith the Lord thy redeemer. For this is unto me as the waters of Noah: for as I have sworn that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth, so have I sworn that I would not be angry with thee, nor rebuke thee. For the mountains shall remove and the hills shall fall down: but my mercy shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace fall away, saith the Lord, that hath compassion on thee. O thou afflicted and tossed with tempest, that hast no comfort, behold, I will lay thy stones with the carbuncle, and lay thy foundation with sapphires, and I will make thy windows of emeralds, and thy gates shining stones, and all thy borders of pleasant stones. And all thy children shall be taught of the Lord, and much peace shall be to thy children. In righteousness shalt thou be established, and be far from oppression: for thou shalt not fear it: and from fear, for it shall not come near thee. Behold, the enemy shall gather himself, but without me: whosoever shall gather himself in thee, against thee, shall fall. Behold, I have created the smith that bloweth the coals in the fire, and him that bringeth forth an instrument for his work, & I have created the destroyer to destroy. But all the weapons that are made against thee, shall not prosper: and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgement, thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the Lord's servants, and their righteousness is of me, saith the Lord.

Ho, everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and ye that have no silver, come, buy and eat: come, I say, buy wine and milk without silver and without money. Wherefore do ye lay out silver and not for bread? and your labour without being satisfied? hearken diligently unto me, and eat that which is good, and let your soul delight in fatness. Incline your ears, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live, and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David. Behold, I gave him for a witness to the people, for a prince and a master unto the people. Behold, thou shalt call a nation that thou knowest not, and a nation that knew not thee, shall run unto thee, because of the Lord thy God, and the holy one of Israel: for he hath glorified thee. Seek ye the Lord while he may be found: call ye upon him while he is near. Let the wicked forsake his ways, and the unrighteous his own imaginations, and return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him: and to our God, for he is very ready to forgive. For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as ye heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts above your thoughts. Surely as the rain cometh down and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth and maketh it to bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread unto him that eateth, so shall my word be, that goeth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I will, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it. Therefore ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into joy, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. For thorns there shall grow fir trees: for nettles shall grow the myrrh tree, and it shall be to the Lord for a name, and for an everlasting sign that shall not be taken away.

Thus saith the Lord, Keep judgement and do justice: for my salvation is at hand to come, and my righteousness to be revealed. Blessed is the man that doeth this, and the son of man which layeth hold on it: he that keepeth the Sabbath and polluteth it not, and keepeth his hand from doing any evil. And let not the son of the stranger, which is joined to the Lord, speak and say, The Lord hath surely separated me from his people: neither let the Eunuch say, Behold, I am a dry tree. For thus saith the Lord unto the Eunuchs, that keep my Sabbaths, and choose the thing that pleaseth me, and take hold of my covenant, even unto them will I give in mine House and within my walls, a place and a name better then of the sons and of the daughters: I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not be put out. Also the strangers that cleave unto the Lord, to serve him, and to love the Name of the Lord, and to be his servants: everyone that keepeth the Sabbath, and polluteth it not and embraceth my covenant, them will I bring also to mine holy mountain, and make them joyful in mine House of prayer: their burnt offerings and their sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar: for mine House shall be called an house of prayer for all people. The Lord God saith, which gathereth the scattered of Israel, Yet will I gather to them those that are to be gathered to them. All ye beasts of the field, come to devour, even all ye beasts of the forest. Their watchmen are all blind: they have no knowledge: they are all dumb dogs: they can not bark: they lie and sleep and delight in sleeping. And these griedy dogs can never have enough: and these shepherds cannot understand: for they all look to their own way, everyone for his advantage, and for his own purpose. Come, I will bring wine, and we will fill ourselves with strong drink, and tomorrow shall be as this day, and much more abundant.

The righteous perisheth, and no man considereth it in heart: and merciful men are taken away, and no man understandeth that the righteous is taken away from the evil to come. Peace shall come: they shall rest in their beds, everyone that walketh before him. But you witches children, come hither, the seed of the adulterer and of the whore. On whom have ye jested? upon whom have ye gaped and thrust out your tongue? are not ye rebellious children, and a false seed? Inflamed with idols under every green tree? and sacrificing the children in the valleys under the tops of the rocks? Thy portion is in the smooth stones of the river: they, they are thy lot: even to them hast thou poured a drink offering: thou hast offered a sacrifice. Should I delight in these? Thou hast made thy bed upon a very high mountain: thou wentest up thither, even thither wentest thou to offer sacrifice. Behind the doors also and posts hast thou set up thy remembrance: for thou hast discovered thyself to another then me, and wentest up, and didst enlarge thy bed, and make a covenant between thee & them, and lovedst their bed in every place where thou sawest it. Thou wentest to the Kings with oil, and didst increase thine ointments and send thy messengers far off, and didst humble thyself unto hell. Thou weariedst thyself in thy manifold journeys, yet saidest thou not, There is no hope: thou hast found life by thine hand, therefore thou wast not grieved. And whom didst thou reverence or fear, seeing thou hast lied unto me, and hast not remembered me, neither set thy mind thereon? is it not because I hold my peace, & that of long time? therefore thou fearest not me. I will declare thy righteousness and thy works, and they shall not profit thee. When thou cryest, let them that thou hast gathered together deliver thee: but the wind shall take them all away: vanity shall pull them away: but he that trusteth in me, shall inherit the land, and shall possess mine holy Mountain. And he shall say, Cast up, cast up: prepare the way: take up the stumbling blocks out of the way of my people. For thus saith he that is high and excellent, he that inhabiteth the eternity, whose Name is the Holy one, I dwell in the high and holy place: with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit to revive the spirit of the humble, and to give life to them that are of a contrite heart. For I will not contend forever, neither will I be always wroth, for the spirit should fail before me: and I have made the breath. For his wicked covetousness I am angry with him, and have smitten him: I hid me and was angry, yet he went away, and turned after the way of his own heart. I have seen his ways, and will heal him: I will lead him also, & restore comfort unto him, and to those that lament him. I create the fruit of the lips, to be peace: peace unto them that are far off, and to them that are near, saith the Lord: for I will heal him. But the wicked are like the raging sea, that can not rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt. There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked.

Cry aloud, spare not: lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression, and to the house of Jaakob, their sins. Yet they seek me daily, and will know my ways, even as a nation that did righteously, and had not forsaken the statutes of their God: they ask of me the ordinances of justice: they will draw near unto God, saying, Wherefore have we fasted, and thou seest it not? we have punished ourselves, and thou regardest it not. Behold, in the day of your fast you will seek your will, and require all your debts. Behold, ye fast to strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickedness: ye shall not fast as ye do today, to make your voice to be heard above. Is it such a fast that I have chosen, that a man should afflict his soul for a day, and to bow down his head, as a bull rush, and to lie down in sackcloth and ashes? wilt thou call this a fasting, or an acceptable day to the Lord? Is not this the fasting, that I have chosen, to loose the bands of wickedness, to take off the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke? Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that wander, unto thine house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him, and hide not thyself from thine own flesh? Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall grow speedily: thy righteousness shall go before thee, and the glory of the Lord shall embrace thee. Then shalt thou call, and the Lord shall answer: thou shalt cry and he shall say, Here I am: if thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger, and wicked speaking: If thou pour out thy soul to the hungry, and refresh the troubled soul: then shall thy light spring out in the darkness, and thy darkness shall be as the noon day. And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not. And they shall be of thee, that shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations for many generations, and thou shalt be called the repairer of the breach and the restorer of the paths to dwell in. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy will on mine holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, to consecrate it, as glorious to the Lord, and shalt honour him, not doing thine own ways, nor seeking thine own will, nor speaking a vain word, then shalt thou delight in the Lord, & I will cause thee to mount upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jaakob thy father: for the mouth of ye Lord hath spoken it.

Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it can not save: neither is his ear heavy, that it cannot hear. But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear. For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity: your lips have spoken lies & your tongue hath murmured iniquity. No man calleth for justice: no man contendeth for truth: they trust in vanity, & speak vain things: they conceive mischief, and bring forth iniquity. They hatch cockatrice eggs, and weave the spiders web: he that eateth of their eggs, dieth, and that which is trod upon, breaketh out into a serpent. Their webs shall be no garment, neither shall they cover themselves with their labours: for their works are works of iniquity, & the work of cruelty is in their hands. Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are wicked thoughts: desolation and destruction is in their paths. The way of peace they know not, & there is none equity in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whosoever goeth therein, shall not know peace. Therefore is judgement far from us, neither doth justice come near unto us: we wait for light, but lo, it is darkness: for brightness, but we walk in darkness. We grope for the wall like the blind, and we grope as one without eyes: we stumble at the noon day as in the twilight: we are in solitary places, as dead men. We roar all like bears, and mourn like doves: we look for equity, but there is none: for health, but it is far from us. For our trespasses are many before thee, and our sins testify against us: for our trespasses are with us, and we know our iniquities In trespassing and lying against the Lord, and we have departed away from our God, and have spoken of cruelty and rebellion, conceiving and uttering out of the heart false matters. Therefore judgement is turned backward, and justice standeth far off: for truth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter. Yea, truth faileth, and he that refraineth from evil, maketh himself a prey: and when the Lord saw it, it displeased him, that there was no judgement. And when he saw that there was no man, he wondered that none would offer himself. Therefore his arm did save it, and his righteousness itself did sustain it. For he put on righteousness, as an habergeon, and an helmet of salvation upon his head, and he put on the garments of vengeance for clothing, and was clad with zeal as a cloak. As to make recompense, as to requite the fury of the adversaries with a recompense to his enemies: he will fully repair the islands. So shall they fear the Name of the Lord from the West, and his glory from the rising of the sun: for the enemy shall come like a flood: but the Spirit of the Lord shall chase him away. And the Redeemer shall come unto Zion, and unto them that turn from iniquity in Jaakob, saith the Lord. And I will make this my covenant with them, saith the Lord. My Spirit that is upon thee, and my words, which I have put in thy mouth, shall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy seed, nor out of the mouth of the seed of thy seed, saith the Lord, from henceforth even forever.

Arise, O Jerusalem: be bright, for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. For behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people: but the Lord shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee. And the Gentiles shall walk in thy light, and Kings at the brightness of thy rising up. Lift up thine eyes round about, & behold: all these are gathered, and come to thee: thy sons shall come from far, and thy daughters shall be nourished at thy side. Then thou shalt see and shine: thine heart shall be astonished and enlarged, because the multitude of the sea shall be converted unto thee, and the riches of the Gentiles shall come unto thee. The multitude of camels shall cover thee: and the dromedaries of Midian and of Ephah: all they of Sheba shall come: they shall bring gold and incense, and shew forth the praises of the Lord. All the sheep of Kedar shall be gathered unto thee: the rams of Nebaioth shall serve thee: they shall come up to be accepted upon mine altar: and I will beautify the house of my glory. Who are these that flee like a cloud, and as the doves to their windows? Surely the isles shall wait for me, and the ships of Tarshish, as at the beginning, that they may bring thy sons from far, and their silver, and their gold with them, unto the Name of the Lord thy God, and to the Holy one of Israel, because he hath glorified thee. And the sons of strangers shall build up thy walls, and their Kings shall minister unto thee: for in my wrath I smote thee, but in my mercy I had compassion on thee. Therefore thy gates shall be open continually: neither day nor night shall they be shut, that men may bring unto thee the riches of the Gentiles, and that their Kings may be brought. For the nation and the kingdom, that will not serve thee, shall perish: and those nations shall be utterly destroyed. The glory of Lebanon shall come unto thee, the fir tree, the elm and the box tree together, to beautify the place of my Sanctuary: for I will glorify the place of my feet. The sons also of them that afflicted thee, shall come and bow unto thee: and all they that despised thee, shall fall down at the soles of thy feet: and they shall call thee, The city of the Lord, Zion of the Holy one of Israel. Where as thou hast been forsaken and hated: so that no man went by thee, I will make thee an eternal glory, and a joy from generation to generation. Thou shalt also suck ye milk of the Gentiles, and shalt suck the breasts of Kings: and thou shalt know, that I the Lord am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer, the mighty one of Jaakob. For brass will I bring gold, and for iron will I bring silver, and for wood brass, and for stones iron. I will also make thy government peace, and thine exactours righteousness. Violence shall no more be heard of in thy land, neither desolation, nor destruction within thy borders: but thou shalt call salvation, thy walls, and praise, thy gates. Thou shalt have no more sun to shine by day, neither shall the brightness of the moon shine unto thee: for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and thy God, thy glory. Thy sun shall never go down, neither shall thy moon be hid: for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy sorrow shall be ended. Thy people also shall be all righteous: they shall possess the land forever, the grass of my planting shall be the work of mine hands, that I may be glorified. A little one shall become as a thousand, and a small one as a strong nation: I the Lord will hasten it in due time.

The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me, therefore hath the Lord anointed me: he hath sent me to preach good tidings unto the poor, to bind up the broken hearted, to preach liberty to the captives, and to them that are bound, the opening of the prison, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God, to comfort all that mourn, to appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, and to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of gladness for the spirit of heaviness, that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified. And they shall build the old waste places, and raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the cities that were desolate and waste through many generations. And the strangers shall stand and feed your sheep, and the sons of the strangers shall be your plowmen and dressers of your vines. But ye shall be named the Priests of the Lord, and men shall say unto you, The ministers of our God, Ye shall eat the riches of the Gentiles, and shall be exalted with their glory. For your shame you shall receive double, and for confusion they shall rejoice in their portion: for in their land they shall possess the double: everlasting joy shall be unto them. For I the Lord love judgement and hate robbery for burnt offering, and I will direct their work in truth, and will make an everlasting covenant with them. And their seed shall be known among the Gentiles, and their buds among the people. All that see them, shall know them, that they are the seed which the Lord hath blessed. I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, and my soul shall be joyful in my God: for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, and covered me with the robe of righteousness: he hath decked me like a bridegroom, and as a bride tireth herself with her jewels. For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth to grow that which is sown in it: so the Lord God will cause righteousness to grow and praise before all the heathen.

For Zion's sake I will not hold my tongue, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until the righteousness thereof break forth as the light, and salvation thereof as a burning lamp. And the Gentiles shall see thy righteousness, and all Kings thy glory: and thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name. Thou shalt also be a crown of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God. It shall no more be said unto thee, Forsaken, neither shall it be said anymore to thy land, Desolate, but thou shalt be called Hephzi-bah, and thy land Beulah: for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy land shall have an husband. For as a young man marrieth a virgin, so shall thy sons marry thee: and as a bridegroom is glad of the bride, so shall thy God rejoice over thee. I have set watchmen upon thy walls, O Jerusalem, which all the day & all the night continually shall not cease: ye that are mindful of the Lord, keep not silence, and give him no rest, till he repair and until he set up Jerusalem the praise of the world. The Lord hath sworn by his right hand and by his strong arm, Surely I will no more give thy corn to be meat for thine enemies, & surely the sons of the strangers shall not drink thy wine, for the which thou hast laboured. But they that have gathered it, shall eat it, and praise the Lord, and the gatherers thereof shall drink it in the courts of my Sanctuary. Go through, go through the gates: prepare you the way for the people: cast up, cast up the way, and gather out the stones and set up a standard for the people. Behold, the Lord hath proclaimed unto the ends of the world: tell the daughter Zion, Behold, thy Saviour cometh: behold, his wages is with him, and his work is before him. And they shall call them, The holy people, the redeemed of the Lord, and thou shalt be named, A city sought out and not forsaken.

Who is this that cometh from Edom, with red garments from Bozrah? he is glorious in his apparel and walketh in his great strength: I speak in righteousness, and am mighty to save. Wherefore is thine apparel red, and thy garments like him that treadeth in ye wine press? I have trodden the wine press alone, and of all people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and tread them under foot in my wrath, and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments, and I will stain all my raiment. For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come. And I looked, and there was none to help, and I wondered that there was none to uphold: therefore mine own arm helped me, and my wrath itself sustained me. Therefore I will tread down the people in my wrath, and make them drunken in mine indignation, and will bring down their strength to the earth. I will remember the mercies of the Lord and the praises of the Lord according unto all that the Lord hath given us, and for the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he hath given them according to his tender love, and according to his great mercies. For he said, Surely they are my people, children that will not lie: so he was their Saviour. In all their troubles he was troubled, and the Angel of his presence saved them: in his love and in his mercy he redeemed them, and he bare them and carried them always continually. But they rebelled and vexed his holy Spirit: therefore was he turned to be their enemy and he fought against them.

Then he remembered the old time of Moses and his people, saying, Where is he that brought them up out of the Sea with the shepherd of his sheep? where is he that put his holy Spirit within him? He led them by the right hand of Moses with his own glorious arm, dividing the water before them, to make himself an everlasting Name. He led them through the deep, as an horse in the wilderness, that they should not stumble, as the beast goeth down into the valley, the Spirit of the Lord gave them rest: so didst thou lead thy people, to make thyself a glorious Name. Look down from heaven, and behold from the dwelling place of thine holiness, and of thy glory. Where is thy zeal and thy strength, the multitude of thy mercies, and of thy compassions? they are restrained from me. Doubtless thou art our Father: though Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel know us not, yet thou, O Lord, art our Father, and our redeemer: thy Name is forever. O Lord, why hast thou made us to err from thy ways? and hardened our heart from thy fear? Return for thy servants sake, and for the tribes of thine inheritance. The people of thine holiness have possessed it, but a little while: for our adversaries have trodden down thy Sanctuary. We have been as they, over whom thou never barest rule, and upon whom thy Name was not called.

Oh, that thou wouldest break the heavens, and come down, and that the mountains might melt at thy presence! As the melting fire burned, as the fire caused the waters to boil, (that thou mightest declare thy Name to thy adversaries) the people did tremble at thy presence. When thou didst terrible things, which we looked not for, thou camest down, and the mountains melted at thy presence. For since the beginning of the world they have not heard nor understand with the ear, neither hath ye eye seen another God beside thee, which doeth so to him that waiteth for him. Thou didst meet him, that rejoiced in thee, and did justly: they remembered thee in thy ways: behold, thou art angry, for we have sinned: yet in them is continuance, and we shall be saved. But we have all been as an unclean thing, and all our righteousness is as filthy cloths, and we all do fade like a leaf, and our iniquities like the wind have taken us away. And there is none that calleth upon thy Name, neither that stirreth up himself to take hold of thee: for thou hast hid thy face from us, and hast consumed us because of our iniquities. But now, O Lord, thou art our Father: we are the clay, and thou art our potter, and we all are the work of thine hands. Be not angry, O Lord, above measure, neither remember iniquity forever: lo, we beseech thee behold, we are all thy people. Thine holy cities lie waste: Zion is a wilderness, and Jerusalem a desert. The House of our Sanctuary & of our glory, where our fathers praised thee, is burnt up with fire and all our pleasant things are wasted. Wilt thou hold thyself still at these things, O Lord? wilt thou hold thy peace and afflict us above measure?

I have been sought of them that asked not: I was found of them that sought me not: I said, Behold me, behold me, unto a nation that called not upon my Name. I have spread out mine hands all the day unto a rebellious people, which walked in a way that was not good, even after their own imaginations: A people that provoked me ever unto my face: that sacrificeth in gardens, and burneth incense upon bricks. Which remain among the graves, and lodge in the deserts, which eat swines flesh, and the broth of things polluted are in their vessels. Which say, Stand apart, come not near to me: for I am holier then thou: these are a smoke in my wrath & a fire that burneth all the day. Behold, it is written before me: I will not keep silence, but will render it and recompense it into their bosom. Your iniquities and the iniquities of your fathers shall be together (saith the Lord) which have burnt incense upon the mountains, & blasphemed me upon the hills: therefore will I measure their old work into their bosom.

Thus saith the Lord, As the wine is found in the cluster, and one saith, Destroy it not, for a blessing is in it, so will I do for my servants sakes, that I may not destroy them whole. But I will bring a seed out of Jaakob, and out of Judah, that shall inherit my mountain: and mine elect shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell there. And Sharon shall be a sheepfold, and the valley of Achor shall be a resting place for the cattle of my people, that have sought me. But ye are they that have forsaken the Lord and forgotten mine holy Mountain, and have prepared a table for the multitude, and furnish the drink offerings unto the number. Therefore will I number you to the sword, and all you shall bow down to the slaughter, because I called, and ye did not answer: I spake, and ye heard not, but did evil in my sight, and did choose that thing which I would not.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, my servants shall eat, and ye shall be hungry: behold, my servants shall drink, and ye shall be thirsty: behold, my servants shall rejoice, and ye shall be ashamed. Behold, my servants shall sing for joy of heart, and ye shall cry for sorrow of heart, and shall howl for vexation of mind. And ye shall leave your name as a curse unto my chosen: for the Lord God shall slay you and call his servants by another name. He that shall bless in the earth, shall bless himself in the true God, and he that sweareth in the earth, shall swear by the true God: for the former troubles are forgotten, and shall surely hide themselves from mine eyes. For lo, I will create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered nor come into mind. But be you glad and rejoice forever in the things that I shall create: for behold, I will create Jerusalem, as a rejoicing and her people as a joy, and I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and joy in my people, and the voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying. There shall be no more there a child of years, nor an old man that hath not filled his days: for he that shall be an hundred years old, shall die as a young man: but the sinner being an hundred years old shall be accursed. And they shall build houses and inhabit them, and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. They shall not build, and another inhabit: they shall not plant, and another eat: for as the days of the tree are the days of my people, and mine elect shall enjoy in old age the work of their hands. They shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth in fear: for they are the seed of the blessed of the Lord, and their buds with them. Yea, before they call, I will answer, and whiles they speak, I will hear. The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: and to the serpent dust shall be his meat. They shall no more hurt nor destroy in all mine holy Mountain, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord, The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: where is that house that ye will build unto me? and where is that place of my rest? For all these things hath mine hand made, and all these things have been, saith the Lord: and to him will I look, even to him, that is poor, and of a contrite spirit and trembleth at my words. He that killeth a bullock, is as if he slew a man: he that sacrificeth a sheep, as if he cut off a dog's neck: he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered swines blood: he that remembereth incense, as if he blessed an idol: yea, they have chosen their own ways, and their soul delighteth in their abominations. Therefore will I choose out their delusions, and I will bring their fear upon them, because I called, and none would answer: I spake and they would not hear: but they did evil in my sight, and chose the things which I would not.

Hear the word of the Lord, all ye that tremble at his word, Your brethren that hated you, and cast you out for my Name's sake, said, Let the Lord be glorified: but he shall appear to your joy, and they shall be ashamed. A voice soundeth from the city, even a voice from the Temple, the voice of the Lord, that recompenseth his enemies fully. Before she travailed, she brought forth: and before her pain came, she was delivered of a man child. Who hath heard such a thing? who hath seen such things? shall ye earth be brought forth in one day? or shall a nation be borne at once? for as soon as Zion travailed, she brought forth her children. Shall I cause to travail, and not bring forth? shall I cause to bring forth, and shall be barren, saith thy God? Rejoice ye with Jerusalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her: rejoice for joy with her, all ye that mourn for her, that ye may suck and be satisfied with the breasts of her consolation: that ye may milk out and be delighted with ye brightness of her glory.

For thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will extend peace over her like a flood, and the glory of the Gentiles like a flowing stream: then shall ye suck, ye shall be borne upon her sides, and be joyful upon her knees. As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you, and ye shall be comforted in Jerusalem.

And when ye see this, your hearts shall rejoice, and your bones shall flourish like an herb: and the hand of the Lord shall be known among his servants, and his indignation against his enemies. For behold, the Lord will come with fire, and his chariots like a whirlwind, that he may recompense his anger with wrath, & his indignation with the flame of fire. For the Lord will judge with fire, and with his sword all flesh, and the slain of the Lord shall be many. They that sanctify themselves, and purify themselves in the gardens behind one tree in the midst eating swines flesh, and such abomination, even the mouse, shall be consumed together, saith the Lord. For I will visit their works, and their imaginations: for it shall come that I will gather all nations, and tongues, and they shall come, and see my glory. And I will set a sign among them, and will send those that escape of them, unto the nations of Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, and to them that draw the bow, to Tubal and Tavan, isles afar off, that have not heard my fame, neither have seen my glory, and they shall declare my glory among the Gentiles. And they shall bring all your brethren for an offering unto the Lord out of all nations, upon horses, and in chariots, and in horse litters, and upon mules, and swift beasts, to Jerusalem mine holy Mountain, saith the Lord, as the children of Israel, offer in a clean vessel in the House of the Lord. And I will take of them for Priests, and for Levites, saith the Lord. For as the new heavens, and the new earth which I will make, shall remain before me, saith the Lord, so shall your seed and your name continue. And from month to month, and from Sabbath to Sabbath shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the Lord. And they shall go forth, and look upon the carcases of the men that have transgressed against me: for their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched, and they shall be an abhorring unto all flesh.

JEREMIAH

The words of Jeremiah the son of Hilkiah one of the Priests that were at Anathoth in the land of Benjamin. To whom the word of the Lord came in the days of Josiah the son of Amon King of Judah in the thirteenth year of his reign: And also in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah unto the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah, the son of Josiah King of Judah, even unto the carrying away of Jerusalem captive in the fifth month.

Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Before I formed thee in the womb, I knew thee, and before thou camest out of the womb, I sanctified thee, and ordained thee to be a Prophet unto the nations. Then said I, Oh, Lord God, behold, I can not speak, for I am a child. But the Lord said unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee, shalt thou speak. Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord. Then the Lord stretched out his hand and touched my mouth, and the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth. Behold, this day have I set thee over the nations and over the kingdoms to pluck up, and to root out, and to destroy and throw down, to build, and to plant.

After this the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Jeremiah, what seest thou? And I said, I see a rod of an almond tree. Then said the Lord unto me, Thou hast seen aright: for I will hasten my word to perform it.

Again the word of the Lord came unto me the second time, saying, What seest thou? And I said, I see a seething pot looking out of the North. Then said the Lord unto me, Out of the North shall a plague be spread upon all the inhabitants of the land. For lo, I will call all the families of the kingdoms of the North, saith the Lord, and they shall come, and every one shall set his throne in the entering of the gates of Jerusalem, and on all the walls thereof round about, and in all the cities of Judah. And I will declare unto them my judgements touching all the wickedness of them that have forsaken me, and have burnt incense unto other gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands. Thou therefore truss up thy loins, and arise and speak unto them all that I command thee: be not afraid of their faces, lest I destroy thee before them. For I, behold, I this day have made thee a defenced city, and an iron pillar and walls of brass against the whole land, against the Kings of Judah, and against the princes thereof, against the Priests thereof and against the people of the land. For they shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail against thee: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Go, and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith the Lord, I remember thee, with the kindness of thy youth and the love of thy marriage, when thou wentest after me in the wilderness in a land that was not sown. Israel was as a thing hallowed unto the Lord, and his first fruits: all they that eat it, shall offend: evil shall come upon them, saith the Lord. Hear ye the word of the Lord, O house of Jaakob, and all the families of the house of Israel. Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? For they said not, Where is the Lord that brought us up out of the land of Egypt? That led us through the wilderness, through a desert, and waste land, through a dry land, and by the shadow of death, by a land that no man passed through, and where no man dwelt? And I brought you into a plentiful country, to eat the fruit thereof, and the commodities of the same: but when ye entered, ye defiled my land, and made mine heritage an abomination. The priests said not, Where is the Lord? And they that should minister the Law, knew me not: the pastours also offended against me, and the Prophets prophesied in Baal, and went after things that did not profit. Wherefore I will yet plead with you, saith the Lord, and I will pleade with your children's children. For go ye to the isles of Chittim, & behold, and send unto Kedar; take diligent heed, and see whether there be such things. Hath any nation changed their gods, which yet are no gods? But my people have changed their glory, for that which doth not profit. O ye heavens, be astonished at this: be afraid and utterly confounded, saith the Lord. For my people have committed two evils: they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, to dig them pits, even broken pits, that can hold no water. Is Israel a servant, or is he borne in the house? Why then is he spoiled? The lions roared upon him & yelled, and they have made his land waste: his cities are burnt without an inhabitant. Also the children of Noph and Tahapanes have broken thine head. Hast not thou procured this unto thyself, because thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, when he led thee by the way? And what hast thou now to do in the way of Egypt? To drink the water of Nilus? Or what makest thou in the way of Asshur? To drink the water of the River? Thine own wickedness shall correct thee, and thy turnings back shall reprove thee: know therefore and behold, that it is an evil thing, and bitter, that thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, and that my fear is not in thee, saith the Lord God of hosts. For of old time I have broken thy yoke, and burst thy bonds, and thou saidst, I will no more transgress, but like an harlot thou runnest about upon all high hills, and under all green trees. Yet I had planted thee, a noble vine, whose plants were all natural: how then art thou turned unto me into the plants of a strange vine? Though thou wash thee with nitre, and take thee much soap, yet thine iniquity is marked before me, saith the Lord God. How canst thou say, I am not polluted, neither have I followed Baalim? behold thy ways in the valley, & know, what thou hast done: thou art like a swift dromedary, that runneth by his ways. And as a wild ass, used to the wilderness, that snuffeth up the wind by occasion at her pleasure: who can turn her back? all they that seek her, will not weary themselves, but will find her in her month. Keep thou thy feet from bareness, and thy throat from thirst: but thou saidst desperately, No, for I have loved strangers, and them will I follow. As the thief is ashamed, when he is found, so is the house of Israel ashamed, they, their kings, their princes and their Priests, and their Prophets, saying to a tree, Thou art my father, and to a stone, Thou hast begotten me: for they have turned their back unto me, & not their face: but in ye time of their trouble they will say, Arise, & help us. But where are thy gods, that thou hast made thee? let them arise, if they can help thee in the time of thy trouble: for according to the number of thy cities, are thy gods, O Judah. Wherefore will ye plead with me? ye all have rebelled against me, saith the Lord. I have smitten your children in vain, they received no correction: your own sword hath devoured your Prophets like a destroying lion. O generation, take heed to the word of the Lord: have I been as a wilderness unto Israel? or a land of darkness? Wherefore saith my people then, We are lords, we will come no more unto thee? Can a maid forget her ornament, or a bride her attire? yet my people have forgotten me, days without number. Why dost thou prepare thy way, to seek amity? even therefore will I teach thee, that thy ways are wickedness. Also in thy wings is found the blood of the souls of ye poor innocents: I have not found it in holes, but upon all these places. Yet thou sayest, Because I am guiltless, surely his wrath shall turn from me: behold, I will enter with thee into judgment, because thou sayest, I have not sinned. Why runnest thou about so much to change thy ways? for thou shalt be confounded of Egypt, as thou art confounded of Asshur. For thou shalt go forth from thence, and thine hands upon thine head, because the Lord hath rejected thy confidence, and thou shalt not prosper thereby.

They say, If a man put away his wife, and she go from him, and become another mans, shall he return again unto her? Shall not this land be polluted? But thou hast played the harlot with many lovers: yet turn again to me, saith the Lord. Lift up thine eyes unto the high places, and behold, where thou hast not played the harlot: thou hast sit waiting for them in the ways, as the Arabian in the wilderness: and thou hast polluted the land with thy whoredoms, and with thy malice. Therefore the showers have been restrained, and the latter rain came not, and thou hadst a whores forehead: thou wouldest not be ashamed. Didst thou not still cry unto me, Thou art my father, and the guide of my youth? Will he keep his anger for ever? Will he reserve it to the end? Thus hast thou spoken, but thou doest evil, even more and more. The Lord said also unto me, in the days of Josiah the King, Hast thou seen what this rebel Israel hath done? for she hath gone up upon every high mountain, and under every green tree, and there played the harlot. And I said, when she had done all this, Turn thou unto me: but she returned not, as her rebellious sister Judah saw. When I saw, how that by all occasions rebellious Israel had played the harlot, I cast her away, and gave her a bill of divorcement: yet her rebellious sister Judah was not afraid, but she went also, and played the harlot. So that for the lightness of her whoredom she hath even defiled the land: for she hath committed fornication with stones and stocks. Nevertheless for all this, her rebellious sister Judah hath not returned unto me with her whole heart, but feignedly, saith the Lord. And the Lord said unto me, The rebellious Israel hath justified her self more then the rebellious Judah. Go and cry these words toward the North and say, Thou disobedient Israel, return, saith the Lord, and I will not let my wrath fall upon you: for I am merciful, saith the Lord, and I will not always keep mine anger. But know thine iniquity: for thou hast rebelled against the Lord thy God, & hast scattered thy ways to the strange gods under every green tree, but ye would not obey my voice, saith the Lord. O ye disobedient children, turn again, saith the Lord, for I am your Lord, and I will take you one of a city, and two of a tribe and will bring you to Zion, and I will give you pastours according to mine heart, which shall feed you with knowledge and understanding. Moreover, when ye be increased and multiplied in the land, in those days, saith the Lord, they shall say no more, The Ark of the covenant of the Lord: for it shall come no more to mind, neither shall they remember it, neither shall they visit it, for that shall be no more done. At that time they shall call Jerusalem, The throne of the Lord, & all the nations shall be gathered unto it, even to the Name of the Lord in Jerusalem: and thence forth they shall follow no more the hardness of their wicked heart. In those days ye house of Judah shall walk with the house of Israel, and they shall come together out of the land of the North, into the land, that I have given for an inheritance unto your fathers. But I said, How did I take thee for children and give thee a pleasant land, even the glorious heritage of the armies of the heathen, and said, Thou shalt call me, saying, My father, and shalt not turn from me? But as a woman rebelleth against her husband: so have ye rebelled against me, O house of Israel, saith the Lord. A voice was heard upon the high places, weeping and supplications of the children of Israel: for they have perverted their way, and forgotten the Lord their God. O ye disobedient children, return and I will heal your rebellions. Behold, we come unto thee, for thou art the Lord our God. Truly the hope of the hills is but vain, nor the multitude of mountains: but in the Lord our God is the health of Israel. For confusion hath devoured our fathers labour, from our youth their sheep and their bullocks, their sons and their daughters. We lie down in our confusion, and our shame covereth us: for we have sinned against the Lord our God, we and our fathers from our youth, even unto this day, and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord our God.

O Israel, if thou return, return unto me, saith the Lord: and if thou put away thine abominations out of my sight, then shalt thou not remove. And thou shalt swear, The Lord liveth in truth, in judgment, and in righteousness, and the nations shall be blessed in him, and shall glory in him. For thus saith the Lord to the men of Judah, and to Jerusalem, break up your fallow ground, and sow not among the thorns: be circumcised to the Lord, & take away the foreskins of your hearts, ye men of Judah, and inhabitants of Jerusalem, lest my wrath come forth like fire, and burn, that none can quench it, because of the wickedness of your inventions. Declare in Judah, and shew forth in Jerusalem, and say, Blow the trumpet in the land: cry, and gather together, and say, Assemble yourselves, and let us go into strong cities. Set up the standard in Zion: prepare to flee, and stay not: for I will bring a plague from the North, and a great destruction. The lion is come up from his den, and the destroyer of the Gentiles is departed, and gone forth of his place to lay thy land waste, and thy cities shall be destroyed without an inhabitant. Wherefore gird you with sackcloth: lament, and howl, for the fierce wrath of the Lord is not turned back from us. And in that day, saith the Lord, the heart of the King shall perish, and the heart of the princes and the Priests shall be astonished, and the Prophets shall wonder.

Then said I, Ah, Lord God, surely thou hast deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, Ye shall have peace, and the sword pierceth unto the heart. At that time shall it be said to this people and to Jerusalem, A dry wind in the high places of the wilderness cometh toward ye daughter of my people, but neither to fan nor to cleanse. A mighty wind shall come unto me from those places, and now will I also give sentence upon them. Behold, he shall come up as the clouds, and his chariots shall be as a tempest: his horses are lighter then eagles. Woe unto us, for we are destroyed. O Jerusalem, wash thine heart from wickedness, that thou mayest be saved: how long shall thy wicked thoughts remain within thee? For a voice declareth from Dan, and publisheth affliction from mount Ephraim. Make ye mention of the heathen, and publish in Jerusalem, Behold, the scouts come from a far country, and cry out against the cities of Judah.

They have compassed her about as the watchmen of the field, because it hath provoked me to wrath, saith the Lord. Thy ways and thine inventions have procured thee these things, such is thy wickedness: therefore it shall be bitter, therefore it shall pierce unto thine heart. My belly, my belly, I am pained, even at the very heart: mine heart is troubled within me: I cannot be still: for my soul hath heard the sound of the trumpet, and the alarm of the battle. Destruction upon destruction is cried, for the whole land is wasted: suddenly are my tents destroyed, and my curtains in a moment. How long shall I see the standard, and hear the sound of the trumpet? For my people is foolish, they have not known me: they are foolish children, and have none understanding: they are wise to do evil, but to do well they have no knowledge. I have looked upon the earth, and lo, it was without form and void: and to the heavens, and they had no light. I beheld the mountains: and lo, they trembled and all the hills shook. I beheld, and lo, there was no man, and all the birds of the heaven were departed. I beheld, and lo, the fruitful place was a wilderness, and all the cities thereof were broken down at the presence of the Lord, and by his fierce wrath.

For thus hath the Lord said, The whole land shall be desolate: yet will I not make a full end. Therefore shall the earth mourn, and the heavens above shall be darkened, because I have pronounced it: I have thought it, and will not repent, neither will I turn back from it. The whole city shall flee, for the noise of the horsemen and bowmen: they shall go into thickets, and climb up upon the rocks: every city shall be forsaken, and not a man dwell therein. And when thou shalt be destroyed, what wilt thou do? Though thou clothest thyself with scarlet, though thou deckest thee with ornaments of gold, though thou paintest thy face with colours, yet shalt thou trim thyself in vain: for thy lovers will abhor thee and seek thy life. For I have heard a noise as of a woman travailing, or as one labouring of her first child, even the voice of the daughter Zion that sigheth and stretcheth out her hands: woe is me now: for my soul fainteth because of the murderers.

Run to and fro by the streets of Jerusalem, and behold now, and know, and inquire in the open places thereof, if ye can find a man, or if there be any that executeth judgment, and seeketh the truth, and I will spare it. For though they say, The Lord liveth, yet do they swear falsely. O Lord, are not thine eyes upon the truth? Thou hast stricken them, but they have not sorrowed: thou hast consumed them, but they have refused to receive correction: they have made their faces harder then a stone, and have refused to return. Therefore I said, Surely they are poor, they are foolish, for they know not the way of the Lord, nor the judgment of their God. I will get me unto the great men, and will speak unto them: for they have known the way of the Lord, and the judgment of their God: but these have altogether broken the yoke, and burst the bonds. Wherefore a lion out of the forest shall slay them, and a wolf of the wilderness shall destroy them: a leopard shall watch over their cities: every one that goeth out thence, shall be torn in pieces, because their trespasses are many, and their rebellions are increased. How should I spare thee for this? Thy children have forsaken me, and sworn by them that are no gods: though I fed them to the full, yet they committed adultery, and assembled themselves by companies in the harlots houses. They rose up in the morning like fed horses: for every man neyed after his neighbours wife. Shall I not visit for these things, saith the Lord? Shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this? Climb up upon their walls, and destroy them, but make not a full end: take away their battlements, for they are not the Lord's. For the house of Israel, and the house of Judah have grievously trespassed against me, saith the Lord. They have denied the Lord, and said, It is not he, neither shall the plague come upon us, neither shall we see sword nor famine. And the Prophets shall be as wind, and the word is not in them: thus shall it come unto them. Wherefore thus saith the Lord God of hosts, Because ye speak such words, behold, I will put my words into thy mouth, like a fire, and this people shall be as wood, and it shall devour them. Lo, I will bring a nation upon you from far, O house of Israel, saith the Lord, which is a mighty nation, and an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou knowest not, neither understandest what they say. Whose quiver is as an open sepulchre: they are all very strong. And they shall eat thine harvest and thy bread: they shall devour thy sons and thy daughters: they shall eat up thy sheep and thy bullocks: they shall eat thy vines and thy fig trees: they shall destroy with the sword thy fenced cities, wherein thou didst trust. Nevertheless at those days, saith the Lord, I will not make a full end of you. And when ye shall say, Wherefore doth the Lord our God do these things unto us? then shalt thou answer them, Like as ye have forsaken me and served strange gods in your land, so shall ye serve strangers in a land that is not yours. Declare this in the house of Jaakob, and publish it in Judah, saying, Hear now this, O foolish people, and without understanding, which have eyes and see not, which have ears and hear not. Fear ye not me, saith the Lord? Or will ye not be afraid at my presence, which have placed the sand for the bounds of the sea by the perpetual decree that it cannot pass it, and though the waves thereof rage, yet can they not prevail, though they roar, yet can they not pass over it? But this people hath an unfaithful and rebellious heart: they are departed and gone. For they say not in their heart, Let us now fear the Lord our God, that giveth rain both early and late in due season: he reserveth unto us the appointed weeks of the harvest. Yet your iniquities have turned away these things, and your sins have hindered good things from you. For among my people are found wicked persons, that lay wait as he that setteth snares: they have made a pit, to catch men. As a cage is full of birds, so are their houses full of deceit: thereby they are become great and waxen rich. They are waxen fat and shining: they do overpass the deeds of the wicked: they execute no judgment, no not the judgment of the fatherless: yet they prosper, though they execute no judgment for the poor. Shall I not visit for these things, saith the Lord? or shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this? An horrible and filthy thing is committed in the land. The Prophets prophesy lies, and ye Priests receive gifts in their hands, and my people delight therein. What will ye then do in the end thereof?

O ye children of Benjamin, prepare to flee out of the midst of Jerusalem, and blow the trumpet in Tekoa: set up a standard upon Beth-haccerem: for a plague appeareth out of the North and great destruction. I have compared the daughter of Zion to a beautiful and dainty woman. The pastors with their flocks shall come unto her: they shall pitch their tents round about by her, & every one shall feed in his place. Prepare war against her: arise, and let us go up toward the South: woe unto us: for the day declineth, and the shadows of the evening are stretched out. Arise, and let us go up by night, and destroy her palaces. For thus hath the Lord of hosts said, Hew down wood, and cast a mount against Jerusalem: this city must be visited: all oppression is in the midst of it. As the fountain casteth out her waters, so she casteth out her malice: cruelty and spoil is continually heard in her before me with sorrow and strokes. Be thou instructed, O Jerusalem, lest my soul depart from thee, lest I make thee desolate as a land, that none inhabiteth. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, They shall gather as a vine, the residue of Israel: turn back thine hand as the grape gatherer into the baskets. Unto whom shall I speak, and admonish that they may hear? behold, their ears are uncircumcised, and they cannot hearken: behold, the word of the Lord is unto them as a reproach: they have no delight in it. Therefore I am full of the wrath of the Lord: I am weary with holding it: I will power it out upon the children in the street, and likewise upon the assembly of the young men: for the husband shall even be taken with the wife, and the aged with him that is full of days. And their houses with their lands, & wives also shall be turned unto strangers: for I will stretch out mine hand upon the inhabitants of the land, saith the Lord. For from the least of them, even unto the greatest of them, every one is given unto covetousness, and from the Prophet even unto the Priest, they all deal falsely. They have healed also ye hurt of the daughter of my people with sweet words, saying, Peace, peace, when there is no peace. Were they ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not ashamed, no neither could they have any shame: therefore they shall fall among the slain: when I shall visit them, they shall be cast down, saith the Lord. Thus saith the Lord, Stand in the ways and behold, and ask for the old way, which is the good way and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls: but they said, We will not walk therein. Also I set watchmen over you, which said, Take heed to the sound of the trumpet: but they said, We will not take heed. Hear therefore, ye Gentiles, and thou Congregation know, what is among them. Hear, O earth, behold, I will cause a plague to come upon this people, even the fruit of their own imaginations: because they have not taken heed unto my words, nor to my Law, but cast it off. To what purpose bringest thou me incense from Sheba, and sweet calamus from a far country? Your burnt offerings are not pleasant, nor your sacrifices sweet unto me. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will lay stumbling blocks before this people, and the fathers and the sons together shall fall upon them: the neighbour and his friend shall perish. Thus saith the Lord, Behold, a people cometh from the North country, and a great nation shall arise from the sides of the earth. With bow and shield shall they be weaponed: they are cruel and will have no compassion: their voice roareth like the sea, and they ride upon horses, well appointed, like men of war against thee, O daughter Zion. We have heard their fame, and our hands wax feeble sorrow is come upon us, as the sorrow of a woman in travail. Go not forth into the field, nor walk by the way: for the sword of the enemy and fear is on every side. O daughter of my people, gird thee with sackcloth, and wallow thyself in the ashes: make lamentation, and bitter mourning as for thine only son: for the destroyer shall suddenly come upon us. I have set thee for a defence and fortress among my people, that thou mayest know and try their ways. They are all rebellious traitours, walking craftily: they are brass, and iron, they all are destroyers. The bellows are burnt: the lead is consumed in the fire: the founder melteth in vain: for the wicked are not taken away. They shall call them reprobate silver, because the Lord hath rejected them.

The words that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, Stand in the gate of the Lord's house and cry this word there, and say, Hear the word of the Lord, all ye of Judah that enter in at these gates to worship the Lord. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Amend your ways and your works, and I will let you dwell in this place. Trust not in lying words, saying, The Temple of the Lord, the Temple of the Lord: this is the Temple of the Lord. For if you amend and redress your ways and your works: if you execute judgment between a man and his neighbour, and oppress not the stranger, the fatherless and the widow and shed no innocent blood in this place, neither walk after other gods to your destruction, then will I let you dwell in this place in the land that I gave unto your fathers, for ever and ever. Behold, you trust in lying words, that can not profit. Will you steal, murder, and commit adultery, and swear falsely and burn incense unto Baal, and walk after other gods whom ye know not? And come and stand before me in this House, whereupon my Name is called, and say, We are delivered, though we have done all these abominations? Is this House become a den of thieves, whereupon my Name is called before your eyes? Behold, even I see it, saith the Lord. But go ye now unto my place which was in Shilo, where I set my Name at the beginning, and behold, what I did to it for the wickedness of my people Israel. Therefore now because ye have done all these works, saith the Lord, (and I rose up early and spake unto you: but when I spake, ye would not hear me, neither when I called, would ye answer). Therefore will I do unto this House, whereupon my Name is called, wherein also ye trust, even unto the place that I gave to you & to your fathers, as I have done unto Shilo. And I will cast you out of my sight, as I have cast out all your brethren, even the whole seed of Ephraim. Therefore thou shalt not pray for this people, neither lift up cry or prayer for them neither entreat me, for I will not hear thee. Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? The children gather wood, & the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead the dough to make cakes to the Queen of heaven and to power out drink offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke me unto anger. Do they provoke me to anger, saith the Lord, and not themselves to the confusion of their own faces? Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, mine anger and my wrath shall be powered upon this place, upon man and upon beast, and upon the tree of the field, and upon the fruit of the ground, and it shall burn and not be quenched.

Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Put your burnt offerings unto your sacrifices, and eat the flesh. For I spake not unto your fathers, nor commanded them, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt offerings and sacrifices. But this thing commanded I them, saying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people: and walk ye in all the ways which I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you. But they would not obey, nor incline their ear, but went after the counsels and the stubbornness of their wicked heart, and went backward and not forward. Since the day that your fathers came up out of the land of Egypt, unto this day, I have even sent unto you all my servants the Prophets, rising up early every day, and sending them. Yet would they not hear me nor incline their ear, but hardened their neck & did worse then their fathers. Therefore shalt thou speak all these words unto them, but they will not hear thee: thou shalt also cry unto them, but they will not answer thee. But thou shalt say unto them, This is a nation that heareth not the voice of the Lord their God, nor receiveth discipline: truth is perished, and is clean gone out of their mouth. Cut off thine hear, O Jerusalem, and cast it away, and take up a complaint on the high places:

for the Lord hath rejected and forsaken the generation of his wrath. For the children of Judah have done evil in my sight, saith the Lord: they have set their abominations in the House, whereupon my Name is called, to pollute it. And they have built the high place of Topheth, which is in the valley of Ben-Hinnom to burn their sons & their daughters in the fire, which I commanded them not, neither came it in mine heart. Therefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that it shall no more be called Topheth, nor the valley of Ben-Hinnom, but the valley of slaughter: for they shall bury in Topheth till there be no place. And ye carkeises of this people shall be meat for the fowls of the heaven and for the beasts of the earth, and none shall fray them away. Then I will cause to cease from the cities of Judah and from the streets of Jerusalem the voice of mirth & the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom & the voice of the bride: for the land shall be desolate.

At that time, saith the Lord, they shall bring out the bones of the Kings of Judah, and the bones of their princes, & the bones of the Priests and the bones of the Prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of their graves. And they shall spread them before the sun and the moon, and all the host of heaven, whom they have loved, and whom they have served, and whom they have followed, and whom they have sought, and whom they have worshipped: they shall not be gathered nor be buried, but shall be as dung upon the earth. And death shall be desired rather than life of all the residue that remaineth of this wicked family, which remain in all the places where I have scattered them, saith the Lord of hosts. Thou shalt say unto them also, Thus saith the Lord, Shall they fall and not arise? shall he turn away and not turn again? Wherefore is this people of Jerusalem turned back by a perpetual rebellion? they gave themselves to deceit, and would not return. I hearkened and heard, but none spake aright: no man repented him of his wickedness, saying, What have I done? every one turned to their race, as the horse rusheth into the battle. Even the stork in the air knoweth her appointed times, and the turtle and the crane and the swallow observe the time of their coming, but my people knoweth not the judgment of the Lord. How do ye say, We are wise, and the Law of the Lord is with us? Lo, certainly in vain made he it, the pen of the scribes is in vain. The wise men are ashamed: they are afraid and taken. lo, they have rejected the word of the Lord, and what wisdom is in them? Therefore will I give their wives unto others, and their fields to them that shall possess them: for every one from the least even unto the greatest is given to covetousness, and from the Prophet even unto the Priest, every one dealeth falsely. For they have healed the hurt of the daughter of my people with sweet words, saying, Peace, peace, when there is no peace. Were they ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not ashamed, neither could they have any shame: therefore shall they fall among the slain: when I shall visit them, they shall be cast down, saith the Lord. I will surely consume them, saith the Lord: there shall be no

grapes on the vine, nor figs on the fig tree, and the leaf shall fade, and the things that I have given them, shall depart from them. Why do we stay? assemble yourselves, and let us enter into the strong cities, and let us be quiet there: for the Lord our God hath put us to silence and given us water with gall to drink, because we have sinned against the Lord. We looked for peace, but no good came, & for a time of health, and behold troubles. The neying of his horses was heard from Dan, the whole land trembled at the noise of the neying of his strong horses: for they are come, and have devoured the land with all that is in it, the city, and those that dwell therein. For behold, I will send serpents, and cockatrices among you, which will not be charmed, and they shall sting you, saith the Lord. I would have comforted myself against sorrow, but mine heart is heavy in me. Behold, the voice of the cry of the daughter of my people for fear of them of a far country, Is not the Lord in Zion? is not her king in her? Why have they provoked me to anger with their graven images, and with the vanities of a strange god? The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not holpen. I am sore vexed for the hurt of ye daughter of my people: I am heavy, & astonishment hath taken me. Is there no balm at Gilead? is there no Physician there? Why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered. Oh, that mine head were full of water and mine eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people. Oh, that I had in the wilderness a cottage of wayfaring men, that I might leave my people, and go from them: for they be all adulterers & an assembly of rebels, and they bend their tongues like their bows for lies: but they have no courage for the truth upon the earth: for they proceed from evil to worse, and they have not known me, saith the Lord. Let every one take heed of his neighbour, and trust you not in any brother: for every brother will use deceit, and every friend will deal deceitfully, and every one will deceive his friend, and will not speak the truth: for they have taught their tongues to speak lies, and take great pains to do wickedly. Thine habitation is in the midst of deceivers: because of their deceit they refuse to know me, saith the Lord. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will melt them, & try them: for what should I else do for the daughter of my people? Their tongue is as an arrow shot out, and speaketh deceit: one speaketh peaceably to his neighbour with his mouth, but in his heart he layeth wait for him. Shall I not visit them for these things, saith the Lord? Or shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this? Upon the mountains will I take up a weeping and a lamentation, and upon the fair places of the wilderness a mourning, because they are burnt up: so that none can pass through them, neither can men hear the voice of the flock: both the fowl of the air, and the beast are fled away and gone. And I will make Jerusalem an heap, and a den of dragons, & I will make the cities of Judah waste, without an inhabitant. Who is wise, to understand this? And to whom the mouth of the Lord hath spoken, even he shall declare it. Why doth the land perish, and is burnt up like a wilderness, that none passeth through?

And the Lord saith, Because they have forsaken my Law, which I set before them, and have not obeyed my voice, neither walked thereafter, but have walked after the stubbornness of their own heart, and after Baalims, which their fathers taught them, therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will feed this people with wormwood, and give them waters of gall to drink: I will scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers have known, and I will send a sword after them, till I have consumed them. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Take heed, and call for the mourning women, that they may come, and send for skillful women that they may come, and let them make haste, & let them take up a lamentation for us, that our eyes may cast out tears & our eye lids gush out of water. For a lamentable noise is heard out of Zion, How are we destroyed, and utterly confounded, for we have forsaken the land, and our dwellings have cast us out. Therefore hear the word of the Lord, O ye women, and let your ears regard the words of his mouth, & teach your daughters to mourn, and every one her neighbour to lament. For death is come up into our windows, and is entered into our palaces, to destroy the children without, and the young men in the streets. Speak, thus saith the Lord, The carkeises of men shall lie, even as the dung upon the field, and as the handful after the mower, and none shall gather them. Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, nor the strong man glory in his strength, neither the rich man glory in his riches. But let him that glorieth, glory in this, that he understandeth, and knoweth me: for I am the Lord, which shew mercy, judgment, and righteousness in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord. Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will visit all them, which are circumcised with the uncircumcised: Egypt and Judah, and Edom, and the children of Ammon, and Moab, and all the utmost corners of them that dwell in the wilderness: for all these nations are uncircumcised, & all the house of Israel are uncircumcised in the heart.

Hear ye the word of the Lord that he speaketh unto you, O house of Israel. Thus saith the Lord, Learn not the way of the heathen, & be not afraid for the signs of heaven, though the heathen be afraid of such. For the customs of the people are vain: for one cutteth a tree out of the forest (which is the work of the hands of the carpenter) with the axe, and another decketh it with silver, and with gold: they fasten it with nails, and hammers, that it fall not. The idols stand up as the palm tree, but speak not: they are borne because they cannot go fear them not, for they cannot do evil, neither can they do good. There is none like unto thee, O Lord: thou art great, and thy name is great in power. Who would not fear thee, O King of nations? For to thee appertaineth the dominion: for among all the wise men of the Gentiles, and in all their kingdoms there is none like thee. But, altogether they dote, and are foolish: for the stock is a doctrine of vanity. Silver plates are brought from Tarshish, & gold from Uphaz, for the work of the workman, and the hands of the founder: the blue silk, and the purple is their clothing: all these things are made by cunning men. But the Lord is the God of truth: he is the liuing God, and an everlasting King: at his anger the earth shall tremble, and the nations cannot abide his wrath. (Thus shall you say unto them, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens) He hath made the earth by his power, and established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heaven by his discretion. He giveth by his voice the multitude of waters in the heaven, and he causeth the clouds to ascend from the ends of the earth: he turneth lightnings to rain, and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures. every man is a beast by his own knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his melting is but falsehood, and there is no breath therein. They are vanity, and the work of errours: in the time of their visitation they shall perish. The portion of Jaakob is not like them: for he is the maker of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the Lord of hosts is his Name. Gather up thy wares out of the land, O thou that dwellest in the strong place. For thus saith the Lord, Behold, at this time I will throw as with a sling the inhabitants of the land, and will trouble them, and they shall find it so. Woe is me for my destruction, and my grievous plague: but I thought, Yet it is my sorrow, and I will bear it. My tabernacle is destroyed, and all my cords are broken: my children are gone from me, and are not: there is none to spread out my tent any more, and to set up my curtains. For the Pastours are become beasts, and have not sought the Lord: therefore have they none understanding: and all the flocks of their pastures are scattered. Behold, the noise of the brute is come, & a great commotion out of the North country to make the cities of Judah desolate, and a den of dragons. O Lord, I know, that the way of man is not in himself, neither is it in man to walk and to direct his steps. O Lord, correct me, but with judgment, not in thine anger, least thou bring me to nothing. Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen, that know thee not, and upon the families that call not on thy Name: for they have eaten up Jaakob and devoured him & consumed him, & have made his habitation desolate.

The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and speak unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Cursed be the man that obeyeth not the words of this covenant, which I commanded unto your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the iron furnace, saying, Obey my voice, and do according to all these things, which I command you: so shall ye be my people, and I will be your God, that I may confirm the oath, that I have sworn unto your fathers, to give them a land, which floweth with milk and honey, as appeareth this day. Then answered I and said, So be it, O Lord. Then the Lord said unto me, Cry all these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them. For I have protested unto your fathers, when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt unto this day, rising early and protesting, saying, Obey my voice. Nevertheless they would not obey, nor incline their ear: but every one walked in the stubbornness of his wicked heart: therefore I will bring upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did it not. And the Lord said unto me, A conspiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem. They are turned back to the iniquities of their forefathers, which refused to hear my words: and they went after other gods to serve them: thus the house of Israel, & the house of Judah have broken my covenant, which I made with their fathers. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring a plague upon them, which they shall not be able to escape, and though they cry unto me, I will not hear them. Then shall the cities of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem go, and cry unto the gods unto whom they offer incense, but they shall not be able to help them in time of their trouble. For according to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Judah, and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem have ye set up altars of confusion, even altars to burn incense unto Baal. Therefore thou shalt not pray for this people, neither lift up a cry, or prayer for them: for when they cry unto me in their trouble, I will not hear them. What should my beloved tarry in mine house, seeing they have committed abomination with many? and the holy flesh goeth away from thee: yet when thou doest evil, thou rejoicest. The Lord called thy name, A green olive tree, fair, and of goodly fruit: but with noise and great tumult he hath set fire upon it, and the branches of it are broken. For the Lord of hosts that planted thee, hath pronounced a plague against thee, for the wickedness of the house of Israel, and of the house of Judah, which they have done against themselves to provoke me to anger in offering incense unto Baal. And the Lord hath taught me, and I know it, even then thou shewedst me their practices. But I was like a lamb, or a bullock, that is brought to the slaughter, and I knew not that they had devised thus against me, saying, Let us destroy the tree with the fruit thereof, and cut him out of the land of the living, that his name may be no more in memory. But O Lord of hosts, that judgest righteously, and triest the reigns and the heart, let me see thy vengeance on them: for unto thee have I opened my cause. The Lord therefore speaketh thus of the men of Anathoth, (that seek thy life, and say, Prophecy not in the Name of the Lord, that thou die not by our hands) thus therefore saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will visit them: the young men shall die by the sword: their sons and their daughters shall die by famine, and none of them shall remain: for I will bring a plague upon the men of Anathoth, even the year of their visitation.

O Lord, if I dispute with thee, thou art righteous: yet let me talk with thee of thy judgements: wherefore doth the way of the wicked prosper? why are all they in wealth that rebelliously transgress? Thou hast planted them, and they have taken root: they grow, and bring forth fruit: thou art near in their mouth, and far from their reigns. But thou, Lord, knowest me: thou hast seen me, and tried mine heart toward thee: pull them out like sheep for the slaughter, and prepare them for the day of slaughter. How long shall the land mourn, and the herbs of every field wither, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein? the beasts are consumed and the birds, because they said, He will not see our last end. If thou hast run with the footmen and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou match thyself with horses? and if thou thoughtest thyself safe in a peaceable land, what wilt thou do in the swelling of Jordan? For even thy brethren, and the house of thy father, even they have dealt unfaithfully with thee, and they have cried out altogether upon thee: but beleeeue them not, though they speak fair to thee. I have forsaken mine house: I have left mine heritage: I have given the dearly beloved of my soul into the hands of her enemies. Mine heritage is unto me, as a lion in the forest: it crieth out against me, therefore have I hated it. Shall mine heritage be unto me, as a bird of divers colours? are not the birds about her, saying, Come, assemble all ye beasts of the field, come to eat her? Many pastors have destroyed my vineyard, and trodden my portion under foot: of my pleasant portion they have made a desolate wilderness. They have laid it waste, and it, being waste, mourneth unto me: and the whole land lieth waste, because no man setteth his mind on it. The destroyers are come upon all the high places in the wilderness: for the sword of the Lord shall devour from the one end of the land, even to the other end of the land: no flesh shall have peace. They have sown wheat, and reaped thorns: they were sick, and had no profit: and they were ashamed of your fruits, because of the fierce wrath of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord against all mine evil neighbours, that touch the inheritance, which I have caused my people Israel to inherit, Behold, I will pluck them out of their land, and pluck out the house of Judah from among them. And after that I have plucked them out, I will return, and have compassion on them, and will bring again every man to his heritage, and every man to his land. And if they will learn the ways of my people, to swear by my Name, (The Lord liveth, as they taught my people to swear by Baal) then shall they be built in the midst of my people. But if they will not obey, then will I utterly pluck up, and destroy that nation, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord unto me, Go, and buy thee a linen girdle, & put it upon thy loins, and put it not in water. So I bought the girdle according to the commandment of the Lord, and put it upon my loins. And the word of the Lord came unto me the second time, saying, Take the girdle that thou hast bought, which is upon thy loins, and arise, go toward Perath, and hide it there in the cleft of the rock. So I went, and hid it by Perath, as the Lord had commanded me. And after many days, the Lord said unto me, Arise, go toward Perath, and take the girdle from thence, which I commanded thee to hide there. Then went I to Perath, and digged, & took the girdle from the place where I had hid it, and behold, the girdle was corrupt, and was profitable for nothing.

Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Thus saith the Lord, After this manner will I destroy the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jerusalem. This wicked people have refused to hear my word, and walk after ye stubbornness of their own heart, and walk after other gods to serve them, and to worship them: therefore they shall be as this girdle, which is profitable to nothing. For as the girdle cleaveth to the loins of a man, so have I tied to me the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Judah, saith the Lord, that they might be my people: that they might have a name and praise, and glory, but they would not hear. Therefore thou shalt say unto them this word, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, every bottle shall be filled with wine, and they shall say unto thee, Do we not know that every bottle shall be filled with wine? Then shalt thou say unto them, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will fill all the inhabitants of this land, even the Kings that sit upon the throne of David, and the Priests and the Prophets and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with drunkenness. And I will dash them one against another, even the fathers and the sons together, saith the Lord: I will not spare, I will not pity nor have compassion, but destroy them. Hear and give ear, be not proud: for the Lord hath spoken it. Give glory to the Lord your God before he bring darknes, and or ever your feet stumble in the dark mountains, and whiles you look for light, he turn it into the shadow of death and make it as darkness. But if ye will not hear this, my soul shall weep in secret for your pride, and mine eye shall weep and drop down tears, because the Lord's flock is carried away captive. Say unto the King and to the Queen, Humble yourselves, sit down, for the crown of your glory shall come down from your heads. The cities of the South shall be shut up, and no man shall open them: all Judah shall be carried away captive: it shall be wholly carried away captive. Lift up your eyes and behold them that come fro the North: where is the flock that was given thee, even thy beautiful flock? What wilt thou say, when he shall visit thee? (for thou hast taught them to be captains and as chief over thee) shall not sorrow take thee as a woman in travail? And if thou say in thine heart, Wherefore come these things upon me? For the multitude of thine iniquities are thy skirts discovered and thy heels made bare. Can the black More change his skin? or the leopard his spots? then may ye also do good, that are accustomed to do evil. Therefore will I scatter them, as the stubble that is taken away with the South wind. This is thy portion, and ye part of thy measures from me, saith the Lord, because thou hast forgotten me and trusted in lies. Therefore I have also discovered thy skirts upon thy face, that thy shame may appear. I have seen thine adulteries, and thy neighings, the filthiness of thy whoredom on the hills in the fields, and thine abominations. Woe unto thee, O Jerusalem: wilt thou not be made clean? when shall it once be?

The word of the Lord that came unto Jeremiah, concerning the dearth. Judah hath mourned, and the gates thereof are desolate, they have been brought to heaviness unto the ground, and the cry of Jerusalem goeth up. And their nobles have sent their inferiours to the water, who came to the wells, and found no water: they returned with their vessels empty: they were ashamed and confounded, and covered their heads. For the ground was destroyed, because there was no rain in the earth: the plowmen were ashamed, and covered their heads. Yea, the hind also calved in the field, & forsook it, because there was no grass. And the wild asses did stand in the high places, & drew in their wind like dragons their eyes did fail, because there was no grass. O Lord, though our iniquities testify against us, deal with us according to thy name: for our rebellions are many, we sinned against thee. O the hope of Israel, the saviour thereof in the time of trouble, why art thou as a stranger in ye land, as one that passeth by to tarry for a night? Why art thou as a man astonished, and as a strong man that cannot help? Yet thou, O Lord, art in the midst of us, and thy Name is called upon us: forsake us not. Thus saith the Lord unto this people, Thus have they delighted to wander: they have not refrained their feet, therefore the Lord hath no delight in them: but he will now remember their iniquity, and visit their sins. Then said the Lord unto me, Thou shalt not pray to do this people good. When they fast, I will not hear their cry, and when they offer burnt offering, and an oblation, I will not accept them: but I will consume them by the sword, and by the famine and by the pestilence. Then answered I, Ah Lord God, behold, the prophets say unto them, Ye shall not see the sword, neither shall famine come upon you, but I will give you assured peace in this place. Then the Lord said unto me, The prophets prophecy lies in my Name: I have not sent them, neither did I command them, neither spake I unto them, but they prophecy unto you a false vision, and divination, and vanity, and deceitfulness of their own heart. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Concerning the prophets that prophecy in my Name, whom I have not sent, yet they say, Sword and famine shall not be in this land, by sword and famine shall those prophets be consumed. And the people to whom these prophets do prophecy, shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, because of the famine, & the sword, & there shall be none to bury them, both they, and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters: for I will power their wickedness upon them. Therefore thou shalt say this word unto them, Let mine eyes drop down tears night & day without ceasing: for the virgin daughter of my people is destroyed with a great destruction, and with a sore grievous plague. For if I go into the field, behold the slain with the sword: and if I enter into the city, behold them that are sick for hunger also: moreover the Prophet also & the Priest go a wandering into a land that they know not. Hast thou utterly rejected Judah, or hath thy soul abhorred Zion? why hast thou smitten us, that we cannot be healed? We looked for peace, and there is no good, and for the time of health, and behold trouble. We acknowledge, O Lord, our wickedness and the iniquity of our fathers: for we have sinned against thee. Do not abhor us: for thy Names sake cast not down the throne of thy glory: remember and break not thy covenant with us. Are there any among the vanities of the Gentiles, that can give rain? or can the heavens give showers? is it not thou, O Lord our God? therefore we will wait upon thee: for thou hast made all these things.

Then said the Lord unto me, Though Moses and Samuel stood before me, yet mine affection could not be toward this people: cast them out of my sight, and let them depart. And if they say unto thee, Whither shall we depart? Then tell them, Thus saith the Lord, Such as are appointed to death, unto death: and such as are for the sword, to the sword: and such as are for the famine, to the famine: and such as are for the captivity, to the captivity. And I will appoint over them four kinds, saith the Lord, the sword to slay, and the dogs to tear in pieces, and the souls of the heaven, and the beasts of the earth to devour, and to destroy. I will scatter them also in all kingdoms of the earth, because of Manasseh the son of Hezekiah King of Judah, for that which he did in Jerusalem. Who shall then have pity upon thee, O Jerusalem? Or who shall be sorry for thee? Or who shall go to pray for thy peace? Thou hast forsaken me, saith the Lord, and gone backward: therefore will I stretch out mine hand against thee, and destroy thee: for I am weary with repenting. And I will scatter them with the fan in the gates of the earth I have wasted, and destroyed my people, yet they would not return from their ways. Their widows are increased by me above the sand of the sea: I have brought upon them, and against the assembly of the young men a destroyer at noon day: I have caused him to fall upon them, and the city suddenly, and speedily. She that hath borne seven, hath been made weak: her heart hath failed: the sun hath failed her, whiles it was day: she hath been confounded, and ashamed, and the residue of them will I deliver unto the sword before their enemies, saith the Lord. Woe is me, my mother, that thou hast borne me, a contentious man, and a man that striveth with the whole earth I have neither lent on usury, nor men have lent unto me on usury: yet every one doth curse me. The Lord said, Surely thy remnant shall have wealth: surely I will cause thine enemy to entreat thee in the time of trouble, & in the time of affliction. Shall the iron break the iron, and the brass that cometh from the North? Thy substance and thy treasures will I give to be spoiled without gain, and that for all thy sins even in all thy borders. And I will make thee to go with thine enemies into a land that thou knowest not: for a fire is kindled in mine anger, which shall burn you. O Lord, thou knowest, remember me, and visit me, & revenge me of my persecutors: take me not away in the continuance of thine anger: know that for thy sake I have suffered rebuke. Thy words were found by me, and I did eat them, and thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart: for thy Name is called upon me, O Lord God of hosts. I sat not in the assembly of the mockers, neither did I rejoice, but sat alone because of thy plague: for thou hast filled me with indignation. Why is mine heaviness continual? And my plague desperate and cannot be healed? why art thou unto me as a liar, and as waters that fail? Therefore thus saith the Lord, If thou return, then will I bring thee again, and thou shalt stand before me: and if thou take away the precious from the vile, thou shalt be according to my word: let them return unto thee, but return not thou unto them. And I will make thee unto this people a strong brazen wall, & they shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail against thee: for I am with thee to save thee & to deliver thee, saith ye Lord. And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked, and I will redeem thee out of the hand of the tyrants.

The word of the Lord came also unto me, saying, Thou shalt not take thee a wife, nor have sons nor daughters in this place. For thus saith the Lord concerning the sons, and concerning the daughters that are borne in this place, & concerning their mothers that bear them, & concerning their fathers, that beget them in this land, they shall die of deaths and diseases: they shall not be lamented, neither shall they be buried, but they shall be as dung upon the earth, and they shall be consumed by the sword, & by famine, and their carkeises shall be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth. For thus saith the Lord, Enter not into the house of mourning, neither go to lament, nor be moved for the: for I have taken my peace, fro this people, saith the Lord, even mercy & compassion. Both the great, and the small shall die in this land: they shall not be buried, neither shall men lament for them nor cut themselves, nor make themselves bald for them. They shall not stretch out the hands for the in the mourning to comfort them for the dead, neither shall they give them the cup of consolation to drink for their father or for their mother. Thou shalt not also go into the house of feasting to sit with them to eat and to drink. For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will cause to cease out of this place in your eyes, even in your days the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride. And when thou shalt shew this people all these words, & they shall say unto thee, Wherefore hath the Lord pronounced all this great plague against us? or what is our iniquity? and what is our sin that we have committed against the Lord our God? Then shalt thou say unto them, Because your fathers have forsaken me, saith the Lord, & have walked after other gods, and have served them, and worshipped them, & have forsaken me, and have not kept my Law, (And ye have done worse then your fathers: for behold, you walk every one after the stubbornness of his wicked heart, and will not hear me) therefore will I drive you out of this land into a land that ye know not, neither you, nor your fathers, & there shall ye serve other gods day and night: for I will shew you no grace. Behold therefore, saith the Lord, the days come that it shall no more be said, The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, but the Lord liveth, that brought up the children of Israel from the land of the North, and from all the lands where he had scattered them, and I will bring them again into their land that I gave unto their fathers. Behold, saith the Lord, I will send out many fishers, and they shall fish them, and after, will I send out many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain and from every hill, and out of the caves of the rocks. For mine eyes are upon all their ways: they are not hid from my face, neither is their iniquity hid from mine eyes. And first I will recompense their iniquity and their sin double, because they have defiled my land, and have filled mine inheritance with their filthy carions and their abominations. O Lord, thou art my force, & my strength & my refuge in the day of affliction: the Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the world, & shall say, Surely our fathers have inherited lies, and vanity, wherein was no profit. Shall a man make gods unto himself, and they are no gods? Behold, therefore I will this once teach them: I will shew them mine hand and my power, and they shall know that my Name is the Lord.

The sin of Judah is written with a pen of iron, and with the point of a diamond, and graven upon the table of their heart, and upon the horns of your altars. They remember their altars as their children, with their groves by the green trees upon the hills. O my mountain in the field, I will give thy substance, and all thy treasures to be spoiled, for the sin of thy high places throughout all thy borders. And thou shalt rest, and in thee shall be a rest from thine heritage that I gave thee, and I will cause thee to serve thine enemies in the land, which thou knowest not: for ye have kindled a fire in mine anger, which shall burn for ever. Thus saith the Lord, Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and withdraweth his heart from the Lord. For he shall be like the heath in the wilderness, and shall not see when any good cometh, but shall inhabit the parched places in the wilderness, in a salt land, and not inhabited. Blessed be the man, that trusteth in ye Lord, and whose hope the Lord is. For he shall be as a tree that is planted by the water, which spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not feel when the heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green, and shall not care for the year of drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit. The heart is deceitful and wicked above all things, who can know it? I the Lord search the heart, and try ye reigns, even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his works. As the patriarch gathereth the young, which she hath not brought forth: so he that getteth riches, and not by right, shall leave them in the midst of his days, and at his end shall be a fool. As a glorious throne exalted fro the beginning, so is the place of our Sanctuary. O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee, shall be confounded: they that depart from thee, shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters. Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be whole: save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise. Behold, they say unto me, Where is the word of the Lord? let it come now. But I have not thrust in myself for a pastour after thee, neither have I desired the day of misery, thou knowest: that which came out of my lips, was right before thee. Be not terrible unto me: thou art mine hope in the day of adversity. Let them be confounded, that persecute me, but let not me be confounded: let them be afraid, but let not me be afraid: bring upon them the day of adversity, and destroy them with double destruction. Thus hath the Lord said unto me, Go and stand in the gate of the children of the people, whereby the Kings of Judah come in, and by the which they go out, & in all ye gates of Jerusalem, and say unto them, Hear the word of the Lord, ye Kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, that enter in by these gates. Thus saith the Lord, Take heed to your souls, and bear no burden in the Sabbath day, nor bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem. Neither carry forth burdens out of your houses in the Sabbath day: neither do ye any work, but sanctify the Sabbath, as I commanded your fathers. But they obeyed not, neither inclined their ears, but made their necks stiff and would not hear, nor receive correction. Nevertheless if ye will hear me, saith the Lord, and bear no burden through the gates of the city in the Sabbath day, but sanctify ye Sabbath day, so that ye do no work therein, then shall the Kings and the princes enter in at the gates of this city, and shall sit upon the throne of David, and shall ride upon chariots, and upon horses, both they and their princes, the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: and this city shall remain for ever. And they shall come from the cities of Judah, and from about Jerusalem, and from the land of Benjamin, and from the plain, and from the mountains, and from the South, which shall bring burnt offerings, and sacrifices, and meat offerings, and incense, and shall bring sacrifice of praise into the house of the Lord. But if ye will not hear me to sanctify the Sabbath day, and not to bear a burden nor to go through the gates of Jerusalem in the Sabbath day, then will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem, and it shall not be quenched.

The word which came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, Arise, and go down into the potter's house, and there shall I shew thee my words. Then I went down to the potters house, & behold, he wrought a work on the wheels. And the vessel that he made of clay, was broken in the hand of the potter. so he returned, and made it another vessel, as seemed good to the potter to make it. Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, O house of Israel, cannot I do with you as this potter, saith the Lord? behold, as the clay is in the potters hand, so are you in mine hand, O house of Israel. I will speak suddenly against a nation or against a kingdom to pluck it up, and to root it out and to destroy it. But if this nation, against whom I have pronounced, turn from their wickedness, I will repent of the plague that I thought to bring upon them. And I will speak suddenly concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom to build it and to plant it. But if it do evil in my sight and hear not my voice, I will repent of ye good that I thought to do for them. Speak thou now therefore unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith ye Lord, Behold, I prepare a plague for you, and purpose a thing against you: return you therefore every one from his evil way, and make your ways and your works good. But they said desperately, Surely we will walk after our own imaginations, and do every man after the stubbornness of his wicked heart. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Ask now among the heathen, who hath heard such things? the virgin of Israel hath done very filthily. Will a man forsake the snow of Lebanon, which cometh from the rock of the field? or shall the cold flowing waters, that come from another place, be forsaken? Because my people hath forgotten me, and have burnt incense to vanity, and their prophets have caused them to stumble in their ways from the ancient ways, to walk in the paths and way that is not trodden, to make their land desolate and a perpetual derision, so that every one that passeth thereby, shall be astonished and wag his head, I will scatter them with an East wind before the enemy: I will shew them the back, and not the face in the day of their destruction. Then said they, Come, and let us imagine some device against Jeremiah: for the Law shall not perish from the Priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the Prophet: come, and let us smite him with the tongue, and let us not give heed to any of his words. Hearken unto me, O Lord, and hear the voice of them that contend with me. Shall evil be recompensed for good? for they have digged a pit for my soul: remember that I stood before thee, to speak good for the, and to turn away thy wrath from them. Therefore, deliver up their children to famine, and let them drop away by the force of the sword, and let their wives be robbed of their children, and be widows: and let their husbands be put to death, and let their young men be slain by the sword in the battle. Let the cry be heard from their houses, when thou shalt bring an host suddenly upon them: for they have digged a pit to take me, and hid snares for my feet. Yet Lord thou knowest all their counsel against me tendeth to death: forgive not their iniquity, neither put out their sin from thy sight, but let them be overthrown before thee: deal thus with them in the time of thine anger.

Thus saith the Lord, Go, and buy an earthen bottle of a potter, and take of the ancients of the people, and of the ancients of the Priests, and go forth unto the valley of Ben-hinnom, which is by the entry of the East gate: and thou shalt preach there the words, that I shall tell thee, and shalt say, Hear ye the word of the Lord, O Kings of Judah, and inhabitants of Jerusalem, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring a plague upon this place, the which whosoever heareth, his ears shall tingle. Because they have forsaken me, and prophaned this place, and have burnt incense in it unto other gods, whom neither they, nor their fathers have known, nor the Kings of Judah (they have filled this place also with the blood of innocents, and they have built the high places of Baal, to burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings unto Baal, which I commanded not, nor spake it, neither came it into my mind) therefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that this place shall no more be called Topheth, nor ye valley of Ben-hinnom, but the valley of slaughter. And I will bring the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem to nought in this place, and I will cause them to fall by the sword before their enemies, & by the hand of them that seek their lives: and their carkeises will I give to be meat for ye fowls of the heaven, and to the beasts of the field. And I will make this city desolate and an hissing, so that every one that passeth thereby, shall be astonished & hiss because of all ye plagues thereof. And I will feed the with the flesh of their sons and with the flesh of their daughters, and every one shall eat the flesh of his friend in the siege and straitness, wherewith their enemies that seek their lives, shall hold them strait. Then shalt thou break the bottle in the sight of the men that go with thee, and shalt say unto them, Thus saith ye Lord of hosts, Even so will I break this people and this city, as one breaketh a potters vessel, that cannot be made whole again, and they shall bury them in Topheth till there be no place to bury. Thus will I do unto this place, saith the Lord, and to the inhabitants thereof, and I will make this city like Topheth. For the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the Kings of Judah shall be defiled as the place of Topheth, because of all the houses upon whose roofs they have burnt incense unto all the host of heaven, and have powered out drink offerings unto other gods. Then came Jeremiah from Topheth, where the Lord had sent him to prophecy, and he stood in the court of the Lord's house, and said to all the people, thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring upon this city, and upon all her towns, all the plagues that I have pronounced against it, because they have hardened their necks, & would not hear my words.

When Pashur, the son of Immer, the Priest, which was appointed governour in the house of the Lord, heard that Jeremiah prophesied these things, then Pashur smote Jeremiah the Prophet, and put him in the stocks that were in the high gate of Benjamin which was by the House of the Lord. And on the morning, Pashur brought Jeremiah out of the stocks. Then said Jeremiah unto him, The Lord hath not called thy name Pashur, but Magor-missabib. For thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will make thee to be a terrour to thyself, & to all thy friends, and they shall fall by the sword of their enemies, and thine eyes shall behold it, and I will give all Judah into the hand of the King of Babel, and he shall carry them captive into Babel, and shall slay them with the sword. Moreover, I will deliver all the substance of this city, and all the labours thereof, and all the precious things thereof, and all the treasures of the Kings of Judah will I give into the hand of their enemies, which shall spoil them, and take them away and carry them to Babel. And thou Pashur, and all that dwell in thine house, shall go into captivity, and thou shalt come to Babel, and there thou shalt die, and shalt be buried there, thou and all thy friends, to whom thou hast prophesied lies. O Lord, thou hast deceived me, and I am deceived: thou art stronger then I, and hast prevailed: I am in derision daily: every one mocketh me. For since I spake, I cried out of wrong, and proclaimed desolation: therefore the word of the Lord was made a reproach unto me, and in derision daily. Then I said, I will not make mention of him, nor speak any more in his Name. But his word was in mine heart as a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and I could not stay. For I had heard the railing of many, and fear on every side. Declare, said they, and we will declare it: all my familiars watched for mine halting, saying, It may be that he is deceived: so we shall prevail against him, and we shall execute our vengeance upon him. But the Lord is with me like a mighty giant: therefore my persecutors shall be overthrown, and shall not prevail, and shall be greatly confounded: for they have done unwisely, and their everlasting shame shall never be forgotten. But, O Lord of hosts, that tryest the righteous, and seest the reigns and the heart, let me see thy vengeance on them: for unto thee have I opened my cause. Sing unto the Lord, praise ye the Lord: for he hath delivered the soul of the poor fro the hand of the wicked. Cursed be the day wherein I was borne: and let not the day wherein my mother bare me, be blessed. Cursed be the man, that shewed my father, saying, A man child is borne unto thee, and comforted him. And let that man be as the cities, which the Lord hath overturned and repented not: and let him hear the cry in the morning, and the shouting at noon tide, because he hath not slain me, even from the womb, or that my mother might have been my grave, or her womb a perpetual conception. How is it, that I came forth of the womb, to see labour and sorrow, that my days should be consumed with shame?

The word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, when king Zedekiah sent unto him Pashur, the son of Malchiah, and Zephaniah, the son of Maaseiah the Priest, saying, Inquire, I pray thee, of the Lord for us, (for Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel maketh war against us) if so be that the Lord will deal with us according to all his wondrous works, that he may return up from us. Then said Jeremiah, Thus shall you say to Zedekiah, thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands, wherewith ye fight against the King of Babel, and against the Caldeans, which besiege you without the walls, and I will assemble them into the midst of this city. And I myself will fight against you with an outstretched hand, & with a mighty arm, even in anger and in wrath, and in great indignation. And I will smite the inhabitants of this city, both man, and beast: they shall die of a great pestilence. And after this, saith the Lord, I will deliver Zedekiah the King of Judah, and his servants, and the people, and such as are left in this city, from the pestilence, from the sword and from the famine into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those that seek their lives, and he shall smite them with the edge of the sword: he shall not spare them, neither have pity nor compassion. And unto this people thou shalt say, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I set before you the way of life, and the way of death. He that abideth in this city, shall die by the sword and by the famine, and by the pestilence: but he that goeth out, and falleth to the Caldeans, that besiege you, he shall live, and his life shall be unto him for a pray. For I have set my face against this city, for evil and not for good, saith the Lord: it shall be given into the hand of the King of Babel, and he shall burn it with fire. And say unto the house of the King of Judah, Hear ye the word of the Lord. O house of David, thus saith the Lord, Execute judgment in the morning, and deliver the oppressed out of the hand of the oppressor, lest my wrath go out like fire and burn, that none can quench it, because of the wickedness of your works. Behold, I come against thee, O inhabitant of the valley, & rock of the plain, saith the Lord, which say, Who shall come down against us? or who shall enter into our habitations? But I will visit you according to the fruit of your works, saith the Lord, and I will kindle a fire in the forest thereof, and it shall devour round about it.

Thus said the Lord, Go down to the house of the King of Judah, and speak there this thing, and say, Hear the word of the Lord, O King of Judah, that sittest upon the throne of David, thou and thy servants, and thy people that enter in by these gates. Thus saith the Lord, Execute ye judgment and righteousness, and deliver the oppressed from the hand of the oppressor, and vex not the stranger, the fatherless, nor the widow: do no violence, nor shed innocent blood in this place. For if ye do this thing, then shall the kings sitting upon the throne of David enter in by the gates of this House, and ride upon chariots, and upon horses, both he and his servants and his people. But if ye will not hear these words, I swear by myself, saith the Lord, that this House shall be waste. For thus hath the Lord spoken upon the Kings house of Judah, Thou art Gilead unto me, & the head of Lebanon, yet surely I will make thee a wilderness and as cities not inhabited, and I will prepare destroyers against thee, every one with his weapons, and they shall cut down thy chief cedar trees, and cast them in the fire. And many nations shall pass by this city, and they shall say every man to his neighbour, Wherefore hath the Lord done thus unto this great city? Then shall they answer, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the Lord their God, & worshipped other gods, and served them. Weep not for the dead, & be not moved for them, but weep for him that goeth out: for he shall return no more, nor see his native country. For thus saith ye Lord, As touching Shallum the son of Josiah King of Judah, which reigned for Josiah his father, which went out of this place, he shall not return thither, but he shall die in the place, whither they have led him captive, and shall see this land no more. Woe unto him that buildeth his house by unrighteousness, and his chambers without equity: he useth his neighbour without wages, and giveth him not for his work. He saith, I will build me a wide house and large chambers: so he will make himself large windows, and feeling with cedar, and paint them with vermilion. Shalt thou reign, because thou closest thyself in cedar? Did not thy father eat and drink and prosper, when he executed judgment and justice? When he judged the cause of the afflicted and the poor, he prospered: was not this because he knew me, saith the Lord? But thine eyes and thine heart are but only for thy covetousness, and for to shed innocent blood, and for oppression, and for destruction, even to do this. Therefore thus saith the Lord against Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, They shall not lament him, saying, Ah, my brother, or ah, sister: neither shall they mourn for him, saying, Ah, lord, or ah, his glory. He shall be buried, as an ass is buried, even drawn and cast forth without the gates of Jerusalem. Go up to Lebanon, and cry: shout in Bashan and cry by the passages: for all thy lovers are destroyed. I spake unto thee when thou wast in prosperity: but thou saidst, I will not hear: this hath been thy manner from thy youth, that thou wouldest not obey my voice. The wind shall feed all thy pastors, and thy lovers shall go into captivity: and then shalt thou be ashamed and confounded of all thy wickedness. Thou that dwellest in Lebanon, and makest thy nest in the cedars, how beautiful shalt thou be when sorrows come upon thee, as the sorrow of a woman in travail? As I live, saith the Lord, though Coniah the son of Jehoiakim King of Judah, were the signet of my right hand, yet would I pluck thee thence. And I will give thee into the hand of them that seek thy life, and into the hand of them, whose face thou fearest, even into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, and into the hand of the Chaldeans. And I will cause them to carry thee away, and thy mother that bare thee, into another country, where ye were not borne, and there shall ye die. But to the land, whereunto they desire to return, they shall not return thither. Is not this man Coniah as a despised and broken idol? or as a vessel, wherein is no pleasure? wherefore are they carried away, he and his seed, and cast out into a land that they know not? O earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord, Write this man destitute of children, a man that shall not prosper in his days: for there shall be no man of his seed that shall prosper & sit upon the throne of David, or bear rule any more in Judah.

Woe be unto the pastors that destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture, saith the Lord. Therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel unto the pastors that feed my people, Ye have scattered my flock and thrust them out, and have not visited them: behold, I will visit you for the wickedness of your works, saith the Lord. And I will gather the remnant of my sheep out of all countries, whither I had driven them, and will bring them again to their folds, and they shall grow and increase. And I will set up shepherds over them, which shall feed them: and they shall dread no more nor be afraid, neither shall any of them be lacking, saith the Lord. Behold, The days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous branch, and a King shall reign, and prosper, and shall execute judgment, and justice in the earth. In his days Judah shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell safely, and this is the Name whereby they shall call him, The Lord our righteousness. Therefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that they shall no more say, The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, but the Lord liveth, which brought up & led the seed of the house of Israel out of the North country and from all countries where I had scattered them, and they shall dwell in their own land. Mine heart breaketh within me, because of the prophets, all my bones shake: I am like a drunken man (and like a man whom wine hath overcome) for the presence of the Lord and for his holy words. For the land is full of adulterers, and because of oaths the land mourneth, the pleasant places of the wilderness are dried up, and their course is evil, and their force is not right. For both the prophet and the Priest do wickedly: and their wickedness have I found in mine House, saith the Lord. Wherefore their way shall be unto them as slippery ways in the darkness: they shall be driven forth and fall therein: for I will bring a plague upon them, even the year of their visitation, saith the Lord. And I have seen foolishness in the prophets of Samaria, that prophesied in Baal, & caused my people Israel to err. I have seen also in the prophets of Jerusalem filthiness: they commit adultery & walk in lies: they strengthen also the hands of the wicked that none can return from his wickedness: they are all unto me as Sodom, and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorah. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts concerning the prophets, Behold, I will feed them with wormwood, & make them drink the water of gall: for from the prophets of Jerusalem is wickedness gone forth into all the land. Thus saith ye Lord of hosts, Hear not the words of the prophets that prophecy unto you, and teach you vanity: they speak the vision of their own heart, and not out of the mouth of the Lord. They say still unto them that despise me, The Lord hath said, Ye shall have peace: and they say unto every one that walketh after the stubbornness of his own heart, No evil shall come upon you. For who hath stand in the counsel of the Lord that he hath perceived and heard his word? Who hath marked his word and heard it? Behold, the tempest of the Lord goeth forth in his wrath, and a violent whirlwind shall fall down upon the head of the wicked. The anger of the Lord shall not return until he have executed, and till he have performed the thoughts of his heart: in the latter days ye shall understand it plainly. I have not sent these prophets, saith the Lord, yet they ran; I have not spoken to them, and yet they prophesied. But if they had stand in my counsel, and had declared my words to my people, then they should have turned them from their evil way, & from the wickedness of their inventions. Am I a God at hand, saith the Lord, and not a God far off? Can any hide himself in secret places, that I shall not see him, saith the Lord? Do not I fill heaven and earth, saith the Lord? I have heard what the prophets said, that prophecy lies in my Name, saying, I have dreamed, I have dreamed. How long? Do the prophets delight to prophecy lies, even prophesying the deceit of their own heart? Think they to cause my people to forget my Name by their dreams, which they tell every man to his neighbour, as their forefathers have forgotten my Name for Baal? The prophet that hath a dream, let him tell a dream, and he that hath my word, let him speak my word faithfully: what is the chaff to the wheat, saith the Lord? Is not my word even like a fire, saith the Lord? and like an hammer, that breaketh the stone? Therefore behold, I will come against the prophets, saith the Lord, that steal my word every one from his neighbour. Behold, I will come against the prophets, saith the Lord, which have sweet tongues, & say, He saith. Behold, I will come against them that prophecy false dreams, saith the Lord, and do tell them, and cause my people to err by their lies, and by their flatteries, and I sent them not, nor commanded them: therefore they bring no profit unto this people, saith the Lord. And when this people, or the prophet, or a Priest shall ask thee, saying, What is the burden of the Lord? thou shalt then say unto them, What burden? I will even forsake you, saith the Lord. And the prophet, or the Priest, or the people that shall say, The burden of the Lord, I will even visit every such one, and his house. Thus shall ye say every one to his neighbour, and every one to his brother, What hath the Lord answered? and what hath the Lord spoken? And the burden of the Lord shall ye mention no more: for every mans word shall be his burden: for ye have perverted the words of the living God, the Lord of hosts our God. Thus shalt thou say to the Prophet, What hath the Lord answered thee? and what hath the Lord spoken? And if you say, The burden of the Lord, Then thus saith the Lord, Because ye say this word, The burden of the Lord, and I have sent unto you, saying, Ye shall not say, The burden of the Lord, therefore behold, I, even I will utterly forget you, and I will forsake you, and the city that I gave you and your fathers, and cast you out of my presence, and will bring an everlasting reproach upon you, and a perpetual shame which shall never be forgotten.

The Lord shewed me, and behold, two baskets of figs were set before the Temple of the Lord, after that Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel had carried away captive Jeconiah ye son of Jehoiakim King of Judah, and the princes of Judah with the workmen, and cunning men of Jerusalem, and had brought them to Babel. One basket had very good figs, even like the figs that are first ripe: and the other basket had very naughty figs, which could not be eaten, they were so evil. Then said the Lord unto me, What seest thou, Jeremiah? And I said, Figs: ye good figs very good, & the naughty very naughty, which cannot be eaten, they are so evil. Again the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel, Like these good figs, so will I know them that are carried away captive of Judah to be good, whom I have sent out of this place, into the land of the Caldeans. For I will set mine eyes upon them for good, and I will bring them again to this land, and I will build them, and not destroy them, & I will plant them, and not root them out, and I will give them an heart to know me, that I am the Lord, & they shall be my people, and I will be their God: for they shall return unto me with their whole heart. And as the naughty figs which can not be eaten, they are so evil (surely thus saith the Lord) so will I give Zedekiah the King of Judah, and his princes, and the residue of Jerusalem, that remain in this land, and them that dwell in the land of Egypt: I will even give them for a terrible plague to all the kingdoms of the earth, and for a reproach, and for a proverb, for a common talk, and for a curse, in all places where I shall cast them. And I will send the sword, the famine, and the pestilence among them, till they be consumed out of the land, that I gave unto them and to their fathers.

The word that came to Jeremiah, concerning all the people of Judah in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah that was in the first year of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel: The which Jeremiah the Prophet spake unto all the people of Judah, and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, From the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon King of Judah, even unto this day (that is the three and twentieth year) the word of the Lord hath come unto me, and I have spoken unto you rising early & speaking, but ye would not hear. And the Lord hath sent unto you all his servants the Prophets, rising early & sending them, but ye would not hear, nor incline your ears to obey. They said, Turn again now every one from his evil way, and from the wickedness of your inventions, and ye shall dwell in the land that the Lord hath given unto you, and to your fathers for ever and ever. And go not after other gods to serve them and to worship them, and provoke me not to anger with the works of your hands, and I will not punish you. Nevertheless ye would not hear me, saith the Lord, but have provoked me to anger with the works of your hands to your own hurt. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Because ye have not heard my words, behold, I will send and take to me all the families of the North, saith the Lord, and Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel my servant, & will bring them against this land, and against the inhabitants thereof, and against all these nations round about, and will destroy them, and make them an astonishment and an hissing, and a continual desolation. Moreover I will take from them the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the noise of the millstones, and the light of the candle. And this whole land shall be desolate, and an astonishment, and these nations shall serve the King of Babel seventy years. And when the seventy years are accomplished, I will visit the King of Babel and that nation, saith the Lord, for their iniquities, even the land of the Chaldeans, and will make it a perpetual desolation, and I will bring upon that land all my words which I have pronounced against it, even all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah hath prophesied against all nations. For many nations, and great Kings shall even serve themselves of them: thus will I recompense them according to their deeds, and according to the works of their own hands. For thus hath the Lord God of Israel spoken unto me, Take the cup of wine of this mine indignation at mine hand, and cause all the nations, to whom I send thee, to drink it. And they shall drink, and be moved and be mad, because of the sword that I will send among them. Then took I the cup at the Lord's hand, and made all people to drink, unto whom the Lord had sent me: Even Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah, and the Kings thereof, and the princes thereof, to make them desolate, an astonishment, an hissing, and a curse, as appeareth this day: Pharaoh also, King of Egypt, and his servants, and his princes, and all his people: And all sorts of people, and all the Kings of the land of Uz: and all the Kings of the land of the Philistims, and Ashkelon, and Azzah, and Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod: Edom, and Moab, and the Ammonites, and all the Kings of Tyrus, & all the kings of Zidon, and the Kings of the Isles, that are beyond the Sea, and Dedan, and Tema, and Buz, and all that dwell in the uttermost corners, and all the Kings of Arabia, and all the Kings of Arabia, that dwell in the desert, and all the Kings of Zimri, and all the Kings of Elam, and all the Kings of the Medes, and all the Kings of the North, far and near one to another, and all the kingdoms of the world, which are upon the earth, & the king of Sheshach shall drink after them.

Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Drink and be drunken, and spew and fall, and rise no more, because of the sword, which I will send among you. But if they refuse to take the cup at thine hand to drink, then tell them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Ye shall certainly drink. For lo, I begin to plague the city, where my Name is called upon, and should you go free? Ye shall not go quite: for I will call for a sword upon all the inhabitants of the earth, saith the Lord of hosts. Therefore prophecy thou against them all these words, and say unto them, The Lord shall roar from above, and thrust out his voice from his holy habitation: he shall roar upon his habitation, and cry aloud, as they that press the grapes, against all the inhabitants of the earth. The sound shall come to the ends of the earth: for the Lord hath a controversy with the nations, and will enter into judgment with all flesh, and he will give them that are wicked, to the sword, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, a plague shall go forth from nation to nation, and a great whirlwind shall be raised up from the coasts of the earth, and the slain of the Lord shall be at that day, from one end of the earth, even unto the other end of the earth: they shall not be mourned, neither gathered nor buried, but shall be as the dung upon the ground. Howl, ye shepherds, and cry, and wallow yourselves in the ashes, ye principal of the flock: for your days of slaughter are accomplished, and of your dispersion, and ye shall fall like precious vessels. And the flight shall fail from the shepherds, and the escaping from the principal of the flock. A voice of the cry of the shepherds, and an howling of the principal of the flock shall be heard: for the Lord hath destroyed their pasture. And the best pastures are destroyed because of the wrath and indignation of the Lord. He hath forsaken his covert, as the lion: for their land is waste, because of the wrath of the oppressor, & because of ye wrath of his indignation.

In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah, came this word from the Lord, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Sand in the court of the Lord's House, & speak unto all the cities of Judah, which come to worship in the Lord's House, all the words that I command thee to speak unto them: keep not a word back, if so be they will hearken, and turn every man from his evil way, that I may repent me of the plague, which I have determined to bring upon them, because of the wickedness of their works. And thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord, If ye will not hear me to walk in my Laws, which I have set before you, and to hear ye words of my servants the Prophets, whom I sent unto you, both rising up early, and sending them, and will not obey them, then will I make this House like Shiloh, and will make this city a curse to all the nations of the earth. So the Priests, and the Prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the House of the Lord. Now when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that the Lord had commanded him to speak unto all the people, then the Priests, and the prophets, and all the people took him, and said, Thou shalt die the death. Why hast thou prophesied in the Name of the Lord, saying, This House shall be like Shiloh, & this city shall be desolate without an inhabitant? And all the people were gathered against Jeremiah in the House of the Lord. And when the princes of Judah heard of these things, they came up from the Kings house into the House of the Lord, and sat down in the entry of the new gate of the Lord's House. Then spake the Priests, and the prophets unto the princes, and to all the people, saying, This man is worthy to die: for he hath prophesied against this city, as ye have heard with your ears. Then spake Jeremiah unto all the princes, and to all the people, saying, The Lord hath sent me to prophecy against this house and against this city all the things that ye have heard. Therefore now amend your ways and your works, and hear the voice of the Lord your God, that the Lord may repent him of the plague, that he hath pronounced against you. As for me, behold, I am in your hands: do with me as ye think good and right. But know ye for certain, that if ye put me to death, ye shall surely bring innocent blood upon yourselves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof: for of a truth the Lord hath sent me unto you, to speak all these words in your ears. Then said the princes and all the people unto the Priests, and to the prophets, This man is not worthy to die: for he hath spoken unto us in the Name of the Lord our God. Then rose up certain of the Elders of the land, and spake to all the assembly of the people, saying, Michah the Morashite prophesied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and spake to all the people of Judah, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Zion shall be plowed like a field, and Jerusalem shall be an heap, and the mountain of the House shall be as the high places of the forest. Did Hezekiah King of Judah, and all Judah put him to death? did he not fear ye Lord, and prayed before the Lord, and the Lord repented him of the plague, that he had pronounced against them? Thus might we procure great evil against our souls. And there was also a man that prophesied in the Name of the Lord, one Uriah the son of Shemaiah, of Kiriath-iarem, who prophesied against this city, and against this land, according to all the words of Jeremiah. Now when Jehoiakim the King with all his men of power, and all the princes heard his words, the King sought to slay him. But when Uriah heard it, he was afraid and fled, and went into Egypt. Then Jehoiakim the King sent men into Egypt, even Elnathan the son of Achbor, and certain with him into Egypt. And they fetched Uriah out of Egypt, and brought him unto Jehoiakim the King, who slew him with the sword, and cast his dead body into the graves of the children of the people. But the hand of Ahikam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah that they should not give him into the hand of the people to put him to death.

In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah came this word unto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, Thus saith the Lord to me, Make thee bonds, and yokes, & put them upon thy neck, and send them to the King of Edom, and to the King of Moab, & to the King of the Ammonites, and to the King of Tyrus, & to the king of Zidon, by the hand of the messengers which come to Jerusalem unto Zedekiah ye king of Judah, and command them to say unto their masters, Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Thus shall ye say unto your masters, I have made the earth, the man, and the beast that are upon the ground, by my great power, and by my outstretched arm, and have given it unto whom it pleased me. But now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel my servant, and the beasts of the field have I also given him to serve him. And all nations shall serve him, and his son, and his sons son until the very time of his land come also: then many nations and great Kings shall serve themselves of him. And the nation and kingdom which will not serve the same Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, and that will not put their neck under the yoke of the King of Babel, the same nation will I visit, saith the Lord, with the sword, and with the famine, and with the pestilence, until I have wholly given them into his hands. Therefore hear not your prophets nor your soothsayers, nor your dreamers, nor your enchanters, nor your sorcerers, which say unto you thus, Ye shall not serve the King of Babel. For they prophecy a lie unto you to cause you to go far from your land, and that I should cast you out, and you should perish. But the nation that put their necks under the yoke of the King of Babel, & serve him, those will I let remain still in their own land, saith the Lord, and they shall occupy it, and dwell therein. I spake also to Zedekiah king of Judah according to all these words, saying, Put your necks under the yoke of the King of Babel, and serve him and his people, that ye may live. Why will ye die, thou, and thy people by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, as the Lord hath spoken against the nation, that will not serve the King of Babel? Therefore hear not the words of the prophets, that speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the King of Babel: for they prophecy a lie unto you. For I have not sent them, saith the Lord, yet they prophecy a lie in my name, that I might cast you out, and that ye might perish, both you, and the prophets that prophecy unto you. Also I spake to the Priests, and to all this people, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Hear not the words of your prophets that prophecy unto you, saying, Behold, the vessels of the house of the Lord shall now shortly be brought again from Babel, for they prophecy a lie unto you. Hear them not, but serve the King of Babel, that ye may live: wherefore should this city be desolate? But if they be Prophets, and if the word of the Lord be with them, let them entreat the Lord of hosts, that the vessels, which are left in the House of the Lord, and in the house of the King of Judah, and at Jerusalem, go not to Babel. For thus saith the Lord of hosts, concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea, and concerning the bases, and concerning the residue of the vessels that remain in this city, which Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel took not, when he carried away captive Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim King of Judah from Jerusalem to Babel, with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem. For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, concerning the vessels that remain in the House of the Lord, and in the house of the King of Judah, and at Jerusalem, they shall be brought to Babel, and there they shall be until the day that I visit them, saith the Lord: then will I bring them up, and restore them unto this place.

And that same year in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah King of Judah in the fourth year, and in the fifth month Hananiah the son of Azur the prophet, which was of Gibeon, spake to me in the House of the Lord in the presence of the Priests, and of all the people, and said, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, I have broken the yoke of the King of Babel. Within two years space I will bring into this place all the vessels of the Lord's House, that Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel took away from this place, and carried them into Babel. And I will bring again to this place Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim King of Judah, with all them that were carried away captive of Judah, and went into Babel, saith the Lord: for I will break the yoke of the King of Babel. Then the Prophet Jeremiah said unto the Prophet Hananiah in the presence of ye Priests, and in the presence of all the people that stood in the House of the Lord. Even the Prophet Jeremiah said, So be it: the Lord so do, the Lord confirm thy words which thou hast prophesied to restore the vessels of the Lord's House, and all that is carried captive, from Babel, into this place. But hear thou now this word that I will speak in thine ears and in the ears of all the people. The Prophets that have been before me and before thee in time past, prophesied against many countries, and against great kingdoms, of war, and of plagues, and of pestilence. And the Prophet which prophecieth of peace, when the word of the Prophet shall come to pass, then shall the Prophet be known that the Lord hath truly sent him. Then Hananiah the Prophet took the yoke from the Prophet Jeremiah's neck, and brake it. And Hananiah spake in the presence of all the people, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, from the neck of all nations within the space of two years: and the Prophet Jeremiah went his way. Then the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah the Prophet, (after that Hananiah the Prophet had broken the yoke from the neck of the Prophet Jeremiah) saying, Go, and tell Hananiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Thou hast broken the yokes of wood, but thou shalt make for them yokes of iron. For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, I have put a yoke of iron upon the neck of all these nations, that they may serve Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel: for they shall serve him, and I have given him the beasts of the field also. Then said the Prophet Jeremiah unto the Prophet Hananiah, Hear now Hananiah, the Lord hath not sent thee, but thou makest this people to trust in a lie. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will cast thee from of the earth: this year thou shalt die, because thou hast spoken rebelliously against the Lord. So Hananiah the Prophet died the same year in the seventh month.

Now these are the words of the book that Jeremiah the Prophet sent from Jerusalem unto the residue of the Elders which were carried away captives, and to the Priests, and to the Prophets, and to all the people whom Nebuchad-nezzar had carried away captive from

Jerusalem to Babel: (After that Jeconiah the King, and the Queen, and the eunuches, the princes of Judah, and of Jerusalem, and the workmen, and cunning men were departed from Jerusalem) By the hand of Elasah the son of Shaphan and Gemariah the son of Hilkiah, (whom Zedekiah King of Judah sent unto Babel to Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel) saying, Thus hath the Lord of hosts the God of Israel spoken unto all that are carried away captives, whom I have caused to be carried away captives from Jerusalem unto Babel: Build you houses to dwell in, and plant you gardens, and eat the fruits of them. Take you wives, and beget sons and daughters, and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may bear sons and daughters, that ye may be increased there, and not diminished. And seek the prosperity of the city, whither I have caused you to be carried away captives, and pray unto the Lord for it: for in the peace thereof shall you have peace. For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Let not your prophets, and your soothsayers that be among you, deceive you, neither give ear to your dreams, which you dream. For they prophecy you a lie in my Name: I have not sent them, saith the Lord. But thus saith the Lord, That after seventy years be accomplished at Babel, I will visit you, and perform my good promise toward you, and cause you to return to this place. For I know the thoughts, that I have thought towards you, saith the Lord, even the thoughts of peace, and not of trouble, to give you an end, and your hope. Then shall you cry unto me, and ye shall go and pray unto me, and I will hear you, and ye shall seek me and find me, because ye shall seek me with all your heart. And I will be found of you, saith the Lord, and I will turn away your captivity, and I will gather you from all the nations, and from all the places, whither I have cast you, saith the Lord, and will bring you again unto the place, whence I caused you to be carried away captive. Because ye have said, The Lord hath raised us up Prophets in Babel, therefore thus saith the Lord of the King, that sitteth upon the throne of David, and of all the people, that dwell in this city, your brethren that are not gone forth with you into captivity: Even thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will send upon them the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, and will make them like vile figs, that cannot be eaten, they are so naughty. And I will persecute them with the sword, with the famine, and with the pestilence: and I will make them a terror to all kingdoms of the earth, and a curse, and astonishment and an hissing, and a reproach among all the nations whither I have cast them, because they have not heard my words, saith the Lord, which I sent unto them by my servants the Prophets, rising up early, and sending them, but ye would not hear, saith the Lord. Hear ye therefore the word of the Lord all ye of the captivity, whom I have sent from Jerusalem to Babel. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, of Ahab the son of Kolaiah, and of Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah, which prophecy lies unto you in my Name, Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, and he shall slay them before your eyes. And all they of the captivity of Judah, that are in Babel, shall take up this curse against them, and say, The Lord make thee like Zedekiah and like Ahab, whom the King of Babel burnt in the fire, because they have committed villainy in Israel, and have committed adultery with their neighbours wives, and have spoken lying words in my Name, which I have not commanded them, even I know it, and testifie it, saith the Lord. Thou shalt also speak to Shemaiah the Nehelamite, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, Because thou hast sent letters in thy Name unto all the people, that are at Jerusalem, and to Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah the Priest, and to all the Priests, saying, The Lord hath made thee Priest for Jehoiada the Priest, that ye should be officers in the House of the Lord, for every man that raveth and maketh himself a Prophet, to put him in prison and in the stocks. Now therefore why hast not thou reprobated Jeremiah of Anathoth, which prophesieth unto you? For, for this cause he sent unto us in Babel, saying, This captivity is long: build houses to dwell in, and plant gardens, and eat the fruits of them. And Zephaniah the Priest red this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the Prophet. Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying, Send to all them of the captivity, saying, Thus saith the Lord of Shemaiah the Nehelamite, Because that Shemaiah hath prophesied unto you, and I sent him not, and he caused you to trust in a lie, therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will visit Shemaiah the Nehelamite, & his seed: he shall not have a man to dwell among this people, neither shall he behold the good, that I will do for my people, saith the Lord, because he hath spoken rebelliously against the Lord.

The word, that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord God of Israel, saying, Write thee all the words, that I have spoken unto thee in a book. For lo, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will bring again the captivity of my people Israel and Judah, saith the Lord: for I will restore them unto the land, that I gave to their fathers, and they shall possess it. Again, these are the words that the Lord spake concerning Israel, and concerning Judah. For thus saith the Lord, we have heard a terrible voice, of fear and not of peace. Demand now and behold, if man travail with child? wherefore do I behold every man with his hands on his loins as a woman in travail, and all faces are turned into a paleness? Alas, for this day is great: none hath been like it: it is even the time of Jaakob's trouble, yet shall he be delivered from it. For in that day, saith the Lord of hosts, I will break his yoke from off thy neck, and break thy bonds, and strangers shall no more serve themselves of him. But they shall serve the Lord their God, and David their King, whom I will raise up unto them. Therefore fear not, O my servant Jaakob, saith the Lord, neither be afraid, O Israel: for lo, I will deliver thee from a far country, and thy seed from the land of their captivity, and Jaakob shall turn again, and shall be in rest and prosperity and none shall make him afraid. For I am with thee, saith the Lord, to save thee: though I utterly destroy all the nations where I have scattered thee, yet will I not utterly destroy thee, but I will correct thee by judgment, and not utterly cut thee off. For thus saith the Lord, Thy bruising is incurable, and thy wound is dolorous. There is none to judge thy cause, or to lay a plaister: there are no medicines, nor help for thee. All thy lovers have forgotten thee: they seek thee not: for I have stricken thee with the wound of an enemy, and with a sharp chastisement for ye multitude of thine iniquities, because thy sins were increased. Why criest thou for thine affliction? thy sorrow is incurable, for the multitude of thine iniquities: because thy sins were increased, I have done these things unto thee. Therefore all they that devour thee, shall be devoured, & all thine enemies every one shall go into captivity: and they that spoil thee, shall be spoiled, and all they that rob thee, will I give to be robbed. For I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord, because they called thee, The cast away, saying, This is Zion, whom no man seeketh after. Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring again the captivity of Jaakob's tents, and have compassion on his dwelling places: and the city shall be builded upon her own heap, and the palace shall remain after the manner thereof. And out of them shall proceed thanksgiving, and the voice of them that are joyous, and I will multiply them, and they shall not be few: I will also glorify them, and they shall not be diminished. Their children also shall be as afore time, and their congregation shall be established before me: and I will visit all that vex them. And their noble ruler shall be of themselves, and their governour shall proceed from the midst of them, and I will cause him to draw near, and approach unto me: for who is this that directeth his heart to come unto me, saith the Lord? And ye shall be my people, and I will be your God. Behold, the tempest of the Lord goeth forth with wrath: the whirlwind that hangeth over, shall light upon the head of the wicked. The fierce wrath of the Lord shall not return, until he have done, and until he have performed the intents of his heart: in the latter days ye shall understand it.

At the same time, saith the Lord, will I be the God of all the families of Israel, and they shall be my people. Thus saith the Lord, The people which escaped the sword, found grace in the wilderness: he walked before Israel to cause him to rest. The Lord hath appeared unto me of old, say they: Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love, therefore with mercy I have drawn thee. Again I will build thee, and thou shalt be builded, O virgin Israel: thou shalt still be adorned with thy timbrels, and shalt go forth in the dance of them that be joyful. Thou shalt yet plant vines upon the mountains of Samaria, and the planters that plant them, shall make them common. For the days shall come that the watchmen upon the mount of Ephraim shall cry, Arise, and let us go up unto Zion to the Lord our God. For thus saith the Lord, Rejoice with gladness for Jaakob, and shout for joy among the chief of the Gentiles: publish praise, and say, O Lord, save thy people, the remnant of Israel. Behold, I will bring them from the North country, and gather them from the coasts of the world, with the blind & the lame among them, with the woman with child, and her that is delivered also: a great company shall return hither. They shall come weeping, and with mercy will I bring them again: I will lead them by the rivers of water in a straight way, wherein they shall not stumble: for I am a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my first borne. Hear the word of the Lord, O ye Gentiles, and declare in the isles afar off, and say, He that scattered Israel, will gather him and will keep him, as a shepherd doth his flock. For the Lord hath redeemed Jaakob, and ransomed him from the hand of him, that was stronger then he. Therefore they shall come, and rejoice in the height of Zion, and shall run to the bountifulness of the Lord, even for the wheat and for the wine, and for the oil, and for the increase of sheep, & bullocks: and their soul shall be as a watered garden, and they shall have no more sorrow. Then shall ye virgin rejoice in the dance, and the young men and the old men together: for I will turn their mourning into joy, and will comfort them, and give them joy for their sorrows. And I will replenish the soul of the Priests with fatness, and my people shall be satisfied with my goodness, saith the Lord. Thus saith the Lord, A voice was heard on high, a mourning and bitter weeping. Rachel weeping for her children, refused to be comforted for her children, because they were not. Thus saith the Lord, Refrain thy voice from weeping, and thine eyes from tears: for thy work shall be rewarded, saith the Lord, and they shall come again from the land of the enemy: And there is hope in thine end, saith the Lord, that thy children shall come again to their own borders. I have heard Ephraim lamenting thus, Thou hast corrected me, and I was chastised as an untamed calf: convert thou me, and I shall be converted: for thou art the Lord my God. Surely after that I converted, I repented: and after that I was instructed, I smote upon my thigh: I was ashamed, yea, even confounded, because I did bear the reproach of my youth. Is Ephraim my dear son or pleasant child? yet since I spake unto him, I still remembered him: therefore my bowels are troubled for him: I will surely have compassion upon him, saith the Lord. Set thee up signs: make thee heaps: set thine heart toward the path and way, that thou hast walked: turn again, O virgin of Israel: turn again to these thy cities. How long wilt thou go astray, O thou rebellious daughter? for the Lord hath created a new thing in the earth: A woman shall compass a man. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Yet shall they say this thing in the land of Judah, and in the cities thereof, when I shall bring again their captivity, The Lord bless thee, O habitation of justice and holy mountain. And Judah shall dwell in it, and all the cities thereof together, the husbandmen and they that go forth with the flock. For I have satiate the weary soul, and I have replenished every sorrowful soul. Therefore I awaked and beheld, and my sleep was sweet unto me. Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will sow the house of Israel, and the house of Judah with the seed of man and with the seed of beast. And like as I have watched upon them, to pluck up and to root out, and to throw down, and to destroy, and to plague them, so will I watch over them, to build & to plant them, saith ye Lord. In those days shall they say no more, The fathers have eaten a sour grape, and the children's teeth are set on edge. But every one shall die for his own iniquity: every man that eateth the sour grape, his teeth shall be set on edge. Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah, not according to ye covenant that I made with their fathers, when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, the which my covenant they brake, although I was an husband unto them, saith the Lord. But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel, After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my Law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts, and will be their God, and they shall be my people. And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord: for I will forgive their iniquity, and will remember their sins no more. Thus saith the Lord, which giveth the sun for a light to the day, and the courses of the moon and of the starres for a light to the night, which breaketh the sea, when the waves thereof roar: his Name is the Lord of hosts. If these ordinances depart out of my sight, saith the Lord, then shall the seed of Israel cease from being a nation before me, for ever. Thus saith the Lord, If the heavens can be measured, or the foundations of the earth be searched out beneath, then will I cast off all the seed of Israel, for all that they have done, saith the Lord. Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that the city shall be built to the Lord from the tower of Hananeel, unto the gate of the corner. And the line of the measure shall go forth in his presence upon the hill Gareb, and shall compass about to Goath. And the whole valley of the dead bodies, and of the ashes, & all the fields unto the brook of Kidron, and unto the corner of the horsegate toward the East, shall be holy unto the Lord, neither shall it be plucked up nor destroyed any more for ever.

The word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchad-nezzar. For then the King of Babels host besieged Jerusalem: And Jeremiah the Prophet was shut up in the court of the prison, which was in the King of Judah's house. For Zedekiah King of Judah had shut him up, saying, Wherefore dost thou prophesy, and say, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hands of the King of Babel, and he shall take it? And Zedekiah the King of Judah shall not escape out of the hand of the Caldeans, but shall surely be delivered into the hands of the King of Babel, and shall speak with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes shall behold his face, and he shall lead Zedekiah to Babel, & there shall he be, until I visit him, saith ye Lord: though ye fight with the Caldeans, ye shall not prosper. And Jeremiah said, The word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Behold, Hanameel, the son of Shallum thine uncle, shall come unto thee and say, Buy unto thee my field, that is in Anathoth: for the title by kindred appertaineth unto thee to bye it. So Hanameel, mine uncles son, came to me in the court of the prison, according to the word of the Lord, & said unto me, Bye my field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the country of Benjamin: for the right of the possession is thine, & the purchase belongeth unto thee: bye it for thee. Then I knew that this was the word of the Lord. And I bought the field of Hanameel, mine uncle's son, that was in Anathoth, and weighed him the silver, even seven shekels, and ten pieces of silver. And I writ it in the book and signed it, and took witnesses, and weighed him the silver in the balances. So I took the book of the possession, being sealed according to the Law, and custom, with the book that was open, and I gave the book of the possession unto Baruch the son of Neriah, the son of Maaseiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine uncle's son, and in the presence of the witnesses, written in the book of the possession, before all the Jews that sat in the court of the prison. And I charged Baruch before them, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Take the writings, even this book of the possession, both that is sealed, and this book that is open, and put them in an earthen vessel, that they may continue a long time. For the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel saith thus, Houses and fields, and vineyards shall be possessed again in this land. Now when I had delivered the book of the possession unto Baruch, the son of Neriah, I prayed unto the Lord, saying, Ah Lord God, behold, thou hast made the heaven and the earth by thy great power, and by thy stretched out arm, & there is nothing hard unto thee. Thou shewest mercy unto thousands, and recompensest the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their children after them: O God the great & mighty, whose Name is ye Lord of hosts, great in counsel, & mighty in work, (for thine eyes are open upon all the ways of ye sons of men, to give to every one according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his works) which hast set signs and wonders in the land of Egypt unto this day, and in Israel, and among all men, and hast made thee a Name, as appeareth this day, and hast brought thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs, and with wonders, and with a strong hand, with a stretched out arm, and with great terrour, and hast given them this land, which thou didst swear to their fathers to give them, even a land, that floweth with milk and honey, and they came in, and possessed it, but they obeyed not thy voice, neither walked in thy Law: all that thou commandedst them to do, they have not done: therefore thou hast caused this whole plague to come upon them. Behold, the mounts, they are come into the city to take it, and the city is given into the hand of the Caldeans, that fight against it by means of the sword, and of the famine, and of the pestilence, and what thou hast spoken, is come to pass, and behold, thou seest it. And thou hast said unto me, O Lord God, Buy unto thee the field for silver, and take witnesses: for the city shall be given into the hand of the Caldeans. Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying, Behold, I am the Lord God of all flesh: is there any thing too hard for me? Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the Caldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar, King of Babel, and he shall take it. And the Caldeans shall come and fight against this city, and set fire on this city and burn it, with the houses, upon whose rouses they have offred incense unto Baal, and powered drink offerings unto other gods, to provoke me unto anger. For the children of Israel, and the children of Judah have surely done evil before me from their youth: for the children of Israel have surely provoked me to anger with the works of their hands, saith the Lord. Therefore this city hath been unto me as a prouocation of mine anger, and of my wrath, from the day, that they built it, even unto this day, that I should remove it out of my sight, because of all the evil of the children of Israel, and of the children of Judah, which they have done to provoke me to anger, even they, their Kings, their Princes, their Priests, and their Prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. And they have turned unto me the back and not the face: though I taught them rising up early, and instructing them, yet they were not obedient to receiue doctrine, but they set their abominations in ye house (whereupon my Name was called) to defile it, and they built the high places of Baal, which are in the valley of Ben-hinnom, to cause their sons & their daughters to pass through the fire unto Molech, which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind, that they should do such abomination, to cause Judah to sin. And now therefore, thus hath the Lord God of Israel spoken, concerning this city, whereof ye say, It shall be delivered into the hand of the King of Babel by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence, behold, I will gather them out of all countries, wherein I have scattered them in mine anger, and in my wrath, and in great indignation, and I will bring them again unto this place, and I will cause them to dwell safely. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. And I will give them one heart and one way that they may fear me for ever for ye wealth of them, and of their children after them. And I will make an everlasting covenant with them, that I will never turn away from them to do them good, but I will put my fear in their hearts, that they shall not depart from me. Yea, I will delight in them to do them good, and I will plant them in this land assuredly with my whole heart, and with all my soul. For thus saith the Lord, Like as I have brought all this great plague upon this people, so will I bring upon them all the good that I have promised them. And the fields shall be possessed in this land, whereof ye say, It is desolate without ma or beast, and shall be given into the hand of the Caldeans. Men shall bye fields for silver, and make writings and seal them, and take witnesses in the land of Benjamin, and round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, and in the cities of the mountains, and in the cities of the plain, and in the cities of the South: for I will cause their captivity to return, saith the Lord.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah the second time (while he was yet shut up in the court of prison) saying, Thus saith the Lord, the maker thereof, the Lord that formed it, and established it, the Lord is his Name. Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not. For thus saith the Lord God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the Kings of Judah, which are destroyed by the mounts, and by the sword, they come to fight with the Caldeans, but it is to fill themselves with the dead bodies of men, whom I have slain in mine anger and in my wrath: for I have hid my face from this city, because of all their wickedness. Behold, I will give it health & amendment: for I will cure them, and will reveal unto them the abundance of peace, and truth. And I will cause the captivity of Judah and the captivity of Israel to return, and will build them as at the first. And I will cleanse them from all their iniquity, whereby they have sinned against me: yea, I will pardon all their iniquities, whereby they have sinned against me, and whereby they have rebelled against me. And it shall be to me a name, a joy, a praise, and an honour before all the nations of the earth, which shall hear all ye good that I do unto them: and they shall fear & tremble for all the goodness, and for all the wealth, that I shew unto this city. Thus saith the Lord, Again there shall be heard in this place (which ye say shall be desolate, without man, and without beast, even in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, that are desolate without man, and without inhabitant, and without beast) the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the voice of them that shall say, Praise the Lord of hosts, because the Lord is good: for his mercy endureth for ever, and of them that offer the sacrifice of praise in the House of the Lord, for I will cause to return the captivity of the land, as at the first, saith the Lord. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Again in this place, which is desolate, without man, & without beast, and in all the cities thereof there shall be dwelling for shepherds to rest their flocks. In the cities of the mountains, in the cities in the plain, and in the cities of the South, and in the land of Benjamin, and about Jerusalem, & in the cities of Judah shall the sheep pass again, under the hand of him that telleth them, saith the Lord. Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will perform that good thing, which I have promised unto the house of Israel, & to the house of Judah. In those days and at that time, will I cause the branch of righteousness to grow up unto David, & he shall execute judgment, and righteousness in the land. In those days shall Judah be saved, and Jerusalem shall dwell safely, and he that shall call her, is the Lord our righteousness. For thus saith the Lord, David shall never want a man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel. Neither shall the Priests and Levites want a man before me to offer burnt offerings, & to offer meat offerings, & to do sacrifice continually. And the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord, If you can break my covenant of the day, and my covenant of the night, that there should not be day, and night in their season, then may my covenant be broken with David my servant, that he should not have a son to reign upon his throne, and with the Levites, and Priests my ministers. As the army of heaven can not be numbered, neither the sand of the sea measured: so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites, that minister unto me. Moreover, the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying, Considerest thou not what this people have spoken, saying, The two families, which the Lord hath chosen, he hath even cast them off? thus they have despised my people, that they should be no more a nation before them. Thus saith the Lord, If my covenant be not with day and night, and if I have not appointed the order of heaven and earth, then will I cast away the seed of Jaakob and David my servant, and not take of his seed to be rulers over the seed of Abraham, Izhak, and Jaakob: for I will cause their captivity to return, and have compassion on them.

The word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord (when Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, and all his host, and all the kingdoms of the earth, that were under the power of his hand, and all people fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cites thereof) saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Go, and speak to Zedekiah King of Judah, and tell him, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the King of Babel, and he shall burn it with fire, and thou shalt not escape out of his hand, but shalt surely be taken, and delivered into his hand, and thine eyes shall behold the face of the King of Babel, & he shall speak with thee mouth to mouth, and thou shalt go to Babel. Yet hear the word of the Lord, O Zedekiah, King of Judah: thus saith the Lord of thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword, but thou shalt die in peace: and according to the burning for thy fathers the former Kings which were before thee, so shall they burn odours for thee, and they shall lament thee, saying, Oh lord: for I have pronounced the word, saith the Lord. Then Jeremiah the Prophet spake all these words unto Zedekiah King of Judah in Jerusalem, (When the King of Babels host fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah, that were left, even against Lachish, and against Azekah: for these strong cities remained of the cities of Judah) this is the word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, after that the King Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people, which were at Jerusalem, to proclaim liberty unto them, That every man should let his servant go free, and every man his handmaid, which was an Hebrew or an Hebrewess, and that none should serve himself of them, to wit, of a Jew his brother. Now when all the princes, and all the people which had agreed to the covenant, heard that every one should let his servant go free, & every one his handmaid, and that none should serve them selves of them any more, they obeyed and let them go. But afterward they repented and caused the servants and the handmaids, whom they had let go free, to return, and held them in subjection as servants and handmaids. Therefore the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I made a covenant with your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants, saying, At the term of seven years let ye go, every man his brother an Hebrew which hath been sold unto thee: and when he hath served the six years, thou shalt let him go free from thee: but your fathers obeyed me not, neither inclined their ears. And ye were now turned, and had done right in my sight in proclaiming liberty, every man to his neighbour, and ye had made a covenant before me in the house, whereupon my Name is called. But ye repented, and polluted my Name: for ye have caused every man his servant, and every man his handmaid, whom ye had set at liberty at their pleasure, to return, and hold them in subjection to be unto you as servants and as handmaids. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Ye have not obeyed me, in proclaiming freedom every man to his brother, and every man to his neighbour: behold, I proclaim a liberty for you, saith the Lord, to the sword, to the pestilence, and to the famine, and I will make you a terrour to all the kingdoms of the earth. And I will give those men that have broken my covenant, and have not kept the words of the covenant, which they had made before me, when they cut the calf in twain, and passed between the parts thereof: The princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the Eunuchs, and the Priests, and all the people of the land, which passed between the parts of the calf, I will even give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hands of them that seek their life: and their dead bodies shall be for meat unto the fowls of the heaven, and to the beasts of the earth. And Zedekiah King of Judah, and his princes will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life, and into the hand of the King of Babels host, which are gone up from you. Behold, I will command, saith the Lord, and cause them to return to this city, and they shall fight against it, and take it, and burn it with fire: and I will make the cities of Judah desolate without an inhabitant.

The word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah, saying, Go unto the house of the Rechabites, and speak unto them, and bring them into the house of the Lord into one of the chambers, and give them wine to drink. Then took I Jaazaniah, the son of Jeremiah the son of Habazziniah, and his brethren, and all his sons, and the whole house of the Rechabites, And I brought them into the House of the Lord, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan, the son of Igdaiah a man of God, which was by the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah the son of Shallum, the keeper of the treasure. And I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites, pots full of wine, and cups, and said unto them, Drink wine. But they said, We will drink no wine: for Jonadab the son of Rechab our father commanded us, saying, Ye shall drink no wine, neither you nor your sons for ever. Neither shall ye build house, nor sow seed, nor plant vineyard, nor have any, but all your days ye shall dwell in tents, that ye may live a long time in the land where ye be strangers. Thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab our father, in all that he hath charged us, and we drink no wine all our days, neither we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters. Neither build we houses for us to dwell in, neither have we vineyard, nor field, nor seed, but we have remained in tents, and have obeyed, and done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us. But when Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel came up into the land, we said, Come, & let us go to Jerusalem, from the host of the Caldeans, and from the host of Aram: so we dwell at Jerusalem. Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Go, and tell the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will ye not receive doctrine to obey my words, saith the Lord? The commandment of Jonadab the son of Rechab that he commanded his sons, that they should drink no wine, is surely kept: for unto this day they drink none, but obey their fathers commandment: notwithstanding I have spoken unto you, rising early, and speaking, but ye would not obey me. I have sent also unto you all my servants the Prophets, rising up early, and sending, them, saying, Return now every man from his evil way, and amend your works, and go not after other gods to serve them, and ye shall dwell in the land which I have given unto you, and to your fathers, but ye would not incline your ear, nor obey me. Surely the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab, have kept the commandment of their father, which he gave them, but this people hath not obeyed me. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the evil that I have pronounced against them, because I have spoke unto them, but they would not hear, and I have called unto them, but they would not answer. And Jeremiah said to the house of the Rechabites, Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Because ye have obeyed the commandment of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according unto all that he hath commanded you, therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Jonadab the son of Rechab shall not want a man, to stand before me for ever.

And in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah, came this word unto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, Take thee a roll or book, and write therein all the words that I have spoken to thee against Israel, and against Judah, and against all the nations, from the day that I spake unto thee, even from the days of Josiah unto this day. It may be that the House of Judah will hear of all the evil, which I determined to do unto them that they may return every man from his evil way, that I may forgive their iniquity and their sins. Then Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord, which he had spoken unto him, upon a roll or book. And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am shut up, and can not go into the House of the Lord. Therefore go thou, and read the roll wherein thou hast written at my mouth the words of the Lord in the audience of the people in the Lord's House upon the fasting day: also thou shalt read them in the hearing of all Judah, that come out of their cities. It may be that they will pray before the Lord, and every one return from his evil way, for great is the anger and the wrath, that the Lord hath declared against this people. So Baruch the son of Neriah did according unto all, that Jeremiah the Prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of the Lord in the Lord's House. And in the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah, in the ninth month, they proclaimed a fast before the Lord to all the people in Jerusalem, and to all the people that came from the cities of Judah unto Jerusalem. Then read Baruch in the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the Lord, in the chamber of Gemariah the son of

Shaphan the secretary, in the higher court at the entry of the new gate of the Lord's house, in the hearing of all the people. When Michaiah the son of Gemariah, the son of Shaphan had heard out of the book all the words of the Lord, then he went down to the Kings house into the Chancellors chamber, and lo, all the princes sat there, even Elishama the Chancellor, and Delaiah the son of Shemaiah, and Elnathan the son of Achbor, and Gemariah the son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the son of Hananiah, and all the princes. Then Michaiah declared unto them all the words that he had heard when Baruch read in the book in the audience of the people. Therefore all the princes sent Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Chushi, unto Baruch, saying, Take in thine hand the roll, wherein thou hast read in the audience of the people, and come. So Baruch the son of Neriah, took the roll in his hand, and came unto them. And they said unto him, Sit down now, and read it, that we may hear. So Baruch read it in their audience. Now when they had heard all the words, they were afraid both one and other, & said unto Baruch, We will certifie the King of all these words. And they examined Baruch, saying, Tell us now, how didst thou write all these words at his mouth? Then Baruch answered them, He pronounced all these words unto me with his mouth, and I wrote them with ynke in the book. Then said the princes unto Baruch, Go, hide thee, thou and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye be. And they went in to the King to the court, but they laid up the roll in the chamber of Elishama the Chancellor and told the King all the words, that he might hear. So the King sent Jehudi to fetch the roll, and he took it out of Elishama the Chancellors chamber, and Jehudi read it in the audience of the King, and in the audience of all the princes, which stood beside the King. Now the King sat in the winter House, in the ninth month, and there was a fire burning before him. And when Jehudi had read three, or four sides, he cut it with the penknife and cast it into the fire, that was on the hearth vntill all the roll was consumed in the fire, that was on the hearth. Yet they were not afraid, nor rent their garments, neither the King, nor any of his servants, that heard all these words. Nevertheless, Elnathan, and Delaiah, and Gemariah had besought the King, that he would not burn ye roll: but he would not hear them. But the King commanded Jerahmeel the son of Hammelech, and Seraiah the son of Azriel, and Shelemiah the son of Abdiel, to take Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the Prophet, but the Lord hid them. Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah (after that the King had burnt the roll and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah) saying, Take thee again another roll and write in it all ye former words that were in the first roll which Jehoiakim the King of Judah hath burnt, and thou shalt say to Jehoiakim King of Judah, Thus saith the Lord, Thou hast burnt this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, that the King of Babel shall certainly come and destroy this land, and shall take thence both man and beast? Therefore thus saith the Lord of Jehoiakim King of Judah, He shall have none to sit upon the throne of David, and his dead body shall be cast out in the day to the heat, and in the night to the frost. And I will visit him and his seed, and his servants for their iniquity, and I will bring upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the men of Judah all the evil that I have pronounced against them: but they would not hear. Then took Jeremiah another roll, and gave it Baruch the scribe the son of Neriah, which wrote therein at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiakim King of Judah had burnt in the fire, and there were added besides them many like words.

And King Zedekiah the son of Josiah reigned for Coniah the son of Jehoiakim, whom Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel made King in the land of Judah. But neither he, nor his servants, nor the people of the land would obey the words of the Lord, which he spake by the ministry of the Prophet Jeremiah. And Zedekiah the King sent Jehucal the son of Shelemiah, and Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah the Priest to the Prophet Jeremiah, saying, Pray now unto the Lord our God for us. (Now Jeremiah went in & out among the people: for they had not put him into the prison. Then Pharaoh's host was come out of Egypt: and when the Caldeans that besieged Jerusalem, heard tidings of them, they departed from Jerusalem) Then came the word of the Lord unto the Prophet Jeremiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Thus shall ye say to the King of Judah, that sent you unto me to inquire of me, Behold, Pharaoh's host, which is come forth to help you, shall return to Egypt into their own land. And the Caldeans shall come again, and fight against this city, and take it and burn it with fire. Thus saith the Lord, Deceive not yourselves, saying, The Caldeans shall surely depart from us: for they shall not depart. For though ye had smitten the whole host of the Caldeans that fight against you, and there remained but wounded men among them, yet should every man rise up in his tent, and burn this city with fire. When the host of the Caldeans was broken up from Jerusalem, because of Pharaoh's army, then Jeremiah went out of Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin, separating himself thence from among the people. And when he was in the gate of Benjamin, there was a chief officer, whose name was Iriiah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Hananiah, and he took Jeremiah the Prophet, saying, Thou fleest to the Caldeans. Then said Jeremiah, That is false, I flee not to the Caldeans: but he would not hear him: so Iriiah took Jeremiah, and brought him to the princes. Wherefore the princes were angry with Jeremiah, and smote him, and laid him in prison in the house of Jehonathan the scribe: for they had made that the prison. When Jeremiah was entered into the dungeon, and into the prisons, & had remained there a long time, then Zedekiah the King sent, and took him out, and the King asked him secretly in his house, and said, Is there any word from the Lord? And Jeremiah said, Yea: for, said he, thou shalt be delivered into the hand of the King of Babel. Moreover, Jeremiah said unto King Zedekiah, What have I offended against thee, or against thy servants, or against this people, that ye have put me in prison? Where are now your prophets, which prophesied unto you, saying, The King of Babel shall not come against you, nor against this land? Therefore hear now, I pray thee, O my lord the King: let my prayer be accepted before thee, that thou cause me not to return to the house of Jehonathan the scribe, least I die there. Then Zedekiah the King commanded, that they should put Jeremiah in the court of the prison, & that they should give him daily a piece of bread out of the bakers street until all the bread in the city were eaten up. Thus Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison.

Then Shephatiah the son of Mattan, and Gedaliah the son of Pashhur, and Jucal the son of Shelemiah, and Pashhur the son of Malchiah, heard the words that Jeremiah had spoken unto all the people, saying, Thus saith the Lord, He that remaineth in this city, shall die by the sword, by the famine and by the pestilence: but he that goeth forth to the Caldeans, shall live: for he shall have his life for a pray, and shall live. Thus saith the Lord, This city shall surely be given into the hand of the King of Babel's army, which shall take it. Therefore the Princes said unto the King, We beseech you, let this man be put to death: for thus he weakeneth the hands of the men of war that remain in this city, and the hands of all the people, in speaking such words unto them: for this man seeketh not the wealth of this people, but the hurt. Then Zedekiah the King said, Behold, he is in your hands, for ye King can deny you nothing. Then took they Jeremiah, and cast him into the dungeon of Malchiah the son of Hammelech, that was in the court of the prison: and they let down Jeremiah with cords: and in the dungeon there was no water but mire: so Jeremiah stuck fast in the mire. Now when Ebed-melech ye black More one of ye Eunuchs, which was in the kings house, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the dungeon (then the King sat in the gate of Benjamin) and Ebed-melech went out of the King's house, and spake to the King, saying, My lord the King, these men have done evil in all that they have done to Jeremiah the Prophet, whom they have cast into the dungeon, and he dieth for hunger in the place where he is: for there is no more bread in the city. Then the King commanded Ebed-melech the black More, saying, Take from hence thirty men with thee, and take Jeremiah the Prophet out of the dungeon before he die. So Ebed-melech took the men with him and went to the house of the King under the treasury, and took there old rotten rags, and old worn clothes, and let them down by cords into the dungeon to Jeremiah. And Ebed-melech the black More said unto Jeremiah, Put now these old rotten rags and worn, under thine arm holes, between the cords; Jeremiah did so. So they drew up Jeremiah with cords and took him up out of the dungeon, and Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison. Then Zedekiah the King sent, and took Jeremiah the Prophet unto him, into the third entry that is in the House of the Lord, and the King said unto Jeremiah, I will ask thee a thing: hide nothing from me. Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, If I declare it unto thee, wilt not thou slay me? and if I give thee counsel, thou wilt not hear me. So the King swore secretly unto Jeremiah, saying, As the Lord liveth that made us these souls, I will not slay thee, nor give thee into the hands of those men that seek thy life. Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah, Thus saith the Lord God of hosts, the God of Israel, If thou wilt go forth unto the King of Babels princes, then thy soul shall live, and this city shall not be burnt up with fire, and thou shalt live, and thine house. But if thou wilt not go forth to the King of Babels princes, then shall this city be given into the hand of ye Caldeans, & they shall burn it with fire, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands. And Zedekiah the King said unto Jeremiah, I am careful for the Jews that are fled unto the Caldeans, least they deliver me into their hands, and they mock me. But Jeremiah said, They shall not deliver thee: hearken unto the voice of the Lord, I beseech thee, which I speak unto thee: so shall it be well unto thee, and thy soul shall live. But if thou wilt refuse to go forth, this is the word that the Lord hath shewed me. And behold, all the women that are left in the King of Judah's house, shall be brought forth to the King of Babels princes: and those women shall say, Thy friends have persuaded thee, and have prevailed against thee: thy feet are fastened in the mire, and they are turned back. So they shall bring out all thy wives, & thy children to the Caldeans, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands, but shalt be taken by the hand of the King of Babel: and this city shalt thou cause to be burnt with fire. Then said Zedekiah unto Jeremiah, Let no man know of these words, and thou shalt not die. But if ye princes understand that I have talked with thee, & they come unto thee, & say unto thee, Declare unto us now, what thou hast said unto the King, hide it not from us, & we will not slay thee: also what the King said unto thee, then shalt thou say unto them, I humbly besought the King that he would not cause me to return to Jehonathan's house, to die there. Then came all the princes unto Jeremiah and asked him; he told them according to all these words that the King had commanded: so they left off speaking with him, for the matter was not perceived. So Jeremiah abode still in the court of the prison, until the day that Jerusalem was taken: and he was there, when Jerusalem was taken.

In the ninth year of Zedekiah King of Judah in the tenth month, came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel and all his host against Jerusalem, and they besieged it. And in the eleventh year of Zedekiah in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, the city was broken up. And all the princes of the King of Babel came in, and sat in the middle gate, even Neregal, Sharezer, Samgar-nebo, Sarsechim, Rab-saris, Neregal, Sharezer, Rabmag with all the residue of the princes of the King of Babel. And when Zedekiah the King of Judah saw them, and all the men of war, then they fled, and went out of the city by night, through the Kings garden, and by the gate between the two walls, and he went toward the wilderness. But the Caldeans host pursued after them, and overtook Zedekiah in the desert of Jericho: and when they had taken him, they brought him to Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel unto Riblah in the land of Hamath, where he gave judgment upon him. Then the King of Babel slew the sons of Zedekiah in Riblah before his eyes: also the King of Babel slew all the nobles of Judah. Moreover he put out Zedekiah's eyes, and bound him in chains, to carry him to Babel. And the Chaldeans burnt the Kings house, and the houses of the people with fire, and brake down the walls of Jerusalem. Then Nebuzar-adan the chief steward carried away captive into Babel the remnant of the people, that remained in the city, and those that were fled and fallen unto him, with the rest of the people that remained. But Nebuzar-adan the chief steward left the poor that had nothing in the land of Judah, and gave them vineyards and fields at the same time. Now Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel gave charge concerning Jeremiah unto Nebuzar-adan the chief steward, saying, Take him, and look well to him, & do him no harm, but do unto him even as he shall say unto thee. So Nebuzar-adan the chief steward sent, and Nebushazban, Rabsaris, and Neregal, Sharezar, Rab-mag, and all the King of Babels princes: Even they sent, and took Jeremiah out of the court of the prison, and committed him unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan, that he should carry him home: so he dwelt among the people. Now the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah, while he was shut up in the court of the prison, saying, Go and speak to Ebed-melech the black More, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring my words upon this city for evil, and not for good, and they shall be accomplished in that day before thee. But I will deliver thee in that day, saith the Lord, and thou shalt not be given into the hand of the men whom thou fearest. For I will surely deliver thee, and thou shalt not fall by the sword, but thy life shall be for a pray unto thee, because thou hast put thy trust in me, saith the Lord.

The word which came to Jeremiah from the Lord after that Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had let him go from Ramath, when he had taken him being bound in chains among all that were carried away captive of Jerusalem & Judah, which were carried away captive unto Babel. And the chief steward took Jeremiah, and said unto him, The Lord thy God hath pronounced this plague upon this place. Now the Lord hath brought it, and done according as he hath said: because ye have sinned against the Lord, and have not obeyed his voice, therefore this thing is come upon you. And now behold, I loose thee this day from the chains which were on thine hands, if it please thee to come with me into Babel, come, and I will look well unto thee: but if it please thee not to come with me into Babel, tarry still: behold, all the land is before thee: whither it seemeth good, and convenient for thee to go, thither go. For yet he was not returned: therefore he said, Return to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, whom the King of Babel hath made governour over all the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people, or go wheresoever it pleaseth thee to go. So the chief steward gave him vitals and a reward, and let him go. Then went Jeremiah unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to Mizpah, and dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land. Now when all the captains of the host, which were in the fields, even they and their men heard, that the King of Babel had made Gedaliah the son of Ahikam governour in the land, and that he had committed unto him, men, and women, and children, and of the poor of the land, that were not carried away captive to Babel, then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan, and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, and Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai, the Netophathite, and Jezaniah the son of Maachathi, they and their men. And Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan sware unto them, and to their men, saying, Fear not to serve the Caldeans: dwell in the land, and serve the King of Babel, and it shall be well with you. As for me, Behold, I will dwell at Mizpah to serve the Caldeans, which will come unto us: but you, gather you wine, and summer fruits, and oil, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities, that ye have taken. Likewise when all the Jews that were in Moab, and among the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the countries, heard that the King of Babel had left a remnant of Judah, and that he had set over them Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan, even all the Jews returned out of all places where they were driven, and came to the land of Judah to Gedaliah unto Mizpah, and gathered wine and summer fruits, very much. Moreover Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, that were in the fields, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, and said unto him, Knowest thou not that Baalis the King of the Ammonites hath sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to slay thee? But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam believed them not. Then Johanan the son of Kareah spake to Gedaliah in Mizpah secretly, saying, Let me go, I pray thee, and I will slay Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no man shall know it. Wherefore should he kill thee, that all the Jews, which are gathered unto thee, should be scattered, and the remnant in Judah perish? But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said unto Johanan the son of Kareah, Thou shalt not do this thing: for thou speakest falsely of Ishmael.

But in the seventh month came Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama of the seed royal, and the princes of the King, and ten men with him, unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam to Mizpah, and there they did eat bread together in Mizpah. Then arose Ishmael the son of Nethaniah with these ten men that were with him, and smote Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan with the sword, and slew him, whom the King of Babel had made governour over the land. Ishmael also slew all the Jews that were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and all the Caldeans that were found there, and the men of war. Now the second day that he had slain Gedaliah, and no man knew it, there came men from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria, even fourscore men, having their beards shaven, & their clothes rent and cut, with offerings and incense in their hands to offer in the house of the Lord. And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah went forth from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he went: and when he met them, he said unto them, Come to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam. And when they came into the midst of the city, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah slew them, and cast them into the midst of the pit, he and the men that were with him. But ten men were found among them, that said unto Ishmael, Slay us not: for we have treasures in the field, of wheat, and of barley, and of oyle, and of honie: so he stayed, and slew them not among their brethren. Now the pit wherein Ishmael had cast the dead bodies of the men (whom he had slain because of Gedaliah) is it, which Asa the King had made because of Basha King of Israel, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with them that were slain. Then Ishmael carried away captive all the residue of the people that were in Mizpah, even the Kings daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpah, whom Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had committed to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah carried them away captive, and departed to go over to the Ammonites. But when Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host that were with him, heard of all the evil that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done, then they all took their men, and went to fight with Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, & found him by ye great waters that are in Gibeon. Now when all the people whom Ishmael carried away captive, saw Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, that were with him, they were glad. So all the people, that Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah, returned and came again, & went unto Johanan the son of Kareah. But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, escaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites. Then took Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host that were with him, all the remnant of the people, whom Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had carried away captive from Mizpah, (after that he had slain Gedaliah the son of Ahikam) even the strong men of war, and the women, and the children, and the eunuchs, whom he had brought again from Gibeon: And they departed and dwelt in Geruth Chimham, which is by Beth-lehem, to go and to enter into Egypt, because of the Caldeans: for they feared them, because Ishmael ye son of Nethaniah had slain Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, whom the King of Babel made governour in the land.

Then all the captains of the host, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and Jezaniah the son of Hoshaaiah, and all the people from the least unto the most came, and said unto Jeremiah the Prophet, Hear our prayer, we beseech thee, and pray for us unto the Lord thy God, even for all this remnant (for we are left, but a few of many, as thine eyes do behold) that the Lord thy God may shew us the way wherein we may walk, and the thing that we may do. Then Jeremiah the Prophet said unto them, I have heard you: behold, I will pray unto ye Lord your God according to your words, and whatsoever thing the Lord shall answer you, I will declare it unto you: I will keep nothing back from you. Then they said to Jeremiah, The Lord be a witness of truth, and faith between us, if we do not, even according to all things for ye which the Lord thy God shall send thee to us. Whether it be good or evil, we will obey the voice of the Lord God, to whom we send thee that it may be well with us, when we obey the voice of the Lord our God. And so after ten days came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah. Then called he Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, which were with him, & all ye people from ye least to the most, and said unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, unto whom ye sent me to present your prayers before him, if ye will dwell in this land, then I will build you, and not destroy you, and I will plant you, and not root you out: for I repent me of the evil that I have done unto you. Fear not for the King of Babel, of whom ye are afraid: be not afraid of him, saith the Lord: for I am with you, to save you, and to deliver you from his hand, and I will grant you mercy that he may have compassion upon you, and he shall cause you to dwell in your own land. But if ye say, We will not dwell in this land, neither hear the voice of the Lord your God, saying, Nay, but we will go into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of the trumpet, nor have hunger of bread, and there will we dwell, (And now therefore hear the word of the Lord, ye remnant of Judah: thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, If ye set your faces to enter into Egypt, and go to dwell there) then the sword that ye feared, shall take you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine, for the which ye care, shall there hang upon you in Egypt, and there shall ye die. And all the men that set their faces to enter into Egypt to dwell there, shall die by ye sword, by the famine and by the pestilence, and none of them shall remain nor escape from the plague, that I will bring upon them. For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, As mine anger and my wrath hath been powered forth upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem: so shall my wrath be powered forth upon you, when ye shall enter into Egypt, and ye shall be a detestation, and an astonishment, and a curse and a reproach, & ye shall see this place no more. O ye remnant of Judah, the Lord hath said concerning you, Go not into Egypt: know certainly that I have admonished you this day. Surely ye dissembled in your hearts When ye sent me unto the Lord your God, saying, Pray for us unto the Lord our God, and declare unto us even according unto all that the Lord our God shall say, and we will do it. Therefore I have this day declared it you, but you have not obeyed the voice of the Lord your God, nor any thing for the which he hath sent me unto you. Now therefore, know certainly that ye shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, in the place whither ye desire to go and dwell.

Now when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking unto ye whole people all the words of the Lord their God, for the which the Lord their God had sent him to them, even all these words, then spake Azariah the son of Hoshai, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying unto Jeremiah, Thou speakest falsely: the Lord our God hath not sent thee to say, Go not into Egypt to dwell there, but Baruch ye son of Neriah provoketh thee against us, for to deliver us into the hand of the Caldeans, that they might slay us, and carry us away captives into Babel. So Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, and all the people obeyed not the voice of the Lord, to dwell in the land of Judah. But Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host took all the remnant of Judah, that were returned fro all nations, whither they had been driven, to dwell in ye land of Judah: Even men and women, and children, and the Kinges daughters, and every person, that Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had left with Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, ye son of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the Prophet, & Baruch the son of Neriah. So they came into the land of Egypt: for they obeyed not the voice of the Lord: thus came they to Tahpanhes. Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah in Tahpanhes, saying, Take great stones in thine hand, and hide them in the clay in the brick kiln, which is at the entry of Pharaohs house in Tanpanhes in ye sight of the men of Judah, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Behold, I will send and bring Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel my servant, and will set his throne upon these stones that I have hid, and he shall spread his pavilion over them. And when he shall come, he shall smite the land of Egypt: such as are appoynted for death, to death, and such as are for captivity, to captivity, and such as are for the sword to the sword. And I will kindle a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them and carry them away captives, and he shall array himself with the land of Egypt, as a shepherd puteth on his garment, and shall depart from thence in peace. He shall break also ye images of Beth-shemesh, that is in the land of Egypt, and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians shall he burn with fire.

The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews, which dwell in the land of Egypt, and remained at Migdol and at Tahpanhes, & at Noph, & in the country of Pathros, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Ye have seen all the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah: and behold, this day they are desolate, and no man dwelleth therein, because of their wickedness which they have committed, to provoke me to anger in that they went to burn incense, & to serve other gods, who they knew not, neither they nor you nor your fathers. Howbeit I sent unto you all my servants the Prophets rising early, and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate. But they would not hear nor incline their ear to turn from their wickedness, and to burn no more incense unto other gods. Wherefore my wrath, & mine anger was powered forth and was kindled in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, and they are desolate, and wasted, as appeareth this day. Therefore now thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Wherefore commit ye this great evil against your souls, to cut off from you man and woman, child and suckling out of Judah, and leave you none to remain? In that ye provoke me unto wrath with the works of your hands, burning incense unto other Gods in the land of Egypt whither ye be gone to dwell: that ye might bring destruction unto yourselves, and that ye might be a curse and a reproch among all nations of the earth. Have ye forgotten the wickedness of your fathers, and the wickedness of the Kings of Judah and the wickedness of their wives and your own wickedness & the wickedness of your wives, which they have committed in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? They are not humbled unto this day, neither have they feared nor walked in my law nor in my statutes, that I set before you and before your fathers. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Behold, I will set my face against you to evil and to destroy all Judah, and I will take the remnant of Judah, that have set their faces to go into the land of Egypt there to dwell, and they shall all be consumed and fall in the land of Egypt: they shall even be consumed by the sword and by the famine: they shall die from the least unto the most, by the sword, and by the famine, and they shall be a detestation and an astonishment and a curse and a reproach. For I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have visited Jerusalem, by ye sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, so that none of the remnant of Judah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall escape or remain, that they should return into the land of Judah to the which they have a desire to return to dwell there: for none shall return, but such as shall escape. Then all the men which knew that their wives had burnt incense unto other gods and all the women that stood by, a great multitude, even all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying, The word that thou hast spoken unto us in the Name of the Lord, we will not hear it of thee, but we will do whatsoever thing goeth out of our own mouth, as to burn incense unto the Queen of heaven, and to power out drink offerings unto her, as we have done, both we & our fathers, our Kings and our princes in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem: for then had we plenty of vitals and were well and felt none evil. But since we left off to burn incense to the Queen of heaven, and to power out drink offerings unto her, we have had scarceness of all things, and have been consumed by the sword and by the famine. And when we burnt incense to ye Queen of heaven, and powered out drink offerings unto her, did we make her cakes to make her glad, and power out drink offerings unto her without our husbands? Then said Jeremiah unto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had given him that answer, saying, Did not the Lord remember the incense, that ye burnt in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, both you, and your fathers, your Kings, and your princes, and the people of the land, and hath he not considered it? So that the Lord could no longer forbear, because of the wickedness of your inventions, and because of the abominations, which ye have committed: therefore is your land desolate and an astonishment, and a curse and without inhabitant, as appeareth this day. Because ye have burnt incense and because ye have sinned against the Lord, and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord, nor walked in his Law, nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore this plague is come upon you, as appeareth this day. Moreover Jeremiah said unto all the people and to all the women, Hear the word of the Lord, all Judah that are in the land of Egypt. Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, Ye & your wives have both spoken with your mouths, and fulfilled with your hand, saying, We will perform our vows that we have vowed to burn incense to the Queen of heaven, and to power out drink offerings to her: ye will perform your vows and do the things that ye have vowed. Therefore hear the word of the Lord, all Judah that dwell in the land of Egypt. Behold, I have sworn by my great Name, saith the Lord, that my Name shall no more be called upon by the mouth of any man of Judah, in all the land of Egypt, saying, The Lord God liveth. Behold, I will watch over them for evil and not for good, and all men of Judah that are in the land of Egypt, shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine, until they be utterly destroyed. Yet a small number that escape the sword, shall return out of the land of Egypt into the land of Judah: and all the remnant of Judah that are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall know whose words shall stand, mine or theirs. And this shall be a sign unto you, saith the Lord, when I visit you in this place, that ye may know that my words shall surely stand against you for evil. Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give Pharaoh Hophra King of Egypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seek his life: as I gave Zedekiah King of Judah into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel his enemy, who also sought his life.

The word that Jeremiah the Prophet spake unto Baruch the son of Neriah, when he had written these words in a book at the mouth of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel unto thee, O Baruch, thou didst say, Woe is me now: for the Lord hath laid sorrow unto my sorrow: I fainted in my mourning, and I can find no rest. Thus shalt thou say unto him, The Lord saith thus, Behold, that which I have built, will I destroy, and that which I have planted, will I pluck up, even this whole land. And seekest thou great things for thyself? seek them not: for behold, I will bring a plague upon all flesh, saith the Lord: but thy life will I give thee for a pray in all places, whither thou goest.

The words of the Lord, which came to Jeremiah the Prophet against the Gentiles, as against Egypt, against ye army of Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, which was by the river Perath in Carchemish, which Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel smote in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah. Make ready buckler and shield, and go forth to battle. Make ready the horses, and let the horsemen get up, and stand up with your sallets, fourbish the spears, and put on the brigantines. Wherefore have I seen them afraid, and driven back? For their mighty men are smitten, and are fled away, and look not back: for fear was round about, saith the Lord. The swift shall not flee away, nor the strong man escape: they shall stumble, and fall toward the North by the river Perath. Who is this, that cometh up, as a flood, whose waters are moved like the rivers? Egypt riseth up like the flood, & his waters are moved like the rivers, and he saith, I will go up, and will cover the earth: I will destroy the city with them that dwell therein. Come up, ye horses, and rage ye chariots, and let the valiant men come forth, the black Mores, and the Lybians that bear the shield, and the Lydians that handle and bend the bow. For this is the day of ye Lord God of hosts, and a day of vengeance, that he may avenge him of his enemies: for the sword shall devour, and it shall be satiate, & made drunk with their blood: for the Lord God of hosts hath a sacrifice in the North country by the River Perath. Go up unto Gilead, and take balm, O virgin, the daughter of Egypt: in vain shalt thou use many medicines: for thou shalt have no health. The nations have heard of thy shame, and thy cry hath filled the land: for the strong hath stumbled against the strong and they are fallen both together. The word that the Lord spake to Jeremiah the Prophet, how Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel should come and smite the land of Egypt. Publish in Egypt and declare in Migdol, and proclaim in Noph, and in Tahpanhes, & say, Stand still, and prepare thee: for the sword shall devour round about thee. Why are thy valiant men put back? They could not stand, because the Lord did drive them. He made many to fall, and one fell upon another: and they said, Arise, let us go again to our own people, and to the land of our nativity from the sword of the violent. They did cry there, Pharaoh King of Egypt, and of a great multitude hath passed the time appointed. As I live, saith the King, whose Name is the Lord of hosts, surely as Tabor is in the mountains, and as Carmel is in the sea: so shall it come. O thou daughter dwelling in Egypt, make thee gear to go into captivity: for Noph shall be waste and desolate, without an inhabitant. Egypt is like a fair calf, but destruction cometh: out of the North it cometh. Also her hired men are in the midst of her like fat calves: they are also turned back and fled away together: they could not stand, because the day of their destruction was come upon them, and the time of their visitation. The voice thereof shall go forth like a serpent: for they shall march with an army, and come against her with axes, as hewers of wood. They shall cut down her forest, saith the Lord: for they cannot be counted, because they are more then ye grasshoppers, & are innumerable. The daughter of Egypt shall be confounded: she shall be delivered into the hands of the people of the North. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will visit the common people of No and Pharaoh, & Egypt, with their gods & their Kings, even Pharaoh, & all them that trust in him, and I will deliver them into the hands of those, that seek their lives, and into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, and into the hands of his servants, and afterward she shall dwell as in the old time, saith the Lord. But fear not thou, O my servant Jaakob, and be not thou afraid, O Israel: for behold, I will deliver thee from a far country, and thy seed from the land of their captivity, and Jaakob shall return and be in rest, and prosperity, and none shall make him afraid. Fear thou not, O Jaakob my servant, saith the Lord: for I am with thee, and I will utterly destroy all the nations, whither I have driven thee: but I will not utterly destroy thee, but correct thee by judgment, and not utterly cut thee off.

The words of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the Prophet, against the Philistims, before that Pharaoh smote Azzah. Thus saith the Lord, Behold, waters rise up out of the North, and shall be as a swelling flood, and shall overflow the land, and all that is therein, and the cities with them that dwell therein: then the men shall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howl, at the noise and stamping of ye hoofs of his strong horses, at the noise of his chariots, and at the rumbling of his wheels: ye fathers shall not look back to their children, for feebleness of hands, because of the day that cometh to destroy all the Philistims, and to destroy Tyrus, and Zidon, and all the rest that take their part: for the Lord will destroy the Philistims, the remnant of the isle of Caphtor. Baldness is come upon Azzah: Ashkelon is cut up with the rest of their valleys. How long wilt thou thyself? O thou sword of the Lord, how long will it be or thou cease! turn again into thy scabbard, rest and be still. How can it cease, seeing the Lord hath given it a charge against Ashkelon, and against the sea bank? even there hath he appointed it.

Concerning Moab, thus saith ye Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Woe unto Nebo: for it is wasted: Kiriathaim is confounded and taken: Misgab is confounded and afraid. Moab shall boast no more of Heshbon: for they have devised evil against it. Come, and let us destroy it, that it be no more a nation: also thou shalt be destroyed, O Madmen, and the sword shall pursue thee. A voice of crying shall be from Horonaim with desolation and great destruction. Moab is destroyed: her little ones have caused their cry to be heard. For at the going up of Luhith, the mourner shall go up with weeping: for in the going down of Horonaim, the enemies have heard a cry of destruction, flee and save your lives, and be like unto the heath in the wilderness. For because thou hast trusted in thy works and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken, and Chemosh shall go forth into captivity with his Priests and his princes together. And the destroyer shall come upon all cities, and no city shall escape: the valley also shall perish and the plain shall be destroyed as the Lord hath spoken. Give wings unto Moab, that it may flee and get away: for the cities thereof shall be desolate, without any to dwell therein. Cursed be he that doth the work of the Lord negligently, and cursed be he that keepeth back his sword from blood. Moab hath been at rest from his youth, and he hath settled on his lees, and hath not been powered from vessel to vessel, neither hath he gone into captivity: therefore his taste remained in him and his sent is not changed. Therefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will send unto him such as shall carry him away, and shall empty his vessels, and break their bottles. And Moab shall be ashamed of Chemosh as the house of Israel was ashamed of Beth-el their confidence. How think you thus, We are mighty and strong men of war? Moab is destroyed, & his cities burnt up, & his chose young men are gone down to slaughter, saith ye King, whose name is ye Lord of hosts. The destruction of Moab is ready to come, and his plague hasteth fast. All ye that are about him, mourn for him, and all ye that know his name, say, How is the strong staff broken, and the beautiful rod! Thou daughter that dost inhabit Dibon, come down from thy glory, and sit in thirst: for the destroyer of Moab shall come upon thee, and he shall destroy thy strong holds. Thou that dwellest in Aroer, stand by the way, and behold: ask him that fleeth and that escapeth, and say, What is done? Moab is confounded: for it is destroyed: howl, and cry, tell ye it in Arnon, that Moab is made waste, and judgment is come upon the plain country, upon Holon and upon Iahazah, and upon Mephaath, and upon Dibon, and upon Nebo, and upon the house of Diblathaim, and upon Kiriathaim, and upon Beth-gamul, and upon Beth-meon, and upon Kerioth, and upon Bozrah, & upon all the cities of ye land of Moab far or near. The horn of Moab is cut off, & his arm is broken, saith the Lord. Make ye him drunken: for he magnified himself against the Lord: Moab shall wallow in his vomit, and he also shall be in derision. For didst not thou deride Israel, as though he had been found among thieves? for when thou speakest of him, thou art moved. O ye that dwell in Moab, leave the cities, and dwell in the rocks, and be like the dove, that maketh her nest in the sides of the holes mouth. We have heard the pride of Moab (he is exceeding proud) his stoutness, and his arrogancy, and his pride, and the haughtiness of his heart. I know his wrath, saith ye Lord, but it shall not be so: & his dissimulations, for they do not right. Therefore will I howl for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab: mine heart shall mourn for the men of Kir-heres. O vine of Sibmah, I will weep for thee, as I wept for Jazer: thy plants are gone over the sea, they are come to the sea of Jazer: ye destroyer is fallen upon thy summer fruits, & upon thy vintage, and joy, and gladness is taken from the plentiful field, and from the land of Moab: and I have caused wine to fail from the winepress: none shall tread with shouting: their shouting shall be no shouting. From the cry of Heshbon unto Elaleh and unto Jahaz have they made their noise fro Zoar unto Horonaim, ye heiffer of three year old shall go lowing: for ye waters also of Nimrim shall be wasted. Moreover, I will cause to cease in Moab, saith the Lord, him that offered in the high places, and him that burneth incense to his gods. Therefore mine heart shall sound for Moab like a shame, and mine heart shall sound like a shame for the men of Ker-heres, because the riches that he hath gotten, is perished. For every head shall be bald, and every beard plucked: upon all the hands shall be cuttings, and upon the loins sackcloth. And mourning shall be upon all the house toppes of Moab and in all the streets thereof: for I have broken Moab like a vessel wherein is no pleasure, saith the Lord. They shall howl, saying, How is he destroyed? how hath Moab turned the back with shame? so shall Moab be a derision, and a fear to all them about him. For thus saith the Lord, Behold, he shall flee as an eagle, & shall spread his wings over Moab. The cities are taken, and the strongholds are won, and ye mighty men's hearts in Moab at that day shall be as ye heart of a woman in travail. And Moab shall be destroyed from being a people, because he hath set up himself against the Lord. Fear, and pit and snare shall be upon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, saith the Lord. He that escapeth from the fear, shall fall in the pit, and he that getteth up out of the pit, shall be taken in the snare: for I will bring upon it, even upon Moab, the year of their visitation, saith the Lord. They that fled, stood under the shadow of Heshbon, because of the force: for the fire came out of Heshbon, and a flame from Sihon, and devoured the corner of Moab, and the top of the seditious children. Woe be unto thee, O Moab: the people of Chemosh perisheth: for thy sons are taken captives, and thy daughters led into captivity. Yet will I bring again the captivity of Moab in the latter days, saith the Lord. Thus far of the judgment of Moab.

Unto the children of Ammon thus saith the Lord, Hath Israel no sons? or hath he none heir? Why then hath their king possessed God? and his people dwelt in his cities? Therefore behold the days come, saith the Lord, that I will cause a noise of war to be heard in Rabbah of the Ammonites, and it shall be a desolate heap, and her daughters shall be burnt with fire: then shall Israel possess those that possessed him, saith the Lord. Howl, O Heshbon, for Ai is wasted: cry ye daughters of Rabbah: gird you with sackcloth: mourn and run to and fro by the hedges: for their King shall go into captivity; and his Priests, and his princes likewise. Wherefore gloriest thou in the valleys? thy valley floweth away, O rebellious daughter: she trusted in her treasures, saying, Who shall come unto me? Behold, I will bring a fear upon thee, saith the Lord God of hosts, of all those that be about thee, & ye shall be scattered every man right forth, and none shall gather him that fleeth. And afterward I will bring again the captivity of the children of Ammon. To Edom thus saith the Lord of hosts: Is wisdom no more in Teman? is counsel perished fro their children? is their wisdom vanished? Flee, ye inhabitants of Dedan (they are turned back, and have consulted to dwell) for I have brought the destruction of Esau upon him, and the time of his visitation. If the grape gatherers come to thee, would they not leave some grapes? if thieves come by night, they will destroy till they have enough. For I have discovered Esau: I have uncovered his secrets, and he shall not be able to hide himself: his seed is wasted, and his brethren and his neighbours, and there shall be none to say, Leave thy fathers children, and I will preserve them alive, and let thy widows trust in me. For thus saith the Lord, Behold, they whose judgment was not to drink of the cup, have assuredly drunken, and art thou he that shall escape free? thou shalt not go free, but thou shalt surely drink of it. For I have sworn by myself, saith the Lord, that Bozrah shall be waste, and for a reproach, and a desolation, and a curse, and all the cities thereof shall be perpetual desolation's. I have heard a rumour from the Lord, & an ambassadour is sent unto the heathen, saying, Gather you together, & come against her, and rise up to the battle. For lo, I will make thee but small among the heathen, and despised among men. Thy fear, and ye pride of thine heart hath deceived thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rock, and keepest the height of ye hill: though thou shouldest make thy nest as high as the eagle, I will bring thee down from thence, saith the Lord. Also Edom shall be desolate: every one that goeth by it, shall be astonished, and shall hiss at all the plagues thereof, as in the overthrow of Sodom, and of Gomorrah, and the places thereof near about, saith the Lord: no man shall dwell there, neither shall the sons of men remain in it. Behold, he shall come up like a lion from the swelling of Jordan unto the strong dwelling place: for I will make Israel to rest, even I will make him to haste away from her, and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like me? and who will appoint me the time? and who is the shepherd that will stand before me? Therefore hear the counsel of the Lord that he hath devised against Edom, and his purpose that he hath conceived against the inhabitants of Teman: surely the least of the flock shall draw them out: surely he shall make their habitations desolate with them. The earth is moved at the noise of their fall: the cry of their voice is heard in the red Sea. Behold, he shall come up, and fly as the Eagle, and spread his wings over Bozrah, and at that day shall the heart of the strong men of Edom be as the heart of a woman in travail. Unto Damascus he saith, Hamath is confounded and Arpad, for they have heard evil tidings, and they are faint hearted as one on the fearful sea that can not rest. Damascus is discouraged, and turneth her self to flight and fear hath ceased her: anguish & sorrows have taken her as a woman in travail. How is the glorious city not reserved, the city of my joy? Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets, and all her men of war shall be cut off in that day, saith the Lord of hosts. And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus, which shall consume the palaces of Benhadad. Unto Kedar, and to the kingdoms of Habor, which Nebuchad-nezzar, king of Babel shall smite, thus saith the Lord, Arise, and go up unto Kedar, and destroy the men of the East. Their tents and their flocks shall they take away: yea, they shall take to themselves their curtains and all their vessels, and their camels, and they shall cry unto them, Fear is on every side. Flee, get you far off (they have consulted to dwell) O ye inhabitants of Habor, saith the Lord: for Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel hath taken counsel against you, and hath devised a purpose against you. Arise, & get you up unto the wealthy nation that dwelleth without care, saith the Lord, which have neither gates nor barres, but dwell alone. And their camels shall be a booty, and the multitude of their cattle a spoil, and I will scatter them into all winds, and to the utmost corners, and I will bring their destruction from all the sides thereof, saith the Lord. And Habor shall be a dwelling for dragons, and desolation for ever: there shall no man dwell there, nor the sons of men remain in it. The words of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the Prophet, concerning Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah King of Judah, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, even the chief of their strength. And upon Elam I will bring the four winds from the four quarters of heaven, and will scatter them towards all these winds, and there shall be no nation, whither the fugitives of Elam shall not come. For I will cause Elam to be afraid before their enemies, and before them that seek their lives, and will bring upon them a plague, even the indignation of my wrath, saith the Lord, & I will send the sword after them till I have consumed them. And I will set my throne in Elam, & I will destroy both the King & the princes from thence, saith the Lord: but in the latter days I will bring again the captivity of Elam, saith the Lord.

The word that the Lord spake, concerning Babel, and concerning the land of the Caldeans by the ministry of Jeremiah the Prophet. Declare among the nations, and publish it, and set up a standard, proclaim it and conceal it not: say, Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, Merodach is broken down: her idols are confounded, and their images are burst in pieces. For out of the North there cometh up a nation against her, which shall make her land waste, and none shall dwell therein: they shall flee, and depart, both man and beast. In those days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall come, they, and the children of Judah together, going, and weeping shall they go, and seek the Lord their God. They shall ask the way to Zion, with their faces thitherward, saying, Come, and let us cleave to the Lord in a perpetual covenant that shall not be forgotten. My people hath been as lost sheep: their shepherds have caused them to go astray, and have turned them away to the mountains: they have gone from mountain to hill, and forgotten their resting place. All that found them, have devoured them, & their enemies said, We offend not, because they have sinned against the Lord, the habitation of justice, even the Lord the hope of their fathers. Flee from the midst of Babel, and depart out of the land of the Caldeans, and be ye as the he goats before the flock. For lo, I will raise, and cause to come up against Babel a multitude of mighty nations from the North country, and they shall set themselves in array against her, whereby she shall be taken: their arrows shall be as of a strong man, which is expert, for none shall return in vain. And Caldea shall be a spoil: all that spoil her, shall be satisfied, saith the Lord. Because ye were glad and rejoiced in destroying mine heritage, & because ye are grown fat, as the calves in the grass, and neighed like strong horses, therefore your mother shall be sore confounded, and she that bare you, shall be ashamed: behold, the uttermost of the nations shall be a desert, a drie land, and a wilderness. Because of the wrath of the Lord it shall not be inhabited, but shall be wholly desolate: every one that goeth by Babel, shall be astonished, and hiss at all her plagues. Put yourselves in array against Babel round about: all ye that bend the bow, shoot at her, spare no arrows: for she hath sinned against the Lord. Cry against her round about: she hath given her hand: her foundations are fallen, and her walls are destroyed: for it is the vengeance of the Lord: take vengeance upon her: as she hath done, do unto her. Destroy the sower from Babel, and him that handleth the scythe in the time of harvest: because of the sword of the oppressor they shall turn every one to his people, and they shall flee every one to his own land. Israel is like scattered sheep: the lions have dispersed them: first the King of Asshur hath devoured him, and last this Nebuchad-nezzar King, of Babel hath broken his bones. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Behold, I will visit ye

King of Babel, and his land, as I have visited the King of Asshur. And I will bring Israel again to his habitation: he shall feed on Carmel and Bashan, and his soul shall be satisfied upon the mount Ephraim and Gilead. In those days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the iniquity of Israel shall be sought for, and there shall be none: and the sins of Judah, and they shall not be found: for I will be merciful unto them, whom I reserve. Go up against the land of the rebels, even against it, and against the inhabitants of Pekod: destroy, and lay it waste after them, saith the Lord, and do according to all that I have commanded thee. A cry of battle is in the land, and of great destruction. How is the hammer of the whole world destroyed, and broken! How is Babel become desolate among the nations! I have snared thee, and thou art taken, O Babel, and thou wast not aware: thou art found, and also caught, because thou hast striven against the Lord. The Lord hath opened his treasure, & hath brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for this is the work of the Lord God of hosts in the land of the Caldeans. Come against her from the utmost border: open her store houses: tread on her as on sheaves, and destroy her utterly: let nothing of her be left. Destroy all her bullocks: let them go down to the slaughter. Woe unto them, for their day is come, and the time of their visitation. The voice of them that flee, and escape out of the land of Babel to declare in Zion the vengeance of the Lord our God, and the vengeance of his Temple. Call up the archers against Babel: all ye that bend the bow, besiege it round about: let none thereof escape: recompense her according to her work, & according to all that she hath done, do unto her: for she hath been proud against the Lord, even against the holy one of Israel. Therefore shall her young men fall in the streets, and all her men of war shall be destroyed in that day, saith the Lord. Behold, I come unto thee, O proud man, saith the Lord God of hosts: for thy day is come, even the time that I will visit thee. And the proud shall stumble and fall, and none shall raise him up: and I will kindle a fire in his cities, & it shall devour all round about him. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The children of Israel, and the children of Judah were oppressed together: and all that took them captives, held them, and would not let them go. But their strong redeemer, whose Name is the Lord of hosts, he shall maintain their cause, that he may give rest to the land, and disquiet the inhabitants of Babel. A sword is upon the Caldeans, saith the Lord, and upon the inhabitants of Babel, and upon her princes, and upon her wise men. A sword is upon the soothsayers, and they shall dote: a sword is upon her strong men, & they shall be afraid. A sword is upon their horses & upon their chariots, and upon all the multitude that are in the midst of her, and they shall be like women: a sword is upon her treasures, and they shall be spoiled. A drought is upon her waters, and they shall be dried up: for it is the land of graven images, and they dote upon their idols. Therefore the Ziims with the Jims shall dwell there, & the ostriches shall dwell therein: for it shall be no more inhabited, neither shall it be inhabited from generation unto generation. As God destroyed Sodom and Gomorah with the places thereof near about, saith the Lord: so shall no man dwell there, neither shall the son of man remain therein. Behold, a people shall come from the North, and a great nation, and many Kings shall be raised up from the coasts of the earth. They shall hold the bow and the buckler: they are cruel and unmerciful: their voice shall roar like the sea, and they shall ride upon horses, and be put in array like men to the battle against thee, O daughter of Babel. The King of Babel hath heard the report of them, & his hands waxed feeble: sorrow came upon him, even sorrow as of a woman in travail. Behold, he shall come up like a lion from the swelling of Jordan unto the strong habitation: for I will make Israel to rest, and I will make them to haste away from her: and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like me, and who will appoint me the time? and who is the shepherd that will stand before me? Therefore hear the counsel of the Lord that he hath devised against Babel, and his purpose that he hath conceived against the land of the Caldeans: surely the least of the flock shall draw them out: surely he shall make their habitation desolate with them. At the noise of the winning of Babel the earth is moved, and the cry is heard among the nations.

Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will raise up against Babel, & against the inhabitants that lift up their heart against me, a destroying wind, and will send unto Babel faners that shall fan her, & shall empty her land: for in the day of trouble they shall be against her on every side. Also to the bender that bendeth his bow, and to him that lifteth himself up in his brigantine, will I say, Spare not her young men, but destroy all her host. Thus the slain shall fall in the land of the Caldeans, and they that are thrust through in her streets. For Israel hath been no widow, nor Judah from his God, from the Lord of hosts, though their land was filled with sin against the holy one of Israel. Flee out of the midst of Babel, and deliver every man his soul: be not destroyed in her iniquity: for this is the time of the Lord's vengeance he will render unto her a recompense. Babel hath been as a golden cup in the Lord's hand, that made all the earth drunken: the nations have drunken of her wine, therefore do the nations rage. Babel is suddenly fallen, and destroyed: howl for her, bring balm for her sore, if she may be healed. We would have cured Babel, but she could not be healed: forsake her, and let us go every one into his own country: for her judgment is come up unto heaven, & is lifted up to ye clouds. The Lord hath brought forth our righteousness: come and let us declare in Zion the work of the Lord our God. Make bright the arrows: gather the shields: the Lord hath raised up the spirit of the King of the Medes: for his purpose is against Babel to destroy it, because it is the vengeance of the Lord, and the vengeance of his Temple. Set up the standard upon the walls of Babel, make the watch strong: set up the watchmen: prepare the scouts: for the Lord hath both devised, and done that which he spake against the inhabitants of Babel. O thou that dwellest upon many waters, abundant in treasures, thine end is come, even the end of thy covetousness. The Lord of hosts hath sworn by himself, saying, Surely I will fill thee with men, as with caterpillars, and they shall cry and shout against thee. He hath made the earth by his power, & established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heaven by his discretion. He giveth by his voice the multitude of waters in the heaven, and he causeth the clouds to ascend from the ends of the earth: he turneth lightnings to rain, and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures. every man is a beast by his own knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his melting is but falsehood, and there is no breath therein. They are vanity, and the work of errors: in the time of their visitation they shall perish. The portion of Jaakob is not like them: for he is the maker of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the Lord of hosts is his Name. Thou art mine hammer, and weapons of war: for with thee will I break the nations, & with thee will I destroy kingdoms, and by thee will I break horse and horseman, and by thee will I break the chariot & him that rideth therein. By thee also will I break man & woman, and by thee will I break old & young, & by thee will I break the young man and the maid. I will also break by thee the shepherd & his flock, and by thee will I break the husband man & his yoke of oxen, & by thee will I break the dukes and princes. And I will render unto Babel, and to all the inhabitants of the Caldeans all their evil, that they have done in Zion, even in your sight, saith the Lord. Behold, I come unto thee, O destroying mountain, saith the Lord, which destroyest all the earth: and I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and roll thee down from the rocks, and will make thee a burnt mountain. They shall not take of thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for foundations, but thou shalt be destroyed for ever, saith the Lord. Set up a standard in the land: blow the trumpets among the nations: prepare the nations against her: call up the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni, and Ashchenaz against her: appoint the prince against her: cause horses to come up as the rough caterpillars. Prepare against her the nations with the Kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, and the princes thereof, & all the land of his dominion. And the land shall tremble and sorrow: for the devise of the Lord shall be performed against Babel, to make the land of Babel waste without an inhabitant. The strong men of Babel have ceased to fight: they have remained in their holds: their strength hath failed, and they were like women: they have burnt her dwelling places, and her barres are broken. A post shall run to meet the post, and a messenger to meet the messenger, to shew the King of Babel, that his city is taken on a side thereof, and that the passages are stopped, and the reedes burnt with fire, & the me of war troubled. For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, the daughter of Babel is like a threshing floor: the time of her threshing is come: yet a little while, and the time of her harvest shall come. Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel hath devoured me, and destroyed me: he hath made me an empty vessel: he swallowed me up like a dragon, and filled his belly with my delicates, and hath cast me out. The spoil of me, and that which was left of me, is brought unto Babel, shall the inhabitant of Zion say: and my blood unto the inhabitants of Caldea, shall Jerusalem say. Therefore thus saith the Lord,

Behold, I will maintain thy cause, and take vengeance for thee, and I will dry up the sea, and dry up her springs. And Babel shall be as heaps, a dwelling place for dragons, an astonishment, & an hissing, without an inhabitant. They shall roar together like lions, and yell as the lions whelps. In their heat I will make them feasts, and I will make them drunken, that they may rejoice, and sleep a perpetual sleep, & not wake, saith the Lord. I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, and like rams and goats. How is Sheshach taken! and how is the glory of the whole earth taken! how is Babel become an astonishment among the nations! The sea is come up upon Babel: he is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof. Her cities are desolate: the land is dry and a wilderness, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth the son of man pass thereby. I will also visit Bel in Babel, & I will bring out of his mouth, that which he hath swallowed up, and the nations shall run no more unto him, and the wall of Babel shall fall. My people, go out of the midst of her, & deliver ye every man his soul from the fierce wrath of the Lord, lest your heart even faint, & ye fear the rumour, that shall be heard in the land: the rumour shall come this year, and after that in the other year shall come a rumour, & cruelty in the land, and ruler against ruler. Therefore behold, the days come, that I will visit the images of Babel, & the whole land shall be confounded, and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her. Then the heaven and the earth, and all that is therein, shall rejoice for Babel: for the destroyers shall come unto her from the North, saith the Lord. As Babel caused the slain of Israel to fall, so by Babel the slain of all the earth did fall. Ye that have escaped the sword, go away, stand not still: remember the Lord a far off, and let Jerusalem come into your mind. We are confounded because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces, for strangers are come into the Sanctuaries of the Lord's House. Wherefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will visit her graven images, and through all her land the wounded shall groan. Though Babel should mount up to heaven, and though she should defend her strength on high, yet from me shall her destroyers come, saith the Lord. A sound of a cry cometh from Babel, and great destruction from the land of the Caldeans, because the Lord hath laid Babel waste and destroyed from her the great voice, and her waves shall roar like great waters, and a sound was made by their noise: Because the destroyer is come upon her, even upon Babel, and her strong men are taken, their bows are broken: for the Lord God that recompenceth, shall surely recompense. And I will make drunk her princes, and her wise men, her dukes, and her nobles, and her strong men: and they shall sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, saith the King, whose Name is the Lord of hosts. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The thick wall of Babel shall be broken, & her high gates shall be burnt with fire, and the people shall labour in vain, & the folk in ye fire, for they shall be weary. The word which Jeremiah the Prophet commanded Sheraiah the son of Neriiah, the son of Maaseiah, when he went with Zedekiah the King of Judah into Babel, in the fourth year of his reign: and this Sheraiah was a peaceable prince. So Jeremiah wrote in a book all the evil that should come upon Babel: even all these things, that are written against Babel. And Jeremiah said to Sheraiah, When thou comest unto Babel, and shalt see, & shalt read all these words, Then shalt thou say, O Lord, thou hast spoken against this place, to destroy it, that none should remain in it, neither man nor beast, but that it should be desolate for ever. And when thou hast made an end of reading this book, thou shalt bind a stone to it, & cast it in the midst of Euphrates, and shalt say, Thus shall Babel be drowned, and shall not rise from the evil, that I will bring upon her: and they shall be weary. Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

Zedekiah was one and twenty year old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. And he did evil in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Jehoiakim had done. Doubtless because the wrath of the Lord was against Jerusalem and Judah, till he had cast them out from his presence, therefore Zedekiah rebelled against the King of Babel. But in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month the tenth day of the month came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, he and all his host against Jerusalem, and pitched against it, & built forts against it round about. So the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of the King Zedekiah. Now in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, the famine was sore in ye city, so that there was no more bread for ye people of the land. Then the city was broken up and all the men of war fled, and went out of the city by night, by the way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the kings garden: (now the Caldeans were by the city round about) & they went by the way of the wilderness. But the army of the Caldeans pursued after the king, and took Zedekiah in the desert of Jericho, and all his host was scattered from him. Then they took the king and carried him up unto the king of Babel to Riblah in the land of Hamath, where he gave judgment upon him. And the king of Babel slew the sons of Zedekiah, before his eyes he slew also all ye princes of Judah in Riblah. Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and the king of Babel bound him in chains, and carried him to Babel, and put him in prison till the day of his death. Now in the fifth month in the tenth day of the month (which was the nineteenth year of ye King Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel) came Nebuzar-adan chief steward which stood before the king of Babel in Jerusalem, and burnt the House of the Lord, and the Kings house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and all the great houses burnt he with fire. And all the army of the Caldeans that were with the chief steward, brake down all ye walls of Jerusalem round about. Then Nebuzar-adan the chief steward carried away captive certain of the poor of the people, and the residue of the people that remained in the city, and those that were fled, and fallen to the king of Babel, with the rest of the multitude. But Nebuzar-adan the chief steward left certain of the poor of the land, to dress the vines, and to till the land. Also the pillars of brass that were in the House of the Lord, and the bases, and the brazen Sea, that was in the house of ye Lord, the Caldeans brake, and carried all the brass of them to Babel. The pots also and the besomes, and the instruments of music, and the basins, and the incense dishes, and all the vessels of brass wherewith they ministered, took they away. And the bowls, and the ashpannes, and the basins, and the pots, and the candlesticks, and the incense dishes, and the cups, and all that was of gold, and that was of silver, took the chief steward away, with the two pillars, one Sea, and twelve brazen bulls, that were under the bases, which King Salomon had made in ye house of ye Lord: the brass of all these vessels was without weight. And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits, and a thread of twelve cubits did compass it, and the thickness thereof was four fingers: it was hollow. And a chapter of brass was upon it, and the height of one chapter was five cubits with network, and pomegranates upon the chapters round about, all of brass: the second pillar also, and the pomegranates were like unto these. And there were ninety and six pomegranates on a side: and all the pomegranates upon the net work were an hundred round about. And the chief steward took Sheraiah the chief Priest, and Zephaniah the second Priest, and the three keepers of the door. He took also out of the city an Eunuch, which had the oversight of the men of war, and seven men that were in the Kings presence, which were found in the city, and Sopher captain of the host who mustered the people of the land, and threescore men of the people of the land, that were found in the midst of the city. Nebuzar-adan the chief steward took them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah. And the king of Babel smote them, and slew them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath: thus Judah was carried away captive out of his own land. This is the people, whom Nebuchad-nezzar carried away captive, in the seventh year, even three thousand Jews, and three and twenty. In the eighteenth year of Nebuchad-nezzar he carried away captive from Jerusalem eight hundred thirty and two persons. In the three and twentieth year of Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuzar-adan the chief steward carried away captive of the Jews seven hundred forty and five persons: all the persons were four thousand and six hundred. And in the seven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin King of Judah, in the twelfth month, in the five and twentieth day of the month, Evil-merodach King of Babel, in the first year of his reign, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin King of Judah, and brought him out of prison, and spake kindly unto him, and set his throne above the throne of the Kings, that were with him in Babel, and changed his prison garments, and he did continually eat bread before him all the days of his life. His portion was a continual portion given him of ye king of Babel, every day a certain, all the days of his life until he died.

LAMENTATIONS

How doth the city remain solitary that was full of people? she is as a widow: she that was great among the nations, & princess among the provinces, is made tributary. She weepeth continually in the night, and her tears run down by her cheeks: among all her lovers, she hath none to comfort her: all her friends have dealt unfaithfully with her, and are her enemies.

Judah is carried away captive because of affliction, and because of great servitude: she dwelleth among the heathen, and findeth no rest: all her persecutors took her in the straits.

The ways of Zion lament, because no man cometh to the solemn feasts: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her virgins are discomfited, and she is in heaviness. Her adversaries are the chief, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions, and her children are gone into captivity before the enemy. And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed: her princes are become like harts that find no pasture, & they are gone without strength before the pursuer.

Jerusalem remembered the days of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleasant things, that she had in times past, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her: the adversary saw her, and did mock at her Sabbaths. Jerusalem hath grievously sinned, therefore she is in derision: all that honoured her, despise her, because they have seen her filthiness: yea, she sigheth and turneth backward. Her filthiness is in her skirts: she remembered not her last end, therefore she came down wonderfully: she had no comforter: O Lord, behold mine affliction: for the enemy is proud. The enemy hath stretched out his hand upon all her pleasant things: for she hath seen the heathen enter into her Sanctuary, whom thou didst command, that they should not enter into thy Church. All her people sigh and seek their bread: they have given their pleasant things for meat to refresh the soul: see, O Lord, and consider: for I am become vile. Have ye no regard, all ye that pass by this way? behold, and see, if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow, which is done unto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath. From above hath he sent fire into my bones, which prevail against them: he hath spread a net for my feet, and turned me back: he hath made me desolate, and daily in heaviness. The yoke of my transgressions is bound upon his hand: they are wrapped, and come up upon my neck: he hath made my strength to fall: the Lord hath delivered me into their hands, neither am I able to rise up. The Lord hath trodden under foot all my valiant men in the midst of me: he hath called an assembly against me to destroy my young men: the Lord hath trodden the wine press upon the virgin the daughter of Judah. For these things I weep: mine eye, even mine eye casteth out water, because the comforter that should refresh my soul, is far from me: my children are desolate, because the enemy prevailed.

Zion stretcheth out her hands, and there is none to comfort her: the Lord hath appointed the enemies of Jaakob round about him: Jerusalem is as a menstruous woman in the midst of them. The Lord is righteous: for I have rebelled against his commandment: hear, I pray you, all people, and behold my sorrow: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity. I called for my lovers, but they deceived me: my Priests and mine Elders perished in the city while they sought their meat to refresh their souls. Behold, O Lord, how I am troubled: my bowels swell: mine heart is turned within me, for I am full of heaviness: the sword spoileth abroad, as death doeth at home. They have heard that I mourn, but there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies have heard of my trouble, and are glad, that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day, that thou hast pronounced, and they shall be like unto me. Let all their wickedness come before thee: do unto them, as thou hast done unto me, for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, & mine heart is heavy.

How hath the Lord darkened the daughter of Zion in his wrath! and hath cast down from heaven unto the earth the beauty of Israel, and remembered not his footstool in the day of his wrath! The Lord hath destroyed all the habitations of Jaakob, & not spared: he hath thrown down in his wrath ye strongholds of the daughter of Judah: he hath cast them down to ye ground: he hath polluted the kingdom and the princes thereof. He hath cut off in his fierce wrath all the horn of Israel: he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy, & there was kindled in Jaakob like a flame of fire, which devoured round about. He hath bent his bow like an enemy: his right hand was stretched up as an adversary, and slew all that was pleasant to the eye in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he poured out his wrath like fire. The Lord was as an enemy: he hath devoured Israel, and consumed all his palaces: he hath destroyed his strongholds, and hath increased in the daughter of Judah lamentation and mourning. For he hath destroyed his Tabernacle, as a garden, he hath destroyed his Congregation: the Lord hath caused the feasts and Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his wrath the King and the Priest. The Lord hath forsaken his altar: he hath abhorred his Sanctuary: he hath given into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces: they have made a noise in the House of the Lord, as in the day of solemnity.

The Lord hath determined to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion: he stretched out a line: he hath not withdrawn his hand from destroying: therefore he made the rampart and the wall to lament: they were destroyed together. Her gates are sunk to the ground: he hath destroyed and broken her bars: her King and her princes are among the Gentiles: the Law is no more, neither can her Prophets receive any vision from the Lord. The Elders of the daughter of Zion sit upon the ground, and keep silence: they have cast up dust upon their heads: they have girded them selves with sackcloth: the virgins of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground. Mine eyes do sail with tears: my bowels swell: my liver is poured upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children and sucklings swoon in the streets of the city. They have said to their mothers, Where is bread and drink? when they swooned as the wounded in the streets of the city, and when they gave up the ghost in their mother's bosom. What thing shall I take to witness for thee? what thing shall I compare to thee, O daughter Jerusalem? what shall I liken to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter Zion? for thy breach is great like ye sea: who can heal thee? Thy Prophets have looked out vain, & foolish things for thee, and they have not discovered thine iniquity, to turn away thy captivity, but have looked out for thee false prophecies, & causes of banishment. All that pass by the way, clap their hands at thee: they hiss and wag their head upon the daughter Jerusalem, saying, Is this the city that men call, The perfection of beauty, and the joy of the whole earth? All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they hiss and gnash the teeth, saying, Let us devour it: certainly this is the day that we looked for: we have found and seen it.

The Lord hath done that which he had purposed: he hath fulfilled his word that he had determined of old time: he hath thrown down, and not spared: he hath caused thine enemy to rejoice over thee, and set up the horn of thine adversaries. Their heart cried unto the Lord, O wall of the daughter Zion, let tears run down like a river, day and night: take thee no rest, neither let the apple of thine eye cease. Arise, cry in the night: in the beginning of the watches powre out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: lift up thine hands toward him for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger in the corners of all the streets. Behold, O Lord, and consider to whom thou hast done thus: shall the women eat their fruit, and children of a span long? shall the Priest and the Prophet be slain in the Sanctuary of the Lord? The young and the old lie on the ground in the streets: my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword: thou hast slain them in the day of thy wrath: thou hast killed and not spared. Thou hast called as in a solemn day my terrours round about, so that in the day of the Lord's wrath none escaped nor remained: those that I have nourished and brought up, hath mine enemy consumed.

I am the man, that hath seen affliction in the rod of his indignation. He hath led me, and brought me into darkness, but not to light. Surely he is turned against me: he turneth his hand against me all the day. My flesh and my skin hath he caused to wax old, and he hath broken my bones. He hath builded against me, and compassed me with gall, and labour. He hath set me in dark places, as they that be dead forever. He hath hedged about me, that I cannot get out: he hath made my chains heavy. Also when I cry and shout, he shutteth out my prayer. He hath stopped up my ways with hewn stone, and turned away my paths. He was unto me as a bear lying in wait, and as a Lion in secret places. He hath stopped my ways, and pulled me in pieces: he hath made me desolate. He hath bent his bow & made me a mark for the arrow. He caused the arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins. I was a derision to all my people, and their song all the day. He hath filled me with bitterness, & made me drunken with wormwood. He hath also broken my teeth with stones, and hath covered me with ashes. Thus my soul was far off from peace: I forgot prosperity, and I said, My strength & mine hope is perished from the Lord, remembering mine affliction, & my mourning, the wormwood and the gall. My soul hath them in remembrance, and is humbled in me. I consider this in mine heart: therefore have I hope.

It is the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. They are renewed every morning: great is thy faithfulness. The Lord is my portion, saith my soul: therefore will I hope in him. The Lord is good unto them, that trust in him, and to the soul that seeketh him. It is good both to trust, and to wait for the salvation of the Lord. It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth. He sitteth alone, and keepeth silence, because he hath borne it upon him. He putteth his mouth in the dust, if there may be hope. He giveth his cheek to him that smiteth him: he is filled full with reproaches. For the Lord will not forsake forever.

But though he send affliction, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies. For he doth not punish willingly, nor afflict the children of men, in stamping under his feet all the prisoners of the earth, in overthrowing the right of a man before the face of the most high, in subverting a man in his cause: the Lord seeth it not. Who is he then that saith, & it cometh to pass, and the Lord commandeth it not? Out of the mouth of the most high proceedeth not evil and good?

Wherefore then is the living man sorrowful? man suffereth for his sin. Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord. Let us lift up our hearts with our hands unto God in the heavens. We have sinned, and have rebelled, therefore thou hast not spared. Thou hast covered us with wrath, and persecuted us: thou hast slain and not spared. Thou hast covered thyself with a cloud, that our prayer should not pass through. Thou hast made us as the offscouring and refuse in the midst of the people. All our enemies have opened their mouth against us. Fear, and a snare is come upon us with desolation and destruction.

Mine eye casteth out rivers of water, for the destruction of the daughter of my people. Mine eye droppeth without stay and ceaseth not, till the Lord look down, and behold from heaven. Mine eye breaketh mine heart because of all the daughters of my city. Mine enemies chased me sore like a bird, without cause. They have shut up my life in the dungeon, and cast a stone upon me. Waters flowed over mine head, then thought I, I am destroyed. I called upon thy Name, O Lord, out of the low dungeon. Thou hast heard my voice: stop not thine ear from my sigh and from my cry. Thou drewest near in the day that I called upon thee: thou saidest, Fear not. O Lord, thou hast maintained the cause of my soul, and hast redeemed my life. O Lord, thou hast seen my wrong, judge thou my cause. Thou hast seen all their vengeance, and all their devises against me. Thou hast heard their reproach, O Lord, and all their imaginations against me: The lips also of those that rose against me, and their whispering against me continually. Behold, their sitting down and their rising up, how I am their song. Give them a recompense, O Lord, according to the work of their hands. Give them sorrow of heart, even thy curse to them. Persecute with wrath & destroy them from under the heaven, O Lord.

How is the gold become so dim? the most fine gold is changed, and the stones of the Sanctuary are scattered in the corner of every street. The noble men of Zion comparable to fine gold, how are they esteemed as earthen pitchers, even the work of the hands of the potter! Even the dragons draw out the breasts, and give suck to their young, but the daughter of my people is become cruel like the ostriches in the wilderness. The tongue of the sucking child cleaveth to the roof of his mouth for thirst: the young children ask bread, but no man breaketh it unto them. They that did feed delicately, perish in the streets: they that were brought up in skarlet, embrace the dung. For the iniquity of the daughter of my people is become greater then the sin of Sodom, that was destroyed as in a moment, & none pitched camps against her. Her Nazarites were purer then the snow, & whiter then ye milk: they were more ruddy in body, then the red precious stones; they were like polished sapphire. Now their visage is blacker then a coal: they can not know them in the streets: their skin cleaveth to their bones: it is withered like a stock. They that be slain with the sword are better, then they that are killed with hunger: for they fade away as they were stricken through for the fruits of the field. The hands of the pitiful women have sodden their own children, which were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people. The Lord hath accomplished his indignation: he hath poured out his fierce wrath, he hath kindled a fire in Zion, which hath devoured the foundations thereof. The Kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed that the adversary and the enemy should have entered into the gates of Jerusalem: For the sins of her Prophets, and the iniquities of her Priests, that have shed the blood of the just in the midst of her. They have wandered as blind men in the streets, and they were polluted with blood, so that they would not touch their garments. But they cried unto them, Depart, ye polluted, depart, depart, touch not: therefore they fled away, and wandered: they have said among the heathen, They shall no more dwell there. The anger of the Lord hath scattered them, he will no more regard them: they revered not the face of the Priests, nor had compassion of the Elders.

Whiles we waited for our vain help, our eyes failed: for in our waiting we looked for a nation that could not save us. They hunt our steps that we cannot go in our streets: our end is near, our days are fulfilled, for our end is come. Our persecutors are swifter than the eagles of the heaven: they pursued us upon the mountains, and laid wait for us in the wilderness. The breath of our nostrils, the Anointed of the Lord was taken in their nets, of whom we said, Under his shadow we shall be preserved alive among the heathen. Rejoice and be glad, O daughter Edom, that dwellest in the land of Uz, the cup also shall pass through unto thee: thou shalt be drunken and vomit. Thy punishment is accomplished, O daughter Zion: he will no more carry thee away into captivity, but he will visit thine iniquity, O daughter Edom, he will discover thy sins.

Remember, O Lord, what is come upon us: consider, and behold our reproach. Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliens. We are fatherless, even without father, and our mothers are as widows. We have drunk our water for money, and our wood is sold unto us. Our necks are under persecution: we are weary, and have no rest. We have given our hands to the Egyptians, and to Asshur, to be satisfied with bread. Our fathers have sinned, and are not, and we have borne their iniquities. Servants have ruled over us, none would deliver us out of their hands. We gat our bread with the peril of our lives, because of the sword of the wilderness. Our skin was black like as an oven because of the terrible famine. They defiled the women in Zion, and the maids in the cities of Judah. The princes are hanged up by their hand: the faces of the elders were not had in honour. They took the young men to grind, and the children fell under the wood. The Elders have ceased from the gate and the young men from their songs. The joy of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning. The crown of our head is fallen: we now unto us, that we have sinned. Therefore our heart is heavy for these things, our eyes are dim, because of the mountain of Zion which is desolate: the foxes run upon it. But thou, O Lord, remainest for ever: thy throne is from generation to generation. Wherefore dost thou forget us for ever, and forsake us so long time? Turn thou us unto thee, O Lord, and we shall be turned: renew our days as of old. But thou hast utterly rejected us: thou art exceedingly angry against us.

THE VISION OF EZEKIEL

It came to pass in the thirtieth year in the fourth month, and in the fifth day of the month (as I was among the captives by the river Chebar) that the heavens were opened and I saw visions of GOD. In the fifth day of the month (which was the fifth year of King Joiachin's captivity) the word of the Lord came unto Ezekiel the Priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Caldeans, by the river Chebar, where the hand of the Lord was upon him. And I looked, and behold, a whirlwind came out of the North, a great cloud and a fire wrapped about it, and a brightness was about it, and in the midst thereof, to wit, in the midst of the fire came out as the likeness of amber. Also out of the midst thereof came the likeness of four beasts, and this was their form: they had the appearance of a man. And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings. And their feet were straight feet, and the sole of their feet was like the sole of a calves foot, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brass. And the hands of a man came out from under their wings in the four parts of them, & they four had their faces, and their wings. They where joined by their wings one to another, and when they went forth, they returned not, but every one went straight forward. And the similitude of their faces was as the face of a man: and they four had the face of a lion on the right side, and they four had the face of a bullock on the left side: they four also had the face of an eagle. Thus were their faces: but their wings were spread out above: two wings of every one were joined one to another, & two covered their bodies. And every one went straight forward: they went whither their spirit led them, and they returned not when they went forth. The similitude also of the beasts, and their appearance was like burning coals of fire, & like the appearance of lamps: for the fire ran among the beasts, and the fire gave a glister, and out of the fire there went lightning. And the beasts ran, and returned like unto lightning.

Now as I beheld the beasts, behold, a wheel appeared upon the earth by the beasts, having four faces. The faction of the wheels and their work was like unto a chrysolite: and they four had one form, and their fashion, and their work was as one wheel in another wheel. When they went, they went upon their four sides, and they returned not when they went. They had also rings, and height, and were fearful to behold, and their rings were full of eyes, round about them four. And when the beasts went, the wheels went with them: and when the beasts were lift up from the earth, the wheels were lift up. Whither the spirit led them, they went, & thither did the spirit of the wheels lead them, and the wheels were lifted up besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheels. When the beasts went, they went, & when they stood, they stood, and when they were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheels. And the similitude of the firmament upon the heads of the beasts was wonderful, like unto crystal, spread over their heads above. And under the firmament were their wings straight, the one toward the other: every one had two, which covered the, and every one had two, which covered their bodies. And when they went forth, I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of great waters, and as the voice of the Almighty, even the voice of speech, as the noise of an host: and when they stood, they let down their wings. And there was a voice from the firmament, that was over their heads, when they stood, and had let down their wings. And above the firmament that was over their heads, was the fashion of a throne like unto a sapphire stone, and upon the similitude of the throne was by appearance, as the similitude of a man above upon it. And I saw as the appearance of amber, and as the similitude of fire round about within it to look to, even from his loins upward: and to look to, even from his loins downward, I saw as a likeness of fire, and brightness round about it. As the likeness of the bow, that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the light round about. This was the appearance of the similitude of the glory of the Lord: and when I saw it, I fell upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake.

And he said unto me, Son of man, stand up upon thy feet, & I will speak unto thee. And the Spirit entered into me, when he had spoken unto me, and set me upon my feet, so that I heard him that spake unto me. And he said unto me, Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation that hath rebelled against me: for they and their fathers have rebelled against me, even unto this very day. For they are impudent children, and stiff-hearted: I do send thee unto them, & thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God. But surely they will not hear, neither in deed will they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yet shall they know that there hath been a Prophet among them. And thou son of man, fear them not, neither be afraid of their words, although rebels, and thorns be with thee, and thou remainest with scorpions: fear not their words, nor be afraid at their looks, for they are a rebellious house. Therefore thou shalt speak my words unto them: but surely they will not hear, neither will they in deed cease: for they are rebellious. But thou son of man, hear what I say unto thee: be not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: open thy mouth, and eat that I give thee. And when I looked up, behold, an hand was sent unto me, and lo, a rule of a book was therein. And he spread it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, Lamentations, and mourning, and woe.

Moreover he said unto me, Son of man, eat that thou findest: eat this rule, and go, and speak unto the house of Israel. So I opened my mouth, and he gave me this rule to eat. And he said unto me, Son of man, cause thy belly to eat, and fill thy bowels with this rule that I give thee. Then did I eat it, and it was in my mouth as sweet as honey. And he said unto me, Son of man, go, and enter into the house of Israel, and declare them my words. For thou art not sent to a people of an unknown tongue, or of an hard language, but to the house of Israel, not to many people of an unknown tongue, or of an hard language, whose words thou canst not understand: yet if I should send thee to them, they would obey thee. But the house of Israel will not obey thee: for they will not obey me: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiff-hearted. Behold, I have made thy face strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads. I have made thy forehead as the adamant, and harder then the flint: fear them not therefore, neither be afraid at their looks: for they are a rebellious house. He said moreover unto me, Son of man, receive in thine heart all my words that I speak unto thee, and hear them with thine ears, and go and enter to them that are led away captives unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them, and tell them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they will not hear, neither will they in deed cease.

Then the spirit took me up, and I heard behind me a noise of a great rushing, saying, Blessed be ye glory of the Lord out of his place. I heard also the noise of the wings of the beasts, that touched one another, and the rattling of the wheels that were by them, even a noise of a great rushing. So the spirit lift me up, and took me away and I went in bitterness, and indignation of my spirit, but the hand of the Lord was strong upon me. Then I came to them that were led away captives to Tel-abib, that dwelt by the river Chebar, and I sat where they sat, and remained there astonished among them seven days. And at the end of seven days, the word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Son of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore hear the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me. When I shall say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die, and thou givest not him warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may live, the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity: but his blood will I require at thine hand. Yet if thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedness, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul. Likewise if a righteous man turn from his righteousness, and commit iniquity, I will lay a stumbling block before him, and he shall die, because thou hast not given him warning: he shall die in his sin, and his righteous deeds, which he hath done, shall not be remembered: but his blood will I require at thine hand. Nevertheless, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sin not, and that he doth not sin, he shall live because he is admonished: also thou hast delivered thy soul.

And the hand of the Lord was there upon me, and he said unto me, Arise, and go into the field, and I will there talk with thee. So when I had risen up, and gone forth into the field, behold, the glory of the Lord stood there, as the glory which I saw by the river Chebar, and I fell down upon my face. Then the Spirit entered into me, which set me up upon my feet, and spake unto me, and said to me, Come, and shut thy self within thine house. But thou, O son of man, behold, they shall put bands upon thee, and shall bind thee with them, and thou shalt not go out among them. And I will make thy tongue cleave to the roof of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumb, and shalt not be to them as a man that rebuketh: for they are a rebellious house. But when I shall have spoken unto thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, He that heareth, let him hear, and he that leaveth off, let him leave: for they are a rebellious house.

Thou also son of man, take thee a brick, and lay it before thee, and portray upon it the city, even Jerusalem, and lay siege against it, and build a fort against it, and cast a mount against it: set the camp also against it, and lay engines of war against it round about. Moreover, take an iron pan, and set it for a wall of iron between thee and the city, and direct thy face toward it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: this shall be a sign unto the house of Israel. Sleep thou also upon thy left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel upon it: according to the number of the days, that thou shalt sleep upon it, thou shalt bear their iniquity. For I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, even three hundred and ninety days: so shalt thou bear the iniquity of the house of Israel. And when thou hast accomplished them, sleep again upon thy right side, and thou shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days: I have appointed thee a day for a year, even a day for a year. Therefore thou shalt direct thy face toward the siege of Jerusalem, and thine arm shall be uncovered, and thou shalt prophesy against it. And behold, I will lay bands upon thee, and thou shalt not turn thee from one side to another, till thou hast ended the days of thy siege. Thou shalt take also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentils, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof according to the number of the days, that thou shalt sleep upon thy side: even three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat thereof. And the meat, whereof thou shalt eat, shall be by weight, even twenty shekels a day: and from time to time shalt thou eat thereof. Thou shalt drink also water by measure, even the sixth part of an Hin: from time to time shalt thou drink. And thou shalt eat it as barley cakes, and thou shalt bake it in the dung that cometh out of man, in their sight. And the Lord said, So shall the children of Israel eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whither I will cast them.

Then said I, Ah, Lord God, behold, my soul hath not been polluted: for from my youth up, even unto this hour, I have not eaten of a thing dead, or bullocks in pieces, neither came there any unclean flesh in my mouth.

Then he said unto me, Lo, I have given thee bullocks dung for mans dung, and thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith. Moreover, he said unto me, Son of man, behold, I will break the staff of bread in Jerusalem, and they shall eat bread by weight, and with care, and they shall drink water by measure, and with astonishment. Because that bread and water shall fail, they shall be astonished one with another, and shall consume away for their iniquity.

And thou son of man, take thee a sharp knife, or take thee a barber's razor & cause it to pass upon thine head, and upon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and divide the hair. Thou shalt burn with fire the third part in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are fulfilled, and thou shalt take the other third part, and smite about it with a knife, and the last third part thou shalt scatter in the wind, and I will draw out a sword after them. Thou shalt also take thereof a few in number, and bind them in thy lap. Then take of them again and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire: for thereof shall a fire come forth into all the house of Israel.

Thus saith the Lord God, This is Jerusalem: I have set it in the midst of the nations and countries, that are round about her. And she hath changed my judgments into wickedness more then the nations, and my statutes more then the countries, that are round about her: for they have refused my judgments & my statutes, & they have not walked in them. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your multitude is greater then the nations that are round about you, and ye have not walked in my statutes, neither have ye kept my judgments: no, ye have not done according to the judgments of the nations, that are round about you, therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I, even I come against thee, and will execute judgment in the midst of thee, even in the sight of the nations. And I will do in thee, that I never did before, neither will do any more the like, because of all thine abominations. For in the midst of thee, the fathers shall eat their sons, and the sons shall eat their fathers, and I will execute judgment in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I scatter into all the winds. Wherefore, as I live, saith the Lord God, Surely because thou hast defiled my Sanctuary with all thy filthiness, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I also destroy thee, neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I have any pity. The third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and with famine shall they be consumed in the midst of thee: and another third part shall fall by the sword round about thee: and I will scatter the last third part into all winds, and I will draw out a sword after them. Thus shall mine anger be accomplished, and I will cause my wrath to cease in them, and I will be comforted: and they shall know, that I the Lord have spoke it in my zeal, when I have accomplished my wrath in them. Moreover, I will make thee waste, and abhorred among the nations, that are round about thee, and in the sight of all that pass by. So thou shalt be a reproach and shame, a chastisement and an astonishment unto the nations, that are round about thee, when I shall execute judgments in thee, in anger and in wrath, and in sharp rebukes: I the Lord have spoken it. When I shall send upon them the evil arrows of famine, which shall be for their destruction, and which I will send to destroy you: and I will increase the famine upon you, and will break your staff of bread. So will I send upon you famine, and evil beasts, and they shall spoil thee, and pestilence and blood shall pass through thee, and I will bring the sword upon thee: I the Lord have spoken it.

Again the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, Set thy face towards the mountains of Israel, and prophecy against them, and say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God: thus saith the Lord God to the mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the valleys, Behold, I, even I will bring a sword upon you, and I will destroy your high places: And your altars shall be desolate, and your images of the sun shall be broken: and I will cast down your slain men before your idols. And I will lay the dead carcasses of the children of Israel before their idols, and I will scatter your bones round about your altars. In all your dwelling places the cities shall be desolate, and the high places shall be laid waste, so that your altars shall be made waste and desolate, and your idols shall be broken, and cease, & your images of the sun shall be cut in pieces, & your works shall be abolished. And the slain shall fall in the midst of you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. Yet will I leave a remnant, that you may have some that shall escape the sword among the nations, when you shall be scattered through the countries. And they that escape of you, shall remember me among the nations, where they shall be in captivity, because I am grieved for their whorish hearts, which have departed from me, and for their eyes, which have gone a whoring after their idols, and they shall be displeased in themselves for the evils, which they have committed in all their abominations. And they shall know that I am the Lord, and that I have not said in vain, that I would do this evil unto them.

Thus saith the Lord God, Smite with thine hand, & stretch forth with thy foot, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel: for they shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence. He that is far off, shall die of the pestilence, and he that is near, shall fall by the sword, and he that remaineth and is besieged, shall die by the famine: thus will I accomplish my wrath upon them. Then ye shall know, that I am ye Lord, when their slain men shall be among their idols round about their altars, upon every high hill in all the tops of the mountains, and under every green tree, and under every thick oak, which is the place where they did offer sweet savour to all their idols. So will I stretch mine hand upon them, and make the land waste, and desolate from the wilderness unto Diblath in all their habitations, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Also thou son of man, thus saith the Lord God, An end is come unto the land of Israel: the end is come upon the four corners of the land. Now is the end come upon thee, and I will send my wrath upon thee, and will judge thee according to thy ways, and will lay upon thee all thine abominations. Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I have pity: but I will lay thy ways upon thee: and thine abomination shall be in the midst of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, one evil, even one evil is come. An end is come, the end is come, it watched for thee: behold, it is come. The morning is come unto thee, that dwellest in the land: the time is come, the day of trouble is near, and not the sounding again of the mountains. Now I will shortly pour out my wrath upon thee, and fulfill mine anger upon thee: I will judge thee according to thy ways, and will lay upon thee all thine abominations. Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I have pity, but I will lay upon thee according to thy ways, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord that smiteth. Behold, the day, behold, it is come: the morning is gone forth, the rod flourisheth: pride hath budded. Cruelty is risen up into a rod of wickedness: none of them shall remain, nor of their riches, nor of any of theirs, neither shall there be lamentation for them. The time is come, the day draweth near: let not the buyer rejoice, nor let him that selleth, mourn: for the wrath is upon all the multitude thereof. For he that selleth, shall not return to that which is sold, although they were yet alive: for the vision was unto all the multitude thereof, and they returned not, neither doth any encourage himself in the punishment of his life. They have blown the trumpet, and prepared all, but none goeth to the battle: for my wrath is upon all the multitude thereof. The sword is without, and the pestilence, and the famine within: he that is in the field, shall die with the sword, and he that is in the city, famine and pestilence shall devour him. But they that flee away from them, shall escape, and shall be in the mountains, like the doves of the valleys: all they shall mourn, every one for his iniquity. All hands shall be weak, and all knees shall fall away as water. They shall also gird themselves with sackcloth, and fear shall cover them, and shame shall be upon all faces, & baldness upon their heads. They shall cast their silver in the streets, and their gold shall be cast far off: their silver and their gold can not deliver them in the day of the wrath of the Lord: they shall not satisfy their souls, neither fill their bowels: for this ruin is for their iniquity. He had also set the beauty of his ornament in majesty: but they made images of their abominations, and of their idols therein: therefore have I set it far from them. And I will give it into the hands of the strangers to be spoiled, and to the wicked of the earth to be robbed, and they shall pollute it. My face will I turn also from them, and they shall pollute my secret place: for the destroyers shall enter into it, and defile it. Make a chain: for the land is full of the judgment of blood, and the city is full of cruelty. Wherefore I will bring the most wicked of the heathen, and they shall possess their houses: I will also make the pomp of the mighty to cease, and their holy places shall be defiled. When destruction cometh, they shall seek peace, and shall not have it. Calamity shall come upon calamity, and rumour shall be upon rumour: then shall they seek a vision of the Prophet: but the Law shall perish from the Priest, and counsel from the Ancient. The King shall mourn, and the prince shall be clothed with desolation, and the hands of the people in the land shall be troubled: I will do unto them according to their ways, and according to their judgments will I judge them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

And in the sixth year, in the sixth month, & in the fifth day of the month, as I sat in mine house, and the Elders of Judah sat before me, the hand of the Lord God fell there upon me. Then I beheld, and lo, there was a likeness, as the appearance of fire, to look to, from his loins downward, & from his loins upward, as the appearance of brightness, & like unto amber. And he stretched out the likeness of an head, and took me by an hairy lock of mine head, and the Spirit lifted me up between the earth, and the heaven, and brought me by a Divine vision to Jerusalem, into the entry of ye inner gate that lieth toward the North, where remained the idol of indignation, which provoked indignation. And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there according to the vision, that I saw in the field. Then said he unto me, Son of man, lift up thine eyes now toward the North. So I lifted up mine eyes toward the North, and behold, Northward, at the gate of the altar, this idol of indignation was in the entry. He said furthermore unto me, Son of man, seest thou not what they do? even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here to cause me to depart from my Sanctuary? but yet turn thee and thou shalt see greater abominations. And he caused me to enter at the gate of the court: and when I looked, behold, an hole was in the wall. Then said he unto me, Son of man, dig now in the wall; when I had digged in the wall, behold, there was a door. And he said unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here. So I went in, and saw, and behold, there was every similitude of creeping things and abominable beasts and all the idols of the house of Israel painted upon the wall round about. And there stood before them seventy men of the Ancients of the house of Israel, and in the midst of them stood Jaazaniah, ye son of Shaphan, with every man his censour in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went up like a cloud. Then said he unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen what the Ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every one in the chamber of his imagery? for they say, The Lord seeth us not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth. Again he said also unto me, Turn thee again, and thou shalt see greater abominations that they do. And he caused me to enter into the entry of the gate of the Lord's house, which was toward the North: and behold there sat women mourning for Tammuz. Then said he unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? Turn thee again, and thou shalt see greater abominations then these. And he caused me to enter into the inner court of the Lord's house, and behold, at the door of the Temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar were about five and twenty men with their backs toward the Temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and they worshipped the sun, toward the East. Then he said unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? Is it a small thing to the house of Judah to commit these abominations which they do here? for they have filled the land with cruelty, and have returned to provoke me: and lo, they have cast out stink before their noses. Therefore will I also execute my wrath: mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I have pity, and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them.

He cried also with a loud voice in mine ears, saying, The visitations of the city draw near, and every man hath a weapon in his hand to destroy it. And behold, six men came by the way of the high gate, which lieth toward the North, and every man a weapon in his hand to destroy it: and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writers inkhorn by his side, and they went in and stood beside the brazen altar. And the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from ye Cherub, whereupon he was and stood on the door of the house, and he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writers inkhorn by his side. And the Lord said unto him, Go through the midst of the city, even through the midst of Jerusalem and set a mark upon the foreheads of them that mourn, and cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof. And to the other he said, that I might hear, Go ye after him through the city, and smite: let your eye spare none, neither have pity. Destroy utterly the old, and the young, and the maids, and the children, and the women, but touch no man, upon whom is the mark, and begin at my Sanctuary. Then they began at the Ancient men, which were before the house. And he said unto them, Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain, then go forth: and they went out, and slew them in the city.

Now when they had slain them, and I had escaped, I fell down upon my face, and cried, saying, Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel, in pouring out thy wrath upon Jerusalem?

Then said he unto me, The iniquity of the house of Israel, and Judah is exceeding great, so that the land is full of blood, and the city full of corrupt judgment: for they say, The Lord hath forsaken the earth, & the Lord seeth us not. As touching me also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I have pity, but will recompense their ways upon their heads. And behold, the man clothed with linen which had the inkhorn by his side, made report, and said, Lord, I have done as thou hast commanded me.

And as I looked, behold, in the firmament that was above the head of the Cherubims there appeared upon them like unto the similitude of a throne, as it were a sapphire stone. And he spake unto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in between the wheels, even under the Cherub, & fill thine hands with coals of fire from between the Cherubims, & scatter them over the city; he went in in my sight. Now the Cherubims stood upon the right side of the house, when the man went in, and the cloud filled the inner court. Then the glory of the Lord went up from the Cherub, and stood over the door of the house, & the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the brightness of the Lord's glory. And the sound of the Cherubim's wings was heard into the utter court, as the voice of the Almighty God, when he speaketh. And when he had commanded the man clothed with linen, saying, Take fire from between the wheels, & from between ye Cherubims, then he went in and stood beside ye wheel. And one Cherub stretched forth his hand from between the Cherubims unto the fire, that was between the Cherubims, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who took it and went out. And there appeared in the Cherubims, the likeness of a man's hand under their wings. And when I looked up, behold, four wheels were beside the Cherubims, one wheel by one Cherub, and another wheel by another Cherub, and the appearance of the wheels was as the colour of a Chrysolite stone. And their appearance (for they were all four of one fashion) was as if one wheel had been in another wheel. When they went forth, they went upon their four sides, and they returned not as they went: but to the place whither they first went, they went after it, and they turned not as they went. And their whole body, and their rings, and their hands, and their wings, & the wheels were full of eyes round about, even in the same four wheels. And the Cherub cried to these wheels in mine hearing, saying, O wheel. And every beast had four faces: the first face was the face of a Cherub, & the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an Eagle. And the Cherubims were lifted up: this is the beast that I saw at the river Chebar. And when ye Cherubims went, the wheels went by them: and when the Cherubims lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the same wheels also turned not from beside them. When the Cherubims stood, they stood: & when they were lifted up, they lifted themselves up also: for the spirit of the beast was in them. Then the glory of the Lord departed from above the door of the house, and stood upon the Cherubims. And the Cherubims lifted up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheels also were besides them: and every one stood at the entry of the gate of the Lord's House at the East side, and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them on high. This is the beast that I saw under the God of Israel by the river Chebar, and I knew that they were the Cherubims. Every one had four faces, and every one four wings, and the likeness of man's hands was under their wings. And the likeness of their faces was the self same faces, which I saw by the river Chebar, and the appearance of the Cherubims was ye self-same, and they went every one straight forward.

Moreover, the Spirit lifted me up, and brought me unto the East gate of the Lord's house, which lieth Eastward, and behold, at the entry of the gate were five and twenty men: among whom I saw Jaazaniah the son of Azur, and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, the princes of the people. Then said he unto me, Son of man, these are the men that imagine mischief, and devise wicked counsel in this city. For they say, It is not near, let us build houses: this city is the cauldron, and we be the flesh. Therefore prophesy against them, son of man, prophesy. And the Spirit of the Lord fell upon me, and said unto me, Speak, Thus saith the Lord, O ye house of Israel, this have ye said, and I know that which riseth up of your minds. Many have ye murdered in this city, and ye have filled the streets thereof with the slain. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, They that ye have slain, and have laid in the midst of it, they are the flesh, and this city is the cauldron, but I will bring you forth of the midst of it. Ye have feared the sword, and I will bring a sword upon you, saith the Lord God. And I will bring you out of the midst thereof, and deliver you into the hands of strangers, and will execute judgments among you. Ye shall fall by the sword, and I will judge you in the border of Israel, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. This city shall not be your cauldron, neither shall ye be the flesh in the midst thereof, but I will judge you in the border of Israel. And ye shall know that I am the Lord: for ye have not walked in my statutes, neither executed my judgments, but have done after the manners of the heathen, that are round about you.

And when I prophesied, Pelatiah the son of Benaiah died: then fell I down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and said, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then utterly destroy all the remnant of Israel?

Again the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, thy brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, & all the house of Israel, holy are they unto whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, Depart ye far from the Lord: for the land is given us in possession. Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, Although I have cast them far off among the heathen, and although I have scattered them among the countries, yet will I be to them as a little Sanctuary in ye countries where they shall come. Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, I will gather you again from the people, and assemble you out of the countries where ye have been scattered, & I will give you ye land of Israel. And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all the idols thereof, and all the abominations thereof from thence. And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within their bowels: and I will take the stony heart out of their bodies, and will give them an heart of flesh, that they may walk in my statutes, and keep my judgments, and execute them: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God. But upon them, whose heart is toward their idols, and whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will lay their way upon their own heads, saith the Lord God. Then did the Cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels besides them, and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them on high. And the glory of the Lord went up from the midst of the city, & stood upon the mountain which is toward the East side of the city.

Afterward the Spirit took me up, and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Caldea to them that were led away captives: so the vision that I had seen, went up from me. Then I declared unto them that were led away captives, all the things that the Lord had shewed me.

The word of the Lord also came unto me, saying, Son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of a rebellious house, which have eyes to see, and see not: they have ears to hear, and hear not: for they are a rebellious house. Therefore thou son of man, prepare thy stuff to go into captivity, and go forth by day in their sight: and thou shalt pass from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that they may consider it: for they are a rebellious house. Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuff by day in their sight as the stuff of him that goeth into captivity: and thou shalt go forth at even in their sight, as they that go forth into captivity. Dig thou through the wall in their sight, and carry out thereby. In their sight shalt thou bear it upon thy shoulders, and carry it forth in the dark: thou shalt cover thy face that thou see not the earth: for I have set thee as a sign unto the house of Israel.

And as I was commanded, so I brought forth my stuff by day, as ye stuff of one that goeth into captivity: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, & brought it forth in ye dark, & I bare it upon my shoulder in their sight.

And in the morning came the word of the Lord unto me, saying, Son of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said unto thee, What doest thou? But say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, This burden concerneth the chief in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel that are among them. Say, I am your sign: like as I have done, so shall it be done unto them: they shall go into bondage and captivity. And the chiefest that is among them, shall bear upon his shoulder in the dark, and shall go forth: they shall dig through the wall, to carry out thereby: he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes. My net also will I spread upon him, and he shall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel to the land of the Caldeans, yet shall he not see it, though he shall die there. And I will scatter toward every wind all that are about him to help him, and all his garrisons, and I will draw out the sword after them. And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall scatter them among the nations, & disperse them in the countries. But I will leave a little number of them from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, that they may declare all these abominations among the heathen, where they come, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, eat thy bread with trembling and drink thy water with trouble, & with carefulness, and say unto the people of the land, Thus saith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and of the land of Israel, They shall eat their bread with carefulness, and drink their water with desolation: for the land shall be desolate from her abundance because of the cruelty of them that dwell therein. And the cities that are inhabited, shall be left void, and the land shall be desolate, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, what is that proverb that you have in the land of Israel, saying, The days are prolonged and all visions fail? Tell them therefore, Thus saith the Lord God, I will make this proverb to cease, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel: but say unto them, The days are at hand and the effect of every vision. For no vision shall be any more in vain, neither shall there be any flattering divination within the house of Israel. For I am the Lord: I will speak, and that thing that I shall speak, shall come to pass: it shall be no more prolonged: for in your days, O rebellious house, will I say the thing, and will perform it, saith the Lord God.

Again the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth, is for many days to come, and he prophesieth of the times that are far off. Therefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, All my words shall no longer be delayed, but that thing which I have spoken, shall be done, saith the Lord God.

And ye word of ye Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, prophecy against the prophets of Israel, that prophecy, and say thou unto them, that prophecy out of their own hearts, Hear the word of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord God, Woe unto the foolish Prophets that follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing. O Israel, thy Prophets are like the foxes in the waste places. Ye have not risen up in the gaps, neither made up the hedge for ye house of Israel, to stand in the battle in the day of the Lord. They have seen vanity, and lying divination, saying, The Lord saith it, and the Lord hath not sent them: & they have made others to hope that they would confirm the word of their prophecy. Have ye not seen a vain vision? and have ye not spoken a lying divination? ye say, The Lord saith it, albeit I have not spoken. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye have spoken vanity & have seen lies, therefore behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God, and mine hand shall be upon the Prophets that see vanity, and divine lies: they shall not be in the assembly of my people, neither shall they be written in the writing of the house of Israel, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel: & ye shall know that I am the Lord God. And therefore, because they have deceived my people, saying, Peace, & there was no peace: and one built up a wall, and behold, the others daubed it with untempered mortar, say unto them which daub it with untempered mortar, that it shall fall: for there shall come a great shower, and I will send hailstones, which shall cause it to fall, and a stormy wind shall break it. Lo, when the wall is fallen, shall it not be said unto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye have daubed it? Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will cause a stormy wind to break forth in my wrath, & a great shower shall be in mine anger, & hailstones in mine indignation to consume it. So I will destroy the wall that ye have daubed with untempered mortar, and bring it down to the ground, so that the foundation thereof shall be discovered, and it shall fall, and ye shall be consumed in the midst thereof, and ye shall know, that I am the Lord. Thus will I accomplish my wrath upon the wall, and upon them that have daubed it with untempered mortar, and will say unto you, The wall is no more, neither the daubers thereof, to wit, the Prophets of Israel, which prophesy upon Jerusalem, and see visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

Likewise thou son of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophesy out of their own heart: and prophesy thou against them, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Woe unto the women that sew pillows under all arm holes, and make vails upon the head of every one that standeth up, to hunt souls: will ye hunt ye souls of my people, and will ye give life to the souls that come unto you? And will ye pollute me among my people for handfuls of barley, and for pieces of bread to slay the souls of them that should not die, and to give life to the souls that should not live in lying to my people, that hear your lies? Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will have to do with your pillows, wherewith ye hunt the souls to make them to fly, and I will tear them from your arms, and will let the souls go, even the souls, that ye hunt to make them to fly. Your vails also will I tear, and deliver my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hands to be hunted, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. Because with your lies ye have made the heart of the righteous sad, whom I have not made sad, and strengthened the hands of the wicked, that he should not return from his wicked way, by promising him life, therefore ye shall see no more vanity, nor divine divinations: for I will deliver my people out of your hand, & ye shall know that I am ye Lord.

Then came certain of the Elders of Israel unto me, and sat before me. And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, these men have set up their idols in their heart, and put the stumbling block of their iniquity before their face: should I, being required, answer them? Therefore speak unto them, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Every man of the house of Israel that setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to the Prophet, I the Lord will answer him that cometh, according to the multitude of his idols: That I may take the house of Israel in their own heart, because they are all departed from me through their idols.

Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Return, and withdraw yourselves, and turn your faces from your idols, and turn your faces from all your abominations. For everyone of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which departeth from me, and setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a Prophet, for to inquire of him for me, I the Lord will answer him for myself, and I will set my face against that man, and will make him an example and proverb, and I will cut him off from the midst of my people, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. And if the Prophet be deceived, when he hath spoken a thing, I the Lord have deceived that Prophet, and I will stretch out mine hand upon him, and will destroy him from the midst of my people of Israel. And they shall bear their punishment: the punishment of the Prophet shall be even as the punishment of him that asketh, that the house of Israel may go no more astray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord God. The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Son of man, when ye land sinneth against me by committing a trespass, then will I stretch out mine hand upon it, & will break the staff of the bread thereof, and will send famine upon it, and I will destroy man and beast forth of it. Though these three men Noah, Daniel, and Job were among them, they should deliver but their own souls by their righteousness, saith the Lord God. If I bring noisome beasts into the land and they spoil it, so that it be desolate, that no man may pass through, because of beasts, though these three men were in the midst thereof, As I live, saith the Lord God, they shall save neither sons nor daughters: they only shall be delivered, but the land shall be waste. Or if I bring a sword upon this land, and say, Sword, go through the land, so that I destroy man and beast out of it, though these three men were in the midst thereof, As I live, saith the Lord God, they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they only shall be delivered themselves. Or if I send a pestilence into this land, and power out my wrath upon it in blood, to destroy out of it man and beast, and though Noah, Daniel and Job were in the midst of it, As I live, saith the Lord God, they shall deliver neither son nor daughter: they shall but deliver their own souls by their righteousness. For thus saith the Lord God, Howe much more when I send my four sore judgments upon Jerusalem, even the sword, and famine, and the noisome beast & pestilence, to destroy man and beast out of it? Yet behold, therein shall be left a remnant of them that shall be carried away both sons and daughters: behold, they shall come forth unto you, and ye shall see their way, and their enterprises: and ye shall be comforted, concerning the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, even concerning all that I have brought upon it. And they shall comfort you, when ye see their way and their enterprises: & ye shall know, that I have not done without cause all that I have done in it, saith the Lord God.

And ye word of ye Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, what cometh of the vine tree above all other trees? and of the vine branch, which is among the trees of ye forest? Shall wood be taken thereof to do any work? or will men take a pin of it to hang any vessel thereon? Behold, it is cast in the fire to be consumed: the fire consumeth both the ends of it, and the midst of it is burnt. Is it meet for any work? Behold, when it was whole, it was meet for no work: how much less shall it be meet for any work, when the fire hath consumed it, and it is burnt? Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As the vine tree, that is among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire to be consumed, so will I give the inhabitants of Jerusalem. And I will set my face against them: they shall go out from one fire, and another fire shall consume them: and ye shall know, that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them, and when I make the land waste, because they have greatly offended, saith the Lord God.

Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, cause Jerusalem to know her abominations, and say, Thus saith the Lord God unto Jerusalem, Thine habitation and thy kindred is of the land of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite. And in thy nativity when thou wast borne, thy navel was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swaddled in clothes. None eye pitied thee to do any of these unto thee, for to have compassion upon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open field to the contempt of thy person in ye day that thou wast borne. And when I passed by thee, I saw thee polluted in thine own blood, and I said unto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt live: even when thou wast in thy blood, I said unto thee, Thou shalt live. I have caused thee to multiply as the bud of the field, and thou hast increased and waxen great, and thou hast gotten excellent ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned, thine hair is grown, where as thou wast naked and bare. Now when I passed by thee, and looked upon thee, behold, thy time was as the time of love, and I spread my skirts over thee, and covered thy filthiness: yea, I swore unto thee, and entered into a covenant with thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becamest mine. Then washed I thee with water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oil. I clothed thee also with brodered work, and shod thee with badgers skin: and I girded thee about with fine linen, & I covered thee with silk. I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put bracelets upon thine hands, and a chain on thy neck. And I put a frontlet upon thy face, and earrings in thine ears, and a beautiful crown upon thine head. Thus wast thou decked with gold and silver, and thy raiment was of fine linen, and silk, and brodered work: thou didst eat fine flour, and honey and oil, and thou wast very beautiful, and thou didst grow up into a kingdom. And thy name was spread among the heathen for thy beauty: for it was perfect through my beauty which I had set upon thee, saith the Lord God.

Now thou didst trust in thine own beauty, and playedst the harlot, because of thy renown, and hast poured out thy fornications on every one that passed by, thy desire was to him. And thou didst take thy garments, & deckedst thine high places with divers colours, and playedst the harlot thereupon: the like things shall not come, neither hath any done so. Thou hast also taken thy fair jewels made of my gold and of my silver, which I had given thee, and madest to thy self images of men, and didst commit whoredom with them, And tookest thy brodered garments, and coveredst them: and thou hast set mine oil and my perfume before them. My meat also, which I gave thee, as fine flour, oil, and honey, wherewith I fed thee, thou hast even set it before them for a sweet savour: thus it was, saith the Lord God. Moreover thou hast taken thy sons and thy daughters, whom thou hast borne unto me, and these hast thou sacrificed unto them, to be devoured: is this thy whoredom a small matter? That thou hast slain my children, and delivered them to cause them to pass through fire for them? And in all thine abominations and whoredoms thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, when thou wast naked and bare, and wast polluted in thy blood. And beside all thy wickedness (wo, wo unto thee, saith the Lord God) thou hast also built unto thee an high place, and hast made thee an high place in every street. Thou hast built thine high place at every corner of the way, and hast made thy beauty to be abhorred: thou hast opened thy feet to every one that passed by, & multiplied thy whoredom. Thou hast also committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours, which have great members, and hast increased thy whoredom, to provoke me. Behold, therefore I did stretch out mine hand over thee, and will diminish thine ordinary, and deliver thee unto the will of them that hate thee, even to the daughters of the Philistims, which are ashamed of thy wicked way. Thou hast played the whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet couldest not be satisfied. Thou hast moreover multiplied thy fornication from the land of Canaan unto Caldea, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith. How weak is thine heart, saith the Lord God, seeing thou doest all these things, even the work of a presumptuous whorish woman? In that thou buildest thine high place in the corner of every way, and makest thine high place in every street, and hast not been as an harlot that despiseth a reward, but as a wife that playeth the harlot, and taketh others for her husband: They give gifts to all other whores, but thou givest gifts unto all thy lovers, and rewardest them, that they may come unto thee on every side for thy fornication. And the contrary is in thee from other women in thy fornications, neither the like fornication shall be after thee: for in that thou givest a reward, and no reward is given unto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

Wherefore, O harlot, hear the word of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord God, Because thy shame was poured out, and thy filthiness discovered through thy fornications with thy lovers, and with all the idols of thine abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou didst offer unto them, behold, therefore I will gather all thy lovers, with whom thou hast taken pleasure, and all them that thou hast loved, with all them that thou hast hated: I will even gather them round about against thee, and will discover thy filthiness unto them, that they may see all thy filthiness. And I will judge thee after ye manner of them that are harlots, and of them that shed blood, and I will give thee the blood of wrath & jealousy. I will also give thee into their hands, and they shall destroy thine high place, and shall break down thine high places. They shall strip thee also out of thy clothes, and shall take thy fair jewels, and leave thee naked and bare. They shall also bring up a company against thee, and they shall stone thee with stones, and thrust thee through with their swords. And they shall burn up thine houses with fire, and execute judgments upon thee in the sight of many women: and I will cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, and thou shalt give no reward any more. So will I make my wrath toward thee to rest, and my jealousy shall depart from thee, and I will cease and be no more angry. Because thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, but hast provoked me with all these things, behold, therefore I also have brought thy way upon thine head, saith the Lord God: yet hast not thou had consideration of all thine abominations. Behold, all that use proverbs, shall use this proverb against thee, saying, As is the mother, so is her daughter. Thou art thy mother's daughter, that hath cast off her husband and her children, and thou art the sister of thy sisters, which forsook their husbands and their children: your mother is an Hittite, and your father an Amorite. And thine elder sister is Samaria, and her daughters, that dwell at thy left hand, and thy young sister, that dwelleth at thy right hand, is Sodom, and her daughters. Yet hast thou not walked after their ways, nor done after their abominations: but as it had been a very little thing, thou wast corrupted more then they in all thy ways. As I live, saith the Lord God, Sodom thy sister hath not done, neither she nor her daughters, as thou hast done and thy daughters. Behold, this was the iniquity of thy sister Sodom, Pride, fullness of bread, and abundance of idleness was in her, and in her daughters: neither did she strengthen the hand of the poor and needy. But they were haughty, and committed abomination before me: therefore I took them away, as pleased me. Neither hath Samaria committed half of thy sins, but thou hast exceeded them in thine abominations, and hast justified thy sisters in all thine abominations, which thou hast done. Therefore thou which hast justified thy sisters, bear thine own shame for thy sins, that thou hast committed more abominable then they which are more righteous then thou art: be thou therefore confounded also, and bear thy shame, seeing that thou hast justified thy sisters. Therefore I will bring again their captivity with the captivity of Sodom, and her daughters, and with the captivity of Samaria, and her daughters: even the captivity of thy captives in the midst of them, that thou mayest bear thine own shame, and mayest be confounded in all that thou hast done, in that thou hast comforted them. And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former state: Samaria also and her daughters shall return to their former state, when thou and thy daughters shall return to your former state. For thy sister Sodom was not heard of by thy report in the day of thy pride, before thy wickedness was discovered, as in that same time of the reproach of the daughters of Aram, and of all the daughters of the Philistims round about her which despise thee on all sides. Thou hast borne therefore thy wickedness and thine abomination, saith the Lord. For thus saith the Lord God, I might even deal with thee, as thou hast done: when thou didst despise the oath, in breaking the covenant. Nevertheless, I will remember my covenant made with thee in ye days of thy youth, and I will confirm unto thee an everlasting covenant. Then thou shalt remember thy ways, and be ashamed, when thou shalt receive thy sisters, both thy elder & thy younger, and I will give them unto thee for daughters, but not by thy covenant. And I will establish my covenant with thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, that thou mayest remember, and be ashamed, & never open thy mouth any more: because of thy shame when I am pacified toward thee, for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, put forth a parable and speak a proverb unto the house of Israel, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, The great eagle with great wings, and long wings, and full of feathers, which had divers colours, came unto Lebanon, & took the highest branch of the cedar, and brake off the top of his twig, and carried it into the land of merchants, and set it in a city of merchants. He took also of the seed of the land, and planted it in a fruitful ground: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tree. And it budded up, and was like a spreading vine of low stature, whose branches turned toward it, and the roots thereof were under it: so it became a vine, and it brought forth branches, and shot forth buds. There was also another great eagle with great wings and many feathers, and behold, this vine did turn her roots toward it, & spread forth her branches toward it, that she might water it by the trenches of her plantation. It was planted in a good soil by great waters, that it should bring forth branches, and bear fruit, and be an excellent vine. Say thou, Thus saith the Lord God, Shall it prosper? shall he not pull up the roots thereof, and destroy the fruit thereof, and cause them to dry? all the leaves of her bud shall wither without great power, or many people, to pluck it up by the roots thereof. Behold, it was planted: but shall it prosper? shall it not be dried up, and wither? when the East wind shall touch it, it shall wither in the trenches, where it grew.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Say now to this rebellious house, Know ye not, what these things mean? tell them, Behold, the King of Babel is come to Jerusalem, and hath taken the King thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel, and hath taken one of the King's seed, and made a covenant with him, & hath taken an oath of him: he hath also taken the princes of the land, that the kingdom might be in subjection, and not lift itself up, but keep their covenant, and stand to it. But he rebelled against him, and sent his ambassadours into Egypt, that they might give him horses, and much people: shall he prosper? shall he escape, that doth such things? or shall he break the covenant, and be delivered? As I live, saith the Lord God, he shall die in the midst of Babel, in the place of the King, that had made him King, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant made with him, he brake. Neither shall Pharaoh with his mighty host, and great multitude of people, maintain him in the war, when they have cast up mounts, and builded ramparts to destroy many persons. For he hath despised the oath, and broken ye covenant (yet lo, he had given his hand) because he hath done all these things, he shall not escape. Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, As I live, I will surely bring mine oath that he hath despised, and my covenant that he hath broken upon his own head. And I will spread my net upon him, & he shall be taken in my net, & I will bring him to Babel, and will enter into judgment with him there for his trespass that he hath committed against me. And all that flee from him with all his host, shall fall by the sword, & they that remain, shall be scattered toward all the winds: and ye shall know that I the Lord have spoken it.

Thus saith the Lord God, I will also take off the top of this high cedar, and will set it, and cut off the top of the tender plant thereof, and I will plant it upon an high mountain and great. Even in the high mountain of Israel will I plant it: and it shall bring forth boughs & bear fruit, and be an excellent cedar, and under it shall remain all birds, and every fowl shall dwell in the shadow of the branches thereof. And all the trees of the field shall know that I the Lord have brought down the high tree, and exalted the low tree, that I have dried up the green tree, and made the dry tree to flourish: I the Lord have spoken it, and have done it.

The word of the Lord came unto me again, saying, What mean ye that ye speak this proverb, concerning the land of Israel, saying, The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge? As I live, saith the Lord God, ye shall use this proverb no more in Israel. Behold, all souls are mine, both the soul of the father, and also the soul of the son are mine: the soul that sinneth, it shall die. But if a man be just, and do that which is lawful, and right, and hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, neither hath defiled his neighbour's wife, neither hath lain with a menstruous woman, neither hath oppressed any, but hath restored the pledge to his detour: he that hath spoiled none by violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment, and hath not given forth upon usury, neither hath taken any increase, but hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity, and hath executed true judgment between man and man, and hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my judgments to deal truly, he is just, he shall surely live, saith the Lord God. If he beget a son, that is a thief, or a sheader of blood, if he do any one of these things, though he do not all these things, but either hath eaten upon the mountains, or defiled his neighbour's wife, or hath oppressed the poor and needy, or hath spoiled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lift up his eyes unto the idols, or hath committed abomination, or hath given forth upon usury, or hath taken increase, shall he live? he shall not live: seeing he hath done all these abominations, he shall die the death, and his blood shall be upon him. But if he beget a son, that seeth all his father's sins, which he hath done, and feareth, neither doth such like, that hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lift up his eyes to the idols of ye house of Israel, nor hath defiled his neighbour's wife, neither hath oppressed any, nor hath withholden the pledge, neither hath spoiled by violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment, neither hath withdrawn his hand from the afflicted, nor received usury nor increase, but hath executed my judgments, and hath walked in my statutes, he shall not die in the iniquity of his father, but he shall surely live. His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoiled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, lo, even he dyeth in his iniquity. Yet say ye, Wherefore shall not the son bear the iniquity of the father? because ye son hath executed judgment & justice, and hath kept all my statutes, and done them, he shall surely live, the same soul that sinneth, shall die: the son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son, but the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself. But if the wicked will return from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful & right, he shall surely live, and shall not die. All his transgressions that he hath committed, they shall not be mentioned unto him, but in his righteousness that he hath done, he shall live. Have I any desire that the wicked should die, saith the Lord God? or shall he not live, if he return from his ways? But if the righteous turn away from his righteousness, & commit iniquity, and do according to all the abominations, that the wicked man doth, shall he live? all his righteousness that he hath done, shall not be mentioned: but in his transgression that he hath committed, and in his sin that he hath sinned, in them shall he die. Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal: hear now, O house of Israel. Is not my way equal? or are not your ways unequal? For when a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die for the same, he shall even die for his iniquity, that he hath done. Again when the wicked turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive. Because he considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live and shall not die. Yet saith ye house of Israel, The way of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my ways equal? or are not your ways unequal? Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, saith the Lord God: return therefore and cause others to turn away from all your transgressions: so iniquity shall not be your destruction. Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed, and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel? For I desire not the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: cause therefore one another to return, and live ye.

Thou also, take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, and say, Wherefore lay thy mother as a lioness among the lions? she nourished her young ones among the lions whelps, and she brought up one of her whelps, and it became a lion, and it learned to catch the prey, and it devoured men. The nations also heard of him, and he was taken in their nets, and they brought him in chains unto the land of Egypt. Now when she saw, that she had waited and her hope was lost, she took another of her whelps, and made him a lion. Which went among the lions, and became a lion, and learned to catch the prey, and he devoured men. And he knew their widows, & he destroyed their cities, and the land was wasted, and all that was therein by the noise of his roaring. Then the nations set against him on every side of the countries, and laid their nets for him: so he was taken in their pit. And they put him in prison and in chains, and brought him to the King of Babel, and they put him in holds, that his voice should no more be heard upon the mountains of Israel. Thy mother is like a vine in thy blood, planted by the waters: she brought forth fruit and branches by the abundant waters, and she had strong rods for the scepters of them that bear rule, and her stature was exalted among the branches, and she appeared in her height with the multitude of her branches. But she was plucked up in wrath: she was cast down to the ground, & the East wind dried up her fruit: her branches were broken, & withered: as for the rod of her strength, the fire consumed it. And now she is planted in the wilderness in a dry and thirsty ground. And fire is gone out of a rod of her branches, which hath devoured her fruit, so that she hath no strong rod to be a scepter to rule: this is a lamentation and shall be for a lamentation.

And in the seventh year, in the fifth month, the tenth day of the month, came certain of the elders of Israel to inquire of the Lord, and sat before me. Then came the word of the Lord unto me, saying, Son of man, speak unto the Elders of Israel, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye come to inquire of me? As I live, saith the Lord God, when I am asked, I will not answer you. Wilt thou judge them, son of man? Wilt thou judge them? cause them to understand the abominations of their fathers, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when I chose Israel, and lift up mine hand unto the seed of the house of Jaakob, and made my self known unto them in the land of Egypt, when I lift up mine hand unto them, and said, I am the Lord your God, in the day that I lift up mine hand unto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had provided for them, flowing with milk & honey which is pleasant among all lands, then said I unto them, Let every man cast away the abominations of his eyes, and defile not yourselves with the idols of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God. But they rebelled against me, & would not hear me: for none cast away the abominations of their eyes, neither did they forsake the idols of Egypt: then I thought to power out mine indignation upon them, & to accomplish my wrath against them in the midst of the land of Egypt. But I had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, among whom they were, & in whose sight I made my self known unto them in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt. Now I carried them out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness. And I gave them my statutes, and declared my judgments unto them, which if a man do, he shall live in them. Moreover I gave them also my Sabbaths to be a sign between me & them, that they might know that I am the Lord, that sanctify them. But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast away my judgments, which if a man do, he shall live in them, and my Sabbaths have they greatly polluted: then I thought to pour out mine indignation upon them in the wilderness to consume them, but I had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen in whose sight I brought them out. Yet nevertheless, I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderness that I would not bring them into the land, which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, which was pleasant above all lands, because they cast away my judgments, and walked not in my statutes, but have polluted my Sabbaths: for their heart went after their idols. Nevertheless, mine eye spared them, that I would not destroy them, neither would I consume them in the wilderness. But I said unto their children in the wilderness, Walk ye not in the ordinances of your fathers, neither observe their manners, nor defile yourselves with their idols. I am the Lord your God: walk in my statutes, and keep my judgments and do them, and sanctify my Sabbaths, and they shall be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God. Notwithstanding the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, nor kept my judgments to do them, which if a man do, he shall live in them, but they polluted my Sabbaths: then I thought to power out mine indignation upon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the wilderness. Nevertheless I withdrew mine hand & had respect to my Name that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them forth. Yet I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the heathen, & disperse them through the countries, because they had not executed my judgments, but had cast away my statutes and had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers' idols. Wherefore I gave them also statutes that were not good, and judgments, wherein they should not live. And I polluted them in their own gifts in that they caused to pass by the fire all that first openeth ye womb, that I might destroy them, to the end, that they might know that I am ye Lord.

Therefore, son of man, speak unto the house of Israel, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Yet in this your fathers have blasphemed me, though they had before grievously transgressed against me. For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then they saw every high hill, and all the thick trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented their offering of provocation: there also they made their sweet savour, and poured out there their drink offerings. Then I said unto them, What is the high place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof was called Bamah unto this day. Wherefore, say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye not polluted after the manner of your fathers? and commit ye not whoredom after their abominations? For when you offer your gifts, and make your sons to pass through the fire, you pollute yourselves with all your idols unto this day: shall I answer you when I am asked, O house of Israel? As I live, saith the Lord God, I will not answer you when I am asked. Neither shall that be done that cometh into your mind: for ye say, We will be as the heathen, and as the families of the countries, and serve wood, and stone. As I live, saith the Lord God, I will surely rule you with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arm, and in my wrath poured out, and will bring you from the people, and will gather you out of the countries, wherein ye are scattered, with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arm, and in my wrath poured out, and I will bring you into the wilderness of the people, and there will I plead with you face to face. Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord God. And I will cause you to pass under the rod, and will bring you into the bond of the covenant. And I will choose out from among you the rebels, and them that transgress against me: I will bring them out of the land where they dwell, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel, and you shall know that I am the Lord. As for you, O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God, Go you, and serve every one his idol, seeing that ye will not obey me, and pollute mine holy Name no more with your gifts and with your idols. For in mine holy mountain, even in the high mountain of Israel, saith the Lord God, there shall all the house of Israel, and all in the land, serve me: there will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings and the first fruits of your oblations, with all your holy things. I will accept your sweet savour, when I bring you from the people, and gather you out of the countries, wherein ye have been scattered, that I may be sanctified in you before ye heathen. And ye shall know, that I am the Lord, when I shall bring you into the land of Israel, into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to your fathers. And there shall ye remember your ways, and all your works, wherein ye have been defiled, and ye shall judge yourselves worthy to be cut off, for all your evils, that ye have committed. And ye shall know, that I am the Lord, when I have respect unto you for my Names sake, and not after your wicked ways, nor according to your corrupt works, O ye house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, set thy face toward the way of Teman, and drop thy word toward the South, and prophecy toward the forest of the field of the South, and say to the forest of the South, Hear the word of the Lord: thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, and it shall devour all the green wood in thee, and all the dry wood: the continual flame shall not be quenched, and every face from the South to the North shall be burnt therein. And all flesh shall see, that I the Lord have kindled it, and it shall not be quenched. Then said I, Ah Lord God, they say of me, Doth not he speak parables?

The word of ye Lord came to me again, saying, Son of man, set thy face toward Jerusalem, and drop thy word toward the holy places, and prophecy against the land of Israel. And say to the land of Israel, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I come against thee, and will draw my sword out of his sheath, and cut off from thee both the righteous and the wicked. Seeing then that I will cut off from thee both the righteous and wicked, therefore shall my sword go out of his sheath against all flesh from the South to the North, that all flesh may know that I the Lord have drawn my sword out of his sheath, and it shall not return any more. Mourn therefore, thou son of man, as in the pain of thy reigns, and mourn bitterly before them. And if they say unto thee, Wherefore mournest thou? then answer, Because of the bruit: for it cometh, and every heart shall melt, and all hands shall be weak, and all minds shall faint, and all knees shall fall away as water: behold, it cometh, and shall be done, saith the Lord God.

Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, prophecy, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, say, A sword, a sword both sharp, and furbished. It is sharpened to make a sore slaughter, and it is furbished that it may glitter: how shall we rejoice? for it condemneth the rod of my son, as all other trees. And he hath given it to be furbished, that he may handle it: this sword is sharp, & is furbished, that he may give it into ye hand of the slayer. Cry, and howl, son of man: for this shall come to my people, and it shall come unto all the princes of Israel: the terrours of the sword shall be upon my people: smite therefore upon thy thigh. For it is a trial, and what shall this be, if the sword condemn even the rod? It shall be no more, saith the Lord God. Thou therefore, son of man, prophecy, and smite hand to hand, and let the sword be doubled: let the sword that hath killed, return the third time: it is the sword of the great slaughter entering into their privy chambers. I have brought the fear of the sword into all their gates to make their heart to faint, and to multiply their ruins. Ah it is made bright, and it is dressed for the slaughter. Get thee alone: go to the right hand, or get thy self to the left hand, whithersoever thy face turneth. I will also smite mine hands together, & will cause my wrath to cease. I the Lord have said it.

The word of the Lord came unto me again, saying, Also thou son of man, appoint thee two ways, that the sword of the King of Babel may come: both twain shall come out of one land, and choose a place, and choose it in the corner of the way of the city. Appoint a way, that the sword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and to Judah in Jerusalem the strong city . And the King of Babel stood at the parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, consulting by divination, and made his arrows bright: he consulted with idols, and looked in the liver. At his right hand was the divination for Jerusalem to appoint captains, to open their mouth in the slaughter, and to lift up their voice with shouting, to lay engines of war against the gates, to cast a mount, and to build a fortress. And it shall be unto them as a false divination in their sight for the oaths made unto them: but he will call to remembrance their iniquity, to the intent they should be taken. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye have made your iniquity to be remembered, in discovering your rebellion, that in all your works your sins might appear: because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken with the hand. And thou prince of Israel polluted, and wicked, whose day is come, when iniquity shall have an end, thus saith the Lord God, I will take away the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall be no more the same: I will exalt the humble, and will abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn it, and it shall be no more until he come, whose right it is, and I will give it him. And thou, son of man, prophecy, and say, Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemy: say thou, I say, The sword, the sword is drawn forth, and furbished to the slaughter, to consume, because of the glittering: Whiles they see vanity unto thee, & prophesied a lie unto thee to bring thee upon the necks of the wicked that are slain, whose day is come when their iniquity shall have an end. Shall I cause it to return into his sheath? I will judge thee in the place where thou wast created, even in the land of thine habitation. And I will power out mine indignation upon thee, and will blow against thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliver thee into the hand of beastly men, and skillful to destroy. Thou shalt be in the fire to be devoured: thy blood shall be in the midst of the land, and thou shalt be no more remembered: for I the Lord have spoken it.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Now thou son of man, wilt thou judge, wilt thou judge this bloody city? wilt thou shew her all her abominations? Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The city sheddeth blood in the midst of it, that her time may come, and maketh idols against herself to pollute her self. Thou hast offended in thy blood, that thou hast shed, & hast polluted thyself in thine idols, which thou hast made, and thou hast caused thy days to draw near, & art come unto thy term: therefore have I made thee a reproach to the heathen, and a mocking to all countries. Those that be near, & those that be far from thee, shall mock thee, which art vile in name and sore in affliction. Behold, the princes of Israel every one in thee was ready to his power, to shed blood. In thee have they despised father and mother: in the midst of thee have they oppressed the stranger: in thee have they vexed the fatherless and the widow. Thou hast despised mine holy things, and hast polluted my Sabbaths. In thee are men that carry tales to shed blood: in thee are they that eat upon the mountains: in ye midst of thee they commit abomination. In thee have they discovered their fathers shame: in thee have they vexed her that was polluted in her flowers. And every one hath committed abomination with his neighbour's wife, and every one hath wickedly defiled his daughter-in-law, and in thee hath every man forced his own sister, even his father's daughter. In thee have they taken gifts to shed blood: thou hast taken usurie and the increase, and thou hast defrauded thy neighbours by extortion, & hast forgotten me, saith the Lord God. Behold, therefore I have smitten mine hands upon thy covetousness, that thou hast used, and upon the blood, which hath been in the midst of thee. Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands be strong, in the days that I shall have to do with thee? I the Lord have spoken it, and will do it. And I will scatter thee among the heathen, and disperse thee in the countries, and will cause thy filthiness to cease from thee. And thou shalt take thine inheritance in thyself in the sight of the heathen, & thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, the house of Israel is unto me as dross: all they are brass, and tin, and iron, and lead in the midst of the furnace:

they are even the dross of silver. Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Because ye are all as dross, behold, therefore I will gather you in the midst of Jerusalem. As they gather silver and brass, and iron, and lead, and tin into the midst of the furnace, to blow the fire upon it to melt it, so will I gather you in mine anger and in my wrath, and will put you there and melt you. I will gather you, I say, and blow the fire of my wrath upon you, and you shall be melted in the midst thereof. As silver is melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall ye be melted in the midst thereof, and ye shall know, that I the Lord have poured out my wrath upon you.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, say unto her; Thou art the land, that is unclean, and not rained upon in the day of wrath. There is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof like a roaring lion, ravening the pray: they have devoured souls: they have taken the riches and precious things: they have made her many widows in the midst thereof. Her Priests have broken my Law, and have defiled mine holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and profane, neither discerned between the unclean, and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my Sabbaths, and I am profaned among them. Her princes in the midst thereof are like wolves, ravening the pray to shed blood, and to destroy souls for their own covetous lucre. And her prophets have daubed them with untempered mortar, seeing vanities, and divining lies unto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord God, when the Lord had not spoken. The people of the land have violently oppressed by spoiling and robbing, and have vexed the poor and the needy: yea, they have oppressed the stranger against right. And I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it, but I found none. Therefore have I poured out mine indignation upon them, and consumed them with the fire of my wrath: their own ways have I rendered upon their heads, saith the Lord God.

The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Son of man, there were two women, the daughters of one mother. And they committed fornication in Egypt, they committed fornication in their youth: there were their breasts pressed, and there they bruised the teats of their virginity. And the names of them were Aholah the elder, & Aholibah her sister: and they were mine, and they bare sons and daughters: thus were their names. Samaria is Aholah, and Jerusalem Aholibah. And Aholah played the harlot when she was mine, and she was set on fire with her lovers, to wit, with the Assyrians her neighbours, which were clothed with blue silk, both captains and princes: they were all pleasant young men, and horsemen riding upon horses. Thus she committed her whoredom with them, even with all them that were the chosen men of Asshur, and with all on whom she doted, and defiled herself with all their idols. Neither left she her fornications, learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth they lay with her, and they bruised the breasts of her virginity, and poured their whoredom upon her. Wherefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, even into the hands of the Assyrians, upon whom she doted. These discovered her shame: they took away her sons and her daughters, and slew her with the sword, and she had an evil name among women: for they had executed judgment upon her. And when her sister Aholibah saw this, she marred herself with inordinate love, more then she, and with her fornications more then her sister with her fornications. She doted upon the Assyrians her neighbours, both captains and princes clothed with divers suits, horsemen riding upon horses: they were all pleasant young men.

Then I saw that she was defiled, and that they were both after one sort, and that she increased her fornications: for when she saw men painted upon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermelon, and girded with girdles upon their loins, and with dyed attire upon their heads (looking all like princes after the manner of the Babylonians in Caldea, the land of their nativity). As soon, I say, as she saw them, she doted upon them, and sent messengers unto them into Caldea. Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, they defiled her with their fornication, and she was polluted with them, and her lust departed from them. So she discovered her fornication, and disclosed her shame: then mine heart forsook her, like as mine heart had forsaken her sister. Yet she increased her whoredom more, and called to remembrance ye days of her youth, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt. For she doted upon their servants whose members are as the members of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses. Thou calledst to remembrance the wickedness of thy youth, when thy teats were bruised by ye Egyptians: therefore ye paps of thy youth are thus.

Therefore, O Aholibah, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will raise up thy lovers against thee, from whom thine heart is departed, and I will bring them against thee on every side, to wit, the Babylonians, and all the Caldeans, Peked, and Shoah, and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them: they were all pleasant young men, captains and princes: all they were valiant and renowned, riding upon horses. Even these shall come against thee with chariots, wagons, and wheels, and with a multitude of people, which shall set against thee, buckler and shield, and helmet round about: and I will leave the punishment unto them, and they shall judge thee according to their judgments. And I will lay mine indignation upon thee, and they shall deal cruelly with thee: they shall cut off thy nose and thine ears, and thy remnant shall fall by the sword: they shall carry away thy sons and thy daughters, and thy residue shall be devoured by the fire. They shall also strip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy fair jewels. Thus will I make thy wickedness to cease from thee and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them, nor remember Egypt any more. For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will deliver thee into the hand of them, whom thou hatest: even into the hands of them from whom thine heart is departed. And they shall handle thee despitefully, and shall take away all thy labour, and shall leave thee naked and bare, and the shame of thy fornications shall be discovered, both thy wickedness, and thy whoredom. I will do these things unto thee, because thou hast gone a whoring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idols. Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister: therefore will I give her cup into thine hand. Thus saith ye Lord God, Thou shalt drink of thy sisters cup, deep and large: thou shalt be laughed to scorn and had in derision, because it containeth much. Thou shalt be filled with drunkenness and sorrow, even with the cup of destruction, and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria. Thou shalt even drink it, and wring it out to the dregges, and thou shalt break the sheards thereof, and tear thine own breasts: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten me, and cast me behind thy back, therefore thou shalt also bear thy wickedness and thy whoredom.

The Lord said moreover unto me, Son of man, wilt thou judge Aholah & Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations? For they have played the whores, and blood is in their hands, and with their idols have they committed adultery, and have also caused their sons, whom they bare unto me, to pass by the fire to be their meat. Moreover, thus have they done unto me: they have defiled my Sanctuary in the same day, and have profaned my Sabbaths. For when they had slain their children to their idols, they came the same day into my Sanctuary to defile it: and lo, thus have they done in the midst of mine house. And how much more is it that they sent for men to come from far unto whom a messenger was sent, and lo, they came? for whom thou didst wash thy self, and paintedst thine eyes, and deckedst thee with ornaments, and sattest upon a costly bed, and a table prepared before it, whereupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oil. And a voice of a multitude being at ease, was with her: and with the men to make the company great were brought men of Saba from the wilderness, which put bracelets upon their hands, and beautiful crowns upon their heads. Then I said unto her, that was old in adulteries, Now shall she and her fornications come to an end. And they went in unto her as they go to a common harlot: so went they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women. And ye righteous men they shall judge them, after the manner of harlots, and after the manner of murderers: for they are harlots, and blood is in their hands. Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I will bring a multitude upon them, and will give them unto the tumult, and to the spoil, and the multitude shall stone them with stones, and cut them with their swords: they shall slay their sons, and their daughters, and burn up their houses with fire. Thus will I cause wickedness to cease out of the land, that all women may be taught not to do after your wickedness. And they shall lay your wickedness upon you, and ye shall bear the sins of your idols, and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

Again in the ninth year, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying, Son of man, write thee the name of the day, even of this same day: for the King of Babel set himself against Jerusalem this same day. Therefore speak a parable unto the rebellious house, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a pot, prepare it, and also pour water into it. Gather the pieces thereof into it, even every good piece, as the thigh and the shoulder, and fill it with the chief bones. Take one of the best sheep, and burn also the bones under it, and make it boil well, and seethe the bones of it therein, because the Lord God saith thus, Woe to the bloody city, even to the pot, whose skin is therein, & whose skin is not gone out of it: bring it out piece by piece: let no lot fall upon it. For her blood is in the midst of her: she set it upon an high rock, and poured it not upon on the ground to cover it with dust, that it might cause wrath to arise, & take vengeance: even I have set her blood upon an high rock that it should not be covered. Therefore thus saith ye Lord God, Woe to the bloody city, for I will make ye burning great. Heap on much wood: kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt. Then set it empty upon the coals thereof, that the brass of it may be hot, and may burn, and that the filthiness of it may be molten in it, and that the skin of it may be consumed. She hath wearied her self with lies, and her great skin went not out of her: therefore her skin shall be consumed with fire. Thou remainest in thy filthiness and wickedness: because I would have purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged from thy filthiness, till I have caused my wrath to light upon thee. I the Lord have spoken it: it shall come to pass, and I will do it: I will not go back, neither will I spare, neither will I repent: according to thy ways, & according to thy works shall they judge thee, saith the Lord God.

Also the word of ye Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man behold, I take away from thee the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou neither mourn nor weep, neither shall thy tears run down. Cease from sighing: make no mourning for the dead, and bind the tire of thine head upon thee, and put on thy shoes upon thy feet, and cover not thy lips, and eat not the bread of men. So I spake unto the people in the morning, and at even my wife died: and I did in the morning, as I was commanded.

And the people said unto me, Wilt thou not tell us what these things mean toward us that thou doest so? Then I answered them, The word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Speak unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will pollute my Sanctuary, even the pride of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your hearts desire, and your sons, and your daughters whom ye have left, shall fall by the sword. And ye shall do as I have done: ye shall not cover your lips, neither shall ye eat the bread of men. And your tire shall be upon your heads, and your shoes upon your feet: ye shall not mourn nor weep, but ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourn one toward another. Thus Ezekiel is unto you a sign: according to all that he hath done, ye shall do: and when this cometh, ye shall know that I am the Lord God. Also, thou son of man, shall it not be in the day when I take from them their power, ye joy of their honor, ye pleasure of their eyes, & the desire of their heart, their sons & their daughters? That he that escapeth in that day, shall come unto thee to tell thee that which he hath heard with his ears? In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speak, and be no more dumb, & thou shalt be a sign unto them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Son of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophecy against them, and say unto the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saidst, Ha, ha, against my Sanctuary, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel, when it was desolate, and against the house of Judah, when they went into captivity, behold, therefore I will deliver thee to the men of the East for a possession, and they shall set their palaces in thee, & make their dwellings in thee: they shall eat thy fruit, and they shall drink thy milk. And I will make Rabbah a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a sheepcoat, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped the hands, and stamped with the feet, and rejoiced in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel, behold, therefore I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and will deliver thee to be spoiled of the heathen, and I will root thee out from the people, and I will cause thee to be destroyed out of the countries, and I will destroy thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Moab and Seir do say, Behold, the house of Judah is like unto all the heathen, therefore, behold, I will open the side of Moab, even of the cities of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant country, Beth-ieshimoth, Baal-meon, and Karia-thaim. I will call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and will give them in possession, so that the Ammonites shall no more be remembered among the nations, and I will execute judgments upon Moab, and they shall know that I am the Lord. Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edom hath done evil by taking vengeance upon the house of Judah, and hath committed great offense, and revenged himself upon them, therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will also stretch out mine hand upon Edom, and destroy man and beast out of it, and I will make it desolate from Teman, and they of Dedan shall fall by the sword. And I will execute my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to mine anger, and according to mine indignation, & they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord God. Thus saith the Lord God, Because the Philistims have executed vengeance, and revenged themselves with a spiteful heart, to destroy it for the old hatred, therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will stretch out mine hand upon the Philistims, and I will cut off the Cherethims, and destroy the remnant of the sea coast. And I will execute great vengeance upon them with rebukes of mine indignation, and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

And in the eleventh year, in the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Jerusalem, Aha, the gate of the people is broken: it is turned unto me: for seeing she is desolate, I shall be replenished, therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I will bring up many nations against thee, as the sea mounteth up with his waves. And they shall destroy the walls of Tyrus and break down her towers: I will also scrape her dust from her, & make her like the top of a rock. Thou shalt be for the spreading of nets in the midst of the sea: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God, and it shall be a spoil to ye nations. And her daughters which are in the field, shall be slain by the sword, and they shall know that I am the Lord. For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring upon Tyrus Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, a King of kings from the North, with horses and with chariots, and with horsemen, with a multitude and much people. He shall slay with the sword thy daughters in the field, and he shall make a fort against thee, and cast a mount against thee, and lift up the buckler against thee. He shall set engines of war before him against thy walls, and with his weapons break down thy towers. The dust of his horses shall cover thee, for their multitude: thy walls shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheels, and of the chariots, when he shall enter into thy gates as into the entry of a city that is broken down. With the hooves of his horses shall he tread down all thy streets: he shall slay thy people by the sword, and the pillars of thy strength shall fall down to the ground. And they shall rob thy riches, and spoil thy merchandise, and they shall break down thy walls, and destroy thy pleasant houses, and they shall cast thy stones and thy timber and thy dust into the midst of the water. Thus will I cause the sound of thy songs to cease, and the sound of thine harps shall be no more heard. I will lay thee like the top of a rock: thou shalt be for a spreading of nets: thou shalt be built no more: for I the Lord have spoken it, saith the Lord God. Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shall not the isles tremble at the sound of thy fall? and at the cry of the wounded, when they shall be slain and murdered in the midst of thee? Then all the princes of the sea shall come down from their thrones: they shall lay away their robes, and put off their brodered garments, and shall clothe themselves with astonishment: they shall sit upon the ground, and be astonished at every moment, and be amazed at thee. And they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and say to thee, Howe art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited of the sea men, the renowned city which was strong in the sea, both she and her inhabitants, which cause their fear to be on all that haunt therein! Now shall the isles be astonished in the day of thy fall: yea, the isles that are in the sea, shall be troubled at thy departure. For thus saith the Lord God, When I shall make thee a desolate city, like ye cities that are not inhabited, and when I shall bring the deep upon thee, and great waters shall cover thee, when I shall cast thee down with them that descend into the pit, with the people of old time, and shall set thee in the low parts of the earth, like the old ruins, with them, I say, which go down to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shall shew my glory in the land of the living, I will bring thee to nothing, & thou shalt be no more: though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou never be found again, saith the Lord God.

The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Son of man, take up a lamentation for Tyrus, and say unto Tyrus, that is situate at the entry of the sea, which is the mart of the people for many isles, Thus saith the Lord God, O Tyrus, thou hast said, I am of perfect beauty. Thy borders are in the midst of the sea, and thy builders have made thee of perfect beauty. They have made all thy ship boards of fir trees of Shenir: they have brought cedars from Lebanon, to make masts for thee. Of ye oaks of Bashan have they made thine ores: the company of the Assyrians have made thy banks of yuorie, brought out of ye isles of Chittim. Fine linen with broidered work, brought from Egypt, was spread over thee to be thy sail, blue silk and purple, brought from the isles of Elishah, was thy covering. The inhabitants of Zidon, and Aruad were thy mariners, O Tyrus: thy wise men that were in thee, they were thy pilots. The ancients of Gebal, and the wise men thereof were in thee thy calkers, all the ships of the sea with their mariners were in thee to occupy thy merchandise. They of Persia, and of Lud & of Phut were in thine army: thy men of war they hanged the shield and helmet in thee: they set forth thy beauty. The men of Aruad with thine army were upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadims were in thy towers: they hanged their shields upon thy walls round about: they have made thy beauty perfect. They of Tarshish were thy merchants for the multitude of all riches, for silver, iron, tin, and lead, which they brought to thy fairs. They of Jauan, Tubal and Meshech were thy merchants, concerning the lives of men, and they brought vessels of brass for thy merchandise. They of the house of Togarmah brought to thy fairs horses, and horsemen, and mules. The men of Dedan were thy merchants: and the merchandise of many isles were in thine hands: they brought thee for a present horns, teeth, and peacocks. They of Aram were thy merchants for the multitude of thy wares: they occupied in thy fairs with emeralds, purple, & broidred work, and fine linen, and coral, and pearl. They of Judah & of the land of Israel were thy merchants: they brought for thy merchandise wheat of Minnith, and Pannag, and honey and oil, and balm. They of Damascus were thy merchants in ye multitude of thy wares, for the multitude of all riches, as in the wine of Helbon and white wool. They of Dan also and of Jauan, going to and from, occupied in thy fairs: iron work, cassia and calamus were among thy merchandise. They of Dedan were thy merchants in precious clothes for the chariots. They of Arabia, and all the princes of Kedar occupied with thee, in lambs, and rams and goats: in these were they thy merchants. The merchants of Sheba, and Raamah were thy : they occupied in thy fairs with the chief of all spices, and with all precious stones and gold. They of Haram and Canneh and Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Asshur and Chilmad were thy merchants. These were thy merchants in all sorts of things, in raiment of blue silk, and of broidred work, and in coffers for the rich apparel, which were bound with cords: chains also were among thy merchandise. The ships of Tarshish were thy chief in thy merchandise, and thou wast replenished and made very glorious in the midst of the sea. Thy robbers have brought thee into great waters: the East wind hath broken thee in the midst of the sea. Thy riches and thy fairs, thy merchandise, thy mariners and pilots, thy calkers, and the occupiers of thy merchandise & all thy men of war that are in thee, and all thy multitude which is in the midst of thee, shall fall in the midst of the sea in the day of thy ruin. The suburbs shall shake at the sound of the cry of thy pilots. And all that handle the ore, the mariners and all the pilots of the sea shall come down from their ships, and shall stand upon the land, and shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall cry bitterly, and shall cast dust upon their heads, & wallow themselves in the ashes. They shall pluck off their hear for thee & gird them with a sackcloth, and they shall weep for thee with sorrow of heart & bitter mourning. And in their mourning, they shall take up a lamentation for thee, saying, What city is like Tyrus, so destroyed in the midst of the sea! When thy wares went forth of the seas, thou filledst many people, & thou didst enrich the Kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches and of thy merchandise. When thou shalt be broken by ye seas in the depths of the waters, thy merchandise and all thy multitude, which was in the midst of thee, shall fall. All the inhabitants of the isles shall be astonished at thee, and all their Kings shall be sore afraid and troubled in their countenance. The merchants among the people shall hiss at thee: thou shalt be a terrour, and never shalt be any more.

The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Son of man, say unto the prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thine heart is exalted, & thou hast said, I am a God, I sit in the seat of God in ye midst of the sea, yet thou art but a man & not God, and though thou didst think in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God, behold, thou art wiser then Daniel: there is no secret, that they can hide from thee. With thy wisdom and thine understanding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasures. By thy great wisdom and by thine occupying hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up because of thy riches. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou didst think in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God, behold, therefore I will bring strangers upon thee, even the terrible nations: and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy brightness. They shall cast thee down to the pit, and thou shalt die the death of them, that are slain in the midst of the sea. Wilt thou say then before him, that slayeth thee, I am a god? but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hands of him that slayeth thee. Thou shalt die the death of the uncircumcised by the hands of strangers: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, take up a lamentation upon the King of Tyrus, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest up the sum, and art full of wisdom and perfect in beauty. Thou hast been in Eden the garden of God: every precious stone was in thy garment, the ruby, the topaz and the diamond, the chrysolite, the onyx, and the jasper, the sapphire, emerald, and the carbuncle and gold: the workmanship of thy timbrels, & of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created. Thou art the anointed Cherub, that covereth, and I have set thee in honour: thou wast upon the holy mountain of God: thou hast walked in the midst of the stones of fire. Thou wast perfect in thy ways from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee. By the multitude of thy merchandise, they have filled the midst of thee with cruelty, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as profane out of the mountain of God: and I will destroy thee, O covering Cherub from the midst of the stones of fire. Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, and thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I will cast thee to ye ground: I will lay thee before Kings that they may behold thee. Thou hast defiled thy sanctification by the multitude of thine iniquities, & by the iniquity of thy merchandise: therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, which shall devour thee: and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth, in the sight of all them that behold thee. All they that know thee among the people, shall be astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terrour, and never shalt thou be any more.

Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophesy against it, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Zidon, and I will be glorified in the midst of thee: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have executed judgments in her, and shall be sanctified in her. For I will send into her pestilence, & blood into her streets, and the slain shall fall in the midst of her: the enemy shall come against her with the sword on every side, and they shall know that I am the Lord. And they shall be no more a pricking thorn unto the house of Israel, nor any grievous thorn of all that are round about them, and despised them, and they shall know that I am the Lord God. Thus saith the Lord God, When I shall have gathered the house of Israel from the people where they are scattered, and shall be sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in the land, that I have given to my servant Jaakob. And they shall dwell safely therein, & shall build houses, and plant vineyards: yea, they shall dwell safely, when I have executed judgments upon all round about them that despise them, and they shall know that I am the Lord their God.

In the tenth year, and in the tenth month in the twelfth day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh the King of Egypt, and prophecy against him, and against all Egypt. Speak, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, Pharaoh King of Egypt, the great dragon, that lieth in the midst of his rivers, which hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it for my self. But I will put hooks in thy chaws, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales, and I will draw thee out of the midst of thy rivers, and all the fish of thy rivers shall stick unto thy scales. And I will leave thee in the wilderness, both thee & all the fish of thy rivers: thou shalt fall upon ye open field: thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: for I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field, and to the fowls of heaven. And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the Lord, because they have been a staff of reed to the house of Israel. When they took hold of thee with their hand, thou didst break, & rent all their shoulder: & when they leaned upon thee, thou brakest and madest all their loins to stand upright. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring a sword upon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee, and the land of Egypt shall be desolate, and waste, & they shall know that I am ye Lord: because he hath said, The river is mine, & I have made it, behold, therefore I come upon thee, and upon thy rivers, & I will make the land of Egypt utterly waste and desolate from the tower of Seveneh, even unto the borders of the black Mores. No foot of man shall pass by it, nor foot of beast shall pass by it, neither shall it be inhabited forty years. And I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the countries, that are desolate, and her cities shall be desolate among the cities that are desolate, for forty years: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries. Yet thus saith the Lord God, At the end of forty years will I gather the Egyptians from the people, where they were scattered, and I will bring again the captivity of Egypt, and will cause them to return into the land of Pathros, into the land of their habitation, and they shall be there a small kingdom. It shall be the smallest of the kingdoms, neither shall it exalt itself any more above the nations: for I will diminish them, that they shall no more rule the nations. And it shall be no more the confidence of the house of Israel, to bring their iniquity to remembrance by looking after them, so shall they know, that I am the Lord God.

In the seven and twentieth year also in the first month, and in the first day of the month, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying, Son of man, Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel caused his army to serve a great service against Tyrus: every head was made bald, & every shoulder was made bare: yet had he no wages, nor his army for Tyrus, for the service that he served against it. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will give the land of Egypt unto Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel, and he shall take her multitude, and spoil her spoil, and take her prey, and it shall be the wages for his army. I have given him the land of Egypt for his labour, that he served against it, because they wrought for me, saith the Lord God. In that day will I cause the horn of the house of Israel to grow, and I will give thee an open mouth in the midst of them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Howl and cry, Woe be unto this day. For the day is near, & the day of the Lord is at hand, a cloudy day, and it shall be the time of the heathen. And the sword shall come upon Egypt, and fear shall be in Ethiopia, when the slain shall fall in Egypt, when they shall take away her multitude, and when her foundations shall be broken down. Ethiopia and Phut, and Lud, and all the common people, and Cub, and the men of the land, that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword. Thus saith the Lord, They also that maintain Egypt, shall fall, and the pride of her power shall come down: from the tower of Seveneh shall they fall by the sword, saith the Lord God. And they shall be desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities shall be in the midst of the cities that are wasted. And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have set a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers shall be destroyed. In that day shall their messengers go forth from me in ships, to make the careless Mores afraid, and fear shall come upon them, as in the day of Egypt: for lo, it cometh. Thus saith the Lord God, I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel. For he and his people with him, even the terrible nations shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall draw their swords against Egypt, and fill the land with the slain. And I will make the rivers dry, and fell the land into the hands of the wicked, and I will make the land waste, and all that therein is by the hands of strangers: I the Lord have spoken it. Thus saith the Lord God, I will also destroy the idols, and I will cause their idols to cease out of Noph, and there shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt, and I will send a fear in the land of Egypt. And I will make Pathros desolate, and will set fire in Zoan, and I will execute judgment in No. And I will pour my wrath upon Sin, which is the strength of Egypt: and I will destroy the multitude of No. And I will set fire in Egypt: Sin shall have great sorrow and No shall be destroyed, and Noph shall have sorrows daily. The young men of Aven, and of Phibeseth shall fall by the sword: and these cities shall go into captivity. At Tehaphnehes the day shall restrain his light, when I shall break there the bars of Egypt: and when the pomp of her power shall cease in her, the cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall go into captivity. Thus will I execute judgments in Egypt, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

And in the eleventh year, in the first month, and in the seventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh King of Egypt: and lo, it shall not be bound up to be healed, neither shall they put a rule to bind it, & so make it strong, to hold the sword. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against Pharaoh King of Egypt, and will break his arm, that was strong, but is broken, and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand. And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries. And I will strengthen the arm of the King of Babel, and put my sword in his hand, but I will break Pharaoh's arms, and he shall cast out sighings, as the sighings of him, that is wounded before him. But I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babel, and the arms of Pharaoh shall fall down, and they shall know, that I am the Lord, when I shall put my sword into the hand of the King of Babel, and he shall stretch it out upon the land of Egypt. And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, & disperse them among ye countries, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

And in the eleventh year, in the third month, and in the first day of the month the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, speak unto Pharaoh King of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whom art thou like in thy greatness? Behold, Asshur was like a cedar in Lebanon with fair branches, & with thick shadowing boughs, and shot up very high, and his top was among the thick boughs. The waters nourished him, and the deep exalted him on high with her rivers running round about his plants, and sent out her little rivers unto all the trees of the field. Therefore his height was exalted above all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the deep sent out. All the fowls of the heaven made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and under his shadow dwelt all mighty nations. Thus was he fair in his greatness, and in the length of his branches: for his root was near great waters. The cedars in the garden of God could not hide him: no fir tree was like his branches, and the chestnut trees were not like his boughs: all the trees in the garden of God were not like unto him in his beauty. I made him fair by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, envied him. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because he is lift up on high, and hath shot up his top among the thick boughs, and his heart is lift up in his height, I have therefore delivered him into the hands of the mightiest among the heathen: he shall handle him, for I have cast him away for his wickedness. And the strangers have destroyed him, even the terrible nations, and they have left him upon the mountains, and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughs are broken by all the rivers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadow, and have forsaken him. Upon his ruin shall all the fowls of the heaven remain, and all the beasts of the field shall be upon his branches, so that none of all the trees by the waters shall be exalted by their height, neither shall shoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither shall their leaves stand up in their height, which drink so much water: for they are all delivered unto death in the nether parts of the earth in the midst of the children of men among them that go down to the pit. Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when he went down to hell, I caused them to mourn, and I covered the deep for him, and I did restrain the floods thereof, and the great waters were stayed: I caused Lebanon to mourn for him, and all the trees of the field fainted. I made the nations to shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast him down to hell with them that descend into the pit, & all the excellent trees of Eden, and the best of Lebanon: even all that are nourished with waters, shall be comforted in the nether parts of the earth. They also went down to hell with him unto them that be slain with the sword, and his arm, and they that dwelt under his shadow in the midst of the heathen. To whom art thou thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? yet thou shalt be cast down with the trees of Eden unto the nether parts of the earth: thou shalt sleep in the midst of the uncircumcised, with them that be slain by the sword: this is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

And in the twelfth year in the twelfth month, and in the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharaoh King of Egypt, and say unto him, Thou art like a lion of the nations and art as a dragon in the sea: thou castedst out thy rivers and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and stampedst in their rivers. Thus saith the Lord God, I will therefore spread my net over thee with a great multitude of people, and they shall make thee come up into my net. Then will I leave thee upon the land, and I will cast thee upon the open field, and I will cause all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee, and I will fill all the beasts of the field with thee. And I will lay thy flesh upon the mountains, and fill the valleys with thine height. I will also water with thy blood the land wherein thou swimdest, even to ye mountains, and the rivers shall be full of thee. And when I shall put thee out, I will cover the heaven, and make the stars thereof dark: I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light. All the lights of heaven will I make dark for thee, and bring darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord God. I will also trouble the hearts of many people, when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations and upon the countries which thou hast not known. Yea, I will make many people amazed at thee, and their Kings shall be astonished with fear for thee, when I shall make my sword to glitter against their faces, and they shall be afraid at every moment: every man for his own life in the day of thy fall. For thus saith the Lord God, The sword of the King of Babel shall come upon thee. By the swords of the mighty will I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shall be terrible nations, and they shall destroy the pomp of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shall be consumed. I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from the great watersides, neither shall the foot of man trouble them any more, nor the hooves of beast trouble them. Then will I make their waters deep, and cause their rivers to run like oil, saith the Lord God. When I shall make the land of Egypt desolate, and the country with all that is therein, shall be laid waste: when I shall smite all them which dwell therein, then shall they know that I am ye Lord. This is the mourning wherewith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord God.

In the twelfth year also in the fifteenth day of the month, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying, Son of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and cast them down, even them and the daughters of the mighty nations unto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go down into the pit. Whom dost thou pass in beauty? go down and sleep with the uncircumcised. They shall fall in the midst of them that are slain by the sword: she is delivered to the sword: draw her down, and all her multitude. The most mighty & strong shall speak to him out of the midst of hell with them that help her: they are gone down and sleep with the uncircumcised that be slain by the sword. Asshur is there and all his company: their graves are about him: all they are slain and fallen by the sword. Whose graves are made in the side of the pit, and his multitude are round about his grave: all they are slain and fallen by the sword, which caused fear to be in the land of the living. There is Elam & all his multitude round about his grave: all they are slain and fallen by the sword which are gone down with the uncircumcised into the nether parts of the earth, which caused themselves to be feared in the land of the living, yet have they borne their shame with them that are gone down to the pit. They have made his bed in the midst of the slain with all his multitude: their graves are round about him: all these uncircumcised are slain by the sword: though they have caused their fear in the land of ye living, yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit: they are laid in the midst of them, that be slain. There is Meshech, Tubal, & all their multitude, their graves are round about them: all these uncircumcised were slain by the sword, though they caused their fear to be in ye land of the living. And they shall not lie with the valiant of the uncircumcised, that are fallen, which are gone down to the grave, with their weapons of war, & have laid their swords under their heads, but their iniquity shall be upon their bones: because they were the fear of the mighty in the land of the living. Yea, thou shalt be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised, and lie with them that are slain by the sword. There is Edom, his Kings, and all his princes, which with their strength are laid by them that were slain by the sword: they shall sleep with the uncircumcised, and with them that go down to the pit. There be all the princes of the North, with all the Zidonians, which are gone down with the slain, with their fear: they are ashamed of their strength, and the uncircumcised sleep with them that be slain by the sword, and bear their shame with them that go down to the pit. Pharaoh shall see them, and he shall be comforted over all his multitude: Pharaoh, and all his army shall be slain by the sword, saith the Lord God. For I have caused my fear to be in the land of the living: and he shall be laid in the midst of the uncircumcised with them, that are slain by the sword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, speak to the children of thy people, and say unto them, When I bring the sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man from among them, and make him their watchman, if when he seeth the sword come upon ye land, he blow the trumpet, & warn the people, then he that heareth the sound of the trumpet, and will not be warned, if the sword come, and take him away, his blood shall be upon his own head. For he heard the sound of the trumpet, and would not be admonished: therefore his blood shall be upon him: but he that receiveth warning, shall save his life. But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away for his iniquity, but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand. So thou, O son of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth, and admonish them from me. When I shall say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt die the death, if thou dost not speak, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked man shall die for his iniquity, but his blood will I require at thine hand. Nevertheless, If thou warn the wicked of his way, to turn from it, if he do not turn from his way, he shall die for his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul. Therefore, O thou son of man, speak unto the house of Israel, Thus ye speak and say, If our transgressions and our sins be upon us, and we are consumed because of them, how should we then live? Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way & live: turn you, turn you from your evil ways, for why will ye die, O ye house of Israel? Therefore thou son of man, say unto the children of thy people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickedness of the wicked shall cause him to fall therein, in the day that he returneth from his wickedness, neither shall the righteous live for his righteousness in the day that he sinneth. When I shall say unto the righteous, that he shall surely live, if he trust to his own righteousness, and commit iniquity, all his righteousness shall be no more remembered, but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he shall die for the same. Again when I shall say unto the wicked, thou shalt die the death, if he turn from his sin, and do that which is lawful and right, to wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, and give again that he had robbed, and walk in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity, he shall surely live, and not die. None of his sins that he hath committed, shall be mentioned unto him: because he hath done that, which is lawful, and right, he shall surely live. Yet the children of thy people say, The way of the Lord is not equal: but their own way is unequal. When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby. But if the wicked return from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby. Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I will judge you every one after his ways. Also in the twelfth year of our captivity, in the tenth month, and in the fifth day of the month, one that had escaped out of Jerusalem, came unto me, and said, The city is smitten. Now the hand of the Lord had been upon me in ye evening afore he that had escaped, came, and had opened my mouth until he came to me in the morning: and when he had opened my mouth, I was no more dumb. Again the word of the Lord came unto me, and said, Son of man, these that dwell in the desolate places of the land of Israel, talk and say, Abraham was but one, and he possessed the land: but we are many, therefore the land shall be given us in possession. Wherefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Ye eat with the blood, and lift up your eyes toward your idols, and shed blood: should ye then possess the land? Ye lean upon your swords: ye work abomination, and ye defile every one his neighbour's wife: should ye then possess the land? Say thus unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I live, so surely they that are in the desolate places, shall fall by the sword: and him that is in the open field, will I give unto the beasts to be devoured: and they that be in the forts and in the caves, shall die of the pestilence. For I will lay the land desolate and waste, and the pomp of her strength shall cease: and the mountains of Israel shall be desolate, and none shall pass through. Then shall they know that I am the Lord, when I have laid ye land desolate & waste, because of all their abominations, that they have committed. Also thou son of man, the children of thy people that talk of thee by the walls & in the doors of houses, and speak one to another, every one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, & hear what is the word that cometh from the Lord. For they come unto thee, as the people useth to come: and my people sit before thee, and hear thy words, but they will not do them: for with their mouths they make jests, and their heart goeth after their covetousness. And lo, thou art unto them, as a jesting song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can sing well: for they hear thy words, but they do them not. And when this cometh to pass (for lo, it will come) then shall they know, that a Prophet hath been among them.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy & say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God unto the shepherds, Woe be unto the shepherds of Israel, that feed themselves: should not the shepherds feed the flocks? Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool: ye kill them that are fed, but ye feed not the sheep. The weak have ye not strengthened: the sick have ye not healed, neither have ye bound up the broken, nor brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye sought that which was lost, but with cruelty, and with rigour have ye ruled them. And they were scattered without a shepherd: and when they were dispersed, they were devoured of all the beasts of the field. My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered through all the earth, and none did seek or search after them. Therefore ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord. As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my flock was spoiled, and my sheep were devoured of all the beasts of the field, having no shepherd, neither did my shepherds seek my sheep, but the shepherds fed themselves, and fed not my sheep, therefore, hear ye the word of the Lord, O ye shepherds. Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against the shepherds, and will require my sheep at their hands, and cause them to cease from feeding the sheep: neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more: for I will deliver my sheep from their mouths, and they shall no more devour them. For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will search my sheep, and seek them out. As a shepherd searcheth out his flock, when he hath been among his sheep that are scattered, so will I seek out my sheep and will deliver them out of all places, where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day, and I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel, by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country. I will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be: there shall they lie in a good fold and in fat pasture shall they feed upon the mountains of Israel. I will feed my sheep, and bring them to their rest, saith the Lord God. I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen the weak but I will destroy the fat & the strong, and I will feed them with judgment. Also you my sheep, Thus saith the Lord God, behold, I judge between sheep, & sheep, between the rams and the goats. Seemeth it a small thing unto you to have eaten up the good pasture, but ye must tread down with your feet the residue of your pasture? and to have drunk of the deep waters, but ye must trouble the residue with your feet? And my sheep eat that which ye have trodden with your feet, and drink that which ye have troubled with your feet. Therefore thus saith the Lord God unto them, behold, I, even I will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. Because ye have thrust with side and with shoulder, & pushed all the weak with your horns, till ye have scattered them abroad, therefore will I help my sheep, and they shall no more be spoiled, & I will judge between sheep and sheep. And I will set up a shepherd over them, and he shall feed them, even my servant David, he shall feed them, and he shall be their shepherd. And I the Lord will be their God, and my servant David shall be the prince among them. I the Lord have spoken it. And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and will cause the evil beasts to cease out of the land: and they shall dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleep in the woods. And I will set them, as a blessing, even round about my mountain: and I will cause rain to come down in due season, & there shall be rain of blessing. And the tree of the field shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall give her fruit, and they shall be safe in their land, and shall know that I am the Lord, when I have broken the cords of their yoke, & delivered them out of the hands of those that served themselves of them. And they shall no more be spoiled of the heathen, neither shall the beasts of the land devour them, but they shall dwell safely and none shall make them afraid. And I will raise up for them a plant of renown, & they shall be no more consumed with hunger in the land, neither bear the reproach of the heathen any more. Thus shall they understand, that I the Lord their God am with them, and that they, even the house of Israel, are my people, saith the Lord God.

Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, Set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesy against it, and say unto it, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, O mount Seir, I come against thee, and I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee desolate and waste. I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, & thou shalt know that I am the Lord. Because thou hast had a perpetual hatred and hast put the children of Israel to flight by the force of the sword in the time of their calamity, when their iniquity had an end, therefore as I live, saith the Lord God, I will prepare thee unto blood, and blood shall pursue thee: except thou hate blood, even blood shall pursue thee. Thus will I make mount Seir desolate and waste, and cut off from it him that passeth out & him that returneth. And I will fill his mountains with his slain men: in thine hills, and in thy valleys and in all thy rivers shall they fall, that are slain with the sword. I will make thee perpetual desolations, and thy cities shall not return, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. Because thou hast said, These two nations, and these two countries shall be mine, and we will possess them (seeing the Lord was there), therefore as I live, saith the Lord God, I will even do according to thy wrath, and according to thine indignation which thou hast used in thine hatred against them: & I will make my self known among them when I have judged thee. And thou shalt know, that I the Lord have heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying, They lie waste, they are given us to be devoured. Thus with your mouths ye have boasted against me, & have multiplied your words against me: I have heard them. Thus saith the Lord God, So shall all the world rejoice when I shall make thee desolate. As thou didst rejoice at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I do unto thee: thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea wholly, & they shall know, that I am the Lord.

Also thou son of man, prophesy unto the mountains of Israel, & say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord God, because the enemy hath said against you, Aha, even the high places of the world are ours in possession, therefore prophesy, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they have made you desolate, & swallowed you up on every side, that ye might be a possession unto the residue of the heathen, & ye are come unto the lips & tongues of men, and unto the reproach of the people, therefore ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountains & to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys, and to the waste, and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken: which are spoiled & had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are round about. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely in the fire of mine indignation have I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which have taken my land for their possession, with the joy of all their heart, and with despiteful minds to cast it out for a pray. Prophecy therefore upon the land of Israel, and say unto the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers, & to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I have spoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, because ye have suffered the shame of the heathen, therefore thus saith the Lord God, I have lifted up mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you, shall bear their shame. But you, O mountains of Israel, ye shall shoot forth your branches, and bring forth your fruit to my people of Israel: for they are ready to come. For behold, I come unto you, & I will turn unto you, and ye shall be tilled and sown. And I will multiply the men upon you, even all the house of Israel wholly, & the cities shall be inhabited, & the desolate places shall be built. And I will multiply upon you man & beast, and they shall increase, and bring fruit, and I will cause you to dwell after your old estate, & I will bestow benefits upon you more then at the first, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. Yea, I will cause men to walk upon you, even my people Israel, and they shall possess you, and ye shall be their inheritance, and ye shall no more henceforth deprive them of men. Thus saith the Lord God, because they say unto you, Thou land devourest up men, & hast been a waster of thy people, therefore thou shalt devour men no more, neither waste thy people henceforth, saith the Lord God, neither will I cause men to hear in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou bear the reproach of the people any more, neither shalt cause thy folk to fall any more, saith the Lord God. Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, they defiled it by their own ways, & by their deeds: their way was before me as the filthiness of the menstruous. Wherefore I powered my wrath upon them, for the blood that they had shed in the land, and for their idols, wherewith they had polluted it. And I scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed through the countries for according to their ways, and according to their deeds, I judged them. And when they entered unto the heathen, whither they went, they polluted mine holy Name, when they said of them, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone out of his land. But I favoured mine holy Name which the house of Israel had polluted among the heathen, whither they went. Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith ye Lord God, I do not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, but for mine holy Name's sake, which ye polluted among the heathen whither ye went. And I will sanctify my great Name, which was polluted among the heathen, among whom you have polluted it, and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shall be sanctified in you before their eyes. For I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countries, and will bring you into your own land. Then will I pour clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: yea, from all your filthiness, and from all your idols will I cleanse you. A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you, and I will take away the stony heart out of your body, and I will give you an heart of flesh. And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments and do them. And ye shall dwell in the land, that I gave to your fathers, and ye shall be my people, & I will be your God. I will also deliver you from all your filthiness, and I will call for corn, and will increase it, and lay no famine upon you. For I will multiply the fruit of the trees, & the increase of the field, that ye shall bear no more the reproach of famine among the heathen. Then shall ye remember your own wicked ways, & your deeds that were not good, & shall judge yourselves worthy to have been destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominations. Be it known unto you that I do not this for your sakes, saith the Lord God: therefore, O ye house of Israel, be ashamed, and confounded for your own ways. Thus saith the Lord God, What time as I shall have cleansed you from all your iniquities, I will cause you to dwell in the cities, & the desolate places shall be built. And the desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by. For they said, This wasteland was like the garden of Eden, and these waste & desolate and ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited. Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shall know that I the Lord build the ruinous places, and plant the desolate places: I the Lord have spoken it, and will do it. Thus saith the Lord God, I will yet for this be sought of ye house of Israel, to perform it unto them: I will increase them with men like a flock. As the holy flock, as the flock of Jerusalem in their solemn feasts, so shall the desolate cities be filled with flockes of men, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

The hand of the Lord was upon me, & carried me out in ye spirit of ye Lord, & set me down in ye midst of the field, which was full of bones. And he led me round about by them, and behold, they were very many in the open field, and lo, they were very dry. And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest. Again he said unto me, Prophecy upon these bones and say unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord God unto these bones, Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live. And I will lay sinews upon you, & make flesh grow upon you, & cover you with skin, and put breath in you, that ye may live, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. So I prophesied, as I was commanded: and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold, there was a shaking, & the bones came together, bone to his bone. And when I beheld, lo, the sinews, & the flesh grew upon them, and above, the skin covered them, but there was no breath in them. Then said he unto me, Prophecy unto the wind: prophecy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the Lord God, Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live. So I prophesied as he had commanded me: and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army. Then he said unto me, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone, and we are clean cut off.

Therefore prophecy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, my people, I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your sepulchres, and bring you into the land of Israel, and ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have opened your graves, O my people, and brought you up out of your sepulchres, and shall put my Spirit in you, and ye shall live, and I shall place you in your own land: then ye shall know that I the Lord have spoken it, and performed it, saith the Lord.

The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, Moreover thou son of man, take thee a piece of wood, and write upon it, Unto Judah, and to the children of Israel his companions then take another piece of wood, and write upon it, Unto Joseph the tree of Ephraim, and to all the house of Israel his companions. And thou shalt join the one to another into one tree, & they shall be as one in thine hand. And when the children of thy people shall speak unto thee, saying, Wilt thou not shew us what thou meanest by these? Thou shalt answer them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the tree of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the tree of Judah, and make them one tree, and they shall be one in mine hand. And the pieces of wood, whereon thou writest, shall be in thine hand, in their sight. And say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, & bring them into their own land. And I will make them one people in the land, upon the mountains of Israel, and one king shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two peoples, neither be divided any more henceforth into two kingdoms. Neither shall they be polluted any more with their idols, nor with their abominations, nor with any of their transgressions: but I will save them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they have sinned, and will cleanse them: so shall they be my people, and I will be their God. And David my servant shall be king over them, and they all shall have one shepherd: they shall also walk in my judgments, and observe my statutes, and do them. And they shall dwell in the land, that I have given unto Jaakob my servant, where your fathers have dwelt, and they shall dwell therein, even they, and their sons, & their sons sons for ever, and my servant David shall be their prince for ever. Moreover, I will make a covenant of peace with them: it shall be an everlasting covenant with them, and I will place them, and multiply them, and will set my Sanctuary among them for evermore. My tabernacle also shall be with them: yea, I will be their God, and they shall be my people. Thus the heathen shall know, that I the Lord do sanctify Israel, when my Sanctuary shall be among them for evermore.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, set thy face against Gog, and against the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophecy against him, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Gog the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. And I will destroy thee, & put hooks in thy chaws, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine host both horses, and horsemen, all clothed with all sorts of armour, even a great multitude with bucklers, and shields, all handling swords. They of Paras, of Cush, and Phut with thee, even all they that bear shield and helmet. Gomer and all his bands, and the house of Togarmah of the North quarters, & all his bands, and much people with thee. Prepare thyself, & make thee ready, both thou, and all thy multitude, that are assembled unto thee, and be thou their safeguard. After many days thou shalt be visited: for in the latter years thou shalt come into the land, that hath been destroyed with the sword, and is gathered out of many people upon the mountains of Israel, which have long lain waste: yet they have been brought out of the people, and they shall dwell all safe. Thou shalt ascend and come up like a tempest, and shalt be like a cloud to cover the land, both thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee. Thus saith the Lord God, Even at ye same time shall many things come into thy mind, and thou shalt think evil thoughts. And thou shalt say, I will go up to the land that hath no walled towers: I will go to them that are at rest, and dwell in safety, which dwell all without walls, and have neither bars nor gates, Thinking to spoil the prey, and to take a booty, to turn thine hand upon the desolate places that are now inhabited, and upon the people, that are gathered out of the nations which have gotten cattle and goods, and dwell in the midst of the land. Sheba and Dedan, and thee of Tarshish with all the lions thereof shall say unto thee, Art thou come to spoil the prey? Hast thou gathered thy multitude to take a booty? To carry away silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, and to spoil a great prey? Therefore, son of man, prophecy, and say unto Gog, Thus saith the Lord God, In that day when my people of Israel dwelleth safe, shalt thou not know it? And come from thy place out of the North parts, thou and much people with thee? All shall ride upon horses, even a great multitude and a mighty army. And thou shalt come up against my people of Israel, as a cloud to cover the land: thou shalt be in the latter days, and I will bring thee upon my land, that the heathen may know me, when I shall be sanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes. Thus saith the Lord God, Art not thou he, of whom I have spoken in old time, by ye hand of my servants the Prophets of Israel which prophesied in those days and years, that I would bring thee upon them? At the same time also when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, my wrath shall arise in mine anger. For in mine indignation and in the fire of my wrath have I spoken it: surely at that time there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel, So that the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the heaven, & the beasts of the field & all that move & creep upon the earth, and all ye men that are upon the earth, shall tremble at my presence, & the mountains shall be overthrown, and the stairs shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground. For I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountains, saith the Lord God: every mans sword shall be against his brother. And I will plead against him with pestilence, and with blood, and I will cause to rain upon him and upon his bands, and upon the great people, that are with him, a sore rain, and hailstones, fire, and brimstone. Thus will I be magnified, and sanctified, and known in the eyes of many nations, & they shall know, that I am the Lord.

Therefore, thou son of man, prophecy against Gog, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Gog, ye chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. And I will destroy thee and leave but the sixth part of thee, and will cause thee to come up from the North parts and will bring thee upon the mountains of Israel: And I will smite thy bow out of thy left hand, and I will cause thine arrows to fall out of thy right hand. Thou shalt fall upon the mountains of Israel, and all thy bands and the people, that is with thee: for I will give thee unto the birds and to every feathered fowl and beast of the field to be devoured. Thou shalt fall upon the open field: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God. And I will send a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell safely in the isles, and they shall know that I am the Lord. So will I make mine holy Name known in the midst of my people Israel, and I will not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name any more, and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the holy one of Israel. Behold, it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: and this is the day whereof I have spoken. And they that dwell in the cities of Israel, shall go forth, and shall burn and set fire upon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, upon the bows, and upon the arrows, and upon the staves in their hands, and upon the spears, and they shall burn them with fire seven years. So that they shall bring no wood out of the field, neither cut down any out of the forests: for they shall burn the weapons with fire, and they shall rob those that robbed them, and spoil those that spoiled them, saith the Lord God. And at the same time will I give unto Gog a place there for burial in Israel, even the valley whereby men go toward the East part of the sea: and it shall cause them that pass by, to stop their noses, and there shall they bury Gog with all his multitude: and they shall call it the valley of Hamon-Gog. And seven months long shall the house of Israel be burying of the, that they may cleanse the land. Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them, and they shall have a name when I shall be glorified, saith the Lord God. And they shall choose out men to go continually through the land with them that travail, to bury those that remain upon ye ground, and cleanse it: they shall search to the end of seven months. And the travelers that pass through the land, if any see a mans bone, then shall he set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it, in the valley of Hamon-Gog. And also the name of the city shall be Hamonah: thus shall they cleanse the land. And thou son of man, thus saith the Lord God, Speak unto every feathered fowl, and to all the beasts of the field, Assemble yourselves, and come gather yourselves on every side to my sacrifice: for I do sacrifice a great sacrifice for you upon the mountains of Israel, that ye may eat flesh, and drink blood. Ye shall eat the flesh of the valiant, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of the weathers, of the lambs, and of the goats, and of bullocks, even of all fat beasts of Bashan. And ye shall eat fat till you be full, and drink blood, till ye be drunken of my sacrifice, which I have sacrificed for you. Thus you shall be filled at my table with horses and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of war, saith the Lord God. And I will set my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my judgment, that I have executed, and mine hand, which I have laid upon them. So the house of Israel shall know, that I am the Lord their God from that day and so forth. And the heathen shall know, that ye house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they trespassed against me: therefore hid I my face from them, and gave them into ye hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sword. According to their uncleanness, and according to their transgressions have I done unto thee, and hid my face from them. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now will I bring again the captivity of Jaakob, and have compassion upon the whole house of Israel, and will be jealous for mine holy Name, after that they have borne their shame, & all their transgression, whereby they have transgressed against me, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without fear of any. When I have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am sanctified in them in the sight of many nations, then shall they know, that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to be led into captivity among the heathen: but I have gathered them unto their own land, and have left none of them any more there, neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I have poured out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

In the five and twentieth year of our being in captivity, in the beginning of the year, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was smitten, in the self-same day, the hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me thither. Into the land of Israel brought he me by a divine vision, & set me upon a very high mountain, whereupon was as the building of a city, toward the South. And he brought me thither, and behold, there was a man, whose similitude was to look to, like brass, with a linen thread in his hand, and a reed to measure with: and he stood at the gate. And the man said unto me, Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and set thine heart upon all that I shall shew thee: for to the intent, that they might be shewed thee, art thou brought hither: declare all that thou seest, unto the house of Israel. And behold, I saw a wall on the outside of the house round about: and in the man's hand was a reed to measure with, of six cubits long, by the cubit, and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building with one reed, and the height with one reed. Then came he unto the gate, which looketh toward the East, and went up the stairs thereof, and measured the post of the gate, which was one reed broad, and the other post of the gate, which was one reed broad. And every chamber was one reed long, & one reed broad, & between the chambers were five cubits: & the post of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed. He measured also the porch of the gate within with one reed. Then measured he the porch of the gate of eight cubits, and the posts thereof, of two cubits, and the porch of the gate was inward. And the chambers of the gate Eastward, were three on this side, and three on that side: they three were of one measure, and the posts had one measure on this side, and one on that side. And he measured the breadth of the entry of the gate ten cubits, and the height of the gate thirteen cubits. The space also before the chambers was one cubit on this side, and the space was one cubit on that side, and the chambers were six cubits on this side and six cubits on that side. He measured then the gate from the roof of a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, door against door. He made also posts of threescore cubits, and the posts of the court, and of the gate had one measure round about. And upon the forefront of the entry of the gate unto the forefront of the porch of the gate within were fifty cubits. And there were narrow windows in the chambers, & in their posts within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windows went round about within: and upon the posts were palm trees. Then brought he me into the outward court, and lo, there were chambers, & a pavement made for the court round about, & thirty chambers were upon the pavement. And the pavement was by the side of the gates over against the length of the gates, and the pavement was beneath. Then he measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate without, unto the forefront of the court within, an hundred cubits Eastward and Northward. And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, measured he after the length and breadth thereof. And the chambers thereof were, three on this side, and three on that side, and the posts thereof and the arches thereof were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. And their windows, and their arches with their palm trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh toward the East, and the going up unto it had seven steps, and the arches thereof were before them. And the gate of the inner court stood over against the gate toward the North, and toward the East, and he measured from gate to gate an hundred cubits. After that, he brought me toward the South, and lo, there was a gate toward the South, and he measured the posts thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures. And there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about, like those windows: the height was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. And there were seven steps to go up to it, and the arches thereof were before them: and it had palm trees, one on this side, and another on that side upon the post thereof. And there was a gate in the inner court toward the South, and he measured from gate to gate toward the South an hundred cubits. And he brought me into the inner court by the South gate, and he measured the South gate according to these measures, and the chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures, and there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubits long and five and twenty cubits broad. And the arches round about were five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits broad. And the arches thereof were toward the utter court, and palm trees were upon the posts thereof, and the going up to it had eight steps. Again he brought me into ye inner court toward the East, and he measured the gate according to these measures. And the chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof were according to these measures, and there were windows therein, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad. And the arches thereof were toward the utter court, and palm trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side and on that side, & the going up to it had eight steps. After he brought me to the North gate, and measured it, according to these measures, the chambers thereof, the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, and there were windows therein round about: the height was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. And the posts thereof were toward the utter court, and palm trees were upon the posts thereof on this side, and on that side, & the going up to it had eight steps. And every chamber, and the entry thereof was under the posts of the gates: there they washed the burnt offering. And in the porch of the gate stood two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, upon the which they slew the burnt offering, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering. And at the side beyond the steps, at the entry of the North gate stood two tables, and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate were two tables. Four tables were on this side, and four tables on that side by the side of the gate, even eight tables whereupon they slew their sacrifice. And the four tables were of hewn stone for the burnt offering, of a cubit and an half long, and a cubit and an half broad, and one cubit high: whereupon also they laid the instruments wherewith they slew the burnt offering and the sacrifice. And within were borders an hand broad, fastened round about, and upon the tables lay the flesh of the offering. And without the inner gate were ye chambers of the singers in the inner Court, which was at the side of the North gate: and their prospect was toward the South, and one was at the side of the East gate, having the prospect toward the North. And he said unto me, This chamber whose prospect is toward the South, is for the Priests that have the charge to keep the house. And the chamber whose prospect is toward the North, is for the Priests that have the charge to keep the altar: these are the sons of Zadok among ye sons of Levi which may come near to the Lord to minister unto him. So he measured the court, an hundred cubits long, & an hundred cubits broad, even four square: likewise the altar that was before ye house. And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured the posts of the porch, five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side. The length of the porch was twenty cubits, and ye breadth eleven cubits, & he brought me by the steps whereby they went up to it, and there were pillars by the posts, one on this side, and another on that side.

Afterward, he brought me to the Temple, and measured the posts, six cubits broad on the one side, and six cubits broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the Tabernacle.

And the breadth of the entry was ten cubits, and the sides of the entry were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side, and he measured the length thereof forty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits. Then went he in, and measured the posts of the entry two cubits, and the entry six cubits, and the breadth of the entry seven cubits. So he measured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits before the Temple; he said unto me, This is the most holy place. After, he measured the wall of the house, six cubits, and the breadth of every chamber four cubits round about the house, on every side. And the chambers were chamber upon chamber, three and thirty foot high, and they entered into the wall made for the chambers which was round about the house, that the posts might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house. And it was large and went round mounting upward to the chambers: for the stair of the house was mounting upward, round about the house: therefore the house was larger upward: so they went up from the lowest chamber to the highest by the midst. I saw also the house high round about: the foundations of the chambers were a full reed of six great cubits. The thickness of the wall which was for the chamber without, was five cubits, and that which remained, was the place of the chambers that were within. And between the chambers was the wideness of twenty cubits round about the House on every side. And the doors of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one door toward the North, and another door toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was five cubits round about. Now the building that was before the separate place toward the West corner, was seventy cubits broad, and the wall of the building was five cubits thick, round about, and ye length ninety cubits. So he measured the house an hundred cubits long, and the separate place and the building with the walls thereof were an hundred cubits long. Also the breadth of the forefront of the house and of the separate place toward the East, was an hundred cubits. And he measured the length of the building, over against the separate place, which was behind it, and the chambers on the one side and on the other side an hundred cubits with the Temple within, and the arches of the court. The posts and the narrow windows, and the chambers round about, on three sides over against the posts, sealed with cedar wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were sealed. And from above the door unto the inner house and without, and by all the wall round about within and without it was sealed according to the measure. And it was made with Cherubims and palm trees, so that a palm tree was between a Cherub and a Cherub: and every Cherub had two faces. So that the face of a man was toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a lion toward the palm tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house round about. From the ground unto above the door were Cherubims and palm trees made as in the wall of the Temple. The posts of the Temple were squared, & thus to look unto was the similitude and form of the Sanctuary. The altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubits, and the corners thereof and the length thereof and the sides thereof were of wood; he said unto me, This is the table that shall be before the Lord. And the Temple and the Sanctuary had two doors. And the doors had two wickets, even two turning wickets, two wickets for one door, and two wickets for another door. And upon the doors of the Temple there were made Cherubims and palm trees, like as was made upon the walls, and there were thick planks upon the forefront of the porch without. And there were narrow windows & palm trees on the one side, and on the other side, by the sides of the porch, and upon ye sides of the house, and thick planks.

Then brought he me into the utter court by the way toward the North, and he brought me into the chamber that was over against the separate place, and which was before the building toward the North. Before ye length of an hundred cubits, was the North door, and it was fifty cubits broad. Over against the twenty cubits which were for the inner court, and over against the pavement, which was for the utter court, was chamber against chamber in three rows. And before the chambers was a gallery of ten cubits wide, and within was a way of one cubit, and their doors toward the North. Now the chambers above were narrower: for those chambers seemed to eat up these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the midst of the building. For they were in three rows, but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneath and from the middlemost, even from the ground. And the wall that was without over against the chambers, toward the utter court on the forefront of the chambers, was fifty cubits long. For the length of the chambers that were in the utter court, was fifty cubits: and lo, before the Temple were an hundred cubits. And under these chambers was the entry, on the East side, as one goeth into them from the outward court. The chambers were in the thickness of the wall of the court toward the East, over against the separate place, and over against the building. And the way before them was after ye manner of the chambers, which were toward ye North, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their entries were like, both according to their factions, and according to their doors. And according to ye doors of ye chambers that were toward the South, was a door in the corner of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the East, as one entereth. Then said he unto me, The North chambers and ye South chambers which are before ye separate place, they be holy chambers, wherein the Priests that approach unto ye Lord, shall eat the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meat offering, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering: for the place is holy. When the Priests enter therein, they shall not go out of the holy place into the utter court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister: for they are holy, and shall put on other garments, and so shall approach to those things, which are for the people. Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the East, and measured it round about. He measured the East side with the measuring rod, five hundred reeds, even with the measuring reed round about. He measured also the Northside, five hundred reeds, even with the measuring reed round about. And he measured the South side five hundred reeds with the measuring reed. He turned about also to the West side, and measured five hundred reeds with the measuring reed. He measured it by the four sides: it had a wall round about, five hundred reeds long, and five hundred broad to make a separation between the Sanctuary, and the profane place.

Afterward he brought me to the gate, even the gate that turneth toward the East. And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from out of the East, whose voice was like a noise of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glory. And the vision which I saw was like the vision, even as the vision that I saw when I came to destroy the city: and the visions were like the vision that I saw by the river Chebar: and I fell upon my face. And the glory of the Lord came into the house by the way of the gate, whose prospect is toward the East. So the Spirit took me up and brought me into the inner court, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house. And I heard one speaking unto me out of the house: and there stood a man by me, Which said unto me, Son of man, this place is my throne, & the place of the soles of my feet, whereas I will dwell among the children of Israel for ever, & the house of Israel shall no more defile mine holy Name, neither they, nor their Kings by their fornication, nor by the carcasses of their Kings in their high places. Albeit they set their thresholds by my thresholds, and their posts by my posts (for there was but a wall between me and them) yet have they defiled mine holy Name with their abominations, that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in my wrath. Now therefore let them put away their fornication, and the carcasses of their Kings far from me, and I will dwell among them for ever. Thou son of man, shew this House to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their wickedness, & let them measure ye pattern. And if they be ashamed of all that they have done, shew them the form of the House, & ye pattern thereof, & the going out thereof, & the coming in thereof, & the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the figures thereof, and all the laws thereof: & write it in their sight, that they may keep the whole fashion thereof, & all the ordinances thereof, & do them. This is the description of the house, It shall be upon the top of the mount: all the limits thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the description of the house. And these are the measures of the Altar, after the cubits, the cubit is a cubit, & an had breadth, even the bottom shall be a cubit, and the breadth a cubit, and the border thereof by the edge thereof round about shall be a span: and this shall be the height of the altar. And from the bottom which toucheth the ground to the lower piece shall be two cubits: and the breadth one cubit, and from the little piece to the great piece shall be four cubits, and the breadth one cubit. So the altar shall be four cubits, and from the altar upward shall be four horns. And the altar shall be twelve cubits long, and twelve broad, and foursquare in the four corners thereof. And ye frame shall be fourteen cubits long, and fourteen broad in the foursquare corners thereof, & the border about it shall be half a cubit, & the bottom thereof shall be a cubit about, & the steps thereof shall be turned toward ye East. And he said unto me, Son of man, thus saith ye Lord God, These are ye ordinances of ye altar in the day when they shall make it to offer the burnt offering thereon, & to sprinkle blood thereon. And thou shalt give to the Priests, and to the Levites, that be of the seed of Zadok, which approach unto me, to minister unto me, saith the Lord God, a young bullock for a sin offering. And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, & put it on the four horns of it, & on the four corners of the frame, and upon the border round about: thus shalt thou cleanse it, and reconcile it. Thou shalt take the bullock also of the sin offering, and burn it in the appointed place of the house without the Sanctuary. But the second day thou shalt offer an he goat without blemish for a sin offering, & they shall cleanse ye altar, as they did cleanse it with the bullock. When thou hast made an end of cleansing it, thou shalt offer a young bullock without blemish, & a ram out of the flock without blemish. And thou shalt offer them before ye Lord, and the Priests shall cast salt upon them, & they shall offer them for a burnt offering unto ye Lord. Seven days shalt thou prepare every day an he goat for a sin offering: they shall also prepare a young bullock and a ram out of the flock, without blemish. Thus shall they seven days purify the altar, and cleanse it, and consecrate it. And when these days are expired, upon the eighth day and so forth, the Priests shall make your burnt offerings upon the altar, & your peace offerings, & I will accept you, saith the Lord God.

Then he brought me toward the gate of the outward Sanctuary, which turneth toward the East, and it was shut. Then said the Lord unto me, This gate shall be shut, and shall not be opened, and no man shall enter by it, because the Lord God of Israel hath entered by it, and it shall be shut. It appertaineth to the Prince: the Prince himself shall sit in it to eat bread before the Lord: he shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, & shall go out by the way of the same. Then brought he me toward the North gate before the House: and when I looked, behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord, and I fell upon my face. And the Lord said unto me, Son of man, mark well, & behold with thine eyes, & hear with thine ears, all that I say unto thee, concerning all the ordinances of the house of the Lord, & all the laws thereof, & mark well the entering in of the house with every going forth of the Sanctuary, and thou shalt say to the rebellious, even to ye house of Israel, Thus saith ye Lord God, O house of Israel, ye have enough of all your abominations, seeing that ye have brought into my Sanctuary strangers, uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my Sanctuary, to pollute mine house, when ye offer my bread, even fat, and blood: and they have broken my covenant, because of all your abominations. For ye have not kept the ordinances of mine holy things: but you yourselves have set other to take the charge of my Sanctuary. Thus saith the Lord God, No stranger uncircumcised in heart, nor uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my Sanctuary, of any stranger that is among the children of Israel, neither yet ye Levites that are gone back from me, when Israel went astray, which went astray from thee after their idols, but they shall bear their iniquity. And they shall serve in my Sanctuary, and keep the gates of the House, and minister in the House: they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people: and they shall stand before them to serve them. Because they served before their idols, & caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquity, therefore have I lift up mine head against thee, saith the Lord God, and they shall bear their iniquity, and they shall not come near unto me to do ye office of ye Priest unto me, neither shall they come near unto any of mine holy things in the most holy place, but they shall bear their shame & their abominations, which they have committed. And I will make them keepers of ye watch of the House, for all the service thereof, and for all that shall be done therein. But the Priests of the Levites, the sons of Zadok, that kept the charge of my Sanctuary, when the children of Israel went astray from me, they shall come near to me to serve me, and they shall stand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, saith the Lord God. They shall enter into my Sanctuary, and shall come near to my table, to serve me, and they shall keep my charge. And when they shall enter in at the gates of the inner court, they shall be clothed with linen garments, & no wool shall come upon the while they serve in ye gates of the inner court, & within. They shall have linen bonnets upon their heads, and shall have linen breeches upon their loins: they shall not gird themselves in the sweating places. But when they go forth into the utter court, even to the utter court to the people, they shall put off their garments, wherein they ministered, and lay them in the holy chambers, & they shall put on other garments: for they shall not sanctify the people with their garments. They shall not also shave their heads, nor suffer their locks to grow long, but round their heads. Neither shall any Priest drink wine when they enter into the inner court. Neither shall they take for their wives a widow, or her that is divorced: but they shall take maidens of the seed of the house of Israel, or a widow that hath been the widow of a Priest. And they shall teach my people the difference between the holy and profane, & cause them to discern between the unclean & the clean. And in controversy they shall stand to judge, and they shall judge it according to my judgments: and they shall keep my laws and my statutes in all mine assemblies, and they shall sanctify my Sabbaths. And they shall come at no dead person to defile themselves, except at their father, or mother, or son, or daughter, brother or sister, that hath had yet none husband: in these may they be defiled. And when he is cleansed, they shall reckon unto him seven days. And when he goeth into ye Sanctuary unto the inner court to minister in the Sanctuary, he shall offer his sin offering, saith ye Lord God. And the Priesthood shall be their inheritance, yea, I am their inheritance: therefore shall ye give them no possession in Israel, for I am their possession. They shall eat the meat offering, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering, and every dedicate thing in Israel shall be theirs. And all the first of all the first borne, & every oblation, even all of every sort of your oblations shall be the Priests. Ye shall also give unto the Priest the first of your dough, that he may cause the blessing to rest in thine house. The Priests shall not eat of any thing, that is dead, or bullocks, whether it be fowl or beast.

Moreover when ye shall divide the land for inheritance, ye shall offer an oblation unto the Lord an holy portion of the land, five and twenty thousand reeds long, and ten thousand broad: this shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about. Of this there shall be for the Sanctuary five hundred in length with five hundred in breadth, all square round about, and fifty cubits round about for the suburbs thereof. And of this measure shalt thou measure the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand: and in it shall be the Sanctuary, and the most holy place. The holy portion of the land shall be the Priests, which minister in the Sanctuary, which came near to serve the Lord: and it shall be a place for their houses, and an holy place for the Sanctuary. And in the five and twenty thousand of length, and the ten thousand of breadth shall the Levites that minister in the house, have their possession for twenty chambers. Also ye shall appoint the possession of the city, five thousand broad, and five and twenty thousand long over against the oblation of ye holy portion: it shall be for the whole house of Israel. And a portion shall be for the prince on ye one side, and on that side of the oblation of the holy portion, & of the possession of the city, even before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possession of the city from the West corner Westward, and from the East corner Eastward, and the length shall be by one of the portions from the West border unto the East border. In this land shall be his possession in Israel: and my princes shall no more oppress my people, and the rest of the land shall they give to ye house of Israel, according to their tribes. Thus saith the Lord God, Let it suffice you, O princes of Israel: leave off cruelty and oppression, & execute judgment and justice: take away your exactions from my people, saith the Lord God. Ye shall have just balances, and a true Ephah, and a true Bath. The Ephah and the Bath shall be equal: a Bath shall contain the tenth part of an Homer, and an Ephah the tenth part of an Homer: the equality thereof shall be after the Homer. And the shekel shall be twenty gerahs, and twenty shekels, and five and twenty shekels and fifteen shekels shall be your Maneh. This is the oblation that ye shall offer, ye sixth part of an Ephah of an Homer of wheat, and ye shall give the sixth part of an Ephah of an Homer of barley. Concerning ye ordinance of the oil, even of the Bath of oil, ye shall offer the tenth part of a Bath out of ye Cor (ten Baths are an Homer: for ten Baths fill an Homer) and one lamb of two hundred sheep out of ye fat pastures of Israel for a meat offering, and for a burnt offering and for peace offerings, to make reconciliation for them, saith the Lord God. All the people of the land shall give this oblation for the prince in Israel. And it shall be ye princes part to give burnt offerings, and meat offerings, and drink offerings in the solemn feasts and in the new moons, & in the Sabbaths, and in all the high feasts of the house of Israel: he shall prepare the sin offering, and the meat offering, and the burnt offering, and the peace offerings to make reconciliation for the house of Israel. Thus saith the Lord God, In the first month, in the first day of the month, thou shalt take a young bullock without blemish and cleanse the Sanctuary. And the Priest shall take of the blood of the sin offering, and put it upon the posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the frame of the altar, and upon the posts of the gate of the inner court. And so shalt thou do the seventh day of the month, for every one that hath erred and for him that is deceived: so shall you reconcile the house. In the first month in the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the Passover, a feast of seven days, & ye shall eat unleavened bread. And upon that day, shall the prince prepare for him self, and for all the people of the land, a bullock for a sin offering. And in the seven days of the feast he shall make a burnt offering to the Lord, even of seven bullocks, and seven rams without blemish daily for seven days, and an he goat daily for a sin offering. And he shall prepare a meat offering of an Ephah for a bullock, an Ephah for a ram, and an Hin of oil for an Ephah. In the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, shall he do the like in the feast for seven days, according to the sin offering, according to the burnt offering, and according to the meat offering, and according to the oil.

Thus saith the Lord God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth toward the East, shall be shut the six working days: but on the Sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moon it shall be opened. And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stand by the post of the gate, and the Priests shall make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate: after, he shall go forth, but the gate shall not be shut till the evening. Likewise the people of the land shall worship at the entry of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the new moons. And the burnt offering that the prince shall offer unto the Lord on the Sabbath day, shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish. And the meat offering shall be an Ephah for a ram: and the meat offering for the lambs a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oil to an Ephah. And in the day of the new moon it shall be a young bullock without blemish, and six lambs and a ram: they shall be without blemish. And he shall prepare a meat offering, even an Ephah for a bullock, and an Ephah for a ram, and for the lambs according as his hand shall bring, and an Hin of oil to an Ephah. And when the prince shall enter, he shall go in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shall go forth by the way thereof. But when the people of the land shall come before the Lord in the solemn feasts, he that entereth in by the way of the North gate to worship, shall go out by the way of the South gate: & he that entereth by the way of the South gate, shall go forth by the way of the North gate: he shall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but they shall go forth over against it. And the prince shall be in the midst of them: he shall go in when they go in, & when they go forth, they shall go forth together. And in the feasts, and in the solemnities the meat offering shall be an Ephah to a bullock, and an Ephah to a ram, and to the lambs, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oil to an Ephah. Now when the prince shall make a free burnt offering or peace offerings freely unto the Lord, one shall then open him the gate, that turneth toward the East, and he shall make his burnt offering and his peace offerings, as he did on the Sabbath day: after, he shall go forth, and when he is gone forth, one shall shut the gate. Thou shalt daily make a burnt offering unto the Lord of a lamb of one year without blemish: thou shalt do it every morning. And thou shalt prepare a meat offering for it every morning, the sixth part of an Ephah, and the third part of an Hin of oil, to mingle with the fine flour: this meat offering shall be continually by a perpetual ordinance unto the Lord. Thus shall they prepare the lamb, and the meat offering and the oil every morning, for a continual burnt offering. Thus saith the Lord God, If the prince give a gift of his inheritance unto any of his sons, it shall be his sons, and it shall be their possession by inheritance. But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, then it shall be his to the year of liberty: after, it shall return to ye prince, but his inheritance shall remain to his sons for them. Moreover the prince shall not take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shall cause his sons to inherit of his own possession, that my people be not scattered every man from his possession. After, he brought me through the entry, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priests, which stood toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the West side of them. Then said he unto me, This is the place where the Priests shall see the trespass offering and the sin offering, where they shall bake the meat offering, that they should not bear them into the utter court, to sanctify ye people. Then he brought me forth into the utter court, and caused me to go by the four corners of the court: and behold, in every corner of the court, there was a court. In the four corners of the court there were courts joined of forty cubits long, & thirty broad: these four corners were of one measure. And there went a wall about them, even about those four, and kitchens were made under the walls round about. Then said he unto me, This is the kitchen where the ministers of the house shall seethe the sacrifice of the people.

Afterward he brought me unto the door of the house: & behold, waters issued out from under the threshold of the house Eastward: for the forefront of the house stood toward the East, and the waters ran down from under the right side of the house, at the southside of ye altar. Then brought he me out toward the North gate, and led me about by the way without unto the utter gate, by the way that turneth Eastward: & behold, there came forth waters on ye right side And when the man that had the line in his hand, went forth Eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters: the waters were to the ankles. Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters: the waters were to the knees: again he measured a thousand, & brought me through: ye waters were to ye loins. Afterward he measured a thousand, and it was a river, that I could not pass over: for the waters were risen, and the waters did flow, as a river that could not be passed over. And he said unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen this? Then he brought me, and caused me to return to the brink of the river. Now when I returned, behold, at the brink of the river were very many trees on the one side, and on the other. Then said he unto me, These waters issue out toward the East country, and run down into the plain, and shall go into one sea: they shall run into another sea, and the waters shall be wholesome. And everything that liveth, which moveth, wheresoever the rivers shall come, shall live, and there shall be a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shall come thither: for they shall be wholesome, and every thing shall live whither the river cometh. And then the fishers shall stand upon it, and from En-gedi even unto En-eglaim, they shall spread out their nets: for their fish shall be according to their kinds, as the fish of the main sea, exceeding many. But the miry places thereof, and the marises thereof shall not be wholesome: they shall be made salt pits. And by this river upon the brink thereof, on this side, and on that side shall grow all fruitful trees, whose leaf shall not fade, neither shall ye fruit thereof fail: it shall bring forth new fruit according to his months, because their waters run out of ye Sanctuary: and the fruit thereof shall be meat, and the leaf thereof shall be for medicine. Thus saith the Lord God, This shall be the border, whereby ye shall inherit the land according to the twelve tribes of Israel: Joseph shall have two portions. And ye shall inherit it, one as well as another: concerning the which I lift up mine hand to give it unto your fathers, and this land shall fall unto you for inheritance. And this shall be the border of the land toward the North side, from the main sea toward Hethlon as men go to Zedadah: Hamath, Berothah, Sibram, which is between the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamath, & Hazar, Hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran. And the border from the sea shall be Hazar, Enan, & the border of Damascus, and the residue of the North, Northward, and the border of Hamath: so shall be the North part. But the East side shall ye measure from Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Israel by Iorden, and from the border unto the East sea: and so shall be the East part. And the Southside shall be toward Teman from Tamar to the waters of Meriboth in Kadesh, and the river to the main sea: so shall be the South part toward Teman. The West part also shall be the great sea from the border, till a man come over against Hamath: this shall be the West part. So shall ye divide this land unto you, according to the tribes of Israel. And you shall divide it by lot for an inheritance unto you, and to the strangers that dwell among you, which shall beget children among you, and they shall be unto you, as borne in the country among the children of Israel, they shall part inheritance with you in the midst of the tribes of Israel. And in what tribe the stranger dwelleth, there shall ye give him his inheritance, saith the Lord God.

Now these are the names of the tribes. From the North side, to the coast toward Hethlon, as one goeth to Hamath, Hazar, Enan, & the border of Damascus Northward the coast of Hamath, even from the East side to the West shall be a portion for Dan. And by the border of Dan from the East side unto the West side, a portion for Asher. And by the border of Asher from the East part even unto the West part a portion for Naphtali. And by the border of Naphtali from the East quarter unto the West side, a portion for Manasseh. And by the border of Manasseh from the East side unto the West side a portion for Ephraim. And by the border of Ephraim, from the East part even unto the West part, a portion for Reuben. And by the border of Reuben, from the East quarter unto the West quarter, a portion for Judah. And by the border of Judah from the East part unto the West part shall be the offering which they shall offer of five and twenty thousand reeds broad, and of length as one of the other parts, from the East side unto the Westside, and the Sanctuary shall be in the midst of it. The oblation that ye shall offer unto the Lord, shall be of five and twenty thousand long, and of ten thousand the breadth. And for them, even for the Priests shall be this holy oblation, toward the North five and twenty thousand long, and toward the West, ten thousand broad, and toward the East ten thousand broad, and toward the South five and twenty thousand long, and the Sanctuary of the Lord shall be in the midst thereof. It shall be for the Priests that are sanctified of the sons of Zadok, which have kept my charge, which went not astray when the children of Israel went astray, as the Levites went astray. Therefore this oblation of the land that is offered, shall be theirs, as a thing most holy by the border of the Levites. And over against the border of the Priests the Levites shall have five and twenty thousand long, and ten thousand broad: all the length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand. And they shall not sell of it, neither change it, nor abalienate the first fruits of the land: for it is holy unto the Lord. And the five thousand that are left in the breadth over against the five and twenty thousand, shall be a profane place for the city, for housing, and for suburbs, and the city shall be in the midst thereof. And these shall be the measures thereof, the North part five hundred & four thousand, and the South part five hundred and four thousand, and the East part five hundred and four thousand, and the West part five hundred and four thousand. And the suburbs of the city shall be toward the North two hundred and fifty, and toward the South two hundred and fifty, and toward the East two hundred and fifty, and toward the West two hundred and fifty. And the residue in length over against the oblation of the holy portion shall be ten thousand Eastward, and ten thousand Westward: and it shall be over against the oblation of the holy portion, and the increase thereof shall be for food unto them that serve in the city. And they that serve in the city, shall be of all the tribes of Israel that shall serve therein. All the oblation shall be five and twenty thousand with five and twenty thousand: you shall offer this oblation four square for the Sanctuary, and for the possession of the city. And the residue shall be for the prince on the one side and on the other of the oblation of the Sanctuary, and of the possession of the city, over against the five and twenty thousand of the oblation toward the East border, and Westward over against the five and twenty thousand toward the West border, over against shall be for the portion of the prince: this shall be the holy oblation, and the house of the Sanctuary shall be in the midst thereof. Moreover, from the possession of the Levites, and from the possession of the city, that which is in the midst shall be the princes: between the border of Judah, and between the border of Benjamin shall be the princes. And the rest of the tribes shall be thus: from the East part unto the West part Benjamin shall be a portion. And by the border of Benjamin, from the East side unto the West side Simeon a portion. And by the border of Simeon from the East part unto the West part, Isshachar a portion. And by the border of Isshachar, from the East side unto the West, Zebulun a portion. And by the border of Zebulun from the East part unto the West part, Gad a portion. And by the border of Gad at the South side, toward Temath, the border shall be even from Tamar unto the waters of Meribath in Kadesh, and to the river, that runneth into the main sea. This is the land, which ye shall distribute unto the tribes of Israel for inheritance, & these are their portions, saith the Lord God. And these are the bounds of the city, on the North side five hundred, and four thousand measures. And the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel, the gates Northward, one gate of Reuben, one gate of Judah, and one gate of Levi. And at the East side five hundred and four thousand, and three gates, and one gate of Joseph, one gate of Benjamin, & one gate of Dan. And at the South side, five hundred and four thousand measures, and three ports, one gate of Simeon, one gate of Isshachar, and one gate of Zebulun. At the West side, five hundred and four thousand, with their three gates, one gate of Gad, one gate of Asher, and one gate of Naphtali. It was round about eighteen thousand measures, and the name of the city from that day shall be, The Lord is there.

DANIEL

In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel unto Jerusalem and besieged it. And ye Lord gave Jehoikim king of Judah into his hand; with part of the vessels of the house of God, which he carried into the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and he brought the vessels into his god's treasury. And the King spake unto Ashpenaz the master of his Eunuchs, that he should bring certain of the children of Israel, of the King's seed, and of the princes: Children in whom was no blemish, but well favoured, and instruct in all wisdom, and well seen in knowledge, and able to utter knowledge, & such as were able to stand in the king's palace, and whom they might teach the learning, and the tongue of the Chaldeans. And the King appointed them provision every day of a portion of the King's meat, and of the wine, which he drank, so nourishing them three years, that at the end thereof, they might stand before the King. Now among these were certain of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah. Unto whom the chief of the Eunuchs gave other names: for he called Daniel, Belteshazzar, and Hananiah, Shadrach, & Mishael, Meshach, and Azariah, Abednego. But Daniel had determined in his heart, that he would not defile him self with the portion of the King's meat, nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he required the chief of the Eunuchs that he might not defile himself. (Now God had brought Daniel into favour, and tender love with the chief of the Eunuchs) and the chief of the Eunuchs said unto Daniel, I fear my lord the King, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: therefore if he sees your faces worse liking then the other children, which are of your sort, then shall you make me lose mine head unto the King. Then said Daniel to Melzar, whom the chief of the Eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days, and let them give us pulse to eat, and water to drink. Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the portion of the King's meat: and as thou seest, deal with thy servants. So he consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days. And at the end of ten days, their countenances appeared fairer, and in better liking then all the children's, which did eat the portion of the King's meat. Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they should drink, and gave them pulse. As for these four children, God gave them knowledge, & understanding in all learning and wisdom: also he gave Daniel understanding of all visions and dreams. Now when the time was expired, that the King had appointed to bring them in, the chief of the Eunuchs brought them before Nebuchad-nezzar. And the King communed with them: and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore stood they before the king. And in all matters of wisdom, and understanding that the King inquired of them, he found them ten times better then all the enchanters and astrologians, that were in all his realm. And Daniel was unto the first year of king Cyrus.

And in the second year of the reign of Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuchad-nezzar dreamed dreams wherewith his spirit was troubled, and his sleep was upon him. Then the King commanded to call the enchanters, and the astrologians and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans for to shew the King his dreams: so they came and stood before the King. And the King said unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream. Then spake the Chaldeans to the King in the Aramites language, O King, live for ever: shew thy servants thy dream, and we shall shew the interpretation. And the King answered & said to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye will not make me understand the dream with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be drawn in pieces, and your houses shall be made a jakes. But if ye declare the dream and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and rewards, and great honour: therefore shew me the dream and the interpretation of it. They answered again, and said, Let the King shew his servants the dream, and we will declare the interpretation thereof. Then the King answered, and said, I know certainly that ye would gain the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me. But if ye will not declare me the dream, there is but one judgment for you: for ye have prepared lying and corrupt words, to speak before me till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, that I may know, if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof. Then the Chaldeans answered before the King, and said, There is no man upon earth that can declare the King's matter: yea, there is neither king nor prince nor lord that asked such things at an enchanter or astrologian or Chaldean. For it is a rare thing that the King requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the King, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh. For this cause the king was angry and in great fury, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babel. And when sentence was given, the wise men were slain: and they sought Daniel and his fellows to be put to death. Then Daniel answered with counsel and wisdom to Arioch the King's chief steward, which was gone forth to put to death the wise men of Babel. Yea, he answered and said unto Arioch the king's captain, Why is the sentence so hasty from the king? Then Arioch declared the thing to Daniel. So Daniel went and desired the king that he would give him leisure and that he would shew the king the interpretation thereof. Then Daniel went to his house & shewed the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah his companions, that they should beseech the God of heaven for grace in this secret, that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of ye wise men of Babel. Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel in a vision by night: therefore Daniel praised the God of heaven. And Daniel answered and said, The Name of God be praised for ever and ever: for wisdom and strength are his, and he changeth the times & seasons: he taketh away kings: he setteth up kings: he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and understanding to those that understand. He discovereth the deep and secret things: he knoweth what is in darkness, and the light dwelleth with him. I thank thee & praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast given me wisdom and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired of thee: for thou hast declared unto us the king's matter. Therefore Daniel went unto Arioch, whom the King had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babel: he went and said thus unto him, Destroy not the wise men of Babel, but bring me before the King, and I will declare unto the King the interpretation. Then Arioch brought Daniel before the King in all haste, and said thus unto him, I have found a man of the children of Judah that were brought captives, that will declare unto the King the interpretation. Then answered the King, and said unto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to shew me the dream, which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof? Daniel answered in the presence of the King, and said, The secret which the King hath demanded, can neither the wise, the astrologians, the enchanters, nor the soothsayers declare unto the King. But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and sheweth the King Nebuchad-nezzar what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the things which thou hast seen in thine head upon thy bed, is this. O King, when thou wast in thy bed, thoughts came into thy mind, what should come to pass hereafter, and he that revealeth secretes, telleth thee, what shall come. As for me, this secret is not shewed me for any wisdom that I have, more then any other living, but only to shew the King the interpretation, and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thine heart. O King, thou sawest, and behold, there was a great image: this great image whose glory was so excellent, stood before thee, & the form thereof was terrible. This images head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, his legs of iron, and his feet were part of iron, and part of clay. Thou beheldest it till a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image upon his feet, that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces. Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver and the gold broken all together, and became like the chaff of the summer flowers, and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth. This is the dream, and we will declare before the King the interpretation thereof. O King, thou art a king of Kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory. And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all: thou art this head of gold. And after thee shall rise another kingdom, inferior to thee, of silver, and another third kingdom shall be of brass, which shall bear rule over all the earth. And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: for as iron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things, and as iron bruiseeth all these things, so shall it break in pieces, and bruise all. Where as thou sawest the feet and toes, part of potters clay, and part of iron: the kingdom shall be divided, but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, as thou sawest the iron mixed with the clay, and earth. And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so shall the kingdom be partly strong, and partly broken. And where as thou sawest iron mixed with clay and earth, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not join one with another, as iron can not be mixed with clay. And in the days of these Kings, shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and this kingdom shall not be given to another people, but it shall break, and destroy all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever. Where as thou sawest, that the stone was cut of the mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold: so the great God hath shewed the King, what shall come to pass hereafter, and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof is sure. Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar fell upon his face, and bowed himself unto Daniel, and commanded that they should offer meat offerings, and sweet odours unto him. Also the King answered unto Daniel, and said, I know of a truth that your God is a God of gods, and the Lord of Kings, and the revealer of secrets, seeing thou couldest open this secret. So the King made Daniel a great man, and gave him many and great gifts. He made him governour over the whole province of Babel, and chief of the rulers, and above all the wise men of Babel. Then Daniel made request to the King, and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego over the charge of the province of Babel: but Daniel sat in the gate of the King.

Nebuchad-nezzar the King made an image of gold, whose height was three score cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits: he set it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babel. Then Nebuchad-nezzar ye King sent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes and the dukes, the judges, the receivers, the counselors, the officers, and all the governours of the provinces, that they should come to the dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar the King had set up. So the nobles, princes and dukes, the judges, the receivers, the counselors, the officers, and all the governours of the provinces were assembled unto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the King had set up: and they stood before the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar had set up. Then an herald cried aloud, Be it known to you, O people, nations, and languages, That when ye hear the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, dulcimer, and all instruments of music, ye fall down and worship the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the King hath set up, and whosoever falleth not down & worshipeth, shall the same hour be cast into the midst of an hot fiery furnace. Therefore as soon as all the people heard the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and all instruments of music, all the people, nations, and languages fell down, and worshiped the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the King had set up. By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Chaldeans, and grievously accused the Jews. For they spake and said to the King Nebuchad-nezzar, O King, live for ever. Thou, O King, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all instruments of music, shall fall down and worship the golden image, And whosoever falleth not down, and worshipeth, that he should be cast into the midst of an hot fiery furnace. There are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the charge of ye province of Babel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: these men, O King, have not regarded thy commandment, neither will they serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image, that thou hast set up. Then Nebuchad-nezzar in his anger and wrath commanded that they should bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: so these men were brought before the King. And Nebuchad-nezzar spake, and said unto them, What disorder? Will not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego serve my god, nor worship the golden image, that I have set up? Now therefore are ye ready when ye hear the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all instruments of music, to fall down, and worship the image, which I have made? For if ye worship it not, ye shall be cast immediately into the midst of an hot fiery furnace: for who is that God, that can deliver you out of mine hands?

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and said to the King, O Nebuchad-nezzar, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter. Behold, our God whom we serve, is able to deliver us from the hot fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O King. But if not, be it known to thee, O King, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set up. Then was Nebuchad-nezzar full of rage, and the form of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: therefore he charged and commanded that they should heat the furnace at once seven times more then it was wont to be heat. And he charged the most valiant men of war that were in his army, to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hot fiery furnace. So these men were bound in their coats, their hosen, and their cloaks, with their other garments, and cast into the midst of the hot fiery furnace. Therefore, because the King's commandment was straight, that the furnace should be exceeding hot, the flame of the fire slew those men that brought forth Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. And these three men Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego fell down bound into the midst of the hot fiery furnace. And they walked in the midst of the flame, praising God, & magnified the Lord.

Then Azarias stood up, & prayed on this manner, and opening his mouth in ye midst of the fire, said, Blessed be thou, O Lord God of our fathers: thy Name is worthy to be praised and honoured for evermore. For thou art righteous in all the things, that thou hast done unto us, and all thy works are true, and thy ways are right, and all thy judgments certain. In all the things that thou hast brought upon us, and upon Jerusalem, the holy city of our fathers, thou hast executed true judgments: for by right and equity hast thou brought all these things upon us, because of our sins. For we have sinned and done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things have we trespassed, and not obeyed thy commandments, nor kept them, neither done as thou hadst commanded us, that we might prosper. Wherefore in all that thou hast brought upon us, and in every thing that thou hast done to us, thou hast done them in true judgment: As in delivering us into the hands of our wicked enemies, and most hateful traitours, and to an unrighteous King, and the most wicked in all the world. And now we may not open our mouths: we are become a shame and reproof unto thy servants, and to them that worship thee. Yet for thy name's sake, we beseech thee, give us not up for ever, neither break thy covenant, neither take away thy mercy from us, for thy beloved Abraham's sake, and for thy servant Isaac's sake, and for thine holy Israel's sake, to whom thou hast spoken and promised, that thou wouldst multiply their seed as ye stars of heaven, & as the sand, that is upon the sea shore. For we, O Lord, are become less then any nation, and be kept under this day in all the world, because of our sins: So that now we have neither prince, nor prophet, nor governour, nor burnt offering, nor sacrifice, nor oblation, nor incense, nor place to offer ye first fruits before thee, that we might find mercy. Nevertheless in a contrite heart, & an humble spirit, let us be received. As in the burnt offering of rams & bullocks, and as in ten thousand of fat lambs, so let our offering be in thy sight this day, that it may please thee: for there is no confusion unto them that put their trust in thee. And now we follow thee with all our heart, and fear thee, and seek thy face. Put us not to shame, but deal with us after thy loving kindness, and according to the multitude of thy mercies. Deliver us also by thy miracles, and give thy Name the glory, O Lord, that all they which do thy servants evil, may be confounded: even let them be confounded by thy great force and power, and let their strength be broken, that they may know, that thou only art the Lord God, and glorious over the whole world. Now the king's servants that had cast them in, ceased not to make the oven hot with naphtha, and with pitch, and with tow, & with fagots, so that the flame went out of the furnace forty and nine cubits. And it brake forth, and burnt those Chaldeans, that it found by the furnace. But the Angel of the Lord went down into the furnace with them that were with Azarias, and smote the flame of the fire out of the furnace, and made in the midst of the furnace like a moist hissing wind, so that the fire touched the not at all, neither grieved, nor troubled them.

Then these three (as out of one mouth) praised, and glorified, and blessed God in the furnace, saying, Blessed be thou, O Lord God of our fathers, and praised, & exalted above all things for ever, & blessed be thy glorious & holy Name, and praised above all things, and magnified for ever. Blessed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glory, and praised above all things, and exalted for ever. Blessed be thou that beholdest the depths, and sittest upon the Cherubins, and praised above all things, and exalted for ever. Blessed be thou in the glorious Throne of thy kingdom, and praised above all things, and exalted for ever. Blessed be thou in the firmament of heaven, & praised above all things, & glorified for ever. All ye works of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O heavens, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O Angels of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. All ye waters that be above the heaven, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. All ye powers of the Lord, bless ye ye Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. O sun & moon, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O stars of heaven, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. Every shower and dew, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. All ye winds, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O fire & heat, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O winter & summer, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O dews and storms of snow, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. O frost and cold, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O ye & snow, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O nights & days, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O light and darkness, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O lightnings & clouds, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. Let the earth bless the Lord: let it praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O mountains, & hills, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. All things that grow on the earth, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O fountains, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O sea, and floods, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O whales, and all that move in the waters, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. All ye fowls of heaven, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. All ye beasts and cattle, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. O children of men, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. Let Israel bless the Lord, praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O Priests of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever. O servants of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O spirits and souls of the righteous, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O Saints and humble of heart, bless ye the Lord: praise him, and exalt him above all things for ever. O Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, bless ye the Lord: praise him, & exalt him above all things for ever: for he hath delivered us from the hell, & saved us from the hand of death, and delivered us out of the midst of the furnace, and burning flame: even out of the midst of the fire hath he delivered us. Confess unto the Lord, that he is gracious: for his mercy endureth for ever. All ye that worship the Lord, bless the God of gods: praise him, and acknowledge him: for his mercy endureth world without end.

Then Nebuchad-nezzar the King was astonied and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his counselors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? Who answered and said unto the King, It is true, O King. And he answered, and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt, and the form of the fourth is like the son of God. Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar came near to the mouth of the hot fiery furnace, and spake and said, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the servants of the high God go forth and come hither: so Shadrach, Meshach & Abednego came forth of the midst of the fire. Then the nobles, princes and dukes, and the King's counselors came together to see these men, because the fire had no power over their bodies: for not an hair of their head was burnt, neither was their coats changed, nor any smell of fire came upon them. Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzar spake & said, Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, who hath sent his Angel, and delivered his servants, that put their trust in him, and have changed the King's commandment, and yielded their bodies rather then they would serve or worship any god, save their own God. Therefore I make a decree, that every people, nation, and language, which speak any blasphemy against the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, shall be drawn in pieces, and their houses shall be made a jakes, because there is no god that can deliver after this sort. Then the King promoted Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego in the province of Babel.

Nebuchad-nezzar King unto all people, nations & languages, that dwell in all the world, Peace be multiplied unto you: I thought it good to declare the signs and wonders, that the high God hath wrought toward me. How great are his signs, and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation. I Nebuchad-nezzar being at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace, saw a dream, which made me afraid, and the thoughts upon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me. Therefore made I a decree, that they should bring all the wise men of Babel before me, that they might declare unto me the interpretation of the dream. So came the enchanters, the astrologians, the Chaldeans and the soothsayers, to whom I told the dream, but they could not shew me the interpretation thereof, till at the last Daniel came before me, (whose name was Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, which hath the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I told the dream, saying, O Belteshazzar, chief of the enchanters, because I know, that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell me the visions of my dream, that I have seen and the interpretation thereof. Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed; behold, I saw a tree in the midst of the earth and the height thereof was great: A great tree and strong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth. The boughs thereof were fair & the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all: it made a shadow under it for the beasts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh feed of it. I saw in the visions of mine head upon my bed, and behold, a watchman and an holy one came down from heaven, and cried aloud, and said thus, Hew down the tree, and break off his branches: shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit, that the beasts may flee from under it, and the fowls from his branches. Nevertheless leave the stump of his roots in the earth, and with a band of iron and brass bind it among the grass of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts among the grass of the field. Let his heart be changed from man's nature, and let a beast's heart be given unto him, and let seven times be passed over him. The sentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the word of the holy ones: the demand was answered, to the intent that living men may know, that the most High hath power over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, and appointeth over it the most abject among men. This is the dream, that I King Nebuchad-nezzar have seen: therefore thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wisemen of my kingdom are not able to shew me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

Then Daniel (whose name was Belteshazzar) held his peace by the space of one hour, and his thoughts troubled him, & the King spake and said, Belteshazzar, let neither the dream, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered and said, My lord, the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies. The tree that thou sawest, which was great and mighty, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof through all the world, whose leaves were fair & the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all, under the which the beasts of the field dwelt, and upon whose branches the fowls of the heaven did sit, it is thou, O King, that art great and mighty: for thy greatness is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, and thy dominion to the ends of the earth. Where as the King saw a watchman, and an holy one, that came down from heaven, and said, Hew down the tree and destroy it, yet leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, and with a band of iron and brass bind it among the grass of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven times pass over him, This is the interpretation, O King, and it is the decree of the most High, which is come upon my lord the King, that they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eat grass as the oxen, and they shall wet thee with the dew of heaven: and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know, that the most High beareth rule over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whom so ever he will. Where as they said, that one should leave the stump of the tree roots, thy kingdom shall remain unto thee: after that, thou shalt know, that the heavens have the rule. Wherefore, O King, let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and break off thy sins by righteousness, and thine iniquities by mercy toward the poor: lo, let there be an healing of thine error. All these things shall come upon the King Nebuchad-nezzar.

At the end of twelve months, he walked in the royal palace of Babel. And the King spake and said, Is not this great Babel, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty? While the word was in the King's mouth, a voice came down from heaven, saying, O King Nebuchad-nezzar, to thee be it spoken, Thy kingdom is departed from thee, and they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eat grass, as the oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou knowest, that the most High beareth rule over the kingdom of men, and giveth it unto whomsoever he will. The very same hour was this thing fulfilled upon Nebuchad-nezzar, and he was driven from men, and did eat grass as the oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were grown as eagles feathers, & his nails like birds claws.

And at the end of these days I Nebuchad-nezzar lift up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine understanding was restored unto me, and I gave thanks unto the most High, and I praised and honoured him that liveth for ever, whose power is an everlasting power, and his kingdom is from generation to generation. And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his will he worketh in the army of heaven, and in the inhabitants of the earth: and none can stay his hand, nor say unto him, What doest thou? At the same time was mine understanding restored unto me, and I returned to the honour of my kingdom: my glory and my beauty was restored unto me, and my counselors and my princes sought unto me, and I was established in my kingdom, and my glory was augmented toward me. Now therefore I Nebuchad-nezzar praise and extol & magnify the King of heaven, whose works are all truth, & his ways judgment, and those that walk in pride, he is able to abase.

King Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and drank wine before the thousand. And Belshazzar whiles he tasted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and silver vessels, which his father Nebuchad-nezzar had brought from the Temple in Jerusalem, that the King and his princes, his wives, and his concubines might drink therein. Then were brought the golden vessels, that were taken out of the Temple of the Lord's house at Jerusalem, and the King and his princes, his wives and his concubines drank in them. They drunk wine and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood and of stone. At the same hour appeared fingers of a man's hand, which wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaster of the wall of ye King's palace, and the King saw the palm of the hand that wrote. Then the King's countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees smote one against the other. Wherefore the King cried loud, that they should bring the astrologians, the Chaldeans and the soothsayers; the King spake, and said to the wise men of Babel, Whosoever can read this writing, and declare me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with purple, and shall have a chain of gold about his neck, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom. Then came all the King's wise men, but they could neither read the writing, nor shew the King the interpretation. Then was King Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonished. Now the Queen by reason of the talk of the King, and his princes came into the banquet house, and the Queen spake, and said, O King, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed. There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and in the days of thy father light and understanding and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him: whom the King Nebuchad-nezzar thy father, the King, I say, thy father, made chief of the enchanters, astrologians, Caldeans, and soothsayers, because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding (for he did expound dreams, and declare hard sentences, and dissolved doubts) were found in him, even in Daniel, whom the King named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will declare the interpretation.

Then was Daniel brought before the King, and the King spake and said unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captivity of Judah, whom my father the King brought out of Jewry? Now I have heard of thee, that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom is found in thee. Now therefore, wisemen and astrologians have been brought before me, that they should read this writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof: but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing. Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest shew interpretations, and dissolve doubts: now if thou canst read the writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt have a chain of gold about thy neck, & shalt be the third ruler in the kingdom. Then Daniel answered, and said before the King, Keep thy rewards to thy self, and give thy gifts to another: yet I will read the writing unto the King, and shew him the interpretation. O King, hear thou, The most high God gave unto Nebuchad-nezzar thy father a kingdom, and majesty, and honour and glory. And for the majesty that he gave him, all people, nations, and languages trembled, and feared before him: he put to death whom he would: he smote whom he would: whom he would he set up, and whom he would he put down. But when his heart was puffed up, and his mind hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his honour from him. And he was driven from the sons of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses: they fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of the heaven, till he knew, that the most high God bare rule over the kingdom of men, and that he appointeth over it, whomsoever he pleaseth. And thou his son, O Belshazzar, hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these things, but hast lift thy self up against the Lord of heaven, and they have brought the vessels of his House before thee, and thou and thy princes, thy wives and thy concubines have drunk wine in them, and thou hast praised the gods of silver and gold, of brass, iron, wood and stone, which neither see, neither hear, nor understand: and the God in whose hand thy breath is and all thy ways, him hast thou not glorified. Then was the palm of the hand sent from him, and hath written this writing. And this is the writing that he hath written, Mene, Mene, Tekel Upharsin. This is the interpretation of the thing, Mene, God hath numbered thy kingdom, and hath finished it.

Tekel, thou art weighed in the balance, and art found too light. Peres, thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians. Then at the commandment of Belshazzar they clothed Daniel with purple, and put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom. The same night was Belshazzar the King of the Caldeans slain. And Darius of the Medes took the kingdom, being threescore and two year old.

It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom an hundred and twenty governours, which should be over the whole kingdom, and over these, three rulers (of whom Daniel was one) that the governours might give accompts unto them, and the King should have no damage. Now this Daniel was preferred above the rulers and governours, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the King thought to set him over the whole realm. Wherefore the rulers and governours sought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom: but they could find none occasion nor fault: for he was so faithful that there was no blame nor fault found in him. Then said these men, We shall not find an occasion against this Daniel, except we find it against him concerning the Law of his God. Therefore the rulers and these governours went together to the King, and said thus unto him, King Darius, live for ever. All the rulers of thy kingdom, the officers and governours, the counselors, and dukes have consulted together to make a decree for the King and to establish a statute, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days save of thee, O King, he shall be cast into the den of lions. Now, O King, confirm the decree, and seal the writing, that it be not changed according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not. Wherefore King Darius sealed the writing and the decree. Now when Daniel understood that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and his window being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed and praised his God, as he did aforetime. Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying, and making supplication unto his God. So they came &, spake unto the King concerning the King's decree, Hast thou not sealed the decree, that every man that shall make a request to any god or man within thirty days, save to thee, O King, shall be cast into the den of lions? The King answered, and said, The thing is true, according to the Law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not. Then answered they, and said unto the King, This Daniel which is of the children of the captivity of Judah, regardeth not thee, O King, nor the decree, that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition three times a day. When the King heard these words, he was sore displeased with himself, and set his heart on Daniel, to deliver him: and he laboured till the sun went down, to deliver him. Then these men assembled unto the King, and said unto ye King, Understand, O King, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree nor statute which the King confirmeth, may be altered. Then the King commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions: now the King spake, and said unto Daniel, Thy God, whom thou alway servest, even he will deliver thee. And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den, and the King sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not be changed, concerning Daniel. Then the King went unto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were the instruments of music brought before him, and his sleep went from him. Then the King arose early in the morning, & went in all haste unto the den of lions. And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: and the King spake, and said to Daniel, O Daniel, the servant of ye living God, is not thy God (whom thou alway servest) able to deliver thee from the lions? Then said Daniel unto the King, O King, live for ever. My God hath sent his Angel and hath shut the lions mouths, that they have not hurt me: for my justice was found out before him: and unto thee, O King, I have done no hurt. Then was the King exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel out of the den: so Daniel was brought out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God. And by the commandment of the King these men which had accused Daniel, were brought, and were cast into the den of lions, even they, their children, and their wives: and the lions had the mastery of them, & brake all their bones a pieces, or ever they came at the ground of the den. Afterward King Darius wrote, Unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world: Peace be multiplied unto you. I make a decree that in all the dominion of my kingdom, men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel: for he is the living God, and remaineth for ever: and his kingdom shall not perish, and his dominion shall be everlasting. He rescueth and delivereth, and he worketh signs and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Daniel from the power of the lions. So this Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius and in the reign of Cyrus of Persia.

In the first year of Belshazzar King of Babel, Daniel saw a dream, and there were visions in his head, upon his bed: then he wrote the dream, and declared the sum of the matter. Daniel spake and said, I saw in my vision by night, and behold, the four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea: And four great beasts came up from the sea one divers from another. The first was as a lion, & had eagles wings: I beheld, till the wings thereof were plucked of, and it was lifted up from the earth, and set upon his feet as a man, and a man's heart was given him. And behold, another beast which was the second, was like a bear & stood upon the one side: and he had three ribs in his mouth between his teeth, and they said thus unto him, Arise and devour much flesh. After this I beheld, and lo, there was an other like a leopard, which had upon his back four wings of a fowl: the beast had also four heads, and dominion was given him. After this I saw in the visions by night, and behold, the fourth beast was fearful and terrible and very strong. It had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces and stamped the residue under his feet: and it was unlike to the beasts that were before it: for it had ten horns. As I considered the horns, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked away: and behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking presumptuous things. I beheld, till the thrones were set up, and the Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire. A fiery stream issued, and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand thousands stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books opened. Then I beheld, because of the voice of the presumptuous words, which the horn spake: I beheld, even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning fire. As concerning the other beasts, they had taken away their dominion: yet their lives were prolonged for a certain time and season. As I beheld in visions by night, behold, one like the son of man came in the clouds of heaven, and approached unto the Ancient of days, and they brought him before him. And he gave him dominion, and honour, and a kingdom, that all people, nations and languages should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall never be taken away: and his kingdom shall never be destroyed.

I Daniel was troubled in my spirit, in the midst of my body, and the visions of mine head made me afraid. Therefore I came unto one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this: so he told me, and shewed me the interpretation of these things. These great beasts which are four, are four Kings, which shall arise out of the earth, And they shall take the kingdom of the Saints of the most High, and possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever. After this, I would know the truth of the fourth beast, which was so unlike to all the others, very fearful, whose teeth were of iron, and his nails of brass: which devoured, break in pieces, and stamped the residue under his feet. Also to know of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, before whom three fell, and of the horn that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things, whose look was more stout than his fellows. I beheld, and the same horn made battle against the Saints, yea, & prevailed against them, until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the Saints of the most High: and the time approached, that the Saints possessed the kingdom. Then he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom in the earth, which shall be unlike to all the kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down and break it in pieces. And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten Kings that shall rise: and another shall rise after them, and he shall be unlike to the first, and he shall subdue three Kings, and shall speak words against the most High, and shall consume the Saints of the most High, and think that he may change times and laws, and they shall be given into his hand, until a time, and times and the dividing of time. But the judgment shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it unto the end. And the kingdom, and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven shall be given to the holy people of the most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom and all powers shall serve and obey him. Even this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had many cogitations which troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

In the third year of the reign of King Belshazzar, a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, after that which appeared unto me at the first. And I saw in a vision, and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Shushan, which is in the province of Elam, and in a vision me thought I was by the river of Ulai. Then I looked up and saw, and behold, there stood before the river a ram, which had two horns: and these two horns were high: but one was higher then another, and the highest came up last. I saw the ram pushing against ye West, and against the North, and against the South: so that no beasts might stand before him, nor could deliver out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great. And as I considered, behold, a goat came from the West over the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and this goat had an horn that appeared between his eyes. And he came unto the ram that had the two horns, whom I had seen standing by the river, and ran unto him in his fierce rage. And I saw him come unto the ram, and being moved against him, he smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand against him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him, and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his power. Therefore the goat waxed exceeding great, and when he was at the strongest, his great horn was broken: and for it came up four that appeared toward the four winds of ye heaven. And out of one of them came forth a little horn, which waxed very great toward the South, and toward the East, and toward the pleasant land. Yea, it grew up unto the host of heaven, and it cast down some of the host, & of the stars to the ground, and trod upon them, and extolled himself against the prince of the host from whom the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his Sanctuary was cast down. And a time shall be given him over the daily sacrifice for the iniquity: and it shall cast down the truth to the ground, and thus shall it do, and prosper. Then I heard one of the Saints speaking, and one of the Saints spake unto a certain one, saying, How long shall endure the vision of the daily sacrifice, and the iniquity of the desolation to tread both the Sanctuary and the army under foot? And he answered me, Unto the evening and the morning, two thousand and three hundred: then shall the Sanctuary be cleansed.

Now when I Daniel had seen the vision, and sought for the meaning, behold, there stood before me like the similitude of a man. And I heard a mans voice between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision. So he came where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man: for in the last time shall be the vision. Now as he was speaking unto me, I being a sleep fell on my face to the ground: but he touched me, and set me up in my place. And he said, Behold, I will shew thee what shall be in the last wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shall come. The ram which thou sawest having two horns, are the Kings of the Medes and Persians. And the goat is the King of Grecia, and the great horn that is between his eyes, is the first King. And that that is broken, and four stood up for it, are four kingdoms, which shall stand up of that nation, but not in his strength. And in the end of their kingdom, when the rebellious shall be consumed, a King of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, shall stand up. And his power shall be mighty, but not in his strength: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practice, and shall destroy the mighty, and the holy people. And through his policy also, he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand, and he shall extol himself in his heart, and by peace shall destroy many: he shall also stand up against the prince of princes, but he shall be broken down without hand. And the vision of the evening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore seal thou up the vision, for it shall be after many days. And I Daniel was stricken and sick certain days: but when I rose up, I did the King's business, and I was astonished at the vision, but none understood it.

In the first year of Darius the son of Ahashuerosh, of the seed of the Medes, which was made King over the realm of the Caldeans, even in the first year of his reign, I Daniel understood by books the number of the years, whereof the Lord had spoken unto Jeremiah the Prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolation of Jerusalem. And I turned my face unto the Lord God, and sought by prayer and supplications with fasting and sackcloth and ashes. And I prayed unto the Lord my God, and made my confession, saying, Oh Lord God, which art great and fearful, & keepest covenant and mercy toward them which love thee, and toward them that keep thy commandments, we have sinned, and have committed iniquity and have done wickedly, yea, we have rebelled, and have departed from thy precepts, and from thy judgments. For we would not obey thy servants the Prophets, which spake in thy Name to our Kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land. O Lord, righteousness belongeth unto thee, and unto us open shame, as appeareth this day unto every man of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem: yea, unto all Israel, both near and far off, through all the countries, whither thou hast driven them, because of their offenses, that they have committed against thee. O Lord, unto us appertaineth open shame, to our Kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee. Yet compassion and forgiveness is in the Lord our God, albeit we have rebelled against him. For we have not obeyed the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he had laid before us by the ministry of his servants the Prophets. Yea, all Israel have transgressed thy Law, and are turned back, and have not heard thy voice: therefore the curse is powered upon us, and the oath that is written in the Law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him. And he hath confirmed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that judged us, by bringing upon us a great plague: for under the whole heaven hath not been the like, as hath been brought upon Jerusalem. All this plague is come upon us, as it is written in the Law of Moses: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turn from our iniquities and understand thy truth. Therefore hath the Lord made ready the plague, and brought it upon us: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his works which he doeth: for we would not hear his voice. And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast gotten thee renown, as appeareth this day, we have sinned, we have done wickedly. O Lord, according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy wrath be turned away from thy city Jerusalem thine holy Mountain: for because of our sins, & for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are a reproach to all that are about us. Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine upon thy Sanctuary, that lieth waste for the Lord's sake. O my God, incline thine ear and hear: open thine eyes, and behold our desolations, and the city whereupon thy Name is called: for we do not present our supplications before thee for our own righteousness, but for thy great tender mercies. O Lord, hear, O Lord forgive, O Lord consider, and do it: defer not, for thine own sake, O my God: for thy Name is called upon thy city, and upon thy people. And whiles I was speaking and praying, and confessing my sin, and the sin of my people Israel, and did present my supplication before the Lord my God, for the holy Mountain of my God, yea, while I was speaking in prayer, even the man Gabriel, whom I had seen before in the vision, came flying, and touched me about the time of the evening oblation. And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth to give thee knowledge and understanding. At the beginning of thy supplications the commandment came forth, and I am come to shew thee, for thou art greatly beloved: therefore understand the matter and consider the vision. Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thine holy city, to finish the wickedness, and to seal up the sins, and to reconcile the iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the most Holy. Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to bring again the people, and to build Jerusalem, unto Messiah the prince, shall be seven weeks and threescore and two weeks, and the street shall be built again, and the wall even in a troublous time. And after threescore and two weeks, shall Messiah be slain, and shall have nothing, and the people of the prince that shall come, shall destroy the city and the Sanctuary, and the end thereof shall be with a flood: and unto the end of the battle it shall be destroyed by desolations. And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of the abominations, he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation determined shall be powered upon the desolate.

In the third year of Cyrus King of Persia, a thing was revealed unto Daniel (whose name was called Belteshazzar) and the word was true, but the time appointed was long, and he understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision. At the same time I Daniel was in heaviness for three weeks of days. I ate no pleasant bread, neither came flesh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint my self at all, till three weeks of days were fulfilled. And in the four and twentieth day of the first month, as I was by the side of that great river, even Hiddekel, and I lift up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, there was a man clothed in linen, whose loins were girded with fine gold of Uphaz. His body also was like the Chrysolite, and his face (to look upon) like the lightning, & his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet were like in colour to polished brass, & the voice of his words was like the voice of a multitude. And I Daniel alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me, saw not the vision: but a great fear fell upon them, so that they fled away and hid themselves. Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision, and there remained no strength in me: for my strength was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no power. Yet heard I the voice of his words: and when I heard the voice of his words, I slept on my face: and my face was toward the ground. And behold, an hand touched me, which set me up upon my knees and upon the palms of mine hands. And he said unto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak unto thee, and stand in thy place: for unto thee am I now sent; when he had said this word unto me, I stood trembling. Then said he unto me, Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to humble thy self before thy God, thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words. But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me one and twenty days: but lo, Michael one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I remained there by the Kings of Persia. Now I am come to shew thee what shall come to thy people in the latter days: for yet the vision is for many days. And when he spake these words unto me, I set my face toward the ground, and held my tongue. And behold, one like the similitude of the sons of man touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said unto him that stood before me, O my Lord, by the vision my sorrows are returned upon me, and I have retained no strength. For how can the servant of this my Lord talk with my Lord being such one? for as for me, straight way there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me. Then there came again, and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, and said, O man, greatly beloved, fear not: peace be unto thee: be strong and of good courage; when he had spoken unto me, I was strengthened, and said, Let my Lord speak: for thou hast strengthened me. Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I am come unto thee? but now will I return to fight with the prince of Persia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the prince of Grecia shall come. But I will shew thee that which is decreed in the Scripture of truth: and there is none that holdeth with me in these things, but Michael your prince.

Also I, in ye first year of Darius of ye Medes, even I stood to encourage & to strengthen him. And now will I shew thee ye truth, Behold, there shall stand up yet three Kings in Persia, and the fourth shall be far richer then they all: and by his strength, and by his riches he shall stir up all against the realm of Grecia. But a mighty King shall stand up, that shall rule with great dominion, and do according to his pleasure. And when he shall stand up, his kingdom shall be broken, and shall be divided toward the four winds of heaven: and not to his posterity, nor according to his dominion, which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, even to be for others besides those. And ye King of ye South shall be mighty, and one of his princes, and shall prevail against him, & bear rule: his dominion shall be a great dominion. And in the end of years they shall be joined together: for the King's daughter of ye South shall come to the King of the North to make an agreement, but she shall not retain the power of the arm, neither shall he continue, nor his arm: but she shall be delivered to death, and they that brought her, and he that begat her, and he that comforted her in these times. But out of the bud of her roots shall one stand up in his stead, which shall come with an army, and shall enter into the fortress of the King of the North, and do with them as he list, and shall prevail, And shall also carry captives into Egypt their gods with their molten images, and with their precious vessels of silver and of gold, and he shall continue more years then the King of the North. So the King of ye South shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land. Wherefore his sons shall be stirred up, and shall assemble a mighty great army: and one shall come, and overflow, & pass through: then shall he return, and be stirred up at his fortress. And the King of the South shall be angry, and shall come forth, and fight with him, even with the King of the North: for he shall set forth a great multitude, and the multitude shall be given into his hand. Then the multitude shall be proud, and their heart shall be lifted up: for he shall cast down thousands: but he shall not still prevail. For the King of the North shall return, and shall set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come forth (after certain years) with a mighty army, and great riches. And at the same time there shall many stand up against the King of the South: also the rebellious children of thy people shall exalt them selves to establish the vision, but they shall fall. So the King of the North shall come, and cast up a mount, and take the strong city: and the arms of the South shall not resist, neither his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand. But he that shall come, shall do unto him as he list, and none shall stand against him: and he shall stand in the pleasant land, which by his hand shall be consumed. Again he shall set his face to enter with the power of his whole kingdom, and his confederates with him: thus shall he do, and he shall give him the daughter of women, to destroy her: but she shall not stand on his side, neither be for him. After this shall he turn his face unto the isles, and shall take many, but a prince shall cause his shame to light upon him, beside that he shall cause his own shame to turn upon himself. For he shall turn his face toward the forts of his own land: but he shall be overthrown and fall, and be no more found.

Then shall stand up in his place in the glory of the kingdom, one that shall raise taxes: but after few days he shall be destroyed, neither in wrath, nor in battle. And in his place shall stand up a vile person, to whom they shall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries. And the arms shall be overthrown with a flood before him, and shall be broken: and also the prince of the covenant. And after the league made with him, he shall work deceitfully: for he shall come up, and overcome with a small people. He shall enter into the quiet and plentiful province, and he shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers fathers: he shall divide among them the pray and the spoil, and the substance, yea, and he shall forecast his devices against the strong holds, even for a time. Also he shall stir up his power and his courage against the King of the South with a great army, and the King of the South shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army: but he shall not stand: for they shall forecast and practice against him. Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat, shall destroy him: & his army shall overflow: and many shall fall, and be slain. And both these King's hearts shall be to do mischief, and they shall talk of deceit at one table: but it shall not avail: for yet the end shall be at the time appointed. Then shall he return into his land with great substance: for his heart shall be against the holy covenant: so shall he do and return to his own land. At the time appointed he shall return, and come toward the South: but the last shall not be as the first. For the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore he shall be sorry and return, and fret against the holy covenant: so shall he do, he shall even return and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant. And arms shall stand on his part, and they shall pollute the Sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, and they shall set up the abominable desolation. And such as wickedly break ye covenant, shall he cause to sin by flattery: but the people that do know their God, shall prevail & prosper. And they that understand among the people, shall instruct many: yet they shall fall by sword, & by flame, by captivity & by spoil many days. Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a little help: but many shall cleave unto them feignedly. And some of the of understanding shall fall to try them, & to purge, & to make them white, till the time be out: for there is a time appointed. And the King shall do what him list: he shall exalt himself, and magnify himself against all, that is God, & shall speak marvelous things against ye God of gods, & shall prosper, till ye wrath be accomplished: for ye determination is made. Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers, nor the desires of women, nor care for any God: for he shall magnify himself above all. But in his place shall he honour the god Mauzzim, and the god whom his fathers knew not, shall he honour with gold and with silver, and with precious stones, and pleasant things. Thus shall he do in the holds of Mauzzim with a strange god whom he shall acknowledge: he shall increase his glory, and shall cause them to rule over many and shall divide ye land for gain. And at ye end of time shall the King of the South push at him, & the king of the North shall come against him like a whirlwind with chariots, & with horsemen, and with many ships, & he shall enter into ye countries, & shall overflow & pass through. He shall enter also into the pleasant land, and many countries shall be overthrown: but these shall escape out of his hand, even Edom and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon. He shall stretch forth his hands also upon the countries, and ye land of Egypt shall not escape. But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt, and of the Libyans, and of the black Mores where he shall pass. But the tidings out of the East & the North shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great wrath to destroy & root out many. And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace between the seas in the glorious and holy mountain, yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

And at that time shall Michael stand up, ye great prince, which standeth for ye children of thy people, & there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there began to be a nation unto that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in ye book. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth, shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and perpetual contempt. And they that be wise, shall shine, as ye brightness of the firmament: and they that turn many to righteousness, shall shine as the stars, for ever & ever. But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book till the end of the time: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

Then I Daniel looked, & behold, there stood other two, ye one on this side of ye brink of ye river, & the other on that side of ye brink of the river. And one said unto the man clothed in linen, which was upon ye waters of the river, When shall be the end of these wonders? And I heard ye man clothed in linen which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand, & his left hand unto heaven, & swear by him that liveth for ever, that it shall tarry for a time, two times & an half: & when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished.

Then I heard it, but I understood it not: then said I, O my Lord, what shall be ye end of these things? And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for ye words are closed up, and sealed, till the end of the time. Many shall be purified, made white, & tried: but the wicked shall do wickedly, and none of the wicked shall have understanding: but the wise shall understand. And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away & the abominable desolation set up, there shall be a thousand, two hundred & ninety days. Blessed is he that waiteth & cometh to the thousand, three hundred & five & thirty days. But go thou thy way till ye end be: for thou shalt rest & stand up in thy lot, at ye end of ye days.

There dwelt a man in Babylon called Joacim, and he took a wife, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, a very fair woman, & one that feared God. Her father and her mother also were godly people, and taught their daughter according to the Law of Moses. Now Joacim was a great rich man, and had a fair garden joining unto his house, and to him resorted the Jews, because he was more honourable then all others. The same year were appointed two of the ancients of the people to be Judges, such as the Lord speaketh of, that the iniquity came from Babylon, and from the ancient Judges, which seemed to rule the people. These haunted Joacim's house, and all such as had any thing to do in the Law, came thither unto them.

Now when the people departed away at noon, Susanna went into her husbands garden to walk. And the two Elders saw her that she went in daily and walked, so that their lust was inflamed toward her. Therefore they turned away their mind, & cast down their eyes, that they should not see heaven, nor remember just Judgments. And albeit they both were wounded with her love, yet durst not one shew another his grief. For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to have to do with her. Yet they watched diligently from day to day to see her. And the one said to the other, Let us go now home, for it is dinner time. So they went their way, & departed, one from another: yet they returned again, and came into the same place, and after that they had asked one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust: then appointed they a time both together when they might find her alone. Now when they had spied out a convenient time, that she went in, as her manner was, with two maids only, and thought to wash her self in the garden (for it was an hot season) And there was no body there, save the two Elders that had hid themselves, & watched for her: She said to her maids, Bring me oil and soap, & shut the garden doors, that I may wash me. And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden doors, and went out themselves at a back door, to set the thing that she had commanded thee: but they saw not the Elders, because they were hid. Now when the maids were gone forth, the two Elders rose up and ran unto her, saying. Behold, the garden doors are shut, that no man can see us, and we burn in love with thee: therefore consent unto us, and lie with us. If thou wilt not, we will bear witness against thee, that a young man was with thee, and therefore thou didst send away thy maids from thee. Then Susanna sighed, & said, I am in trouble on every side: for if I do this thing, it is death unto me: & if I do it not, I cannot escape your hands. It is better for me to fall into your hands, & not do it, then to sin in the sight of the Lord. With that Susanna cried with a loud voice, and the two Elders cried out against her. Then ran the one, and opened the garden door.

So when the servants of the house heard the cry in the garden, they rushed in at the back door, to see what was done unto her. But when the Elders had declared their matter, the servants were greatly ashamed: for there was never such a report made of Susanna. On the morrow after, came the people to Joacim her husband, and the two Elders came also, full of mischievous imagination against Susanna, to put her to death, and said before the people, Send for Susanna the daughter of Helcias Joacim's wife; immediately they sent. So she came with her father and mother, her children and all her kindred. Now Susanna was very tender, and fair of face. And these wicked men commanded to uncover her face (for she was covered) that they might so be satisfied with her beauty. Therefore they that were about her, and all they that knew her, wept. Then the two Elders stood up in the midst of the people, & laid their hands upon her head, which wept and looked up toward heaven: for her heart trusted in the Lord. And the Elders said, As we walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maids, whom she sent away from her, and shut the garden doors. Then a young man, which there was hid, come unto her, and lay with her. Then we which stood in a corner of the garden, seeing this wickedness, ran unto them, & we saw them as they were together, but we could not hold him: for he was stronger then we, & opened ye door, & leaped out. Now when we had taken this woman, we asked her what young man this was, but she would not tell us: of these things are we witnesses. Then the assembly believed them, as those that were the Elders and judges of the people: so they condemned her to death.

Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said, O everlasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things afore they come to pass, thou knowest, that they have borne false witness against me, and behold, I must die, whereas I never did such things as these men have maliciously invented against me. And the Lord heard her voice. Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a young child, whose name was Daniel. Who cried with a loud voice, I am clean from the blood of this woman. Then all the people turned them toward him, and said, What mean these words, that thou hast spoken? Then Daniel stood in the midst of them, and said, Are ye such fools, O Israelites, that without examination, or knowledge of the truth, ye have condemned a daughter of Israel? Return again to judgment: for they have borne false witness against her. Wherefore the people turned again in all haste, and the Elders said unto him, Come, sit down among us, and shew it us, seeing God hath given thee the office of an Elder. Then said Daniel unto them, Put these two aside, one far from another, and I will examine them. So when they were put asunder, one from another, he called one of them and said unto him, O thou that art old in a wicked life, now thy sins which thou hast committed aforetime, are come to light. For thou hast pronounced false judgments, and hast condemned the innocent, and hast let the guilty go free, albeit the Lord saith, The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay. Now then, if thou hast seen her, tell me, under what tree sawest thou them companying together? Who answered, under a jentiske tree. Then said Daniel, Verily thou hast lied against thine own head: for lo, the Angel of God hath received ye sentence of God, to cut thee in two. So put he him aside, and commanded to bring the other, and said unto him, O thou seed of Chanaan, and not of Judah, beauty hath deceived thee, and lust hath subverted thine heart. Thus have ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for fear companied with you: but the daughter of Judah would not abide your wickedness. Now therefore tell me, under what tree didst thou take the companying together? Who answered, under a prime tree. Then said Daniel unto him, Verily thou hast also lied against thine head: for the Angel of God waiteth with the sword to cut thee in two, and so to destroy you both. With that all the whole assembly cried with a loud voice, and praised God, which saveth them that trust in him. And they arose against the two Elders, (for Daniel had convicted them of false witness by their own mouth) And according to the Law of Moses they dealt with them, as they dealt wickedly against their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saved the same day. Therefore Helcias, and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, with Joacim her husband, and all the kindred, that there was no dishonesty found in her. From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputation in the sight of the people. And king Astyages was laid with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigned in his stead.

Now when King Astyages was laid with his fathers, Cyrus the Persian received his kingdom. And Daniel did eat at the king's table, and was honoured above all his friends. Now the Babylonians had an idol, called Bel, and there were spent upon him every day, twelve great measures of fine flour, and forty sheep, and six great pots of wine. And the king worshiped it, and went daily to honor it: But Daniel worshiped his own God; the king said unto him, Why dost not thou worship Bel? Who answered, and said, Because I may not worship idols made with hands, but the living God, which hath created the heaven and the earth, and hath power upon all flesh. Then said the king unto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a living God? seest thou not how much he eateth and drinketh every day? Then Daniel smiled and said, O king, be not deceived: for this is but clay within, and brass without, and did never eat any thing. So the king was wroth, and called for his Priests, and said unto them, If ye tell me not, who this is that eateth up these expenses, ye shall die: But if ye can certify me that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shall die: for he hath spoken blasphemy against Bel; Daniel said unto the king, Let it be according to thy word. (Now the Priests of Bel were threescore and ten, beside their wives and children:) and the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel. So Bel's Priests said, Behold, we will go out, and set thou the meat there, O king, and let the wine be filled: then shut the door fast, and seal it with thine own signet: And to morrow when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten up all, we will suffer death, or else Daniel that hath lied upon us. Now they thought themselves sure enough: for under ye table they had made a privy entrance, and there went they in ever, and took away the things. So when they were gone forth, the king set meats before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his servants to bring ashes, and these they strowed throughout all the Temple, in the presence of the king alone: then went they out, and shut the door, and sealed it with the king's signet, and so departed. Now in the night came ye Priests, with their wives and children, (as they were wont to do) and did eat and drink up all. In the morning betimes, the king arose and Daniel with him. And the king said, Daniel, are ye seals whole? Who answered, Yea, O king, they be whole. And as soon as he had opened the door, the king looked upon the table, and cried with a loud voice, Great art thou, O Bel, and with thee is no deceit. Then laughed Daniel, and held the king that he should not go in, and said, Behold now the pavement, and mark well whose footsteps are these. And the king said, I see the footsteps of men, women, and children: therefore the king was angry, and took the Priests, with their wives, and children, and they shewed him the privy doors, where they came in, and consumed such things as were upon the table. Therefore the king slew them, and delivered Bel into Daniel's power, who destroyed him and his temple.

Moreover in that same place there was a great Dragon, which the Babylonians worshiped. And the king said unto Daniel, Sayest thou, that this is of brass also? lo, he liveth and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say, that he is no living god: therefore worship him. Then said Daniel unto the king, I will worship the Lord my God: for he is the living God. But give me leave, O king, and I will slay this Dragon without sword or staff; the king said, I give thee leave. Then Daniel took pitch, and fat, and hear, and did seethe the together, and made lumps thereof: this he put in the Dragons mouth, and so the Dragon burst in sunder; Daniel said, Behold, whom ye worship. When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderful wroth, and gathered them together against the king, saying, The king is become a Jew for he hath destroyed Bel, and hath slain the Dragon, and put the Priests to death. So they came to the king, and said, Deliver us Daniel, or else we will destroy thee and thine house. Now when the king saw, that they preassed sore upon him, and that necessity constrained him, he delivered Daniel unto them: Who cast him into the Lyons den, where he was six days. In the den there were seven Lyons, and they had given them every day two bodies and two sheep, which then were not given them, to the intent that they might devour Daniel. Now there was in Jewry a Prophet called Abbacuc, which had made pottage, and broken bread into a bowl, and was going into the field for to bring it to the reapers. But the Angel of the Lord said unto Abbacuc, Go, carry the meat that thou hast, into Babylon unto Daniel, which is in the Lyons den. And Abbacuc said, Lord, I never saw Babylon, neither do I know where the den is. Then the Angel took him by the crown of the head, and bare him by the hear of the head, and through a mighty wind set him in Babylon upon the den. And Abbacuc cried, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent thee. Then said Daniel, O God, thou hast thought upon me, and thou never failest them that seek thee and love thee. So Daniel arose, and did eat, and the Angel of the Lord set Abbacuc in his own place again immediately. Upon the seventh day, the king went to bewail Daniel: and when he came to the den, he looked in, and behold, Daniel sat in the midst of the Lyons. Then cried the king with a loud voice, saying, Great art thou, O Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other besides thee. And he drew him out of the den, and cast them that were the cause of his destruction into the den, & they were devoured in a moment before his face.

HOSEA

The word of the Lord that came unto Hosea the son of Beerī, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel.

At the beginning the Lord spake by Hosea, and the Lord said unto Hosea, Go, take unto thee a wife of fornications, and children of fornications: for the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the Lord. So he went, & took Gomer, ye daughter of Diblaim, which conceived & bare him a son. And the Lord said unto him, Call his name Izreel: for yet a little, and I will visit the blood of Izreel upon the house of Jehu, and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel. And at that day will I also break the bow of Israel in the valley of Izreel. She conceived yet again, & bare a daughter, and God said unto him, Call her name Lo-ruhamah: for I will no more have pity upon the house of Israel: but I will utterly take them away. Yet I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them by bow, nor by sword nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen. Now when she had wained Lo-ruhamah, she conceived, and bare a son. Then said God, Call his name Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people: therefore will I not be yours. Yet the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which can not be measured nor told: and in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, it shall be said unto them, Ye are the sons of the living God. Then shall the children of Judah, and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint them selves one head, & they shall come up out of the land: for great is the day of Izreel.

Say unto your brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah, Plead with your mother: plead with her: for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, & her adulteries from between her breasts. Lest I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was borne, and make her as a wilderness, and leave her like a dry land, and slay her for thirst. And I will have no pity upon her children: for they be the children of fornications. For their mother hath played the harlot: she that conceived them, hath done shamefully: for she said, I will go after my lovers that give me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my drink. Therefore behold, I will stoop thy way with thorns, and make an hedge, that she shall not find her paths. Though she follow after her lovers, yet shall she not come at them: though she seek them, yet shall she not find them: then shall she say, I will go and return to my first husband: for at that time was I better then now.

Now she did not know that I gave her corn, and wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver and gold, which they bestowed upon Baal. Therefore will I return, and take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will recover my wool and my flax lent, to cover her shame. And now will I discover her lewdness in the sight of her lovers, and no man shall deliver her out of mine hand. I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her feast days, her new moons, and her Sabbaths, and all her solemn feasts. And I will destroy her vines & her fig trees, whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and I will make them as a forest, and the wild beasts shall eat them. And I will visit upon her the days of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to them: and she decked herself with her earrings and her jewels, and she followed her lovers, and forgot me, saith the Lord. Therefore behold, I will allure her, and bring her into the wilderness, and speak friendly unto her. And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and the valley of Achor for the door of hope, and she shall sing there as in the days of her youth, and as in the days when she came up out of the land of Egypt. And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me Ishi, and shalt call me no more Baali. For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall be no more remembered by their names.

And in that day will I make a covenant for them, with the wild beasts, and with the fowls of the heaven, and with that that creepeth upon the earth: and I will break the bow, and the sword and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to sleep safely. And I will marry thee unto me for ever: yea, I will marry thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgment, and in mercy and in compassion. I will even marry thee unto me in faithfulness, and thou shalt know the Lord. And in that day I will hear, saith the Lord, I will even hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth, and the earth shall hear the corn, & the wine, and the oil, and they shall hear Izreel. And I will sow her unto me in the earth, and I will have mercy upon her, that was not pitied, and I will say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; they shall say, Thou art my God.

Then said the Lord to me, Go yet, and love a woman (beloved of her husband, and was an harlot) according to the love of the Lord toward the children of Israel: yet they looked to other gods, and loved the wine bottles. So I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for an homer of barley and an half homer of barley. And I said unto her, Thou shalt abide with me many days: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be to none other man, and I will be so unto thee. For the children of Israel shall remain many days without a King & without a prince, and without an offering, and without an image, and without an Ephod and without Teraphim. Afterward shall the children of Israel convert, and seek the Lord their God, and David their King, and shall fear the Lord, and his goodness in the latter days.

Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth nor mercy nor knowledge of God in the land. By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring they break out, and blood toucheth blood. Therefore shall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth therein, shall be cut off, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of the heaven, and also the fishes of the sea shall be taken away. Yet let none rebuke, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest. Therefore shalt thou fall in the day, and the Prophet shall fall with thee in the night, and I will destroy thy mother. My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast refused knowledge, I will also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seeing thou hast forgotten the Law of thy God, I will also forget thy children. As they were increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glory into shame. They eat up the sins of my people, and lift up their minds in their iniquity. And there shall be like people, like Priest: for I will visit their ways upon them, and reward them their deeds. For they shall eat, and not have enough: they shall commit adultery, & shall not increase, because they have left off to take heed to ye Lord. Whoredom, and wine, and new wine take away their heart. My people ask counsel at their stocks, and their staff teacheth them: for the spirit of fornications hath caused them to err, and they have gone a whoring from under their God. They sacrifice upon the tops of ye mountains, and burn incense upon the hills under the oaks, and the poplar tree, and the elm, because the shadow thereof is good: therefore your daughters shall be harlots, and your spouses shall be whores. I will not visit your daughters when they are harlots: nor your spouses when they are whores: for they themselves are separated with harlots, and sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doeth not understand, shall fall. Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet let not Judah sin: come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to Beth-aven, nor swear, The Lord liueth. For Israel is rebellious as an unruly heifer. Now the Lord will feed them as a lamb in a large place. Ephraim is joined to idols: let him alone. Their drunkenness stinketh: they have committed whoredom: their rulers love to say with shame, Bring ye. The wind hath bound them up in her wings, and they shall be ashamed of their sacrifices.

O ye Priests, hear this, and hearken ye, O house of Israel, and give ye ear, O house of the King: for judgment is toward you, because you have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread upon Tabor. Yet they were profound, to decline to slaughter, though I have been a rebuker of them all. I know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim thou art become an harlot, and Israel is defiled. They will not give their minds to turn unto their God: for the spirit of fornication is in the midst of them, and they have not known the Lord. And the pride of Israel doth testify to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquity: Judah also shall fall with them. They shall go with their sheep, and with their bullocks to seek the Lord: but they shall not find him: for he hath withdrawn himself from them. They have transgressed against the Lord: for they have begotten strange children: now shall a moneth devour them with their portions. Blow ye the trumpet in Gibeah, and the shame in Ramah: cry out at Beth-aven, after thee, O Benjamin. Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I caused to know the truth. The princes of Judah were like them that remove the bound: therefore will I power out my wrath upon them like water. Ephraim is oppressed, and broken in judgment, because he willingly walked after the commandment. Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Judah as a rottenness. When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah his wound, then went Ephraim unto Asshur, and sent unto King Jareb: yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound. For I will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a lions whelp to the house of Judah: I, even I will spoil, and go away: I will take away, and none shall rescue it. I will go, and return to my place, till they acknowledge their fault, and seek me: in their affliction they will seek me diligently.

Come, and let us return to the Lord: for he hath spoiled, and he will heal us: he hath wounded us, and he will bind us up. After two days will he revive us, and in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. Then shall we have knowledge, and endeavor our selves to know the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shall come unto us as the rain, and as the latter rain unto the earth. O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, how shall I entreat thee? for your goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the morning dew it goeth away. Therefore have I cut down by the Prophets: I have slain them by the words of my mouth, and thy judgments were as the light that goeth forth. For I desired mercy, and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more then burnt offerings. But they like men have transgressed the covenant: there have they trespassed against me. Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity, and is polluted with blood. And as the eves wait for a man, so the company of Priests murder in the way by consent: for they work mischief. I have seen villainy in the house of Israel: there is ye whoredom of Ephraim: Israel is defiled. Yea, Judah hath set a plant for thee, whiles I would return ye captivity of my people. When I would have healed Israel, then the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and the wickedness of Samaria: for they have dealt falsely: and the thief cometh in, and the robber spoileth without. And they consider not in their hearts, that I remember all their wickedness: now their own inventions have beset them about: they are in my sight. They make the King glad with their wickedness, and the princes with their lies. They are all adulterers, and as a very oven heated by ye baker, which ceaseth from raising up, and from kneading ye dough until it be leavened. This is the day of our King: the princes have made him sick with flagons of wine: he stretcheth out his hand to scorners. For they have made ready their heart like an oven whiles they lie in wait: their baker sleepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire. They are all hot as an oven, and have devoured their judges: all their Kings are fallen: there is none among them that calleth unto me. Ephraim hath mixed himself among the people. Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned. Strangers have devoured his strength, and he knoweth it not: yea, gray hairs are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not. And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they do not return to the Lord their God, nor seek him for all this. Ephraim also is like a dove deceived, without heart: they call to Egypt: they go to Asshur. But when they shall go, I will spread my net upon them, and draw them down as the fowls of the heaven: I will chastise them as their congregation hath heard. Woe unto them: for they have fled away from me: destruction shall be unto them, because they have transgressed against me: though I have redeemed them, yet they have spoken lyes against me. And they have not cried unto me with their hearts, when they howled upon their beds: they assembled themselves for corne, and wine, and they rebel against me. Though I have bound & strengthened their arm, yet doe they imagine mischief against me. They return, but not to the most high: they are like a deceitful bow: their princes shall fall by the sword, for the rage of their tongues: this shall be their derision in the land of Egypt.

Set the trumpet to thy mouth: he shall come as an eagle against the House of the Lord, because they have transgressed my covenant, & trespassed against my Law. Israel shall cry unto me, My God, we know thee. Israel hath cast off ye thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him. They have set up a King, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: of their silver and their gold have they made them idols: therefore shall they be destroyed. Thy calf, O Samaria, hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be without innocency! For it came even from Israel: the workman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calf of Samaria shall be broken in pieces. For they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind: it hath no stalk: the bud shall bring forth no meal: if so be it bring forth, the strangers shall devour it. Israel is devoured, now shall they be among the Gentiles as a vessel wherein is no pleasure. For they are gone up to Asshur: they are as a wild ass alone by himself: Ephraim hath hired lovers. Yet though they have hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they shall sorrow a little, for the burden of the King and the princes. Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sin, his altars shall be to sin. I have written to them the great things of my Law: but they were counted as a strange thing. They sacrifice flesh for ye sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it: but the Lord accepteth them not: now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: they shall return to Egypt. For Israel hath forgotten his maker, and buildeth Temples, & Judah hath increased strong cities: but I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

Rejoice not, O Israel for joy as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God: thou hast loved a reward upon every corn floor. The floor, and the wine press shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her. They will not dwell in the Lord's land, but Ephraim will return to Egypt, and they will eat unclean things in Asshur. They shall not offer wine to the Lord, neither shall their sacrifices be pleasant unto him: but they shall be unto them as the bread of mourners: all that eat thereof, shall be polluted: for their bread for their souls shall not come into the house of the Lord. What will ye do then in the solemn day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord? For lo, they are gone from destruction: but Egypt shall gather them up, and Memphis shall bury them: the nettle shall possess the pleasant places of their silver, and the thorn shall be in their tabernacles. The days of visitation are come: the days of recompense are come: Israel shall know it: the Prophet is a fool: the spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity: therefore the hatred is great. The watchman of Ephraim should be with my God: but the Prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his ways, and hatred in the House of his God. They are deeply set: they are corrupt as in the days of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sins. I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness: I saw your fathers as the first ripe in the fig tree at her first time: but they went to Baal-Peor, and separated themselves unto that shame, and their abominations were according to their lovers. Ephraim their glory shall flee away like a bird: from the birth and from the womb, and from the conception. Though they bring up their children, yet I will deprive them from being men: yea, woe to them, when I depart from them. Ephraim, as I saw, is as a tree in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer. O Lord, give them: what wilt thou give them? give them a barren womb and dry breasts. All their wickedness is in Gilgal: for there do I hate them: for the wickedness of their inventions, I will cast them out of mine House: I will love them no more: all their princes are rebels. Ephraim is smitten, their root is dried up: they can bring no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I slay even the dearest of their body. My God will cast them away, because they did not obey him: and they shall wander among the nations.

Israel is an empty vine, yet hath it brought forth fruit unto itself, and according to the multitude of the fruit thereof he hath increased the altars: according to the goodness of their land they have made fair images. Their heart is divided: now shall they be found faulty: he shall break down their altars: he shall destroy their images. For now they shall say, We have no King because we feared not the Lord: and what should a King do to us? They have spoken words, swearing falsely in making a covenant: thus judgment groweth as wormwood in the furrows of the field. The inhabitants of Samaria shall fear because of the calf of Beth-aven: for the people thereof shall mourn over it, and the Chemarims thereof, that rejoiced on it for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it. It shall be also brought to Asshur, for a present unto King Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his own counsel. Of Samaria, the King thereof is destroyed as the sum upon the water. The high places also of Aven shall be destroyed, even the sin of Israel: the thorn and the thistle shall grow upon their altars, and they shall say to the mountains, Cover us, and to the hills, Fall upon us. O Israel, thou hast sinned from the days of Gibeah: there they stood: the battle in Gibeah against the children of iniquity did not touch them. It is my desire that I should chastise them, and the people shall be gathered against them, when they shall gather themselves in their two furrows. And Ephraim is as an heifer used to delight in threshing: but I will pass by her fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride: Judah shall plow, and Jaakob shall break his clods. Sow to your selves in righteousness: reap after the measure of mercy: break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the Lord, till he come and rain righteousness upon you. But you have plowed wickedness: ye have reaped iniquity: you have eaten the fruit of lies: because thou didst trust in thine own ways, and in the multitude of thy strong men, therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy munitions shall be destroyed, as Shalman destroyed Beth-arbell in the day of battle: the mother with the children was dashed in pieces. So shall Beth-el do unto you, because of your malicious wickedness: in a morning shall the King of Israel be destroyed.

When Israel was a child, then I loved him, and called my son out of Egypt. They called them, but they went thus from them: they sacrificed unto Baalim, and burnt incense to images. I led Ephraim also, as one should bear them in his arms: but they knew not that I healed them. I led them with cords of a man, even with bands of love, and I was to them, as he that taketh off the yoke from their jaws, and I laid the meat unto them. He shall no more return into the land of Egypt: but Asshur shall be his King, because they refused to convert. And the sword shall fall on his cities, and shall consume his bars, and devour them, because of their own counsels. And my people are bent to rebellion against me:

though they called them to the most high, yet none at all would exalt him. How shall I give thee up, Ephraim? how shall I deliver thee, Israel? How shall I make thee, as Admah? how shall I set thee, as Zeboim? Mine heart is turned within me: my repentings are ruled together. I will not execute ye fierceness of my wrath: I will not return to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man, the holy one in the midst of thee, and I will not enter into the city. They shall walk after the Lord: he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children of the West shall fear. They shall fear as a sparrow out of Egypt, and as a dove of the land of Asshur, and I will place them in their houses, saith the Lord. Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful with the Saints.

Ephraim is fed with the wind, and followeth after the East wind: he increaseth daily lies and destruction, & they do make a covenant with Asshur, and oil is carried into Egypt. The Lord hath also a controversy with Judah, and will visit Jaakob, according to his ways: according to his works, will he recompense him. He took his brother by the heel in the womb, and by his strength he had power with God, and had power over the Angel, and prevailed: he wept and prayed unto him: he found him in Beth-el, and there he spake with us. Yea, the Lord God of hosts, the Lord is himself his memorial. Therefore turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and hope still in thy God. 7 He is Canaan: the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to oppress. And Ephraim said, Notwithstanding I am rich, I have found me out riches in all my labours: they shall find none iniquity in me, that were wickedness. Though I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, yet will I make thee to dwell in the tabernacles, as in the days of the solemn feast. I have also spoken by the Prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and used similitudes by the ministry of the Prophets. Is there iniquity in Gilead? surely they are vanity: they sacrifice bullocks in Gilgal, and their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the field. And Jaakob fled into the country of Aram, and Israel served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep. And by a Prophet the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt, & by a Prophet was he reserved. But Ephraim provoked him with high places: therefore shall his blood be poured upon him, and his reproach shall his Lord reward him.

When Ephraim spake, there was trembling: he exalted himself in Israel, but he hath sinned in Baal, and is dead. And now they sin more and more, and have made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their own understanding: they were all the work of the craftsmen: they say one to another whiles they sacrifice a man, Let them kiss the calves. Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the morning dew that passeth away, as the chaff that is driven with a whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke that goeth out of the chimney. Yet I am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no God but me: for there is no Saviour beside me. I did know thee in the wilderness, in the land of drought. As in their pastures, so were they filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted: therefore have they forgotten me. And I will be unto them as a very lion, and as a leopard in the way of Asshur. I will meet them, as a bear that is robbed of her whelps, and I will break the kall of their heart, and there will I devour them like a lion: the wild beast shall tear them. O Israel, one hath destroyed thee, but in me is thine help. I am: where is thy King, that should help thee in all thy cities? and thy judges, of whom thou saidest, Give me a King, and princes? I gave thee a King in mine anger, and I took him away in my wrath. The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up: his sin is hid. The sorrows of a travailing woman shall come upon him: he is an unwise son, else would he not stand still at the time, even at the breaking forth of the children. I will redeem them from the power of the grave: I will deliver them from death: O death, I will be thy death: O grave, I will be thy destruction: repentance is hid from mine eyes. Though he grew up among his brethren, an East wind shall come, even the wind of the Lord shall come up from the wilderness, and dry up his vein, and his fountain shall be dried up: he shall spoil the treasure of all pleasant vessels. Samaria shall be desolate: for she hath rebelled against her God: they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, & their women with child shall be ripped.

O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God: for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity. Take unto you words, & turn to the Lord, and say unto him, Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously: so will we render the calves of our lips. Asshur shall not save us, neither will we ride upon horses, neither will we say any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherless findeth mercy. I will heal their rebellion: I will love them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him. I will be as the dew unto Israel: he shall grow as the lily and fasten his roots, as the trees of Lebanon. His branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the olive tree, and his smell as Lebanon. They that dwell under his shadow, shall return: they shall revive as the corn, and flourish as the vine: the sent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon. Ephraim shall say, What have I to do any more with idols? I have heard him, and looked upon him: I am like a green fir tree: upon me is thy fruit found. Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? and prudent, and he shall know them? for the ways of the Lord are righteous, and the just shall walk in them: but the wicked shall fall therein.

JOEL

The word of the Lord that came to Joel the son of Pethuel.

Hear ye this, O Elders, and hearken ye all inhabitants of the land, whether such a thing hath been in your days, or yet in the days of your fathers. Tell you your children of it, and let your children shew to their children, and their children to another generation. That which is left of ye palmer worm, hath the grasshopper eaten, & the residue of ye grasshopper hath the canker worm eaten, and the residue of the canker worm hath the caterpillar eaten. Awake ye drunkards, and weep, & howl all ye drinkers of wine, because of the new wine: for it shall be pulled from your mouth. Yea, a nation cometh upon my land, mighty, & without number, whose teeth are like the teeth of a lion, and he hath the jaws of a great lion. He maketh my vine waste, & peeleveth off the bark of my fig tree: he maketh it bare, and casteth it down: ye branches thereof are made white. Mourn like a virgin girded with sackcloth for the husband of her youth. The meat offering, & the drink offering is cut off from the House of the Lord: the Priests the Lord's ministers mourn. The field is wasted: the land mourneth: for the corn is destroyed: the new wine is dried up, and the oil is decayed. Be ye ashamed, O husband men: howl, O ye vine dressers for the wheat, and for the barley, because the harvest of the field is perished. The vine is dried up, and the fig tree is decayed: the pomegranate tree & the palm tree, and the apple tree, even all the trees of the field are withered: surely the joy is withered away from the sons of men. Gird your selves and lament, ye Priests: howl ye ministers of the altar: come, and lie all night in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: for the meat offering, and the drink offering is taken away from the house of your God. Sanctify you a fast: call a solemn assembly: gather the Elders, and all the inhabitants of the land into the House of the Lord your God, and cry unto the Lord, Alas: for the day, for the day of the Lord is at hand, and it cometh as a destruction from the Almighty. Is not the meat cut off before our eyes? & joy, and gladness from the house of our God? The seed is rotten under their clods: the garners are destroyed: the barns are broken down, for the corn is withered. How did the beasts mourn! the herds of cattle pine away, because they have no pasture, & the flocks of sheep are destroyed.

O Lord, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burnt up all the trees of the field. The beasts of the field cry also unto thee: for the rivers of waters are dried up, and the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness. Blow the trumpet in Zion, and shout in mine holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord is come: for it is at hand. A day of darkness, and of blackness, a day of clouds, & obscurity, as the morning spread upon the mountains, so is there a great people, and a mighty: there was none like it from the beginning, neither shall be any more after it, unto the years of many generations. A fire devoureth before him, and behind him a flame burneth up: the land is as the garden of Eden before him, & behind him a desolate wilderness, so that nothing shall escape him. The beholding of him is like the sight of horses, & like the horsemen, so shall they run. Like the noise of chariots in the tops of the mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, and as a mighty people prepared to the battle. Before his face shall the people tremble: all faces shall gather blackness. They shall run like strong men, and go up to the wall like men of war, and every man shall go forward in his ways, and they shall not stay in their paths. Neither shall one thrust another, but every one shall walk in his path: and when they fall upon the sword, they shall not be wounded. They shall run to & fro in the city: they shall run upon the wall: they shall climb up upon the houses, & enter in at ye windows like ye thief. The earth shall tremble before him, ye heavens shall shake, the sun & the moon shall be dark, & the stars shall withdraw their shining, and the Lord shall utter his voice before his host: for his host is very great: for he is strong that doeth his word: for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible, and who can abide it? Therefore also now the Lord saith, Turn you unto me with all your heart, & with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning, and rent your heart, & not your clothes: and turn unto the Lord your God, for he is gracious, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil. Who knoweth, if he will return & repent & leave a blessing behind him, even a meat offering, & a drink offering unto ye Lord your God?

Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly. Gather the people: sanctify the congregation, gather the elders: assemble the children, & those that suck the breasts: let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her bride chamber. Let the Priests, the ministers of the Lord weep between the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage into reproach that the heathen should rule over them. Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God? Then will the Lord be jealous over his land, and spare his people.

Yea, the Lord will answer and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you corn, and wine, and oil, and you shall be satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen, but I will remove far off from you the Northern army, & I will drive him into a land, barren & desolate with his face toward the East sea, and his end to the utmost sea, and his stink shall come up, and his corruption shall ascend, because he hath exalted himself to do this. Fear not, O land, but be glad, and rejoice: for the Lord will do great things. Be not afraid, ye beasts of the field: for the pastures of the wilderness are green: for the tree beareth her fruit: the fig tree & the vine do give their force. Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the rain of righteousness, he will cause to come down for you the rain, even the first rain, and the latter rain in the first month. And the barns shall be full of wheat, and the presses shall abound with wine and oil. And I will render you the years that the grasshopper hath eaten, the canker worm and the caterpillar and the palmer worm, my great host which I sent among you. So you shall eat and be satisfied and praise the Name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt marvelously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed. Ye shall also know, that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God and none other, & my people shall never be ashamed. And afterward will I pour out my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons & your daughters shall prophecy: your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions, and also upon the servants, and upon the maids in those days will I pour my Spirit. And I will shew wonders in the heavens & in the earth: blood & fire, & pillars of smoke. The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and terrible day of the Lord come. But whosoever shall call on the Name of the Lord, shall be saved: for in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the Lord hath said, and in the remnant, whom the Lord shall call. For behold, in those days and in that time, when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem, I will also gather all nations, and will bring them down into the valley of Jehoshaphat, & will plead with them there for my people, & for mine heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land. And they have cast lots for my people, and have given the child for the harlot, & sold the girl for wine, that they might drink. Yea, and what have you to do with me, O Tyrus and Zidon and all the coasts of Palestina? will ye render me a recompense? and if ye recompense me, swiftly and speedily will I render your recompense upon your head: For ye have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried into your temples my goodly and pleasant things. The children also of Judah and the children of Jerusalem have you sold unto the Grecians, that ye might send them far from their border. Behold, I will raise them out of the place where ye have sold them, and will render your reward upon your own head, and I will send your sons & your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah, and they shall sell them to the Sabeans, to a people far off: for the Lord hath spoken it. Publish this among the Gentiles: prepare war, wake up the mighty men: let all the men of war draw near and come up. Break your plowshares into swords, and your sithes into spears: let the weak say, I am strong. Assemble your selves, and come all ye heathen and gather your selves together round about: there shall the Lord cast down the mighty men. Let the heathen be wakened, and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there will I sit to judge all the heathen round about. Put in your sithes, for the harvest is ripe: come, get you down, for the winepress is full: yea, the winepresses run over, for their wickedness is great.

O multitude, O multitude, come into the valley of threshing: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of threshing. The sun & moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their light. The Lord also shall roar out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the heavens and the earth shall shake, but the Lord will be the hope of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel. So shall ye know that I am the Lord your God dwelling in Zion, mine holy Mountain: then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no strangers go through her any more. And in that day shall the mountains drop down new wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, and all the rivers of Judah shall run with waters, and a fountain shall come forth of the House of the Lord, and shall water the valley of Shittim. Egypt shall be waste, and Edom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the injuries of the children of Judah, because they have shed innocent blood in their land. But Judah shall dwell for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation. For I will cleanse their blood, that I have not cleansed, and the Lord will dwell in Zion.

AMOS

The words of Amos, who was among the herdsmen at Tecoa, which he saw upon Israel, in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash King of Israel, two year before the earthquake. And he said, The Lord shall roar from Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the dwelling places of the shepherds shall perish, and the top of Carmel shall wither, thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four I will not turn to it, because they have threshed Gilead with threshing instruments of iron. Therefore will I send a fire into the house of Hazael, and it shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad. I will break also the bars of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant of Bikeath-aven: and him that holdeth the scepter out of Beth-eden, and the people of Aram shall go into captivity unto Kir, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Azzah, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they carried away prisoners the whole captivity to shut them up in Edom. Therefore will I send a fire upon the walls of Azzah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof. And I will cut off the inhabitant from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the scepter from Ashkelon, and turn mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistims shall perish, saith the Lord God. Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they shut the whole captivity in Edom, and have not remembered the brotherly covenant. Therefore will I send a fire upon ye walls of Tyrus, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Edom, and for four, I will not turn to it, because he did pursue his brother with the sword, and did cast off all pity, and his anger spoiled him evermore, and his wrath watched him alway. Therefore will I send a fire upon Teman, and it shall devour the palaces of Bozrah. Thus saith ye Lord, For three transgressions of the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they have ripped up the women with child of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border. Therefore will I kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battle, and with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind. And their King shall go into captivity, he and his princes together, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Moab, and for four, I will not turn to it, because it burnt the bones of the King of Edom into lime. Therefore will I send a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the palaces of Kerioth, and Moab shall die with tumult, with shouting, and with the sound of a trumpet. And I will cut off the judge out of the midst thereof, and will slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they have cast away the Law of the Lord, and have not kept his commandments, and their lies caused them to error after the which their fathers have walked. Therefore will I send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they sold the righteous for silver and the poor for shoes. They gape over the head of the poor, in the dust of the earth, and pervert the ways of the meek: and a man and his father will go in to a maid to dishonour mine holy Name. And they lie down upon clothes laid to pledge by every altar: and they drink the wine of the condemned in the house of their God. Yet destroyed I the Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks: notwithstanding I destroyed his fruit from above, and his root from beneath. Also I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and led you forty years through the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite. And I raised up of your sons for Prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord? But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink, and commanded the Prophets, saying, Prophecy not. Behold, I am pressed under you as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaves. Therefore the flight shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, neither shall the mighty save his life. Nor he that handleth the bow, shall stand, and he that is swift of foot, shall not escape, neither shall he that rideth the horse, save his life. And he that is of a mighty courage among the strong men, shall flee away naked in that day, saith the Lord.

Hear this word that the Lord pronounceth against you, O children of Israel, even against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying, You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I will visit you for all your iniquities. Can two walk together except they be agreed? Will a lion roar in ye forest, when he hath no prey? or will a lion's whelp cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing? Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth, where no fouler is? or will he take up the snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all? Or shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people be not afraid? or shall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it? Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the Prophets. The lion hath roared: who will not be afraid? the Lord God hath spoken: who can but prophecy? Proclaim in the palaces at Ashdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble your selves upon the mountains of Samaria: so behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the oppressed in the midst thereof. For they know not to do right, saith the Lord: they store up violence, and robbery in their palaces. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, An adversary shall come even round about the country, and shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled. Thus saith the Lord, As the shepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear: so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus, as in a couch. Hear, and testify in the house of Jakob, saith the Lord God, the God of hosts. Surely in the day that I shall visit the transgressions of Israel upon him, I will also visit the altars of Beth-el, and the horns of the altar shall be broken off, and fall to the ground. And I will smite the winter house with the summer house, and the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses shall be consumed, saith the Lord.

Hear this word, ye kine of Bashan that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, & destroy the needy, and they say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink. The Lord God hath sworn by his holiness, that lo, the days shall come upon you, that he will take you away with thorns, & your posterity with fish hooks. And ye shall go out at the breaches every cow forward: and ye shall cast your selves out of the palace, saith the Lord. Come to Beth-el, & transgress: to Gilgal, & multiply transgression, & bring your sacrifices in the morning, & your tithes after three years. And offer a thanksgiving of leaven, publish & proclaim the free offerings: for this liketh you, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord God. And therefore have I given you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, & scarceness of bread in all your places, yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord. And also I have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest, and I caused it to rain upon one city, & have not caused it to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered. So two or three cities wandered unto one city to drink water, but they were not satisfied: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord. I have smitten you with blasting, and mildew: your great gardens and your vineyards, & your fig trees, and your olive trees did the palmer worm devour: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord. Pestilence have I sent among you, after the manner of Egypt: your young men have I slain with the sword, & have taken away your horses: & I have made the stink of your tents to come up even into your nostrils: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord. I have overthrown you, as God overthrew Sodom & Gomorrah: and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord. Therefore, thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, prepare to meet thy God, O Israel. For lo, he that formeth the mountains, & createth the wind, & declareth unto man what is his thought: which maketh the morning darkness, & walketh upon the high places of the earth, the Lord God of hosts is his Name.

Hear ye this word, which I lift up upon you, even a lamentation of the house of Israel. The virgin Israel is fallen, and shall no more rise: she is left upon her land, and there is none to raise her up. For thus saith ye Lord God, The city which went out by a thousand, shall leave an hundred: and that which went forth by an hundred, shall leave ten to the house of Israel. For thus saith the Lord unto the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live. But seek not Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, & go not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall go into captivity, and Beth-el shall come to naught. Seek the Lord, and ye shall live, lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph & devour it, & there be none to quench it in Beth-el. They turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth. He maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and he maketh the day dark as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the open earth: the Lord is his Name. He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mighty: and the destroyer shall come against the fortress. They have hated him, that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorred him that speaketh uprightly. Forasmuch then as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat, ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them: ye have plated pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them. For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mighty sins: they afflict the just, they take rewards, & they oppress the poor in ye gate. Therefore the prudent shall keep silence in that time, for it is an evil time. Seek good and not evil, that ye may live: and the Lord God of hosts shall be with you, as you have spoken. Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be merciful unto the remnant of Joseph. Therefore the Lord God of hosts, the Lord saith thus, Mourning shall be in all streets: & they shall say in all the high ways, Alas, alas: & they shall call the husbandman to lamentation, and such as can mourn, to mourning. And in all the vines shall be lamentation: for I will pass through thee, saith the Lord. Wo unto you, that desire the day of the Lord: what have you to do with it? the day of the Lord is darkness and not light. As if a man did flee from a lion, & a bear met him: or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him. Shall not the day of the Lord be darkness, and not light? even darkness and no light in it? I hate and abhor your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies. Though ye offer me burnt offerings & meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts. Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs (for I will not hear the melody of thy viols) and let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty river. Have ye offered unto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness forty years, O house of Israel? But you have borne Siccuth your King, and Chiun your images, and the star of your gods, which ye made to your selves. Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity beyond Damascus, saith the Lord, whose Name is the God of hosts.

Wo to them that are at ease in Zion and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which were famous at the beginning of the nations: and the house of Israel came to them. Go you unto Calneh, and see: and from thence go you to Hamath the great: then go down to Gath of the Philistims: be they better then these kingdoms? or the border of their land greater then your border, ye that put far away the evil day, and approach to the seat of iniquity? They lie upon beds of ivory, & stretch themselves upon their beds, & eat the lambs of the flock, and the calves out of the stall. They sing to the sound of the viol: they invent to themselves instruments of music like David. They drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments, but no man is sorry for the affliction of Joseph. Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the sorrow of them that stretched themselves, is at hand. The Lord God hath sworn by himself, saith the Lord God of hosts, I abhor the excellency of Jakob, & hate his palaces: therefore will I deliver up the city with all that is therein. And if there remain ten men in one house, they shall die. And his uncle shall take him up & burn him to carry out the bones out of the house, and shall say unto him, that is by ye sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? And he shall say, None. Then shall he say, Hold thy tongue: for we may not remember the Name of the Lord. For behold, the Lord commandeth, and he will smite the great house with breaches, and the little house with clefts. Shall horses run upon the rock? or will one plow there with oxen? for ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood. Ye rejoice in a thing of naught: ye say, Have not we gotten us horns by our own strength? But behold, I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel, saith the Lord God of hosts: and they shall afflict you, from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of the wilderness.

Thus hath the Lord God shewed unto me, and behold, he formed grasshoppers in the beginning of ye shooting up of the latter growth: and lo, it was in the latter growth after the King's mowing. And when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, then I said, O Lord God, spare, I beseech thee: who shall raise up Jakob? for he is small. So the Lord repented for this. It shall not be, saith the Lord. Thus also hath the Lord God shewed unto me, and behold, the Lord God called to judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part. Then said I, O Lord God, cease, I beseech thee: who shall raise up Jakob? for he is small. So the Lord repented for this. This also shall not be, saith the Lord God. Thus again he shewed me, and behold, the Lord stood upon a wall made by line with a line in his hand. And the Lord said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A line. Then said the Lord, Behold, I will set a line in the midst of my people Israel, and will pass by them no more. And the high places of Izhak shall be desolate, and the temples of Israel shall be destroyed: and I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword. Then Amaziah the Priest of Beth-el sent to Jeroboam King of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words. For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be led away captive out of their own land. Also Amaziah said unto Amos, O thou the Seer, go, flee thou away into the land of Judah, & there eat thy bread and prophecy there. But prophecy no more at Beth-el: for it is the Kings chapel, and it is the King's court. Then answered Amos, & said to Amaziah, I was no Prophet, neither was I a prophet's son, but I was an herdsman, & a gatherer of wild figs. And the Lord took me as I followed the flock, and the Lord said unto me, Go, prophecy unto my people Israel. Now therefore hear thou the word of the Lord. Thou sayest, Prophecy not against Israel, & speak nothing against the house of Izhak. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Thy wife shall be an harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line: and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall surely go into captivity forth of his land.

Thus hath the Lord God shewed unto me, & behold, a basket of summer fruit. And he said, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of summer fruit. Then said the Lord unto me, The end is come upon my people of Israel, I will pass by them no more. And the songs of the Temple shall be howlings in that day, saith the Lord God: many dead bodies shall be in every place: they shall cast them forth with silence. Hear this, O ye that swallow up the poor, that ye may make the needy of the land to fail, saying, When will the new month be gone, that we may sell corn? and the Sabbath, that we may set forth wheat, and make the Ephah small, and the shekel great, and falsify the weights by deceit? That we may buy the poor for silver, and the needy for shoes: yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat. The Lord hath sworn by the excellency of Jakob, Surely I will never forget any of their works. Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn, that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise up wholly as a flood, and it shall be cast out, and drowned as by the flood of Egypt. And in that day, saith the Lord God, I will even cause the sun to go down at noon: and I will darken the earth in the clear day. And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation: and I will bring sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head: and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day. Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the word of the Lord. And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the North even unto the East shall they run to and fro to seek the word of the Lord, and shall not find it. In that day shall the fair virgins and the young men perish for thirst. They that swear by the sin of Samaria, and that say, Thy God, O Dan, liveth, and the manner of Beer-sheba liveth, even they shall fall, and never rise up again.

I saw the Lord standing upon the altar, and he said, Smite the lintel of the door, that the posts may shake: and cut them in pieces, even the heads of them all, and I will slay the last of them with the sword: he that fleeth of them, shall not flee away: and he that escapeth of them, shall not be delivered. Though they dig into the hell, thence shall mine hand take them: though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down. And though they hide them selves in the top of Carmel, I will search and take them out thence: and though they be hid from my sight in the bottom of the sea, thence will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them. And though they go into captivity before their enemies, thence will I command the sword, and it shall slay them: and I will set mine eyes upon them for evil, and not for good. And the Lord God of hosts shall touch the land, and it shall melt away, & all that dwell therein shall mourn, and it shall rise up wholly like a flood, and shall be drowned as by the flood of Egypt. He buildeth his spheres in the heaven, and hath laid the foundation of his globe of elements in the earth: he calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the open earth: the Lord is his Name. Are ye not as the Ethiopians unto me, O children of Israel, saith the Lord? have not I brought up Israel out of the land of Egypt? and the Philistims from Caphtor, and Aram from Kir? Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it clean out of the earth. Nevertheless I will not utterly destroy the house of Jakob, saith the Lord. For lo, I will command and I will sift the house of Israel among all nations, like as corn is sifted in a sieve: yet shall not the least stone fall upon the earth. But all the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, which say, The evil shall not come, nor hasten for us. In that day will I raise up the tabernacle of David, that is fallen down, and close up the breaches thereof, and I will raise up his ruins, and I will build it, as in the days of old, that they may possess the remnant of Edom, and of all the heathen, because my Name is called upon them, saith the Lord, that doeth this. Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that the plowman shall touch the mower, and the treader of grapes him that soweth seed: and the mountains shall drop sweet wine, and all the hills shall melt. And I will bring again the captivity of my people of Israel: and they shall build the waste cities, and inhabit the, and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof: they shall also make gardens, and eat the fruits of them. And I will plant them upon their land, and they shall no more be pulled up again out of their land, which I have given them, saith the Lord thy God.

OBADIAH

The vision of Obadiah. Thus saith the Lord God against Edom, We have heard a rumor from the Lord, and an ambassadour is sent among the heathen: arise, & let us rise up against her to battle. Behold, I have made thee small among the heathen: thou art utterly despised. The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee: thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rocks, whose habitation is high, that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground? Though thou exalt thy self as the eagle, and make thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the Lord. Came thieves to thee or robbers by night? how wast thou brought to silence? would they not have stolen, till they had enough? if the grape gatherers came to thee, would they not leave some grapes? How are the things of Esau sought up, and his treasures searched? All the men of thy confederacy have driven thee to ye borders: the men that were at peace with thee, have deceived thee, and prevailed against thee: they that eat thy bread, have laid a wound under thee: there is none understanding in him.

Shall not I in that day, saith the Lord, even destroy the wise men out of Edom, and understanding from the mount of Esau? And thy strong men, O Teman, shall be afraid, because every one of the mount of Esau shall be cut off by slaughter. For thy cruelty against thy brother Jaakob, shame shall cover thee, and thou shalt be cut off for ever. When thou stoodest on the other side, in the day that the strangers carried away his substance, and strangers entered into his gates, and cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them. But thou shouldest not have beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that he was made a stranger, neither shouldest thou have rejoiced over the children of Judah, in the day of their destruction: thou shouldest not have spoken proudly in the day of affliction. Thou shouldest not have entered into the gate of my people, in the day of their destruction, neither shouldest thou have once looked on their affliction in the day of their destruction, nor have laid hands on their substance in the day of their destruction. Neither shouldest thou have stand in the cross ways to cut off them, that should escape, neither shouldest thou have shut up the remnant thereof in the day of affliction. For the day of the Lord is near, upon all the heathen: as thou hast done, it shall be done to thee: thy reward shall return upon thine head. For as ye have drunk upon mine holy Mountain, so shall all the heathen drink continually: yea, they shall drink and swallow up, and they shall be as though they had not been. But upon mount Zion shall be deliverance, and it shall be holy, and the house of Jaakob shall posses their possessions, and the house of Iaakob shall be a fire, & the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau as stubble, and they shall kindle in them and devour them: and there shall be no remnant of the house of Esau for the Lord hath spoken it. And they shall posses the South side of the mount of Esau, and the plain of the Philistims: and they shall posses the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria, and Benjamin shall have Gilead. And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel, which were among the Canaanites, shall posses unto Zarephath, and the captivity of Jerusalem, which is in Sepharad, shall posses the cities of the South. And they that shall save, shall come up to mount Zion to judge the mount of Esau, and the kingdom shall be the Lords.

JONAH

The word of the Lord came also unto Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, Arise, and go to Nineveh, that great city, and cry against it: for their wickedness is come up before me. But Jonah rose up to flee into Tarshish from the presence of the Lord, and went down to Japho: and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he payed the fare thereof, and went down into it, that he might go with them unto Tarshish, from the presence of the Lord. But the Lord sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship was like to be broken. Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his God, and cast the wares that were in the ship, into the sea to lighten it of thee: but Jonah was gone down into the sides of the ship, and he lay down, and was fast a sleep. So the ship-master came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not. And they said every one to his fellow, Come, and let us cast lots, that we may know, for whose cause this evil is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah. Then said they unto him, Tell us for whose cause this evil is upon us? what is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? which is thy country? and of what people art thou? And he answered them, I am an Hebrew, and I fear the Lord God of heaven, which hath made the sea, and the dry land. Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knew, that he fled from the presence of the Lord, because he had told them) Then said they unto him, What shall we doe unto thee, that the sea may be calm unto us? (for the sea wrought and was troublous) And he said unto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea: so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you. Nevertheless, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was troublous against them. Wherefore they cried unto the Lord, and said, We beseech thee, O Lord, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done, as it pleased thee. So they took up Jonah, and cast him into the sea, and the sea ceased from her raging. Then the men feared the Lord exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice unto the Lord, and made vows.

Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah: and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days, and three nights. Then Jonah prayed unto the Lord his God out of the fishes belly, and said, I cried in mine affliction unto the Lord, and he heard me: out of the belly of hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice. For thou hadst cast me into the bottom in the midst of the sea, and the floods compassed me about: all thy surges, and all thy waves passed over me. Then I said, I am cast away out of thy sight: yet will I look again toward thine holy Temple. The waters compassed me about unto the soul: the depth closed me round about, and the weeds were wrapt about mine head. I went down to the bottom of the mountains: the earth with her bars was about me for ever, yet hast thou brought up my life from the pit, O Lord my God. When my soul fainted within me, I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came unto thee, into thine holy Temple. They that wait upon lying vanities, forsake their own mercy. But I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving, and will pay that that I have vowed: salvation is of the Lord. And the Lord spake unto the fish, and it cast out Jonah upon the dry land.

And the word of the Lord came unto Jonah the second time, saying, Arise, go unto Nineveh that great city, & preach unto it the preaching, which I bid thee. So Jonah arose & went to Nineveh according to ye word of the Lord: now Nineveh was a great & excellent city of three days journey. And Jonah began to enter into the city a days journey, and he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown. So the people of Nineveh believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from ye greatest of the even to the least of them. For word came unto the King of Nineveh, and he rose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. And he proclaimed & said through Nineveh, (by the counsel of ye king & his nobles) saying, Let neither man, nor beast, bullock nor sheep taste anything, neither feed nor drink water. But let man and beast put on sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, let every man turn from his evil way, and from the wickedness that is in their hands. Who can tell if God will turn, and repent and turn away from his fierce wrath, that we perish not? And God saw their works that they turned from their evil ways: and God repented of the evil that he had said that he would do unto them, and he did it not.

Therefore it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was angry. And he prayed unto the Lord, and said, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? therefore I prevented it to flee unto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, & merciful, slow to anger, & of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil. Therefore now O Lord, take, I beseech thee, my life from me: for it is better for me to die then to live. Then said the Lord, Dost thou well to be angry? So Jonah went out of the city and sat on the East side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow till he might see what should be done in the city. And the Lord God prepared a gourde, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head and deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceeding glad of the gourde. But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, & it smote the gourd, that it withered. And when the sun did arise, God prepared also a fervent East wind: and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in his heart to die, and said, It is better for me to die, then to live. And God said unto Jonah, Dost thou well to be angry for the gourde? And he said, I do well to be angry unto the death. Then said the Lord, Thou hast had pity on the gourde for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow, which came up in a night, and perished in a night, And should not I spare Nineveh that great city, wherein are six score thousand persons, that cannot discern between their right hand, and their left hand, and also much cattle?

MICAH

The word of the Lord, that came unto Micah the Morashite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria, and Jerusalem. Hear, all ye people: hearken thou, O earth, & all that therein is, & let the Lord God be witness against you, even ye Lord from his holy Temple. For behold, the Lord cometh out of his place, and will come down, and tread upon the high places of the earth. And the mountains shall melt under him (so shall the valleys cleave) as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are powered downward. For the wickedness of Jaakob is all this, & for the sins of the house of Israel: what is the wickedness of Jaakob? Is not Samaria? & which are the high places of Judah? Is not Jerusalem? Therefore I will make Samaria as an heap of the field, and for the planting of a vineyard, and I will cause the stones thereof to tumble down into the valley, and I will discover the foundations thereof. And all the graven images thereof shall be broken, and all the gifts thereof shall be burnt with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I destroy: for she gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they shall return to the wages of an harlot. Therefore I will mourn and howl: I will go without clothes, and naked: I will make lamentation like the dragons, and mourning as the ostriches. For her plagues are grievous: for it is come into Judah: the enemy is come unto the gate of my people, unto Jerusalem. Declare ye it not at Gath, neither weep ye: for the house of Aphrah rule thy self in the dust. Thou that dwellest at Shaphir, go together naked with shame: she that dwelleth at Zaanah, shall not come forth in ye mourning of Beth-ezel: the enemy shall receive of you for his standing. For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but evil came from the Lord unto the gate of Jerusalem. O thou inhabitant of Lachish, bind the chariot to the beasts of price: she is the beginning of the sin to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were found in thee. Therefore shalt thou give presents to Moresheth Gath: the houses of Achzib shall be as a lye to the Kings of Israel. Yet will I bring an heir unto thee, O inhabitant of Mareshah, he shall come unto Adullam, the glory of Israel. Make thee bald: and shave thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldness as the eagle, for they are gone into captivity from thee.

Woe unto them, that imagine iniquity, and work wickedness upon their beds: when the morning is light they practice it because their hand hath power. And they covet fields, and take them by violence, and houses, and take them away: so they oppress a man and his house, even man and his heritage. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, against this family have I devised a plague, whereabout ye shall not pluck your necks, and ye shall not go so proudly, for this time is evil. In that day shall they take up a parable against you, and lament with a doleful lamentation, and say, We be utterly wasted: he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he taken it away to restore it unto me? he hath divided our fields. Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast a cord by lot in the Congregation of the Lord. They that prophesied, Prophecy ye not. They shall not prophecy to them, neither shall they take shame. O thou that art named of the house of Jaakob, is the Spirit of the Lord shortened? are these his works? are not my words good unto him that walketh uprightly? But he that was yesterday my people, is risen up on the other side, as against an enemy: they spoil the beautiful garment from them that pass by peaceably, as though they returned from the war. The women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses, and from their children have ye taken away my glory continually. Arise and depart, for this is not your rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a sore destruction. If a man walk in the Spirit, and would lie falsely, saying, I will prophecy unto thee of wine, and of strong drink, he shall even be the prophet of this people. I will surely gather thee wholly, O Jaakob: I will surely gather the remnant of Israel: I will put them together as the sheep of Bozrah, even as the flock in the mids of their fold: the cities shall be full of brute of the men. The breaker up shall come up before them: they shall break out, & pass by the gate, and go out by it, & their King shall go before them, and the Lord shall be upon their heads.

And I said, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jaakob, and ye princes of the house of Israel: should not ye know judgment? But they hate the good, and love the evil: they pluck off their skins from them, & their flesh from their bones. And they eat also the flesh of my people, & flay off their skin from them, & they break their bones, and chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and as flesh within the cauldron. Then shall they cry unto the Lord, but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, because they have done wickedly in their works. Thus saith the Lord, Concerning the prophets that deceive my people, and bite them with their teeth, and cry peace, but if a man put not into their mouths, they prepare war against him, therefore night shall be unto you for a vision, and darkness shall be unto you for a divination, and the sun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them. Then shall the Seers be ashamed, and the soothsayers confounded: yea, they shall all cover their lips, for they have none answer of God. Yet notwithstanding I am full of power by the Spirit of the Lord, and of judgment, and of strength to declare unto Jaakob his transgression, and to Israel his sin. Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jaakob, and princes of the house of Israel: they abhor judgment, and pervert all equity. They build up Zion with blood, and Jerusalem with iniquity. The heads thereof judge for rewards, and the Priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof prophecy for money: yet will they lean upon the Lord, and say, Is not the Lord among us? no evil can come upon us. Therefore shall Zion for your sake be plowed as a field, & Jerusalem shall be an heap, and the mountain of the house, as the high places of the forest.

But in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the House of the Lord shall be prepared in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills, and people shall flow unto it. Yea, many nations shall come & say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the House of the God of Jaakob, and he will teach us his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And he shall judge among many people, & rebuke mighty nations afar off, & they shall break their swords into mattocks, and their spears into scythes: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn to fight any more. But they shall sit every man under his vine, and under his fig tree, and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it. For all people will walk every one in the name of his God, and we will walk in the Name of the Lord our God, for ever and ever. At the same day, saith the Lord, will I gather her that halteth, and I will gather her that is cast out, and her that I have afflicted. And I will make her that halted, a remnant, and her that was cast far off, a mighty nation: and the Lord shall reign over them in Mount Zion, from hence forth even for ever. And thou, O tower of the flock, the strong hold of the daughter Zion, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion, and kingdom shall come to the daughter Jerusalem. Now why dost thou cry out with lamentation? is there no King in thee? is thy counselor perished? for sorrow hath taken thee, as a woman in travail. Sorrow and mourn, O daughter Zion, like a woman in travail: for now shalt thou go forth of the city, and dwell in the field, and shalt go into Babel, but there shalt thou be delivered: there the Lord shall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies. Now also many nations are gathered against thee, saying, Zion shall be condemned and our eye shall look upon Zion. But they know not the thoughts of the Lord: they understand not his counsel, for he shall gather them as the sheaves in the barn. Arise, and thresh, O daughter Zion: for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thine hooves brass, and thou shalt break in pieces many people: and I will consecrate their riches unto the Lord, and their substance unto the ruler of the whole world.

Now assemble thy garrisons, O daughter of garrisons: he hath laid siege against us: they shall smite the judge of Israel with a rod upon the cheek. And thou Beth-lehem Ephrathah art little to be among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me, that shall be the ruler in Israel: whose goings forth have been from the beginning and from everlasting. Therefore will he give them up, until the time that she which shall bear, shall travail: then the remnant of their brethren shall return unto the children of Israel. And he shall stand, and feed in the strength of the Lord, and in the majesty of the Name of the Lord his God, & they shall dwell still: for now shall he be magnified unto the ends of the world. And he shall be our peace when Asshur shall come into our land: when he shall tread in our palaces, then shall we raise against him seven shepherds, and eight principal men. And they shall destroy Asshur with the sword, & the land of Nimrod with their swords: thus shall he deliver us from Asshur, when he cometh into our land, and when he shall tread within our borders. And the remnant of Jaakob shall be among many people, as a dew from the Lord, and as the showers upon the grass, that waiteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sons of Adam. And the remnant of Jaakob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many people, as the lion among the beasts of the forest, and as the lions whelp among the flocks of sheep, who when he goeth through, treadeth down and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver. Thine hand shall be lift up upon thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off. And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord, that I will cut off thine horses out of the midst of thee, and I will destroy thy chariots. And I will cut off the cities of thy land, & overthrow all thy strong holds. And I will cut off thine enchanters out of thine hand: and thou shalt have no more soothsayers. Thine idols also will I cut off, and thine images out of the midst of thee: and thou shalt no more worship the work of thine hands. And I will pluck up thy groves out of the midst of thee: so will I destroy thine enemies. And I will execute a vengeance in my wrath and indignation upon the heathen, which they have not heard.

Hearken ye now what the Lord saith, Arise thou, and contend before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice. Hear ye, O mountains, the Lords quarrel, and ye mighty foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarrel against his people, and he will plead with Israel. O my people, what have I done unto thee? or wherein have I grieved thee? testify against me. Surely I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants, & I have sent before thee, Moses, Aaron, and Miriam. O my people, remember now what Balak King of Moab had devised, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him, from Shittim unto Gilgal, that ye may know the righteousness of the Lord. Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow my self before the high God? Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, and with calves of a year old? Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousand rivers of oil? shall I give my first borne for my transgression, even the fruit of my body, for the sin of my soul? He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: surely to down justly, and to love mercy, and to humble thy self, to walk with thy God. The Lord's voice cryeth unto the city, and the man of wisdom shall see thy name: Hear the rod, and who hath appointed it. Are yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure, that is abominable? Shall I justify the wicked balances, and the bag of deceitful weights? For the rich men thereof are full of cruelty, & the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth. Therefore also will I make thee sick in smiting thee, and in making thee desolate, because of thy sins. Thou shalt eat and not be satisfied, and thy casting down shall be in the mids of thee, and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not deliver: and that which thou deliverest, will I give up to the sword. Thou shalt sow, but not reap: thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oil, and make sweet wine, but shalt not drink wine. For the statutes of Omri are kept, & all the manner of the house of Ahab, and ye walk in their counsels, that I should make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shall bear the reproach of my people.

Woe is me, for I am as the summer gatherings, and as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat: my soul desired the first ripe fruits. The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: they all lie in wait for blood: every man hunteth his brother with a net. To make good for the evil of their hands, the prince asked, and the judge judgeth for a reward: therefore the great man he speaketh out the corruption of his soul: so they wrapped it up. The best of them is as a brier, and the most righteous of them is sharper then a thorn hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh: then shall be their confusion. Trust ye not in a friend, neither put ye confidence in a counselor: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom.

For the son revileth the father: ye daughter riseth up against her mother: the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law, and a man's enemies are the men of his own house. Therefore I will look unto the Lord: I will wait for God my Saviour: my God will hear me. Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: though I fall, I shall arise: when I shall sit in darkness, the Lord shall be a light unto me. I will bear the wrath of the Lord because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute Judgment for me: then will he bring me forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousness. Then she that is mine enemy, shall look upon it, and shame shall cover her, which said unto me, Where is the Lord thy God? Mine eyes shall behold her: now shall she be trodden down as the mire of the streets. This is ye day, that thy walls shall be built: this day shall drive far away the decree. In this day also they shall come unto thee from Asshur, and from the strong cities, and from the strongholds even unto the river, and from Sea to Sea, and from mountain to mountain. Notwithstanding, the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, and for the fruits of their inventions. Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage (which dwell solitary in the wood) as in the midst of Carmel: let them feed in Bashan and Gilead, as in old time. According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt, will I shew unto him marvelous things. The nations shall see, and be confounded for all their power: they shall lay their hand upon their mouth: their ears shall be deaf. They shall lick the dust like a serpent: they shall move out of their holes like worms: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, & shall fear because of thee. Who is a God like unto thee, that taketh away iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage! He reteineth not his wrath for ever, because mercy pleaseth him. He will turn again, and have compassion upon us: he will subdue our iniquities, and cast all their sins into the bottom of the sea. Thou wilt perform thy truth to Jaakob, and mercy to Abraham, as thou hast sworn unto our fathers in old time.

NAHUM

The burden of Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elkeshite.

God is jealous, & the Lord revengeth: the Lord revengeth: even the Lord of anger, the Lord will take vengeance on his adversaries, & he reserveth wrath for his enemies. The Lord is slow to anger, but he is great in power, and will not surely clear the wicked: the Lord hath his way in ye whirlwind, & in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet. He rebuketh the sea, and drieth it, and he drieth up all the rivers: Bashan is wasted and Carmel, and the flour of Lebanon is wasted. The mountains tremble for him, and the hills melt, & the earth is burnt at his sight, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein. Who can stand before his wrath? Or who can abide in the fierceness of his wrath? His wrath is powered out like fire, and the rocks are broken by him. The Lord is good and as a stronghold in the day of trouble, and he knoweth them that trust in him. But passing over as with a flood, he will utterly destroy the place thereof, and darkness shall pursue his enemies. What do ye imagine against the Lord? He will make an utter destruction: affliction shall not rise up the second time. For he shall come as unto thorns folden one in another, and as unto drunkards in their drunkenness: they shall be devoured as stubble fully dried. There cometh one out of thee that imagineth evil against the Lord, even a wicked counselor.

Thus saith the Lord, Though they be quiet, and also many, yet thus shall they be cut off when he shall pass by: though I have afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more. For now I will break his yoke from thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder. And the Lord hath given a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name be sown: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the graven, and the molten image: I will make it thy grave for thee, for thou art vile. Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that declareth, and publisheth peace: O Judah, keep thy solemn feasts, perform thy vows: for the wicked shall no more pass through thee: he is utterly cut off. The destroyer is come before thy face: keep the munition: look to the way: make thy loins strong: increase thy strength mightily. For the Lord hath turned away the glory of Jaakob, as the glory of Israel: for the emptiers have emptied them out, and marred their vine branches. The shield of his mighty men is made red: the valiant men are in scarlet: the chariots shall be as in the fire and flames in the day of his preparation, and the fir trees shall tremble. The chariots shall rage in the streets: they shall run to and fro in the high ways: they shall seem like lamps: they shall shoot like the lightning. He shall remember his strong men: they shall stumble as they go: they shall make haste to the walls thereof, and the defence shall be prepared. The gates of the rivers shall be opened, and the palace shall melt. And Huzzab the Queen shall be led away captive, and her maids shall lead her as with the voice of doves, smiting upon their breasts. But Nineveh is of old like a pool of water: yet they shall flee away. Stand, stand, shall they cry: but none shall look back. Spoil ye the silver, spoil the gold: for there is none end of the store, and glory of all the pleasant vessels. She is empty and void and waste, and the heart melteth, and the knees smite together, and sorrow is in all loins, and the faces of the all gather blackness. Where is the dwelling of the lions, and the pasture of the lions whelps? where the lion, and the lioness walked, and the lions whelp, & none made them afraid. The lion did tear in pieces enough for his whelps, and worried for his lioness, and filled his holes with prey, and his dens with, spoil. Behold, I come unto thee, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will burn her chariots in the smoke, and the sword shall devour thy young lions, and I will cut off thy spoil from the earth, and the voice of thy messengers shall no more be heard.

O bloody city, it is all full of lies, and robbery: the prey departeth not: The noise of a whip, and the noise of the moving of the wheels, and the beating of the horses, and the leaping of the chariots. The horseman lifteth up both the bright sword, and the glittering spear, and a multitude is slain, and the dead bodies are many: there is none end of their corpses: they stumble vpon their corpses, Because of the multitude of the fornications of the harlot that is beautiful, and is a mistress of witchcraft, & selleth the people through her whoredom, and the nations through her witchcrafts. Behold, I come upon thee, saith the Lord of hosts, and will discover thy skirts upon thy face, and will shew the nations thy filthiness, & the kingdoms thy shame. And I will cast filth upon thee, and make thee vile, and will set thee as a gazing stock. And it shall come to pass, that all they that look upon thee, shall flee from thee, and say, Nineveh is destroyed, who will have pity upon her? where shall I seek comforters for thee? Art thou better then No, which was full of people? that lay in the rivers, and had the waters round about it? whose ditch was the sea, and her wall was from the sea? Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength, and there was none end: Put and Lubim were her helpers. Yet was she carried away, and went into captivity: her young children also were dashed in pieces at the head of all the streets: and they cast lots for her noble men, and all her mighty men were bound in chains. Also thou shalt be drunken: thou shalt hide thy self, and shalt seek help because of the enemy. All thy strong cities shall be like fig trees with the first ripe figs: for if they be shaken, they fall into the mouth of the eater. Behold, thy people within thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be opened unto thine enemies, and ye fire shall devour thy bars. Draw thee waters for the siege: fortify thy strong holds: go into the clay, and temper the mortar: make strong brick. There shall ye fire devour thee: the sword shall cut thee off: it shall eat thee up like the locusts, though thou be multiplied like the locusts, and multiplied like the grasshopper. Thou hast multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven: the locust spoileth and flieth away. Thy princes are as the grasshoppers, and thy captains as the great grasshoppers which remain in the hedges in the cold day: but when the sun ariseth, they flee away and their place is not known where they are. Thy shepherds do sleep, O King of Asshur: thy strong men lie down: thy people is scattered upon the mountains, and no man gathereth them. There is no healing of thy wound: thy plague is grievous: all that hear the brute of thee, shall clap the hands over thee: for upon whom hath not thy malice passed continually?

HABAKKUK

The burden, which Habakkuk the Prophet did see.

O Lord, how long shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto thee for violence, and thou wilt not help! Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold sorrow? for spoiling, and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention. Therefore the Law is dissolved, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth compass about the righteous: therefore wrong judgment proceedeth.

Behold among the heathen, and regard, and wonder, and marvel: for I will work a work in your days: ye will not believe it, though it be told you. For lo, I raise up the Chaldeans, that bitter & furious nation, which shall go upon the breadth of the land to possess the dwelling places, that are not theirs. They are terrible & fearful: their judgment & their dignity shall proceed of themselves. Their horses also are swifter then the leopards, and are more fierce then the wolves in the evening: and their horsemen are many: & their horsemen shall come from far: they shall fly as the eagle hasting to meat. They come all to spoil: before their faces shall be an East wind, and they shall gather the captivity, as the sand. And they shall mock the Kings, and the princes shall be a scorn unto them: they shall deride every strong hold: for they shall gather dust, and take it. Then shall they take a courage, & transgress & do wickedly, imputing this their power unto their god.

Art thou not of old, O Lord my God, mine holy one? we shall not die: O Lord, thou hast ordained them for judgment, and O God, thou hast established them for correction. Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not see evil: thou canst not behold wickedness: wherefore dost thou look upon the transgressors, and holdest thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man, that is more righteous then he? And makest men as the fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things, that have no ruler over them. They take up all with the angle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarn, whereof they rejoice and are glad. Therefore they sacrifice unto their net, and burn incense unto their yarn, because by them their portion is fat & their meat plenteous. Shall they therefore stretch out their net and not spare continually to slay the nations? I will stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will look and see what he would say unto me, and what I shall answer to him that rebuketh me.

And the Lord answered me, and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it. For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the last it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait: for it shall surely come, and shall not stay. Behold, he that lifteth up himself, his mind is not upright in him, but the just shall live by his faith, Yea, indeed the proud man is as he that transgresseth by wine: therefore shall he not endure, because he hath enlarged his desire as the hell, and is as death, and can not be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people. Shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a taunting proverb against him, and say, Ho, he that increaseth that which is not his? how long? and he that ladeth himself with thick clay? Shall they not rise up suddenly, that shall bite thee? and awake, that shall stir thee? and thou shalt be their pray? Because thou hast spoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people shall spoil thee, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the city, and unto all that dwell therein. Ho, he that coveteth an evil covetousness to his house, that he may set his nest on high, to escape from the power of evil. Thou hast consulted shame to thine own house, by destroying many people, and hast sinned against thine own soul. For the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beam out of the timber shall answer it. Woe unto him that buildeth a town with blood, and erecteth a city by iniquity. Behold, is it not of the Lord of hosts that the people shall labour in ye very fire? the people shall even weary themselves for very vanity. For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters couer the sea. Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink: thou joinest thine heat, & makest him drunken also, that thou mayest see their privities. Thou art filled with shame for glory: drink thou also, and be made naked: the cup of the Lords right hand shall be turned unto thee, and shameful spewing shall be for thy glory. For the cruelty of Lebanon shall cover thee: so shall the spoil of the beasts, which made them afraid, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the city, and unto all that dwell therein. What profiteth the image? for the maker thereof hath made it an image, and a teacher of lies, though he that made it, trust therein, when he maketh dumb idols. Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake, and to the dumb stone, Rise up, it shall teach thee: behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath in it. But the Lord is in his holy Temple: let all the earth keep silence before him.

A prayer of Habakkuk the Prophet for the ignorances. O Lord, I have heard thy voice, and was afraid: O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the people, in the midst of the years make it known: in wrath remember mercy. God cometh from Teman, & the holy one from mount Paran, Selah.

His glory covereth the heavens, & the earth is full of his praise, and his brightness was as the light: he had horns coming out of his hands, and there was the hiding of his power. Before him went the pestilence, and burning coals went forth before his feet. He stood and measured the earth: he beheld and dissolved the nations and the everlasting mountains were broken, and the ancient hills did bow: his ways are everlasting. For his iniquity I saw the tents of Cushan, and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble. Was the Lord angry against the rivers? Or was thine anger against the floods? Or was thy wrath against the sea, that thou didst ride upon thine horses? Thy chariots brought salvation. Thy bow was manifestly revealed, and the oaths of the tribes were a sure word, Selah.

Thou didst cleave the earth with rivers. The mountains saw thee, & they trembled: the stream of the water passed by: the deep made a noise, and lifted up his hand on high. The sun and moon stood still in their habitation: at the light of thine arrows they went, and at the bright shining of thy spears. Thou trodest down the land in anger, and didst thresh the heathen in displeasure. Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people, even for salvation with thine Anointed: thou hast wounded the head of the house of the wicked, and discoveredst the foundations unto the neck, Selah.

Thou didst strike through with his own staves the heads of his villages: they came out as a whirlwind to scatter me: their rejoicing was as to devour the poor secretly. Thou didst walk in the sea with thine horses upon the heap of great waters. When I heard, my belly trembled: my lips shook at the voice: rottenness entered into my bones, and I trembled in my self, that I might rest in the day of trouble: for when he cometh up unto the people, he shall destroy them. For the fig tree shall not flourish, neither shall fruit be in the vines: the labour of the olive shall fail, and the fields shall yield no meat: the sheep shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no bullock in the stalls. But I will rejoice in the Lord: I will joy in the God of my salvation. The Lord God is my strength: he will make my feet like hinds feet, and he will make me to walk upon mine high places.

ZEPHANIAH

The word of the Lord, which came unto Zephaniah ye son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah, in the days of Josiah, the son of Amon King of Judah.

I will surely destroy all things from off the land, saith the Lord. I will destroy man and beast: I will destroy the fowls of the heaven, and the fishes of the sea, and ruins shall be to the wicked, and I will cut off man from off the land, saith the Lord. I will also stretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and I will cut off the remnant of Baal from this place, and the name of the Chemarims with ye Priests, and them that worship the host of heaven upon the house tops, and them that worship and swear by the Lord, and swear by Malcham, and them that are turned back from the Lord, and those that have not sought the Lord, nor inquired for him.

Be still at the presence of the Lord God: for the day of the Lord is at hand: for the Lord hath prepared a sacrifice, and hath sanctified his guests. And it shall be in the day of the Lord's sacrifice, that I will visit the princes and the King's children, and all such as are clothed with strange apparel. In the same day also will I visit all those that dance upon the threshold so proudly, which fill their master's houses by cruelty and deceit. And in that day, saith the Lord, there shall be a noise, and cry from the fishgate, and an howling from the second gate, and a great destruction from the hills. Howl ye inhabitants of the low place: for the company of the merchants is destroyed: all they that bear silver, are cut off. And at that time will I search Jerusalem with lights, and visit the men that are frozen in their dredges, & say in their hearts, The Lord will neither do good nor do evil. Therefore their goods shall be spoiled, and their houses waste: they shall also build houses, but not inhabit them, and they shall plant vineyards, but not drink the wine thereof.

The great day of the Lord is near: it is near, and hasteth greatly, even the voice of the day of the Lord: the strong man shall cry there bitterly. That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and heaviness, a day of destruction and desolation, a day of obscurity and darkness, a day of clouds and blackness, a day of the trumpet and alarm against the strong cities, and against the high towers. And I will bring distress upon men, that they shall walk like blind men, because they have sinned against the Lord, and their blood shall be poured out as dust, and their flesh as the dung. Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in ye day of the Lord's wrath, but the whole land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy: for he shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land.

Gather yourselves, even gather you, O nation not worthy to be loved, before the decree comes forth, and ye be as chaff that passeth in a day, and before the fierce wrath of the Lord come upon you, and before the day of the Lord's anger come upon you. Seek ye the Lord all the meek of the earth, which have wrought his judgment: seek righteousness, seek lowliness, if so be that ye may be hid in the day of the Lord's wrath. For Azzah shall be forsaken, and Ashkelon desolate: they shall drive out Ashdod at the noon day, and Ekron shall be rooted up. Woe unto the inhabitants of the sea coast. The nation of the Cherethims, the word of the Lord is against you: O Canaan, the land of the Philistims, I will even destroy thee without an inhabitant. And the sea coast shall be dwellings and cottages for shepherds and sheepfolds. And that coast shall be for the remnant of the house of Judah, to feed thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shall they lodge toward night: for the Lord their God shall visit them, and turn away their captivity.

I have heard the reproach of Moab, and the rebukes of the children of Ammon, whereby they upbraided my people, and magnified themselves against their borders. Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Surely Moab shall be as Sodom, and the children of Ammon as Gomorah, even the breeding of nettles and salt pits, and a perpetual desolation: the residue of my folk shall spoil them, and the remnant of my people shall possess them. This shall they have for their pride, because they have reproached and magnified themselves against the Lord of hosts people. The Lord will be terrible unto them: for he will consume all the gods of the earth, and every man shall worship him from his place, even all the isles of the heathen. Ye Morians also shall be slain by my sword with them. And he will stretch out his hand against the North, and destroy Asshur, and will make Nineveh desolate, and waste like a wilderness. And flocks shall lie in the midst of her, and all the beasts of the nations, and the pelican, and the owl shall abide in the upper posts of it: the voice of birds shall sing in the windows, and desolations shall be upon the posts: for the cedars are uncovered. This is the rejoicing city that dwelt careless, that said in her heart, I am, and there is none besides me: how is she made waste, and the lodging of the beasts! every one that passeth by her, shall hiss and wag his hand.

Woe to her that is filthy and polluted, to the robbing city. She heard not the voice: she received not correction: she trusted not in the Lord: she drew not near to her God. Her princes within her are as roaring lions: her judges are as wolves in the evening, which leave not the bones till the morrow. Her prophets are light, and wicked persons: her priests have polluted the Sanctuary: they have wrested the Law. The just Lord is in the midst thereof: he will do none iniquity: every morning doth he bring his judgment to light, he faileth not: but the wicked will not learn to be ashamed. I have cut off the nations: their towers are desolate: I have made their streets waste, that none shall pass by: their cities are destroyed without man and without inhabitant. I said, Surely thou wilt fear me: thou wilt receive instruction: so their dwelling should not be destroyed howsoever I visited them, but they rose early and corrupted all their works. Therefore wait ye upon me, saith the Lord, until the day that I rise up to the prayer: for I am determined to gather the nations, and that I will assemble the kingdoms to pour upon them mine indignation, even all my fierce wrath: for all the earth shall be devoured with the fire of my jealousy. Surely then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the Name of the Lord, to serve him with one consent.

From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia, the daughter of my dispersed, praying unto me, shall bring me an offering. In that day shalt thou not be ashamed for all thy works, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then I will take away out of the midst of thee them that rejoice of thy pride, and thou shalt no more be proud of mine holy Mountain. Then will I leave in the midst of thee an humble and poor people: and they shall trust in the Name of the Lord. The remnant of Israel shall do none iniquity, nor speak lies: neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth: for they shall be fed, and lie down, and none shall make them afraid. Rejoice, O daughter Zion: be ye joyful, O Israel: be glad and rejoice with all thine heart, O daughter Jerusalem. The Lord hath taken away thy judgments: he hath cast out thine enemy: the King of Israel, even the Lord is in the midst of thee: thou shalt see no more evil. In that day it shall be said to Jerusalem, Fear thou not, O Zion: let not thine hands be faint. The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty: he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy: he will quiet himself in his love: he will rejoice over thee with joy. After a certain time will I gather the afflicted that were of thee, and them that bare the reproach for it. Behold, at that time I will bruise all that afflict thee, and I will save her that halteth, and gather her that was cast out, and I will get them praise and fame in all the lands of their shame. At that time will I bring you again, & then will I gather you: for I will give you a name & a praise among all people of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes, saith the Lord.

HAGGAI

In the second year of King Darius, in the sixth month, the first day of the month, came ye word of the Lord (by the ministry of the Prophet Haggai) unto Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, a prince of Judah, and to Jehoshua the son of Jehozadak the high Priest, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, This people say, The time is not yet come, that the Lord's House should be builded.

Then came the word of the Lord by the ministry of the Prophet Haggai, saying, Is it time for your selves to dwell in your sealed houses, and this House lie waste? Now therefore thus saith ye Lord of hosts, Consider your own ways in your hearts. Ye have sown much, and bring in little: ye eat, but ye have not enough: ye drink, but ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warm: and he that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bag. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Consider your own ways in your hearts. Go up to the mountain, & bring wood, and build this House, and I will be favourable in it, and I will be glorified, saith the Lord. Ye looked for much, and lo, it came to little: and when ye brought it home, I did blow upon it; why, saith the Lord of hosts? Because of mine House that is waste, and ye run every man unto his own house. Therefore the heaven over you stayed itself from dew, and the earth stayed her fruit. And I called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, & upon the corn, and upon the wine, and upon the oil, upon all that the ground bringeth forth: both upon men and upon cattle, and upon all the labour of the hands. When Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jehoshua the son of Jehozadak the high Priest with all the remnant of the people, heard the voice of the Lord their God, & the words of the Prophet Haggai (as the Lord their God had sent him) then the people did fear before the Lord.

Then spake Haggai the Lord's messenger in the Lord's message unto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord. And the Lord stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel a prince of Judah, and the spirit of Jehoshua the son of Jehozadak the hie Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the work in the House of the Lord of hosts their God. In the four and twentieth day of the sixth month, in the second year of King Darius.

In the seventh month, in the one & twentieth day of the month, came the word of the Lord by the ministry of the Prophet Haggai, saying, Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel prince of Judah, and to Jehoshua the son of Jehozadak the high Priest, and to the residue of the people, saying, Who is left among you, that saw this House in her first glory, and how do you see it now? is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it as nothing? Yet now be of good courage, O Zerubbabel, saith the Lord, and be of good comfort, O Jehoshua, son of Jehozadak the high Priest: and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and do it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hosts, According to the word that I covenanted with you, when ye came out of Egypt: so my Spirit shall remain among you, fear ye not. For thus saith the Lord of hosts, Yet a little while, and I will shake the heavens and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land: And I will move all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come, and I will fill this House with glory, saith the Lord of hosts. The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts. The glory of this last House shall be greater then the first, saith the Lord of hosts: and in this place will I give peace, saith the Lord of hosts.

In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto the Prophet Haggai, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Ask now the Priests concerning the Law, and say, If one bear holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, & with his skirt do touch the bread, or the pottage, or the wine, or oil, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the Priests answered and said, No. Then said Haggai, If a polluted person touch any of these, shall it be unclean? And the Priests answered, and said, It shall be unclean. Then answered Haggai, and said, So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the Lord: and so are all the works of their hands, and that which they offer here, is unclean. And now, I pray you, consider in your minds: from this day, and afore, even afore a stone was laid upon a stone in the Temple of the Lord: Before these things were, when one came to an heap of twenty measures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine press for to draw out fifty vessels out of the press, there were but twenty. I smote you with blasting, and with mildew, and with hail, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, saith the Lord. Consider, I pray you, in your minds, from this day, and afore from the four & twentieth day of the ninth month, even from the day that the foundation of the Lord's Temple was laid: consider it in your minds. Is the seed yet in the barn? as yet the vine, and the fig tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree hath not brought forth: from this day will I bless you.

And again the word of the Lord came unto Haggai in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying, Speak to Zerubbabel the prince of Judah, and say, I will shake the heavens and the earth, And I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, & I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heathen, and I will overthrow the chariots, and those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother. In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel my servant, the son of Shealtiel, saith the Lord, and will make thee as a signet: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord of hosts.

ZECHARIAH

In the eight month of the second year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo, the Prophet, saying, The Lord hath been sore displeased with your fathers. Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Turn ye unto me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the Lord of hosts. Be ye not as your fathers, unto whom the former prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Turn you now from your evil ways, and from your wicked works: but they would not hear, nor hearken unto me, saith the Lord. your fathers, where are they? and do the Prophets live for ever? But did not my words and my statutes, which I commanded by my servants ye Prophets, take hold of your fathers? and they returned, and said, As the Lord of hosts hath determined to do unto us, according to our own ways, and according to our works, so hath he dealt with us.

Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month Shebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the Prophet, saying, I saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the mire trees, that were in a bottom, and behind him were there red horses speckled and white. Then said I, O my Lord, what are these?

And the Angel that talked with me, said unto me, I will shew thee what these be. And the man that stood among the mire trees, answered, and said, These are they whom the Lord hath sent to go through the world. And they answered the Angel of the Lord, that stood among the mire trees, and said, We have gone through the world: and behold, all the world sitteth still, and is at rest. Then the Angel of the Lord answered and said, O Lord of hosts, how long wilt thou be unmerciful to Jerusalem, and to the cities of Judah, with whom thou hast been displeased now these threescore and ten years? And the Lord answered the Angel that talked with me, with good words and comfortable words. So the Angel that communed with me, said unto me, Cry thou, and speak, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I am jealous over Jerusalem and Zion with a great zeal, and am greatly angry against the careless heathen: for I was angry but a little, and they helped forward the affliction. Therefore thus saith the Lord, I will return unto Jerusalem with tender mercy: mine house shall be builded in it, saith the Lord of hosts, and a line shall be stretched upon Jerusalem. Cry yet, and speak, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, My cities shall yet be broken with plenty: the Lord shall yet comfort Zion, and shall yet choose Jerusalem.

Then lift I up mine eyes and saw, and behold, four horns. And I said unto the Angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, These are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem. And the Lord shewed me four carpenters. Then said I, What come these to do? And he answered, and said, These are the horns, which have scattered Judah, so that a man durst not lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, and to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which lift up their horn over the land of Judah, to scatter it. I lift up mine eyes again and looked, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand. Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, To measure Jerusalem, that I may see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof. And behold, the Angel that talked with me, went forth: and another Angel went out to meet him, and said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, and say, Jerusalem shall be inhabited without walls, for the multitude of men and cattle therein. For I, saith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and will be the glory in the midst of her. Ho, ho, come forth, & flee from the land of the North, saith the Lord: for I have scattered you into the four winds of the heaven, saith ye Lord. Save thy self, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babel. For thus saith the Lord of hosts, After this glory hath he sent me unto the nations, which spoiled you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of his eye. For behold, I will lift up mine hand upon them: and they shall be a spoil to those that served them, and ye shall know, that the Lord of hosts hath sent me. Rejoice, and be glad, O daughter Zion: for lo, I come, and will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the Lord. And many nations shall be joined to the Lord in that day, and shall be my people: and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto thee. And the Lord shall inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and shall choose Jerusalem again. Let all flesh be still before the Lord: for he is raised up out of his holy place.

And he shewed me Jehoshua the high Priest, standing before the Angel of the Lord, and Satan stood at his right hand to resist him. And the Lord said unto Satan, The Lord reprove thee, O Satan: even the Lord that hath chosen Jerusalem, reprove thee. Is not this a brand taken out of the fire? Now Jehoshua was clothed with filthy garments, and stood before the Angel. And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him; unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to depart from thee, & I will clothe thee with change of raiment. And I said, Let them set a fair diadem upon his head. So they set a fair diadem upon his head, and clothed him with garments, and the Angel of the Lord stood by. And the Angel of the Lord testified unto Jehoshua, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, If thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my watch, thou shalt also judge mine House, and shalt also keep my courts, and I will give thee place among these that stand by. Hear now, O Jehoshua the high Priest, thou and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are monstrous persons: but behold, I will bring forth the Branch my servant. For lo, the stone that I have laid before Jehoshua: upon one stone shall be seven eyes: behold, I will cut out the graving thereof, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will take away the iniquity of this land in one day. In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour under the vine, and under the fig tree.

And the Angel that talked with me, came again and waked me, as a man that is rayseed out of his sleep, and said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold, a candlestick all of gold with a bowl upon the top of it, and his seven lamps therein, and seven pipes to the lamps, which were upon the top thereof. And two olive trees over it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof. So I answered, and spake to the Angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my Lord? Then the Angel that talked with me, answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord. Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, Neither by an army nor strength, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts. Who art thou, O great mountain, before Zerubbabel? thou shalt be a plain, and he shall bring forth the head stone thereof, with shoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it. Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house: his hands shall also finish it, and thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto you. For who hath despised the day of the small things? but they shall rejoice, and shall see the stone of time in the hand of Zerubbabel: these seven are the eyes of the Lord, which go through the whole world. Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these two olive trees upon the right and upon the left side thereof? And I spake moreover, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches, which through the two golden pipes empty themselves into the gold? And he answered me, and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord. Then said he, These are the two olive branches, that stand with the ruler of the whole earth.

Then I turned me, and lifted up mine eyes and looked, and behold, a flying book. And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying book: the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits. Then said he unto me, This is the curse that goeth forth over the whole earth: for every one that stealeth, shall be cut off as well on this side, as on that: and every one that sweareth, shall be cut off as well on this side, as on that. I will bring it forth, saith the Lord of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of him, that falsely sweareth by my Name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and stones thereof. Then the Angel that talked with me, went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth. And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an Ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is the sight of them through all the earth. And behold, there was lift up a talent of lead: and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the Ephah. And he said, This is wickedness, and he cast it into the midst of the Ephah, and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof. Then lift I up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings (for they had wings like the wings of a stork) and they lift up the Ephah between the earth and the heaven. Then said I to the Angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the Ephah? And he said unto me, To build it an house in the land of Shinar, and it shall be established and set there upon her own place.

Again, I turned and lift up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains, and the mountains were mountains of brass. In the first chariot were red horses, and in the second chariot black horses, and in the third chariot white horses, and in the fourth chariot, horses of divers colours, and reddish. Then I answered, and said unto the Angel that talked with me, What are these, my Lord? And the Angel answered, and said unto me, These are the four spirits of the heaven, which go forth from standing with the Lord of all the earth. That with the black horse went forth into the land of the North, and the white went out after them, and they of divers colours went forth toward the South country. And the reddish went out, and required to go, and pass through the world, and he said, Go pass through the world. So they went throughout the world. Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the North country, have pacified my spirit in the North country. And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Take of them of ye captivity, even of Heldai, and of Tobijah, and Jedaiah, which are come from Babel, and come thou the same day, and go unto the house of Joshiah, the son of Zephaniah. Take even silver, and gold, and make crowns, and set them upon the head of Jehoshua, the son of Jehozadak the high Priest, and speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, & saith, Behold the man whose name is the Branch, and he shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the Temple of the Lord. Even he shall build the Temple of the Lord, and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne, and he shall be a Priest upon his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them both. And the crowns shall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, & to Jedaiah, and to Hen the son of Zephaniah, for a memorial in the Temple of the Lord. And they that are far off, shall come and build in the Temple of the Lord, & ye shall know, that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto you; this shall come to pass, if ye will obey the voice of the Lord your God.

And in the fourth year of King Darius, the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chisleu, for they had sent unto the House of God Sharezer, and Regem-melech and their men to pray before the Lord, and to speak unto the Priests, which were in the House of the Lord of hosts, and to the Prophets, saying, Should I weep in the fifth month, and separate my self as I have done these so many years? Then came the word of the Lord of hosts unto me, saying, Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the Priests, and say, When ye fasted, & mourned in the fifth & seventh month, even the seventy years, did ye fast unto me? do I approve it? And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, did ye not eat for your selves, and drink for your selves? Should ye not hear the words, which the Lord hath cried by the ministry of the former Prophets when Jerusalem was inhabited, and in prosperity, & the cities thereof round about her, when the South and the plain was inhabited?

And the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, Execute true judgment, and shew mercy and compassion, every man to his brother, and oppress not the widow, nor the fatherless, the stranger nor the poor, & let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart. But they refused to hearken, and pulled away the shoulder, and stopped their ears, that they should not hear. Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they should hear the Law and the words which the Lord of hosts sent in his spirit by the ministry of ye former Prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hosts. Therefore it is come to pass, that as he cried, and they would not hear, so they cried, and I would not hear, saith the Lord of hosts. But I scattered them among all the nations, whom they knew not: thus the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid the pleasant land waste.

Again the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I was jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great wrath. Thus saith the Lord, I will return unto Zion, & will dwell in the mids of Jerusalem: &

Jerusalem shall be called a city of truth, & the Mountain of the Lord of hosts, the holy Mountain. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, & every man with his staff in his hand for very age. And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls, playing in the streets thereof. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Though it be impossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, should it therefore be impossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hosts? Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will deliver my people from the East country, and from the West country. And I will bring them, & they shall dwell in the mids of Jerusalem, & they shall be my people, & I will be their God in truth, & in righteousness. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of the Prophets, which were in the day, that the foundation of the House of the Lord of hosts was laid, that the Temple might be builded. For before these days there was no hire for man nor any hire for beast, neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, every one against his neighbour. But now, I will not entreat the residue of this people as aforetime, saith the Lord of hosts. For the seed shall be prosperous: the vine shall give her fruit, and the ground shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew, and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things. And it shall come to pass, that as ye were a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel, so will I deliver you, & ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but let your hands be strong. For thus saith the Lord of hosts, As I thought to punish you, when your fathers provoked me unto wrath, saith the Lord of hosts, and repented not, so again have I determined in these days to do well unto Jerusalem, and to the house of Judah: fear ye not. These are ye things that ye shall do. Speak ye every man the truth unto his neighbour: execute judgment truly & uprightly in your gates, and let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour, and love no false oath: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

And the word of the Lord of hosts came unto me, saying, thus saith the Lord of hosts, The fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, & the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah joy & gladness, & prosperous high feasts: therefore love the truth & peace. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, That there shall yet come people, and the inhabitants of great cities. And they that dwell in one city, shall go to another, saying, Up, let us go & pray before the Lord, and seek the Lord of hosts: I will go also. Yea, great people and mighty nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the Lord. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, In those days shall ten men take hold out of all languages of the nations, even take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, and say, We will go with you: for we have heard that God is with you.

The burden of the word of the Lord in the land of Hadrach: and Damascus shall be his rest: when the eyes of man, even of all the tribes of Israel shall be toward the Lord. And Hamath also shall border thereby: Tyrus also and Zidon, though they be very wise. For Tyrus did build her self a strong hold, and heaped up silver as the dust, and gold as the mire of the streets. Behold, the Lord will spoil her, and he will smite her power in the Sea, and she shall be devoured with fire. Ashkelon shall see it, and fear, and Azzah also shall be very sorrowful, and Ekron: for her countenance shall be ashamed, & the King shall perish fro Azzah, & Ashkelon shall not be inhabited. And the stranger shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistims. And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: but he that remaineth, even he shall be for our God, and he shall be as a prince in Judah, but Ekron shall be as a Jebusite. And I will camp about mine House against the army, against him that passeth by, and against him that returneth, and no oppressour shall come upon them any more: for now have I seen with mine eyes. Rejoice greatly, O daughter Zion: shout for joy, O daughter Jerusalem: behold, thy King cometh unto thee: he is just and saved himself, poor and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass. And I will cut off the chariots from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem: the bow of the battle shall be broken, & he shall speak peace unto the heathen, & his dominion shall be from sea unto sea, & from the River to the end of the land. Thou also shalt be saved through the blood of thy covenant. I have loosed thy prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water. Turn you to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope: even to day do I declare, that I will render the double unto thee. For Judah have I bent as a bow for me: Ephraim's hand have I filled, and I have raised up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Grecia, and have made thee as a giants sword. And the Lord shall be seen over them, and his arrow shall go forth as the lightning: and the Lord God shall blow the trumpet, and shall come forth with the whirlwinds of the South. The Lord of hosts shall defend them, and they shall devour them, and subdue them with sling stones, and they shall drink, and make a noise as through wine, and they shall be filled like bowls, and as the horns of the altar. And the Lord their God shall deliver them in that day as the flock of his people: for they shall be as the stones of the crown lifted up upon his land. For how great is his goodness! and how great is his beauty! corn shall make the young men cheerful, and new wine the maids.

Ask you of the Lord rain in the time of the latter rain: so shall the Lord make white clouds, and give you showers of rain, and to every one grass in the field. Surely the idols have spoken vanity, and the soothsayers have seen a lye, and the dreamers have told a vain thing: they comfort in vain: therefore they went away as sheep: they were troubled, because there was no shepherd. My wrath was kindled against the shepherds, and I did visit the goats: but the Lord of hosts will visit his flock the house of Judah, and will make them as his beautiful horse in the battle. Out of him shall the corner come forth: out of him the nail, out of him ye bow of battle, and out of him every appointer of tribute also. And they shall be as the mighty men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle, and they shall fight, because the Lord is with them, and the riders on horses shall be confounded. And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will preserve the house of Joseph, and I will bring them again, for I pity them: and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will hear them. And they of Ephraim shall be as a giant, and their heart shall rejoice as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad: and their heart shall rejoice in the Lord. I will hiss for them, and gather them: for I have redeemed them: and they shall increase, as they have increased. And I will sow them among the people, and they shall remember me in far countries: and they shall live with their children and turn again. I will bring them again also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Asshur: and I will bring them into the land of Gilead, and Lebanon, and place shall not be found for them. And he shall go into the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the depths of the river shall dry up: and the pride of Asshur shall be cast down, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart away. And I will strengthen them in the Lord, and they shall walk in his Name, saith the Lord.

Open thy doors, O Lebanon, and the fire shall devour thy cedars. Howl, fir trees: for the cedar is fallen, because all the mighty are destroyed: howl ye, O oaks of Bashan, for ye defused forest is cut down. There is the voice of the howling of the shepherds: for their glory is destroyed: the voice of ye roaring of lions whelps: for the pride of Jordan is destroyed. Thus saith the Lord my God, Feed the sheep of the slaughter. They that possess them, slay them and sin not: and they that sell them, say, Blessed be the Lord: for I am rich, and their own shepherds spare them not. Surely I will no more spare those that dwell in the land, saith the Lord: but lo, I will deliver the men every one into his neighbours hand, and into the hand of his King: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hands I will not deliver them. For I fed the sheep of slaughter, even the poor of the flock, and I took unto me two staves: the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands, and I fed the sheep. Three shepherds also I cut off in one month, and my soul loathed them, and their soul abhorred me. Then said I, I will not feed you: that that dieth, let it dye: and that that perisheth, let it perish: and let the remnant eat, every one the flesh of his neighbour. And I took my staff, even Beauty, and brake it, that I might disanul my covenant, which I had made with all people. And it was broken in that day: and so the poor of the sheep that waited upon me, knew that it was the word of the Lord. And I said unto them, If ye think it good, give me my wages: and if no, leaue off: so they weighed for my wages thirty pieces of silver. And the Lord said unto me, Cast it unto the potter: a goodly price, that I was valued at of them; I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lord. Then brake I mine other staff, even the Bands, that I might dissolve the brotherhood between Judah and Israel. And the Lord said unto me, Take to thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd. For lo, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, which shall not look for the thing, that is lost, nor seek the tender lambs, nor heal that that is hurt, nor feed that that standeth up: but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and tear their claws in pieces. O idle shepherd that leaveth the flock: the sword shall be upon his arm, & upon his right eye. His arm shall be cleane dried up, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

The burden of the word of the Lord upon Israel, saith the Lord, which spread the heavens, and laid the foundation of the earth, and formed the spirit of man within him. Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of poison unto all the people round about: and also with Judah will he be, in ye siege against Jerusalem. And in that day will I make Jerusalem an heavy stone for all people: all that lift it up, shall be torn, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it. In that day, saith the Lord, I will smite every horse with stonishment, and his rider with madness, and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness. And the princes of Judah shall say in their hearts, The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be my strength in the Lord of hosts their God. In that day will I make the princes of Judah like coals of fire among the wood, and like a fire brand in the sheafe, and they shall devour all the people round about on the right hand, and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jerusalem. The Lord also shall preserue the tents of Judah, as afore time: therefore the glory of the house of David shall not boast, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem against Judah. In that day shall the Lord defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem, & he that is feeble among them, in that day shall be as David: and the house of David shall be as Gods house, and as the Angel of the Lord before them. And in that day will I seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem. And I will power upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem the Spirit of grace and of compassion, and they shall look upon me, whom they have pierced, and they shall lament for him, as one mourneth for his only son, and be sorry for him as one is sorry for his first borne. In that day shall there be a great mourning in Jerusalem, as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon. And the land shall bewail every family apart, the family of the house of David apart, and their wives apart: the family of the house of Nathan apart, and their wives apart: The family of the house of Levi apart, and their wives apart: the family of Shemei apart, and their wives apart: All the families that remain, every family apart, and their wives apart. In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and for uncleanness. And in that day, saith the Lord of hosts, I will cut off the names of the idols out of the land: and they shall no more be remembered: and I will cause the prophets, and the unclean spirit to depart out of the land. And when any shall yet prophesy, his father and his mother that begat him, shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live: for thou speakest lies in the name of the Lord: and his father and his mother that begat him, shall thrust him through, when he prophesieth. And in that day shall the prophets be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied: neither shall they wear a rough garment to deceive. But he shall say, I am no Prophet: I am an husbandman: for man taught me to be an herdman from my youth up. And one shall say unto him, What are these wounds in thine hands? Then he shall answer, Thus was I wounded in the house of my friends. Arise, O sword, upon my shepherd, and upon the man, that is my fellow, saith the Lord of hosts: smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: and I will turn mine hand upon the little ones. And in all the land, saith the Lord, two parts therein shall be cut off, and die: but the third shall be left therein. And I will bring that third part through the fire, and will fine them as the silver is fined, and will try them as gold is tried: they shall call on my Name, and I will hear them: I will say, It is my people, and they shall say, The Lord is my God.

Behold, the day of the Lord cometh, and thy spoil shall be divided in the midst of thee. For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle, and the city shall be taken, and the houses spoiled, and the women defiled, and half of the city shall go into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from ye city. Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle. And his feet shall stand in that day upon the mount of olives, which is before Jerusalem on the Eastside, & the mount of olives shall cleave in the midst thereof: toward the East & toward the West there shall be a very great valley, & half of ye mountain shall remove toward the North, and half of the mountain toward the South. And ye shall flee unto the valley of the mountains: for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from the earthquake in the days of Uzziah King of Judah: and the Lord my God shall come, and all the Saints with thee. And in that day shall there be no clear light, but dark. And there shall be a day (it is known to the Lord) neither day nor night, but about the evening time it shall be light. And in that day shall there waters of life go out from Jerusalem, half of them toward the East sea, and half of them toward the uttermost sea, and shall be, both in summer and winter. And the Lord shall be King over all the earth: in that day shall there be one Lord, and his Name shall be one. All the land shall be turned as a plain from Geba to Rimmon, toward the South of Jerusalem, and it shall be lifted up, and inhabited in her place: from Benjamin's gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, and from the tower of Hananiel, unto the Kings wine presses. And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more destruction, but Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited. And this shall be the plague, wherewith the Lord will smite all people, that have fought against Jerusalem: their flesh shall consume away, though they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume in their holes, and their tongue shall consume in their mouth. But in that day a great tumult of the Lord shall be among them, and every one shall take the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour. And Judah shall fight also against Jerusalem, and the arme of all the heathen shall be gathered round about, with gold and silver, and great abundance of apparel. Yet this shall be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel and of the ass and of all the beasts that be in these tents as this plague. But it shall come to pass that every one that is left of all the nations, which came against Jerusalem, shall go up from year to year to worship the King the Lord of hosts, and to keep the feast of Tabernacles. And who so will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King the Lord of hosts, even upon them shall come no rain. And if the family of Egypt go not up, and come not, it shall not rain upon them. This shall be the plague wherewith the Lord will smite all the heathen, that come not up to keep the feast of Tabernacles. This shall be the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all the nations that come not up to keep the feast of Tabernacles. In that day shall there be written upon the bridles of the horses, The holiness unto the Lord, and the potts in the Lords house shall be like the bowls before the altar. Yea, every pottle in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holy unto the Lord of hosts, and all they that sacrifice, shall come and take of them, and see the therein: and in that day there shall be no more the Canaanite in the House of the Lord of hosts.

MALACHI

The burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by the ministry of Malachi.

I have loved you, saith the Lord: yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jaakob's brother, saith the Lord? yet I loved Jaakob, and I hated Esau, and made his mountains wast, & his heritage a wilderness for dragons. Though Edom say, we are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hosts, they shall build, but I will destroy it, and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and the people, with whom the Lord is angry for ever. And your eyes shall see it, and ye shall say, The Lord will be magnified upon the border of Israel. A son honoureth his father, and a servant his master. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear, saith the Lord of hosts unto you, O Priests, that despise my Name? and ye say, Wherein have we despised thy Name? Ye offer unclean bread upon mine altar, and you say, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say the table of the Lord is not to be regarded. And if ye offer the blind for sacrifice, it is not evil: and if ye offer the lame and sick, it is not evil: offer it now unto thy prince: will he be content with thee, or accept thy person, saith the Lord of hosts?

And now, I pray you, pray before God, that he may have mercy upon us: this hath been by your means: will he regard your persons, saith the Lord of hosts? Who is there even among you, that would shut the doors? and kindle not fire on mine altar in vain, I have no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hosts, neither will I accept an offering at your hand. For from the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, my Name is great among the Gentiles, and in every place incense shall be offered unto my Name, and a pure offering: for my Name is great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hosts. But ye have polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is polluted & the fruit thereof, even his meat is not to be regarded. Ye said also, Behold, it is a weariness, and ye have snuffed at it, saith the Lord of hosts, and ye offered that which was torn, and the lame and the sick: thus ye offered an offering: should I accept this of your hand, saith the Lord? But cursed be the deceiver, which hath in his flock a male, & voweth, and sacrificeth unto ye Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great King, saith the Lord of hosts, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

And now, O ye Priests, this commandment is for you. If ye will not hear it, nor consider it in your heart, to give glory unto my Name, saith the Lord of hosts, I will even send a curse upon you, and will curse your blessings: yea, I have cursed them already, because ye do not consider it in your heart. Behold, I will corrupt your seed, and cast dung upon your faces, even the dung of your solemn feasts, and you shall be like unto it. And ye shall know, that I have sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant, which I made with Levi, might stand, saith the Lord of hosts. My covenant was with him of life and peace, and I gave him fear, and he feared me, and was afraid before my Name. The law of truth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquity found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, & did turn many away from iniquity. For the Priests lips should preserve knowledge, and they should seek the Law at his mouth: for he is the messenger of the Lord of hosts. But ye are gone out of the way: ye have caused many to fall by the Lawe: ye have broken the covenant of Levi, saith the Lord of hosts. Therefore have I also made you to be despised, and vile before all the people, because ye kept not my ways, but have been partial in the Law. Have we not all one father? hath not one God made us? why do we transgress every one against his brother, and break the covenant of our fathers? Judah hath transgressed, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem: for Judah hath defiled the holiness of the Lord, which he loved, and hath married the daughter of a strange God. The Lord will cut off the man that doeth this: both the master and the servant out of the Tabernacle of Jaakob, and him that offereth an offering unto the Lord of hosts. And this have ye done again, and covered the altar of the Lord with tears, with weeping and with mourning: because the offering is no more regarded, neither received acceptably at your hands. Yet ye say, Wherein? Because the Lord hath been witness between thee and the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast transgressed: yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant. And did not he make one? yet had he abundance of spirit: and wherefore one? because he sought a godly seed: therefore keep your selves in your spirit, & let none trespass against the wife of his youth. If thou hatest her, put her away, saith the Lord God of Israel, yet he covereth the injury under his garment, saith the Lord of hosts: therefore keep your selves in your spirit, and transgress not.

Ye have wearied the Lord with your words: yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil, is good in the sight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them. Or where is the God of judgment? Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the Lord whom ye seek, shall speedily come to his Temple: even the messenger of the covenant whom ye desire: behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of his coming? And who shall endure, when he appeareth? For he is like a purging fire, and like fullers soap. And he shall sit down to try and fine the silver: he shall even fine the sons of Levi and purify them as gold and silver, that they may bring offerings unto the Lord in righteousness. Then shall the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem be acceptable unto the Lord, as in old time and in the years afore. And I will come near to you to judgment, and I will be a swift witness against the soothsayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, and against those that wrongfully keep back the hirelings wages, and vex the widow, and the fatherless, and oppress the stranger, and fear not me, saith the Lord of hosts.

For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sons of Jaakob are not consumed. From the days of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept them: return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of hosts: but ye said, Wherein shall we return? Will a man spoil his gods? yet have ye spoiled me: but ye say, Wherein have we spoiled thee? In tithes, and offerings. Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have spoiled me, even this whole nation. Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse that there may be meat in mine House, & prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven unto you, and powre you out a blessing without measure. And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruit of your ground, neither shall your vine be barren in the field, saith the Lord of hosts. And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a pleasant land, saith the Lord of hosts. Your words have been stout against me, saith the Lord: yet ye say, What have we spoken against thee? Ye have said, It is in vain to serve God: and what profit is it that we have kept his commandment, and that we walked humbly before the Lord of hosts? Therefore we count the proud blessed: even they that work wickedness, are set up, and they that tempt God, yea, they are delivered.

Then spake they that feared the Lord, every one to his neighbour, and the Lord hearkened & heard it, and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon his Name. And they shall be to me, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day that I shall do this, for a flock, and I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him. Then shall you return, and discern between the righteous and wicked, between him that serveth God, and him that serveth him not. For behold, the day cometh that shall burn as an oven, and all the proud, yea, and all that doe wickedly, shall be stubble, and the day that cometh, shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, and shall leave them neither root nor branch.

But unto you that fear my Name, shall the sun of righteousness arise, and health shall be under his wings, and ye shall go forth, & grow up as fat calves. And ye shall tread down the wicked: for they shall be dust under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts. Remember the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel with the statutes and judgments. Behold, I will send you Elijah the Prophet before the coming of the great and fearful day of the Lord. And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with cursing.

New Testament

MATTHEW

The book of the generation of Jesus Christ the son of David, the son of Abraham. Abraham begat Isaac. And Isaac begat Jacob; Jacob begat Judas and his brethren. And Judas begat Phares, and Zara of Thamar; Phares begat Esrom; Esrom begat Aram. And Aram begat Aminadab; Aminadab begat Naasson; Naasson begat Salmon. And Salmon begat Booz of Rachab; Booz begat Obed of Ruth; Obed begat Jesse. And Jesse begat David the King; David the King begat Solomon of her that was the wife of Urias. And Solomon begat Roboam; Roboam begat Abia; Abia begat Asa. And Asa begat Josaphat; Josaphat begat Joram; Joram begat Hozias. And Hozias begat Joatham; Joatham begat Achaz; Achaz begat Ezekias. And Ezekias begat Manasses; Manasses begat Amon; Amon begat Josias. And Josias begat Jakim; Jakim begat Jechonias and his brethren about the time they were carried away to Babylon. And after they were carried away into Babylon, Jechonias begat Salathiel. And Salathiel begat Zorobabel. And Zorobabel begat Abiud; Abiud begat Eliacim; Eliacim begat Azor. And Azor begat Sadoc; Sadoc begat Achim; Achim begat Eliud. And Eliud begat Eleazar; Eleazar begat Matthan; Matthan begat Jacob. And Jacob begat Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, that is called Christ. So all the generations from Abraham to David, are fourteen generations; from David until they were carried away into Babylon, fourteen generations: and after they were carried away into Babylon until Christ, fourteen generations.

Now the birth of Jesus Christ was thus, When as his mother Mary was betrothed to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the holy Ghost. Then Joseph her husband being a just man, and not willing to make her a public example, was minded to put her away secretly. But while he thought these things, behold, the Angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, the son of David, fear not to take Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her, is of the holy Ghost. And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins. And all this was done that it might be fulfilled, which is spoken of the Lord by ye Prophet, saying, Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bear a son, & they shall call his name Emmanuel, which is by interpretation, God with us. Then Joseph, being raised from sleep, did as the Angel of the Lord had enjoined him, and took his wife. But he knew her not, till she had brought forth her first born son, & he called his name Jesus.

When Jesus then was born at Bethlehem in Judea, in the days of Herod the King, behold, there came Wisemen from the East to Jerusalem, saying, Where is that King of the Jews that is born? For we have seen his star in the East, and are come to worship him. When

King Herod heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And gathering together all the chief Priests and Scribes of the people, he asked of them, where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, At Bethlehem in Judea: for so it is written by the Prophet, and thou Bethlehem in the land of Judah, art not the least among the Princes of Judah: For out of thee shall come the governor that shall feed that my people Israel. Then Herod privily called the Wisemen, and diligently inquired of them the time of the star that appeared, and sent them to Bethlehem, saying, Go, and search diligently for the babe: and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come also, and worship him. So when they had heard the King, they departed: and lo, the star which they had seen in the East, went before them, till it came and stood over the place where the babe was. And when they saw the star, they rejoiced with an exceeding great joy, and went into the house, and found the babe with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and presented unto him gifts, even gold, and frankincense, and myrrh. And after they were warned of God in a dream, that they should not go again to Herod, they returned into their country another way. After their departure, behold, the Angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the babe & his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there till I bring thee word: for Herod will seek the babe, to destroy him. So he arose and took the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt, and was there unto the death of Herod, that that might be fulfilled, which is spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying, Out of Egypt have I called my son. Then Herod, seeing that he was mocked of the Wisemen, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the male children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently searched out of the Wisemen. Then was that fulfilled which is spoken by the Prophet Jeremiah, saying, In Rhama was a voice heard, mourning, and weeping, and great howling: Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they were not. And when Herod was dead, behold, an Angel of the Lord appeareth in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, saying, Arise, and take the babe and his mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead which sought the babes life. Then he arose up and took the babe and his mother, and came into the land of Israel. But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judea in stead of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: yet after he was warned of God in a dream, he turned aside into the parts of Galilee, and went and dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophets, which was, That he should be called a Nazarite.

And in those days, John the Baptist came and preached in the wilderness of Judea, and said, Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. For this is he of whom it is spoken by the Prophet Esaias, saying, The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make his paths straight. And this John had his garment of camels hear, and a girdle of a skin about his loins: his meat was also locusts and wild honey. Then went out to him Jerusalem and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan. And they were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins. Now when he saw many of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, O generations of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the anger to come? Bring forth therefore fruit worthy amendment of life. And think not to say with your selves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able even of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham. And now also is the axe put to the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, & cast into the fire. In deed I baptize you with water to amendment of life, but he that cometh after me, is mightier then I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: he will baptize you with the holy Ghost, and with fire. Which hath his fan in his hand, and will make clean his floor, and gather his wheat into his garner but will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire. Then came Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him. But John earnestly put him back, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and come thou to me? Then Jesus answering, said to him, Let be now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness. So he suffered him. And Jesus when he was baptized came straight out of the water; lo, the heavens were opened unto him, & John saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him. And lo, a voice came from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

Then was Jesus led aside of the Spirit into the wilderness, to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted forty days, and forty nights, he was afterward hungry. Then came to him the tempter, and said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. But he answering said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Then the devil took him up into the holy City, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thy self down: for it is written, that he will give his Angels charge over thee, and with their hands they shall lift thee up, lest at any time thou should dash thy foot against a stone. Jesus said unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. Again the devil took him up into an exceeding high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them, and said to him, All these will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down, and worship me. Then said Jesus unto him, Avoid Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Then the devil left him: and behold, the Angels came, and ministered unto him.

And when Jesus had heard that John was committed to prison, he returned into Galilee. And leaving Nazareth, went and dwelt in Capernaum, which is near the sea in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying, The land of Zabulon, and the land of Nephthalim by the way of the sea, beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles: The people which sat in darkness, saw great light: and to them which sat in the region, and shadow of death, light is risen up. From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Amend your lives: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. And Jesus walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon, which was called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers.) And he said unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men. And they straightway leaving the nets followed him. And when he was gone forth from thence, he saw other two brethren, James the son of Zebedeus, and John his brother in a ship with Zebedeus their father, mending their nets, & he called them. And they without tarrying, leaving the ship, and their father, followed him. So Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their Synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. And his fame spread abroad through all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people, that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and them that were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatic, and those that had the palsy: and he healed them. And there followed him great multitudes out of Galilee, and Decapolis, and Jerusalem, and Judea, and from beyond Jordan.

And when he saw the multitude, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came to him. And he opened his mouth and taught them; saying, Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which hunger and thirst for righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace makers: for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they which suffer persecution for righteousness sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed shall ye be when men revile you, and persecute you, & say all manner of evil against you for my sake, falsely. Rejoice and be glad, for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the Prophets which were before you. Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill, cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. Think not that I am come to destroy the Law, or the Prophets. I am not come to destroy them, but to fulfill them. For truly I say unto you, Till heaven, and earth perish, one jot or one title of the Law shall not escape, till all things be fulfilled. Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall observe and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. For I say unto you, except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Ye have heard that it was said unto them of the old time, Thou shalt not kill: for whosoever killeth shall be culpable of judgment. But I say unto you, whosoever is angry with his brother unadvisedly, shall be culpable of judgment; whosoever saith unto his brother, Raca, shall be worthy to be punished by the Council; whosoever shall say, Fool, shall be worthy to be punished with hell fire. If then thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there remember that thy brother hath ought against thee, leave there thine offering before the altar, and go thy way: first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift. Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him, lest thine adversary deliver thee to the Judge, & the Judge deliver thee to ye sergeant, & thou be cast into prison. Verily I say unto thee, thou shalt not come out thence, till thou hast paid the utmost farthing.

Ye have heard that it was said to them of old time, Thou shalt not commit adultery. But I say unto you, that whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart. Wherefore if thy right eye cause thee to offend, pluck it out, & cast it from thee: for better it is for thee, that one of thy members perish, then that thy whole body should be cast into hell. Also if thy right hand makes thee to offend, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for better it is for thee that one of thy members perish, then that thy whole body should be cast into hell. It hath been said also, Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a bill of divorcement. But I say unto you, whosoever shall put away his wife (except it be for fornication) causeth her to commit adultery: & whosoever shall marry her that is divorced, committeth adultery. Again, ye have heard that it was said to them of old time, Thou shalt not forswear thy self, but shalt perform thine oaths to the Lord. But I say unto you, Swear not at all, neither by heaven, for it is the throne of God: Nor yet by the earth: for it is his footstool: neither by Jerusalem: for it is the city of the great King. Neither shalt thou swear by thine head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black. But let your communication be Yea, yea: Nay, nay. For whatsoever is more then these, cometh of evil. Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. But I say unto you, Resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also. And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. And whosoever will compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain. Give to him that asketh, and from him that would borrow of thee, turn not away. Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate your enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies: bless them that curse you: do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which hurt you, and persecute you, that ye may be the children of your father that is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to arise on the evil, and the good, and sendeth rain on the just, and unjust. For if ye love them, which love you, what reward shall you have? Doe not the Publicans even the same? And if ye be friendly to your brethren only, what singular thing do ye? do not even the Publicans likewise? Ye shall therefore be perfect, as your Father which is in heaven, is perfect.

Take heed that ye give not your alms before men, to be seen of them, or else ye shall have no reward of your Father which is in heaven. Therefore when thou giveth thine alms, thou shalt not make a trumpet to be blown before thee, as the hypocrites do in the Synagogues and in the streets, to be praised of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. But when thou doest thine alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth, that thine alms may be in secret, and thy Father that seeth in secret, he will reward thee openly. And when thou pray, be not as the hypocrites: for they love to stand, and pray in the Synagogues, and in the corners of the streets, because they would be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. But when thou pray, enter into thy chamber and when thou hast shut thy door, pray unto thy Father which is in secret, and thy Father which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly. Also when ye pray, use no vain repetitions as the Heathen: for they think to be heard for their much babbling. Be ye not like them therefore: for your Father knoweth whereof ye have need, before ye ask of him. After this manner therefore pray ye, Our father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy Kingdome come. Thy will be done even in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we also forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory for ever. Amen. For if ye do forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if ye do not forgive men their trespasses, no more will your father forgive you your trespasses. Moreover, when ye fast, look not sorrow as the hypocrites: for they disfigure their faces that they might seem unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, that they have their reward. But when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face, that thou seem not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret, will reward thee openly. Lay not up treasures for your selves upon the earth, where the moth & canker corrupt, and where thieves dig through and steal. But lay up treasures for your selves in heaven, where neither the moth nor canker corrupteth, & where thieves neither dig through, nor steal. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

The light of the body is the eye: if then thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be light. But if thine eye be wicked, then all thy body shall be dark. Wherefore if the light that is in thee, be darkness, how great is that darkness? No man can serve two masters: for either he shall hate the one, and love the other, or else he shall lean to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and riches. Therefore I say unto you, be not careful for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink: nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more worth then meat? and the body then raiment? Behold the fowls of the heaven: for they sow not, neither reap, nor carry into the barns: yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better then they? Which of you by taking care is able to add one cubit unto his stature? And why care ye for raiment? Learn how the lilies of the field do grow: they are not wearied, neither spin: Yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Wherefore if God so clothe the grass of the field which is to day, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not do much more unto you, O ye of little faith? Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or what shall we drink? or where with shall we be clothed? (For after all these things seek the Gentiles) for your heavenly Father knoweth, that ye have need of all these things. But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be ministered unto you. Care not then for the morrow: for the morrow shall care for it self: the day hath enough with his own grief. Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged, and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again. And why see thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye and perceive not the beam that is in thine own eye? Or how say thou to thy brother, Suffer me to cast out the mote out of thine eye, and behold, a beam is in thine own eye? Hypocrite, first cast out that beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brothers eye. Give ye not that which is holy, to dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they tread them under their feet, and turning again, all to rent you. Ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and ye shall find: knock and it shall be opened unto you. For whosoever asketh, receiveth: and he, that seeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened. For what man is there among you, which if his son ask him bread, would give him a stone? Or if he ask fish, will he give him a serpent? If ye then, which are evil, can give to your children good gifts, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven, give good things to them that ask him? Therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, even so do ye to them: for this is the Law and the Prophets.

Enter in at the straight gate: for it is the wide gate, and broad way that leadeth to destruction: & many there be which go in thereat, because the gate is straight, and the way narrow that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it. Beware of false prophets, which come to you, in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns? or fig's of thistles? So every good tree bringeth forth good fruit, & a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree can not bring forth evil fruit: neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Therefore by their fruits ye shall know them.

Not everyone that sayeth unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth my Fathers will which is in heaven. Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not by thy Name prophesied? and by thy name cast out devils? and by thy name done many great works? And then will I profess to them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity. Whosoever then heareth of me these words & doeth the same, I will liken him to a wise man, which hath builded his house on a rock: And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell not: for it was grounded on a rock. But whosoever heareth these my words, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which hath builded his house upon the sand: And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell, and the fall thereof was great. And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these words, the people were astonished at his doctrine. For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the Scribes.

Now when he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him. And lo, there came a Leper and worshipped him, saying, Master, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And Jesus putting forth his hand touched him, saying, I will, be thou clean: and immediately his leprosy was cleansed. Then Jesus said unto him, See thou tell no man, but go, and shew thy self unto the Priest, and offer the gift that Moses commanded, for a witness to them. When Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a Centurion, beseeching him, and said, Master, my servant lieth sick at home of the palsy, and is grievously pained. And Jesus said unto him, I will come and heal him. But the Centurion answered, saying, Master, I am not worthy that thou should come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed. For I am a man also under the authority of another, and have soldiers under me: and I say to one, Go, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and he cometh: and to my servant, Doe this, and he doeth it. When Jesus heard that, he marveled, and said to them that followed him, Verily, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, even in Israel. But I say unto you, that many shall come from the East and West, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven. And the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into utter darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. Then Jesus said unto the Centurion, Go thy way, and as thou hast believed, so be it unto thee, And his servant was healed the same hour. And when Jesus came to Peter's house, he saw his wives mother laid down, and sick of a fever. And he touched her hand, and the fever left her: so she arose, and ministered unto them. When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed all that were sick, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying, He took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses. And when Jesus saw great multitudes of people about him, he commanded them to go over the water. Then came there a certain Scribe, and said unto him, Master, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest. But Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven have nests, but the Son of man hath not whereon to rest his head. And another of his disciples said unto him, Master, suffer me first to go, and bury my father. But Jesus said unto him, Follow me, and let the dead bury their dead. And when he was entered into the ship, his disciples followed him. And behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, so that the ship was covered with waves: but he was a sleep. Then his disciples came, and awoke him, saying, Master, save us: we perish. And he said unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, & rebuked the winds & the sea: & so there was a great calm. And the men marveled, saying, What man is this, that both the winds and the sea obey him! And when he was come to the other side into the country of the Gergesenes, there met him two possessed with devils, which came out of the graves very fierce, so that no man might go by that way. And behold, they cried out, saying, Jesus the son of God, what have we to do with thee? Art thou come hither to torment us before ye time? Now there was, afar off from them, a great heard of swine feeding. And the devils besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go into the heard of swine. And he said unto them, Go. So they went out and departed into the heard of swine: and behold, the whole heard of swine ran headlong into the sea, and died in the water. Then the herdsmen fled: and when they were come into the city, they told all things, and what was become of them that were possessed with the devils. And behold, all ye city came out to meet Jesus: and when they saw him, they besought him to depart out of their coasts.

Then he entered into a ship, and passed over, and came into his own city. And lo, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, laid on a bed; Jesus seeing their faith, said to the sick of the palsy, Son, be of good comfort: thy sins are forgiven thee. And behold, certain of the Scribes said with themselves, This man blasphemeth. But when Jesus saw their thoughts, he said, Wherefore think ye evil things in your hearts? For whether is it easier to say, Thy sins are forgiven thee, or to say, Arise, and walk? And that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority in earth to forgive sins, (then said he unto the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go to thine house. And he arose, and departed to his own house. So when the multitude saw it, they marveled, and glorified God, which had given such authority to men. And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man sitting at the custom, named Matthew, and said to him, Follow me; he arose, and followed him. And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in his house, behold, many Publicans and sinners that came thither, sat down at the table with Jesus and his disciples. And when the Pharisees saw that, they said to his disciples, Why eateth your master with Publicans and sinners? Now when Jesus heard it, he said unto them, The whole need not a Physician, but they that are sick. But go ye and learn what this is, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

Then came the disciples of John to him, saying, Why do we and the Pharisees fast oft, and thy disciples fast not? And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the marriage chamber mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast. Moreover no man pieceth an old garment with a piece of new cloth: for that that should fill it up, taketh away from the garment, and the breach is worse. Neither do they put new wine into old vessels: for then the vessels would break, and the wine would be spilt, and the vessels should perish: but they put new wine into new vessels, and so are both preserved. While he thus spake unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is now deceased, but come and lay thine hand on her, and she shall live. And Jesus arose and followed him with his disciples. (And behold, a woman which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment. For she said in her self, If I may touch but his garment only, I shall be whole. Then Jesus turned him about, and seeing her, did say, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; the woman was made whole at that same moment.) Now when Jesus came into the Rulers house, and saw the minstrels and the multitude making noise, He said unto them, Get you hence: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth; they laughed him to scorn. And when the multitude were put forth, he went in and took her by the hand, and the maid arose. And this bruit went throughout all that land. And as Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, O son of David, have mercy upon us. And when he was come into the house, the blind came to him, & Jesus said unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? And they said unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened, and Jesus gave them great charge, saying, See that no man know it. But when they were departed, they spread abroad his fame throughout all that land. And as they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil. And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: then the multitude marveled, saying, The like was never seen in Israel. But the Pharisees said He casteth out devils, through the prince of devils. And Jesus went about all cities and towns, teaching in their Synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitude, he had compassion upon them, because they were dispersed, and scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Then said he to his disciples, Surely the harvest is great, but the laborers are few. Wherefore pray the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest. And he called his twelve disciples unto him, and gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal every sickness, and every disease. Now the names of the twelve Apostles are these. The first is Simon, called Peter, and Andrew his brother: James the son of Zebedeus, and John his brother. Philippe and Bartholomew: Thomas, and Matthew that Publican: James the son of Alpheus, & Lebbeus whose surname was Thaddeus: Simon the Canaanite, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him. These twelve did Jesus send forth, & commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into the cities of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick: cleanse the lepers: raise up the dead: cast out the devils. Freely ye have received, freely give. Possess not gold, nor silver, nor money in your girdles, nor a scrippe for the journey, neither two coats, neither shoes, nor a staff: for the workman is worthy of his meat. And into whatsoever city or town ye shall come, enquire who is worthy in it, and there abide till ye go thence. And when ye come into an house, salute the same. And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you. And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house, or that city, shake off the dust of your feet. Truly I say unto you, it shall be easier for them of the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment, then for that city. Behold, I send you as sheep in the midst of the wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and innocent as doves. But beware of men, for they will deliver you up to the Councils, and will scourge you in their Synagogues. And ye shall be brought to the governors and Kings for my sake, in witness to them, and to the Gentiles. But when they deliver you up, take no thought how or what ye shall speak: for it shall be given you in that hour, what ye shall say. For it is not ye that speak, but the spirit of your father which speaketh in you. And the brother shall betray the brother to death, and the father the son, and the children shall rise against their parents, and shall cause them to die. And ye shall be hated of all men for my Name: but he that endureth to the end, he shall be saved. And when they persecute you in this city, flee into another: for verily I say unto you, ye shall not go over all the cities of Israel, till the Son of man become. The disciple is not above his master, nor the servant above his Lord. It is enough for the disciple to be as his master is, and the servant as his Lord. If they have called the master of the house Beelzebub, how much more them of his household? Fear them not therefore: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be disclosed, nor hid, that shall not be known. What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye on the houses. And fear ye not them which kill the body, but are nor able to kill the soul: but rather fear him, which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell. Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing, and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father? Yea, and all the hairs of your head are numbered. Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows. Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before me, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven. Think not that I am come to send peace into the earth: I came not to send peace, but the sword. For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's enemies shall be they of his own household. He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me; he that loveth son, or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me. And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me. He that will find his life shall lose it: & he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it. He that receiveth you receiveth me: and he that receiveth me receiveth him that hath sent me. He that receiveth a Prophet in the name of a Prophet shall receive a Prophets reward: and he that receiveth a righteous man, in the name of a righteous man, shall receive the reward of a righteous man. And whosoever shall give unto one of these little ones to drink a cup of cold water only, in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward. And it came to pass that when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

And when John heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or shall we look for another? And Jesus answering, said unto them, Go, and shew John, what things ye hear, and see. The blind receive sight, and the halt do walk: the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor receive the Gospel. And blessed is he that shall not be offended in me. And as they departed, Jesus began to speak unto the multitude, of John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they that wear soft clothing, are in Kings houses. But what went ye out to see? A Prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and more than a Prophet. For this is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee. Verily I say unto you, among them which are begotten of women, arose there not a greater then John Baptist: notwithstanding, he that is the least in the kingdom of heaven, is greater than he. And from the time of John Baptist hitherto, the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force. For all the Prophets and the Law prophesied unto John. And if ye will receive it, this is that Elias, which was to come. He that hath ears to hear let him hear. But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto little children which sit in the markets, and call unto their fellows, and say, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced, we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented. For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a devil. The son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold a glutton and a drinker of wine, a friend unto Publicans and sinners: but wisdom is justified of her children.

Then began he to upbraid the cities, wherein most of his great works were done, because they repented not. Woe be to thee, Chorazin: Woe be to thee, Bethsaida: for if the great works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyrus and Sidon, they had repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. But I say to you, It shall be easier for Tyrus and Sidon at the day of judgment, then for you. And thou, Capernaum, which art lifted up unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the great works, which have been done in thee, had been done among them of Sodom, they had remained to this day. But I say unto you, that it shall be easier for them of the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee. At that time Jesus answered, and said, I give thee thanks, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and men of understanding, and hast opened them unto babes. It is so, O Father, because thy good pleasure was such. All things are given unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father: neither knoweth any man the Father, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will revile him. Come unto me, all ye that are weary and laden, and I will ease you. Take my yoke on you, and learn of me that I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, & my burden light. At that time Jesus went on a Sabbath day through the corn, & his disciples were an hungered, & began to pluck the ears of corn & to eat. And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the Sabbath. But he said unto them, Have ye not read what David did when he was an hungered, & they that were with him? How he entered into the house of God, and did eat the shew bread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them which were with him, but only for the Priests? Or have ye not read in the Law, how that on the Sabbath days the Priests in the Temple break the Sabbath, and are blameless? But I say unto you, that here is one greater than the Temple. Wherefore if ye knew what this is, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the innocents. For the son of man is Lord, even of the Sabbath. And he departed thence, and went into their Synagogue: And behold, there was a man which had his hand dried up; they asked him, saying, Is it lawful to heal upon a Sabbath day? That they might accuse him. And he said unto the, What man shall there be among you, that hath a sheep, & if it fall on a Sabbath day into a pit, doth not take it & lift it out? How much more then is a man better then a sheep? Therefore, it is lawful to do well on a Sabbath day. Then said he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand; he stretched it forth, and it was made whole as the other. Then the Pharisees went out, & consulted against him, how they might destroy him. But when Jesus knew it, he departed thence, & great multitudes followed him, & he healed the all, and charged them in threatening wise, that they should not make him known, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying, Behold my servant whom I have chosen, my beloved in whom my soul delighteth: I will put my Spirit on him, and he shall shew judgment to the Gentiles. He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets. A bruised reed shall he not break, & smoking flax shall he not quench, till he bring forth judgment unto victory. And in his Name shall the Gentiles trust.

Then was brought to him one, possessed with a devil, both blind, & dumb, & he healed him, so that he which was blind and dumb, both spake and saw. And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this that son of David? But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This man casteth the devils no otherwise out, but through Beelzebub the prince of devils. But Jesus knew their thoughts, and said to them, Every kingdom divided against itself, is brought to naught: and every city or house, divided against itself, shall not stand. So if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself: how shall then his kingdom endure? Also if I through Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? Therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then is the kingdom of God come unto you. Else how can a man enter into a strong mans house and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man, and then spoil his house. He that is not with me is against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth. Wherefore I say unto you, every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever shall speak against the holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, nor in the world to come. Either make the tree good and his fruit good: or else make the tree evil, and his fruit evil: for the tree is known by the fruit. O generations of vipers, how can you speak good things, when ye are evil? For of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth good things: & an evil man out of an evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. But I say unto you, that of every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof at the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

Then answered certain of the Scribes and of the Pharisees, saying, Master, we would see a sign of thee. But he answered and said to them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh a sign, but no sign shall be given unto it, save that sign of the Prophet Jonas. For as Jonas was three days & three nights in the whale's belly: so shall the Son of man be three days & three nights in the heart of the earth. The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonas: and behold a greater then Jonas is here. The Queen of the South shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon: and behold, a greater then Solomon is here. Now when the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh throughout dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none. Then he saith, I will return into mine house from whence I came: and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept and garnished. Then he goeth, & taketh unto him seven other spirits worse than himself, and they enter in, and dwell there: and the end of that man is worse than the beginning. Even so shall it be with this wicked generation. While he yet spake to the multitude, behold, his mother, and his brethren stood without, desiring to speak with him. Then one said unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to speak with thee. But he answered, and said to him that told him, Who is my mother? & who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren. For whosoever shall do my Fathers will which is in heaven, the same is my brother and sister and mother.

The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side. And great multitudes resorted unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat down: and the whole multitude stood on the shore. Then he spake many things to them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow. And as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up. And some fell upon stony ground, where they had not much earth, and anon they sprung up, because they had no depth of earth. And when the sun was up, they were parched, and for lack of rooting, withered away. And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprung up, and choked them. Some again fell in good ground, & brought forth fruit, one corn an hundredth fold, some sixty fold, and another thirty fold. He that hath ears to hear let him hear. Then the disciples came, and said to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables? And he answered, & said unto them, Because it is given unto you, to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given. For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away, even that he hath. Therefore speak I to them in parables, because they seeing, do not see: and hearing, they hear not, neither understand. So in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which prophecy saith, By hearing, ye shall hear, and shall not understand, and seeing, ye shall see, and shall not perceive. For this people's heart is waxed fat, & their ears are dull of hearing, and with their eyes they have winked, lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, & should understand with their hearts, & should return, that I might heal them. But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear. For verily I say unto you, that many Prophets, & righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, & have not seen them, & to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

Hear ye therefore ye parable of the sower. Whomsoever any man heareth the word of that kingdom, and understandeth it not, that evil one cometh, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart: and this is he which hath received the seed by the way side. And he that received seed in the stony ground, is he which heareth the word, and incontinently with joy receiveth it, yet hath he no root in himself, and dureth but a season: for as soon as tribulation or persecution cometh because of the word, by and by he is offended. And he that received the seed among thorns is he that heareth the word: but the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and he is made unfruitful. But he that received the seed in the good ground, is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it, which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredth fold, some sixty fold, and some thirty fold. Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a man which sowed good seed in his field. But while men slept, there came his enemy, and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. And when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. Then came the servants of the householder, and said unto him, Master, sowedst not thou good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? And he said to them, Some envious man hath done this. Then the servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay, lest while ye go about to gather the tares, ye pluck up also with them the wheat. Let both grow together until the harvest, and in time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye first the tares, and bind them in sheaves to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn. Another parable he put forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man taketh and soweth in his field: Which in deed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and it is a tree, so that the birds of heaven come and build in the branches thereof. Another parable spake he to them, The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman taketh and hideth in three pecks of meal, till all be leavened. All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables, and without parables spake he not to them, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in parables, and will utter the things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world. Then sent Jesus the multitude away, and went into the house; his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of that field. Then answered he, and said to them, He that soweth the good seed, is the Son of man. And the field is the world, and the good seed are the children of the kingdom, and the tares are the children of that wicked one. And the enemy that soweth them is the devil, and the harvest is the end of the world, and the reapers be the Angels. As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man shall send forth his Angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire. There shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Then shall the just men shine as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hid in the field, which when a man hath found, he hideth it, & for joy thereof departeth & selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field. Again, the kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant man that seeketh good pearls, who having found a pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it. Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a draw net cast into the sea, that gathereth of all kinds of things. Which, when it is full, men draw to land, and sit and gather the good into vessels, and cast the bad away. So shall it be at the end of the world. The Angels shall go forth, and sever the bad from among the just, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing, and gnashing of teeth. Jesus said unto them, Understand ye all these things? They said unto him, Yea, Lord. Then said he unto them, Therefore every Scribe which is taught unto the kingdom of heaven, is like unto an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things both new and old. And it came to pass, that when Jesus had ended these parables, he departed thence, and came into his own country, and taught them in their Synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, Whence cometh this wisdom and great works unto this man? Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Marie, and his brethren James and Joses, and Simon and Judas? And are not his sisters all with us? Whence then hath he all these things? And they were offended with him. Then Jesus said to them, A Prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and in his own house. And he did not many great works there, for their unbelief's sake.

At that time Herod the Tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus, and said unto his servants, This is that John Baptist, he is risen again from the dead, and therefore great works are wrought by him. For Herod had taken John, and bound him, and put him in prison for Herodias sake, his brother Philips wife. For John said unto him, It is not lawful for thee to have her. And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, because they counted him as a Prophet. But when Herod's birth day was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced before them, and pleased Herod. Wherefore he promised with an oath, that he would give her whatsoever she would ask. And she being before instructed of her mother, said, Give me here John Baptists head in a platter. And the King was sorry: nevertheless because of the oath, and them that sat with him at the table, he commanded it to be given her, and sent, and beheaded John in the prison. And his head was brought in a platter, and given to the maid, and she brought it unto her mother. And his disciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went, and told Jesus. And when Jesus heard it, he departed thence by ship into a desert place apart; when the multitude had heard it, they followed him on foot out of the cities. And Jesus went forth and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick. And when even was come, his disciples came to him, saying, This is a dessert place, and the time is already past: let the multitude depart, that they may go into the towns, and by them vitals. But Jesus said to them, They have no need to go away: give ye them to eat. Then said they unto him, We have here but five loaves, and two fishes. And he said, Bring them hither to me. And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grass, and took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looked up to heaven and blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude. And they did all eat, and were sufficed, and they took up of the fragments that remained, twelve baskets full. And they that had eaten, were about five thousand men, beside women and little children.

And straightway Jesus compelled his disciples to enter into a ship, and to go over before him, while he sent the multitude away. And as soon as he had sent the multitude away, he went up into a mountain alone to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone. And the ship was now in the midst of the sea, and was tossed with waves: for it was a contrary wind. And in the fourth watch of the night, Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when his disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit, and cried out for fear. But straight way Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good comfort, It is I: be not afraid. Then Peter answered him, and said, Master, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And he said, Come; when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw a mighty wind, he was afraid: and as he began to sink, he cried, saying, Master, save me. So immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said to him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt? And as soon as they were come into the ship, the wind ceased. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God. And when they were come over, they came into the land of Gennezaret. And when the men of that place knew him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were sick, and besought him, that they might touch the hem of his garment only: and as many as touched it, were made whole.

Then came to Jesus the Scribes and Pharisees, which were of Jerusalem, saying, Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the Elders? For they wash not their hands when they eat bread. But he answered & said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition? For God hath commanded, saying, Honor thy father and mother: and he that curseth father or mother, let him die the death. But ye say, Whosoever shall say to father or mother, By the gift that is offered by me, thou may have profit, Though he honor not his father, or his mother, shall be free: thus have ye made the commandment of God of no authority by your tradition. O hypocrites, Esaias prophesied well of you, saying, This people draweth near unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with the lips, but their heart is far off from me. But in vain they worship me, teaching for doctrines, men's precepts. Then he called the multitude unto him, and said to them, Hear and understand. That which goeth into the mouth, defileth not the man, but that which cometh out of the mouth, that defileth the man. Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Perceive thou not, that the Pharisees are offended in hearing this saying? But he answered and said, Every plant which mine heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up. Let them alone, they be the blind leaders of the blind: and if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch. Then answered Peter, and said to him, Declare unto us this parable. Then said Jesus, Are ye yet without understanding? Perceive ye not yet, that whatsoever entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught? But those things which proceed out of the mouth, come from the heart, and they defile the man. For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, slanders. These are the things, which defile the man: but to eat with unwashed hands, defileth not the man. And Jesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyrus and Sidon. And behold, a woman a Canaanite came out of the same coasts, and cried, saying unto him, Have mercy on me, O Lord, the son of David: my daughter is miserably vexed with a devil. But he answered her not a word. Then came to him his disciples, and besought him, saying, Send her away, for she crieth after us. But he answered, and said, I am not sent, but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel. Yet she came, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me. And he answered, and said, It is not good to take the children's bread, and to cast it to whelps. But she said, Truth, Lord: yet in deed the whelps eat of the crumbs, which fall from their masters table. Then Jesus answered, and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it to thee, as thou desire; her daughter was made whole at that hour.

So Jesus went away from thence, and came near unto the sea of Galilee, and went up into a mountain and sat down there. And great multitudes came unto him, having with them, halt, blind, dumb, maimed, and many other, and cast them down at Jesus feet, and he healed them. In so much that the multitude wondered, to see the dumb speak, the maimed whole, the halt to go, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel. Then Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said, I have compassion on this multitude, because they have continued with me already three days, & have nothing to eat: and I will not let them depart fasting, least they faint in the way. And his disciples said unto him, Whence should we get so much bread in the wilderness, as should suffice so great a multitude! And Jesus said unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, & a few little fishes. Then he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground, and took the seven loaves, and the fishes, and gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude. And they did all eat, and were sufficed: and they took up of the fragments that remained, seven baskets full. And they that had eaten, were four thousand men, beside women, and little children. Then Jesus sent away the multitude, and took ship, and came into the parts of Magdala.

Then came the Pharisees and Sadducees, and did tempt him, desiring him to shew them a sign from heaven. But he answered, and said unto them, When it is evening, ye say, Fair weather: for the sky is red. And in the morning ye say, To day shall be a tempest: for the sky is red and lowering. O hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky, and can ye not discern the signs of the times? The wicked generation, and adulterous seeketh a sign, but there shall no sign be given it, but that sign of the Prophet Jonas: so he left them, and departed. And when his disciples were come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread with them. Then Jesus said unto them, Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees & Sadducees. And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have brought no bread. But Jesus knowing it, said unto them, O ye of little faith, why reason you thus among your selves, because ye have brought no bread? Do ye not yet perceive, neither remember the five loaves, when there were five thousand men, and how many baskets took ye up? Neither the seven loaves when there were four thousand men, and how many baskets took ye up? Why perceive ye not that I said not unto you concerning bread, that ye should beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees? Then understood they that he had not said that they should beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees, and Sadducees.

Now when Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I, the son of man am? And they said, Some say, John Baptist: and some, Elias: and others, Jeremiah, or one of the Prophets. He said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Then Simon Peter answered, & said, Thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered, and said to him, Blessed art thou, Simon, the son of Jonas: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church: and the gates of hell shall not overcome it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth, shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth, shall be loosed in heaven. Then he charged his disciples, that they should tell no man that he was Jesus that Christ.

From that time forth Jesus began to shew unto his disciples, that he must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the Elders, and of the high Priests, and Scribes, and be slain, and be raised again the third day. Then Peter took him aside, and began to rebuke him, saying, Master, pity thy self: this shall not be unto thee. Then he turned back, and said unto Peter, Get thee behind me, Satan: thou art an offence unto me, because thou understand not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

Jesus then said to his disciples, If any man will follow me, let him forsake himself: and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake, shall find it. For what shall it profit a man though he should win the whole world, if he lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give for recompense of his soul? For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his Angels, and then shall he give to every man according to his deeds. Verily I say unto you, there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the Son of man come in his kingdom. And after six days, Jesus took Peter, and James and John his brother, and brought them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the Sun, and his clothes were as white as the light. And behold, there appeared unto them Moses, and Elias, talking with him. Then answered Peter, and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud shadowed them: and behold, there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, This is that my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased: hear him. And when the disciples heard that, they fell on their faces, and were sore afraid. Then Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid. And when they lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus only. And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying, Shew the vision to no man, until the Son of man rise again from the dead. And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the Scribes that Elias must first come? And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Certainly Elias must first come, and restore all things. But I say unto you that Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but have done unto him whatsoever they would: likewise shall also the Son of man suffer of them. Then the disciples perceived that he spake unto them of John Baptist.

And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, and fell down at his feet, and said, Master, have pity on my son: for he is lunatic, and is sore vexed: for oft times he falleth into the fire, & oft times into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not heal him. Then Jesus answered, and said, O generation faithless, and crooked, how long now shall I be with you! How long now shall I suffer you! Bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil, and he went out of him: and the child was healed at that hour. Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, if ye have faith as much as is a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place, and it shall remove: and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out, but by prayer and fasting. And they being in Galilee, Jesus said unto them, The Son of man shall be

And when they were come to Capernaum, they that received poll money, came to Peter, and said, Doth not your Master pay poll money? He said, Yes; when he was come into the house, Jesus prevented him, saying, What think thou, Simon? Of whom do the Kings of the earth take tribute, or poll money? of their children, or of strangers? Peter said unto him, Of strangers. Then said Jesus unto him, Then are the children free. Nevertheless, lest we should offend them: go to the sea, and cast in an angle, and take the first fish that cometh up, and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt find a piece of twenty pence: that take, and give it unto them for me and thee. The same time the disciples came unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them, and said, Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. And whosoever shall receive one such little child in my name, receiveth me. But whosoever shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him, that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea. Woe be unto the world because of offences: for it must needs be that offences shall come, but woe be to that man by whom the offence cometh. Wherefore, if thy hand or thy foot cause thee to offend, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life, halt, or maimed, then having two hands, or two feet, to be cast into everlasting fire. And if thine eye cause thee to offend, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, then having two eyes to be cast into hell fire. See that ye despise not one of these little ones: for I say unto you, that in heaven their Angels always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven. For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost. How think ye? If a man have an hundredth sheep, and one of them be gone astray, doeth he not leave ninety & nine, & go into the mountains, and seek that which is gone astray? And if so be that he find it, verily I say unto you, he rejoiceth more of that sheep, then of the ninety and nine which went not astray: So is it not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish. Moreover, if thy brother trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he hear thee, thou hast won thy brother. But if he hear thee not, take yet with thee one or two, that by the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be confirmed. And if he refuse to hear them, tell it unto the Church: and if he refuse to hear the Church also, let him be unto thee as an heathen man, and a Publican. Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye bind on earth, shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye loose on earth, shall be loosed in heaven. Again, verily I say unto you, that if two of you shall agree in earth upon any thing, whatsoever they shall desire, it shall be given them of my Father which is in heaven. For where two or three are gathered together in my Name, there am I in the midst of them. Then came Peter to him, & said, Master, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I shall forgive him? unto seven times? Jesus said unto him, I say not to thee, Unto seven times, but, Unto seventy times seven times. Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain King, which would take an account of his servants. And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which ought him ten thousand talents. And because he had nothing to pay, his Lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and his children, and all that he had, and the debt to be paid. The servant therefore fell down, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, refrain thine anger toward me, and I will pay thee all. Then that servants Lord had compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt. But when the servant was departed, he found one of his fellow servants, which ought him an hundred pence, & he laid hands on him, and throttled him, saying, Pay me that thou owe. Then his fellow servant fell down at his feet, and besought him, saying, Refrain thine anger towards me, and I will pay thee all. Yet he would not, but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt. And when his other fellow servants saw what was done, they were very sorry, & came, and declared unto their Lord all that was done. Then his Lord called him unto him, and said to him, O evil servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou prayedst me. Aught not thou also to have had pity on thy fellow servant, even as I had pity on thee? So his Lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due to him. So likewise shall mine heavenly Father do unto you, except ye forgive from your hearts, each one to his brother their trespasses. And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, & came into the coasts of Judea beyond Jordan. And great multitudes followed him, and he healed them there.

Then came unto him the Pharisees tempting him, & saying to him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife upon every occasion? And he answered & said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning, made them male and female, and said, For this cause, shall a man leave father and mother, and cleave unto his wife, and they which were two shall be one flesh. Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. Let not man therefore put asunder that which God hath coupled together. They said to him, Why did then Moses command to give a bill of divorcement, and to put her away? He said unto them, Moses, because of the hardness of your heart, suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. I say therefore unto you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for whoredome, and marry another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her which is divorced, doth commit adultery. Then said his disciples to him, If the matter be so between man and wife, it is not good to marry. But he said unto them, All men cannot receive this thing, save they to whom it is given. For there are some eunuchs, which were so born of their mother's belly: & there be some eunuchs, which be gelded by men: and there be some eunuchs, which have gelded them selves for the kingdom of heaven. He that is able to receive this let him receive it.

Then were brought to him little children that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said, Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come to me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven. And when he had put his hands on them, he departed thence. And behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, even God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments. He said to him, Which? And Jesus said, These, Thou shalt not kill: Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not steal: Thou shalt not bear false witness. Honor thy father and mother: and thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self. The young man said unto him, I have observed all these things from my youth: what lack I yet? Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go, sell that thou hast, & give it to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, & come and follow me. And when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions. Then Jesus said unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. And when his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved? And Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible. Then answered Peter, and said to him, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee: what therefore shall we have? And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say to you, that when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his majesty, ye which followed me in the regeneration, shall sit also upon twelve thrones and judge the twelve tribes of Israel. And whosoever shall forsake houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my Names sake, he shall receive an hundredth fold more, and shall inherit everlasting life. But many that are first, shall be last, and the last shall be first. For the kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain householder, which went out at the dawning of the day to hire laborers into his vineyard. And he agreed with the laborers for a penny a day, and sent them into his vineyard. And he went out about the third hour, & saw other standing idle in the market place, and said unto them, Go ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoever is right, I will give you: and they went their way. Again he went out about the sixth & ninth hour, and did likewise. And he went about the eleventh hour, and found other standing idle, & said unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle? They said unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He said to them, Go ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive. And when even was come, the master of the vineyard said unto his steward, Call the laborers, and give them their hire, beginning at the last, till thou come to the first. And they which were hired about the eleventh hour, came and received every man a penny. Now when the first came, they supposed that they should receive more, but they likewise received every man a penny. And when they had received it, they murmured against the master of the house, saying, These last have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden & heat of the day. And he answered one of them, saying, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst thou not agree with me for a penny? Take that which is thine own, and go thy way: I will give unto this last, as much as to thee. Is it not lawful for me to do as I will with mine own? Is thine eye evil, because I am good? So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many are called, but few chosen.

And Jesus went up to Jerusalem, and took the twelve disciples apart in the way, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests, and unto the Scribes, and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles, to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify him, but the third day he shall rise again. Then came to him the mother of Zebedee's children with her sons, worshipping him, and desiring a certain thing of him. And he said unto her, What wouldst thou? She said to him, Grant that these my two sons may sit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdom. And Jesus answered and said, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with the baptism that I shall be baptized with? They said to him, We are able. And he said unto them, Ye shall drink in deed of my cup, and shall be baptized with the baptism, that I am baptized with, but to sit at my right hand, and at my left hand, is not mine to give: but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father. And when the other ten heard this, they disdained at the two brethren. Therefore Jesus called them unto him, and said, We know that the lords of the Gentiles have domination over them, and they that are great, exercise authority over them. But it shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your servant. And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant. Even as the Son of man came not to be served, but to serve, and to give his life for the ransom of many. And as they departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him. And behold, two blind men, sitting by the way side, when they heard that Jesus passed by, cried, saying, O Lord, the Son of David, have mercy on us. And the multitude rebuked them, because they should hold their peace: but they cried the more, saying, O Lord, the Son of David, have mercy on us. Then Jesus stood still, and called them, and said, What will ye that I should do to you? They said to him, Lord, that our eyes may be opened. And Jesus moved with compassion, touched their eyes, & immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed him.

And when they drew near to Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of the Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples, saying to them, Go into the town that is over against you, and anon ye shall find an ass bound, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me. And if any man say ought unto you, say ye that the Lord hath need of them, and straightway he will let them go. All this was done that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek and sitting upon an ass, and a colt, the foal of an ass used to the yoke. So the disciples went, and did as Jesus had commanded them, and brought the ass and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and set him thereon. And a great multitude spread their garments in the way: and other cut down branches from the trees, and strawed them in the way. Moreover, the people that went before, and they also that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David, Blessed be he that cometh in the Name of the Lord, Hosanna thou which art in the highest heavens. And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this? And the people said, This is Jesus that Prophet of Nazareth in Galilee. And Jesus went into the Temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the Temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, & the seats of them that sold doves, and said to them, it is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves. Then the blind, and the halt came to him in the Temple, and he healed them. But when the chief priests and Scribes saw the marvels that he did, and the children crying in the Temple, and saying, Hosanna to the Son of David, they disdained, and said unto him, Hear thou what these say? And Jesus said unto them, Yea: read ye never, By the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast made perfect the praise?

So he left them, and went out of the city unto Bethania, and lodged there. And in the morning, as he returned into the city, he was hungry, and seeing a fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and said to it, Never fruit grow on thee henceforwards; anon the fig tree withered. And when his disciples saw it, they marveled, saying, How soon is the fig tree withered! And Jesus answered and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, if ye have faith, & doubt not, ye shall not only do that, which I have done to the fig tree, but also if ye say unto this mountain, Take thy self away, and cast thy self into the sea, it shall be done. And whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, if ye believe, ye shall receive it. And when he was come into the Temple, the chief Priests, and the Elders of the people came unto him, as he was teaching, and said, By what authority doest thou these things? And who gave thee this authority? Then Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask of you a certain thing, which if ye tell me, I likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things. The baptism of John, whence was it? From heaven, or of men? Then they reasoned among themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven, he will say unto us, Why did ye not then believe him? And if we say, Of men, we fear the multitude, for all hold John as a Prophet. Then they answered Jesus, and said, We can not tell; he said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things. But what think ye? A certain man had two sons, and came to the elder, and said, Son, go and work to day in my vineyard. But he answered, and said, I will not: yet afterward he repented himself, and went. Then came he to the second, and said likewise; he answered, and said, I will, Sir: yet he went not. Whether of them twain did the will of the father? They said unto him, The first. Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that the Publicans and the harlots go before you into the kingdom of God. For John came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not: but the Publicans, and the harlots believed him, and ye, though ye saw it, were not moved with repentance afterward, that ye might believe him. Hear another parable, There was a certain householder, which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, & made a winepress therein, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange country. And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen to receive the fruits thereof. And the husbandmen took his servants and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another. Again he sent other servants, more then the first: and they did the like unto them. But last of all he sent unto them his own son, saying, They will reverence my son. But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, & let us take his inheritance. So they took him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him. When therefore the Lord of the vineyard shall come, what will he do to those husbandmen? They said unto him, He will cruelly destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall deliver him the fruits in their seasons. Jesus said unto them, Read ye never in the Scriptures, The stone which the builders refused, the same is made the head of the corner? This was the Lords doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes. Therefore say I unto you, The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and shall be given to a nation, which shall bring forth the fruits thereof. And whosoever shall fall on this stone, he shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will dash him a pieces. And when the chief Priests and Pharisees had heard his parables, they perceived that he spake of them. And they seeking to lay hands on him feared the people, because they took him as a Prophet. Then Jesus answered, and spake unto them again in parables, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain King which married his son, and sent forth his servants, to call them that were bidden to the wedding, but they would not come. Again he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage. But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, and another about his merchandise. And the remnant took his servants, and entreated them sharply, and slew them. But when the King heard it, he was wroth, and sent forth his warriors, and destroyed those murderers, and burnt up their city. Then said he to his servants, Truly the wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthy. Go ye therefore out into the high ways, and as many as ye find, bid them to the marriage. So those servants went out into the high ways, and gathered together all that ever they found, both good and bad: so the wedding was furnished with guests. Then the King came in, to see the guests, and saw there a man which had not on a wedding garment. And he said unto him, Friend, how came thou in hither, and hast not on a wedding garment? And he was speechless. Then said the King to the servants, Bind him hand and foot: take him away, and cast him into utter darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few chosen.

Then went the Pharisees and took counsel how they might tangle him in talk. And they sent unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, & teach the way of God truly, neither care for any man: for thou consider not the person of men. Tell us therefore, how think thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Cesar, or not? But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? Shew me the tribute money; they brought him a penny. And he said unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? They said unto him, Cesar's. Then said he unto them, Give therefore to Cesar, the things which are Cesar's, and give unto God, those things which are God's. And when they heard it, they marveled, and left him, and went their way. The same day the Sadducees came to him (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him, saying, Master, Moses said, If a man die, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife by the right of alliance, and raise up seed unto his brother. Now there were with us seven brethren, and the first married a wife, and deceased: and having none issue, left his wife unto his brother. Likewise also the second, and the third, unto the seventh. And last of all the woman died also. Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife shall she be of the seven? For all had her. Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Ye are deceived, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God. For in the resurrection they neither marry wives, nor wives are bestowed in marriage, but are as the Angels of God in heaven. And concerning the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read what is spoken unto you of God, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living. And when the multitude heard it, they were astonished at his doctrine. But when the Pharisees had heard, that he had put the Sadducees to silence, they assembled together. And one of them, which was an expounder of the Law, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying, Master, which is the great commandment in the Law? Jesus said to him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and the great commandment. And the second is like unto this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self. On these two commandments hangeth the whole Law, and the Prophets. While the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them, saying, What think ye of Christ? whose son is he? They said unto him, David's. He said unto them, How then doth David in spirit call him Lord, saying, The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool? If then David call him Lord, how is he his son? And none could answer him a word, neither durst any from that day forth ask him any more questions.

Then spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples, saying, The Scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses seat. All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do: but after their works do not: for they say, and do not. For they bind heavy burdens, & grievous to be born, and lay them on men's shoulders, but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers. All their works they do for to be seen of men: for they make their phylacteries broad, and make long the fringes of their garments, and love the chief place at feasts, and to have the chief seats in the assemblies, and greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi. But be not ye called, Rabbi: for one is your doctor, to wit, Christ, and all ye are brethren. And call no man your father upon the earth: for there is but one, your father which is in heaven. Be not called doctors: for one is your doctor, even Christ. But he that is greatest among you, let him be your servant. For whosoever will exalt himself, shall be brought low: and whosoever will humble himself, shall be exalted. Woe therefore be unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, because ye shut up the kingdom of heaven before men: for ye yourselves go not in, neither suffer ye them that would enter, to come in. Woe be unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye devour widows houses, even under a color of long prayers: wherefore ye shall receive the greater damnation. Woe be unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye compass sea and land to make one of your profession: and when he is made, ye make him two fold more the child of hell, then you yourselves. Woe be unto you blind guides, which say, Whosoever sweareth by the Temple, it is nothing: but whosoever sweareth by the gold of the Temple, he offended. Ye fools and blind, whether is greater, the gold, or the Temple that sanctifieth the gold? And whosoever sweareth by the altar, it is nothing: but whosoever sweareth by the offering that is upon it, offendeth. Ye fools and blind, whether is greater, the offering, or the altar which sanctifieth the offering? Whosoever therefore sweareth by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon. And whosoever sweareth by the Temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein. And he that sweareth by heaven sweareth by the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon. Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye tithe mint, & anise, & cumin, & leave the weightier matters of the law, as judgment, and mercy and fidelity. These ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other. Ye blind guides, which strain out a gnat, and swallow a camel. Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye make clean the utter side of the cup, and of the platter: but within they are full of bribery and excess. Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first the inside of the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also. Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye are like unto whited tombs, which appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and all filthiness. So are ye also: for outward ye appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity. Woe be unto you, Scribes & Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye build the tombs of the Prophets, and garnish the sepulchers of the righteous, and say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partners with them in the blood of the Prophets. So then ye be witnesses unto your selves, that ye are the children of them that murdered the Prophets. Fulfill ye also ye measure of your fathers. O serpents, the generation of vipers, how should ye escape the damnation of hell! Wherefore behold, I send unto you Prophets, and wise men, and Scribes, and of them ye shall kill and crucify: and of them shall ye scourge in your Synagogues, and persecute from city to city, that upon you may come all the righteous blood that was shed upon the earth, from the blood of Abel the righteous, unto the blood of Zacharias the son of Barachas, whom ye slew between the Temple and the altar. Verily I say unto you, all these things shall come upon this generation. Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which kill the Prophets, and stone them which are sent to thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, as the hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your habitation shall be left unto you desolate, for I say unto you, ye shall not see me henceforth till that ye say, Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord.

And Jesus went out, and departed from the Temple, and his disciples came to him, to shew him the building of the Temple. And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? Verily I say unto you, there shall not be here left a stone upon a stone that shall not be cast down. And as he sat upon the mount of Olives, his disciples came unto him apart, saying, Tell us when these things shall be, and what sign shall be of thy coming, and of the end of the world. And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ, and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars, and rumors of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, & realm against realm, and there shall be famine, and pestilence, and earthquakes in divers places. All these are but the beginning of sorrows. Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you, and ye shall be hated of all nations for my Names sake. And then shall many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another. And many false prophets shall arise, & shall deceive many. And because iniquity shall be increased, the love of many shall be cold. But he that endureth to the end, he shall be saved. And this Gospel of the kingdom shall be preached through the whole world for a witness unto all nations, and then shall the end come.

When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation spoken of by Daniel the Prophet, set in the holy place (let him that readeth consider it.) Then let them which be in Judea, flee into the mountains. Let him which is on the house top, not come down to fetch any thing out of his house. And he that is in the field, let not him return back to fetch his clothes. And woe shall be to them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days. But pray that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the Sabbath day. For then shall be great tribulation, such as was not from the beginning of the world to this time, nor shall be. And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elects sake those days shall be shortened. Then if any shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there, believe it not. For there shall arise false Christ's, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders, so that if it were possible, they should deceive the very elect. Behold, I have told you before. Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert, go not forth: Behold, he is in the secret places, believe it not. For as the lightning cometh out of the East, and is seen into the West, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For wheresoever a dead carcass is, thither will the Eagles be gathered together. And immediately after the tribulations of those days, shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, & the stars shall fall from heaven, & the powers of heaven shall be shake. And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the kindred's of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man come in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. And he shall send his Angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect, from the four winds, and from the one end of the heavens unto the other. Now learn the parable of the fig tree: when her bough is yet tender, & it putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near. So likewise ye, when ye see all these things, know that the kingdom of God is near, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done. Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away. But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no not the Angels of heaven, but my father only. But as the days of Noah were, so likewise shall the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days before the flood, they did eat and drink, marry, and give in marriage, unto the day that Noah entered into the Ark, and knew nothing, till the flood came, and took them all away, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. Then two shall be in the fields, the one shall be received, and the other shall be refused. Two women shall be grinding at the mill: the one shall be received, and the other shall be refused. Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your master will come. Of this be sure, that if the good man of the house knew at what watch the thief would come, he would surely watch, and not suffer his house to be digged through. Therefore be ye also ready: for in the hour that ye think not, will the Son of man come. Who then is a faithful servant and wise, whom his master hath made ruler over his household, to give them meat in season? Blessed is that servant, whom his master when he cometh, shall find so doing. Verily I say unto you, he shall make him ruler over all his goods. But if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My master doth defer his coming, and begin to smite his fellows, & to eat, and to drink with the drunken, that servants master will come in a day, when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of, and will cut him off, & give him his portion with hypocrites: there shall be weeping, and gnashing of teeth. Then the kingdom of heaven shall be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom. And five of them were wise, & five foolish. The foolish took their lamps, but took none oil with them. But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps. Now while the bridegroom tarried long, all slumbered and slept. And at midnight there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh: go out to meet him. Then all those virgins arose, and trimmed their lamps. And the foolish said to the wise, Give us of your oil, for our lamps are out. But the wise answered, saying, Not so, lest there will not be enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for your selves. And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came: and they that were ready went in with him to the wedding, and the gate was shut. Afterwards came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us. But he answered, and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not. Watch therefore: for ye know neither the day, nor the hour, when the son of man will come. For the kingdom of heaven is as a man that going into a strange country, called his servants, and delivered to them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, & to another two, and to another one, to every man after his own ability, & straightway went from home. Then he that had received the five talents, went and occupied with them, and gained other five talents. Likewise also, he that received two, he also gained other two. But he that received that one, went & digged it in the earth, and hid his masters money. But after a long season, the master of those servants came, and reckoned with them. Then came he that had received five talents, and brought other five talents, saying, Master, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained with them other five talents. Then his master said unto him, It is well done good servant and faithful, Thou hast been faithful in little, I will make thee ruler over much: enter into thy masters joy. Also he that had received two talents, came, and said, Master, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents more. His master said unto him, It is well done good servant, and faithful, Thou hast been faithful in little, I will make thee ruler over much: enter into thy masters joy. Then he which had received the one talent, came, & said, Master, I knew that thou wast an hard man, which reaps where thou sowedst not, and gathers where thou strawedst not: I was therefore afraid, and went, & hid thy talent in the earth: behold, thou hast thine own. And his master answered, & said unto him, Thou evil servant, and slothful, thou knew that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I strawed not. Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, & then at my coming should I have received mine own with vantage. Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents. For unto every man that hath, it shall be given, and he shall have abundance, and from him that hath not, even that he hath, shall be taken away. Cast therefore that unprofitable servant into utter darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

And when the Son of man cometh in his glory, and all the holy Angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory, and before him shall be gathered all nations, & he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats. And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, and the goats on the left. Then shall the king say to them on his right hand, Come ye blessed of my father: take the inheritance of the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. For I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat: I thirsted, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in unto you. I was naked, & ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me. Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungered, and fed thee? or a thirst, and gave thee drink? And when saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in unto us? or naked, & clothed thee? Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee? And the King shall answer, and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, in as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren; ye have done it to me. Then shall he say unto them on the left hand, Depart from me ye cursed, into everlasting fire, which is prepared for the devil and his angels. For I was an hungered, and ye gave me no meat: I thirsted, and ye gave me no drink: I was a stranger, & ye took me not in unto you: I was naked, & ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not. Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungered, or a thirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee? Then shall he answer them, and say, Verily I say unto you, in as much as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me. And these shall go into everlasting pain and the righteous into life eternal. And it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said unto his disciples, Ye know that after two days is the Passover, and the Son of man shall be delivered to be crucified. Then assembled together the chief Priests, and the Scribes, and the Elders of the people into the hall of the high Priest called Caiaphas: And consulted together that they might take Jesus by subtly, and kill him. But they said, Not on the feast day, least any uproar be among the people.

And when Jesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper, there came unto him a woman, which had a box of very costly ointment, and powered it on his head, as he sat at the table. And when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, What needed this waste? For this ointment might have been sold for much, and been given to the poor. And Jesus knowing it, said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? For she hath wrought a good work upon me. For ye have the poor always with you, but me shall ye not have always. For in that she poured this ointment on my body, she did it to bury me. Verily I say unto you, wheresoever's this Gospel shall be preached throughout all the world, there shall also this that she hath done, be spoken of for a memorial of her. Then one of the twelve, called Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief Priests, and said, What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they appointed unto him thirty pieces of silver. And from that time, he sought opportunity to betray him.

Now on the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the Passover? And he said, Go ye into the city to such a man, and say to him, The master saith, My time is at hand: I will keep the Passover at thine house with my disciples. And the disciples did as Jesus had given them charge, and made ready the Passover. So when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve. And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me. And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Is it I, Master? And he answered and said, He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, he shall betray me. Surely the Son of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but woe be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had been good for that man, if he had never been born. Then Judas which betrayed him, answered and said, Is it I, Master? He said unto him, Thou hast said it. And as they did eat, Jesus took the bread, and when he had blessed, he brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat: this is my body. Also he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it them, saying, Drink ye all of it. For this is my blood of the New Testament, that is shed for many, for the remission of sins. I say unto you, that I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine until that day, when I shall drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom. And when they had sung a Psalm, they went out into the mount of Olives. Then said Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered. But after I am risen again, I will go before you into Galilee. But Peter answered, and said unto him, Though that all men should be offended by thee, yet will I never be offended. Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, that this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. Peter said unto him, Though I should die with thee, I will in no case deny thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

Then went Jesus with them into a place which is called Gethsemane, & said unto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go, and pray yonder. And he took unto him Peter, and the two sons of Zebedeus, and began to wax sorrowful, and grievously troubled. Then said Jesus unto them, My soul is very heavy, even unto the death: tarry ye here, and watch with me. So he went a little further, and fell on his face, and praised, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt. After, he came unto the disciples, and found them a sleep, and said to Peter, What? Could ye not watch with me one hour? Watch, and praise, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is ready, but the flesh is weak. Again he went away the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup can not pass away from me, but that I must drink it, thy will be done. And he came, and found them a sleep again, for their eyes were heavy. So he left them and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words. Then came he to his disciples, and said unto them, Sleep henceforth, & take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is given into the hands of sinners. Rise, let us go: behold, he is at hand that betrayeth me. And while he yet spake, lo Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the high Priests and Elders of the people. Now he that betrayed him, had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that is he, laid hold on him. And forthwith he came to Jesus, and said, God save thee, Master, and kissed him. Then Jesus said unto him, Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Jesus, and took him. And behold, one of them which were with Jesus, stretched out his hand, & drew his sword, and struck a servant of the high Priest, and smote off his ear. Then said Jesus unto him, Put up thy sword into his place: for all that take the sword, shall perish with the sword. Either think thou, that I can not now pray to my Father, and he will give me more then twelve legions of Angels? How then should the Scriptures be fulfilled, which say, that it must be so? The same hour said Jesus to the multitude, Ye be come out as it were against a thief, with swords and staves to take me: I sat daily teaching in the Temple among you, and ye took me not. But all this was done, that the Scriptures of the Prophets might be fulfilled. Then all the disciples forsook him, and fled.

And they took Jesus, and led him to Caiaphas the high Priest, where the Scribes and the Elders were assembled. And Peter followed him a far off unto the high Priests hall, and went in, and sat with the servants to see the end. Now the chief Priests and the Elders, and all the whole council sought false witness against Jesus, to put him to death. But they found none, and though many false witnesses came, yet found they none: but at the last came two false witnesses, and said, This man said, I can destroy the Temple of God, and build it in three days. Then the chief Priest arose, and said to him, Answerest thou nothing? What is the matter that these men witness against thee? But Jesus held his peace. Then the chief Priest answered, and said to him, I charge thee swear unto us by the living God, to tell us, If thou be that Christ the Son of God, or no. Jesus said to him, Thou hast said it: nevertheless I say unto you, hereafter shall ye see the Son of man, sitting at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the clouds of the heaven. Then the high Priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath blasphemed, what have we any more need of witnesses? behold: now ye have heard his blasphemy. What think ye? They answered, and said, He is guilty of death. Then spat they in his face, and buffeted him, and other smote him with rods, Saying, Prophecy to us, O Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

Peter sat without in the hall, and a maid came to him, saying, Thou also wast with Jesus of Galilee: But he denied before them all, saying, I wrote not what thou sayest. And when he went out into the porch, another maid saw him, and said unto them that were there, This man was also with Jesus of Nazareth. And again he denied with an oath, saying, I know not the man. So after a while, came unto him they that stood by, and said unto Peter, Surely thou art also one of them: for even thy speech betrayeth thee. Then began he to curse himself, and to swear, saying, I know not the man; immediately the cock crew. Then Peter remembered the words of Jesus, which had said unto him, Before the cock crow thou shalt deny me thrice. So he went out, and wept bitterly.

When the morning was come, all the chief Priests, and the elders of the people took counsel against Jesus, to put him to death, and led him away bound, and delivered him unto Pontius Pilate the governor. Then when Judas which betrayed him, saw that he was condemned, he repented himself, and brought again the thirty pieces of silver to the chief Priests, and Elders, saying, I have sinned, betraying the innocent blood. But they said, What is that to us? see thou to it. And when he had cast down the silver pieces in the Temple, he departed, and went, and hanged himself. And the chief Priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawful for us to put them into the treasure, because it is the price of blood. And they took counsel, and bought with them a potter's field, for the burial of strangers. Wherefore that field is called, The field of blood, until this day. (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremiah the Prophet, saying, And they took thirty silver pieces, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel valued. And they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.) And Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou that King of the Jews? Jesus said unto him, Thou say it. And when he was accused of the chief Priests, and Elders, he answered nothing. Then said Pilate unto him, Hear thou not how many things they lay against thee? But he answered him not to one word, in so much that the governor marveled greatly. Now at the feast, the governor was wont to deliver unto the people a prisoner whom they would. And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas. When they were then gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whether will ye that I let loose unto you Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ? (For he knew well, that for envy they had delivered him. Also when he was set down upon the judgment seat, his wife sent to him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man: for I have suffered many things this day in a dream by reason of him.) But the chief Priests and the Elders had persuaded the people that they should ask Barabbas, and should destroy Jesus. Then the governor answered, and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I let loose unto you? And they said, Barabbas. Pilate said unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called Christ? They all said to him, Let him be crucified. Then said the governor, But what evil hath he done? Then they cried the more, saying, Let him be crucified. When Pilate saw that he availed nothing, but that more tumult was made, he took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just man: look you to it. Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on us, and on our children. Thus let he Barabbas loose unto them, and scourged Jesus, and delivered him to be crucified.

Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the common hall, and gathered about him the whole band, and they stripped him, and put about him a scarlet robe, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, saying, God save the King of the Jews, and spitted upon him, and took a reed, and smote him on the head. Thus when they had mocked him, they took the robe from him, and put his own raiment on him, and led him away to crucify him. And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they compelled to bear his cross. And when they came unto the place called Golgotha, (that is to say, the place of dead men's skulls) they gave him vinegar to drink, mingled with gall: and when he had tasted thereof, he would not drink. And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, and did cast lots, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, They divided my garments among them, and upon my vesture did cast lots. And they sat, and watched him there. They set up also over his head his cause written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS. And there were two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, & another on the left. And they that passed by, reviled him, wagging their heads, and saying, Thou that destroy the Temple, & build it in three days, save thy self: if thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross. Likewise also the high Priests mocking him, with the Scribes, and Elders, and Pharisees, said, He saved others, but he cannot save himself: if he be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe in him. He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God. The self same thing also the thieves which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth. Now from ye sixth hour was there darkness over all the land, unto the ninth hour. And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lamasabachthani? It is, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of them that stood there, when they heard it, said, This man calleth Elias. And straightway one of them ran & took a sponge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink. Other said, Let be: let us see, if Elias will come and save him. Then Jesus cried again with a loud voice, and yielded up the ghost. And behold, the veil of the Temple was rent in twain, from the top to the bottom, and the earth did quake, & the stones were clove. And the graves did open themselves, and many bodies of the Saints, which slept, arose, and came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many. When the Centurion, and they that were with him watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and the things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God. And many women were there, beholding him a far off, which had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him. Among whom was Marie Magdalene, and Marie the mother of James, & Joses, and the mother of Zebedeus sons.

And when the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joseph, who had also himself been Jesus disciple. He went to Pilate, & asked the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered. So Joseph took the body, and wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, and put it in his new tomb, which he had hewn out in a rock, and rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulcher, and departed. And there was Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie sitting over against the sepulcher.

Now the next day that followed the Preparation of the Sabbath, the high Priests and Pharisees assembled to Pilate, and said, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, Within three days I will rise. Command therefore, that the sepulcher be made sure until the third day, lest his disciples come by night, and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so shall the last error be worse than the first. Then Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go, and make it sure as ye know. And they went, and made the sepulcher sure with the watch, and sealed the stone. Now in the end of the Sabbath, when the first day of the week began to dawn, Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie came to see the sepulcher, and behold, there was a great earthquake: for the Angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. And his countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow. And for fear of him, the keepers were astonished, and became as dead men. But the Angel answered, & said to the women, Fear ye not: for I know that ye seek Jesus which was crucified: He is not here, for he is risen; as he said: come, see the place where the Lord was laid, and go quickly, & tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead: & behold, he goeth before you into Galilee: there ye shall see him: lo, I have told you. So they departed quickly from the sepulcher, with fear and great joy, and did run to bring his disciples word. And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus also met them, saying, God save you; they came, and took him by the feet, and worshipped him. Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid. Go, and tell my brethren, that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

Now when they were gone, behold, some of the watch came into the city, & shewed unto the high Priests all ye things that were done. And they gathered them together with the Elders, and took counsel, and gave large money unto the soldiers, saying, Say, His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept. And if this matter come before the governor to be heard, we will persuade him, and so use the matter that you shall not need to care. So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this saying is noised among the Jews unto this day. Then the eleven disciples went into Galilee, into a mountain, where Jesus had appointed them. And when they saw him, they worshipped him: but some doubted. And Jesus came, and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me, in heaven, and in earth. Go therefore, & teach all nations, baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and the Son, and the holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things, whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you alway, until the end of the world, Amen.

THE HOLY GOSPEL OF JESUS CHRIST, ACCORDING TO

MARK

The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God: As it is written in the Prophets, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee. The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness is, Prepare the way of the Lord: make his paths straight. John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of amendment of life, for remission of sins. And all the country of Judea & they of Jerusalem went out unto him, and were all baptized of him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins. Now John was clothed with camel's hair and with a girdle of a skin about his loins: and he did eat Locusts and wild honey, and preached, saying, A stronger then I cometh after me, whose shoes latchet I am not worthy to stoup down, and unloose. Truth it is, I have baptized you with water: but he will baptize you with the holy Ghost. And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth, a city of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan. And as soon as he was come out of the water, John saw the heavens cloven in twain, and the holy Ghost descending upon him like a dove. Then there was a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. And immediately the Spirit driveth him into the wilderness. And he was there in the wilderness forty days, and was tempted of Satan: he was also with the wild beasts, and the Angels ministered unto him.

Now after that John was committed to prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of the kingdom of God, and saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent and believe the Gospel. And as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, (for they were fishers.) Then Jesus said unto them, Follow me, and I will make you to be fishers of men. And straightway they forsook their nets, and followed him. And when he had gone a little further thence, he saw James the son of Zebedeus, and John his brother, as they were in the ship, mending their nets. And anon he called them: and they left their father Zebedeus in the ship with his hired servants, and went their way after him. So they entered into Capernaum, and straightway on the Sabbath day he entered into the Synagogue, and taught. And they were astonished at his doctrine, for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the Scribes. And there was in their Synagogue a man in whom was an unclean spirit, and he cried out, saying, Ah, what have we to do with thee, O Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy us? I know thee what thou art, even that holy one of God. And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And the unclean spirit tare him, & cried with a loud voice, and came out of him. And they were all amazed, so that they demanded one of another, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for he commandeth even the foul spirits with authority, and they obey him. And immediately his fame spread abroad throughout all the region bordering on Galilee. And as soon as they were come out of the Synagogue, they entered into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. And Simon's wives mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they told him of her. And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up, and the fever forsook her by and by, and she ministered unto them. And when even was come, at what time the sun setteth, they brought to him all that were diseased, & them that were possessed with devils. And the whole city was gathered together at the door. And he healed many that were sick of divers diseases: and he cast out many devils, & suffered not the devils to say that they knew him. And in the morning very early before day, Jesus arose & went out into a solitary place, and there prayed. And Simon, and they that were with him, followed carefully after him. And when they had found him, they said unto him, All men seek for thee. Then he said unto them, Let us go into the next towns that I may preach there also: for I came out for that purpose. And he preached in their Synagogues, throughout all Galilee, and cast the devils out. And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, & kneeled down unto him, & said to him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And Jesus had compassion, and put forth his hand, and touched him, and said to him, I will: be thou clean. And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, & he was made clean. And after he had give him a straight commandment, he sent him away forthwith, and said unto him, See thou say nothing to any man, but get thee hence, and shew thy self to the Priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things, which Moses commanded, for a testimonial unto them. But when he was departed, he began to tell many things, and to publish the matter: so that Jesus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in desert places: and they came to him from every quarter.

After a few days, he entered into Capernaum again, and it was noised that he was in the house. And anon, many gathered together, in so much that the places about the door could not receive any more and he preached the word unto them. And there came unto him that brought one sick of the palsy, borne of four men. And because they could not come near unto him for the multitude, they uncovered the roof of the house where he was: and when they had broken it open, they let down the bed, wherein the sick of the palsy lay. Now when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins are forgiven thee. And there were certain of the Scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts, Why doth this man speak such blasphemies? who can forgive sins, but God only? And immediately when Jesus perceived in his spirit, that thus they reasoned with themselves, he said unto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts? Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins are forgiven thee? or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk? But that ye may know, that the Son of man hath authority in earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy.) I say unto thee, Arise and take up thy bed, and get thee hence into thine own house. And by and by he arose, and took up his bed, and went forth before them all, in so much that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw such a thing.

Then he went forth again toward the sea, and all the people resorted unto him, and he taught them. And as Jesus passed by, he saw Levi the son of Alphaeus sit at the receipt of custom, and said unto him, Follow me; he arose and followed him. And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at table in his house, many Publicans & sinners sat at table also with Jesus, and his disciples: for there were many that followed him. And when the Scribes and Pharisees saw him eat with the Publicans and sinners, they said unto his disciples, How is it, that he eateth and drinketh with Publicans and sinners? Now when Jesus heard it, he said unto them, The whole have no need of the Physician, but the sick. I came not to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance. And the disciples of John, and the Pharisees did fast, and came and said unto him, Why do the disciples of John, and of the Pharisees fast, and thy disciples fast not? And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the marriage chamber fast, whiles the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast. But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast in those days. Also no man soweth a piece of new cloth in an old garment: for else the new piece that filled it up, taketh away somewhat from the old, and the breach is worse. Likewise, no man putteth new wine into old vessels: for else the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but new wine must be put into new vessels. And it came to pass as he went through the corn on the Sabbath day that his disciples, as they went on their way, began to pluck the ears of corn. And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the Sabbath day, that which is not lawful? And he said to them, Have ye never read what David did when he had need, and was an hungered, both he, and they that were with him? How he went into the house of God, in the days of Abiathar the high Priest, and did eat the shew bread, which were not lawful to eat, but for the Priests, and gave also to them which were with him? And he said to them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. Wherefore the Son of man is Lord, even of the Sabbath. And he entered again into the Synagogue, & there was a man which had a withered hand. And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the Sabbath day, that they might accuse him. Then he said unto the man which had the withered hand, Arise: stand forth in the midst. And he said to them, Is it lawful to do a good deed on the Sabbath day, or to do evil? to save the life, or to kill? But they held their peace. Then he looked round about on them angrily, mourning also for the hardness of their hearts, and said to the man, Stretch forth thine hand; he stretched it out: and his hand was restored, as whole as the other. And the Pharisees departed, & straightway gathered a council with the Herodians against him, that they might destroy him. But Jesus avoided with his disciples to the sea: and a great multitude followed him from Galilee, and from Judea, and from Jerusalem, & from Idumea, and beyond Jordan: and they that dwelled about Tyrus & Sidon, when they had heard what great things he did, came unto him in great number. And he commanded his disciples that a little ship should wait for him, because of the multitude, lest they should throng him. For he had healed many, in so much that they pressed upon him to touch him, as many as had plagues. And when the unclean spirits saw him, they fell down before him, & cried, saying, Thou art the Son of God. And he sharply rebuked them; to the end they should not utter him.

Then he went up into a mountain, and called unto him whom he would, and they came unto him. And he appointed twelve that they should be with him, and that he might send them to preach, and that they might have power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils. And the first was Simon, and he named Simon Peter, then James the son of Zebedeus, & John James brother (and surnamed them Boanerges, which is, the sons of thunder,) and Andrew, and Philippe, & Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James, the son of Alpheus, and Thaddeus, and Simon the Canaanite, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him, and they came home. And the multitude assembled again, so that they could not so much as eat bread. And when his kinsfolk's heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him: for they said that he was beside himself. And the Scribes which came down from Jerusalem, said, He hath Beelzebub, & through the prince of the devils he casteth out devils. But he called them unto him, and said unto them in parables, How can Satan drive out Satan? For if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. Or if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot continue. So if Satan make insurrection against himself, and be divided, he can not endure but is at an end. No man can enter into a strong mans house, and take away his goods, except he first bind that strong man, and then spoil his house. Verily I say unto you, all sins shall be forgiven unto the children of men, and blasphemies, wherewith they blaspheme: But he that blasphemeth against the holy Ghost, shall never have forgiveness, but is culpable of eternal damnation. Because they said, He had an unclean spirit.

Then came his brethren and mother, and stood without, and sent unto him, and called him. And the people sat about him, and they said unto him, Behold, thy mother, and thy brethren seek for thee without. But he answered them, saying, Who is my mother and my brethren? And he looked round about on them, which sat in compass about him, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren. For whosoever doth the will of God, he is my brother, and my sister, and mother. And he began again to teach by the sea side, and there gathered unto him a great multitude, so that he entered into a ship, and sat in the sea, and all the people was by the sea side on the land. And he taught them many things in parables, and said unto them in his doctrine, Hearken: Behold, there went out a sower to sow. And it came to pass as he sowed, that some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the heaven came, and devoured it up. And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth, and by and by sprang up, because it had not depth of earth. But as soon as the Sun was up, it was burnt up, and because it had not root, it withered away. And some fell among the thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choked it, so that it gave no fruit. Some again fell in good ground, and did yield fruit that sprung up, and grew, and it brought forth, some thirty fold, some sixty fold, and some an hundredth fold. Then he said unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve asked him of the parable. And he said unto them, To you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all things be done in parables, that they seeing, may see, and not discern: and they hearing, may hear, and not understand, lest at any time they should turn, and their sins should be forgiven them. Again he said unto them, Perceive ye not this parable? how then should ye understand all other parables? The sower soweth the word. And these are they that receive the seed by the ways side, in whom the word is sown: but when they have heard it, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts. And likewise they that receive the seed in stony ground, are they, which when they have heard the word, straightway receive it with gladness. Yet have they no root in themselves, and endure but a time: for when trouble and persecution ariseth for the word, immediately they be offended. Also they that receive the seed among the thorns are such as hear the word: But the cares of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts of other things enter in, and choke the word, and it is unfruitful. But they that have received seed in good ground are they that hear the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit: one corn thirty, another sixty, and some an hundredth. Also he said unto them, Cometh the candle in, to be put under a bushel, or under the bed, and not to be put on a candlestick? For there is nothing hid, that shall not be opened: neither is there a secret, but that it shall come to light. If any man have ears to hear, let him hear. And he said unto them, Take heed what ye hear. With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured unto you: and unto you that hear, shall more be given. For unto him that hath, shall it be given, and from him that hath not, shall be taken away, even that he hath. Also he said, So is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed in the ground, and should sleep, and rise up night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, he not knowing how. For the earth bringeth forth fruit of itself, first the blade, then the ears, after that full corn in the ears. And as soon as the fruit sheweth itself, anon he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come. He said moreover, Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it? It is like a grain of mustard seed, which when it is sown in the earth, is the least of all seeds that be in the earth: But after that it is sown, it groweth up, and is greatest of all herbs, and beareth great branches, so that the fowls of heaven may build under the shadow of it. And with many such parables he preached the word unto them, as they were able to hear it. And without parables spake he nothing unto them: but he expounded all things to his disciples apart.

Now the same day when even was come, he said unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side. And they left the multitude, and took him as he was in the ship, and there were also with him other little ships. And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves dashed into the ship, so that it was now full. And he was in the stern asleep on a pillow: and they awoke him, and said to him, Master, care thou not that we perish? And he rose up, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, and be still. So the wind ceased, and it was a great calm. Then he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith? And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, Who is this, that both the wind and sea obey him? And they came over to the other side of the sea into the country of the Gadareans. And when he was come out of the ship, there met him incontinently out of the graves, a man which had an unclean spirit: Who had his abiding among the graves, and no man could bind him, no not with chains: Because that when he was often bound with fetters and chains, he plucked the chains asunder, and brake the fetters in pieces, neither could any man tame him. And always both night and day he cried in the mountains, and in the graves, and struck himself with stones. And when he saw Jesus a far off, he ran, and worshipped him, and cried with a loud voice, and said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus the Son of the most high God? I will that thou swear to me by God, that thou torment me not. (For he said unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit.) And he asked him, What is thy name? and he answered, saying, My name is Legion: for we are many. And he prayed him instantly that he would not send them away out of the country. Now there was there in the mountains a great herd of swine, feeding. And all the devils besought him, saying, Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them. And incontinently Jesus gave them leave. Then the unclean spirits went out, and entered into the swine, and the herd ran headlong from the high bank into the sea, (and there were about two thousand swine) and they were choked up in the sea. And the swineherds fled, and told it in the city, and in the country, and they came out to see what it was that was done. And they came to Jesus, and saw him that had been possessed with the devil, and had the legion, sit both clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid. And they that saw it told them, what was done to him that was possessed with the devil, and concerning the swine. Then they began to pray him that he would depart from their coasts. And when he was come into the ship, he that had been possessed with the devil, prayed him that he might be with him. Howbeit, Jesus would not suffer him, but said unto him, Go thy way home to thy friends, and shew them what great things the Lord hath done unto thee, and how he hath had compassion on thee. So he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis, what great things Jesus had done unto him: and all men did marvel.

And when Jesus was come over again by ship unto the other side, a great multitude gathered together to him, & he was near unto the sea. And behold, there came one of the rulers of the Synagogue, whose name was Jarius: and when he saw him, he fell down at his feet, and besought him instantly, saying, My little daughter lieth at point of death: I pray thee that thou wouldst come and lay thine hands on her, that she may be healed, and live. Then he went with him, and a great multitude followed him, and thronged him. (And there was a certain woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, and had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and it availed her nothing, but she became much worse. When she had heard of Jesus, she came in the press behind, and touched his garment. For she said, If I may but touch his clothes, I shall be whole. And straightway the course of her blood was dried up, and she felt in her body, that she was healed of that plague. And immediately when Jesus did know in himself the virtue that went out of him, he turned him round about in the press, and said, Who hath touched my clothes? And his disciples said unto him, Thou see the multitude throng thee, and say thou, Who did touch me? And he looked round about, to see her that had done that. And the woman feared and trembled: for she knew what was done in her, and she came and fell down before him, and told him the whole truth. And he said to her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.) While he yet spake, there came from the same ruler of the Synagogues house certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why disease thou the Master any further? As soon as Jesus heard that word spoken, he said unto the ruler of the Synagogue, Be not afraid: only believe. And he suffered no man to follow him save Peter and James, and John the brother of James. So he came unto the house of the ruler of the Synagogue, and saw the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly. And he went in, and said unto them, Why make ye this trouble, and weep? the child is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn: but he put them all out, and took the father, and the mother of the child, and them that were with him, and entered in where the child lay, and took the child by the hand, & said unto her, Talitha cumi, which is by interpretation, Maiden, I say unto thee, arise. And straightway the maiden arose, and walked: for she was of the age of twelve years, and they were astonished out of measure. And he charged them straightly that no man should know of it, and commanded to give her meat.

And he departed thence, and came into his own country, and his disciples followed him. And when the Sabbath was come, he began to teach in the Synagogue, and many that heard him were astonished and said, From whence hath this man these things? And what wisdom is this that is given unto him that even such great works are done by his hands? Is not this that carpenter Maries son, the brother of James & Joses, and of Judah & Simon? And are not his sisters here with us? And they were offended in him. Then Jesus said unto them, A Prophet is not without honor, but in his own country, and among his own kindred, & in his own house. And he could there do no great works, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them, and he marveled at their unbelief, and went about by the towns on every side, teaching. And he called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth two and two, and gave them power over unclean spirits, and commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only: neither scrip, neither bread, neither money in their girdles: But that they should be shod with sandals, & that they should not put on two coats. And he said unto them, Wheresoever ye shall enter into an house, there abide till ye depart thence. And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear you, when ye depart thence, shake off the dust that is under your feet, for a witness unto them. Verily I say unto you, It shall be easier for Sodom, or Gomorrah at the day of judgment, then for that city. And they went out, and preached, that men should amend their lives. And they cast out many devils: and they anointed many that were sick, with oil, and healed them.

Then King Herod heard of him (for his name was made manifest) and said, John Baptist is risen again from the dead, and therefore great works are wrought by him. Other said, It is Elias, and some said, It is a Prophet, or as one of those Prophets. So when Herod heard it, he said, It is John whom I beheaded: he is risen from the dead. For Herod himself had sent forth, & had taken John, and bound him in prison for Herodias sake, which was his brother Philipp's wife, because he had married her. For John said unto Herod, It is not lawful for thee to have thy brothers wife. Therefore Herodias laid wait against him, & would have killed him, but she could not: For Herod feared John, knowing that he was a just man, and an holy, and revered him, and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him gladly. But the time being convenient, when Herod on his birth day made a banquet to his princes and captains, and chief estates of Galilee: And the daughter of the same Herodias came in, & danced, and pleased Herod, and them that sat at table together, the King said unto the maid, Ask of me what thou wilt, and I will give it thee. And he sware unto her, Whatsoever thou shalt ask of me, I will give it thee, even unto the half of my kingdom. So she went forth, & said to her mother, What shall I ask? And she said, John Baptist's head. Then she came in straightway with haste unto the King, & asked, saying, I would that thou shouldst give me even now in a charger the head of John Baptist. Then the King was very sorry: yet for his oaths sake, and for their sakes which sat at table with him, he would not refuse her. And immediately the King sent the hangman, and gave charge that his head should be brought in. So he went and beheaded him in the prison, and brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the maiden, and the maiden gave it to her mother. And when his disciples heard it, they came and took up his body, and put it in a tomb.

And the Apostles gathered themselves together to Jesus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught. And he said unto them, Come ye apart into the wilderness, & rest a while: for there were many comers and goers that they had not leisure to eat. So they went by ship out of the way into a desert place. But the people saw them when they departed, and many knew him, and ran a foot thither out of all cities, and came thither before them, and assembled unto him. Then Jesus went out, and saw a great multitude, and had compassion on them, because they were like sheep which had no shepherd: and he began to teach them many things. And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, saying, This is a desert place, and now the day is far passed. Let them depart, that they may go into the country and towns about, and buy them bread: for they have nothing to eat. But he answered, and said unto them, Give ye them to eat; they said unto him, Shall we go, and buy two hundredth penny worth of bread, and give them to eat? Then he said unto them, How many loaves have ye? Go and look; when they knew it, they said, Five, and two fishes. So he commanded them to make them all sit down by companies upon the green grass. Then they sat down by rows, by hundreds, and by fifties. And he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looked up to heaven, and gave thanks, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them, and the two fishes he divided among them all. So they did all eat, and were satisfied. And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes. And they that had eaten were about five thousand men. And straightway he caused his disciples to go into the ship, and to go before unto the other side unto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people. Then as soon as he had sent them away, he departed into a mountain to pray. And when even was come, the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land. And he saw them troubled in rowing, (for the wind was contrary unto them) and about the fourth watch of the night, he came unto them, walking upon the sea, and would have passed by them. And when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, & cried out. For they all saw him, and were sore afraid: but anon he talked with them, & said unto them, Be ye of good comfort: it is I, be not afraid. Then he went up unto them into the ship, and the wind ceased, and they were much more amazed in themselves, and marveled. For they had not considered the matter of the loaves, because their hearts were hardened. And they came over, and went into the land of Gennesaret, and arrived. So when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him, and ran about throughout all that region round about, and began to carry hither & thither in couches all that were sick, where they heard that he was. And whithersoever he entered into towns, or cities, or villages, they laid their sick in the streets, and prayed him that they might touch at the least the edge of his garment; as many as touched him, were made whole.

Then gathered unto him the Pharisees, and certain of the Scribes which came from Jerusalem. And when they saw some of his disciples eat meat with common hands, (that is to say, unwashen) they complained. (For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, except they wash their hands oft, eat not, holding the tradition of the Elders. And when they come from the market, except they wash, they eat not: and many other things there be, which they have taken upon them to observe, as the washing of cups, and pots, and of brazen vessels, and of beds.) Then asked him the Pharisees and Scribes, Why walk not thy disciples according to the tradition of the Elders, but eat meat with unwashen hands? Then he answered and said unto them, Surely Esai hath prophesied well of you, hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoreth me with lips, but their heart is far away from me. But they worship me in vain, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. For ye lay the commandment of God apart, and observe the tradition of men, as the washing of pots and of cups, and many other such like things ye do. And he said unto them, Well, ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may observe your own tradition. For Moses said, Honor thy father and thy mother: and Whosoever shall speak evil of father or mother, let him die the death. But ye say, If a man say to father or mother, Corban, that is, By the gift that is offered by me, thou may have profit, he shall be free. So ye suffer him no more to do any thing for his father, or his mother, making the word of God of none authority, by your tradition which ye have ordained: and ye do many such like things. Then he called the whole multitude unto him, and said unto them, Hearken you all unto me, and understand. There is nothing without a man that can defile him, when it entereth into him: but the things which proceed out of him are they which defile the man. If any have ears to hear, let him hear. And when he came into an house, away from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable. And he said unto them, What? Are ye without understanding also? Do ye not know that whatsoever thing from without entereth into a man, cannot defile him, because it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught which is the purging of all meats? Then he said, That which cometh out of man, that defileth man. For from within, even out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, uncleanness, a wicked eye, backbiting, pride, foolishnesses. All these evil things come from within, and defile a man.

And from thence he rose, and went into the borders of Tyrus and Sidon, and entered into an house, and would that no man should have known: but he could not be hid. For a certain woman, whose little daughter had an unclean spirit, heard of him, and came, and fell at his feet, (And the woman was a Greek, a Syrophenissian by nation) and she besought him that he would cast out the devil out of her daughter. But Jesus said unto her, Let the children first be fed: for it is not good to take the children's bread, and to cast it unto whelps. Then she answered, and said unto him, Truth, Lord: yet in deed the whelps eat under the table of the children's crumbs. Then he said unto her, For this saying go thy way: the devil is gone out of thy daughter. And when she was come home to her house, she found the devil departed, and her daughter lying on the bed. And he departed again from the coasts of Tyrus and Sidon, and came unto the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis. And they brought unto him one that was deaf and stammered in his speech, and prayed him to put his hand upon him. Then he took him aside from the multitude, and put his fingers in his ears, and did spit, and touched his tongue. And looking up to heaven, he sighed, and said unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened. And straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain. And he commanded them, that they should tell no man: but how much soever he forbade them, the more a great deal they published it, and were beyond measure astonished, saying, He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deaf to hear, & the dumb to speak. In those days, when there was a very great multitude, and had nothing to eat, Jesus called his disciples to him, and said unto them, I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now continued with me three days, and have nothing to eat. And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they would faint by the way: for some of them came from far. Then his disciples answered him, Whence can a man satisfy these with bread here in the wilderness? And he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven. Then he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground: and he took the seven loaves, and gave thanks, brake them, and gave to his disciples to set before them, and they did set them before the people. They had also a few small fishes: and when he had given thanks, he commanded them also to be set before them. So they did eat, and were sufficed, and they took up of the broken meat that was left, seven baskets full. (And they that had eaten, were about four thousand) so he sent them away.

And anon he entered into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parts of Dalmanutha. And the Pharisees came forth, and began to dispute with him, seeking of him a sign from heaven, and tempting him. Then he sighed deeply in his spirit, and said, Why doth this generation seek a sign? Verily I say unto you, a sign shall not be given unto this generation. So he left them, and went into the ship again, and departed to the other side. And they had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them, but one loaf. And he charged them, saying, Take heed, and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod. And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is, because we have no bread. And when Jesus knew it, he said unto them, Why reason you thus, because ye have no bread? perceive ye not yet, neither understand? have ye your hearts yet hardened? Have ye eyes, and see not? and have ye ears, and hear not? and do ye not remember? When I brake the five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of broken meat took ye up? They said unto him, Twelve. And when I brake seven among four thousand, how many baskets of the leavings of broken meat took ye up? And they said, Seven. Then he said unto them, How is it that ye understand not? And he came to Bethsaida, and they brought a blind man unto him, and desired him to touch him. Then he took the blind by the hand, and led him out of the town, and spat in his eyes, and put his hands upon him, and asked him, if he saw ought. And he looked up, and said, I see men: for I see them walking like trees. After that, he put his hands again upon his eyes, and made him look again; he was restored to his sight, and saw every man a far off clearly. And he sent him home to his house, saying, Neither go into the town, nor tell it to any in the town.

And Jesus went out, and his disciples into the towns of Caesarea Philippi; by the way he asked his disciples, saying unto them, Whom do men say that I am? And they answered, Some say, John Baptist: and some, Elias: and some, one of the Prophets. And he said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Then Peter answered, and said unto him, Thou art that Christ. And he sharply charged them, that concerning him they should tell no man. Then he began to teach them that the Son of man must suffer many things, and should be reprov'd of the Elders, and of the high Priests, and of the Scribes, and be slain, and within three days rise again. And he spake that thing boldly. Then Peter took him aside, and began to rebuke him. Then he turned back, & looked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behind me, Satan: for thou understand not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men. And he called the people unto him with his disciples, and said unto them, Whosoever will follow me, let him forsake himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life, shall lose it: but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospels, he shall save it. For what shall it profit a man, though he should win the whole world, if he lose his soul? Or what exchange shall a man give for his soul? For whosoever shall be ashamed of me, and of my words among this adulterous and sinful generation, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed also, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy Angels. And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power. And six days after, Jesus taketh unto him Peter, and James, and John, and carrieth them up into an high mountain out of the way alone, and his shape was changed before them. And his raiment did shine, and was very white, as snow, so white as no fuller can make upon the earth. And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses, and they were talking with Jesus. Then Peter answered, and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: let us make also three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. Yet he knew not what he said: for they were afraid. And there was a cloud that shadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son: hear him. And suddenly they looked round about, and saw no more any man save Jesus only with them. And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them, that they should tell no man what they had seen, save when the Son of man were risen from the dead again. So they kept that matter to themselves, and demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead again should mean? Also they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes, that Elias must first come? And he answered, and said unto them, Elias verily shall first come, and restore all things: and as it is written of the Son of man, he must suffer many things, and be set at naught. But I say unto you, that Elias is come, (and they have done unto him whatsoever they would) as it is written of him.

And when he came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the Scribes disputing with them. And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were amazed, and ran to him, and saluted him. Then he asked the Scribes, What dispute you among your selves? And one of the company answered, and said, Master, I have brought my son unto thee, which hath a dumb spirit: And wheresoever he taketh him, he teareth him, and he foameth, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples, that they should cast him out, and they could not. Then he answered him, & said, O faithless generation, how long now shall I be with you! how long now shall I suffer you! Bring him unto me. So they brought him unto him: & as soon as the spirit saw him, he tare him, and he fell down on the ground wallowing and foaming. Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hath been thus? And he said, Of a child. And oft times he casteth him into the fire, & into the water to destroy him: but if thou canst do any thing, help us, and have compassion upon us. And Jesus said unto him, If thou canst believe it, all things are possible to him that believeth. And straightway the father of the child crying with tears, said, Lord, I believe: help my unbelief. When Jesus saw that the people came running together, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb & deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, & enter no more into him. Then the spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out, and he was as one dead, in so much that many said, He is dead. But Jesus took his hand, and lift him up, and he arose. And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly, Why could not we cast him out? And he said unto them, This kind can by no other means come forth, but by prayer and fasting. And they departed thence, and went together through Galilee, and he would not that any should have known it. For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him, but after that he is killed, he shall rise again the third day. But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him. After, he came to Capernaum: and when he was in the house, he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among you by the way? And they held their peace: for by the way they reasoned among themselves, who should be the chief. And he sat down, and called the twelve, and said to them, If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant unto all. And he took a little childe, and set him in the midst of them, and took him in his arms, and said unto them, Whosoever shall receive one of such little children in my Name, receiveth me: and whosoever receiveth me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me. Then John answered him, saying, Master, we saw one casting out devils by thy Name, which followeth not us, and we forbade him, because he followeth us not. But Jesus said, Forbid him not: for there is no man that can do a miracle by my Name, that can lightly speak evil of me. For whosoever is not against us, is on our part. And whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink for my Names sake, because ye belong to Christ, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward. And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones, that believe in me, it were better for him rather, that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were cast into the sea. Wherefore, if thine hand cause thee to offend, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life, maimed, then having two hands, to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched, Where their worm dieth not, & the fire never goeth out. Likewise, if thy foot cause thee to offend, cut it off: it is better for thee to go halt into life, then having two feet, to be cast into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched, where their worm dieth not, & the fire never goeth out. And if thine eye cause thee to offend, pluck it out: it is better for thee to go into the kingdom of God with one eye, then having two eyes, to be cast into hell fire, where their worm dieth not, and the fire never goeth out. For every man shall be salted with fire: and every sacrifice shall be salted with salt. Salt is good: but if the salt be unsavory, wherewith shall it be seasoned? have salt in your selves, and have peace one with another.

And he arose from thence, and went into the coasts of Judea by the far side of Jordan, and the people resorted unto him again, and as he was wont, he taught them again. Then the Pharisees came and asked him, if it were lawful for a man to put away his wife, and tempted him. And he answered, and said unto them, What did Moses command you? And they said, Moses suffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away. Then Jesus answered, & said unto them, For the hardness of your heart he wrote this precept unto you. But at the beginning of the creation God made them male and female: For this cause shall man leave his father and mother, and cleave unto his wife. And they twain shall be one flesh: so that they are no more twain, but one flesh. Therefore, what God hath coupled together, let not man separate. And in the house his disciples asked him again of that matter. And he said unto them, Whosoever shall put away his wife and marry another, committeth adultery against her. And if a woman put away her husband, & be married to another, she committeth adultery. Then they brought little children to him, that he should touch them, and his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus saw it, he was displeased, and said to them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little childe, he shall not enter therein. And he took them up in his arms, and put his hands upon them, and blessed them. And when he was gone out on the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shall I do, that I may possess eternal life? Jesus said to him, Why call thou me good? there is none good but one, even God. Thou know the commandments, Thou shalt not commit adultery. Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not bear false witness. Thou shalt hurt no man. Honor thy father and mother. Then he answered, and said to him, Master, all these things I have observed from my youth. And Jesus looked upon him, & loved him, and said unto him, One thing is lacking unto thee. Go and sell all that thou hast, and give to the poor, & thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come, follow me, and take up the cross. But he was sad at that saying, and went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions. And Jesus looked round about, & said unto his disciples, How hardly do they that have riches, enter into the kingdom of God! And his disciples were afraid at his words. But Jesus answered again, and said unto them, Children, how hard is it for them that trust in riches, to enter into the kingdom of God! It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. And they were much more astonished, saying with themselves, Who then can be saved? But Jesus looked upon them, & said, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God all things are possible. Then Peter began to say unto him, Lo, we have forsaken all, & have followed thee. Jesus answered, and said, Verily I say unto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands for my sake and the Gospels, but he shall receive an hundred fold, now at this present, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands with persecutions, and in the world to come, eternal life. But many that are first, shall be last, and the last, first.

And they were in the way going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus went before them and they were troubled, and as they followed, they were afraid, and Jesus took the twelve again, and began to tell them what things should come unto him, saying, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the high Priests, and to the Scribes, and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles. And they shall mock him, and scourge him, and spit upon him, and kill him: but the third day he shall rise again. Then James & John the sons of Zebedeus came unto him, saying, Master, we would that thou shouldst do for us that we desire. And he said unto them, What would ye I should do for you? And they said to him, Grant unto us, that we may sit, one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy glory. But Jesus said unto them, Ye know not what ye ask. Can ye drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and be baptized with the baptism that I shall be baptized with? And they said unto him, We can. But Jesus said unto them, Ye shall drink in deed of the cup that I shall drink of, and be baptized with the baptism wherewith I shall be baptized: But to sit at my right hand, and at my left, is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared. And when the ten heard that, they began to disdain at James and John. But Jesus called them unto him, and said to them, Ye know that they which are princes among the Gentiles, have domination over them, and they that be great among them, exercise authority over them. But it shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be great among you, shall be your servant. And whosoever will be chief of you, shall be the servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be served, but to serve, and to give his life for the ransom of many.

Then they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his disciples, and a great multitude, Bartimeus the son of Timeus, a blind man, sat by the ways side, begging. And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry, and to say, Jesus the Son of David, have mercy on me. And many rebuked him, because he should hold his peace: but he cried much more, O Son of David, have mercy on me. Then Jesus stood still, & commanded him to be called: and they called the blind, saying unto him, Be of good comfort: arise, he calleth thee. So he threw away his cloak, and rose, and came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, & said unto him, What wilt thou that I do unto thee? And the blind said unto him, Lord, that I may receive sight. Then Jesus said unto him, Go thy way: thy faith hath saved thee; by and by, he received his sight, and followed Jesus in the way. And when they came near to Jerusalem, to Bethphage and Bethania unto the mount of Olives, he sent forth two of his disciples, and said unto them, Go your ways into that town that is over against you, and as soon as ye shall enter into it, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man sat: loose him, and bring him. And if any man say unto you,

Why do ye this? Say that the Lord hath need of him, and straightway he will send him hither. And they went their way, and found a colt tied by the door without, in a place where two ways met, and they loosed him. Then certain of them, that stood there, said unto them, What do ye loosing the colt? And they said unto them, as Jesus had commanded them: So they let them go. And they brought the colt to Jesus, & cast their garments on him, and he sat upon him. And many spread their garments in the way: other cut down branches off the trees, & strewed them in the way. And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna: blessed be he that cometh in the Name of the Lord. Blessed be the kingdom that cometh in the Name of the Lord of our father David: Hosanna, O thou which art in the highest heavens. So Jesus entered into Jerusalem, and into the Temple: and when he had looked about on all things, and now it was evening, he went forth unto Bethania with the twelve. And on the morrow when they were come out from Bethania, he was hungry. And seeing a fig tree a far off, that had leaves, he went to see if he might find any thing thereon: but when he came unto it, he found nothing but leaves: for the time of fig's was not yet. Then Jesus answered, and said to it, Never man eat fruit of thee hereafter while the world standeth: and his disciples heard it. And they came to Jerusalem, & Jesus went into the Temple, & began to cast out them that sold and bought in the Temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold doves. Neither would he suffer that any man should carry a vessel through the Temple. And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, Mine house shall be called the house of prayer unto all nations? but you have made it a den of thieves. And the Scribes and high Priests heard it, and sought how to destroy him: for they feared him, because the whole multitude was astonished at his doctrine. But when even was come, Jesus went out of the city. And in the morning as they journeyed together, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots. Then Peter remembered, and said unto him, Master, behold, the fig tree which thou cursedst, is withered. And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Have the faith of God. For verily I say unto you, that whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou taken away, and cast into the sea, and shall not waver in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he sayeth, shall come to pass, whatsoever he sayeth, shall be done to him. Therefore I say unto you, Whatsoever ye desire when ye pray, believe that ye shall have it, and it shall be done unto you. But when ye shall stand, and pray, forgive, if ye have any thing against any man, that your Father also which is in heaven, may forgive you your trespasses. For if you will not forgive, your Father which is in heaven, will not pardon you your trespasses.

Then they came again to Jerusalem: and as he walked in the Temple, there came to him the high Priests, & the Scribes, & the Elders, and said unto him, By what authority dost thou these things? and who gave thee this authority, that thou shouldst do these things?

Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, I will also ask of you a certain thing, & answer ye me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things. The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men? answer me. And they thought with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven, he will say, Why then did ye not believe him? But if we say, Of men, we fear the people: for all men counted John, that he was a Prophet in deed. Then they answered, and said unto Jesus, We cannot tell; Jesus answered, and said unto them, Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things. And he began to speak unto them in parables, A certain man planted a vineyard, and compassed it with an hedge, & digged a pit for the winepress, and built a tower in it, & let it out to husbandmen, & went into a strange country. And at the time, he sent to the husbandmen a servant that he might receive of the husbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard. But they took him, and beat him, & sent him away empty. And again he sent unto them another servant, and at him they cast stones, and brake his head, and sent him away shamefully handled. And again he sent another, and him they slew, & many other, beating some, & killing some. Yet had he one son, his dear beloved: him also he sent the last unto them, saying, They will reverence my son. But the husbandmen said among themselves, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be ours. So they took him, & killed him, and cast him out of the vineyard. What shall then the Lord of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy these husbandmen, and give the vineyard to others. Have ye not read so much as this Scripture? The stone which the builders did refuse is made the head of the corner. This was done of the Lord, and it is marvelous in our eyes. Then they went about to take him, but they feared the people: for they perceived that he spake that parable against them: therefore they left him, and went their way.

And they sent unto him certain of the Pharisees and of the Herodians that they might take him in his talk. And when they came, they said unto him, Master, we know that thou art true, and care for no man: for thou consider not the person of men, but teach the way of God truly, Is it lawful to give tribute to Cesar, or not? Should we give it, or should we not give it? But he knew their hypocrisy, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me? Bring me a penny, that I may see it. So they brought it, and he said unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? And they said unto him, Cesar's. Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Give to Cesar the things that are Cesar's, and to God, those that are God's: & they marveled at him. Then came the Sadducees unto him, (which say, there is no resurrection) & they asked him, saying, Master, Moses wrote unto us, If any mans brother die, and leave his wife, and leave no children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother. There were seven brethren, and the first took a wife, and when he died, left no issue. Then the second took her, and he died, neither did he yet leave issue & the third likewise: So those seven had her, and left no issue: last of all the wife died also. In the resurrection then, when they shall rise again, whose wife shall she be of them? For seven had her to wife. Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Are ye not therefore deceived, because ye know not the Scriptures, neither the power of God? For when they shall rise again from the dead, neither men marry, nor wives are married, but are as the Angels which are in heaven. And as touching the dead, that they shall rise again, have ye not read in the book of Moses, how in the bush God spake unto him, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living. Ye are therefore greatly deceived. Then came one of the Scribes that had heard them disputing together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, he asked him, Which is the first commandment of all? Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, Israel, The Lord our God is the only Lord. Thou shalt therefore love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment. And the second is like, that is, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self. There is none other commandment greater then these. Then that Scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth, that there is one God, and that there is none but he, and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is more then all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices. Then when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God; no man after that durst ask him any question. And Jesus answered & said teaching in the Temple, How say the Scribes that Christ is the son of David? For David himself said by the holy Ghost, The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool. Then David himself calleth him Lord: by what means is he then his son? And much people heard him gladly. Moreover he said unto them in his doctrine, Beware of the Scribes which love to go in long robes, & love salutations in the markets, and the chief seats in the Synagogues, and the first rooms at feasts, which devour widow's houses, even under a color of long prayers. These shall receive the greater damnation. And as Jesus sat over against the treasury, he beheld how the people cast money into the treasury, and many rich men cast in much. And there came a certain poor widow, & she threw in two mites, which make a quadrin. Then he called unto him his disciples, and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast more in, then all they which have cast into the treasury. For they all did cast in of their superfluity: but she of her poverty did cast in all that she had, even all her living.

And as he went out of the Temple, one of his disciples said unto him, Master, see what manner stones and what manner buildings are here. Then Jesus answered and said unto him, See thou these great buildings? There shall not be left one stone upon a stone that shall not be thrown down. And as he sat on the mount of Olives, over against the

Temple, Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew asked him secretly, Tell us, when shall these things be? And what shall be the sign when all these things shall be fulfilled? And Jesus answered them, & began to say, Take heed lest any man deceive you. For many shall come in my Name, saying, I am Christ, and shall deceive many. Furthermore when ye shall hear of wars, & rumors of wars, be ye not troubled: for such things must needs be: but the end shall not be yet. For nation shall rise against nation, & kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be earthquakes in divers quarters, and there shall be famine and troubles: these are the beginnings of sorrows. But take ye heed to your selves: for they shall deliver you up to the Councils, and to the Synagogues: ye shall be beaten, and brought before rulers and Kings for my sake, for a testimonial unto them. And the Gospel must first be published among all nations. But when they lead you, & deliver you up, be not careful before hand, neither study what ye shall say: but what is given you at the same time, that speak: for it is not ye that speak, but the holy Ghost. Yea, and the brother shall deliver the brother to death, and the father the son, and the children shall rise against their parents, and shall cause them to die. And ye shall be hated of all men for my Names sake: but whosoever shall endure unto the end, he shall be saved. Moreover, when ye shall see the abomination of desolation (spoken of by Daniel the Prophet) set where it ought not, (let him that readeth, consider it) then let them that be in Judea, flee into the mountains, and let him that is upon the house, not come down into the house, neither enter therein, to fetch any thing out of his house. And let him that is in the field, not turn back again to take his garment. Then woe shall be to them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days. Pray therefore that your flight be not in the winter. For those days shall be such tribulation, as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither shall be. And except that the Lord had shortened those days, no flesh should be saved: but for the elect's sake, which he hath chosen, he hath shortened those days. Then if any man say to you, Lo, here is Christ, or, lo, he is there, believe it not. For false Christ's shall rise, and false prophets, and shall shew signs and wonders, to deceive if it were possible the very elect. But take ye heed: behold, I have shewed you all things before. Moreover in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall wax dark, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars of heaven shall fall: and the powers which are in heaven shall shake. And then shall they see the Son of man coming in the clouds, with great power & glory. And he shall then send his Angels, & shall gather together his elect from the four winds and from the utmost part of the earth to the utmost part of heaven. Now learn a parable of the fig tree. When her bough is yet tender, and it bringeth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near. So in like manner, when ye see these things come to pass, know that the kingdom of God is near, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, that this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away. But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the Angels which are in heaven, neither the Son himself, but the Father. Take heed: watch, and pray: for ye know not when the time is. For the Son of man is as a man going into a strange country, & leaveth his house, & giveth authority to his servants and to every man his work, and commandeth the porter to watch. Watch ye therefore, (for ye know not when ye master of the house will come, at eve, or at midnight, at the cock crowing, or in the dawning,) lest if he come suddenly, he should find you sleeping. And those things that I say unto you, I say unto all men, Watch.

And two days after followed the feast of the Passover, and of unleavened bread: and the high Priests & Scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death. But they said, Not in the feast day, lest there be any tumult among the people. And when he was in Bethania in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at table, there came a woman having a box of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and she brake the box, and poured it on his head. Therefore some disdained among themselves, and said, To what end is this waste of ointment? For it might have been sold for more then three hundredth pence, and been given unto the poor, and they murmured against her. But Jesus said, Let her alone: why trouble ye her? She hath wrought a good work on me. For ye have the poor with you always, and when ye will ye may do them good, but me ye shall not have always. She hath done that she could: she came afore hand to anoint my body to the burying. Verily I say unto you, wheresoever's this Gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done, shall be spoken of in remembrance of her. Then Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went away unto the high Priests, to betray him unto them. And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised that they would give him money: therefore he sought how he might conveniently betray him.

Now the first day of unleavened bread, when they sacrificed the Passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou may eat the Passover? Then he sent forth two of his disciples, and said unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall a man meet you bearing a pitcher of water: follow him. And whithersoever he goeth in, say ye to the good man of the house, The Master sayeth, Where is the lodging where I shall eat the Passover with my disciples? And he will shew you an upper chamber which is large, trimmed and prepared: there make it ready for us. So his disciples went forth, and came to the city, and found as he had said unto them, and made ready the Passover. And at even he came with the twelve. And as they sat at table and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me, which eateth with me. Then they began to be sorrowful & to say to him one by one, Is it I? And another, Is it I? And he answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve that dippeth with me in the platter. Truly the Son of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but woe be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had been good for that man, if he had never been born. And as they did eat, Jesus took the bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it and gave it to them, and said, Take, eat, this is my body. Also he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, gave it to them: and they all drank of it. And he said unto them, This is my blood of that new Testament, which is shed for many. Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God. And when they had sung a Psalm, they went out to the mount of Olives. Then Jesus said unto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered. But after that I am risen, I will go into Galilee before you. And Peter said unto him, Although all men should be offended at thee, yet would not I. Then Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. But he said more earnestly. If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee: likewise also said they all.

After, they came into a place named Gethsemane: then he said to his disciples, Sit ye here, till I have prayed. And he took with him Peter, and James, and John, and he began to be troubled, and in great heaviness, and said unto them, My soul is very heavy, even unto the death: tarry here, and watch. So he went forward a little, and fell down on the ground, and prayed, that if it were possible, that hour might pass from him. And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee: take away this cup from me: nevertheless not that I will, but that thou wilt, be done. Then he came, and found them sleeping, and said to Peter, Simon, sleep thou? Could not thou watch one hour? Watch ye, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit in deed is ready, but the flesh is weak. And again he went away, and prayed, and spake the same words. And he returned, & found them a sleep again: for their eyes were heavy: neither knew they what they should answer him. And he came the third time, and said unto them, Sleep henceforth, and take your rest: it is enough: the hour is come: behold, the Son of man is delivered into the hands of sinners. Rise up: let us go: lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand. And immediately while he yet spake, came Judas that was one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves from the high Priests, and Scribes, and Elders. And he that betrayed him, had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, he it is: take him and lead him away safely. And as soon as he was come, he went straightway to him, and said, Hail Master, and kissed him. Then they laid their hands on him, and took him. And one of them that stood by, drew out a sword, and smote a servant of the high Priest, and cut off his ear. And Jesus answered and said to them, Ye be come out as against a thief with swords, and with staves, to take me. I was daily with you teaching in the Temple, and ye took me not: but this is done that the Scriptures should be fulfilled. Then they all forsook him, and fled. And there followed him a certain young man, clothed in linen upon his bare body, and the young men caught him. But he left his linen cloth, and fled from them naked.

So they led Jesus away to the high Priest, and to him came together all the high Priests, and the Elders, and the Scribes. And Peter followed him a far off, even into the hall of the high Priest, and sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire. And the high Priests and all the Council sought for witness against Jesus, to put him to death, but found none. For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together. Then there arose certain, and bare false witness against him, saying, We heard him say, I will destroy this Temple made with hands, & within three days I will build another, made without hands. But their witness yet agreed not together. Then the high Priest stood up amongst them, and asked Jesus, saying, Answer thou nothing? What is the matter that these bear witness against thee? But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high Priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou that Christ the Son of the Blessed? And Jesus said, I am he, and ye shall see the Son of man sit at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the clouds of heaven. Then the high Priest rent his clothes, and said, What have we any more need of witnesses? Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be worthy of death. And some began to spit at him, and to cover his face, and to beat him with fists, and to say unto him, Prophecy; the sergeants smote him with their rods. And as Peter was beneath in the hall, there came one of the maids of the high Priest. And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked on him, and said, Thou wast also with Jesus of Nazareth. But he denied it, saying, I know him not, neither wot I what thou say. Then he went out into the porch, and the cock crew. Then a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them. But he denied it again: and anon after, they that stood by, said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: for thou art of Galilee and thy speech is like. And he began to curse, and swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak. Then the second time the cock crew, and Peter remembered the word that Jesus had said unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice, and waying that with himself, he wept.

And anon in the dawning, the high Priests held a Council with the Elders, and the Scribes, and the whole Council, and bound Jesus, and led him away, and delivered him to Pilate. Then Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answered, and said unto him, Thou sayest it. And the high Priests accused him of many things. Wherefore Pilate asked him again, saying, Answer thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee. But Jesus answered no more at all, so that Pilate marveled. Now at the feast, Pilate did deliver a prisoner unto them, whomsoever they would desire. Then there was one named Barabbas, which was bound with his fellows that had made insurrection, who in the insurrection had committed murder. And the people cried aloud, and began to desire that he would do as he had ever done unto them. Then Pilate answered them, and said, Will ye that I let loose unto you the King of the Jews? For he knew that the high Priests had delivered him of envy. But the high Priests had moved the people to desire that he would rather deliver Barabbas unto them. And Pilate answered, and said again unto them, What will ye then that I do with him, whom ye call the King of the Jews? And they cried again, Crucify him. Then Pilate said unto them, But what evil hath he done? And they cried the more fervently, Crucify him. So Pilate willing to content the people, loosed them Barabbas, & delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, that he might be crucified. Then the soldiers led him away into the hall, which is the common hall, and called together the whole band, and clad him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head, and began to salute him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews. And they smote him on the head with a reed, and spat upon him, and bowed the knees, and did him reverence. And when they had mocked him, they took the purple off him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him. And they compelled one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene (which came out of the country, and was father of Alexander and Rufus) to bear his cross. And they brought him to a place named Golgotha, which is by interpretation, the place of dead men's skulls. And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not. And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots for them, what every man should have. And it was the third hour, when they crucified him. And the title of his cause was written above, That king of the Jews. They crucified also with him two thieves, the one on the right hand, & the other on his left. Thus the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, And he was counted among the wicked. And they that went by, railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Hey, thou that destroy the Temple, & build it in three days, save thy self, and come down from the cross. Likewise also even the high Priests mocking, said among themselves with the Scribes, He saved other men, himself he cannot save. Let Christ the King of Israel now come down from the cross that we may see, and believe. They also that were crucified with him reviled him. Now when the sixth hour was come, darkness arose over all the land until the ninth hour. And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eloi, Eloi, lamma-sabachthani? which is by interpretation, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias. And one ran, and filled a sponge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink, saying, Let him alone: let us see if Elias will come, and take him down. And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost. And the veil of the Temple was rent in twain, from the top to the bottom. Now when the Centurion, which stood over against him, saw that he thus crying gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God.

There were also women, which beheld a far off, among whom was Marie Magdalene, and Marie (the mother of James the less, and of Joses) and Salome, which also when he was in Galilee, followed him, and ministered unto him, and many other women which came up with him unto Jerusalem. And now when the night was come (because it was the day of the preparation that is before the Sabbath) Joseph of Arimathea, an honorable counselor, which also looked for the kingdom of God, came, and went in boldly unto Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus. And Pilate marveled, if he were already dead, and called unto him the Centurion, and asked of him whether he had been any while dead. And when he knew the truth of the Centurion, he gave the body to Joseph: Who bought a linen cloth, & took him down, and wrapped him in the linen cloth, and laid him in a tomb that was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulcher: And Marie Magdalene, and Marie Joses mother, beheld where he should be laid. And when the Sabbath day was past, Marie Magdalene, and Marie the mother of James, and Salome, bought sweet ointments, that they might come, and anoint him. Therefore early in the morning, the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulcher, when the Sun was now risen. And they said one to another, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulcher? And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away (for it was a very great one) so they went into the sepulcher, and saw a young man sitting at the right side, clothed in a long white robe: and they were sore troubled. But he said unto them, Be not so troubled: ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which hath been crucified: he is risen, he is not here: behold the place where they put him. But go your way, and tell his disciples, and Peter, that he will go before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him, as he said unto you. And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulcher: for they trembled, and were amazed: neither said they any thing to any man: for they were afraid.

And when Jesus was risen again, early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Marie Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils: And she went and told them that had been with him, which mourned and wept. And when they heard that he was alive, and had appeared to her, they believed it not. After that, he appeared unto two of them in another form, as they walked and went into the country. And they went, and told it to the remnant, neither believed they them. Finally, he appeared unto the eleven as they sat together, and reproached them for their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him, being risen up again. And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that shall believe and be baptized, shall be saved: but he that will not believe shall be damned. And these tokens shall follow them that believe, In my Name they shall cast out devils, and shall speak with new tongues, and shall take away serpents, and if they shall drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them: they shall lay their hands on the sick, and they shall recover. So after ye Lord had spoken unto them, he was received into heaven, & sat at the right hand of God. And they went forth, and preached every where; the Lord wrought with them, and confirmed the word with signs that followed. Amen.

Forasmuch as many have taken in hand to set forth the story of those things, whereof we are fully persuaded, as they have delivered them unto us, which from the beginning saw them their selves, & were ministers of the word, it seemed good also to me (most noble Theophilus) as soon as I had searched out perfectly all things from the beginning, to write unto thee thereof from point to point, that thou might acknowledge the certainty of those things, whereof thou hast been instructed. In the time of Herod King of Judea, there was a certain Priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabeth. Both were just before God, and walked in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord, without reproof. And they had no child, because that Elisabeth was barren: and both were well stricken in age. And it came to pass, as he executed the Priest's office before God, as his course came in order, according to the custom of the Priest's office, his lot was to burn incense, when he went into the Temple of the Lord. And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, while the incense was burning. Then appeared unto him an Angel of the Lord standing at the right side of the altar of incense. And when Zacharias saw him, he was troubled, and fear fell upon him. But the Angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard, and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John. And thou shalt have joy and gladness, and many shall rejoice at his birth. For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and shall neither drink wine, nor strong drink: and he shall be filled with the holy Ghost, even from his mother's womb. And many of the children of Israel shall he turn to their Lord God. For he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just men, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord. Then Zacharias said unto the Angel, Whereby shall I know this? For I am an old man, and my wife is of a great age. And the Angel answered, and said unto him, I am Gabriel that stand in the presence of God, and am sent to speak unto thee, & to shew thee these good tidings. And behold, thou shalt be dumb, & not be able to speak, until the day that these things be done, because thou believe not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season. Now the people waited for Zacharias, and marveled that he tarried so long in the Temple. And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: then they perceived that he had seen a vision in the Temple: For he made signs unto them, and remained dumb. And it came to pass, when the days of his office were fulfilled, that he departed to his own house. And after those days, his wife Elisabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying, Thus hath the Lord dealt with me, in the days wherein he looked on me, to take from me my rebuke among men.

And in the sixth month, the Angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin affianced to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, & the virgins name was Marie. And the Angel went in unto her, and said, Hail thou that art freely beloved: the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and thought what manner of salutation that should be. Then the Angel said unto her, Fear not, Marie: for thou hast found favor with God. For lo, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bear a son, and shalt call his name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the most High, and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David. And he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom shall be none end. Then said Marie unto the Angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not man? And the Angel answered, & said unto her, The holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the most High shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee, shall be called the Son of God. And behold, thy cousin Elisabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age: and this is her sixth month, which was called barren. For with God shall nothing be impossible. Then Marie said, Behold the servant of the Lord: be it unto me according to thy word. So the Angel departed from her.

And Marie arose in those days, & went into the hill country with haste to a city of Juda, and entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabeth. And it came to pass, as Elisabeth heard the salutation of Marie, the babe sprang in her belly, and Elisabeth was filled with the holy Ghost. And she cried with a loud voice, and said, Blessed art thou among women, because the fruit of thy womb is blessed. And whence cometh this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? For lo, as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in mine ears, the babe sprang in my belly for joy, and blessed is she that believed: for those things shall be performed, which were told her from the Lord. Then Marie said, My soul magnifieth the Lord, and my spirit rejoiceth in God my Savior. For he hath looked on the poor degree of his servant: for behold, from henceforth shall all ages call me blessed, because he that is mighty, hath done for me great things and holy is his Name. And his mercy is from generation to generation on them that fear him. He hath shewed strength with his arm: he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts. He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree. He hath filled the hungry with good things, and sent away the rich empty. He hath upholden Israel his servant to be mindful of his mercy (As he hath spoken to our fathers, to wit, to Abraham, and his seed) forever. And Marie abode with her about three months: after, she returned to her own house.

Now Elisabeth's time was fulfilled, that she should be delivered, and she brought forth a son. And her neighbors, and cousins heard tell how the Lord had shewed his great mercy upon her, and they rejoiced with her. And it was so that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the babe, and called him Zacharias after the name of his father. But his mother answered, and said, Not so, but he shall be called John. And they said unto her, There is none of thy kindred, that is named with this name. Then they made signs to his father, how he would have him called. So he asked for writing tables, and wrote, saying, His name is John, and they marveled all. And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue, and he spake and praised God. Then fear came on all them that dwelt near unto them and all these words were noised abroad throughout all the hill country of Judea. And all they that heard them laid them up in their hearts, saying, What manner child shall this be! and the hand of the Lord was with him. Then his father Zacharias was filled with the holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, because he hath visited and redeemed his people, and hath raised up the horn of salvation unto us, in the house of his servant David, as he spake by the mouth of his holy Prophets, which were since the world began, saying, That he would send us deliverance from our enemies, and from the hands of all that hate us, that he might shew mercy towards our fathers, and remember his holy covenant, and the oath which he sware to our father Abraham. Which was, that he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hands of our enemies, should serve him without fear, all the days of our life, in holiness and righteousness before him. And thou, babe, shalt be called the Prophet of the most High: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord, to prepare his ways, and to give knowledge of salvation unto his people, by the remission of their sins, through the tender mercy of our God, whereby the day spring from on high hath visited us, to give light to them that sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death, & to guide our feet into the way of peace. And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, and was in the wilderness, till the day came that he should shew himself unto Israel.

And it came to pass in those days, that there came a decree from Augustus Cesar, that all the world should be taxed. (This first taxing was made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.) Therefore went all to be taxed, every man to his own City. And Joseph also went up from Galilee out of a city called Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David,) to be taxed with Marie that was given him to wife, which was with child. And so it was that while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered, and she brought forth her first begotten son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a cratch, because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds, abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night over their flock. And lo, the Angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone about them, and they were sore afraid. Then the Angel said unto them, Be not afraid: for behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy, that shall be to all the people, that is, that unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign to you, Ye shall find the babe swaddled, and laid in a cratch. And straightway there was with the Angel a multitude of heavenly soldiers, praising God, and saying, Glory be to God in the high heavens, and peace in earth, and towards men good will. And it came to pass when the Angels were gone away from them into heaven, that the shepherds said one to another, Let us go then unto Bethlehem, and see this thing that is come to pass which the Lord hath shewed unto us. So they came with haste, and found both Marie and Joseph, & the babe laid in the cratch. And when they had seen it, they published abroad the thing that was told them of that child. And all that heard it, wondered at the things which were told them of the shepherds. But Mary kept all those sayings, and pondered them in her heart. And the shepherds returned glorifying and praising God, for all that they had heard and seen as it was spoken unto them.

And when the eight days were accomplished, that they should circumcise the child, his name was then called Jesus, which was named of the Angel, before he was conceived in the womb. And when the days of her purification after the Law of Moses were accomplished, they brought him to Jerusalem, to present him to the Lord, (As it is written in the Law of the Lord, Every man child that first openeth the womb, shall be called holy to the Lord) and to give an oblation, as it is commanded in the Law of the Lord, a pair of turtle doves, or two young pigeons. And behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon: this man was just, and feared God, and waited for the consolation of Israel, and the holy Ghost was upon him. And it was declared to him from God by the holy Ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen that Anointed of the Lord. And he came by the motion of the spirit into the Temple, and when the parents brought in the babe Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the Law, then he took him in his arms, and praised God, and said, Lord, now let thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people, a light to be revealed to the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel. And Joseph and his mother marveled at those things, which were spoken touching him. And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this child is appointed for the fall and rising again of many in Israel, and for a sign which shall be spoken against, (Yea and a sword shall pierce through thy soul) that the thoughts of many hearts may be opened. And there was a Prophetess, one Anna the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser, which was of a great age, after she had lived with an husband seven years from her virginity: And she was widow about four score and four years, and went not out of the Temple, but served God with fastings & prayers, night and day. She then coming at the same instant upon them, confessed likewise the Lord, & spake of him to all that looked for redemption in Jerusalem. And when they had performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee to their own city Nazareth. And the child grew, and waxed strong in Spirit, and was filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was with him.

Now his parents went to Jerusalem every year, at the feast of the Passover. And when he was twelve year old, and they were come up to Jerusalem, after the custom of the feast, and had finished the days thereof, as they returned, the child Jesus remained in Jerusalem, and Joseph knew not, nor his mother, but they supposing, that he had been in the company, went a day's journey, and sought him among their kinsfolk, and acquaintance. And when they found him not, they turned back to Jerusalem, and sought him. And it came to pass three days after, that they found him in the Temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions: And all that heard him, were astonished at his understanding and answers. So when they saw him, they were amazed, and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee with very heavy hearts. Then said he unto them, How is it that ye sought me? knew ye not that I must go about my Father's business? But they understood not the word that he spake to them. Then he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject to them: and his mother kept all these sayings in her heart. And Jesus increased in wisdom, and stature, and in favor with God and men.

Now in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea, and Herod being Tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip Tetrarch of Iturea, and of the country of Trachonitis, and Lysanias the Tetrarch of Abilene, (When Annas and Caiaphas were the high Priests) the word of God came unto John, the son of Zacharias in the wilderness. And he came into all the coasts about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins, as it is written in the book of the sayings of Esaias the Prophet, which saith, The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness is, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make his paths straight. Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low, and crooked things shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth. And all flesh shall see the salvation of God. Then said he to the people that were come out to be baptized of him, O generations of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the wrath to come? Bring forth therefore fruits worthy amendment of life, and begin not to say with your selves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham. Now also is the axe laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, shall be hewn down, and cast into the fire. Then the people asked him, saying, What shall we do then? And he answered, and said unto them, He that hath two coats, let him part with him that hath none: and he that hath meat let him do likewise. Then came there Publicans also to be baptized, and said unto him, Master, what shall we do? And he said unto them, Require no more than that which is appointed unto you. The soldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shall we do? And he said unto them, Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely, and be content with your wages. As the people waited, and all men mused in their hearts of John, if he were not that Christ, John answered, and said to them all, Indeed I baptize you with water, but one stronger then I, cometh, whose shoes latchet I am not worthy to unloose: he will baptize you with the holy Ghost, and with fire. Whose fan is in his hand, and he will make clean his floor, and will gather the wheat into his garner, but the chafe will he burn up with fire that never shall be quenched. Thus then exhorting with many other things, he preached unto the people. But when Herod the Tetrarch was rebuked of him, for Herodias his brother Philips wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, he added yet this above all, that he shut up John in prison. Now it came to pass, as all the people were baptized, and that Jesus was baptized and did pray, that the heaven was opened: And the holy Ghost came down in a bodily shape like a dove, upon him, and there was a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son: in thee I am well pleased.

And Jesus himself began to be about thirty year of age, being as men supposed the son of Joseph, which was the son of Eli, the son of Matthat, the son of Levi, the son of Melchi, the son of Janna, the son of Joseph, the son of Mattathias, the son of Amos, the son of Naum, the son of Esli, the son of Nagge, the son of Maath, the son of Mattathias, the son of Semei, the son of Joseph, the son of Juda, the son of Ioanna, the son of Rhesa, the son of Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, the son of Neri, the son of Melchi, the son of Addi, the son of Cosam, the son of Elmodam, the son of Er, the son of Jose, the son of Eliezer, the son of Jorim, the son of Matthat, the son of Levi, the son of Simeon, the son of Juda, the son of Joseph, the son of Ionan, the son of Eliacim, the son of Melea, the son of Mainan, the son of Mattatha, the son of Nathan, the son of David, the son of Jesse, the son of Obed, the son of Booz, the son of Salmon, the son of Naasson, the son of Aminadab, the son of Aram, the son of Esrom, the son of Phares, the son of Juda, the son of Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Abraham, the son of Thara, the son of Nachor, the son of Saruch, the son of Ragau, the son of Phalec, the son of Eber, the son of Sala, the son of Cainan, the son of Arphaxad, the son of Sem, the son of Noah, the son of Lamech, the son of Mathusala, the son of Enoch, the son of Jared, the son of Maleleel, the son of Cainan, the son of Enos, the son of Seth, the son of Adam, the son of God. And Jesus full of the holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was led by that Spirit into the wilderness, and was there forty days tempted of the devil, & in those days he did eat nothing: but when they were end, he afterward was hungry. Then the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread. But Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread only, but by every word of God. Then the devil took him up into an high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world, in the twinkling of an eye. And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of those kingdoms: for that is delivered to me: and to whomsoever I will, I give it. If thou therefore wilt worship me, they shall be all thine. But Jesus answered him, and said, Hence from me, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him alone thou shalt serve. Then he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the Temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thy self down from hence, for it is written, That he will give his Angels charge over thee to keep thee: And with their hands they shall lift thee up, lest at any time thou should dash thy foot against a stone. And Jesus answered, and said unto him, It is said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. And when the devil had end all the temptation, he departed from him for a little season.

And Jesus returned by the power of the spirit into Galilee: and there went a fame of him throughout all the region round about. For he taught in their Synagogues, and was honored of all men. And he came to Nazareth where he had been brought up, and (as his custom was) went into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day, and stood up to read. And there was delivered unto him the book of the Prophet Esaias: and when he had opened the book, he found the place, where it was written, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me, that I should preach the Gospel to the poor: he hath sent me, that I should heal the broken hearted, that I should preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, that I should set at liberty them that are bruised: And that I should preach the acceptable year of the Lord. And he closed the book, and gave it again to the minister, and sat down: and the eyes of all that were in the Synagogue were fastened on him. Then he began to say unto them, This day is the Scripture fulfilled in your ears. And all bare him witness, and wondered at the gracious words, which proceeded out of his mouth, and said, Is not this Joseph's son? Then he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thy self: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do it here likewise in thine own country. And he said, Verily I say unto you, No Prophet is accepted in his own country. But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Israel in the days of Elias, when heaven was shut three years and six months, when great famine was throughout all the land: But unto none of them was Elias sent, save into Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a certain widow. Also many lepers were in Israel, in the time of Eliseus the Prophet: yet none of them was made clean, saving Naaman the Syrian. Then all that were in the Synagogue, when they heard it, were filled with wrath, and rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the edge of the hill, where on their city was built, to cast him down headlong. But he passed through the midst of them, and went his way, and came down into Capernaum a city of Galilee, and there taught them on the Sabbath days. And they were astonished at his doctrine: for his word was with authority. And in the Synagogue there was a man which had a spirit of an unclean devil, which cried with a loud voice, saying, Oh, what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know who thou art, even the holy one of God. And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. Then the devil throwing him in the midst of them, came out of him, and hurt him nothing at all. So fear came on them all, and they spake among themselves, saying, What thing is this: for with authority and power he commandeth the foul spirits, and they come out? And the fame of him spread abroad throughout all the places of the country round about. And he rose up, and came out of the Synagogue, and entered into Simons house; Simons wife's mother was taken with a great fever, and they required him for her. Then he stood over her, and rebuked the fever, and it left her, and immediately she arose, and ministered unto them. Now at the sun setting, all they that had sick folks of divers diseases, brought them unto him, and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them. And devils also came out of many, crying, and saying, Thou art that Christ that Son of God: but he rebuked them, and suffered them not to say that they knew him to be that Christ. And when it was day, he departed, and went forth into a desert place, and the people sought him, and came to him, and kept him that he should not depart from them. But he said unto them, Surely I must also preach the kingdom of God to other cities: for therefore am I sent. And he preached in the Synagogues of Galilee.

Then it came to pass, as the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God that he stood by the lake of Gennesaret and saw two ships stand by the lakes side, but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets. And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, & required him that he would thrust off a little from the land: and he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship. Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets to make a draught. Then Simon answered, and said unto him, Master, we have travailed sore all night, & have taken nothing: nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net. And when they had so done, they enclosed a great multitude of fishes, so that their net brake. And they beckoned to their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them, who came then, and filled both the ships, that they did sink. Now when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus knees, saying, Lord, go from me: for I am a sinful man. For he was utterly astonished, and all that were with him, for the draught of fishes which they took. And so was also James & John the sons of Zebedeus, which were companions with Simon. Then Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not: from henceforth thou shalt catch men. And when they had brought the ships to land, they forsook all, and followed him. Now it came to pass, as he was in a certain city, behold, there was a man full of leprosy, and when he saw Jesus, he fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. So he stretched forth his hand, & touched him, saying, I will, be thou clean; immediately the leprosy departed from him. And he commanded him that he should tell it no man: but Go, saith he, and shew thy self to the Priest, and offer for thy cleansing, as Moses hath commanded, for a witness unto them. But so much more went there a fame abroad of him, and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed of him of their infirmities. But he kept himself apart in the wilderness, and prayed. And it came to pass, on a certain day, as he was teaching, that the Pharisees & doctors of the Law sat by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, & Judea, and Jerusalem, & the power of the Lord was in him to heal them. Then behold, men brought a man lying in a bed, which was taken with a palsy, and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him. And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in, because of the press, they went up on the house, and let him down through the tiling, bed and all, in the midst before Jesus. And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee. Then the Scribes & the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this that speaketh blasphemies? who can forgive sins, but God only? But when Jesus perceived their reasoning, he answered, and said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts? Whether is easier to say, Thy sins are forgiven thee, or to say, Rise and walk? But that ye may know that that Son of man hath authority to forgive sins in earth, (he said unto the sick of the palsy) I say to thee, Arise: take up thy bed, and go to thine house. And immediately he rose up before them, and took up his bed whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, praising God. And they were all amazed, & praised God, and were filled with fear, saying, Doubtless we have seen strange things to day. And after that, he went forth and saw a Publican named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custom, and said unto him, Follow me. And he left all, rose up, and followed him. Then Levi made him a great feast in his own house, where there was a great company of Publicans and of other that sat at table with them. But they that were Scribes and Pharisees among them, murmured against his disciples, saying, Why eat ye and drink ye with Publicans and sinners? Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, They that are whole, need not the Physician, but they that are sick. I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. Then they said unto him, Why do the disciples of John fast often, & pray, & the disciples of the Pharisees also, but thine eat and drink? And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the wedding chamber to fast, as long as the bridegroom is with thee? But the days will come, even when the bridegroom shall be taken away from thee: then shall they fast in those days. Again he spake also unto thee a parable, No man putteth a piece of a new garment into an old vesture: for then the new renteth it, and the piece taken out of the new, agreeth not with the old. Also no man poureth new wine into old vessels: for then the new wine will break the vessels, and it will run out, and the vessels will perish: But new wine must be poured into new vessels: so both are preserved. Also no man that drinketh old wine straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is more profitable. And it came to pass on a second solemn Sabbath, that he went through the corn fields, and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, and rub them in their hands. And certain of the Pharisees said unto them, Why do ye that which is not lawful to do on the Sabbath days? Then Jesus answered them, and said, Have ye not read this, that David did when he himself was an hungered, and they which were with him, how he went into the house of God, and took, and ate the shewbread, and gave also to them which were with him, which was not lawful to eat, but for the Priests only? And he said unto them, The Son of man is Lord also of the Sabbath day. It came to pass also on another Sabbath, that he entered into the Synagogue, and taught, and there was a man, whose right hand was dried up. And the Scribes & Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the Sabbath day, that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Arise, and stand up in the midst; he arose, and stood up. Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you a question, Whether is it lawful on the Sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy? And he beheld them all in compass, and said unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand; he did so, and his hand was restored again, as whole as the other. Then they were filled full of madness, and communed one with another, what they might do to Jesus. And it came to pass in those days, that he went into a mountain to pray, & spent the night in prayer to God. And when it was day, he called his disciples, and of them he chose twelve which also he called Apostles. (Simon whom he named also Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philipp and Bartholomew: Matthew and Thomas: James the son of Alpheus, and Simon called Zealous, Judas James brother, and Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor.) Then he came down with them, & stood in a plain place, with the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judea, and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyrus and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases: And they that were vexed with foul spirits, and they were healed. And the whole multitude sought to touch him: for there went virtue out of him, and healed them all.

And he lifted up his eyes upon his disciples, and said, Blessed be the poor: for yours is the kingdom of God. Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be satisfied: blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh. Blessed are ye when men hate you, and when they separate you, & revile you, & put out your name as evil, for the Son of mans sake. Rejoice ye in that day, and be glad: for behold, your reward is great in heaven: for after this manner their fathers did to the Prophets. But woe be to you that are rich: for ye have received your consolation. Woe be to you that are full: for ye shall hunger. Woe be to you that now laugh: for ye shall wail and weep. Woe be to you when all men speak well of you: for so did their fathers to the false prophets. But I say unto you which hear, Love your enemies: do well to them which hate you. Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which hurt you. And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek, offer also the other: and him that taketh away thy cloak, forbid not to take thy coat also. Give to every man that asketh of thee: and of him that taketh away the things that be thine, ask them not again. And as ye would that men should do to you, so do ye to them likewise. For if ye love them which love you, what thank shall ye have? for even the sinners love those that love them. And if ye do good for them which do good for you, what thank shall ye have? for even the sinners do the same. And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank shall ye have? for even the sinners lend to sinners, to receive the like. Wherefore love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, looking for nothing again, and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the most High: for he is kind unto the unkind, and to the evil. Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful. Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven. Give and it shall be given unto you: a good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over shall men give into your bosom: for with what measure ye mete, with the same shall men mete to you again. And he spake a parable unto them, Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch? The disciple is not above his master: but whosoever will be a perfect disciple shall be as his master. And why see thou a mote in thy brother's eye, and consider not the beam that is in thine own eye? Either how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou see not the beam that is in thine own eye? Hypocrite, cast out the beam out of thine own eye first, and then shalt thou see perfectly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye. For it is not a good tree that bringeth forth evil fruit: neither an evil tree that bringeth forth good fruit. For every tree is known by his own fruit: for neither of thorns gather men fig's, nor of bushes gather they grapes. A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth good, and an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh. But why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I speak? Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my words, and doth the same, I will shew you to whom he is like: He is like a man which built an house, and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the waters arose, the flood beat upon that house, and could not shake it: for it was grounded upon a rock. But he that heareth and doth not, is like a man that built an house upon the earth without foundation, against which the flood did beat, and it fell by and by: and the fall of that house was great.

When he had end all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum. And a certain Centurions servant was sick and ready to die, which was dear unto him. And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto him the Elders of the Jews, beseeching him that he would come, and heal his servant. So they came to Jesus, and besought him instantly, saying that he was worthy that he should do this for him: For he loveth, said they, our nation, and he hath built us a Synagogue. Then Jesus went with them: but when he was now not far from the house, the Centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thy self: for I am not worthy that thou should enter under my roof: Wherefore I thought not myself worthy to come unto the: but say the word, and my servant shall be whole: For I likewise am a man set under authority, and have under me soldiers, and I say unto one, Go, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and he cometh: and to my servant, Do this, and he doth it. When Jesus heard these things, he marveled at him, and turned him, and said to the people, that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no not in Israel. And when they that were sent, turned back to the house, they found the servant that was sick, whole. And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain, and many of his disciples went with him, and a great multitude. Now when he came near to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, who was the only begotten son of his mother, which was a widow, and much people of the city was with her. And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not. And he went and touched the coffin (and they that bare him, stood still) and he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise. And he that was dead, sat up, and began to speak, and he delivered him to his mother. Then there came a fear on them all, and they glorified God, saying, A great Prophet is risen among us, and God hath visited his people. And this rumor of him went forth throughout all Judea, and throughout all the region round about. And the disciples of John shewed him of all these things. So John called unto him two certain men of his disciples, and sent them to Jesus, saying, Art thou he that should come, or shall we wait for another? And when the men were come unto him, they said, John Baptist hath sent us unto the, saying, Art thou he that should come, or shall we wait for another? And at that time, he cured many of their sicknesses, and plagues, and of evil spirits, and unto many blind men he gave sight freely. And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Go your ways and shew John, what things ye have seen and heard: that the blind see, the halt go, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor receive the Gospel. And blessed is he, that shall not be offend in me. And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the people, of John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they which are gorgeously appareled, and live delicately, are in Kings courts. But what went ye forth to see? A Prophet? Yea, I say to you, and greater then a Prophet. This is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before them. For I say unto you, there is no greater Prophet then John, among them that are begotten of women: nevertheless, he that is the least in the kingdom of God, is greater than he. Then all the people that heard and the Publicans justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John. But the Pharisees and the expounders of the Law despised the counsel of God against themselves, and were not baptized of him. And the Lord said, Whereunto shall I liken the men of this generation? And what thing are they like unto? They are like unto little children sitting in the market place, and crying one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced: we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept. For John Baptist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine: and ye say; He hath the devil. The Son of man is come, and eateth and drinketh: and ye say, Behold, a man which is a glutton, and a drinker of wine, a friend of Publicans and sinners: But wisdom is justified of all her children.

And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him: and he went into the Pharisees house, and sat down at table. And behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at table in the Pharisees house, she brought a box of ointment. And she stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment. Now when the Pharisee which bade him, saw it, he spake within himself, saying, If this man were a Prophet, he would surely have known who, and what manner of woman this is which toucheth him: for she is a sinner. And Jesus answered, and said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee; he said, Master, say on. There was a certain lender which had two debtors: the one ought five hundredth pence, and the other fifty: When they had nothing to pay, he forgave them both: Which of them therefore, tell me, will love him most? Simon answered, and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most; he said unto him, Thou hast truly judged. Then he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, See thou this woman? I entered into thine house, and thou gave me no water to my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head. Thou gave me no kiss: but she, since the time I came in, hath not ceased to kiss my feet. Mine head with oil thou did not anoint: but she hath anointed my feet with ointment. Wherefore I say unto thee, many sins are forgiven her: for she loved much. To whom a little is forgiven, he doth love a little. And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven thee. And they that sat at table with him began to say within themselves, Who is this that even forgiveth sins? And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee: go in peace.

And it came to pass afterward, that he himself went through every city and town, preaching and publishing the kingdom of God, and the twelve were with him, and certain women, which were healed of evil spirits, and infirmities, as Mary which was called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils, and Joanna the wife of Chuza Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many other which ministered unto him of their substance. Now when much people were gathered together and were come unto him out of all cities he spake by a parable. A sower went out to sow his seed, and as he sowed, some fell by the ways side, and it was trodden under feet, and the fowls of heaven devoured it up. And some fell on the stones, and when it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moistness. And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it. And some fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bear fruit, an hundred fold; as he said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. Then his disciples asked him, demanding what parable that was. And he said, Unto you it is given to know the secrets of the kingdom of God, but to other in parables, that when they see, they should not see, and when they hear, they should not understand. The parable is this; The seed is the word of God. And they that are beside the way are they that hear: afterward cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe, and be saved. But they that are on the stones are they which when they have heard, receive the word with joy: but they have no roots: which for a while believe, but in the time of temptation go away. And that which fell among thorns, are they which have heard, and after their departure are choked with cares and with riches, and voluptuous living, and bring forth no fruit. But that which fell in good ground, are they which with an honest & good heart hear the word, and keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience. No man when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it under a vessel, neither putteth it under the bed, but setteth it on a candlestick, that they that enter in, may see the light. For nothing is secret, that shall not be evident: neither anything hid that shall not be known, and come to light. Take heed therefore how ye hear: for whosoever hath, to him shall be given: and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which it seemeth that he hath. Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come near to him for the press. And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, and would see thee. But he answered, and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God, and do it.

And it came to pass on a certain day that he went into a ship with his disciples, and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake; they launched forth. And as they sailed, he fell asleep, and there came down a storm of wind on the lake, and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy. Then they went to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, Master, we perish; he arose, and rebuked the wind, and the waves of water: and they ceased, and it was calm. Then he said unto them, Where is your faith? And they feared, & wondered among themselves, saying, Who is this that commandeth both the winds and water, and they obey him! So they sailed unto the region of the Gadarenes, which is over against Galilee. And as he went out to land, there met him a certain man out of the city, which had devils long time, and he ware no garment, neither abode in house, but in the graves. And when he saw Jesus, he cried out and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus the Son of God the most High? I beseech thee torment me not. For he commanded the foul spirit to come out of the man: (for oft times he had caught him: therefore he was bound with chains, and kept in fetters: but he brake the bands, and was carried of the devil into wilderness.) Then Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? And he said, Legion, because many devils were entered into him. And they besought him that he would not command them to go out into the deep. And there was there by, an herd of many swine, feeding on an hill: and the devils besought him, that he would suffer them to enter into them. So he suffered them. Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd was carried with violence from a steep down place into the lake, and was choked. When the herdsmen saw what was done, they fled: and when they were departed, they told it in the city and in the country. Then they came out to see what was done, and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid. They also which saw it, told them by what means he that was possessed with the devil, was healed. Then the whole multitude of the country about the Gadarenes, besought him that he would depart from them: for they were taken with a great fear: and he went into the ship, and returned. Then the man, out of whom the devils were departed, besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying, Return into thine own house, and shew what great things God hath done to thee. So he went his way, and preached throughout all the city, what great things Jesus had done unto him.

And it came to pass, when Jesus was come again, that the people received him: for they all waited for him. And behold, there came a man named Jairus, & he was the ruler of the Synagogue, who fell down at Jesus feet, and besought him that he would come into his house. For he had but a daughter only, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying (and as he went, the people thronged him. And a woman having an issue of blood, twelve years long, which had spent all her substance upon physicians, and could not be healed of any: When she came behind him, she touched the hem of his garment, and immediately her issue of blood stanchd. Then Jesus said, Who is it that hath touched me? When every man denied, Peter said and they that were with him, Master, the multitude thrust thee, and tread on thee, & say thou, Who hath touched me? And Jesus said, Someone hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me. When the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and fell down before him, and told him before all the people, for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately. And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath saved thee: go in peace.) While he yet spake, there came one from the ruler of the Synagogues house, which said to him, Thy daughter is dead: disease not the Master. When Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not: believe only, and she shall be saved. And when he went into the house, he suffered no man to go in with him, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and mother of the maid. And all wept, and sorrowed for her: but he said, Weep not: for she is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead. So he thrust them all out, and took her by the hand, and cried, saying, Maid, arise. And her spirit came again, and she rose straightway: and he commanded to give her meat. Then her parents were astonished: but he commanded them that they should tell no man what was done.

Then called he his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to heal diseases. And he sent them forth to preach the kingdom of God, and to cure the sick. And he said to them, Take nothing to your journey, neither staves, nor scrip, neither bread, nor silver, neither have two coats apiece. And whatsoever house ye enter into, there abide, and thence depart. And how many so ever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them. And they went out, & went through every town preaching the Gospel, and healing everywhere. Now Herod the Tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he doubted, because that it was said of some, that John was risen again from the dead: And of some, that Elias had appeared: and of some, that one of the old Prophets was risen again. Then Herod said, John have I beheaded: who then is this of whom I hear such things? And he desired to see him. And when the Apostles returned, they told him what great things they had done. Then he took them to him, and went aside into a solitary place, near to the city called Bethsaida. But when the people knew it, they followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God, and healed them that had need to be healed. And when the day began to wear away, the twelve came, and said unto him, Send the people away, that they may go into the towns and villages round about, and lodge, & get meat: for we are here in a desert place. But he said unto them, Give ye them to eat; they said, We have no more but five loaves and two fishes, except we should go and buy meat for all this people. For they were about five thousand men. Then he said to his disciples, Cause them to sit down by fifties in a company. And they did so, and caused all to sit down. Then he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, & looked up to heaven, and blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples, to set before the people. So they did all eat, and were satisfied: and there was taken up of that remained to them, twelve baskets full of broken meat.

And it came to pass, as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him: and he asked them, saying, Whom say the people that I am? They answered, and said, John Baptist: and others say, Elias: and some say, that one of the old Prophets is risen again. And he said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Peter answered, and said, That Christ of God. And he warned and commanded them, that they should tell that to no man, saying, The Son of man must suffer many things and be reprov'd of the Elders, and of the high Priests and Scribes, and be slain, and the third day rise again. And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, & take up his cross daily, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it. For what advantageth it a man, if he win the whole world, and destroy himself, or lose himself? For whosoever shall be ashamed of me, and

of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his glory, and in the glory of the Father, and of the holy Angels. And I tell you of a surety, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God. And it came to pass about an eight days after those words, that he took Peter and John, and James, and went up into a mountain to pray. And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was changed, and his garment was white and glistered. And behold, two men talked with him, which were Moses and Elias: Which appeared in glory, and told of his departing, which he should accomplish at Jerusalem. But Peter & they that were with him, were heavy with sleep, and when they awoke, they saw his glory, and the two men standing with him. And it came to pass, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: let us therefore make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias, and wist not what he said. Whiles he thus spake, there came a cloud and overshadowed them, and they feared when they were entering into the cloud. And there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, This is that my beloved Son, hear him. And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone: and they kept it close, and told no man in those days any of those things which they had seen.

And it came to pass on the next day, as they came down from the mountain, much people met him. And behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee, behold my son: for he is all that I have. And lo, a spirit taketh him, and suddenly he crieth, and he teareth him that he foameth, and hardly departeth from him, when he hath bruised him. Now I have besought thy disciples to cast him out, but they could not. Then Jesus answered, & said, O generation faithless, and crooked, how long now shall I be with you, and suffer you? bring thy son hither. And whiles he was yet coming, the devil rent him, and tare him: and Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him to his father. And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God: & while they all wondered at all things, which Jesus did, he said unto his disciples, Mark these words diligently: for it shall come to pass, that the Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men. But they understood not that word: for it was hid from them, so that they could not perceive it: and they feared to ask him of that word. Then there arose a disputation among them, which of them should be the greatest. When Jesus saw the thoughts of their hearts, he took a little child, & set him by him, and said unto them, Whosoever receiveth this little child in my Name, receiveth me: and whosoever shall receive me, receiveth him that sent me: for he that is least among you all, he shall be great. And John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy Name, and we forbad him, because he followeth the not with us. Then Jesus said unto him, Forbid ye him not: for he that is not against us, is with us.

And it came to pass, when the days were accomplished, that he should be received up, he settled himself fully to go to Jerusalem, and sent messengers before him: and they went and entered into a town of the Samaritans, to prepare him lodging. But they would not receive him, because his behavior was, as though he would go to Jerusalem. And when his disciples, James and John saw it, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command, that fire come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did? But Jesus turned about, & rebuked them, and said, Ye know not of what spirit ye are. For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. Then they went to another town. And it came to pass that as they went in the way, a certain man said unto him, I will follow thee, Lord, whithersoever thou go. And Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven nests, but the Son of man hath not whereon to lay his head. But he said unto another, Follow me; the same said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father. And Jesus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead: but go thou, and preach the kingdom of God. Then another said, I will follow thee, Lord: but let me first go bid them farewell, which are at mine house. And Jesus said unto him, No man that putteth his hand to the plough, and looketh back, is apt to the kingdom of God.

After these things, the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them, two and two before him into every city and place, whither he himself should come. And he said unto them, The harvest is great, but the laborers are few: pray therefore the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into his harvest. Go your ways: behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves. Bare no bag, neither scrippe, nor shoes, and salute no man by the way. And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house. And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon him: if not, it shall turn to you again. And in that house tarry still, eating and drinking such things as by them shall be set before you: for the laborer is worthy of his wages. Go not from house to house. But into whatsoever city ye shall enter, if they receive you, eat such things as are set before you, and heal the sick that are there, and say unto them, The kingdom of God is come near unto you. But into whatsoever city ye shall enter, if they will not receive you, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say, Even the very dust, which cleaveth on us of your city, we wipe off against you: notwithstanding know this, that the kingdom of God was come near unto you. For I say to you, that it shall be easier in that day for them of Sodom, then for that city. Woe be to thee, Chorazin: woe be to thee, Beth-saida: for if the miracles had been done in Tyrus and Sidon, which have been done in you, they had a great while ago repented, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. Therefore it shall be easier for Tyrus, and Sidon, at the judgment, then for you. And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted to heaven, shalt be thrust down to hell. He that heareth you, heareth me: and he that despiseth you, despiseth me: and he that despiseth me, despiseth him that sent me. And the seventy turned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subdued to us through thy Name. And he said unto them, I saw Satan, like lightning, fall down from heaven. Behold, I give unto you power to tread on Serpents, and Scorpions, & over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall hurt you. Nevertheless, in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subdued unto you: but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven. That same hour rejoiced Jesus in the spirit, and said, I confess unto thee, Father, Lord of heaven & earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and understanding, and hast revealed them to babes: even so, Father, because it so pleased thee. All things are given me of my Father: and no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father: neither who the Father is, save the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him. And he turned to his disciples, and said secretly, Blessed are the eyes, which see that ye see. For I tell you that many Prophets and Kings have desired to see those things, which ye see, and have not seen them: and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

Then behold, a certain Lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do, to inherit eternal life? And he said unto him, What is written in the Law? How read thou? And he answered, and said, Thou shalt love thy Lord God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy thought, and thy neighbor as thy self. Then he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live. But he willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, Who is then my neighbor? And Jesus answered, and said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, and they robbed him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. Now so it fell out, that there came down a certain Priest that same way, and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise also a Levite, when he was come near to the place, went and looked on him, and passed by on the other side. Then a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came near unto him, and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, and went to him, & bound up his wounds, and poured in oil and wine, and put him on his own beast, and brought him to an Inn, and made provision for him. And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him, and whatsoever thou spend more, when I come again, I will recompense thee. Which now of these three, think thou, was neighbor unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

Now it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain town, and a certain woman named Martha, received him into her house. And she had a sister called Marie, which also sat at Jesus feet, and heard his preaching. But Martha was cumbered about much serving, and came to him, and said, Master, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her therefore, that she help me. And Jesus answered, and said unto her, Martha, Martha, thou care, and art troubled about many things: But one thing is needful, Marie hath chosen the good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

And so it was, that as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples. And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, Our Father, which art in heaven, hallowed be thy Name: Thy kingdom come: Let thy will be done, even in earth, as it is in heaven: Our daily bread give us for the day: And forgive us our sins: for even we forgive every man that is indebted to us: And lead us not into temptation: but deliver us from evil. Moreover he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go to him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves? For a friend of mine is come out of the way to me, & I have nothing to set before him: And he within should answer, and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed: I cannot rise and give them to thee. I say unto you, Though he would not arise and give him, because he is his friend, yet doubtless because of his importunity, he would rise, and give him as many as he needed. And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and ye shall find: knock, and it shall be opened unto you. For every one that asketh, receiveth: and he that seeketh, findeth: & to him that knocketh, it shall be opened. If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent? Or if he ask an egg, will he give him a scorpion? If ye then which are evil can give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your heavenly Father give the holy Ghost to them, that desire him?

Then he cast out a devil which was dumb: and when the devil was gone out, the dumb spake, and the people wondered. But some of them said, He casteth out devils through Beelzebub the chief of the devils. And others tempted him, seeking of him a sign from heaven. But he knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself, shall be desolate, and an house divided against an house, falleth. So if Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand, because ye say that I cast out devils through Beelzebub? If I through Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? Therefore shall they be your judges. But if I by the finger of God cast out devils, doubtless the kingdom of God is come unto you. When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, the things that he possesseth, are in peace. But when a stronger then he, cometh upon him, and overcometh him: he taketh from him all his armor wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils. He that is not with me is against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth. When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest: and when he findeth none he saith, I will return unto mine house whence I came out. And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits worse than himself: and they enter in, and dwell there: so the last state of that man is worse than the first.

And it came to pass as he said these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, Blessed is the womb that bare thee, & the pappes which thou hast sucked. But he said, Yea, rather blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it. And when the people were gathered thick together, he began to say, This is a wicked generation: they seek a sign, and there shall no sign be given them, but the sign of Jonas the Prophet. For as Jonas was a sign to the Ninivites: so shall also the Son of man be to this generation. The Queen of the South shall rise in judgment, with the men of this generation, and shall condemn them: for she came from the utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold, a greater then Solomon is here. The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonas: and behold a greater then Jonas is here. No man when he hath lighted a candle putteth it in a privy place, neither under a bushel: but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light. The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, then is thy whole body light: but if thine eye be evil, then thy body is dark. Take heed therefore, that the light which is in thee, be not darkness. If therefore thy whole body shall be light, having no part dark, then shall all be light, even as when a candle doth light thee with the brightness.

And as he spake, a certain Pharisee besought him to dine with him: and he went in, and sat down at table. And when the Pharisee saw it, he marveled that he had not first washed before dinner. And the Lord said to him, Indeed the Pharisees make clean the outside of the cup, and of the platter: but the inward part is full of ravening and wickedness. Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without, make that which is within also? Therefore, give alms of those things which you have, and behold, all things shall be clean to you. But woe be to you, Pharisees: for ye tithe the mint and the rue, and all manner herbs, and pass over judgment & the love of God: these ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other undone. Woe be to you, Pharisees: for ye love the uppermost seats in the Synagogues, and greetings in the markets. Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye are as graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them, perceive not. Then answered one of the Lawyers, and said unto him, Master, thus saying thou put us to rebuke also. And he said, Woe be to you also, ye Lawyers: for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye your selves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers. Woe be to you: for ye build the sepulchers of the Prophets, and your fathers killed them. Truly ye bear witness, and allow the deeds of your fathers: for they killed them, and ye build their sepulchers. Therefore said the wisdom of God, I will send them Prophets and Apostles, and of them they shall slay, and persecute away, that the blood of all the Prophets, shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation, from the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, which was slain between the altar and the Temple: verily I say unto you, it shall be required of this generation. Woe be to you, Lawyers: for ye have taken away the key of knowledge: ye entered not in your selves, and them that came in, ye forbade. And as he said these things unto them, the Scribes and Pharisees began to urge him sore, and to provoke him to speak of many things, laying wait for him, and seeking to catch something of his mouth, whereby they might accuse him.

In the mean time there gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, so that they trod one another: and he began to say unto his disciples first, Take heed to your selves of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. For there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed: neither hid, that shall not be known. Wherefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness, it shall be heard in the light: and that which ye have spoken in the ear, in secret places, shall be preached on the houses. And I say unto you, my friends, be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that are not able to do any more. But I will forewarn you, who ye shall fear: fear him which after he hath killed, hath power to cast into hell: yea, I say unto you, him fear. Are not five sparrows bought for two farthings, and yet not one of them is forgotten before God? Yea and all the hairs of your head are numbered: fear not therefore: ye are more of value then many sparrows. Also I say unto you, Whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the Son of man confess also before the Angels of God. But he that shall deny me before men shall be denied before the Angels of God. And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but unto him, that shall blaspheme the holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven. And when they shall bring you unto the Synagogues, and unto the rulers and Princes, take no thought how, or what thing ye shall answer, or what ye shall speak. For the holy Ghost shall teach you in the same hour, what ye ought to say. And one of the company said unto him, Master, bid my brother divide the inheritance with me. And he said unto him, Man, who made me a judge or a divider over you? Wherefore he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for though a man have abundance, yet his life standeth not in his riches. And he put forth a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth fruits plenteously. Therefore he thought with himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room, where I may lay up my fruits? And he said, This will I do, I will pull down my barns, and build greater, and therein will I gather all my fruits, and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years: live at ease, eat, drink and take thy pastime. But God said unto him, O fool, this night will they fetch away thy soul from thee: then whose shall those things be which thou hast provided? So is he that gathereth riches to himself, and is not rich in God. And he spake unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat: neither for your body, what ye shall put on. The life is more than meat: and the body more than the raiment. Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap: which neither have storehouse nor barn, & yet God feedeth them:

how much more are ye better then fouls? And which of you with taking thought, can add to his stature one cubit? If ye then be not able to do the least thing, why take ye thought for the remnant? Consider the lilies how they grow: they labor not, neither spin they: yet I say unto you, that Solomon himself in all his royalty was not clothed like one of these. If then God so clothe the grass which is today in the field, and tomorrow is cast into the oven, how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith? Therefore ask not what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, neither hag you in suspense. For all such things the people of the world seek for: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things. But rather seek ye after the kingdom of God, and all these things shall be cast upon you. Fear not, little flock: for it is your Fathers pleasure, to give you the kingdom. Sell that ye have, and give alms: make you bags, which wax not old, a treasure that can never fail in heaven, where no thief cometh, neither moth corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there will your hearts be also.

Let your loins be gird about and your lights burning, and ye your selves like unto men that wait for their master, when he will return from the wedding, that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately. Blessed are those servants, whom the Lord when he cometh shall find waking: verily I say unto you, he will gird himself about, and make them to sit down at table, and will come forth, and serve them. And if he come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and shall find them so, blessed are those servants. Now understand this that if the good man of the house had known at what hour the thief would have come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be digged through. Be ye also prepared therefore: for the Son of man will come at an hour when ye think not. Then Peter said unto him, Master, tell thou this parable unto us, or even to all? And the Lord said, Who is a faithful steward and wise, whom the master shall make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of meat in season? Blessed is that servant, whom his master when he cometh, shall find so doing. Of a truth I say unto you, that he will make him ruler over all that he hath. But if that servant say in his heart, My master doth defer his coming, and begin to smite the servants, and maidens, and to eat, and drink, and to be drunken, the master of that servant will come in a day when he thinketh not, and at an hour when he is not aware of, and will cut him off, and give him his portion with the unbelievers. And that servant that knew his masters will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes. But he that knew it not, and yet did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes: for unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required, and to whom men much commit, the more of him will they ask. I am come to put fire on the earth, and what is my desire, if it be already kindled? Notwithstanding I must be baptized with a baptism, & how am I grieved, till it be end? Think ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, nay, but rather debate. For from henceforth there shall be five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three. The father shall be divided against the son, and the son against the father: the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother: the mother in law against her daughter in law, and the daughter in law against her mother in law. Then said he to the people, When ye see a cloud rise out of the West, straightway ye say, A shower cometh: and so it is. And when ye see the South wind blow, ye say, that it will be hot: & it cometh to pass. Hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the earth, and of the sky: but why discern ye not this time? Yea and why judge ye not of your selves what is right? While thou go with thine adversary to the ruler, as thou art in the way, give diligence in the way, that thou may be delivered from him, lest he draw thee to the judge, and the judge deliver them to the jailer, and the jailer cast the into prison. I tell them, thou shalt not depart thence, till thou hast paid the utmost mite.

There were certain men present at the same season, that shewed him of the Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Suppose ye that these Galileans were greater sinners then all the other Galileans, because they have suffered such things? I tell you, nay: but except ye amend your lives, ye shall all likewise perish. Or think you that those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, were sinners above all men that dwell in Jerusalem? I tell you, nay: but except ye amend your lives, ye shall all likewise perish. He spake also this parable, A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard: and he came & sought fruit thereon, & found none. Then said he to the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, this three years have I come and sought fruit of this fig tree, and find none: cut it down: why keepeth it also the ground barren? And he answered, and said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I dig round about it, and dung it. And if it bear fruit, well: if not, then after thou shalt cut it down.

And he taught in one of the Synagogues on the Sabbath day. And behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could not lift up herself in any wise. When Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said to her, Woman, thou art loosed from thy disease. And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight again, and glorified God. And the ruler of the Synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus healed on the Sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the Sabbath day. Then answered him the Lord, and said, Hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the Sabbath day loose his ox or his ass from the stall, & lead him away to the water? And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, lo, eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath day? And when he said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: but all the people rejoiced at all the excellent things that were done by him. Then said he, What is the kingdom of God like? Or whereto shall I compare it? It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took & sowed in his garden, and it grew, and waxed a great tree, and the fowls of the heaven made nests in the branches thereof. And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? It is like leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three pecks of flour, till all was leavened.

And he went through all cities and towns, teaching, and journeying towards Jerusalem. Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that shall be saved? And he said unto them; Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. When the good man of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us, and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are, then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets. But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are: depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth when ye shall see Abraham and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the Prophets in the kingdom of God, and your selves thrust out at doors. Then shall come many from the East, and from the West, and from the North, and from the South, and shall sit at Table in the kingdom of God. And behold, there are last, which shall be first, and there are first, which shall be last. The same day there came certain Pharisees, and said unto him, Depart and go hence: for Herod will kill thee. Then said he unto them, Go ye and tell that fox, Behold, I cast out devils, and will heal still today, and tomorrow, and the third day I shall be perfected. Nevertheless I must walk today, and tomorrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a Prophet should perish out of Jerusalem. O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which kill the Prophets, and stone them that are sent to thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, as the hen gathereth her brood under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate: and verily I tell you, ye shall not see me until the time come that ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord.

And it came to pass that when he was entered into the house of one of the chief Pharisees on the Sabbath day, to eat bread, they watched him. And behold, there was a certain man before him, which had the dropsy. Then Jesus answering, spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath day? And they held their peace. Then he took him, and healed him, and let him go, and answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass, or an ox fallen into a pit, & will not straightway pull him out on the Sabbath day? And they could not answer him again to those things. He spake also a parable to the guests, when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms, and said unto them, When thou shalt be bidden of any man to a wedding, set not thy self down in the chief place, lest a more honorable man than thou, be bidden of him, and he that bade both him & the, come, and say to thee, Give this man room, and thou then begin with shame to take the lowest room. But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room, that when he that bade thee, cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, sit up here: then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at table with thee. For whosoever exalteth himself, shall be brought low, and he that humbleth himself, shall be exalted. Then said he also to him that had bidden him, When thou make a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor ye rich neighbors, lest they also bid thee again, & a recompense be made thee. But when thou make a feast, call ye poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind, and thou shalt be blessed, because they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just. Now when one of them that sat at table, heard these things, he said unto him, Blessed is he that eateth bread in the kingdom of God. Then said he to him, A certain man made a great supper, and bade many, and sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come: for all things are now ready. But they all with one mind began to make excuse: The first said unto him, I have bought a farm, and I must needs go out and see it: I pray thee, have me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee, have me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. So that servant returned, and shewed his master these things. Then was the good man of the house angry, and said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind. And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room. Then the master said to the servant, Go out into the high ways, and hedges, and compel them to come in, that mine house may be filled. For I say unto you, that none of those men which were bidden, shall taste of my supper.

Now there went great multitudes with him, and he turned and said unto them, if any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters: yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. And whosoever berth not his cross, and cometh after me, cannot be my disciple. For which of you minding to build a tower, sitteth not down before, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to perform it, lest that after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to perform it, all that behold it, begin to mock him, saying, This man began to build, and was not able to make an end? Or what King going to make war against another King, sitteth not down first, and taketh counsel, whether he be able with ten thousand, to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand? Or else while he is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassage, and desireth peace. So likewise, whosoever he be of you, that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple. Salt is good: but if salt have lost his savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is neither mete for the land, nor yet for the dunghill, but men cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

Then resorted unto him all the Publicans and sinners, to hear him. Therefore the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying, He receiveth sinners, and eateth with them. Then spake he this parable to them, saying, What man of you having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders with joy. And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbors, saying unto them, Rejoice with me: for I have found my sheep which was lost. I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven for one sinner that converteth, more than for ninety and nine just men, which need none amendment of life. Either what woman having ten groates, if she lose one groate, doth not light a candle, & sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it? And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends, and neighbors, saying, Rejoice with me: for I have found the groate which I had lost. Likewise I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the Angels of God, for one sinner that converteth. He said moreover, A certain man had two sons. And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of the goods that falleth to me. So he divided unto them his substance. So not many days after, when the younger son had gathered all together, he took his journey into a far country, and there he wasted his goods with riotous living. Now when he had spent all, there arose a great dearth throughout that land, and he began to be in necessity. Then he went and clave to a citizen of that country, and he sent him to his farm, to feed swine. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine ate: but no man gave them him. Then he came to himself, & said, How many hired servants at my fathers have bread enough, and I die for hunger? I will rise and go to my father, and say unto him, Father; I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants. So he arose and came to his father, and when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran and fell on his neck, and kissed him. And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. Then the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet, and bring the fat calf, and kill him, & let us eat, and be merry: for this my son was dead, and is alive again: and he was lost, but he is found; they began to be merry. Now the elder brother was in the field, and when he came and drew near to the house, he heard melody, and dancing, and called one of his servants, and asked what those things meant. And he said unto him, Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound. Then he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out and entreated him. But he answered & said to his father, Lo, these many years have I done thee service, neither brake I at any time thy commandment, and yet thou never gave me a kid that I might make merry with my friends. But when this thy son was come, which hath devoured thy good with harlots, thou hast for his sake killed the fat calf. And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have, is thine. It was mete that we should make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again: and he was lost, but he is found.

And he said also unto his disciples, There was a certain rich man, which had a steward, and he was accused unto him, that he wasted his goods. And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? Give an accounts of thy stewardship: for thou may be no longer steward. Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my master taketh away from me the stewardship. I cannot dig, and to beg I am ashamed. I know what I will do, that when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses. Then called he unto him every one of his masters debtors, & said unto the first, How much owe thou unto my master? And he said, An hundred measures of oil; he said to him, Take thy writing, and sit down quickly, and write fifty. Then said he to another, How much owe thou? And he said, An hundred measures of wheat. Then he said to him, Take thy writing, and write four score. And the Lord commend the unjust steward, because he had done wisely. Wherefore the children of this world are in their generation wiser then the children of light. And I say unto you, Make you friends with the riches of iniquity, that when ye shall want, they may receive you into everlasting habitations. He that is faithful in the least, he is also faithful in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much. If then ye have not been faithful in the wicked riches, who will trust you in the true treasure? And if ye have not been faithful in another man's goods, who shall give you that which is yours? No servant can serve two masters: for either he shall hate the one, and love the other: or else he shall lean to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and riches. All these things heard the Pharisees also which were covetous, and they scoffed at him. Then he said unto them, Ye are they, which justify your selves before men: but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly esteemed among men, is abomination in the sight of God. The Law and the Prophets endured until John: and since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it. Now it is more easy that heaven and earth should pass away, then that one title of the Law should fall. Whosoever putteth away his wife, and marieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marieth her that is put away from her husband, committeth adultery.

There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared well and delicately every day. Also there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate full of sores, and desired to be refreshed with the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table: yea, and the dogs came and licked his sores. And it was so that the beggar died, and was carried by the Angels into Abraham's bosom. The rich man also died, and was buried. And being in hell in torments, he lift up his eyes, and saw Abraham a far off, and Lazarus in his bosom. Then he cried, and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, & cool my tongue: for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy life time receive thy pleasures, and likewise Lazarus pains: now therefore is he comforted, and thou art tormented. Besides all this, between you & us there is a great gulf set, so that they which would go from hence to you, cannot: neither can they come from thence to us. Then he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou would send him to my father's house, (For I have five brethren) that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment. Abraham said unto him, They have Moses and the Prophets: let them hear them. And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one came unto them from the dead, they will amend their lives. Then he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the Prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rise from the dead again.

Then said he to his disciples, It cannot be avoided, but that offences will come, but woe be to him by whom they come. It is better for him that a great millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were cast into the sea, then that he should offend one of these little ones. Take heed to your selves: if thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him: and if he repent, forgive him. And though he sin against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, It repenteth me, thou shalt forgive him. And the Apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith. And the Lord said, If ye had faith, as much as is a grain of mustard seed, and should say unto this mulberry tree, Pluck thy self up by the roots, and plant thy self in the sea, it should even obey you. Who is it also of you, that having a servant plowing or feeding cattle, would say unto him by and by, when he were come from the field, Go, and sit down at table? And would not rather say to him, Dress wherewith I may sup, and gird thy self, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken, and afterward eat thou, and drink thou? Doth he thank that servant, because he did that which was commanded unto him? I trow not. So likewise ye, when ye have done all those things, which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

And so it was when he went to Jerusalem that he passed through the midst of Samaria, and Galilee. And as he entered into a certain town, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood a far off. And they lift up their voices and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us. And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go, shew your selves unto the Priests; it came to pass, that as they went, they were cleansed. Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice praised God, and fell down on his face at his feet, and gave him thanks: and he was a Samaritan. And Jesus answered, and said, Are there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine? There is none found that returned to give God praise, save this stranger. And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way, thy faith hath saved thee.

And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them, and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with observation. Neither shall men say, Lo here, or lo there: for behold, the kingdom of God is within you. And he said unto the disciples, The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it. Then they shall say to you, Behold here, or behold there: but go not thither, neither follow them. For as the lightning that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven, so shall the Son of man be in his day. But first must he suffer many things, and be reprov'd of this generation. And as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be in the days of the Son of man. They ate, they drank, they married wives, and gave in marriage unto the day that Noah went into the Ark: and the flood came, and destroyed them all. Likewise also, as it was in the days of Lot: they ate, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they built. But in the day that Lot went out of Sodom, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all. After these ensamples shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed. At that day he that is upon the house, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it out: and he that is in the field likewise, let him not turn back to that he left behind. Remember Lots wife. Whosoever will seek to save his soul, shall loose it: and whosoever shall lose it, shall get it life. I tell you, in that night there shall be two in one bed: the one shall be received, and the other shall be left. Two women shall be grinding together: the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left. Two shall be in the field: one shall be received, and another shall be left. And they answered, and said to him, Where, Lord? And he said unto them, Wheresoever the body is, thither shall also the eagles be gathered together. And he spake also a parable unto them, to this end, that they ought always to pray, and not to wax faint, saying, There was a judge in a certain city, which feared not God, neither revered man. And there was a widow in that city, which came unto him, saying, Do me justice against mine adversary. And he would not of a long time: but afterward he said with himself, Though I fear not God, nor reverence man, yet because this widow troubleth me, I will do her right, lest at the last she come and make me weary. And the Lord said, Hear what the unrighteous judge saith. Now shall not God avenge his elect, which cry day and night unto him, yea, though he suffer long for them? I tell you he will avenge them quickly: but when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?

He spake also this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that they were just, and despised other. Two men went up into the Temple to pray: the one a Pharisee, and the other a Publican. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, O God, I thank thee that I am not as other men, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this Publican. I fast twice in the week: I give tithe of all that ever I possess. But the Publican standing a far off, would not lift up so much as his eyes to heaven, but smote his breast, saying, O

God, be merciful to me a sinner. I tell you, this man departed to his house justified, rather than the other: for every man that exalteth himself, shall be brought low, and he that humbleth himself, shall be exalted.

They brought unto him also babes that he should touch them. And when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them. But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer the babes to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, whosoever receiveth not the kingdom of God as a babe, he shall not enter therein. Then a certain ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what ought I to do, to inherit eternal life? And Jesus said unto him, Why call thou me good? none is good, save one, even God. Thou know the commandments, Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not kill: Thou shalt not steal: Thou shalt not bear false witness: Honor thy father and thy mother. And he said, All these have I kept from my youth. Now when Jesus heard that, he said unto him, Yet lack thou one thing. Sell all that ever thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come follow me. But when he heard those things, he was very heavy: for he was marvelous rich. And when Jesus saw him very sorrowful, he said, With what difficulty shall they that have riches, enter into the kingdom of God! Surely it is easier for a camel to go through a needles eye, then for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. Then said they that heard it, And who then can be saved? And he said, The things which are impossible with men, are possible with God. Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and have followed thee. And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, there is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children for the kingdom of God's sake, which shall not receive much more in this world, and in the world to come life everlasting.

Then Jesus took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things shall be fulfilled to the Son of man that are written by the Prophets. For he shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and shall be spitefully entreated, and shall be spitted on. And when they have scourged him, they will put him to death: but the third day he shall rise again. But they understood none of these things, and this saying was hid from them, neither perceived they the things, which were spoken. And it came to pass, that as he was come near unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side, begging. And when he heard the people pass by, he asked what it meant. And they said unto him, that Jesus of Nazareth passed by. Then he cried, saying, Jesus the Son of David, have mercy on me. And they which went before, rebuked him that he should hold his peace, but he cried much more, O Son of David, have mercy on me. And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be brought unto him; when he was come near, he asked him, saying, What wilt thou that I do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight. And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee. Then immediately he received his sight, and followed him, praising God:

and all the people, when they saw this, gave praise to God. Now when Jesus entered and passed through Jericho, behold, there was a man named Zaccheus, which was the chief receiver of the tribute, and he was rich. And he sought to see Jesus, who he should be, and could not for the press, because he was of a low stature. Wherefore he ran before, and climbed up into a wild fig tree, that he might see him: for he should come that way. And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zaccheus, come down at once: for today I must abide at thine house. Then he came down hastily, and received him joyfully. And when all they saw it, they murmured, saying, that he was gone in to lodge with a sinful man. And Zaccheus stood forth, & said unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor: and if I have taken from any man by forged cavillation, I restore him four fold. Then Jesus said to him, This day is salvation come unto this house, forasmuch as he is also become the son of Abraham. For the Son of man is come to seek, and to save that which was lost. And whiles they heard these things, he continued and spake a parable, because he was near to Jerusalem, & because also they thought that the kingdom of God should shortly appear. He said therefore, A certain noble man went into a far country, to receive for himself a kingdom, and so to come again. And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pieces of money, and said unto them, Occupy till I come. Now his citizens hated him, and sent an ambassage after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us. And it came to pass, when he was come again, and had received his kingdom, that he commanded the servants to be called to him, to whom he gave his money, that he might know what every man had gained. Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy piece hath increased ten pieces. And he said unto him, Well, good servant: because thou hast been faithful in a very little thing, take thou authority over ten cities. And the second came, saying, Lord, thy piece hath increased five pieces. And to the same he said, Be thou also ruler over five cities. So the other came, & said, Lord, behold thy piece, which I have laid up in a napkin: for I feared thee, because thou art a straight man: thou take up, that thou laid not down, and reap that thou did not sow. Then he said unto him, Of thine own mouth will I judge thee, O evil servant. Thou knew that I am a straight man, taking up that I laid not down, & reaping that I did not sow. Wherefore then gave not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required it with vantage? And he said to them that stood by, Take from him that piece, and give it him that hath ten pieces. (And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pieces.) For I say unto you, that unto all them that have, it shall be given: and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken from him. Moreover, those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me. And when he had thus spoken, he went forth before, ascending up to Jerusalem.

And it came to pass, when he was come near to Bethphage, and Bethania, besides the mount which is called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples, saying, Go ye to the town which is before you, wherein, as soon as ye are come, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither. And if any man ask you, why ye loose him, thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him. So they that were sent, went their way, and found it as he had said unto them. And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt? And they said; The Lord hath need of him. So they brought him to Jesus, and they cast their garments on the colt, and set Jesus thereon. And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way. And when he was now come near to the going down of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice, and to praise God with a loud voice, for all the great works that they had seen, saying, Blessed be the King that cometh in the Name of the Lord: peace in heaven, and glory in the highest places. Then some of the Pharisees of the company said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples. But he answered, and said unto them, I tell you, that if these should hold their peace, the stones would cry. And when he was come near, he beheld the City, and wept for it, saying, O if thou had even known at the least in this thy day those things, which belong unto thy peace! but now are they hid from thine eyes. For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, and shall make thee even with the ground, and thy children which are in thee, and they shall not leave in thee a stone upon a stone, because thou knewest not that season of thy visitation. He went also into the Temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought, saying unto them, It is written, Mine house is the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves. And he taught daily in the Temple; the high Priests and the Scribes, and the chief of the people sought to destroy him. But they could not find what they might do to him: for all the people hanged upon him when they heard him.

And it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he taught the people in the Temple, and preached the Gospel, the high Priests and the Scribes came upon him with the Elders, and spake unto him, saying, Tell us by what authority thou dost these things, or who is he that hath given thee this authority? And he answered, and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing: tell me therefore: the baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men? And they reasoned within themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven, he will say, Why then believed ye him not? But if we shall say, Of men, all the people will stone us: for they be persuaded that John was a Prophet. Therefore they answered, that they could not tell whence it was. Then Jesus said unto them, Neither tell I you, by what authority I do these things. Then began he to speak to the people this parable, A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen: and went into a strange country, for a great time. And at the time convenient he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard: but the husbandmen did beat him, & sent him away empty. Again he sent yet another servant: and they did beat him, and foul entreated him, and sent him away empty. Moreover he sent the third, and him they wounded, and cast out. Then said the Lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will send my beloved son: it may be that they will do reverence, when they see him. But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned with themselves, saying, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours. So they cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What shall the Lord of the vineyard therefore do unto them? He will come and destroy these husbandmen, and will give out his vineyard to others. But when they heard it, they said, God forbid. And he beheld them, & said, What meaneth this then that is written, The stone that the builders refused, that is made the head of the corner? Whosoever shall fall upon that stone shall be broken: and on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder. Then the high Priests and the Scribes the same hour went about to lay hands on him: (but they feared the people) for they perceived that he had spoken this parable against them. And they watched him, and sent forth spies, which should fain themselves just men, to take him in his talk, and to deliver him unto the power and authority of the governor. And they asked him, saying, Master, we know that thou say, and teach right, neither dost thou accept mans person, but teach the way of God truly. Is it lawful for us to give Cesar tribute or no? But he perceived their craftiness, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me? Shew me a penny. Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered, and said, Cesar's. Then he said unto them, Give then unto Cesar the things which are Cesar's, and to God those which are God's. And they could not reprove his saying before the people: but they marveled at his answer, and held their peace. Then came to him certain of the Sadducees (which deny that there is any resurrection) and they asked him, saying, Master, Moses wrote unto us, If any man's brother die having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother. Now there were seven brethren, & the first took a wife, and he died without children. And the second took the wife, and he died childless. Then the third took her: and so likewise the seven died, and left no children. And last of all, the woman died also. Therefore at the resurrection, whose wife of them shall she be? For seven had her to wife. Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, The children of this world marry wives, and are married. But they which shall be counted worthy to enjoy that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry wives, neither are married. For they can die no more, forasmuch as they are equal unto the Angels, & are the sons of God, since they are the children of the resurrection. And that the dead shall rise again, even Moses shewed it besides the bush, when he said, The Lord is the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. For he is not the God of the dead, but of them which live: for all live unto him. Then certain of the Scribes answered, and said, Master, thou hast well said. And after that, durst they not ask him anything at all. Then said he unto them, How say they that Christ is David's son? And David himself saith in the book of the Psalms, The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I shall make thine enemies thy footstool. Seeing David called him Lord, how is he then his son? Then in the audience of all the people he said unto his disciples, Beware of the Scribes, which willingly go in long robes, and love salutations in the markets, and the highest seats in the assemblies, and the chief rooms at feasts: which devour widow's houses, and in shew make long prayers: These shall receive greater damnation. And as he beheld, he saw the rich men, which cast their gifts into the treasury. And he saw also a certain poor widow which cast in thither two mites: and he said, Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all. For they all have of their superfluity cast into the offerings of God: but she of her penury hath cast in all the living that she had.

Now as some spake of the Temple, how it was garnished with goodly stones, & with consecrate things, he said, Are these the things that ye look upon? the days will come wherein a stone shall not be left upon a stone, that shall not be thrown down. Then they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what sign shall there be when these things shall come to pass? And he said, Take heed, that ye be not deceived: for many will come in my Name, saying, I am Christ, and the time draweth near: follow ye not them therefore. And when ye hear of wars and seditions, be not afraid: for these things must first come, but the end followeth not by and by. Then said he unto them, Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and great earthquakes shall be in divers places, and hunger, and pestilence, and fearful things, & great signs shall there be from heaven. But before all these, they shall lay their hands on you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the assemblies, and into prisons, and bring you before Kings and rulers for my Names sake. And this shall turn to you, for a testimonial. Lay it up therefore in your hearts that ye cast not before hand, what ye shall answer. For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, where against all your adversaries shall not be able to speak, nor resist. Yea, ye shall be betrayed also of your parents, and of your brethren, and kinsmen, and friends, and some of you shall they put to death. And ye shall be hated of all men for my Name's sake. Yet there shall not one hear of your heads perish. By your patience possess your souls. And when ye see Jerusalem besieged with soldiers, then understand that the desolation thereof is near. Then let them which are in Judea, flee to the mountains: and let them which are in the midst thereof, depart out: and let not them that are in the country, enter therein. For these be the days of vengeance, to fulfill all things that are written. But woe be to them that be with child, and to them that give suck in those days: for there shall be great distress in this land, and wrath over this people. And they shall fall on the edge of the sword, and shall be led captive into all nations, and Jerusalem shall be trodden under foot of the Gentiles, until the time of the Gentiles be fulfilled. Then there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars, and upon the earth trouble among the nations with perplexity: the sea and the waters shall roar. And men's hearts shall fail them for fear, and for looking after those things which shall come on the world: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of man come in a cloud, with power and great glory. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads: for your redemption draweth near. And he spake to them a parable, Behold, the fig tree, and all trees, when they now shoot forth, ye seeing them, know of your own selves, that summer is then near. So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is near. Verily I say unto you, This age shall not pass, till all these things be done: heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away. Take heed to your selves, lest at any time your hearts be oppressed with surfeiting and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and lest that day come on you at unawares. For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth. Watch therefore, and pray continually, that ye may be counted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and that ye may stand before the Son of man. Now in the day time he taught in the Temple, and at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the mount of Olives. And all the people came in the morning to him, to hear him in the Temple.

Now the feast of unleavened bread drew near, which is called the Passover. And the high Priests and Scribes sought how they might kill him: for they feared the people. Then entered Satan into Judas, who was called Iscariot, and was of the number of the twelve. And he went his way, and communed with the high Priests and captains, how he might betray him to them. So they were glad, and agreed to give him money. And he consented, and sought opportunity to betray him unto them, when the people were away. Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the Passover must be sacrificed. And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the Passover that we may eat it. And they said to him, Where wilt thou, that we prepare it? Then he said unto them, Behold, when ye be entered into the city, there shall a man mete you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him into the house that he entereth in, and say unto the good man of the house, The Master saith unto thee, Where is the lodging where I shall eat my Passover with my disciples? Then he shall shew you a great high chamber trimmed: there make it ready. So they went, and found as he had said unto them, and made ready the Passover. And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve Apostles with him. Then he said unto them, I have earnestly desired to eat this Passover with you, before I suffer. For I say unto you, Henceforth I will not eat of it any more, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among you, for I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God be come. And he took bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave to them, saying, This is my body, which is given for you: do this in the remembrance of me. Likewise also after supper he took the cup, saying, This cup is that new Testament in my blood, which is shed for you. Yet behold the hand of him that betrayeth me, is with me at the table. And truly the Son of man goeth as it is appointed: but woe be to that man, by whom he is betrayed. Then they began to enquire among themselves which of them it should be, that should do that. And there arose also a strife among them, which of them should seem to be the greatest. But he said unto them, The Kings of the Gentiles reign over them, and they that bear rule over them, are called bountiful. But ye shall not be so: but let the greatest among you be as the least: and the chiefest as he that serveth. For who is greater, he that sitteth at table, or he that serveth? Is not he that sitteth at table? And I am among you as he that serveth. And ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations. Therefore I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me that ye may eat, and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on seats, and judge the twelve tribes of Israel. And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired you, to winnow you as wheat. But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: therefore when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren. And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee into prison, and to death. But he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before thou hast thrice denied that thou knewest me. And he said unto them, When I sent you without bag, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye anything? And they said, Nothing. Then he said to them, But now he that hath a bag, let him take it, and likewise a scrip: and he that hath none, let him sell his coat, and buy a sword. For I say unto you, That yet the same which is written, must be performed in me, Even with the wicked was he numbered: for doubtless those things which are written of me, have an end. And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords; he said unto them, It is enough.

And he came out, and went (as he was wont) to the mount of Olives: and his disciples also followed him. And when he came to the place, he said to them, Pray, lest ye enter into temptation. And he was drawn aside from them about a stones cast, & kneeled down, and prayed, saying, Father, if thou wilt, take away this cup from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done. And there appeared an Angel unto him from heaven, comforting him. But being in an agony, he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was like drops of blood, trickling down to the ground. And he rose up from prayer, and came to his disciples, & found them sleeping for heaviness. And he said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation. And while he yet spake, behold, a company, and he that was called Judas one of the twelve, went before them, and came near unto Jesus to kiss him. And Jesus said unto him, Judas, betray thou the Son of man with a kiss? Now when they which were about him, saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with sword? And one of them smote a servant of the high Priest, and stroke off his right ear. Then Jesus answered, and said, Suffer them thus far: and he touched his ear, & healed him. Then Jesus said unto the high Priests, and captains of the Temple, and the Elders which were come to him, Be ye come out as unto a thief with swords and staves? When I was daily with you in the Temple, ye stretched not forth the hands against me: but this is your very hour, and the power of darkness.

Then took they him, and led him, and brought him to the high Priests house. And Peter followed afar off. And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter also sat down among them. And a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and having well looked on him, said, This man was also with him. But he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not. And after a little while, another man saw him, and said; Thou art also of them. But Peter said, Man, I am not. And about the space of an hour after, a certain other affirmed, saying. Verily even this man was with him: for he is also a Galilean. And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou say; immediately while he yet spake, the cock crew. Then the Lord turned back, and looked upon Peter: and Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And Peter went out, and wept bitterly. And the men that held Jesus, mocked him, and stroke him. And when they had blindfold him, they smote him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophecy who it is that smote thee. And many other things blasphemously spake they against him. And as soon as it was day, the Elders of the people, and the high Priests and the Scribes came together, and led him into their council, saying, Art thou that Christ? tell us; he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe it. And if also I ask you, you will not answer me, nor let me go. Hereafter shall the Son of man sit at the right hand of the power of God. Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said to them, Ye say, that I am. Then said they, What need we any further witness? for we our selves have heard it of his own mouth.

Then the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate. And they began to accuse him, saying, We have found this man perverting the nation, and forbidding to pay tribute to Cesar, saying, That he is Christ a King. And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answered him, and said, Thou say it. Then said Pilate to the high Priests, and to the people, I find no fault in this man. But they were the more fierce, saying, He mouth the people, teaching throughout all Judea, beginning at Galilee, even to this place. Now when Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilean. And when he knew that he was of Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, which was also at Jerusalem in those days. And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceedingly glad: for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him, and trusted to have seen some sign done by him. Then questioned he with him of many things: but he answered him nothing. The high Priests also & Scribes stood forth, and accused him vehemently. And Herod with his men of war, despised him, and mocked him, and arrayed him in white, and sent him again to Pilate. And the same day Pilate and Herod were made friends together: for before they were enemies one to another.

Then Pilate called together the high Priests and the rulers, and the people, and said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverted the people: and behold, I have examined him before you, and have found no fault in this man, of those things whereof ye accuse him: no, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him: and lo, nothing worthy of death is done of him. I will therefore chastise him, and let him loose. (For of necessity he must have let one loose unto them at the feast.) Then all the multitude cried at once, saying, Away with him, and deliver unto us Barabbas: which for a certain insurrection made in the city, and murder, was cast in prison. Then Pilate spake again to them, willing to let Jesus loose. But they cried, saying, Crucify, crucify him. And he said unto them the third time, But what evil hath he done? I find no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him loose. But they were instant with loud voices, and required that he might be crucified: and the voices of them and of the high Priests prevailed. So Pilate gave sentence that it should be as they required. And he let loose unto them him that for insurrection and murder was cast into prison, whom they desired, and delivered Jesus to do with him what they would. And as they led him away, they caught one Simon of Cyrene, coming out of the field, and on him they laid the cross, to bear it after Jesus. And there followed him a great multitude of people, and of women, which women bewailed and lamented him. But Jesus turned back unto them, & said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for your selves, and for your children. For behold, the days will come, when men shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the pappes which never gave suck. Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us: and to the hills, Cover us. For if they do these things to a green tree, what shall be done to the dry? And there were two others, which were evil doers, led with him to be slain. And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the evil doers: one at the right hand, and the other at the left. Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them: for they know not what they do; they parted his raiment, and cast lots. And the people stood, and beheld: and the rulers mocked him with them, saying, He saved others: let him save himself, if he be that Christ, the Chosen of God. The soldiers also mocked him, and came and offered him vinegar, and said, If thou be the King of the Jews, save thy self. And a superscription was also written over him, in Greek letters, and in Latin, and in Hebrew, This is that King of The Jews. And one of the evil doers, which were hanged, railed on him, saying, If thou be that Christ, save thy self and us. But the other answered, and rebuked him, saying, Fear thou not God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? We are indeed righteously here: for we receive things worthy of that we have done: but this man hath done nothing amiss. And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me, when thou come into thy kingdom. Then Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto the, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise.

And it was about the sixth hour: and there was a darkness over all the land, until the ninth hour. And the Sun was darkened, and the veil of the Temple rent through the midst. And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and said, Father, into thine hands I commend my spirit; when he thus had said, he gave up the ghost. Now when the Centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Of a surety this man was just. And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things, which were done, smote their breasts, and returned. And all his acquaintance stood a far off, and the women that followed him from Galilee, beholding these things.

And behold, there was a man named Joseph, which was a counselor, a good man and a just. He did not consent to the counsel and deed of them, which was of Arimathea, a city of the Jews: who also himself waited for the kingdom of God. He went unto Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus, and took it down, & wrapped it in a linen cloth, and laid it in a tomb hewn out of a rock, wherein was never man yet laid. And that day was the preparation, and the Sabbath drew on. And the women also that followed after, which came with him from Galilee, beheld the sepulcher, and how his body was laid. And they returned and prepared odors, and ointments, and rested the Sabbath day according to the commandment.

Now the first day of the week early in the morning, they came unto the sepulcher, and brought the odors, which they had prepared, and certain women with them. And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulcher, and went in, but found not the body of the Lord Jesus. And it came to pass, that as they were amazed thereat, behold, two men suddenly stood by them in shining vestures. And as they were afraid, & bowed down their faces to the earth, they said to them, Why seek ye him that liveth, among the dead? He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you, when he was yet in Galilee, saying, that the son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again. And they remembered his words, and returned from the sepulcher, & told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the remnant. Now it was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women with them, which told these things unto the Apostles. But their words seemed unto them, as a fained thing, neither believed they them. Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulcher, & looked in, & saw the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

And behold, two of them went that same day to a town which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs, called Emmaus. And they talked together of all these things that were done. And it came to pass, as they communed together, and reasoned; that Jesus himself drew near, and went with them. But their eyes were holden, that they could not know him. And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another as ye walk and are sad? And the one (named Cleopas) answered, and said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, & hast not known the things which are come to pass therein in these days? And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Of Jesus of Nazareth, which was a Prophet, mighty in deed and in word before God, and all people, and how the high Priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him. But we trusted that it had been he that should have delivered Israel, and as touching all these things, today is the third day, that they were done. Yea, & certain women among us made us astonished, which came early unto the sepulcher. And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of Angels, which said, that he was alive. Therefore certain of them which were with us, went to the sepulcher, and found it even so as the women had said, but him they saw not. Then he said unto them, O fools and slow of heart to believe all that the Prophets have spoken! Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory? And he began at Moses, & at all the Prophets, and interpreted unto them in all the Scriptures the things which were written of him. And they drew near unto the town, which they went to, but he made as though he would have gone further. But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is towards night, & the day is far spent. So he went in to tarry with them. And it came to pass, as he sat at table with them, he took the bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave it to them. Then their eyes were opened, and they knew him: and he was no more seen of them. And they said between themselves, Did not our hearts burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and when he opened to us the Scriptures? And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the Eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, which said, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon. Then they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in breaking of bread. And as they spake these things, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and said unto them, Peace be to you. But they were abashed and afraid, supposing that they had seen a spirit. Then he said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do doubts arise in your hearts? Behold mine hands and my feet: for it is I myself: handle me, and see: for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have. And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hands and feet. And while they yet believed not for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have ye here any meat? And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honey comb, and he took it, and did eat before them. And he said unto them, These are the words, which I spake unto you while I was yet with you, that all must be fulfilled which are written of me in the Law of Moses, and in the Prophets, and in the Psalms. Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures, and said unto them, Thus is it written, and thus it behooved Christ to suffer, and to rise again from the dead the third day, and that repentance, and remission of sins should be preached in his Name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. Now ye are witnesses of these things. And behold, I do send the promises of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high. Afterward he led them out into Bethania, and lift up his hands, and blessed them. And it came to pass, that as he blessed them, he departed from them, and was carried up into heaven. And they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy, and were continually in the Temple, praising, and lauding God, Amen.

In the beginning was that Word, and that Word was with God, and that Word was God. This same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by it, and without it was made nothing that was made. In it was life, and that life was the light of men. And that light shineth in the darkness, and the darkness comprehended it not.

There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. This same came for a witness, to bear witness of that light that all men through him might believe. He was not that light, but was sent to bear witness of that light. This was that true light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. He was in the world, and the world was made by him: and the world knew him not. He came unto his own, and his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them he gave prerogative to be the sons of God, even to them that believe in his Name. Which are born not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God. And that Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we saw the glory thereof, as the glory of the only begotten Son of the Father) full of grace and truth. John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I said, He that cometh after me, was before me: for he was better than I. And of his fullness have all we received, and grace for grace. For the Law was given by Moses, but grace, and truth came by Jesus Christ. No man hath seen God at any time: that only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him. Then this is the record of John, when the Jews sent Priests and Levites from Jerusalem, to ask him, Who art thou?

And he confessed and denied not, and said plainly, I am not that Christ. And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he said, I am not. Art thou that Prophet? And he answered, No. Then said they unto him, Who art thou, that we may give an answer to them that sent us? What say thou of thy self? He said, I am the voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the Prophet Esaias. Now they which were sent were of the Pharisees. And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptize thou then, if thou be not that Christ, neither Elias, nor that Prophet? answered them, saying, I baptize with water: but there is one among you, whom ye know not. He it is that cometh after me, which was before me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthy to unloose. These things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where did baptize. The next day John, seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold that Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man, which was before me: for he was better then I. And I knew him not: but because he should be declared to Israel, therefore am I come, baptizing with water. So bare record, saying, I beheld that Spirit come down from heaven, like a dove, and it abode upon him, and I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, he said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see that Spirit come down, and tarry still on him, that is he which baptizeth with the holy Ghost. And I saw, and bare record that this is that Son of God.

The next day, stood again, and two of his disciples. And he beheld Jesus walking by, and said, Behold that Lamb of God. And the two disciples heard him speak, and followed Jesus. Then Jesus turned about, and saw them follow, and said unto them, What seek ye? And they said unto him, Rabbi (which is to say by interpretation, Master) where dwellest thou? He said unto them, Come, and see. They came and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was about the tenth hour. Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, was one of the two which had heard it of John, and that followed him. The same found his brother Simon first, and said unto him, We have found that Messias, which is by interpretation, that Christ. And he brought him to Jesus; Jesus beheld him, and said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone. The day following, Jesus would go into Galilee, and found Philip, and said unto him, Follow me. Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter. Philip found Nathanael, and said unto him, We have found him of whom Moses did write in the Law, and the Prophets, Jesus that son of Joseph, that was of Nazareth. Then Nathanael said unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip said to him, Come, and see. Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and said of him, Behold indeed an Israelite, in whom is no guile. Nathanael said unto him, Whence knew thou me? Jesus answered, and said unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou was under the fig tree, I saw thee. Nathanael answered, and said unto him, Rabbi, thou art that Son of God: thou art that King of Israel. Jesus answered, and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the figtree, believe thou? thou shalt see greater things then these. And he said unto him, Verily, verily I say unto you, hereafter shall ye see heaven open, and the Angels of God ascending, and descending upon that Son of man.

And the third day was there a marriage in Cana a town of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there. And Jesus was called also, and his disciples unto the marriage. Now when the wine failed, the mother of Jesus said unto him, They have no wine. Jesus said unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come. His mother said unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it. And there were set there, six waterpots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece. And Jesus said unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. Then they filled them up to the brim. Then he said unto them, Draw out now and bear unto the governor of the feast. So they bare it. Now when the governor of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, (for he knew not whence it was: but the servants, which drew the water, knew) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom, and said unto him, All men at the beginning set forth good wine, and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept back the good wine until now. This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana a town of Galilee and shewed forth his glory: and his disciples believed on him.

After it, he went down into Capernaum, he & his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples: but they continued not many days there. For the Jews Passover was at hand. Therefore Jesus went up to Jerusalem. And he found in the Temple those that sold oxen, and sheep, and doves, and changers of money, sitting there. Then he made a scourge of small cords, and drave them all out of the Temple with the sheep and oxen, and powered out the changers money, and overthrew the tables, and said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence: make not my fathers house, an house of merchandise. And his disciples remembered, that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, What sign shew thou unto us, that thou do these things? Jesus answered, and said unto them, Destroy this Temple, and in three days I will raise it up again. Then said the Jews, Forty & six years was this Temple a building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days? But he spake of the temple of his body. As soon therefore as he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he thus said unto them: and they believed the Scripture, and the word which Jesus had said. Now when he was at Jerusalem at the Passover in the feast, many believed in his Name, when they saw his miracles which he did. But Jesus did not commit himself unto them, because he knew them all, and had no need that any should testify of man: for he knew what was in man.

There was now a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews. This man came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know ye thou art a teacher come from God: for no man could do these miracles that thou do, except God were with him. Jesus answered, & said unto him, Verily, verily I say unto thee, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus said unto him, How can a man be born which is old? can he enter into his mothers womb again, and be born? Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, except that a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh, is flesh: and that that is born of the Spirit, is spirit. Marvel not that I said to thee, Ye must be born again. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hear the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every man that is born of the Spirit. Nicodemus answered, and said unto him, How can these things be? Jesus answered, & said unto him, Art thou a teacher of Israel, and know not these things? Verily, verily I say unto thee, we speak that we know, and testify that we have seen: but ye receive not our witness. If when I tell you earthly things, ye believe not, how should ye believe, if I shall tell you of heavenly things? For no man ascendeth up to heaven, but he that hath descended from heaven, that Son of man which is in heaven. And as Moses lift up the serpent in the wilderness, so must that Son of man be lift up, that whosoever believeth in him, should not perish, but have eternal life. For God so loved the world, that he hath given his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him, should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world, that he should condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth in him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the Name of that only begotten Son of God. And this is the condemnation that that light came into the world, and men loved darkness rather than that light, because their deeds were evil. For every man that evil doeth, hateth the light, neither cometh to light, lest his deeds should be reproved. But he that doeth truth, cometh to the light, that his deeds might be made manifest, that they are wrought according to God.

After these things, came Jesus & his disciples into the land of Judea, and there tarried with them, and baptized. And also baptized in Enon besides Salim, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized. For John was not yet cast into prison. Then there arose a question between John's disciples and the Jews, about purifying. And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness, behold, he baptizeth, and all men come to him. John answered, and said, A man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven. Ye yourselves are my witnesses that I said, I am not that Christ, but that I am sent before him. He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly, because of the bridegrooms voice. This my joy therefore is fulfilled. He must increase, but I must decrease. He that is come from an high, is above all: he that is of the earth, is of the earth, and speaketh of the earth: he that is come from heaven, is above all. And what he hath seen and heard, that he testifieth: but no man receiveth his testimony. He that hath received his testimony hath sealed that God is true. For he whom God hath sent, speaketh the words of God: for God giveth him not the Spirit by measure. The Father loveth the Son, and hath given all things into his hand. He that believeth in the Son hath everlasting life, and he that obeyeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him.

Now when the Lord knew, how the Pharisees had heard, that Jesus made and baptized more disciples then John, (Though Jesus himself baptized not: but his disciples) he left Judea, and departed again into Galilee. And he must needs go through Samaria. Then came he to a city of Samaria called Sychar, near unto the possession that Jacob gave to his son Joseph. And there was Jacobs well. Jesus then wearied in the journey, sat thus on the well: it was about the sixth hour. There came a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jesus said unto her, Give me drink. For his disciples were gone away into the city, to buy meat. Then said the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it, that thou being a Jew, ask drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? For the Jews meddle not with the Samaritans. Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knew that gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me drink, thou would have asked of him, and he would have given thee, water of life. The woman said unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that water of life? Art thou greater then our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and he himself drank thereof, and his sons, and his cattle? Jesus answered, and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water, shall thirst again: but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him, shall never be more athirst: but the water that I shall give him, shall be in him a well of water, springing up into everlasting life. The woman said unto him, Sir, give me of that water, that I may not thirst, neither come hither to draw. Jesus said unto her, Go, call thine husband, and come hither. The woman answered, and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband. For thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast, is not thine husband: that said thou truly. The woman said unto him, Sir, I see that thou art a Prophet. Our fathers worshipped in this mountain, and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship. Jesus said unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor at Jerusalem worship the Father. Ye worship that which ye know not: we worship that which we know: for salvation is of the Jews. But the hour cometh and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit, and truth: for the Father requireth even such to worship him. God is a Spirit, and they that worship him, must worship him in spirit and truth. The woman said unto him, I know well that Messias shall come which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things. Jesus said unto her, I am he, that speak unto thee. And upon that, came his disciples, and marveled that he talked with a woman: yet no man said unto him, What ask thou? or why talk thou with her? The woman then left her waterpot, and went her way into the city, and said to the men, Come, see a man which hath told me all things that ever I did: is not he that Christ? Then they went out of the city, and came unto him. In the mean while, the disciples prayed him, saying, Master, eat. But he said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of. Then said the disciples between themselves, Hath any man brought him meat? Jesus said unto them, My meat is that I may do the will of him that sent me, and finish his work. Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? Behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the regions: for they are white already unto harvest. And he that reapeth, receiveth reward, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal, that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, might rejoice together. For herein is the saying true, that one soweth, and another reapeth. I sent you to reap that, whereon ye bestowed no labor: other men labored, and ye are entered into their labors. Now many of the Samaritans of that city believed in him, for the saying of the woman which testified, He hath told me all things that ever I did. Then when the Samaritans were come unto him, they besought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days. And many more believed because of his own word. And they said unto the woman, Now we believe, not because of thy saying: for we have heard him our selves, and know that this is in deed that Christ the Savior of the world.

So two days after he departed thence, and went into Galilee. For Jesus himself had testified, that a Prophet hath none honor in his own country. Then when he was come into Galilee, the Galileans received him, which had seen all the things that he did at Jerusalem at the feast: for they went also unto the feast. And Jesus came again into Cana a town of Galilee, where he had made of water, wine; there was a certain ruler, whose son was sick at Capernaum. When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judea into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought him that he would go down, and heal his son: for he was even ready to die. Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe. The ruler said unto him, Sir, go down before my son die. Jesus said unto him, Go thy way, thy son liveth: and the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and went his way. And as he was now going down, his servants met him, saying, Thy son liveth. Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend; they said unto him, Yesterday the seventh hour the fever left him. Then the father knew, that it was the same hour in the which Jesus had said unto him, Thy son liveth; he believed, & all his household. This second miracle did Jesus again, after he was come out of Judea into Galilee.

After that, there was a feast of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. And there is at Jerusalem by the place of the sheep, a pool called in Hebrew Bethesda, having five porches: in the which lay a great multitude of sick folk, of blind, halt, and withered, waiting for the moving of the water. For an Angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first, after the stirring of the water, stepped in, was made whole of whatsoever disease he had. And a certain man was there, which had been diseased eight and thirty years. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he now long time had been diseased, he said unto him, Wilt thou be made whole? The sick man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me. Jesus said unto him, Rise: take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and the same day was the Sabbath. The Jews therefore said to him that was made whole, It is the Sabbath day: it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed. He answered them, He that made me whole, he said unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk. Then asked they him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up thy bed and walk? And he that was healed knew not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself away from the multitude that was in that place. And after that, Jesus found him in the Temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee. The man departed and told the Jews that it was Jesus, which had made him whole. And therefore the Jews did persecute Jesus, and sought to slay him, because he had done these things on the Sabbath day. But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him: not only because he had broken the Sabbath: but said also that God was his Father, and made himself equal with God. Then answered Jesus, and said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, save that he seeth the Father do: for whatsoever things he doeth, the same things doeth the Son in like manner. For the Father loveth the Son, & sheweth him all things, whatsoever he himself doeth, and he will shew him greater works then these, that ye should marvel. For likewise as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them, so the Son quickeneth whom he will. For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son, because that all men should honor the Son, as they honor the Father: he that honoreth not the Son, the same honoreth not the Father, which hath sent him. Verily, verily I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation, but hath passed from death unto life. Verily, verily I say unto you, the hour shall come, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear it shall live. For as the Father hath life in himself, so likewise hath he given to the Son to have life in himself, and hath given him power also to execute judgment, in that he is the Son of man. Marvel not at this: for the hour shall come, in the which all that are in the graves, shall hear his voice. And they shall come forth, that have done good, unto the resurrection of life: but they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of condemnation. I can do nothing of mine own self: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just, because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father who hath sent me. If I should bear witness of myself, my witness were not true. There is another that beareth witness of me, and I know that the witness, which he beareth of me, is true. Ye sent unto John, and he bare witness unto the truth. But I receive not the record of man: nevertheless these things I say, that ye might be saved. He was a burning, & a shining candle: and ye would for a season have rejoiced in his light. But I have greater witness then the witness of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do bear witness of me, that the Father sent me. And the Father himself, which hath sent me, beareth witness of me. Ye have not heard his voice at any time, neither have ye seen his shape. And his word have you not abiding in you: for whom he hath sent, him ye believed not. Search the Scriptures: for in them ye think to have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me. But ye will not come to me, that ye might have life. I receive not the praise of men. But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you. I am come in my Fathers Name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him will ye receive. How can ye believe, which receive honor one of another, and seek not the honor that cometh of God alone? Do not think that I will accuse you to my Father: there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust. For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

After these things, Jesus went his way over the sea of Galilee, which is Tiberias. And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles, which he did on them that were diseased. Then Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples. Now the Passover, a feast of the Jews, was near. Then Jesus lift up his eyes, and seeing that a great multitude came unto him, he said unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these might eat? (And this he said to prove him: for he himself knew what he would do.) Philip answered him, Two hundred penny worth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little. Then said unto him one of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, There is a little boy here, which hath five barley loaves, and two fishes: but what are they among so many? And Jesus said, Make the people sit down. (Now there was much grass in that place.) Then the men sat down in number, about five thousand. And Jesus took the bread, & gave thanks, & gave to the disciples, and the disciples, to them that were set down: and likewise of the fishes as much as they would. And when they were satisfied, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the broken meat which remaineth, that nothing be lost. Then they gathered it together, and filled twelve baskets with the broken meat of the five barley loaves, which remained unto them that had eaten. Then the men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth that Prophet that should come into the world. When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come, and take him to make him a King, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

When even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea, and entered into a ship, and went over the sea, towards Capernaum: and now it was dark, and Jesus was not come to them. And the Sea arose with a great wind that blew. And when they had rowed about five and twenty, or thirty furlongs, they saw Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing near unto the ship: so they were afraid. But he said unto them, It is I: be not afraid. Then willingly they received him into the ship, and the ship was by and by at the land, whither they went.

The day following, the people which stood on the other side of the sea, saw that there was none other ship there, save that one, whereinto his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not with his disciples in the ship, but that his disciples were gone alone, and that there came other ships from Tiberias near unto the place where they ate the bread, after the Lord had given thanks. Now when the people saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus. And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when came thou hither? Jesus answered them; and said, Verily, verily I say unto you, ye seek me not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye ate of the loaves, and were filled. Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for the meat that endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed. Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God? Jesus answered, and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe in him, whom he hath sent. They said therefore unto him, What sign shew thou then, that we may see it, and believe thee? What do thou work? Our fathers did eat Manna in the desert, as it is written; He gave them bread from heaven to eat. Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven, but my Father giveth you that true bread from heaven. For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world. Then they said unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread. And Jesus said unto them, I am that bread of life: he that cometh to me shall not hunger, and he that believeth in me, shall never thirst. But I said unto you, that ye also have seen me, and believe not. All that the Father giveth me, shall come to me: and him that cometh to me, I cast not away. For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but his will which hath sent me. And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me, I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day. And this is the will of him that sent me, that every man which seeth the Son, and believeth in him, should have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day. The Jews then murmured at him because he said, I am that bread, which is come down from heaven. And they said, Is not this Jesus that son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? How then saith he, I came down from heaven? Jesus then answered, and said unto them, Murmur not among your selves. No man can come to me, except the Father, which hath sent me, draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day. It is written in the Prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me: not that any man hath seen the Father, save he which is of God, he hath seen the Father. Verily, verily I say unto you, he that believeth in me hath everlasting life. I am that bread of life. Your fathers did eat Manna in the wilderness, and are dead. This is that bread, which cometh down from heaven that he which eateth of it, should not die. I am that living bread, which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give, is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. Then the Jews strove among themselves, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat? Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you. Whosoever eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. For my flesh is meat indeed & my blood is drink indeed. He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him. As that living Father hath sent me, so live I by the Father, and he that eateth me, even he shall live by me. This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers have eaten Manna, and are dead. He that eateth of this bread shall live forever. These things spake he in the Synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therefore of his disciples (when they heard this) said, This is an hard saying: who can hear it? But Jesus knowing in himself, that his disciples murmured at this, said unto them, Doth this offend you? What then if ye should see that Son of man ascend up where he was before? It is the spirit that quickeneth: the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you are spirit and life. But there are some of you that believe not: for Jesus knew from the beginning, which they were that believed not, & who should betray him. And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it be given unto him of my Father. From that time, many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him. Then said Jesus to the twelve, Will ye also go away? Then Simon Peter answered him, Master, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life: and we believe and know that thou art that Christ that Son of the living God. Jesus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil? Now he spake it of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, though he was one of the twelve. After these things, Jesus walked in Galilee, and would not walk in Judea: for the Jews sought to kill him.

Now the Jews feast of the Tabernacles was at hand. His brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judea, that thy disciples may see thy works that thou do. For there is no man that doeth any thing secretly, and he himself seeketh to be famous. If thou do these things, shew thy self to the world. For as yet his brethren believed not in him. Then Jesus said unto them, My time is not yet come: but your time is always ready. The world cannot hate you: but me it hateth, because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil. Go ye up unto this feast: I will not go up yet unto this feast: for my time is not yet fulfilled. These things he said unto them, and abode still in Galilee. But as soon as his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were privily. Then the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he? And much murmuring was there of him among the people. Some said, He is a good man: other said, Nay: but he deceiveth the people. Howbeit no man spake openly of him for fear of the Jews. Now when half the feast was done, Jesus went up into the Temple and taught. And the Jews marveled, saving, How knoweth this man the Scriptures, seeing that he never learned! Jesus answered them, and said, My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me. If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself. He that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him. Did not Moses give you a Law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill me? The people answered, and said, Thou hast a devil: who goeth about to kill thee? Jesus answered, and said to them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel. Moses therefore gave unto you circumcision, (not because it is of Moses, but of the fathers) & ye on the Sabbath day circumcise a man. If a man on the Sabbath receive circumcision, that the Law of Moses should not be broken, be ye angry with me, because I have made a man every whit whole on the Sabbath day? Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment. Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he, whom they go about to kill? And behold, he speaketh openly, and they say nothing to him: do the rulers know indeed that this is indeed that Christ? Howbeit we know this man whence he is: but when that Christ cometh, no man shall know whence he is. Then cried Jesus in the Temple as he taught, saying, Ye both know me, and know whence I am: yet am I not come of myself, but he that sent me, is true, whom ye know not. But I know him: for I am of him, and he hath sent me. Then they sought to take him, but no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come. Now many of the people believed in him, and said, When that Christ cometh, will he do more miracles then this man hath done? The Pharisees heard that the people murmured these things of him, and the Pharisees, and high Priests sent officers to take him. Then said Jesus unto them, Yet am I a little while with you, and then go I unto him that sent me. Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me, and where I am, can ye not come. Then said the Jews amongst themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? Will he go unto them that are dispersed among the Grecians, and teach the Grecians? What saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me? and where I am, cannot ye come? Now in the last and great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink. He that believeth in me, as saith the Scripture, out of his belly shall flow rivers of water of life. (This spake he of the Spirit which they that believed in him, should receive: for the holy Ghost was not yet given, because that Jesus was not yet glorified.) So many of the people, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is that Prophet. Other said, This is that Christ: and some said, But shall that Christ come out of Galilee? Saith not the Scripture that that Christ shall come of the seed of David, and out of the town of Beth-leem, where David was? So was there dissension among the people for him. And some of them would have taken him, but no man laid hands on him. Then came the officers to the high Priests and Pharisees, and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him? The officers answered, Never man spake like this man. Then answered them the Pharisees, Are ye also deceived? Doth any of the rulers or of the Pharisees believe in him? But this people, which know not the Law, are cursed. Nicodemus said unto them, (he that came to Jesus by night, and was one of them.) Doth our Law judge a man before it hear him, and know what he hath done? They answered, and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search and look: for out of Galilee ariseth no Prophet. And every man went unto his own house.

And Jesus went unto the mount of Olives, and early in the morning came again into the Temple, and all the people came unto him, and he sat down, and taught them. Then the Scribes, & the Pharisees brought unto him a woman, taken in adultery, and set her in the midst, and said unto him, Master, we found this woman committing adultery, even in the very act. Now Moses in our Law commanded that such should be stoned: what say thou therefore? And this they said to tempt him, that they might have, whereof to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, & with his finger wrote on the ground. And while they continued asking him, he lift himself up, and said unto them, Let him that is among you without sin, cast the first stone at her. And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground. And when they heard it, being accused by their own conscience, they went out one by one, beginning at the eldest even to the last: so Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst. When Jesus had lift up himself again, and saw no man, but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee? She said, No man, Lord; Jesus said, Neither do I condemn thee: go and sin no more. Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am that light of the world: he that followeth me, shall not walk in darkness, but shall have that light of life. The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bear record of thy self: thy record is not true. Jesus answered, and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go: but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go. Ye judge after the flesh: I judge no man. And if I also judge, my judgment is true: for I am not alone, but I, and the Father, that sent me. And it is also written in your Law, that the testimony of two men is true. I am one that bear witness of myself, and the Father that sent me, beareth witness of me. Then said they unto him, Where is that Father of thine? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor that Father of mine. If ye had known me, ye should have known that Father of mine also. These words spake Jesus in the treasury, as he taught in the Temple and no man laid hands on him: for his hour was not yet come. Then said Jesus again unto them, I go my way, and ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins, Whither I go, can ye not come. Then said the Jews, Will he kill himself, because he saith, Whither I go, can ye not come? And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath, I am from above: ye are of this world, I am not of this world. I said therefore unto you, That ye shall die in your sins: for except ye believe, that I am he, ye shall die in your sins. Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus said unto them, Even the same thing that I said unto you from the beginning. I have many things to say, & to judge of you: but he that sent me, is true, & the things that I have heard of him, those speak I to the world. They understood not that he spake to them of the Father. Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lift up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myself, but as my Father hath taught me, so I speak these things. For he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone, because I do always those things that please him. As he spake these things, many believed in him.

Then said Jesus to the Jews which believed in him, If ye continue in my word, ye are verily my disciples, and shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. They answered him, We be Abrahams seed, and were never bound to any man: why say thou then, Ye shall be made free? Jesus answered them, Verily, verily I say unto you, that whosoever committeth sin, is the servant of sin. And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth for ever. If that Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed. I know that ye are Abraham's seed, but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you. I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father. They answered, and said unto him, Abraham is our father. Jesus said unto them, If ye were Abrahams children, ye would do the works of Abraham. But now ye go about to kill me, a man that have told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham. Ye do the works of your father. Then said they to him, We are not born of fornication: we have one Father, which is God. Therefore Jesus said unto them, If God were your Father, then would ye love me: for I proceeded forth, and came from God, neither came I of my self, but he sent me. Why do ye not understand my talk? because ye cannot hear my word. Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do: he hath been a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, then speaketh he of his own: for he is a liar, and the father thereof. And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not. Which of you can rebuke me of sin? and if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me? He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritane, and hast a devil? Jesus answered, I have not a devil, but I honor my Father, and ye have dishonored me. And I seek not mine own praise: but there is one that seeketh it, and judgeth. Verily, verily I say unto you, If a man keep my word, he shall never see death. Then said the Jews to him, Now know we that thou hast a devil. Abraham is dead, and the Prophets: and thou say, If a man keep my word, he shall never taste of death. Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the Prophets are dead: whom make thou thy self? Jesus answered, If I honor myself, mine honor is nothing worth: it is my Father that honoreth me, whom ye say, that he is your God. Yet ye have not known him: but I know him, and if I should say I know him not, I should be a liar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his word. Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day, and he saw it, and was glad. Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty year old, & hast thou seen Abraham? Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, before Abraham was, I am. Then took they up stones, to cast at him, but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the Temple: And he passed through the midst of them, and so went his way.

And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind? Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents, but that the works of God should be shewed on him. I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh when no man can work. As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world. As soon as he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and anointed the eyes of the blind with the clay, and said unto him, Go wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent.) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came again seeing. Now the neighbors and they that had seen him before, when he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged? Some said, This is he: and other said, He is like him: but he himself said, I am he. Therefore they said unto him, How were thine eyes opened? He answered, and said, The man that is called Jesus, made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam and wash. So I went and washed, and received sight. Then they said unto him, Where is he? He said, I can not tell. They brought to the Pharisees him that was once blind. And it was the Sabbath day, when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes. Then again the Pharisees also asked him, how he had received sight; he said unto them, He laid clay upon mine eyes, & I washed, and do see. Then said some of the Pharisees; This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the Sabbath day. Others said, How can a man that is a sinner, do such miracles? and there was a dissension among them. Then spake they unto the blind again, What say thou of him, because he hath opened thine eyes? And he said, He is a Prophet. Then the Jews did not believe him (that he had been blind, and received his sight) until they had called the parents of him that had received sight. And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, whom ye say was born blind? How doth he now see then? His parents answered them, and said, We know that this is our son, & that he was born blind: but by what means he now seeth, we know not: or who hath opened his eyes, can we not tell: he is old enough: ask him: he shall answer for himself. These words spake his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had ordained already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he should be excommunicate out of the Synagogue. Therefore said his parents, He is old enough: ask him. Then again called they the man that had been blind, and said unto him, Give glory unto God: we know that this man is a sinner. Then he answered, and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I cannot tell: one thing I know, that I was blind, and now I see. Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes? He answered them, I have told you already, and ye have not heard it: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples? Then reviled they him, and said, Be thou his disciple: we be Moses disciples. We know that God spake with Moses: but this man we know not from whence he is. The man answered, and said unto them, Doubtless, this is a marvelous thing, that ye know not whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes. Now we know that God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him heareth he. Since the world began, was it not heard, that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind. If this man were not of God, he could have done nothing. They answered, and said unto him, Thou art altogether born in sins, and do thou teach us? so they cast him out.

Jesus heard that they had cast him out: and when he had found him, he said unto him, Do thou believe in the Son of God? He answered, and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe in him? And Jesus said unto him, Both thou hast seen him, and he it is that talketh with thee. Then he said, Lord, I believe, and worshipped him. And Jesus said, I am come unto judgment into this world that they which see not, might see: and that they which see, might be made blind. And some of the Pharisees which were with him, heard these things, & said unto him, Are we blind also? Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye should not have sin: but now ye say, We see: therefore your sin remaineth. Verily, verily I say unto you, He that entereth not in by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up another way, he is a thief and a robber. But he that goeth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth, & the sheep hear his voice, and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out. And when he hath sent forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

And they will not follow a stranger, but they flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers. This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them. Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily I say unto you, I am that door of the sheep. All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them. I am that door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in, and go out, and find pasture. The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and have it in abundance. I am that good shepherd: that good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep. But an hireling, and he which is not the shepherd, neither the sheep are his own, seeth the wolf coming, and he leaveth the sheep, and fleeth, and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep. So the hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep. I am that good shepherd, & know mine, and am known of mine. As the Father knoweth me, so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for my sheep. Other sheep I have also, which are not of this fold: them also must I bring, and they shall hear my voice: and there shall be one sheepfold, and one shepherd. Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my self: I have power to lay it down, and have power to take it again: this commandment have I received of my Father. Then there was a dissension again among the Jews for these sayings, and many of them said, He hath a devil, and is mad: why hear ye him? Other said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil: can the devil open the eyes of the blind?

And it was at Jerusalem the feast of the Dedication, and it was winter. And Jesus walked in the Temple, in Solomon's porch. Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long do thou make us doubt? If thou be that Christ, tell us plainly. Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believe not: the works that I do in my Father's Name, they bear witness of me. But ye believe not: for ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you. My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me, and I give unto them eternal life, & they shall never perish; neither shall any pluck them out of mine hand. My Father which gave them me is greater then all and none is able to take them out of my Fathers hand. I and my Father are one. Then the Jews again took up stones, to stone him. Jesus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my Father: for which of these works do ye stone me? The Jews answered him, saying, For the good work we stone thee not, but for blasphemy, and that thou being a man, make thy self God. Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your Law, I said, Ye are gods? If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God was given, and the Scripture cannot be broken, say ye of him, whom the Father hath sanctified, and sent into the world, Thou blaspheme, because I said, I am the Son of God? If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do, then though ye believe not me, yet believe the works that ye may know and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him. Again they went about to take him: but he escaped out of their hands, and went again beyond Jordan, into the place where first baptized, and there abode. And many resorted unto him, and said, did no miracle: but all things that spake of this man, were true. And many believed in him there.

And a certain man was sick, named Lazarus of Bethania, the town of Mary, and her sister Martha. (And it was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hear, whose brother Lazarus was sick.) Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou love, is sick. When Jesus heard it, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby. Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister, and Lazarus. And after he had heard that he was sick, yet abode he two days still in the same place where he was. Then after that, said he to his disciples, Let us go into Judea again. The disciples said unto him, Master, the Jews lately sought to stone thee, and do thou go thither again? Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If a man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world. But if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him. These things spake he, and after, he said unto them, Our friend Lazarus sleepeth: but I go to wake him up. Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall be safe. Howbeit, Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of the natural sleep. Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead. And I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, that ye may believe: but let us go unto him. Then said Thomas (which is called Didymus) unto his fellow disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him. Then came Jesus, and found that he had lien in the grave four days already. (Now Bethania was near unto Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off.) And many of the Jews were come to Martha and Marie to comfort them for their brother. Then Martha, when she heard that Jesus was coming, went to meet him: but Mary sat still in the house. Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not been dead. But now I know also, that whatsoever thou ask of God, God will give it thee. Jesus said unto her, Thy brother shall rise again. Martha said unto him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth, and believeth in me, shall never die: Believe thou this? She said unto him, Yea, Lord, I believe that thou art that Christ that Son of God, which should come into the world. And when she had so said, she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee. And when she heard it, she arose quickly, and came unto him. For Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in the place where Martha met him. The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary, that she rose up hastily, & went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave, to weep there. Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here; my brother had not been dead. When Jesus therefore saw her weep, and the Jews also weep which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and was troubled in himself, and said, Where have ye laid him? They said unto him, Lord, come and see. And Jesus wept. Then said the Jews, Behold, how he loved him. And some of them said, Could not he, which opened the eyes of the blind, have made also, that this man should not have died? Jesus therefore again groaned in himself, and came to the grave; it was a cave, and a stone was laid upon it. Jesus said, Take ye away the stone. Martha the sister of him that was dead, said unto him, Lord, he stinketh already: for he hath been dead four days. Jesus said unto her, Said I not unto thee, that if thou didst believe, thou should see the glory of God? Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid; Jesus lift up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee, because thou hast heard me. I know that thou hear me always, but because of the people that stand by, I said it, that they may believe, that thou hast sent me. As he had spoken these things, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. Then he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with bands, and his face was bound with a napkin. Jesus said unto them, Loose him, and let him go. Then many of the Jews, which came to Mary, and had seen the things, which Jesus did, believed in him. But some of them went their way to the Pharisees, & told them what things Jesus had done.

Then gathered the high Priests & the Pharisees a council, and said, What shall we do? For this man doeth many miracles. If we let him thus alone, all men will believe in him, and the Romans will come and take away both our place, and the nation. Then one of them named Caiaphas, which was the high Priest that same year, said unto them, Ye perceive nothing at all, nor yet do you consider that it is expedient for us, that one man die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not. This spake he not of himself: but being high Priest that same year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation: and not for that nation only, but that he should gather together in one the children of God, which were scattered. Then from that day forth they consulted together, to put him to death. Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews, but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples. And the Jews Passover was at hand, and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem before the Passover, to purify themselves. Then sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the Temple, What think ye, that he cometh not to the feast? Now both the high Priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment, that if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him.

Then Jesus, six days before the Passover, came to Bethania, where Lazarus was, who died, whom he had raised from the dead. There they made him a supper, and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him. Then took Mary a pound of ointment of Spikenard very costly, and anointed Jesus feet, and wiped his feet with her hair, and the house was filled with the savor of the ointment. Then said one of his disciples, even Judas Iscariot Simon's son, which should betray him: why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor? Now he said this, not that he cared for the poor, but because he was a thief, and had the bag, and bare that which was given. Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying she kept it. For the poor always ye have with you, but me ye shall not have always. Then much people of the Jews knew that he was there: and they came, not for Jesus sake only, but that they might see Lazarus also, whom he had raised from the dead. The high Priests therefore consulted, that they might put Lazarus to death also, because that for his sake many of the Jews went away, and believed in Jesus.

On the morrow a great multitude that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus should come to Jerusalem, Took branches of palm trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hosanna, Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the Name of the Lord. And Jesus found a young ass, and sat thereon, as it is written, Fear not, daughter of Sion: behold, thy King cometh sitting on an asses colt. But his disciples understood not these things at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembered they, that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him. The people therefore that was with him, bare witness that he called Lazarus out of the grave, and raised him from the dead. Therefore met him the people also, because they heard that he had done this miracle. And the Pharisees said among themselves, Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? Behold, the world goeth after him.

Now there were certain Greeks among them that came up to worship at the feast. And they came to Philip, which was of Bethsaida in Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see that Jesus. Philip came and told Andrew: and again Andrew and Philip told Jesus. And Jesus answered them, saying, The hour is come, that the Son of man must be glorified. Verily, verily I say unto you, Except the wheat corn fall into the ground and die, it bideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. He that loveth his life shall lose it, and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keep it unto life eternal. If any man serve me, let him follow me: for where I am, there shall also my servant be: and if any man serve me, him will my Father honor. Now is my soul troubled: and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour: but therefore came I unto this hour. Father, glorify thy Name. Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again. Then said the people that stood by, and heard, that it was a thunder: other said, An Angel spake to him. Jesus answered, and said, This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes. Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I were lift up from the earth, will draw all men unto me. Now this said he, signifying what death he should die. The people answered him, We have heard out of the Law, that that Christ bideth for ever: and how say thou, that that Son of man must be lift up? Who is that Son of man? Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you: walk while ye have that light, lest the darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in the dark, knoweth not whither he goeth. While ye have that light, believe in that light, that ye may be the children of the light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and hid himself from them. And though he had done so many miracles before them, yet believed they not on him, that the saying of Esaias the Prophet might be fulfilled, that he said, Lord, who believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed? Therefore could they not believe, because that Esaias saith again, He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them. These things said Esaias when he saw his glory, and spake of him. Nevertheless, even among the chief rulers, many believed in him: but because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, least they should be cast out of the Synagogue. For they loved the praise of men, more than the praise of God. And Jesus cried, and said, He that believeth in me, believeth not in me, but in him that sent me. And he that seeth me seeth him that sent me. I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth in me, should not abide in darkness. And if any man hear my words, and believe not, I judge him not: for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world. He that refuseth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, it shall judge him in the last day. For I have not spoken of myself: but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment what I should say, and what I should speak. And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: the things therefore that I speak, I speak them so as the Father said unto me.

Now before the feast of the Passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come, that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, forasmuch as he loved his own which were in the world, unto the end he loved them. And when supper was done (and that the devil had now put in the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him) Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come forth from God, and went to God, he riseth from supper, and layeth aside his upper garments, and took a towel, and girded himself. After that, he poured water into a basin, and began to wash the disciple's feet, and to wipe them with the towel, wherewith he was girded. Then came he to Simon Peter, who said to him, Lord, do thou wash my feet? Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do, thou know not now: but thou shalt know it hereafter. Peter said unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou shalt have no part with me. Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also the hands and the head. Jesus said to him, He that is washed, needeth not, save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all. For he knew who should betray him: therefore said he, Ye are not all clean. So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you? Ye call me Master, and Lord, and ye say well: for so am I. If I then your Lord, and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do, even as I have done to you. Verily, verily I say unto you, The servant is not greater then his master, neither the ambassador greater then he that sent him. If ye know these things, blessed are ye, if ye do them. I speak not of you all: I know whom I have chosen: but it is that the Scripture might be fulfilled, He that eateth bread with me, hath lift up his heel against me. From henceforth tell I you before it come, that when it is come to pass, ye might believe that I am he. Verily, verily I say unto you, If I send any, he that receiveth him, receiveth me, and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me. When Jesus had said these things, he was troubled in the Spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me. Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake. Now there was one of his disciples, which leaned on Jesus bosom, whom Jesus loved. To him beckoned therefore Simon Peter, that he should ask who it was of whom he spake. He then, as he leaned on Jesus breast, said unto him, Lord, who is it? Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a soppe, when I have dipped it: and he wet a soppe, and gave it to Judas Iscariot, Simon's son. And after the soppe, Satan entered into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou do, do quickly. But none of them that were at table, knew, for what cause he spake it unto him. For some of them thought because Judas had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against ye feast: or that he should give some thing to the poor. As soon then as he had received the soppe, he went immediately out, and it was night.

When he was gone out, Jesus said, Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him. If God be glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and shall straightway glorify him. Little children, yet a little while am I with you: ye shall seek me, but as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, can ye not come: also to you say I now, a new commandment give I unto you, that ye love one another: as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another. Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither go thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now: but thou shalt follow me afterward. Peter said unto him, Lord, why can I not follow thee now? I will lay down my life for thy sake. Jesus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou have denied me thrice. Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many dwelling places: if it were not so, I would have told you: I go to prepare a place for you.

And if I go to prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there may ye be also. And whither I go, ye know, and the way ye know. Thomas said unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou go: how can we then know the way? Jesus said unto him, I am that Way, and that Truth, and that Life. No man cometh unto the Father, but by me. If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him. Philip said unto him, Lord, shew us thy Father, and it sufficeth us. Jesus said unto him, I have been so long time with you, and hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me, hath seen my Father: how then say thou, Shew us thy Father? Believe thou not, that I am in the Father, and the Father is in me? The words that I speak unto you, I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works. Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father is in me: at the least, believe me for the very works sake. Verily, verily I say unto you, he that believeth in me, the works that I do, he shall do also, and greater then these shall he do: for I go unto my Father. And whatsoever ye ask in my Name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask any thing in my Name, I will do it. If ye love me, keep my commandments, and I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever, even the Spirit of truth, whom the world can not receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him: for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. I will not leave you fatherless: but I will come to you. Yet a little while, and the world shall see me no more, but ye shall see me: because I live, ye shall live also. At that day shall ye know that I am in my Father and you in me, and I in you. He that hath my commandments, & keepeth them, is he that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father: and I will love him, & will shew mine own self to him. Judas said unto him (not Iscariot) Lord, what is the cause that thou wilt shew thy self unto us, and not unto the world? Jesus answered, and said unto him, If any man love me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and will dwell with him. He that loveth me not, keepeth not my words, & the word which ye hear, is not mine, but the Fathers which sent me. These things have I spoken unto you, being present with you. But the Comforter, which is the holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my Name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, which I have told you. Peace I leave with you: my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, nor fear. Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and will come unto you. If ye loved me, ye would verily rejoice, because I said, I go unto the Father: for the Father is greater then I. And now have I spoken unto you, before it come, that when it is come to pass, ye might believe. Hereafter will I not speak many things unto you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath naught in me. But it is that the world may know that I love my Father: and as the Father hath commanded me, so I do.

Arise, let us go hence. I Am that true vine, and my Father is that husband man. Every branch that beareth not fruit in me, he taketh away: and every one that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. Now are ye clean through the word, which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you: as the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine, no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am that vine: ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, & I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me can ye do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and withereth: and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they burn. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask what ye will, & it shall be done to you. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit, and be made my disciples. As the father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue in that my love. If ye shall keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love, as I have kept my Fathers commandments, and abide in his love. These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full. This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love then this hath no man, when any man bestoweth his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you. Henceforth call I you not servants: for the servant knoweth not what his master doeth: but I have called you friends: for all things that I have heard of my Father, have I made known to you. Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye go & bring forth fruit, and that your fruit remain, that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my Name, he may give it you. These things command I you, that ye love one another. If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before you. If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you. Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his master. If they have persecuted me, they will persecute you also: if they have kept my word, they will also keep yours. But all these things will they do unto you for my Name's sake, because they have not known him that sent me. If I had not come and spoken unto them, they should not have had sin: but now have they no cloak for their sin. He that hateth me hateth my Father also. If I had not done works among them which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen, and have hated both me, and my Father. But it is that the word might be fulfilled, that is written in their Law, They hated me without a cause. But when that Comforter shall come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth of the Father, he shall testify of me. And ye shall witness also, because ye have been with me from the beginning.

These things have I said unto you, that ye should not be offended. They shall excommunicate you: yea, the time shall come, that whosoever killeth you, will think that he doeth God service. And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me. But these things have I told you, that when the hour shall come, ye might remember, that I told you them; these things said I not unto you from the beginning, because I was with you. But now I go my way to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me, Whither go thou? But because I have said these things unto you, your hearts are full of sorrow. Yet I tell you the truth, It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, that Comforter will not come unto you: but if I depart, I will send him unto you. And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment. Of sin, because they believed not in me: of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye shall see me no more: of judgment, because the prince of this world is judged. I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit, when he is come which is the Spirit of truth; he will lead you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear, shall he speak, and he will shew you the things to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you. All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine and shew it unto you. A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again a little while, and ye shall see me: for I go to the Father. Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me, and again, a little while, and ye shall see me, and, For I go to the Father. They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we know not what he saith. Now Jesus knew that they would ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves, of that I said, A little while, & ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me? Verily, verily I say unto you, that ye shall weep and lament and the world shall rejoice: and ye shall sorrow, but your sorrow shall be turned to joy. A woman when she travaileth, hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world. And ye now therefore are in sorrow: but I will see you again, & your hearts shall rejoice, and your joy shall no man take from you. And in that day shall ye ask me nothing. Verily, verily I say unto you, whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my Name, he will give it you. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my Name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full. These things have I spoken unto you in parables: but the time will come, when I shall no more speak to you in parables: but I shall shew you plainly of the Father. At that day shall ye ask in my Name, and I say not unto you, that I will pray unto the Father for you: for the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God. I am come out from the Father, and came into the world: again I leave the world, and go to the Father. His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speak thou plainly, and thou speak no parable. Now know we that thou know all things, and need not that any man should ask thee. By this we believe, that thou art come out from God. Jesus answered them, Do you believe now? Behold, the hour cometh, and is already come, that ye shall be scattered every man into his own, and shall leave me alone: but I am not alone: for the Father is with me. These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace: in the world ye shall have affliction, but be of good comfort: I have overcome the world.

These things spake Jesus, and lift up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, that hour is come: glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee, as thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to all them that thou hast given him. And this is life eternal, that they know thee to be the only very God, and whom thou hast sent, Jesus Christ. I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finished the work which thou gave me to do. And now glorify me, thou Father, with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was. I have declared thy Name unto the men which thou gave me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gave them me, and they have kept thy word. Now they know that all things whatsoever thou hast given me, are of thee. For I have given unto them the words which thou gave me, and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, & have believed that thou hast sent me. I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me: for they are thine. And all mine are thine, and thine are mine, and I am glorified in them. And now am I no more in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, keep them in thy Name, even them whom thou hast given me that they may be one, as we are. While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy Name: those that thou gave me, have I kept, and none of them is lost, but the child of perdition, that the Scripture might be fulfilled. And now come I to thee, and these things speak I in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves. I have given them thy word, & the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, as I am not of the world. I pray not that thou should take them out of the world, but that thou keep them from evil. They are not of the world, as I am not of the world. Sanctify them with thy truth: thy word is truth. As thou didst send me into the world, so have I sent them into the world. And for their sakes sanctify I myself, that they also may be sanctified through the truth. I pray not for these alone, but for them also which shall believe in me, through their word, that they all may be one, as thou, O Father, art in me, and I in thee: even that they may be also one in us, that the world may believe that thou hast sent me. And the glory that thou gave me, I have given them, that they may be one, as we are one, I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one, and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me. Father, I will that they which thou hast given me be with me even where I am, that they may behold that my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou loved me before the foundation of the world. O righteous Father, the world also hath not known thee, but I have known thee, and these have known that thou hast sent me. And I have declared unto them thy Name, and will declare it, that the love wherewith thou hast loved me, may be in them, and I in them.

When Jesus had spoken these things, he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples. And Judas which betrayed him knew also the place: for Jesus oft times resorted thither with his disciples. Judas then, after he had received a band of men and officers of the high Priests, and of the Pharisees, came thither with lanterns and torches, and weapons. Then Jesus, knowing all things that should come unto him, went forth and said unto them, Whom seek ye? They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus said unto them, I am he. Now Judas also which betrayed him, stood with them. As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went away backwards, and fell to the ground. Then he asked them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered, I said unto you, that I am he: therefore if ye seek me, let these go their way. This was that the word might be fulfilled which he spake, Of them which thou gave me, have I lost none. Then Simon Peter having a sword, drew it, & smote the high Priests servant, and cut off his right ear. Now the servants name was Malchus. Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: shall I not drink of the cup which my Father hath given me? Then the band and the captain, and the officers of the Jews took Jesus, and bound him, and led him away to Annas first (for he was father in law to Caiaphas, which was the high Priest that same year) and Caiaphas was he, that gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

Now Simon Peter followed Jesus, & another disciple, and that disciple was known of the high Priest: therefore he went in with Jesus into the hall of the high Priest: but Peter stood at the door without. Then went out the other disciple which was known unto the high Priest and spake to her that kept the door, and brought in Peter. Then said the maid that kept the door, unto Peter, Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He said, I am not. And the servants and officers stood there, which had made a fire of coals: for it was cold, & they warmed themselves; Peter also stood among them, and warmed himself. (The high Priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine. Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world: I ever taught in the Synagogue and in the Temple, whither the Jews resort continually, and in secret have I said nothing. Why ask thou me? ask them which heard me what I said unto them: behold, they know what I said. When he had spoken these things, one of the officers which stood by, smote Jesus with his rod, saying, Answer thou the high Priest so? Jesus answered him, If I have evil spoken, bear witness of the evil: but if I have well spoken, why smite thou me? Now Annas had sent him bound unto Caiaphas the high Priest) And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself, & they said unto him, Art not thou also of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not. One of the servants of the high Priest, his cousin whose ear Peter smote off, said, Did not I see thee in the garden with him? Peter then denied again, and immediately the cock crew.

Then led they Jesus from Caiaphas into the common hall. Now it was morning, & they themselves went not into the common hall, lest they should be defiled, but that they might eat the Passover. Pilate then went out unto them, and said, What accusation bring ye against this man? They answered, and said unto him, If he were not an evil doer, we would not have delivered him unto thee. Then said Pilate unto them, Take ye him, and judge him after your own Law. Then the Jews said unto him, It is not lawful for us to put any man to death. It was that the word of Jesus might be fulfilled which he spake, signifying what death he should die. So Pilate entered into the common hall again, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the king of the Jews? Jesus answered him, Say thou that of thy self, or did other tell it thee of me? Pilate answered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation and the high Priests have delivered thee unto me. What hast thou done? Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, my servants would surely fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence. Pilate then said unto him, Art thou a King then? Jesus answered, Thou say that I am a King: for this cause am I borne, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth: every one that is of the truth, heareth my voice. Pilate said unto him, What is truth? And when he had said that, he went out again unto the Jews, & said unto them, I find in him no cause at all. But you have a custom, that I should deliver you one loose at the Passover: will ye then that I loose unto you the King of the Jews? Then cried they all again, saying, Not him, but Barabbas: now this Barabbas was a murderer. Then Pilate took Jesus & scourged him. And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple garment, and said, Hail, King of the Jews; they smote him with their rods. Then Pilate went forth again, and said unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know, that I find no fault in him at all. Then came Jesus forth wearing a crown of thorns, and a purple garment; Pilate said unto them, Behold the man. Then when the high Priests & officers saw him, they cried, saying, Crucify, crucify him. Pilate said unto them, Take ye him and crucify him: for I find no fault in him. The Jews answered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God. When Pilate then heard that word, he was the more afraid, and went again into the common hall, and said unto Jesus, Whence art thou? But Jesus gave him none answer. Then said Pilate unto him, Speak thou not unto me? Know thou not that I have power to crucify thee, & have power to loose thee? Jesus answered, Thou could have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee, hath the greater sin. From thence forth Pilate sought to loose him, but the Jews cried, saying, If thou deliver him, thou art not Cesar's friend: for whosoever maketh himself a King, speaketh against Cesar. When Pilate heard this word, he brought Jesus forth, & sat down in the judgment seat in a place called the Pavement, and in Hebrew, Gabbatha. And it was the Preparation of the Passover, and about the sixth hour: and he said unto the Jews, Behold your King. But they cried, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate said unto them, Shall I crucify your King? The high Priests answered, We have no King but Cesar. Then delivered he him unto them, to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away. And he bare his own cross, and came into a place named of dead men's Skulls, which is called in Hebrew, "Golgotha": where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst.

And Pilate wrote also a title, and put it on the cross, and it was written, Jesus Of Nazareth The King Of The Jews. This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jesus was crucified, was near to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, Greek and Latin. Then said the high Priests of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The King of the Jews, but that he said, I am King of the Jews. Pilate answered, What I have written, I have written. Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments (and made four parts, to every soldier a part) and his coat: and the coat was without seam woven from the top throughout. Therefore they said one to another, Let us not divide it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be. This was that the Scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, They parted my garments among them, and on my coat did cast lots. So the soldiers did these things indeed. Then stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Marie the wife of Cleopas, and Marie Magdalene. And when Jesus saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he said unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son. Then said he to the disciple, Behold thy mother: and from that hour, the disciple took her home unto him. After, when Jesus knew that all things were performed, that the Scripture might be fulfilled, he said, I thirst. And there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar: and put it about an Hyssop stalk, and put it to his mouth. Now when Jesus had received of the vinegar, he said, It is finished, and bowed his head, and gave up the ghost. The Jews then (because it was the Preparation that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the Sabbath day: for that Sabbath was an high day) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken down. Then came the soldiers and brake the legs of the first, and of the other, which was crucified with Jesus. But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs. But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith came there out blood and water. And he that saw it, bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe it. For these things were done, that the Scripture should be fulfilled, Not a bone of him shall be broken. And again an other Scripture saith, They shall see him whom they have thrust through. And after these things, Joseph of Arimathea (who was a disciple of Jesus, but secretly for fear of the Jews) besought Pilate that he might take down the body of Jesus; Pilate gave him license. He came then and took Jesus body. And there came also Nicodemus (which first came to Jesus by night) & brought of myrrh and aloes mingled together about an hundred pound. Then took they the body of Jesus, and wrapped it in linen clothes with the odors, as the manner of the Jews is to bury. And in that place where Jesus was crucified, was a garden, and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid. There then laid they Jesus, because of the Jews Preparation day, for the sepulchre was near.

Now the first day of the week came Mary Magdalene, early when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and saw the stone taken away from the tomb. Then she ran, and came to Simon Peter and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved, and said unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him. Peter therefore went forth, and the other disciple and they came unto the sepulchre. So they ran both together, but the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre. And he stooped down, and saw the linen clothes lying: yet went he not in. Then came Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and saw the linen clothes lie, and the kerchief that was upon his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it self. Then went in also the other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw it, and believed. For as yet they knew not the Scripture, That he must rise again from the dead. And the disciples went away again unto their own home. But Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping: and as she wept, she bowed her self into the sepulchre, and saw two Angels in white, sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain. And they said unto her, Woman, why weep thou? She said unto them, They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him. When she had thus said, she turned her self back, and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weep thou? Whom seek thou? She supposing that he had been the gardener, said unto him, Sir, if thou hast born him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away. Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned her self, and said unto him, Rabboni, which is to say, Master. Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not: for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and to your Father, and to my God, and your God. Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

The same day then at night, which was the first day of the week, and when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and said to them, Peace be unto you. And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands, and his side. Then were the disciples glad when they had seen the Lord. Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father sent me, so send I

you. And when he had said that, he breathed on them, and said unto them, Receive the holy Ghost. Whosoever's sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them: and whosoever's sins ye retain, they are retained. But Thomas one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord: but he said unto them, Except I see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and put mine hand into his side, I will not believe it. And eight days after, again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them. Then came Jesus, when the doors were shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you. After said he to Thomas, Put thy finger here, and see mine hands, & put forth thine hand, and put it into my side, and be not faithless, but faithful. Then Thomas answered, & said unto him, Thou art my Lord, and my God. Jesus said unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou believe: blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed. And many other signs also did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book. But these things are written, that ye might believe, that Jesus is that Christ that Son of God, and that in believing ye might have life through his Name.

After these things, Jesus shewed himself again to his disciples at the sea of Tiberias: and thus shewed he himself: there were together Simon Peter, & Thomas, which is called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedeus, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter said unto them, I go a fishing. They said unto him, We also will go with thee. They went their way & entered into a ship straightway, and that night caught they nothing. But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: nevertheless the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus then said unto them, Sirs, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. Then he said unto them, Cast out the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. So they cast out, & they were not able at all to draw it, for the multitude of fishes. Therefore said the disciple whom Jesus loved, unto Peter, It is the Lord. When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girded his coat to him (for he was naked) and cast himself into the sea. But the other disciples came by ship (for they were not far from land, but about two hundred cubits) and they drew the net with fishes. As soon then as they were come to land, they saw hot coals, and fish laid thereon, and bread. Jesus said unto them, Bring of the fishes, which ye have now caught. Simon Peter stepped forth and drew the net to land, full of great fishes, an hundred, fifty and three: and albeit there were so many, yet was not the net broken. Jesus said unto them, Come, and dine; none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? seeing they knew that he was the Lord. Jesus then came and took bread, and gave them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen again from the dead.

So when they had dined, Jesus said to Simon Peter, Simon the son of Jona, love thou me more than these? He said unto him, Yea Lord, thou know that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my lambs. He said to him again the second time, Simon the son of Jona, love thou me? He said unto him, Yea Lord, thou know that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my sheep. He said unto him the third time, Simon the son of Jona, love thou me? Peter was sorry because he said to him the third time, Love thou me? and said unto him, Lord, thou know all things: thou know that I love thee. Jesus said unto him, Feed my sheep. Verily, verily I say unto thee, When thou was young, thou gird thy self, and walk whither thou would: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thine hands, and another shall gird thee, and lead thee whither thou would not. And this spake he signifying by what death he should glorify God; when he had said this, he said to him, Follow me. Then Peter turned about, and saw the disciple whom Jesus loved, following, which had also leaned on his breast at supper, and had said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee? When Peter therefore saw him, he said to Jesus, Lord, what shall this man do? Jesus said unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is it to thee? follow thou me. Then went this word abroad among the brethren that this disciple should not die. Yet Jesus said not to him, He shall not die: but if I will that he tarry till I come, what is it to thee? This is that disciple, which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things, and we know that his testimony is true. Now there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which if they should be written every one, I suppose the world could not contain the books that should be written, Amen.

The ACTS of the Holy Apostles,

WRITTEN BY LUKE THE EVANGELIST

I have made the former treatise, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began to do and teach, until the day that he was taken up, after that he through the holy Ghost, had given commandments unto the Apostles, whom he had chosen: to whom also he presented himself alive after that he had suffered, by many infallible tokens, being seen of them by the space of forty days, and speaking of those things which appertain to the kingdom of God. And when he had gathered them together, he commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, which said he, ye have heard of me. For John indeed baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the holy Ghost within these few days. When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel? And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times, or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power, but ye shall receive power of the holy Ghost, when he shall come on you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up: for a cloud took him up out of their sight. And while they looked steadfastly toward heaven, as he went, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel, which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing into heaven? This Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come, as ye have seen him go into heaven.

Then returned they unto Jerusalem from the mount that is called the mount of Olives, which is near to Jerusalem, being from it a Sabbath days journey. And when they were come in, they went up into an upper chamber, where abode both Peter and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alpheus, and Simon Zealots, and Judas James brother. These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication with the women, and Marie the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren. And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said (now the number of names that were in one place were about an hundredth and twenty.) Ye men & brethren, this scripture must needs have been fulfilled, which the holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before of Judas, which was guide to them that took Jesus. For he was numbered with us, and had obtained fellowship in this ministration. He therefore hath purchased a field with the reward of iniquity: and when he had thrown down himself headlong, he brast asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out. And it is known unto all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, in so much, that that field is called in their own language, Aceldama, That is, the field of blood. For it is written in the book of Psalms, Let his habitation be void, and let no man dwell therein: also, Let another take his charge. Wherefore of these men which have companied with us, all the time that the Lord Jesus was conversant among us, beginning from the baptism of John unto the day that he was taken up from us, must one of them be made a witness with us of his resurrection. And they presented two, Joseph called Barsabas, whose surname was Justus, & Matthias. And they prayed, saying, Thou Lord, which knows the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen, that he may take the room of this ministration and Apostleship, from which Judas hath gone astray, to go to his own place. Then they gave forth their lots: and the lot fell on Matthias, and he was by a common consent counted with the eleven Apostles.

And when the day of Pentecost was come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing and mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they sat. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like fire, and it sat upon each of them. And they were all filled with the holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance. And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, men that feared God, of every nation under heaven. Now when this was noised, the multitude came together and were astonished because that every man heard them speak his own language. And they wondered all, and marveled, saying among themselves, Behold, are not all these which speak, of Galilee? How then hear we every man our own language, wherein we were born? Parthians, and Medes, & Elamites, and the inhabitants of Mesopotamia, and of Judea, and of Cappadocia, of Pontus, and Asia, and of Phrygia, and Pamphylia, of Egypt, & of the parts of Libya, which is beside Cyrene, & strangers of Rome, and Jews, & Proselytes, Creetes, and Arabians: we heard them speak in our own tongues the wonderful works of God. They were all then amazed, and doubted, saying one to another, What may this be? And others mocked, and said, They are full of new wine. But Peter standing with the Eleven, lift up his voice, & said unto them, Ye men of Judea, and ye all that inhabit Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken unto my words. For these are not drunken as ye suppose; since it is but the third hour of the day. But this is that, which was spoken by the Prophet Joel, and it shall be in the last days, saith God, I will power out of my Spirit upon all flesh, & your sons, and your daughters shall prophecy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams. And on my servants and on mine handmaids I will power out of my Spirit in those days, and they shall prophecy. And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and tokens in the earth beneath, blood, and fire, and the vapor of smoke. The Sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come. And it shall be that whosoever shall call on the Name of the Lord, shall be saved. Ye men of Israel, hear these words, Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you with great works, and wonders, and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye your selves also know: Him, I say, being delivered by the determinate counsel, and foreknowledge of God, after you had taken, with wicked hands you have crucified and slain. Whom God hath raised up, and loosed the sorrows of death, because it was impossible that he should be holden of it. For David saith concerning him, I beheld the Lord always before me: for he is at my right hand, that I should not be shaken. Therefore did mine heart rejoyce, and my tongue was glad, and moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope, because thou wilt not leave my soul in grave, neither wilt suffer thine Holy one to see corruption. Thou hast shewed me the ways of life, & shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance. Men and brethren, I may boldly speak unto you of the Patriarch David that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre remaineth with us unto this day. Therefore, seeing he was a Prophet, and knew that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins he would raise up Christ concerning the flesh, to set him upon his throne, he knowing this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul should not be left in grave, neither his flesh should see corruption. This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses. Since then that he by the right hand of God hath been exalted, and hath received of his Father the promise of the holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this which ye now see and hear.

For David is not ascended into heaven, but he saith, The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool. Therefore, let all the house of Israel know for a surety, that God hath made him both Lord, and Christ, this Jesus, I say, whom ye have crucified. Now when they heard it, they were pricked in their hearts and said unto Peter and the other Apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do? Then Peter said unto them, Amend your lives, and be baptized every one of you in the Name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins: and ye shall receive the gift of the holy Ghost. For the promise is made unto you, and to your children, and to all that are a far off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. And with many other words he besought and exhorted them, saying, Save yourselves from this froward generation. Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added to the Church about three thousand souls. And they continued in the Apostles doctrine, and fellowship, and breaking of bread, and prayers. And fear came upon every soul: and many wonders & signs were done by the Apostles. And all that believed were in one place, and had all things common. And they sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every one had need. And they continued daily with one accord in the Temple, and breaking bread at home, did eat their meat together with gladness and singleness of heart, praising God, and had favor with all the people: and the Lord added to the Church from day to day, such as should be saved.

Now Peter and John went up together into the Temple, at the ninth hour of prayer. And a certain man which was a cripple from his mothers womb, was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the Temple called Beautiful, to ask alms of them that entered into the Temple. Who seeing Peter & John that they would enter into the Temple, desired to receive an alms. And Peter earnestly beholding him with John, said, Look on us. And he gave heed unto them, trusting to receive some thing of them. Then said Peter, Silver & gold have I none, but such as I have, that give I thee: In the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk. And he took him by the right hand, and lift him up, and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength. And he leaped up, stood, and walked, and entered with them into the Temple, walking and leaping, and praising God. And all the people saw him walk, and praising God. And they knew him that it was he which sat for the alms at the Beautiful gate of the Temple: and they were amazed, and sore astonished at that, which was come unto him. And as the cripple which was healed, held Peter & John, all the people ran amazed unto them in the porch which is called Solomos. So when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so steadfastly on us, as though by our own power or godliness, we had made this man go? The God of Abraham, & Isaac, and Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified his Son Jesus, whom ye betrayed, & denied in the presence of Pilate, when he had judged him to be delivered. But ye denied the Holy one and the

Just, and desired a murderer to be given you, and killed the Lord of life, whom God hath raised from the dead, whereof we are witnesses. And his Name hath made this man sound, whom ye see & know, through faith in his Name: and the faith which is by him, hath given to him this perfect health of his whole body in the presence of you all. And now brethren, I know that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your governors. But those things which God before had shewed by the mouth of all his Prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath thus fulfilled. Amend your lives therefore, and turn, that your sins may be put away, when the time of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord. And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you, whom the heaven must contain until the time that all things be restored, which God had spoken by the mouth of all his holy Prophets since the world began. For Moses said unto the Fathers, The Lord your God shall raise up unto you a Prophet, even of your brethren, like unto me: ye shall hear him in all things, whatsoever he shall say unto you. For it shall be that every person which shall not hear that Prophet, shall be destroyed out of the people. Also all the Prophets from Samuel, and thenceforth as many as have spoken, have likewise foretold of these days. Ye are the children of the Prophets, and of the covenant, which God hath made unto our fathers, saying to Abraham, Even in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed. First unto you hath God raised up his Son Jesus, and him he hath sent to bless you, in turning every one of you from your iniquities. And as they spake unto the people, the Priests and the Captain of the Temple and the Sadducees came upon them taking it grievously that they taught the people and preached in Jesus Name the resurrection from the dead. And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold, until the next day: for it was now eventide. Howbeit, many of them which heard the word, believed, and the number of the men was about five thousand.

And it came to pass on the morow, that their rulers, and Elders, and Scribes, were gathered together at Jerusalem, and Annas the chief Priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high Priests. And when they had set them before them, they asked, By what power, or in what Name have ye done this? Then Peter full of the holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and Elders of Israel, for as much as we this day are examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, to wit, by what means he is made whole, be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye have crucified, whom God raised again from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you, whole. This is the stone cast aside of you builders which is become the head of the corner. Neither is there salvation in any other: for among men there is given none other Name under heaven, whereby we must be saved. Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and understood that they were unlearned men and without knowledge, they marveled, & knew them, that they had been with Jesus: and beholding also the man which was healed standing with them, they had nothing to say against it. Then they commanded them to go aside out of the Council, and conferred among themselves, saying, What shall we do to these men? For surely a manifest sign is done by them and it is openly known to all them that dwell in Jerusalem: and we cannot deny it. But that it be noised no farther among the people, let us threaten and charge them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this Name. So they called them, and commanded them, that in no wise they should speak or teach in the Name of Jesus. But Peter and John answered unto them, and said, Whether it be right in the sight of God, to obey you rather than God, judge ye. For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard. So they threatened them, and let them go, and found nothing how to punish them, because of the people: for all men praised God for that which was done. For the man was above forty years old on whom this miracle of healing was shewed. Then as soon as they were let go, they came to their fellows and shewed all that the high Priests and Elders had said unto them. And when they heard it, they lift up their voices to God with one accord, and said, O Lord, thou art the God which hast made the heaven, and the earth, the sea, and all things that are in them, which by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, Why did the Gentiles rage, and the people imagine vain things? The Kings of the earth assembled, and the rulers came together against the Lord, and against his Christ. For doubtless, against thine holy Son Jesus, whom thou hadst anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and the people of Israel gathered themselves together, to do whatsoever thine hand, and thy counsel had determined before to be done. And now, O Lord, behold their threatenings, and grant unto thy servants with all boldness to speak thy word, so that thou stretch forth thine hand, that healing, and signs, and wonders may be done by the Name of thine holy Son Jesus. And when as they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together, and they were all filled with the holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God boldly. And the multitude of them that believed, were of one heart, and of one soul: neither any of them said, that any thing of that which he possessed, was his own, but they had all things common.

And with great power gave the Apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and great grace was upon them all. Neither was there any among them, that lacked: for as many as were possessors of lands or houses, sold them, and brought the price of the things that were sold, and laid it down at the Apostles feet, and it was distributed unto every man, according as he had need. Also Joses which was called of the Apostles, Barnabas (that is by interpretation the son of consolation) being a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, where as he had land, sold it, and brought the money, & laid it down at the Apostles feet. But a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession, and kept away part of the price, his wife also being of counsel, and brought a certain part, and laid it down at the Apostles feet. Then said Peter, Ananias, why hath

Satan filled thine heart, that thou should lie unto the holy Ghost, and keep away part of the price of this possession? Whiles it remained, appertained it not unto thee? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? how is it that thou hast conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God. Now when Ananias heard these words, he fell down, and gave up the ghost. Then great fear came on all them that heard these things. And the young men rose up, and took him up, and carried him out, and buried him. And it came to pass about the space of three hours after, that his wife came in, ignorant of that which was done. And Peter said unto her, Tell me, sold ye the land for so much? And she said, Yea, for so much. Then Peter said unto her, Why have ye agreed together, to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thine husband, are at the door, and shall carry thee out. Then she fell down straightway at his feet, and yielded up the ghost: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and carried her out, and buried her by her husband. And great fear came on all the Church and on as many as heard these things. Thus by the hands of the Apostles were many signs and wonders shewed among the people (and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch. And of the other durst no man join him self to them: nevertheless the people magnified them. Also the number of them that believed in the Lord, both of men and women, grew more and more) in so much that they brought the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least way the shadow of Peter, when he came by, might shadow some of them. There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, & them which were vexed with unclean spirits, who were all healed.

Then the chief Priest rose up and all they that were with him (which was the sect of the Sadducees) and were full of indignation, and laid hands on the Apostles, and put them in the common prison. But the Angel of the Lord, by night opened the prison doors, & brought them forth, and said, Go your way, & stand in the Temple, and speak to the people, all the words of this life. So when they heard it, they entered into the Temple early in the morning, & taught; the chief Priest came, and they that were with him, and called the Council together, and all the Elders of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison, to cause them to be brought. But when the officers came, & found them not in the prison, they returned and told it, saying, Certainly we found the prison shut as sure as was possible, and the keepers standing without, before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within. Then when the chief Priest and the captain of the Temple, and the high Priests heard these things, they doubted of them, whereunto this would grow. Then came one and shewed them, saying, Behold, the men that ye put in prison, are standing in the Temple, and teach the people. Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence (for they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned) and when they had brought them, they set them before the Council, & the chief Priest asked them, saying, Did not we straightly command you, that ye should not teach in this Name? & behold, ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and ye would bring this man's blood upon us. Then Peter and the Apostles answered, & said, We ought rather to obey God then men. The God of our fathers hath raised up Jesus, whom ye slew, and hanged on a tree. Him hath God lift up with his right hand, to be a Prince and a Savior, to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins. And we are his witnesses concerning these things which we say: yea, & the holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him. Now when they heard it, they brast for anger, and consulted to slay them. Then stood there up in the Council a certain Pharisee named Gamaliel, a doctor of the Law, honored of all the people, and commanded to put the Apostles forth a little space, and said unto them, Men of Israel, take heed to your selves, what ye intend to do touching these men. For before these times, rose up Theudas boasting himself, to whom resorted a number of men, about a four hundred, who was slain: and they all which obeyed him, were scattered, and brought to naught. After this man, arose up Judas of Galilee, in the days of the tribute, and drew away much people after him: he also perished, and all that obeyed him, were scattered abroad. And now I say unto you, Refrain your selves from these men, and let them alone: for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to naught: but if it be of God, ye can not destroy it, lest ye be found even fighters against God. And to him they agreed, and called the Apostles: and when they had beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the Name of Jesus, and let them go. So they departed from the Council, rejoicing, that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for his Name. And daily in the Temple & from house to house they ceased not to teach, and preach Jesus Christ.

And in those days, as the number of the disciples grew, there arose a murmuring of the Grecians towards the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministering. Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples together, and said, It is not meet that we should leave the word of God to serve the tables. Wherefore brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, and full of the holy Ghost, and of wisdom, which we may appoint to this business. And we will give our selves continually to prayer, and to the ministration of the word. And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Steven a man full of faith and of the holy Ghost, and Philippe, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a Proselyte of Antiochia, which they set before the Apostles: and they prayed, and laid their hands on them. And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples was multiplied in Jerusalem greatly, and a great company of the Priests were obedient to the faith.

Now Steven full of faith & power, did great wonders and miracles among the people. Then there arose certain of the Synagogue, which are called Libertines, and Cyrenians, and of Alexandria, & of them of Cilicia, and of Asia, and disputed with Steven. But they were not able to resist the wisdom, and the Spirit by the which he spake. Then they suborned men, which said, We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and God. Thus they moved the people & the Elders, and the Scribes: and running upon him, caught him, and brought him to the Council, and set forth false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place, and the Law. For we have heard him say, that this Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the ordinances, which Moses gave us. And as all that sat in the Council, looked steadfastly on him, they saw his face as it had been the face of an Angel. Then said the chief Priest, Are these things so? And he said, Ye men, brethren and Fathers, hearken. That God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham, while he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran, and said unto him, Come out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land, which I shall shew thee. Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran; after that his father was dead, God brought him from thence into this land, wherein ye now dwell, and he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not the breadth of a foot: yet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child. But God spake thus, that his seed should be a sojourner in a strange land: and that they should keep it in bondage, and entreat it evil four hundredth years. But the nation to whom they shall be in bondage, will I judge, saith God: and after that, they shall come forth and serve me in this place. He gave him also the covenant of circumcision: and so Abraham begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day: and Isaac begat Jacob, and Jacob the twelve Patriarchs. And the Patriarchs moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt: but God was with him, and delivered him out of all his afflictions, and gave him favor and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh King of Egypt, who made him governor over Egypt, and over his whole house.

Then came there a famine over all the land of Egypt and Canaan, and great affliction, that our fathers found no sustenance. But when Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent our fathers first: and at the second time, Joseph was known of his brethren, and Josephs kindred was made known unto Pharaoh. Then sent Joseph and caused his father to be brought, and all his kindred, even threescore and fifteen souls. So Jacob went down into Egypt, and he died, and our fathers, and were removed into Sychem, and were put in the sepulchre, that Abraham had bought for money of the sons of Emor, son of Sychem. But when the time of the promises drew near, which God had sworn to Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt, till another King arose, which knew not Joseph. The same dealt subtly with our kindred, and evil entreated our fathers, and made them to cast out their young children, that they should not remain alive. The same time was Moses born, and was acceptable unto God, which was nourished up in his father's house three months. And when he was cast out, Pharaoh's daughter took him up, and nourished him for her own son. And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds. Now when he was full forty year old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren, the children of Israel. And when he saw one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, & avenged his quarrel that had the harm done to him, and smote the Egyptian. For he supposed his brethren would have understand that God by his hand should give them deliverance: but they understood it not. And the next day, he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren: why do ye wrong one to another? But he that did his neighbor wrong thrust him away, saying, Who made thee a prince, and a judge over us? Wilt thou kill me, as thou didst the Egyptian yesterday? Then fled Moses at that saying, and was a stranger in the land of Madian, where he begat two sons. And when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sinai, an Angel of the Lord in a flame of fire, in a bush. And when Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight: and as he drew near to consider it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, saying, I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moses trembled, & durst not behold it. Then the Lord said to him, Put off thy shoes from thy feet: for the place where thou stand, is holy ground. I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people, which is in Egypt, & I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them: and now come, and I will send thee into Egypt. This Moses whom they forsook, saying, Who made thee a prince and a judge? The same God sent for a prince, & a deliverer by the hand of the Angel, which appeared to him in the bush. He brought them out, doing wonders and miracles in the land of Egypt, and in the red sea, and in the wilderness forty years. This is that Moses, which said unto the children of Israel, A Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you, even of your brethren, like unto me: him shall ye hear. This is he that was in the Congregation, in the wilderness with the Angel, which spake to him in mount Sinai, and with our fathers, who received the lively oracles to give unto us. To whom our fathers would not obey, but refused, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt: saying unto Aaron, Make us gods that may go before us: for we know not what is become of this Moses that brought us out of the land of Egypt. And they made a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands. Then God turned himself away, and gave them up to serve the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the Prophets, O house of Israel, have ye offered to me slain beasts and sacrifices by the space of forty years in the wilderness? And ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, figures, which ye made to worship them: therefore I will carry you away beyond Babylon. Our fathers had the tabernacle of witness, in the wilderness, as he had appointed, speaking unto Moses, that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen. Which tabernacle also our fathers received, and brought in with Jesus into the possession of the Gentiles, which God drave out before our fathers, unto the days of David: who found favor before God, and desired that he might find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. But Solomon built him an house. Howbeit the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands, as saith the Prophet, heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build for me, saith the Lord? or what place is it that I should rest in? Hath not mine hand made all these things? Ye stiff-necked and of uncircumcised hearts and ears, ye have always resisted the holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do you. Which of the Prophets have not your fathers persecuted? & they have slain them, which shewed before of the coming of that Just, of whom ye are now the betrayers and murderers, which have received the Law by the ordinance of Angels, and have not kept it. But when they heard these things, their hearts brast for anger and they gnashed at him with their teeth. But he being full of the holy Ghost, looked steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, & Jesus standing at the right hand of God, and said, Behold, I see the heavens open, and the Son of man standing at the right hand of God. Then they gave a shout with a loud voice, and stopped their ears, and ran upon him violently all at once, and cast him out of the city, and stoned him: and the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, named Saul. And they stoned Steven, who called on God, and said, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit. And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge; when he had thus spoken, he slept. And Saul consented to his death, and at that time, there was a great persecution against the Church which was at Jerusalem, and they were all scattered abroad thorough the regions of Judea and of Samaria, except the Apostles. Then certain men fearing God, carried Steven amongst them, to be buried, and made great lamentation for him. But Saul made havoc of the Church, and entered into every house, and drew out both men and women, and put them into prison. Therefore they that were scattered abroad went to and from preaching the word.

Then came Philip into the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them. And the people gave heed unto those things which Philippe spake, with one accord, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did. For unclean spirits crying with a loud voice, came out of many that were possessed of them: and many taken with palsies, & that halted, were healed. And there was great joy in that city. And there was before in the city a certain man called Simon, which used witchcraft, and bewitched the people of Samaria, saying that he himself was some great man. To whom they gave heed from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is that great power of God. And they gave heed unto him, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries. But as soon as they believed Philip, which preached the things that concerned the kingdom of God, and the Name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized both men and women. Then Simon himself believed also and was baptized, and continued with Philippe, and wondered, when he saw the signs and great miracles which were done.

Now when the Apostles, which were at Jerusalem, heard say, that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John. Which when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the holy Ghost. (For as yet, he was fallen down on none of them, but they were baptized only in the Name of the Lord Jesus.) Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the holy Ghost. And when Simon saw, that through laying on of the Apostles hands the holy Ghost was given, he offered them money, saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay the hands, he may receive the holy Ghost. Then said Peter unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because thou thinkest that the gift of God may be obtained with money. Thou hast neither part nor fellowship in this businesses: for thine heart is not right in the sight of God. Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, that if it be possible, the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee. For I see that thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity. Then answered Simon, and said, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken, come upon me.

So they, when they had testified & preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the Gospel in many towns of the Samaritans. Then the Angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise, and go toward the South unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is waste. And he arose and went on: and behold, a certain Eunuch of Ethiopia, Candaces the Queen of the Ethiopians chief Governor, who had the rule of all her treasure, and came to Jerusalem to worship: and as he returned sitting in his chariot, he read Esaias the Prophet. Then the Spirit said unto Philip, Go near and join thy self to yonder chariot. And Philip ran thither, and heard him read the Prophet Esaias, and said, But understand thou what thou read? And he said, How can I, except I had a guide? And he desired Philip that he would come up and sit with him. Now the place of the Scripture which he read was this, He was lead as a sheep to the slaughter: and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth. In his humility his judgment hath been exalted: but who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth. Then the Eunuch answered Philip, and said, I pray thee of whom speaketh the Prophet this? of himself, or of some other man? Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same Scripture, & preached unto him Jesus. And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water, and the Eunuch said, See, here is water: what doth let me to be baptized? And Philip said unto him, If thou believe with all thine heart, thou may. Then he answered, and said, I believe that that Jesus Christ is that Son of God. Then he commanded the chariot to stand still: & they went down both into the water, both Philip and the Eunuch, and he baptized him. And as soon as they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the Eunuch saw him no more: so he went on his way rejoicing. But Philip was found at Azotus, and he walked to and from preaching in all the cities, till he came to Cesarea.

And Saul yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high Priest, and desired of him letters to Damascus to the Synagogues, that if he found any that were of that way (either men or women) he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem. Now as he journeyed, it came to pass that as he was come near to Damascus, suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven. And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice, saying to him, Saul, Saul, why persecute thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecute: it is hard for thee to kick against pricks. He then both trembling and astonished, said, Lord, what wilt thou that I do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou shalt do. The men also which journeyed with him, stood amazed, hearing his voice, but seeing no man. And Saul arose from the ground, and opened his eyes, but saw no man. Then led they him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus, where he was three days without sight, and neither ate nor drank. And there was a certain disciple at Damascus named Ananias, and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias; he said, Behold, I am here Lord. Then the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and seek in the house of Judas after one called Saul of Tarsus: for behold, he prayeth. (And he saw in a vision a man named Ananias coming in to him, and putting his hands on him, that he might receive his sight.) Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem. Moreover here he hath authority of the high Priests, to bind all that call on thy Name. Then the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my Name before the Gentiles, and Kings, and the children of Israel. For I will shew him, how many things he must suffer for my Names sake. Then Ananias went his way, and entered into that house, and put his hands on him, and said, Brother Saul, the Lord hath sent me (even Jesus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou came) that thou might receive thy sight, and be filled with the holy Ghost. And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales, & suddenly he received sight, and arose, and was baptized, and received meat, & was strengthened. So was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus. And straightway he preached Christ in the Synagogues, that he was that Son of God, so that all that heard him, were amazed, and said, Is not this he, that made havoc of them which called on this Name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he should bring them bound unto the high Priests? But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, confirming, that this was that Christ. And after that many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counsel together, to kill him, but their laying await was known of Saul: now they watched the gates day and night, that they might kill him. Then the disciples took him by night, and put him through the wall, and let him down by a rope in a basket. And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to join himself with the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple. But

Barnabas took him, and brought him to the Apostles, and declared to them, how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken unto him, and how he had spoken boldly at Damascus in the Name of Jesus. And he was conversant with them at Jerusalem, and spake boldly in the Name of the Lord Jesus, and spake and disputed against the Grecians: but they went about to slay him. But when the brethren knew it, they brought him to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus. Then had the Churches rest through all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, and were edified and walked in the fear of the Lord, and were multiplied by the comfort of the holy Ghost.

And it came to pass, as Peter walked throughout all quarters, he came also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda. And there he found a certain man named Aeneas, which had kept his couch eight years, and was sick of the palsy. Then said Peter unto him, Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise and truss thy couch together; he arose immediately. And all that dwelt at Lydda and Saron, saw him, and turned to the Lord. There was also at Joppa a certain woman, a disciple named Tabitha (which by interpretation is called Dorcas) she was full of good works and alms which she did. And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick & died: and when they had washed her, they laid her in an upper chamber. Now forasmuch as Lydda was near to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring that he would not delay to come unto them. Then Peter arose and came with them: and when he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber, where all the widows stood by him weeping and shewing the coats and garments, which Dorcas made, while she was with them. But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed, and turned him to the body, and said, Tabitha, arise; she opened her eyes, and when she saw Peter, sat up. Then he gave her the hand and lift her up, and called the Saints and widows, and restored her alive. And it was known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord. And it came to pass that he tarried many days in Joppa with one Simon a Tanner.

Furthermore there was a certain man in Cesarea called Cornelius, a captain of the band called the Italian band, a devout man, and one that feared God with all his household, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed God continually. He saw in a vision evidently (about the ninth hour of the day) an Angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius. But when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? And he said unto him, Thy prayers & thine alms are come up into remembrance before God. Now therefore send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter. He lodgeth with one Simon a Tanner, whose house is by the sea side: he shall tell thee what thou ought to do. And when the Angel which spake unto Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his servants, and a soldier that feared God, one of them that waited on him, and told them all things, and sent them to Joppa. On the morrow as they went on their journey, and drew near unto the city, Peter went up upon the house to pray, about the sixth hour. Then waxed he an hungered, and would have eaten: but while they made some thing ready, he fell into a trance. And he saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel come down unto him, as it had been a great sheet, knit at the four corners, & was let down to the earth. Wherein were all manner of four footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts and creeping things, and fowls of the heaven. And there came a voice to him, Arise, Peter: kill, and eat. But Peter said, Not so, Lord: for I have never eaten any thing that is polluted, or unclean. And the voice spake unto him again the second time, The things that God hath purified, pollute thou not. This was so done thrice: and the vessel was drawn up again into heaven.

Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen, meant, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius, had inquired for Simons house, and stood at the gate, and called, and asked, whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there. And while Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee. Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, and doubt nothing: For I have sent them. Then Peter went down to the men, which were sent unto him from Cornelius, and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come? And they said, Cornelius the captain, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from heaven by an holy Angel, to send for thee into his house, and to hear thy words. Then called he them in, and lodged them, and the next day, Peter went forth with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him. And the day after, they entered into Cesarea.

Now Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen, and special friends. And it came to pass as Peter came in, that Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him. But Peter took him up, saying, Stand up: for even I myself am a man. And as he talked with him, he came in, and found many that were come together. And he said unto them, Ye know that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew, to company, or come unto one of another nation: but God hath shewed me, that I should not call any man polluted, or unclean. Therefore came I unto you without saying nay, when I was sent for. I ask therefore, for what intent have ye sent for me? Then Cornelius said, Four days ago, about this hour, I fasted, & at the ninth hour I prayed in mine house, and behold, a man stood before me in bright clothing, and said, Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God. Send therefore to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter (he is lodged in the house of Simon a Tanner by the sea side) who when he cometh, shall speak unto thee. Then sent I for thee immediately, and thou hast well done to come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God. Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive, that God is no acceptor of persons. But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. Ye know the word which God hath sent to the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ, which is Lord of all: even the word which came through all Judea, beginning in Galilee, after the baptism which John preached. To wit, how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the holy Ghost, and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil: for God was with him. And we are witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem, whom they slew, hanging him on a tree. Him God raised up the third day, and caused that he was shewed openly: not to all the people, but unto the witnesses chosen before of God, even to us which did eat and drink with him, after he arose from the dead. And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify, that it is he that is ordained of God a judge of quick and dead. To him also give all the Prophets witness that through his Name all that believe in him shall receive remission of sins. While Peter yet spake these words, the holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. So they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was powered out the gift of the holy Ghost. For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the holy Ghost, as well as we? So he commanded them to be baptized in the Name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

Now the Apostles and the brethren that were in Judea, heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God. And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they of the circumcision contended against him, saying, Thou went in to men uncircumcised, and hast eaten with them. Then Peter began, and expounded the thing in order to them, saying, I was in the city of Joppa, praying, and in a trance I saw this vision, A certain vessel coming down as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by the four corners, and it came to me. Toward the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered and saw four footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the heaven. Also I heard a voice, saying unto me, Arise, Peter: slay and eat. And I said, God forbid, Lord: for nothing polluted or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth. But the voice answered me the second time from heaven, The things that God hath purified, pollute thou not. And this was done three times, and all were taken up again into heaven. Then behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cesarea unto me. And the Spirit said unto me, that I should go with them, without doubting: moreover these six brethren came with me, and we entered into the man's house. And he shewed us, how he had seen an Angel in his house, which stood and said to him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter. He shall speak words unto thee, whereby both thou and all thine house shall be saved. And as I began to speak, the holy Ghost fell on them, even as upon us at the beginning. Then I remembered the word of the Lord, how he said, John baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the holy Ghost. For as much then as God gave them a like gift, as he did unto us, when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I, that I could let God? When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life. And they which were scattered abroad because of the affliction that arose about Steven, went throughout till they came unto Phenice and Cyprus, and Antiochia, preaching the word to no man, but unto the Jews only. Now some of them were men of Cyprus and of Cyrene, which when they were come into Antiochia, spake unto the Grecians, and preached the Lord Jesus. And the hand of the Lord was with them, so that a great number believed and turned unto the Lord. Then tidings of those things came unto the ears of the Church, which was in Jerusalem, and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go unto Antiochia. Who when he was come and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted all, that with purpose of heart they would continue in the Lord. For he was a good man, and full of the holy Ghost, and faith, and much people joined themselves unto the Lord. Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus to seek Saul: and when he had found him, he brought him unto Antiochia: and it came to pass that a whole year they were conversant with the Church, and taught much people, in so much that the disciples were first called Christians in Antiochia. In those days also came Prophets from Jerusalem unto Antiochia. And there stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified by the Spirit, that there should be great famine throughout all the world, which also came to pass under Claudius Cesar. Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, purposed to send succor unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea. Which thing they also did, and sent it to the Elders, by the hand of Barnabas and Saul.

Now about that time, Herod the King stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the Church, and he killed James the brother of John with the sword. And when he saw that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further, to take Peter also (then were the days of unleavened bread.) And when he had caught him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to be kept, intending after the Passover to bring him forth to the people. So Peter was kept in prison, but earnest prayer was made of the Church unto God for him. And when Herod would have brought him out unto the people, the same night slept Peter between two soldiers, bound with two chains, and the keepers before the door, kept the prison. And behold the Angel of the Lord came upon them, and a light shined in the house, and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise quickly; his chains fell off from his hands. And the Angel said unto him, Gird thy self, and bind on thy sandals; so he did. Then he said unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me. So Peter came out and followed him, and knew not that it was true, which was done by the Angel, but thought he had seen a vision. Now when they were past the first and the second watch, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them by it own accord, and they went out, and passed through one street, and by and by the Angel departed from him. And when Peter was come to himself, he said; Now I know for a truth, that the Lord hath sent his Angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the waiting for of the people of the Jews. And as he considered the thing, he came to the house of Marie, the mother of John, whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together, and prayed. And when Peter knocked at the entry door, a maid came forth to hearken, named Rhode, but when she knew Peters voice, she opened not the entry door for gladness, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the entry. But they said unto her, Thou art mad. Yet she affirmed it constantly, that it was so. Then said they, It is his Angel. But Peter continued knocking, and when they had opened it, and saw him, they were astonished. And he beckoned unto them with the hand, to hold their peace, and told them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison; he said, Go shew these things unto James and to the brethren: and he departed and went into another place. Now as soon as it was day, there was no small trouble among the soldiers, what was become of Peter. And when Herod had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded them to be led to be punished; he went down from Judea to Cesarea, and there abode. Then Herod was angry with them of Tyrus and Sidon, but they came all with one accord unto him, and persuaded Blastus the Kings Chamberlaine, and they desired peace, because their country was nourished by the Kings land. And upon a day appointed, Herod arrayed himself in royal apparel, and sat on the judgment seat, and made an oration unto them. And the people gave a shout, saying, The voice of God, and not of man. But immediately the Angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not glory unto God, so that he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost. And the word of God grew, and multiplied. So Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their office, and took with them John, whose surname was Mark.

There were also in the Church that was at Antiochia, certain Prophets and teachers, as Barnabas, and Simeon called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manahen (which had been brought up with Herod the Tetrarche) and Saul. Now as they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them. Then fasted they and prayed, and laid their hands on them, and let them go. And they, after they were sent forth of the holy Ghost, came down unto Seleucia, and from thence they sailed to Cyprus. And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the Synagogues of the Jews: and they had also John to their minister. So when they had gone throughout the isle unto Paphus, they found a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, being a Jew, named Bariesus, which was with the Deputy Sergius Paulus, a prudent man. He called unto him Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God. But Elymas, the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, and sought to turn away the Deputy from the faith. Then Saul (which also is called Paul) being full of the holy Ghost, set his eyes on him, and said, O full of all subtlety and all mischief, the child of the devil, and enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the straight ways of the Lord? Now therefore behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, and not see the sun for a season; immediately there fell on him a mist & a darkness; and he went about, seeking some to lead him by the hand. Then the Deputy when he saw what was done, believed, and was astonished at the doctrine of the Lord. Now when Paul & they that were with him were departed by ship from Paphus, they came to Perga a city of Pamphylia: then John departed from them, and returned to Jerusalem. But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antiochia a city of Pisidia, & went into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day, & sat down. And after the lecture of the Law & Prophets, the rulers of the Synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men & brethren, if ye have any word of exhortation for the people, say on. Then Paul stood up and beckoned with the hand, and said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, hearken. The God of this people of Israel chose our fathers, and exalted the people when they dwelt in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm brought them out thereof. And about the time of forty years, suffered he their manners in the wildernesses. And he destroyed seven nations in the land of Chanaan, & divided their land to them by lot. Then afterward he gave unto them Judges about four hundred and fifty years, unto the time of Samuel the Prophet. So after that, they desired a King & God gave unto them Saul, the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin by the space of forty years. And after he had taken him away, he raised up David to be their King, of whom he witnessed, saying, I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, which will do all things that I will. Of this man's seed hath God according to his promise raised up to Israel, the Savior Jesus: when John had first preached before his coming the baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel. And when John had fulfilled his course, he said, Whom ye think that I am, I am not he: but behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoe of his feet I am not worthy to loose. Ye men and brethren, children of the generation of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent. For the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the words of the Prophets, which are read every Sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him. And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate to kill him. And when they had fulfilled all things that were written of him, they took him down from the tree, and put him in a sepulchre. But God raised him up from the dead. And he was seen many days of them, which came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, which are his witnesses unto the people. And we declare unto you, that touching the promise made unto the fathers, God hath fulfilled it unto us their children, in that he raised up Jesus, even as it is written in the second Psalm, Thou art my Son: this day have I begotten thee. Now as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he hath said thus, I will give you the holy things of David, which are faithful. Wherefore he saith also in another place, Thou wilt not suffer thine Holy one to see corruption. Howbeit, David after he had served his time by the counsel of God, he slept, and was laid with his fathers, and saw corruption. But he whom God raised up, saw no corruption. Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins. And from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the Law of Moses, by him every one that believeth, is justified. Beware therefore lest that come upon you, which is spoken of in the Prophets, behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and vanish away: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall not believe, if a man would declare it you. And when they were come out of the Synagogue of the Jews, the Gentiles besought, that they would preach these words to them the next Sabbath day. Now when the congregation was dissolved, many of the Jews and Proselytes that feared God, followed Paul & Barnabas, which spake to them, and exhorted them to continue in the grace of God.

And the next Sabbath day came almost the whole city together, to hear the word of God. But when the Jews saw the people, they were full of envy, and spake against those things, which were spoken of Paul, contrarying them, and railing on them. Then Paul and Barnabas spake boldly, and said, It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken unto you: but seeing ye put it from you, and judge your selves unworthy of everlasting life, loe, we turn to the Gentiles. For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have made thee a light of the Gentiles, that thou should be the salvation unto the end of the world. And when the Gentiles heard it, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained unto eternal life, believed. Thus the word of the Lord was published throughout the whole country. But the Jews stirred certain devout & honorable women, and the chief men of the city, and raised persecution against Paul & Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coasts. But they shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto Iconium. And the disciples were filled with joy, and with the holy Ghost. And it came to pass in Iconium that they went both together into the Synagogue of the Jews, & so spake, that a great multitude both of the Jews and of the Grecians believed. And the unbelieving Jews stirred up, and corrupted the minds of the Gentiles against the brethren. So therefore they abode there a long time, and spake boldly in the Lord, which gave testimony unto the word of his grace, and caused signs and wonders to be done by their hands. But the multitude of the city was divided: and some were with the Jews, and some with the Apostles. And when there was an assault made both of the Gentiles, and of the Jews with their rulers, to do them violence, and to stone them, they were ware of it, and fled unto Lystra, and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and unto the region round about, and there preached the Gospel.

Now there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, which was a cripple from his mother's womb, who had never walked. He heard Paul speak: who beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed, said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet; he leaped up, and walked. Then when the people saw what Paul had done, they lift up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia, gods are come down to us in the likeness of men. And they called Barnabas, Jupiter: and Paul, Mercurius, because he was the chief speaker. Then Jupiter's priest, which was before their city, brought bulls with garlands unto the gates, & would have sacrificed with the people. But when the Apostles, Barnabas and Paul heard it, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying, and saying, O men, why do ye these things? We are even men subject to the like passions that ye be, and preach unto you, that ye should turn from these vain things unto the living God, which made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all things that in them are: who in times past suffered all the Gentiles to walk in their own ways. Nevertheless, he left not him self without witness, in that he did good and gave us rain from heaven, & fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food, and gladness. And speaking these things, scarce appeased they the multitude, that they had not sacrificed unto them. Then there came certain Jews from Antiochia and Iconium, which when they had persuaded the people, stoned Paul, and drew him out of the city, supposing he had been dead. Howbeit, as the disciples stood round about him, he arose up, and came into the city, and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe. And after they had preached the glad tidings of the Gospel to that city, and had taught many, they returned to Lystra, and to Iconium, and to Antiochia, confirming the disciple's hearts, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, affirming that we must through many afflictions enter into the kingdom of God. And when they had ordained them Elders by election in every Church, and prayed, and fasted, they commended them to the Lord in whom they believed. Thus they went throughout Pisidia, and came to Pamphylia. And when they had preached the word in Perga, they came down to Attalia, and thence sailed to Antiochia, from whence they had been commended unto the grace of God, to the work, which they had fulfilled. And when they were come & had gathered the Church together, they rehearsed all the things that God had done by them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles. So there they abode a long time with the disciples.

Then came down certain from Judea, and taught the brethren, saying, Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved. And when there was great dissension, and disputation by Paul and Barnabas against them, they ordained that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the Apostles and Elders about this question. Thus being brought forth by the Church, they passed through Phenice and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles, and they brought great joy unto all the brethren. And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the Church, and of the Apostles and Elders, and they declared what things God had done by them. But said they, certain of the sect of the Pharisees, which did believe, rose up, saying, that it was needful to circumcise them, and to command them to keep the law of Moses. Then the Apostles and Elders came together to look to this matter. And when there had been great disputation, Peter rose up, and said unto them, Ye men and brethren, ye know that a good while ago, among us God chose out me, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the Gospel, and believe. And God which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, in giving unto them the holy Ghost even as he did unto us. And he put no difference between us and them, after that by faith he had purified their hearts. Now therefore, why tempt ye God, to lay a yoke on the disciples necks, which neither our fathers, nor we were able to bear? But we believe, through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ to be saved, even as they do. Then all the multitude kept silence, and heard Barnabas and Paul, which told what signs and wonders God had done among the Gentiles by them. And when they held their peace, James answered, saying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me. Simeon hath declared how God first did visit the Gentiles, to take of them a people unto his Name. And to this agree the words of the Prophets, as it is written, After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down, and the ruins thereof will I build again, and I will set it up, that the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon whom my Name is called, saith the Lord which doeth all these things. From the beginning of the world, God knoweth all his works. Wherefore my sentence is that we trouble not them of the Gentiles that are turned to God, but that we send unto them, that they abstain themselves from filthiness of idols, and fornication, and that that is strangled, and from blood. For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, seeing he is read in the Synagogues every Sabbath day. Then it seemed good to the Apostles and Elders with the whole Church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antiochia with Paul and Barnabas: to wit, Judas whose surname was Barsabas and Silas, which were chief men among the brethren, and wrote letters by them after this manner, The Apostles, and the Elders, and the brethren, unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antiochia, and in Syria, and in Cilicia, send greeting. Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us, have troubled you with words, and cumbered your minds, saying, Ye must be circumcised and keep the Law: to whom we gave no such commandment, it seemed therefore good to us, when we were come together with one accord, to send chosen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, men that have given up their lives for the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ. We have therefore sent Judas and Silas, which shall also tell you ye same things by mouth. For it seemed good to the holy Ghost, and to us, to lay no more burden upon you, then these necessary things, that is, that ye abstain from things offered to idols, and blood, and that that is

Now when they were departed, they came to Antiochia, and after that they had assembled the multitude, they delivered the Epistle. And when they had read it, they rejoiced for the consolation. And Judas and Silas being Prophets, exhorted the brethren with many words, & strengthened them. And after they had tarried there a space, they were let go in peace of the brethren unto the Apostles. Notwithstanding Silas thought good to abide there still. Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antiochia, teaching and preaching with many other, the word of the Lord. But after certain days, Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us return, & visit our brethren in every city, where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do. And Barnabas counseled to take with them John, called Mark. But Paul thought it not meet to take him unto their company, which departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work. Then were they so stirred, that they departed asunder one from the other, so that Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto Cyprus. And Paul chose Silas and departed, being commended of the brethren unto the grace of God. And he went through Syria and Cilicia, stablishing the Churches.

Then came he to Derbe and to Lystra: and behold, a certain disciple was there named Timotheus, a woman's son, which was a Jewesse and believed, but his father was a Grecian, of whom the brethren which were at Lystra and Iconium, reported well. Therefore Paul would that he should go forth with him, and took and circumcised him, because of the Jews, which were in those quarters: for they knew all, that his father was a Grecian. And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees to keep, ordained of the Apostles & Elders, which were at Jerusalem. And so were the Churches stablished in the faith, and increased in number daily. Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, they were forbidden of the holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia. Then came they to Mysia, and sought to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit suffered them not. Therefore they passed through Mysia, and came down to Troas, where a vision appeared to Paul in the night. There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come into Macedonia, and help us. And after he had seen the vision, immediately we prepared to go into Macedonia, being assured that the Lord had called us to preach the Gospel unto them. Then went we forth from Troas, and with a straight course came to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis, and from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city in the parts of Macedonia, & whose inhabitants came from Rome to dwell there, and we were in that city abiding certain days. And on the Sabbath day, we went out of the city, besides a River, where they were wont to pray: and we sat down, and spake unto the women, which were come together. And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of the Thyatirians, which worshipped

God, heard us: whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things, which Paul spake. And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into mine house, and abide there: and she constrained us. And it came to pass that as we went to prayer, a certain maid having a spirit of divination, met us, which gave her masters much vantage with divining. She followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto you the way of salvation. And this did she many days: but Paul being grieved, turned about, and said to the spirit, I command thee in the Name of Jesus Christ, that thou come out of her; he came out the same hour. Now when her masters saw that the hope of their gain was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and drew them into the market place unto the Magistrates, and brought them to the governors, saying, These men which are Jews, trouble our city, and preach ordinances, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, seeing we are Romans. The people also rose up together against them, and the governors rent their clothes, and commanded them to be beaten with rods. And when they had beaten them sore, they cast them into prison, commanding the Jailer to keep them surely. Who having received such commandment, cast them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks. Now at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sung Psalms unto God: and the prisoners heard them. And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundation of the prison was shaken: and by and by all the doors opened, and every man's bands were loosed. Then the keeper of the prison waked out of his sleep, and when he saw the prison doors open, he drew out his sword and would have killed himself, supposing the prisoners had been fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thy self no harm: for we are all here. Then he called for a light, and leaped in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas, and brought them out, and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said, Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, & thine household. And they preached unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in the house. Afterward he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes, and was baptized with all that belonged unto him, straightway. And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced that he with all his household believed in God. And when it was day, the governors sent the sergeants, saying, Let those men go. Then the keeper of the prison told these words unto Paul, saying, The governor have sent to loose you: now therefore get you hence, and go in peace. Then said Paul unto them, After that they have beaten us openly uncondemned, which are Romans, they have cast us into prison, and now would they put us out privily? nay verily: but let them come and bring us out. And the sergeants told these words unto the governors, who feared when they heard that they were Romans. Then came they and prayed them, and brought them out, and desired them to depart out of the city. And they went out of the prison, and entered into the house of Lydia: and when they had seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

Now as they passed through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a Synagogue of the Jews. And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three Sabbath days disputed with them by the Scriptures, opening, & alleging that Christ must have suffered, and risen again from the dead: and this is Jesus Christ, whom, said he, I preach to you. And some of them believed, and joined in company with Paul and Silas: also of the Grecians that feared God a great multitude and of the chief women not a few. But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain vagabonds and wicked fellows, and when they had assembled the multitude, they made a tumult in the city, and made assault against the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people. But when they found them not, they drew Jason & certain brethren unto the heads of the city, crying, These are they which have subverted the state of the world, and here they are, whom Jason hath received, and these all do against the decrees of Cesar, saying that there is another King, one Jesus. Then they troubled the people, and the heads of the city, when they heard these things. Notwithstanding when they had received sufficient assurance of Jason and of the other, they let them go. And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea, which when they were come thither, entered into the Synagogue of the Jews. These were also more noble men then they which were at Thessalonica, which received the word with all readiness, and searched the Scriptures daily, whether those things were so. Therefore many of them believed, and of honest women, which were Grecians, and men not a few. But when the Jews of Thessalonica knew, that the word of God was also preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither also, & moved the people. But by and by the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there still. And they that did conduct Paul brought him unto Athens: and when they had received a commandment unto Silas and Timotheus that they should come to him at once, they departed.

Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was stirred in him, when he saw the city subject to idolatry. Therefore he disputed in the Synagogue with the Jews, and with them that were religious, and in the market daily with whomsoever he met. Then certain Philosophers of the Epicures, and of the Stoickes, disputed with him, and some said, What will this babblers say? Others said, He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods (because he preached unto them Jesus, and the resurrection.) and they took him, and brought him into Mars street, saying, May we not know, what this new doctrine, whereof thou speak, is? For thou bring certain strange things unto our ears: we would know therefore, what these things mean. For all the Athenians, and strangers which dwelt there, gave them selves to nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some news. Then

Paul stood in the midst of Mars street, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar wherein was written, Unto The Unknown God. Whom ye then ignorantly worship, him shew I unto you. God that made the world, and all things that are therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands, neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he giveth to all life and breath and all things, and hath made of one blood all mankind, to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath assigned the seasons which were ordained before, and the bounds of their habitation, that they should seek the Lord, if so be they might have groped after him, and found him though doubtless he be not far from every one of us. For in him we live, and move, and have our being, as also certain of your own Poets have said, for we are also his generation. Forasmuch then, as we are the generation of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone graven by art and the invention of man. And the time of this ignorance God regarded not: but now he admonisheth all men everywhere to repent, because he hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteousness, by that man whom he hath appointed, whereof he hath given an assurance to all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead. Now when they heard of the resurrection from the dead, some mocked, and other said, We will hear thee again of this thing. And so Paul departed from among them. Howbeit certain men clave unto Paul, and believed: among whom was also Denys Areopagita, and a woman named Damaris, and other with them.

After these things, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinthus, and found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, and his wife Priscilla (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome) and he came unto them. And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them and wrought (for their craft was to make tents.) and he disputed in the Synagogue every Sabbath day, and exhorted the Jews, and the Grecians. Now when Silas & Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul, forced in spirit, testified to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ. And when they resisted and blasphemed, he shook his raiment, & said unto them, Your blood be upon your own head: I am clean: from henceforth will I go unto the Gentiles. So he departed thence, & entered into a certain man's house, named Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house joined hard to the Synagogue. And Crispus the chief ruler of the Synagogue, believed in the Lord with all his household: and many of the Corinthians hearing it, believed and were baptized. Then said the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Fear not, but speak, and hold not thy peace. For I am with thee and no man shall lay hands on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city. So he continued there a year & six months, and taught the word of God among them.

Now when Gallio was Deputy of Achaia, the Jews arose with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment seat, saying, This fellow persuadeth me to worship God otherwise then the Law appointeth. And as Paul was about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong, or an evil deed, O ye Jews, I would according to reason maintain you. But if it be a question of words, and names, and of your Law, look ye to it your selves: for I will be no judge of those things. And he drave them from the judgment seat. Then took all the Grecians Sosthenes the chief ruler of the Synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat: but Gallio cared nothing for those things. But when Paul had tarried there yet a good while, he took leave of the brethren, and sailed into Syria (and with him Priscilla and Aquila) after that he had shorn his head in Cenchrea: for he had a vow. Then he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he entered into the Synagogue and disputed with the Jews. Who desired him to tarry a longer time with them: but he would not consent, but bade the farewell, saying, I must needs keep this feast that cometh, in Jerusalem: but I will return again unto you, if God will. So he sailed from Ephesus. And when he came down to Cesarea, he went up to Jerusalem: and when he had saluted the Church, he went down unto Antiochia. Now when he had tarried there a while, he departed, and went through the country of Galatia and Phrygia by order, strengthening all the disciples. And a certain Jew named Apollos, borne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man and mighty in the Scriptures. The same was instructed in the way of the Lord, and he spake fervently in the Spirit, and taught diligently the things of the Lord, & knew but the baptism of John only. And he began to speak boldly in the Synagogue. Whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. And when he was minded to go into Achaia, the brethren exhorting him wrote to the disciples to receive him: and after he was come thither, he helped them much which had believed through grace. For mightily he confuted publicly the Jews, with great vehemence, shewing by the Scriptures, that Jesus was that Christ.

And it came to pass, while Apollos was at Corinthus, that Paul when he passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus, and found certain disciples, and said unto them, Have ye received the holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be an holy Ghost. And he said unto them, Unto what were ye then baptized? And they said, Unto Johns baptism. Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe in him, which should come after him, that is, in Christ Jesus. And when they heard it, they were baptized in the Name of the Lord Jesus. So Paul laid his hands upon them, and the holy Ghost came on them, and they spake the tongues, and prophesied. And all the men were about twelve. Moreover he went into the Synagogue and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and exhorting to the things that appertain to the kingdom of God. But when certain were hardened, and disobeyed, speaking evil of the way of God before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, and disputed daily in the school of one Tyrannus. And this was done by the space of two years, so that all they which dwelt in Asia, heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews & Grecians. And God wrought no small miracles by the hands of Paul, so that from his body were brought unto the sick, kerchiefs or handkerchiefs, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them. Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, took in hand to name over them which had evil spirits, the Name of the Lord Jesus, saying, We adjure you by Jesus, whom Paul preacheth. (And there were certain sons of Sceva a Jew, the Priest, about seven which did this) And the evil spirit answered, and said, Jesus I acknowledge, and Paul I know: but who are ye? And the man in whom the evil spirit was, ran on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house, naked, and wounded. And this was known to all the Jews and Grecians also, which dwelt at Ephesus, and fear came on them all, and the Name of the Lord Jesus was magnified, and many that believed, came and confessed, and shewed their works. Many also of them which used curious arts, brought their books, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver. So the word of God grew mightily, and prevailed.

Now when these things were accomplished, Paul purposed by the Spirit to pass through Macedonia and Achaia, and to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him, Timotheus and Erastus, but he remained in Asia for a season. And the same time there arose no small trouble about that way. For a certain man named Demetrius a silversmith, which made silver temples of Diana, brought great gains unto the craftsmen, whom he called together, with the workmen of like things, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our goods: moreover ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia this Paul hath persuaded, and turned away much people, saying, That they be not gods which are made with hands. So that not only this thing is dangerous unto us, that this our portion shall be reproved, but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be nothing esteemed, and that it would come to pass that her magnificence, which all Asia & the world worshippeth, should be destroyed. Now when they heard it, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians. And the whole city was full of confusion, and they rushed into the common place with one assent, and caught Gaius, and Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, and Paul's companions of his journey. And when Paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not. Certain also of the chief of Asia which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not present himself in the Common place. Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was out of order, and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together. And some of the company drew forth Alexander, the Jews thrusting him forwards. Alexander then beckoned with the hand, and would have excused the matter to the people. But when they knew that he was a Jew, there arose a shout almost for the space of two hours, of all men crying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians. Then the town clerk when he had stayed the people, said, Ye men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not how that the city of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the great goddess Diana, and of the image, which came down from Jupiter? Seeing then that no man can speak against these things, ye ought to be appeased, and to do nothing rashly. For ye have brought hither these men, which have neither committed sacrilege, neither do blaspheme your goddess. Wherefore, if Demetrius and the crafts men which are with him have a matter against any man, the law is open, and there are Deputies: let them accuse one another. But if ye inquire any thing concerning other matters, it may be determined in a lawful assembly. For we are even in jeopardy to be accused of this days sedition, for as much as there is no cause, whereby we may give a reason of this concourse of people. And when he had thus spoken, he let the assembly depart.

Now after the tumult was appeased, Paul called the disciples unto him, and embraced them, and departed to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone through those parts, and had exhorted them with many words, he came into Grecia. And having tarried there three months, because the Jews laid wait for him, as he was about to sail into Syria, he purposed to return through Macedonia. And there accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berea, and of them of Thessalonica, Aristarchus, and Secundus, and Gaius of Derbe, and Timotheus, and of them of Asia, Tychicus, and Trophimus. These went before, and tarried us at Troas. And we sailed forth from Philippi, after the days of unleavened bread, & came unto them to Troas in five days, where we abode seven days. And the first day of the week, the disciples being come together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued the preaching unto midnight. And there were many lights in an upper chamber, where they were gathered together. And there sat in a window a certain young man, named Eutychus, fallen into a dead sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he overcome with sleep, fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead. But Paul went down, and laid himself upon him, and embraced him, saying, Trouble not yourselves: for his life is in him. Then when Paul was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, having spoken a long while till the dawning of the day, he so departed. And they brought the boy alive, and they were not a little comforted.

Then we went before to ship, and sailed unto the city Assos, that we might receive Paul there: for so had he appointed, and would himself go afoot. Now when he was come unto us to Assos, and we had received him, we came to Mitylenes. And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chios, and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium: the next day we came to Miletum. For Paul had determined to sail by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia: for he hasted to be, if he could possible, at Jerusalem, at the day of Pentecost. Wherefore from Miletus, he sent to Ephesus, and called the Elders of the Church. Who when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons, serving the Lord with all modesty, and with many tears, and temptations, which came unto me by the layings await of the Jews, and how I kept back nothing that was profitable, but have shewed you, and taught you openly and throughout every house, witnessing both to the Jews, and to the Grecians the repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ. And now behold, I go bound in the Spirit unto Jerusalem, and know not what things shall come unto me there, save that the holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying, that bonds and afflictions abide me. But I pass not at all, neither is my life dear unto myself, so that I may fulfill my course with joy, and the ministration which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the grace of God. And now behold, I know that henceforth ye all, through whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more. Wherefore I take you to record this day that I am pure from the blood of all men. For I have kept nothing back, but have shewed you all the counsel of God. Take heed therefore unto your selves, and to all the flock, whereof the holy Ghost hath made you Overseers, to feed the Church of God, which he hath purchased with that his own blood. For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock. Moreover of your own selves shall men arise speaking perverse things, to draw disciples after them. Therefore watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one, both night and day with tears. And now brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build further, and to give you an inheritance, among all them, which are sanctified. I have coveted no man's silver, nor gold, nor apparel. Yea, ye know that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me. I have shewed you all things, how that so laboring, ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how that he said, It is a blessed thing to give, rather than to receive. And when he had thus spoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all. Then they wept all abundantly, and fell on Paul's neck, and kissed him, being chiefly sorry for the words which he spake, That they should see his face no more; they accompanied him unto the ship.

And as we launched forth, and were departed from them, we came with a straight course unto Coos, and the day following unto the Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara. And we found a ship that went over unto Phenice, and went aboard, and set forth. And when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, & sailed toward Syria, and arrived at

Tyrus: for there the ship unladed the burden. And when we had found disciples, we tarried there seven days; they told Paul through the Spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem. But when the days were ended, we departed & went our way, & they all accompanied us with their wives & children, even out of the city: and we kneeling down on the shore, prayed. Then when we had embraced one another, we took ship, and they returned home. And when we had ended the course from Tyrus, we arrived at Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day. And the next day, Paul and we that were with him, departed, and came unto Cesarea: and we entered into the house of Philip the Evangelist, which was one of the seven Deacons, and abode with him. Now he had four daughters virgins, which did prophecy. And as we tarried there many days, there came a certain Prophet from Judea, named Agabus. And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands & feet, and said, Thus saith the holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that oweth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles. And when we had heard these things, both we and other of the same place besought him that he would not go up to Jerusalem. Then Paul answered, and said, What do ye weeping and breaking mine heart? For I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the Name of the Lord Jesus. So when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, The will of the Lord be done. And after those days we trussed up our fardels, and went up to Jerusalem. There went with us also certain of the disciples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly. And the next day Paul went in with us unto James: and all the Elders were there assembled. And when he had embraced them, he told by order all things, that God had wrought among the Gentiles by his ministration. So when they heard it, they glorified God, and said unto him, Thou see, brother, how many thousand Jews there are which believe, and they are all zealous of the Law: now they are informed of thee, that thou teach all the Jews, which are among the Gentiles, to forsake Moses, and say that they ought not to circumcise their sons, neither to live after the customs. What is then to be done? the multitude must needs come together: for they shall hear that thou art come. Do therefore this that we say to thee. We have four men, which have made a vow, them take, and purify thy self with them, and contribute with them, that they may shave their heads: and all shall know, that those things, whereof they have been informed concerning thee, are nothing, but that thou thy self also walk and keep the Law. For as touching the Gentiles, which believe, we have written, & determined that they observe no such thing, but that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from that that is strangled, and from fornication. Then Paul took the men, and the next day was purified with them, and entered into the Temple, declaring the accomplishment of the days of the purification, until that an offering should be offered for every one of them. And when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews which were of Asia (when they saw him in the Temple) moved all the people, and laid hands on him, crying, Men of Israel, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the Law, and this place: moreover, he hath brought Grecians into the Temple, and hath polluted this holy place. For they had seen before Trophimus an Ephesian with him in the city, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the Temple. Then all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took Paul and drew him out of the Temple, and forth with the doors were shut. But as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was on an uproar. Who immediately took soldiers & Centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief Captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul. Then the chief Captain came near and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains, and demanded who he was, and what he had done. And one cried this, another that, among the people. So when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be led into the castle. And when he came unto the grieces, it was so that he was born of the soldiers, for the violence of the people. For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, Away with him.

And as Paul should have been led into the castle, he said unto the chief Captain, May I speak unto thee? Who said, Canst thou speak Greek? Art not thou the Egyptian who before these days raised a sedition, and led out into the wilderness four thousand men that were murderers? Then Paul said, Doubtless, I am a man which am a Jew, and citizen of Tarsus, a famous city of Cilicia, and I beseech thee, suffer me to speak unto the people. And when he had given him license, Paul stood on the grieces, & beckoned with the hand unto the people: and when there was made great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying, Ye men, brethren and Fathers, hear my defence now towards you. (And when they heard that he spake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more silence, and he said) I am verily a man, which am a Jew, born in Tarsus in Cilicia, but brought up in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, & instructed according to the perfect manner of the Law of the Fathers, and was zealous toward God, as ye all are this day. And I persecuted this way unto the death; binding and delivering into prison both men and women. As also the chief Priest doth bear me witness, & all the company of the Elders: of whom also I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damascus to bring them which were there, bound unto Jerusalem, that they might be punished. And so it was, as I journeyed and was come near unto Damascus about noon that suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me. So I fell unto the earth, and heard a voice, saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecute thou me? Then I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said to me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecute. Moreover they that were with me saw indeed a light and were afraid: but they heard not the voice of him that spake unto me. Then I said, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus: and there it shall be told thee of all things, which are appointed for thee to do. So when I could not see for the glory of that light, I was led by the hand of them that were with me, and came into Damascus. And one Ananias, a godly man as pertaining to the Law, having good report of all the Jews which dwelt there, came unto me, and stood, and said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight: and that same hour I looked upon him. And he said, The God of our fathers hath appointed thee, that thou should know his will, and should see that Just one, and should hear the voice of his mouth. For thou shalt be his witness unto all men, of the things which thou hast seen and heard. Now therefore why tarry thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, in calling on the Name of the Lord. And it came to pass, that when I was come again to Jerusalem, and prayed in the Temple, I was in a trance, and saw him saying unto me, Make haste, and get thee quickly out of Jerusalem: for they will not receive thy witness concerning me. Then I said, Lord, they know that I prisoned, and beat in every Synagogue them that believed in thee. And when the blood of thy martyr Steven was shed, I also stood by, and consented unto his death, & kept the clothes of them that slew him. Then he said unto me, Depart: for I will send thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

And they heard him unto this word, but then they lift up their voices, and said, Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not meet that he should live. And as they cried & cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the air, the chief captain commanded him to be led into the castle, and bade that he should be scourged, and examined, that he might know wherefore they cried so on him. And as they bound him with thongs, Paul said unto the Centurion that stood by, Is it lawful for you to scourge one that is a Roman, and not condemned? Now when the Centurion heard it, he went, and told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou do: for this man is a Roman. Then the chief captain came, and said to him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? And he said, Yea. And the chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this freedom. Then Paul said, But I was so born. Then straightway they departed from him, which should have examined him: and the chief captain also was afraid, after he knew that he was a Roman, and that he had bound him. On the next day, because he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accused of the Jews; he loosed him from his bonds, and commanded the high Priests and all their Council to come together: and he brought Paul, and set him before them. And Paul beheld earnestly the Council, and said, Men and brethren, I have in all good conscience served God until this day. Then the high Priest Ananias commanded them that stood by, to smite him on the mouth. Then said Paul to him, God will smite thee, thou whited wall: for thou sit to judge me according to the Law, and transgressing the Law, command thou me to be smitten? And they that stood by, said, Revile thou God's high Priest? Then said Paul, I knew not, brethren, that he was the high Priest: for it is written, Thou shalt not speak evil of the ruler of thy people. But when Paul perceived that the one part were of the Sadducees, and the other of the Pharisees, he cried in the Council, Men and brethren, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee: I am accused of the hope and resurrection of the dead. And when he had said this, there was a dissension between the Pharisees and the Sadducees, so that the multitude was divided. For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither Angel, nor spirit: but the Pharisees confess both. Then there was a great cry: and the Scribes of the Pharisees part rose up, and strove, saying, We find none evil in this man: but if a spirit or an Angel hath spoken to him, let us not fight against God. And when there was a great dissension, the chief captain, fearing lest Paul should have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the soldiers to go down, and take him from among them, and to bring him into the castle. Now the night following, the Lord stood by him, and said, Be of good courage, Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome. And when the day was come, certain of the Jews made an assembly, and bound themselves with a curse, saying, that they would neither eat nor drink, till they had killed Paul. And they were more than forty, which had made this conspiracy. And they came to the chief Priests and Elders, and said, We have bound our selves with a solemn curse, that we will eat nothing, until we have slain Paul. Now therefore, ye and the Council signify to the chief captain, that he bring him forth unto you tomorrow: as though you would know some thing more perfectly of him, and we, or ever he come near, will be ready to kill him. But when Paul's sisters son heard of their laying await, he went, and entered into the castle, and told Paul. And Paul called one of the Centurions unto him, and said, Take this young man hence unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to shew him. So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and said, Paul the prisoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, which hath some thing to say unto thee. Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went apart with him alone, and asked him, What hast thou to shew me? And he said, The Jews have conspired to desire thee, that thou would bring forth Paul tomorrow into the Council, as though they would inquire somewhat of him more perfectly: but let them not persuade thee: for there lie in wait for him of them, more than forty men, which have bound themselves with a curse, that they will neither eat nor drink, till they have killed him: and now are they ready, and wait for thy promises. The chief captain then let the young man depart, after he had charged him to utter it to no man, that he had shewed him these things. And he called unto him two certain Centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred soldiers, that they may go to Cæsarea, and horsemen three score and ten, and two hundred with darts, at the third hour of the night. And let them make ready an horse, that Paul being set on, may be brought safe unto Felix the Governor. And he wrote an epistle in this manner: Claudius Lysias unto the most noble Governor Felix sendeth greeting. As this man was taken of the Jews, and should have been killed of them, I came upon them with the garrison, and rescued him, perceiving that he was a Roman. And when I would have known the cause, wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their Council. There I perceived that he was accused of questions of their Law, but had no crime worthy of death, or of bonds. And when it was shewed me, how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I sent him straightway to thee, and commanded his accusers to speak before thee the things that they had against him. Farewell. Then the soldiers as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to Antipatris. And the next day, they left the horsemen to go with him, and returned unto the Castle. Now when they came to Cæsarea, they delivered the epistle to the Governor, and presented Paul also unto him. So when the Governor had read it, he asked of what province he was: and when he understood that he was of Cilicia, I will hear thee, said he, when thine accusers also are come, and commanded him to be kept in Herod's judgment hall.

Now after five days, Ananias the high Priest came down with the Elders, and with Tertullus a certain orator, which appeared before the Governor against Paul. And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, Seeing that we have obtained great quietness through thee, and that many worthy things are done unto this nation through thy providence, we acknowledge it wholly, and in all places most noble Felix, with all thanks, but that I be not tedious unto thee, I pray thee, that thou would hear us of thy courtesy a few words. Certainly we have found this man a pestilent fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a chief maintainer of the sect of the Nazarites: and hath gone about to pollute the Temple: therefore we took him, and would have judged him according to our Law: but the chief captain Lysias came upon us, and with great violence took him out of our hands, commanding his accusers to come to thee: of whom thou may (if thou wilt inquire) know all these things whereof we accuse him. And the Jews likewise affirmed, saying that it was so. Then Paul, after that the governor had beckoned unto him that he should speak, answered, I do the more gladly answer for myself, for as much as I know that thou hast been of many years a judge unto this nation, seeing that thou may know, that there are but twelve days since I came up to worship in Jerusalem. And they neither found me in the Temple disputing with any man, neither making uproar among the people, neither in the Synagogues, nor in the city. Neither can they prove the things, whereof they now accuse me. But this I confess unto thee, that after the way (which they call heresy) so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the Law and the Prophets, and have hope towards God, that the resurrection of the dead, which they themselves look for also, shall be both of just and unjust. And herein I endeavor myself to have alway a clear conscience toward God, and toward men. Now after many years, I came & brought alms to my nation and offerings. At what time, certain Jews of Asia found me purified in the Temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult. Who ought to have been present before thee, and accuse me, if they had ought against me. Or let these themselves say, if they have found any unjust thing in me, while I stood in the Council, except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, Of the resurrection of the dead am I accused of you this day. Now when Felix heard these things, he deferred them, and said, When I shall more perfectly know the things which concern this way, by the coming of Lysias the chief Captain, I will decide your matter. Then he commanded a Centurion to keep Paul, and that he should have ease, and that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister unto him, or to come unto him. And after certain days, came Felix with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewess, and he called forth Paul, and heard him of the faith in Christ. And as he disputed of righteousness & temperance, & of the judgment to come, Felix trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time, and when I have convenient time, I will call for thee. He hoped also that money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftener, and communed with him. When two years were expired, Porcius Festus came into Felix room: and Felix willing to get favor of the Jews, left Paul bound.

When Festus was then come into the province, after three days he went up from Cæsarea unto Jerusalem. Then the high Priest and the chief of the Jews appeared before him against Paul: and they besought him, and desired favor against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem: and they laid wait to kill him by the way. But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cæsarea, and that he himself would shortly depart thither. Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, come down with us: and if there be any wickedness in the man, let them accuse him. Now when he had tarried among them no more then ten days, he went down to Cæsarea, and the next day sat in the judgment seat, and commanded Paul to be brought. And when he was come, the Jews which were come from Jerusalem, stood about him and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, whereof they could make no plain proof, forasmuch as he answered, that he had neither offended any thing against the law of the Jews, neither against ye temple, nor against Cæsar. Yet Festus willing to get favor of the Jews, answered Paul and said, Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me? Then said Paul, I stand at Cæsar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews I have done no wrong, as thou very well know. For if I have done wrong, or committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof they accuse me, no man, to pleasure them, can deliver me to them: I appeal unto Cæsar. Then when Festus had spoken with the Council, he answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cæsar? unto Cæsar shalt thou go.

And after certain days, King Agrippa and Bernice came down to Cæsarea to salute Festus. And when they had remained there many days, Festus declared Paul's cause unto the King, saying, There is a certain man left in prison by Felix, of whom when I came to Jerusalem, the high Priests and Elders of the Jews informed me, and desired to have judgment against him. To whom I answered, that it is not the manner of the Romans for favor to deliver any man to the death, before that he which is accused, have the accusers before him, and have place to defend himself, concerning the crime. Therefore when they were come hither, without delay the day following I sat on the judgment seat, and commanded the man to be brought forth. Against whom when the accusers stood up, they brought no crime of such things as I supposed: but had certain questions against him of their own superstition, and of one Jesus which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive. And because I doubted of such manner of question, I asked him whether he would go to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things. But because he appealed to be reserved to the examination of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept, till I might send him to Cesar. Then Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also hear the man myself. Tomorrow, said he, thou shalt hear him. And on the morrow when Agrippa was come and Bernice with great pomp, and were entered into the Common hall with the chief captains and chief men of the city, at Festus commandment Paul was brought forth. And Festus said, King Agrippa, & all men which are present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have called upon me, both at Jerusalem, and here, crying, that he ought not to live any longer. Yet have I found nothing worthy of death, that he hath committed: nevertheless, seeing that he hath appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him. Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my Lord: wherefore I have brought him forth unto you, and specially unto thee, King Agrippa, that after examination had, I might have somewhat to write. For me thinketh it unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not to shew the causes which are laid against him. Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speak for thy self. So Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself. I think myself happy, King Agrippa, because I shall answer this day before thee of all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews. Chiefly, because thou hast knowledge of all customs, and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee, to hear me patiently. As touching my life from my childhood, and what it was from the beginning among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews, which knew me heretofore, even from my elders (if they would testify) that after the most strait sect of our religion I lived a Pharisee. And now I stand and am accused for the hope of the promises made of God unto our fathers. Whereunto our twelve tribes instantly serving God day and night, hope to come: for the which hopes sake, O King Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews. Why should it be thought a thing incredible unto you, that God should raise again the dead? I also verily thought in myself, that I ought to do many contrary things against the Name of Jesus of Nazareth. Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: for many of the Saints I shut up in prison, having received authority of the high Priests, and when they were put to death, I gave my sentence. And I punished them throughout all the Synagogues, and compelled them to blaspheme, and being more mad against them, I persecuted them, even unto strange cities. At which time, even as I went to Damascus with authority, and commission from the high Priests, at midday, O King, I saw in the way a light from heaven, passing the brightness of the sun, shine round about me, and them which went with me. So when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking unto me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecute thou me? It is hard for thee to kick against pricks. Then I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecute. But rise and stand up on thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to appoint thee a minister and a witness, both of the things which thou hast seen, and of the things in the which I will appear unto thee, delivering thee from this people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee, to open their eyes, that they may turn from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them, which are sanctified by faith in me. Wherefore, King Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision, but shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, & throughout all the coasts of Judea, & then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do works worthy amendment of life. For this cause the Jews caught me in the Temple, and went about to kill me. Nevertheless, I obtained help of God, and continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and to great, saying none other things, then those which the Prophets and Moses did say should come, to wit, that Christ should suffer, and that he should be the first that should rise from the dead, and should shew light unto this people, and to the Gentiles. And as he thus answered for himself, Festus said with a loud voice, Paul, thou art besides thy self: much learning doth make thee mad. But he said, I am not mad, O noble Festus, but I speak the words of truth and soberness. For the King knoweth of these things, before whom also I speak boldly: for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him: for this thing was not done in a corner. O King Agrippa, believe thou the Prophets? I know that thou believe. Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuade me to become a Christian. Then Paul said, I would to God that not only thou, but also all that hear me to day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds. And when he had thus spoken, the King rose up, and the governor, and Bernice, and they that sat with them. And when they were gone apart, they talked between themselves, saying, This man doeth nothing worthy of death, nor of bonds. Then said Agrippa unto Festus, This man might have been loosed, if he had not appealed unto Cesar.

Now when it was concluded that we should sail into Italy, they delivered both Paul, and certain other prisoners unto a Centurion named Julius, of the band of Augustus. And we entered into a ship of Adramyttium purposing to sail by the coasts of Asia, and launched forth, and had Aristarchus of Macedonia, a Thessalonian, with us. And the next day we arrived at Sidon: and Julius courteously entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends, that they might refresh him. And from thence we launched, and sailed hard by Cyprus, because the winds were contrary. Then sailed we over the sea by Cilicia, and Pamphilia, and came to Myra, a city in Lycia. And there the Centurion found a ship of Alexandria, sailing into Italy, and put us therein. And when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come against Gnidum, because the wind suffered us not, we sailed hard by Candie, near to Salmone, and with much ado sailed beyond it, and came unto a certain place called the Faire havens, near unto the which was the city Lasea. So when much time was spent, and sailing was now jeopardous, because also the Fast was now passed, Paul exhorted them, and said unto them, Sirs, I see that this voyage will be with hurt & much damage, not of the lading and ship only, but also of our lives. Nevertheless the Centurion believed rather the governor and the master of the ship, then those things which were spoken of Paul. And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, many took counsel to depart thence, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, there to winter, which is an haven of Candie, and lieth toward the Southwest and by West, and Northwest and by West. And when the Southern wind blew softly, they supposing to attain their purpose, loosed nearer, and sailed by Candie. But anon after, there arose by it a stormy wind called Euroclydon. And when the ship was caught, and could not resist the wind, we let her go, and were carried away. And we ran under a little Isle named Claudia, and had much ado to get the boat. Which they took up and used all help, undergirding the ship, fearing lest they should have fallen into Syrtes, and they strake sail, and so were carried. The next day when we were tossed with an exceeding tempest, they lightened the ship. And the third day we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship. And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay upon us, all hope that we should be saved, was then taken away. But after long abstinence, Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkened to me, and not have loosed from Candie: so should ye have gained this hurt and loss. But now I exhort you to be of good courage: for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, save of the ship only. For there stood by me this night the Angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve, saying, Fear not, Paul: for thou must be brought before Cesar: and lo, God hath given unto thee freely all that sail with thee. Wherefore, sirs, be of good courage: for I believe God, that it shall be so as it hath been told me. Howbeit, we must be cast into a certain Island. And when the fourteenth night was come, as we were carried to and from in the Adriaticall sea about midnight, the shipmen deemed that some country approached unto them, and sounded, & found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded again, and found fifteen fathoms. Then fearing lest they should have fallen into some rough places, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished that the day were come. Now as the mariners were about to flee out of the ship, and had let down the boat into the sea under a color as though they would have cast anchors out of the foreship, Paul said unto the Centurion and the soldiers, Except these abide in the ship, ye can not be safe. Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let it fall away. And when it began to be day, Paul exhorted them all to take meat, saying, This is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried, and continued fasting, receiving nothing: wherefore I exhort you to take meat: for this is for your safeguard: for there shall not an hear fall from the head of any of you. And when he had thus spoken, he took bread and gave thanks to God, in presence of them all, and brake it, and began to eat. Then were they all of good courage, and they also took meat. Now we were in the ship in all two hundred three score and sixteen souls. And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, & cast out the wheat into the sea. And when it was day, they knew not the country, but they spied a certain creek with a bank, into the which they were minded (if it were possible) to thrust in the ship. So when they had taken up the anchors, they committed the ship unto the sea, and loosed the rudder bonds, and hoisted up the main sail to the wind, and drew to the shore. And when they fell into a place, where two seas met, they thrust in the ship: and the forepart stuck fast, and could not be moved, but the hinderpart was broken with the violence of the waves. Then the soldiers counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them, when he had swum out, should flee away. But the Centurion willing to save Paul, stayed them from this counsel, and commanded that they that could swim, should cast themselves first into the sea, and go out to land: and the other, some on boards, and some on certain pieces of the ship: and so it came to pass that they came all safe to land. And when they were come safe, then they knew that the Isle was called Melita. And the Barbarians shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, because of the present shower, and because of the cold. And when Paul had gathered a number of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and leapt on his hand. Now when the Barbarians saw the worm hang on his hand, they said among themselves, This man surely is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet Vengeance hath not suffered to live. But he shook off the worm into the fire, and felt no harm. Howbeit they waited when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and saw no inconvenience come to him, they changed their minds, and said, That he was a God. In the same quarters, the chief man of the Isle (whose name was Publius) had possessions: the same received us, and lodged us three days courteously. And so it was that the father of Publius lay sick of the fever, and of a bloody flix: to whom Paul entered in, and when he prayed, he laid his hands on him, and healed him. When this then was done, other also in the Isle, which had diseases, came to him, and were healed, which also did us great honor: and when we departed, they laded us with things necessary.

Now after three months we departed in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the Isle, whose badge was Castor and Pollux. And when we arrived at Syracuse, we tarried there three days. And from thence we set a compass, and came to Rhegium: and after one day, the South wind blew, and we came the second day to Putioli: where we found brethren, and were desired to tarry with them seven days, and so we went toward Rome. And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us at the Market of Appius, and at the Three taverns, whom when Paul saw, he thanked God, and waxed bold. So when we came to Rome, the Centurion delivered the prisoners to the general Captain: but Paul was suffered to dwell by himself with a soldier that kept him. And the third day after, Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come, he said unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing against the people, or Laws of the fathers, yet was I delivered prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans. Who when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Jews spake contrary, I was constrained to appeal unto Cesar, not because I had ought to accuse my nation of. For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see you, and to speak with you: for that hope of Israel's sake, I am bound with this chain. Then they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither came any of the brethren that shewed or spake any evil of thee. But we will hear of thee what thou think: for as concerning this sect, we know that every where it is spoken against. And when they had appointed him a day, there came many unto him into his lodging, to whom he expounded testifying the kingdom of God, and persuading them those things that concern Jesus, both out of the Law of Moses, and out of the Prophets, from morning to night. And some were persuaded with the things which were spoken, and some believed not. Therefore when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one word, to wit, Well spake the holy Ghost by Esaias the Prophet unto our fathers, saying, Go unto this people, and say, By hearing ye shall hear, & shall not understand, and seeing ye shall see, and not perceive. For the heart of this people is waxed fat, and their ears are dull of hearing, and with their eyes have they winked, least they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and should return that I might heal them. Be it known therefore unto you, that this salvation of God is sent to the Gentiles, and they shall hear it. And when he had said these things, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves. And Paul remained two years full in an house hired for himself, and received all that came in unto him, preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all boldness of speech, without let.

The Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the ROMANS

Paul a servant of Jesus Christ called to be an Apostle, put apart to preach the Gospel of God, (Which he had promised afore by his Prophets in the holy Scriptures) concerning his Son Jesus Christ our Lord (which was made of the seed of David according to the flesh, and declared mightily to be the Son of God, touching the Spirit of sanctification by the resurrection from the dead) by whom we have received grace and Apostleship (that obedience might be given unto the faith) for his Name among all the Gentiles, among whom ye be also the called of Jesus Christ: To all you that be at Rome beloved of God, called to be Saints: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. First I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, because your faith is published throughout the whole world. For God is my witness (whom I serve in my spirit in the Gospel of his Son) that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers, beseeching that by some means, one time or other I might have a prosperous journey by the will of God, to come unto you. For I long to see you, that I might bestow among you some spiritual gift, that you might be strengthened: That is, that I might be comforted together with you, through our mutual faith, both yours and mine.

Now my brethren, I would that ye should not be ignorant, how that I have oftentimes purposed to come unto you (but have been let hitherto) that I might have some fruit also among you, as I have among the other Gentiles. I am debtor both to the Grecians, and to the Barbarians, both to the wise men and unto the unwise. Therefore, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the Gospel to you also that are at Rome. For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Grecian. For by it the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith. For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, which withhold the truth in unrighteousness. Forasmuch as that, which may be known of God, is manifest in them: for God hath shewed it unto them. For the invisible things of him, that is, his eternal power & Godhead, are seen by the creation of the world, being considered in his works, to the intent that they should be without excuse: Because that when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful, but became vain in their thoughts, and their foolish heart was full of darkness. When they professed themselves to be wise, they became fools. For they turned the glory of the incorruptible God to the similitude of the image of a corruptible man, and of birds, and four footed beasts, and of creeping things. Wherefore also God gave them up to their hearts lusts, unto uncleanness, to defile their own bodies between themselves: Which turned the truth of God unto a lie, and worshipped and served the creature, forsaking the Creator, which is blessed forever, Amen. For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature. And likewise also the men left the natural use of the woman, and burned in their lust one toward another and man with man wrought filthiness, and received in themselves such recompense of their error, as was meet. For as they regarded not to acknowledge God, even so God delivered them up unto a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient, being full of all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness, full of envy, of murder, of debate, of deceit, taking all things in the evil part, whisperers, backbiters, haters of God, doers of wrong, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, without understanding, covenant breakers, without natural affection, such as can never be appeased, merciless. Which men, though they knew the Law of God, how that they which commit such things are worthy of death, yet not only do the same, but also favor them that do them. Therefore thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that condemn: for in that that thou condemn another, thou condemn thy self: for thou that condemn, do the same things. But we know that the judgment of God is according to truth, against them which commit such things. And think thou this, O thou man, that condemn them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God? Or despise thou the riches of his bountifulness, and patience, and long sufferance, not knowing that the bountifulness of God leadeth thee to repentance? But thou, after thine hardness, and heart that cannot repent, heap up as a treasure unto thy self wrath against the day of wrath, and of the declaration of the just judgment of God, who will reward every man according to his works: That is, to them which through patience in well doing, seek glory, and honor, and immortality, everlasting life: But unto them that are contentious and disobey the truth, and obey unrighteousness, shall be indignation and wrath. Tribulation and anguish shall be upon the soul of every man that doeth evil: of the Jew first, and also of the Grecian. But to every man that doeth good, shall be glory, and honor, and peace: to the Jew first, and also to the Grecian. For there is no respect of persons with God. For as many as have sinned without the Law, shall perish also without the Law: and as many as have sinned in the Law, shall be judged by the Law, (For the hearers of the Law are not righteous before God: but the doers of the Law shall be justified. For when the Gentiles which have not the Law, do by nature, the things contained in the Law, they having not the Law, are a Law unto themselves, which shew the effect of the Law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts accusing one another, or excusing,) at the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ, according to my Gospel.

Behold, thou art called a Jew, and rests in the Law, and glories in God, and knows his will, and tries the things that dissent from it, in that thou art instructed by the Law: And persuades thy self that thou art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness, an instructor of them which lack discretion, a teacher of the unlearned, which hast the form of knowledge, & of the truth in the Law. Thou therefore, which teaches another, teaches thou not thy self? thou that preaches, A man should not steal, doest thou steal? Thou that says, A man should not commit adultery, doest thou commit adultery? thou that abhors idols, commits thou sacrilege? Thou that glory's in the Law, through breaking the Law, dishonors thou God? For the Name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles through you, as it is written. For circumcision verily is profitable, if thou do the Law: but if thou be a transgressor of the Law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision. Therefore if the uncircumcision keep the ordinances of the Law, shall not his uncircumcision be counted for circumcision? And shall not uncircumcision which is by nature (if it keep the Law) condemn thee which by the letter and circumcision art a transgressor of the Law? For he is not a Jew, which is one outward: neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh: But he is a Jew which is one within, and the circumcision is of the heart, in the spirit not in the letter, whose praise is not of men, but of God. What is then the preferment of the Jew? Or what is the profit of circumcision? Much every manner of way: for chiefly, because unto them were of credit committed the oracles of God. For what, though some did not believe? Shall their unbelief make the faith of God without effect? God forbid: yea, let God be true, and every man a liar, as it is written, That thou might be justified in thy words, and overcome, when thou art judged. Now if our unrighteousness commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous which punisheth? (I speak as a man.) God forbid: else how shall God judge the world? For if the verity of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory, why am I yet condemned as a sinner? And (as we are blamed, & as some affirm, that we say) why do we not evil, that good may come thereof? whose damnation is just. What then? Are we more excellent? No, in no wise: for we have already proved, that all, both Jews and Gentiles are under sin, as it is written, There is none righteous, no not one. There is none that understandeth: there is none that seeketh God. They have all gone out of the way: they have been made altogether unprofitable: there is none that doeth good, no not one. Their throat is an open sepulcher: they have used their tongues to deceit: the poison of asps is under their lips. Whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness. Their feet are swift to shed blood. Destruction & calamity are in their ways, and the way of peace they have not known. The fear of God is not before their eyes. Now we know that whatsoever the Law saith, it saith it to them which are under the Law, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world be subject to the judgment of God. Therefore by the works of the Law shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for by the Law cometh the knowledge of sin. But now is the righteousness of God made manifest without the Law, having witness of the Law and of the Prophets, to wit, the righteousness of God by the faith of Jesus Christ, unto all, and upon all that believe. For there is no difference: for all have sinned, and are deprived of the glory of God, and are justified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, whom God hath set forth to be a reconciliation through faith in his blood to declare his righteousness, by the forgiveness of the sins that are passed, through the patience of God, to shew at this time his righteousness that he might be just, and a justifier of him which is of the faith of Jesus. Where is then the rejoicing? It is excluded. By what Law? of works? Nay: but by the Law of faith. Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith, without the works of the Law.

God, is he the God of the Jews only, and not of the Gentiles also? Yes, even of the Gentiles also. For it is one God who shall justify circumcision of faith and uncircumcision through faith. Do we then make the Law of none effect through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the Law. What shall we say then, that Abraham our father hath found concerning the flesh? For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath wherein to rejoice, but not with God. For what saith the Scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him for righteousness. Now to him that worketh, the wages is not counted by favor, but by debt: But to him that worketh not, but believeth in him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness. Even as David declareth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works, saying, Blessed are they, whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered. Blessed is the man, to whom the Lord imputeth not sin. Came this blessedness then upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? For we say, that faith was imputed unto Abraham for righteousness. How was it then imputed? when he was circumcised, or uncircumcised? not when he was circumcised, but when he was uncircumcised. After, he received the sign of circumcision, as the seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had, when he was uncircumcised, that he should be the father of all them that believe, not being circumcised, that righteousness might be imputed to them also, and the father of circumcision, not unto them only which are of the circumcision, but unto them also that walk in the steps of the faith of our father Abraham, which he had when he was uncircumcised. For the promise that he should be the heir of the world, was not given to Abraham, or to his seed, through the Law, but through the righteousness of faith. For if they which are of the Law, be heirs, faith is made void, & the promise is made of none effect. For the Law causeth wrath: for where no Law is, there is no transgression. Therefore it is by faith, that it might come by grace, and the promise might be sure to all the seed, not to that only which is of the Law: but also to that which is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all, (As it is written, I have made thee a father of many nations) even before God whom he believed, who quickeneth the dead, and calleth those things which be not, as though they were. Which Abraham above hope, believed under hope, that he should be the father of many nations: according to that which was spoken to him, So shall thy seed be. And he not weak in the faith, considered not his own body, which was now dead, being almost an hundredth year old, neither the deadness of Sarah's womb. Neither did he doubt of the promise of God through unbelief, but was strengthened in the faith, and gave glory to God, being fully assured that he which had promised, was also able to do it. And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness. Now it is not written for him only, that it was imputed to him for righteousness, but also for us, to whom it shall be imputed for righteousness, which believe in him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead, who was delivered to death for our sins, and is risen again for our justification. Then being justified by faith, we have peace toward God through our Lord Jesus Christ. By whom also through faith, we have had this access into this grace, wherein we stand, and rejoyce under the hope of the glory of God. Neither that only, but also we rejoyce in tribulations, knowing that tribulation bringeth forth patience, and patience experience, and experience hope, and hope maketh not ashamed, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the holy Ghost, which is given unto us. For Christ, when we were yet of no strength, at his time died for the ungodly. Doubtless one will scarce die for a righteous man: but yet for a good man it may be that one dare die. But God setteth out his love towards us, seeing that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him. For if when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life, and not only so, but we also rejoyce in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.

Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, & death by sin, and so death went over all men: in whom all men have sinned. For unto the time of the Law was sin in the world, but sin is not imputed, while there is no law. But death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them also that sinned not after the like manner of that transgression of Adam, which was the figure of him that was to come. But yet the gift is not so, as is the offence: for if through the offence of that one, many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many. Neither is the gift so, as that which entered in by one that sinned: for the fault came of one offence unto condemnation: but the gift is of many offences to justification. For if by the offence of one, death reigned through one, much more shall they which receive that abundance of grace, and of that gift of that righteousness, reign in life through one, that is, Jesus Christ. Likewise then as by the offence of one, the fault came on all men to condemnation, so by the justifying of one, the benefit abounded toward all men to the justification of life. For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by that obedience of that one shall many also be made righteous. Moreover the Law entered thereupon that the offence should abound: nevertheless, where sin abounded, there grace abounded much more: That as sin had reigned unto death, so might grace also reign by righteousness unto eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. What shall we say then? Shall we continue still in sin, that grace may abound? God forbid. How shall we, that are dead to sin, live yet therein? Know ye not, that all we which have been baptized into Jesus Christ, have been baptized into his death? We are buried then with him by baptism into his death that like as Christ was raised up from the dead to the glory of the Father, so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we be planted with him to the similitude of his death, even so shall we be to the similitude of his resurrection, knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin. For he that is dead, is freed from sin. Wherefore, if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall live also with him, knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more: death hath no more dominion over him. For in that he died, he died once to sin but in that he liveth, he liveth to God. Likewise think ye also, that ye are dead to sin, but are alive to God in Jesus Christ our Lord. Let not sin reign therefore in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof: Neither give ye your members, as weapons of unrighteousness unto sin: but give your selves unto God, as they that are alive from the dead, and give your members as weapons of righteousness unto God. For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the Law, but under grace. What then? shall we sin, because we are not under the Law, but under grace? God forbid. Know ye not, that to whomsoever ye give your selves as servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey, whether it be of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness? But God be thanked, that ye have been the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart unto the form of the doctrine, whereunto ye were delivered. Being then made free from sin, ye are made the servants of righteousness. I speak after the manner of man, because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have given your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity, to commit iniquity, so now give your members servants unto righteousness in holiness. For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were freed from righteousness. What fruit had ye then in those things, whereof ye are now ashamed? For the end of those things is death. But now being freed from sin, and made servants unto God, ye have your fruit in holiness, and the end, everlasting life. For the wages of sin is death: but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Know ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the Law) that the Law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth? For the woman which is in subjection to a man, is bound by the Law to the man, while he liveth: but if the man be dead, she is delivered from the law of the man. So then, if while the man liveth, she taketh another man, she shall be called an adulterous: but if the man be dead, she is free from the Law, so that she is not an adulterous, though she take another man. So ye, my brethren, are dead also to the Law by the body of Christ, that ye should be unto another, even unto him that is raised up from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God. For when we were in the flesh, the affections of sins, which were by the Law, had force in our members, to bring forth fruit unto death. But now we are delivered from the Law, he being dead in whom we were holden that we should serve in newness of Spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter. What shall we say then? Is the Law sin? God forbid. Nay, I knew not sin, but by the Law: for I had not known lust, except the Law had said, Thou shalt not lust. But sin took an occasion by ye commandment, and wrought in me all manner of concupiscence: for without the Law sin is dead. For I once was alive, without the Law: but when the commandment came, sin revived, but I died: and the same commandment which was ordained unto life, was found to be unto me unto death. For sin took occasion by the commandment, and deceived me, and thereby slew me. Wherefore the Law is holy, and that commandment is holy, and just, and good. Was that then which is good made death unto me? God forbid: but sin, that it might appear sin, wrought death in me by that which is good, that sin might be out of measure sinful by the commandment. For we know that the Law is spiritual, but I am carnal, sold under sin. For I allow not that which I do: for what I would, that do I not: but what I hate, that do I. If I do then that which I would not, I consent to the Law, that it is good. Now then, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. For I know, that in me, that is, in my flesh, dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me: but I find no means to perform that which is good. For I do not the good thing, which I would, but the evil, which I would not, that do I. Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but the sin that dwelleth in me. I find then that when I would do good, I am thus yoked, that evil is present with me. For I delight in the Law of God, concerning the inner man: But I see another Law in my members, rebelling against the Law of my mind, and leading me captive unto the law of sin, which is in my members. O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death! I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Then I myself in my mind serve the Law of God, but in my flesh the law of sin.

Now then there is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus, which walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the Law of the Spirit of life, which is in Christ Jesus, hath freed me from the law of sin and of death. For (that that was impossible to the Law, in as much as it was weak, because of the flesh) God sending his own Son, in the similitude of sinful flesh, & for sin, condemned sin in the flesh, that that righteousness of the Law might be fulfilled in us, which walk not after ye flesh, but after the Spirit. For they that are after the flesh, savor the things of the flesh: but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit. For the wisdom of the flesh is death: but the wisdom of the Spirit is life and peace, because the wisdom of the flesh is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the Law of God, neither indeed can be. So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God. Now ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, because the spirit of God dwelleth in you: but if any man hath not the Spirit of Christ, the same is not his. And if Christ be in you, the body is dead, because of sin: but the Spirit is life for righteousness sake. But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead, dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead, shall also quicken your mortal bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you. Therefore brethren, we are debtors not to the flesh, to live after the flesh: For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye mortify the deeds of the body by the Spirit, ye shall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. For ye have not received the Spirit of bondage, to fear again: but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry Abba, Father. The same Spirit beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God. If we be children, we are also heirs, even the heirs of God, and heirs annexed with Christ: if so be that we suffer with him, that we may also be glorified with him. For I count that the afflictions of this present time are not worthy of the glory, which shall be shewed unto us. For the fervent desire of the creature waiteth when the sons of God shall be revealed, because the creature is subject to vanity, not of its own will, but by reason of him, which hath subdued it under hope, because the creature also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the sons of God. For we know that every creature groaneth with us also, and travaileth in pain together unto this present. And not only the creature, but we also which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we do sigh in our selves, waiting for the adoption, even the redemption of our body. For we are saved by hope: but hope that is seen is not hope: for how can a man hope for that which he seeth? But if we hope for that we see not, we do with patience abide for it. Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what to pray as we ought: but the Spirit itself maketh request for us with sighs, which cannot be expressed. But he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the meaning of the Spirit: for he maketh request for the Saints, according to the will of God. Also we know that all things work together for the best unto them that love God, even to them that are called of his purpose. For those which he knew before, he also predestinated to be made like to the image of his Son that he might be the first born among many brethren. Moreover whom he predestinated, them also he called, & whom he called, them also he justified, & whom he justified, them he also glorified. What shall we then say to these things? If God be on our side, who can be against us? Who spared not his own Son, but gave him for us all to death, how shall he not with him give us all things also? Who shall lay anything to the charge of God's chosen? it is God that justifieth, who shall condemn? it is Christ which is dead, yea, or rather, which is risen again, who is also at the right hand of God, and maketh request also for us. Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation or anguish, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? As it is written, For thy sake are we killed all day long: we are counted as sheep for the slaughter. Nevertheless, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.

For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor Angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

I say the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience bearing me witness in the holy Ghost, that I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in mine heart. For I would wish myself to be separate from Christ, for my brethren that are my kinsmen according to the flesh, which are the Israelites, to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the Covenants, and the giving of the Law, and the service of God, and the promises. Of who are the fathers, and of whom concerning the flesh, Christ came, who is God over all, blessed forever, Amen. Notwithstanding it cannot be that the word of God should take none effect: for all they are not Israel, which are of Israel: Neither are they all children, because they are the seed of Abraham: but, In Isaac shall thy seed be called: That is, they which are the children of the flesh, are not the children of God: but the children of the promise, are counted for the seed. For this is a word of promise, In this same time will I come, and Sara shall have a son. Neither he only felt this, but also Rebecca when she had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac. For yet the children were born, and when they had neither done good, nor evil (that the purpose of God might remain according to election, not by works, but by him that calleth) it was said unto her, The elder shall serve the younger. As it is written, I have loved Jacob, and have hated Esau. What shall we say then? Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid. For he saith to Moses, I will have mercy on him, to whom I will shew mercy: and will have compassion on him, on who I will have compassion. So then it is not in him that willeth, nor in him that runneth, but in God that sheweth mercy. For the Scripture saith unto Pharaoh, For this same purpose have I stirred thee up, that I might shew my power in thee, and that my Name might be declared throughout all the earth. Therefore he hath mercy on whom he will, and whom he will, he hardeneth. Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet complain? for who hath resisted his will? But, O man, who art thou which pleads against God? shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus? Hath not the potter power of the clay to make of the same lump one vessel to honor, and another unto dishonor? What and if God would, to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, suffer with long patience the vessels of wrath, prepared to destruction? And that he might declare the riches of his glory upon the vessels of mercy, which he hath prepared unto glory? Even us whom he hath called, not of the Jews only, but also of the Gentiles, as he saith also in Osee, I will call them, My people, which were not my people: and her, Beloved, which was not beloved. And it shall be in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, that there they shall be called, The children of the living God. Also Esaias cryeth concerning Israel, Though the number of the children of Israel were as the sand of the sea, yet shall but a remnant be saved. For he will make his account, and gather it into a short sum with righteousness: for the Lord will make a short count in the earth. And as Esaias said before, Except the Lord of hosts had left us a seed; we had been made as Sodom, and had been like to Gomorrah. What shall we say then? That the Gentiles which followed not righteousness have attained unto righteousness, even the righteousness which is of faith. But Israel which followed the Law of righteousness could not attain unto the Law of righteousness. Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the Law: for they have stumbled at the stumbling stone, as it is written, Behold, I lay in Sion a stumbling stone, and a rock to make men fall: and every one that believeth in him, shall not be ashamed.

Brethren, mine heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved. For I bear them record, that they have the zeal of God, but not according to knowledge. For they, being ignorant of the righteousness of God and going about to stablish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves to the righteousness of God. For Christ is the end of the Law for righteousness unto every one that believeth. For Moses thus describeth the righteousness which is of the Law, That the man which doeth these things, shall live thereby. But the righteousness which is of faith, speaketh on this wise, Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is to bring Christ from above) Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is to bring Christ again from the dead) But what saith it? The word is near thee, even in thy mouth, and in thine heart. This is the word of faith which we preach. For if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart, that God raised him up from the dead, thou shalt be saved: For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth man confesseth to salvation. For the Scripture saith, Whosoever believeth in him, shall not be ashamed. For there is no difference between the Jew and the Grecian: for he that is Lord over all, is rich unto all, that call on him. For whosoever shall call upon the Name of the Lord, shall be saved. But how shall they call on him, in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him, of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, Howe beautiful are the feet of them which bring glad tidings of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things! But they have not all obeyed the Gospel: for Esaias saith, Lord, who hath believed our report? Then faith is by hearing, and hearing by the word of God. But I demand, Have they not heard? No doubt their sound went out through all the earth and their words into the ends of the world. But I demand, Did not Israel know God? First Moses saith, I will provoke you to envy by a nation that is not my nation, and by a foolish nation I will anger you. And Esaias is bold, & saith, I was found of them that sought me not, and have been made manifest to them that asked not after me. And unto Israel he saith, All the day long have I stretched forth mine hand unto a disobedient, and gainsaying people. I Demand then, Hath God cast away his people? God forbid: for I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin. God hath not cast away his people which he knew before. Know ye not what the Scripture saith of Elias, how he communeth with God against Israel, saying, Lord, they have killed thy Prophets, and digged down thine altars: and I am left alone, and they seek my life? But what saith the answer of God to him? I have reserved unto myself seven thousand men, which have not bowed the knee to Baal. Even so then at this present time is there a remnant according to the election of grace. And if it be of grace, it is no more of works: or else were grace no more grace: but if it be of works, it is no more grace: or else were work no more work. What then? Israel hath not obtained that he sought: but the election hath obtained it, and the rest have been hardened, according as it is written, God hath given them the spirit of slumber: eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear unto this day. And David saith, Let their table be made a snare, and a net, and a stumbling block, even for a recompense unto them. Let their eyes be darkened that they see not, and bow down their back always. I demand then, Have they stumbled, that they should fall? God forbid: but through their fall, salvation cometh unto the Gentiles, to provoke them to follow them. Wherefore if the fall of them be the riches of the world and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles, how much more shall their abundance be? For in that I speak to you Gentiles, in as much as I am the Apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify mine office, to try if by any means I might provoke them of my flesh to follow them, and might save some of them. For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving be, but life from the dead? For if the first fruits be holy, so is the whole lump: and if the root be holy, so are the branches. And though some of the branches be broken off, and thou being a wild Olive tree, wast grafted in for them, and made partaker of the root, and fatness of the Olive tree. Boast not thy self against the branches: and if thou boast thy self, thou bear not the root, but the root thee. Thou wilt say then, The branches are broken off, that I might be grafted in. Well: through unbelief they are broken off, and thou stand by faith: be not high minded, but fear. For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed, least he also spare not thee. Behold therefore the bountifulness, and severity of God: toward them which have fallen, severity: but toward thee, bountifulness, if thou continue in his bountifulness: or else thou shalt also be cut off. And they also, if they abide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graft them in again. For if thou wast cut out of the Olive tree, which was wild by nature, & wast grafted contrary to nature in a right Olive tree, how much more shall they that are by nature, be grafted in their own Olive tree? For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this secret (lest ye should be arrogant in your selves) that partly obstinacy is come to Israel, until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in. And so all Israel shall be saved, as it is written, The deliverer shall come out of Sion, and shall turn away the ungodliness from Jacob. And this is my covenant to them, When I shall take away their sins. As concerning the Gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are beloved for the Father's sakes. For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance. For even as ye in times past have not believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief: Even so now have they not believed by the mercy shewed unto you, that they also may obtain mercy. For God hath shut up all in unbelief, that he might have mercy on all. O the deepness of the riches, both of the wisdom, and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who was his counselor? Or who hath given unto him first, and he shall be recompensed? For of him, and through him, and for him are all things: to him be glory forever. Amen.

I Beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye give up your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable serving of God. And fashion not your selves like unto this world, but be ye changed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what that good, and acceptable and perfect will of God is. For I say through the grace that is given unto me, to everyone that is among you, that no man presume to understand above that which is meet to understand, but that he understand according to sobriety, as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith. For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not one office, so we being many are one body in Christ, and every one, one another's members. Seeing then that we have gifts that are divers, according to the grace that is given unto us, whether we have prophecy, let us prophecy according to the portion of faith: Or an office, let us wait on the office: or he that teacheth, on teaching: Or he that exhorteth, on exhortation: he that distributeth, let him do it with simplicity: he that ruleth, with diligence: he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness. Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil, and cleave unto that which is good. Be affectioned to love one another with brotherly love. In giving honor, go one before another, not slothful to do service: servant in spirit serving the Lord, rejoicing in hope, patient in tribulation, continuing in prayer, distributing unto the necessities of the Saints: giving your selves to hospitality. Bless them which persecute you: bless, I say, and curse not. Rejoice with them that rejoice, & weep with them that weep. Be of like affection one towards another: be not high minded: but make your selves equal to them of the lower sort: be not wise in your selves. Recompense to no man evil for evil: procure things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as in you is, have peace with all men. Dearly beloved, avenge not your selves, but give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine: I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore, if thine enemy hunger, feed him: if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing, thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with goodness. Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers: for there is no power but of God: and the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves condemnation. For Magistrates are not to be feared for good works, but for evil. Wilt thou then be without fear of the power? do well: so shalt thou have praise of the same. For he is the minister of God for thy wealth, but if thou do evil, fear: for he beareth not the sword for naught: for he is the minister of God to take vengeance on him that doeth evil. Wherefore ye must be subject, not because of wrath only, but also for conscience sake. For, for this cause ye pay also tribute: for they are God's ministers, applying themselves for the same thing. Give to all men therefore their duty: tribute, to whom ye owe tribute: custom, to whom custom: fear, to whom fear: honor, to whom ye owe honor. Owe nothing to any man, but to love one another: for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the Law. For this, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet: and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, even in this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self. Love doeth not evil to his neighbor: therefore is love the fulfilling of the Law. And that, considering the season, that it is now time that we should arise from sleep: for now is our salvation nearer, then when we believed it. The night is past, and the day is at hand, let us therefore cast away the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light, so that we walk honestly, as in the day: not in gluttony, and drunkenness, neither in chambering and wantonness, nor in strife and envying. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and take no thought for the flesh, to fulfill the lusts of it.

Him that is weak in the faith, receive unto you, but not for controversies of disputations. One believeth that he may eat of all things: and another, which is weak, eateth herbs. Let not him that eateth, despise him that eateth not: and let not him which eateth not, condemn him that eateth: for God hath received him. Who art thou that condemn another man's servant? He standeth or falleth to his own master: yea, he shall be established: for God is able to make him stand. This man esteemeth one day above another day, & another man counteth every day alike: let every man be fully persuaded in his mind. He that observeth the day observeth it to the Lord: and he that observeth not the day observeth it not to the Lord. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord: for he giveth God thanks: and he that eateth not, eateth not to the Lord, and giveth God thanks. For none of us liveth to himself, neither doth any die to himself. For whether we live, we live unto the Lord: or whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lords. For Christ therefore died and rose again, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and the quick. But why do thou condemn thy brother? Or why do thou despise thy brother? for we shall all appear before the judgment seat of Christ. For it is written, I live, saith the Lord, and every knee shall bow to me, and all tongues shall confess unto God. So then every one of us shall give accounts of himself to God. Let us not therefore judge one another anymore: but use your judgment rather in this, that no man put an occasion to fall, or a stumbling block before his brother. I know, and am persuaded through the Lord Jesus, that there is nothing unclean of itself: but unto him that judgeth any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean. But if thy brother be grieved for the meat, now walk thou not charitably: destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died. Cause not your commodity to be evil spoken of. For the kingdom of God, is not meat nor drink, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the holy Ghost. For whosoever in these things serveth Christ, is acceptable unto God, and is approved of men. Let us then follow those things which concern peace, and wherewith one may edify another. Destroy not the work of God for meats sake: all things in deed are pure: but it is evil for the man which eateth with offence. It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or made weak. Hast thou faith? have it with thy self before God: blessed is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth. For he that doubteth, is condemned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: and whatsoever is not of faith, is sin. We which are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, & not to please our selves. Therefore let every man please his neighbor in that that is good to edification. For Christ also would not please himself, but as it is written, The rebukes of them which rebuke thee, fell on me. For whatsoever things are written aforetime, are written for our learning, that we through patience, and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope. Now the God of patience and consolation give you that ye be like minded one towards another, according to Christ Jesus, that ye with one mind, and with one mouth may praise God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. Wherefore receive ye one another, as Christ also received us to the glory of God.

Now I say that Jesus Christ was a minister of the circumcision, for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers. And let the Gentiles praise God, for his mercy, as it is written, For this cause I will confess thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy Name. And again he saith, Rejoice, ye Gentiles with his people. And again, Praise the Lord, all ye Gentiles, and laude ye him, all people together. And again Esaias saith, There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles, in him shall the Gentiles trust. Now the God of hope fill you with all joy, and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the holy Ghost. And I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren that ye also are full of goodness, and filled with all knowledge, and are able to admonish one another. Nevertheless, brethren, I have somewhat boldly after a sort written unto you, as one that putteth you in remembrance, through the grace that is given me of God, that I should be the minister of Jesus Christ toward the Gentiles, ministering the Gospel of God, that the offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being sanctified by the holy Ghost. I have therefore whereof I may rejoice in Christ Jesus in those things which pertain to God. For I dare not speak of anything, which Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient in word and deed, with the power of signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God: so that from Jerusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, I have caused to abound the Gospel of Christ. Yea, so I enforced myself to preach the Gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should have built on another man's foundation. But as it is written, To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see him, and they that heard not, shall understand him. Therefore also I have been oft let to come unto you: But now seeing I have no more place in these quarters, and also have been desirous many years ago to come unto you, when I shall take my journey into Spain, I will come to you: for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, after that I have been somewhat filled with your company. But now go I to Jerusalem, to minister unto the Saints. For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia to make a certain distribution unto the poor Saints which are at Jerusalem. For it hath pleased them and their debtors are they: for if the Gentiles be made partakers of their spiritual things, their duty is also to minister unto them in carnal things. When I have therefore performed this, and have sealed them this fruit, I will pass by you into Spain. And I know when I come, that I shall come to you with abundance of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ. Also brethren, I beseech you for our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the love of the spirit, that ye would strive with me by prayers to God for me, that I may be delivered from them which are disobedient in Judea, & that my service which I have to do at Jerusalem, may be accepted of the Saints, that I may come unto you with joy by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed. Thus the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

I Commend unto you Phoebe our sister, which is a servant of the Church of Cenchrea: That ye receive her in the Lord, as it becometh Saints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she needeth of your aid: for she hath given hospitality unto many and to me also. Greet Priscilla and Aquila my fellow helpers in Christ Jesus, (Which have for my life laid down their own neck. Unto whom not I only give thanks, but also all the Churches of the Gentiles.) Likewise greet the Church that is in their house. Salute my beloved Epenetus, which is the first fruits of Achaia in Christ. Greet Marie which bestowed much labor on us. Salute Andronicus and Junia my cousins and fellow prisoners, which are notable among the Apostles, and were in Christ before me. Greet Amplias my beloved in the Lord. Salute Urbanus our fellow helper in Christ, and Stachys my beloved. Salute Apelles approved in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobulus friends. Salute Herodion my kinsman. Greet them which are of the friends of Narcissus which are in the Lord. Salute Tryphena and Tryphosa, which women labor in the Lord. Salute the beloved Persis, which woman hath labored much in the Lord. Salute Rufus chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine. Greet Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Mercurius, and the brethren which are with them. Salute Philologus and Julias, Nereas, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the Saints which are with them. Salute one another with an holy kiss. The Churches of Christ salute you.

Now I beseech you brethren, mark them diligently which cause division and offences, contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned, and avoid them. For they that are such, serve not the Lord Jesus Christ, but their own bellies, and with fair speech and flattering deceive the hearts of the simple. For your obedience is come abroad among all: I am glad therefore of you: but yet I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil. The God of peace shall tread Satan under your feet shortly. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Timotheus my helper, and Lucius, and Jason, and Sosipater my kinsmen, salute you. I Tertius, which wrote out this Epistle, salute you in the Lord. Gains mine host, & of the whole Church saluteth you. Erastus the steward of the city saluteth you, and Quartus a brother. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen. To him now that is of power to establish you according to my Gospel, and preaching of Jesus Christ, by the revelation of the mystery, which was kept secret since the world began: (But now is opened, and published among all nations by the Scriptures of the Prophetes, at the commandment of the everlasting God for the obedience of faith) To God, I say, only wise, be praise through Jesus Christ forever. Amen. Written to the Romans from Corinthus, and sent by Phoebe, servant of the Church, which is at Cenchrea.

The First Epistle of Paul to the CORINTHIANS

Paul called to be an Apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and our brother Sosthenes, unto the Church of God, which is at Corinthus, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, Saints by calling, with all that call on the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place, both their Lord, and ours: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. I thank my God always on your behalf for the grace of God, which is given you in Jesus Christ, that in all things ye are made rich in him, in all kind of speech, and in all knowledge: as the testimony of Jesus Christ hath been confirmed in you: so that ye are not destitute of any gift: waiting for the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ. Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be blameless, in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ. God is faithful, by whom ye are called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Now I beseech you, brethren, by the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak one thing and that there be no dissensions among you: but be ye knit together in one mind, and in one judgment. For it hath been declared unto me, my brethren, of you by them that are of the house of Cloe, that there are contentions among you. Now this I say, that every one of you saith, I am Paul's, and I am Apollos', and I am Cephas's, and I am Christ's. Is Christ divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Either were ye baptized into the name of Paul? I thank God, that I baptized none of you, but Crispus, and Gaius, lest any should say, that I had baptized into mine own name. I baptized also the household of Stephanas: furthermore know I not, whether I baptized any other. For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the Gospel, not with wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect. For that preaching of the cross is to them that perish, foolishness: but unto us, which are saved, it is the power of God. For it is written, I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will cast away the understanding of the prudent. Where is the wise? where is the Scribe? where is the disputer of this world? hath not God made the wisdom of this world foolishness? For seeing the world by wisdom knew not God in the wisdom of GOD, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe: seeing also that the Jews require a sign, and the Grecians seek after wisdom. But we preach Christ crucified: unto the Jews, even a stumbling block, and unto the Grecians, foolishness: but unto them which are called, both of the Jews and Grecians, we preach Christ, the power of God, and the wisdom of God. For the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men. For brethren, you see your calling, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called. But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise, and God hath chosen the weak things of the world, to confound the mighty things, and vile things of the world and things which are despised, hath God chosen, and things which are not, to bring to naught things that are, that no flesh should rejoice in his presence. But ye are of him in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption, that, according as it is written, He that rejoiceth, let him rejoice in the Lord.

And I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of words, or of wisdom, shewing unto you the testimony of God. For I esteemed not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified. And I was among you in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling. Neither stood my word, and my preaching in the enticing speech of mans wisdom, but in plain evidence of the Spirit and of power, that your faith should not be in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God. And we speak wisdom among them that are perfect: not the wisdom of this world, neither of the princes of this world, which come to naught. But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hid wisdom, which God had determined before the world, unto our glory. Which none of the princes of this world hath known: for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory. But as it is written, The things which eye hath not seen, neither ear hath heard, neither came into man's heart, are, which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of a man, which is in him? Even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the spirit of God. Now we have received not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit, which is of God, that we might know the things that are given to us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which mans wisdom teacheth, but which the holy Ghost teacheth, comparing spiritual things with spiritual things. But the natural man perceiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. But he that is spiritual discerneth all things: yet he himself is judged of no man. For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he might instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ. And I could not speak unto you, brethren, as unto spiritual men, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ. I gave you milk to drink, & not meat: for ye were not yet able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able. For ye are yet carnal: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk as men? For when one saith, I am Paul's, and another, I am Apollos', are ye not carnal? Who is Paul then? And who is Apollos, but the ministers by whom ye believed, and as the Lord gave to every man? I have planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase. So then, neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth, but God that giveth the increase. And he that planteth, and he that watereth, are one, and every man shall receive his wages, according to his labor. For we together are God's laborers: ye are God's husbandry, and God's building. According to the grace of God given to me, as a skilful master builder, I have laid the foundation, & another buildeth thereon: but let every man take heed how he buildeth upon it. For other foundation can no man lay, then that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ. And if any man build on this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, timber, hay, or stubble, every mans work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by the fire: and the fire shall try every mans work of what sort it is. If any mans work that he hath built upon abide, he shall receive wages. If any mans work burn, he shall lose, but he shall be saved himself: nevertheless yet as it were by the fire. Know ye not that ye are the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man destroy the Temple of God, him shall God destroy: for the Temple of God is holy, which ye are. Let no man deceive himself: If any man among you seem to be wise in this world, let him be a fool, that he may be wise. For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God: for it is written, He catcheth the wise in their own craftiness. And again, The Lord knoweth that the thoughts of the wise be vain. Therefore let no man rejoice in men: for all things are yours. Whether it be Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death: whether they be things present, or things to come, even all are yours, and ye Christ's, and Christ God's. Let a man so think of us, as of the ministers of Christ, and disposers of the secrets of God: and as for the rest, it is required of the disposers, that every man be found faithful. As touching me, I pass very little to be judged of you, or of mans judgment: no, I judge not mine own self. For I know nothing by myself, yet am I not thereby justified: but he that judgeth me, is the Lord. Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who will lighten things that are hid in darkness, and make the counsels of the hearts manifest: and then shall every man have praise of God.

Now these things, brethren, I have figuratively applied unto mine own self and Apollos, for your sakes, that ye might learn by us, that no man presume above that which is written, that one swell not against another for any mans cause. For who separateth thee? And what hast thou, that thou hast not received? If thou hast received it, why rejoicest thou, as though thou hadst not received it? Now ye are full: now ye are made rich: ye reign as kings without us, and would to God ye did reign, that we also might reign with you. For I think that God hath set forth us the last Apostles, as men appointed to death: for we are made a gassing stock unto the world, and to the Angels, and to men. We are fools for Christ's sake, and ye are wise in Christ: we are weak, and ye are strong: ye are honorable, and we are despised. Unto this hour we both hunger, & thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no certain dwelling place, and labor, working with our own hands: we are reviled, and yet we bless: we are persecuted, and suffer it. We are evil spoken of, and we pray: we are made as the filth of the world, the offscouring of all things, unto this time. I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved children I admonish you. For though ye have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the Gospel. Wherefore, I pray you, be ye followers of me. For this cause have I sent unto you Timotheus, which is my beloved son, and faithful in the Lord, which shall put you in remembrance of my ways in Christ as I teach everywhere in every Church. Some are puffed up as though I would not come unto you. But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord will, and will know, not the words of them which are puffed up, but the power. For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power.

What will ye? shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love, & in the spirit of meekness? It is heard certainly that there is fornication among you: and such fornication as is not once named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father's wife. And ye are puffed up and have not rather sorrowed, that he which hath done this deed, might be put from among you. For I verily as absent in body, but present in spirit, have determined already as though I were present, that he that hath thus done this thing, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that such one, I say, by the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, be delivered unto Satan, for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus. Your rejoicing is not good: know ye not that a little leaven, leaveneth the whole lump? Purge out therefore the old leaven that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened: for Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us. Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither in the leaven of maliciousness and wickedness: but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth. I wrote unto you in an Epistle, that ye should not company together with fornicators, and not altogether with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or with extortioners, or with idolaters: for then ye must go out of the world. But now I have written unto you, that ye company not together: if any that is called a brother, be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner with such one eat not. For what have I to do, to judge them also which are without? do ye not judge them that are within? But God judgeth them that are without. Put away therefore from among your selves that wicked man. Dare any of you, having business against another, be judged under the unjust, and not under the Saints? Do ye not know, that the Saints shall judge the world? If the world then shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters? Know ye not that we shall judge the Angels? how much more, things that pertain to this life? If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set up them which are least esteemed in the Church. I speak it to your shame. Is it so that there is not a wise man among you? no not one, that can judge between his brethren? But a brother goeth to law with a brother and that under the infidels. Now therefore there is altogether infirmity in you, in that ye go to law one with another: why rather suffer ye not wrong? why rather sustain ye not harm? Nay, ye your selves do wrong, and do harm, and that to your brethren. Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor wantons, nor burglarers, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor railers, nor extortioners shall inherit the kingdom of God. And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the Name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.

All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not profitable. I may do all things, but I will not be brought under the power of anything. Meats are ordained for the belly, & the belly for the meats: but God shall destroy both it, and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body. And God hath also raised up the Lord, and shall raise us up by his power. Know ye not, that your body's are the members of Christ? shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. Do ye not know, that he which coupleth himself with an harlot, is one body? for two, saith he, shall be one flesh. But he that is joined unto the Lord, is one spirit. Flee fornication: every sin that a man doth, is without the body: but he that committeth fornication, sinneth against his own body. Know ye not, that your body is the temple of the holy Ghost, which is in you, whom ye have of God? and ye are not your own. For ye are bought for a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit: for they are God's. Now concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me, It were good for a man not to touch a woman. Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his wife, and let every woman have her own husband. Let the husband give unto the wife due benevolence, and likewise also the wife unto the husband. The wife hath not the power of her own body, but ye husband: & likewise also the husband hath not the power of his own body, but the wife. Defraud not one another, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give your selves to fasting and prayer, and again come together that Satan tempt you not for your incontinence. But I speak this by permission, not by commandment. For I would that all men were even as I myself am: but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that. Therefore I say unto the unmarried, and unto the widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I do. But if they cannot abstain, let them marry: for it is better to marry then to burn. And unto the married I command, not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband. But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled unto her husband, & let not the husband put away his wife. But to the remnant I speak, & not the Lord, If any brother have a wife, ye believeth not, if she be content to dwell with him, let him not forsake her. And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, if he be content to dwell with her, let her not forsake him. For the unbelieving husband is sanctified to the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified to the husband, else were your children unclean: but now are they holy. But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart: a brother or a sister is not in subjection in such things: but God hath called us in peace. For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt save thine husband? Or what knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife? But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk: and so ordain I, in all Churches.

Is any man called being circumcised? Let him not gather his uncircumcision: is any called uncircumcised? Let him not be circumcised. Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandments of God. Let every man abide in the same vocation wherein he was called. Art thou called being a servant? care not for it: but if yet thou may be free, use it rather. For he that is called in the Lord, being a servant, is the Lords freeman: likewise also he that is called being free, is Christ's servant. Ye are bought with a price: be not the servants of men. Brethren, let every man, wherein he was called, therein abide with God. Now concerning virgins, I have no commandment of the Lord: but I give mine advice, as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be faithful. I suppose then this to be good for the present necessity: I mean that it is good for a man so to be. Art thou bound unto a wife? Seek not to be loosed: art thou loosed from a wife? Seek not a wife. But if thou take a wife, thou sinnest not: and if a virgin marry, she sinneth not: nevertheless, such shall have trouble in the flesh: but I spare you. And this I say, brethren, because the time is short, hereafter that both they which have wives, be as though they had none: and they that weep, as though they wept not: and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not: and they that buy, as though they possessed not: and they that use this world, as though they used it not: for the fashion of this world goeth away. And I would have you without care. The unmarried careth for the things of the Lord, how he may please the Lord. But he that is married, careth for the things of the world, how he may please his wife. There is difference also between a virgin and a wife: the unmarried woman careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy, both in body and in spirit: but she that is married, careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband. And this I speak for your own commodity, not to tangle you in a snare, but that ye follow that, which is honest, and that ye may cleave fast unto the Lord without separation. But if any man think that it is uncomely for his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he sinneth not: let them be married. Nevertheless, he that standeth firm in his heart, that he hath no need, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart, that he will keep his virgin, he doth well. So then he that giveth her to marriage doth well, but he that giveth her not to marriage, doth better. The wife is bound by the Law, as long as her husband liveth: but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to marry with whom she will, only in the Lord. But she is more blessed, if she so abide, in my judgment: and I think that I have also the Spirit of God.

And as touching things sacrificed unto idols, we know that we all have knowledge: knowledge puffeth up, but love edifieth. Now, if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know. But if any man love God, the same is known of him. Concerning therefore the eating of things sacrificed unto idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is none other God but one. For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven, or in earth (as there be many gods, and many lords) yet unto us there is but one God, which is that Father, of whom are all things, and we in him: and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him. But every man hath not that knowledge: for many having conscience of the idol, until this hour, eat as a thing sacrificed unto the idol, and so their conscience being weak, is defiled. But meat maketh not us acceptable to God, for neither if we eat, have we the more: neither if we eat not, have we the less. But take heed lest by any means this power of yours be an occasion of falling, to them that are weak. For if any man see the which hath knowledge, sit at table in the idols temple, shall not the conscience of him which is weak, be boldened to eat those things which are sacrificed to idols? And through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for whom Christ died. Now when ye sin so against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ.

Wherefore if meat offend my brother, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, that I may not offend my brother. Am I not an Apostle? am I not free? have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? are ye not my work in the Lord? If I be not an Apostle unto other, yet doubtless I am unto you: for ye are the seal of mine Apostleship in the Lord. My defense to them that examine me, is this, have we not power to eat & to drink? Or have we not power to lead about a wife being a sister, as well as the rest of the Apostles, and as the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas? Or I only and Barnabas, have not we power not to work?

Who goeth a warfare any time at his own cost? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock? Say I these things according to man? saith not the Law the same also? For it is written in the Law of Moses, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the oxen that treadeth out the corn: doth God take care for oxen? Either saith he it not altogether for our sakes? For our sakes no doubt it is written, that he which heareth, should hear in hope, & that he that thresheth in hope, should be partaker of his hope. If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we reap your carnal things? If others with you be partakers of this power, are not we rather? nevertheless, we have not used this power: but suffer all things, that we should not hinder the Gospel of Christ. Do ye not know, that they which minister about the holy things, eat of the things of the Temple? and they which wait at the altar, are partakers with the altar? So also hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the Gospel, should live of the Gospel. But I have used none of these things: neither wrote I these things, that it should be so done unto me: for it were better for me to die, then that any man should make my rejoicing vain. For though I preach the Gospel, I have nothing to rejoice of: for necessity is laid upon me, and woe is unto me, if I preach not the Gospel. For if I do it willingly, I have a reward, but if I do it against my will, notwithstanding the dispensation is committed unto me. What is my reward then? verily that when I preach the Gospel, I make the Gospel of Christ free, that I abuse not mine authority in the Gospel. For though I be free from all men, yet have I made myself servant unto all men, that I might win the more. And unto the Jews, I become as a Jew, that I may win the Jews: to them that are under the Law, as though I were under the Law, that I may win them that are under the Law: to them that are without Law, as though I were without Law, (when I am not without Law as pertaining to God, but am in the Law through Christ) that I may win them that are without Law: to the weak I become as weak, that I may win the weak: I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some. And this I do for the Gospels sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you. Know ye not, that they which run in a race, run all, yet one receiveth the price? so run that ye may obtain. And every man that proveth masteries abstaineth from all things: and they do it to obtain a corruptible crown: but we for an incorruptible. I therefore so run, not as uncertainly: so fight I, not as one that beateth the air. But I beat down my body, & bring it into subjection, lest by any means after that I have preached to other, I myself should be reprov'd. Moreover, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, that all our fathers were under that cloud, and all passed through that sea, and were all baptized unto Moses, in that cloud, and in that sea, and did all eat the same spiritual meat, and did all drink the same spiritual drink (for they drank of the spiritual Rock that followed them: and the Rock was Christ) but with many of them God was not pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness.

Now these things are our ensamples, to the intent that we should not lust after evil things as they also lusted. Neither be ye idolaters as were some of them, as it is written, The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play. Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed fornication, and fell in one day three and twenty thousand. Neither let us tempt Christ, as some of them also tempted him, and were destroyed of serpents. Neither murmur ye, as some of them also murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer. Now all these things came unto them for ensamples, and were written to admonish us, upon whom the ends of the world are come. Wherefore, let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall. There hath no temptation taken you, but such as appertain to man: and God is faithful, which will not suffer you to be tempted above that you be able, but will even give the issue with the temptation, that ye may be able to bear it. Wherefore my beloved, flee from idolatry. I speak as unto them which have understanding: judge ye what I say. The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? For we that are many are one bread and one body, because we all are partakers of one bread. Behold Israel, which is after the flesh: are not they which eat of the sacrifices partakers of the altar? What say I then? that the idol is anything? or that that which is sacrificed to idols, is anything? Nay, but that these things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not unto God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with the devils. Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of the devils. Ye cannot be partakers of the Lords table, and of the table of the devils. Do we provoke the Lord to anger? are we stronger then he? All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not. Let no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth. Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, eat ye, and ask no question for conscience sake. For the earth is the Lords, and all that therein is. If any of them which believe not, call you to a feast, and if ye will go, whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no question for conscience sake. But if any man say unto you, This is sacrificed unto idols, eat it not, because of him that shewed it, and for the conscience (for the earth is the Lords, and all that therein is) and the conscience, I say, not thine, but of that other: for why should my liberty be condemned of another man's conscience? For if I through God's benefit be partaker, why am I evil spoken of, for that wherefore I give thanks? Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God. Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the Grecians, nor to the Church of God: even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they might be saved.

Be ye followers of me, even as I am of Christ. Now brethren, I commend you that ye remember all my things, & keep the ordinances, as I delivered them to you. But I will that ye know, that Christ is the head of every man: and the man is the woman's head: and God is Christ's head. Every man praying or prophesying having anything on his head, dishonoureth his head. But every woman that prayeth or prophesieth bare headed, dishonoureth her head: for it is even one very thing, as though she were shaven. Therefore if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn: and if it be shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered. For a man ought not to cover his head: for as much as he is the image & glory of God: but the woman is the glory of the man. For the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the man. For the man was not created for the woman's sake: but the woman for the man's sake. Therefore ought the woman to have power on her head, because of the Angels. Nevertheless, neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man in the Lord. For as the woman is of the man, so is the man also by the woman: but all things are of God. Judge in your selves, Is it comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered? Doth not nature itself teach you, that if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him? But if a woman have long hair, it is a praise unto her: for her hair is given her for a covering. But if any man lust to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the Churches of God. Now in this that I declare, I praise you not, that ye come together, not with profit, but with hurt. For first of all, when ye come together in the Church, I hear that there are dissensions among you: and I believe it to be true in some part. For there must be heresies even among you, that they which are approved among you, might be known. When ye come together therefore into one place, this is not to eat the Lords Supper. For every man when they should eat, taketh his own supper afore, and one is hungry, and another is drunken. Have ye not houses to eat & to drink in? despise ye the Church of God, and shame them that have not? what shall I say to you? shall I praise you in this? I praise you not. For I have received of the Lord that which I also have delivered unto you, to wit, That the Lord Jesus in the night when he was betrayed, took bread: and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which is broken for you: this do ye in remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the New Testament in my blood: this do as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye shall eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye shew the Lords death till he come. Wherefore, whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink the cup of the Lord unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord. Let every man therefore examine himself, and so let him eat of this bread, and drink of this cup. For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh his own damnation, because he discerneth not the Lords body. For this cause many are weak, & sick among you, and many sleep. For if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged. But when we are judged, we are chastened of the Lord, because we should not be condemned with the world. Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, tarry one for another. And if any man be hungry, let him eat at home, that ye come not together unto condemnation. Other things will I set in order when I come.

Now concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant. Ye know that ye were Gentiles, and were carried away unto the dumb Idols, as ye were led. Wherefore, I declare unto you, that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus execrable: also no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the holy Ghost. Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. And there are diversities of administrations, but the same Lord, and there are diversities of operations, but God is the same which worketh all in all. But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man, to profit withal. For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom: and to another the word of knowledge, by the same Spirit: and to another is given faith by the same Spirit: and to another the gifts of healing, by the same Spirit: and to another the operations of great works: and to another, prophecy: and to another, the discerning of spirits: and to another, diversities of tongues: and to another, the interpretation of tongues. And all these things worketh one and the self same Spirit, distributing to every man severally as he will. For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of the body, which is one, though they be many, yet are but one body: even so is Christ. For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews, or Grecians, whether we be bond, or free, and have been all made to drink into one Spirit. For the body also is not one member, but many. If the foot would say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body, is it therefore not of the body? And if the ear would say, Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body, is it therefore not of the body? If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling? But now hath God disposed the members every one of them in the body at his own pleasure. For if they were all one member, where were the body? But now are there many members, yet but one body. And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of the: nor the head again to the feet, I have no need of you. Yea, much rather those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary. And upon those members of the body, which we think most dishonest, put we more honesty on: and our uncomely parts have more comeliness on. For our comely parts need it not: but God hath tempered the body together, and hath given the more honor to that part which lacked, lest there should be any division in the body: but that the members should have the same care one for another. Therefore if one member suffer, all suffer with it: if one member be had in honor, all the members rejoice with it. Now ye are the body of Christ, and members for your part. And God hath ordained some in the Church: as first Apostles, secondly Prophets, thirdly teachers, then them that do miracles: after that, the gifts of healing, helpers, governors, diversity of tongues. Are all Apostles? are all Prophets? are all teachers? Are all doors of miracles? have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret? But desire you the best gifts, and I will yet shew you a more excellent way. Though I speak with the tongues of men and Angels, and have not love, I am as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal. And though I had the gift of prophecy, and knew all secrets and all knowledge, yea, if I had all faith, so that I could remove mountains and had not love, I were nothing. And though I feed the poor with all my goods, and though I give my body, that I be burned, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing. Love suffereth long: it is bountiful: love envieth not: love doth not boast itself: it is not puffed up: it doth no uncomely thing: it seeketh not her own things: it is not provoked to anger: it thinketh not evil: it rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth: it suffereth all things: it believeth all things: it hopeth all things: it endureth all things. Love doth never fall away, though that prophesyings be abolished, or the tongues cease, or knowledge vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophecy in part. But when that which is perfect, is come, then that which is in part, shall be abolished. When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things. For now we see through a glass darkly: but then shall we see face to face. Now I know in part: but then shall I know even as I am known. And now abideth faith, hope and love, even these three: but the chiefest of these is love. Follow after love, and covet spiritual gifts, and rather that ye may prophecy. For he that speaketh a strange tongue, speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man heareth him: howbeit in the spirit he speaketh secret things. But he that prophesieth, speaketh unto me to edifying, and to exhortation, and to comfort. He that speaketh strange language edifieth himself: but he that prophesieth, edifieth the Church. I would that ye all spake strange languages, but rather that ye prophesied: for greater is he that prophesieth, then he that speaketh divers tongues, except he expound it, that the Church may receive edification. And now, brethren, if I come unto you speaking divers tongues, what shall I profit you, except I speak to you, either by revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine? Moreover things without life which give a sound, whether it be a pipe or an harp, except they make a distinction in the sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped? And also if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to battle? So likewise you, by the tongue, except ye utter words that have signification, how shall it be understood what is spoken? for ye shall speak in the air. There are so many kinds of

voices (as it cometh to pass) in the world, and none of them is dumb. Except I know then the power of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh, shall be a barbarian unto me. Even so, forasmuch as ye covet spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excel unto the edifying of the Church. Wherefore, let him that speaketh a strange tongue, pray, that he may interpret. For if I pray in a strange tongue, my spirit prayeth: but mine understanding is without fruit. What is it then? I will pray with the spirit, but I will pray with the understanding also: I will sing with the spirit, but I will sing with the understanding also. Else, when thou bless with the spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned, say Amen, at thy giving of thanks, seeing he knoweth not what thou say? For thou verily give thanks well, but the other is not edified. I thank my God, I speak languages more than ye all. Yet had I rather in the Church to speak five words with mine understanding, that I might also instruct others, then ten thousand words in a strange tongue. Brethren, be not children in understanding, but as concerning maliciousness be children, but in understanding be of a ripe age. In the Law it is written, By men of other tongues, and by other languages will I speak unto this people: yet so shall they not hear me, sayeth the Lord. Wherefore strange tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not: but prophesying serveth not for them that believe not, but for them which believe. If therefore when the whole Church is come together in one, and all speak strange tongues, there come in they that are unlearned, or they which believe not, will they not say, that ye are out of your wits? But if all prophecy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is rebuked of all men, and is judged of all, and so are the secrets of his heart made manifest, and so he will fall down on his face and worship God, and say plainly that God is in you in deed. What is to be done then, brethren? when ye come together, according as every one of you hath a Psalm, or hath doctrine, or hath a tongue, or hath revelation, or hath interpretation, let all things be done unto edifying. If any man speak a strange tongue, let it be by two, or at the most, by three, and that by course, and let one interpret. But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the Church, which speaketh languages, and let him speak to himself, and to God. Let the Prophets speak two, or three, and let the other judge. And if anything be revealed to another that sitteth by, let the first hold his peace. For ye may all prophecy one by one, that all may learn, and all may have comfort. And the spirits of the Prophets are subject to the Prophets. For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as we see in all the Churches of the Saints. Let your women keep silence in the Churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak: but they ought to be subject, as also the Law saith. And if they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the Church. Came the word of God out from you? either came it unto you only? If any man think himself to be a Prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledge, that the things, that I write unto you, are the commandments of the Lord. And if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant.

Wherefore, brethren, covet to prophecy, and forbid not to speak languages. Let all things be done honestly, and by order.

Moreover brethren, I declare unto you the Gospel, which I preached unto you, which ye have also received, and wherein ye continue, and whereby ye are saved, if ye keep in memory, after what manner I preached it unto you, except ye have believed in vain. For first of all, I delivered unto you that which I received, how that Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures, and that he was buried, and that he arose the third day, according to the Scriptures, and that he was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve. After that, he was seen of more than five hundred brethren at once: whereof many remain unto this present, and some also are asleep. After that, he was seen of James: then of all the Apostles. And last of all he was seen also of me, as of one born out of due time. For I am the least of the Apostles, which am not meet to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the Church of God. But by the grace of God, I am that I am: and his grace which is in me, was not in vain: but I labored more abundantly then they all: yet not I, but the grace of God which is with me. Wherefore, whether it were I, or they, so we preach, and so have ye believed. Now if it be preached, that Christ is risen from the dead, how say some among you, that there is no resurrection of the dead? For if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen: and if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. And we are found also false witnesses of God: for we have testified of God, that he hath raised up Christ: whom he hath not raised up, if so be the dead be not raised. For if the dead be not raised, then is Christ not raised. And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain: ye are yet in your sins. And so they which are a sleep in Christ are perished. If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men the most miserable. But now is Christ risen from the dead, and was made the first fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive, but every man in his own order: the first fruits is Christ, afterward, they that are of Christ, at his coming shall rise again. Then shall be the end, when he hath delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father, when he hath put down all rule, and all authority and power. For he must reign till he hath put all his enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed, is death. For he hath put down all things under his feet. (And when he saith that all things are subdued to him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put down all things under him.) And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that did subdue all things under him that God may be all in all. Else what shall they do which are baptized for dead? If the dead rise not at all, why are they then baptized for dead? Why are we also in jeopardy every hour? By your rejoicing which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die daily. If I have fought with beasts at Ephesus after the manner of men, what advantageth

it me, if the dead be not raised up? let us eat and drink: for tomorrow we shall die. Be not deceived: evil speakings corrupt good manners. Awake to live righteously, and sin not: for some have not the knowledge of God, I speak this to your shame. But some man will say, How are the dead raised up? And with what body come they forth? O fool, that which thou sowest, is not quickened, except it die. And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare corn as it falleth, of wheat, or of some other. But God giveth it a body at his pleasure, even to every seed his own body, all flesh is not the same flesh, but there is one flesh of men, and another flesh of beasts, and another of fishes, and another of birds. There are also heavenly bodies, and earthly bodies: but the glory of the heavenly is one, and the glory of the earthly is another. There is another glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory. So also is the resurrection of the dead. The body is sown in corruption, and is raised in incorruption. It is sown in dishonor, and is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness, and is raised in power. It is sown a natural body, and is raised a spiritual body: there is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. As it is also written, The first man Adam was made a living soul: and the last Adam was made a quickening Spirit. Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual: but that which is natural, and afterward that which is spiritual. The first man is of the earth, earthly: the second man is the Lord from heaven. As is the earthly, such are they that are earthly: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthly, so shall we bear the image of the heavenly. This say I, brethren, that flesh & blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. Behold, I shew you a secret thing, We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye at the last trumpet: for the trumpet shall blow, and the dead shall be raised up incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption: and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible hath put on incorruption, and this mortal hath put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up into victory. O death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin: and the strength of sin is the Law. But thanks be unto God, which hath given us victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, abundant always in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord.

Concerning the gathering for the Saints, as I have ordained in the Churches of Galatia, so do ye also. Every first day of the week, let every one of you put aside by himself, and lay up as God hath prospered him, that then there be no gatherings when I come. And when I am come, whomsoever ye shall allow by letters, them will I send to bring your liberality unto Jerusalem. And if it be meet that I go also, they shall go with me. Now I will come unto you, after I have gone through Macedonia (for I will pass through Macedonia.) And it may be that I will abide, yea, or winter with you, that ye may bring me on my way, whither soever I go. For I will not see you now in my passage, but I trust to abide a while with you, if the Lord permit. And I will tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost. For a great door and effectual is opened unto me: and there are many adversaries. Now if Timotheus come, see that he be without fear with you: for he worketh the work of the Lord, even as I do. Let no man therefore despise him: but convey him forth in peace that he may come unto me: for I look for him with the brethren. As touching our brother Apollos, I greatly desired him, to come unto you with the brethren: but his mind was not at all to come at this time: howbeit he will come when he shall have convenient time. Watch ye: stand fast in the faith: quite you like men, and be strong. Let all your things be done in love. Now brethren, I beseech you (ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is the first fruits of Achaia, and that they have given themselves to minister unto the Saints) that ye be obedient even unto such, and to all that help with us and labor. I am glad of the coming of Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus: for they have supplied the want of you. For they have comforted my spirit and yours: acknowledge therefore such men. The Churches of Asia salute you: Aquila and Priscilla with the Church that is in their house salute you greatly in the Lord. All the brethren greet you. Greet ye one another, with an holy kiss. The salutation of me Paul with mine own hand. If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be had in execration maran-atha. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. My love be with you all in Christ Jesus, Amen.

The first Epistle to the Corinthians, written from Philippi, and sent by Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus, and Timotheus.

The Second Epistle of Paul to the CORINTHIANS

Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, and our brother Timotheus, to the Church of God, which is at Corinthus with all the Saints, which are in all Achaia: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort, which comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any affliction by the comfort wherewith we our selves are comforted of God. For as the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so our consolation aboundeth through Christ. And whether we be afflicted, it is for your consolation and salvation, which is wrought in the enduring of the same sufferings, which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted, it is for your consolation and salvation. And our hope is steadfast concerning you, in as much as we know that as ye are partakers of the sufferings, so shall ye be also of the consolation. For brethren, we would not have you ignorant of our affliction, which came unto us in Asia, how we were pressed out of measure passing strength, so that we altogether doubted, even of life. Yea, we received the sentence of death in our selves, because we should not trust in our selves, but in God, which raiseth the dead. Who delivered us from so great a death, and doeth deliver us: in whom we trust, that yet hereafter he will deliver us, so that ye labor together in prayer for us, that for the gift bestowed upon us for many, thanks may be given by many persons for us. For our rejoicing is this, the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity and godly pureness, and not in fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God we have had our conversation in the world, and most of all to you wards. For we write none other things unto you, then that ye read or else that ye acknowledge, & I trust ye shall acknowledge unto the end. Even as ye have acknowledged us partly that we are your rejoicing, even as ye are ours, in the day of our Lord Jesus. And in this confidence was I minded first to come unto you, that ye might have had a double grace, and to pass by you into Macedonia, and to come again out of Macedonia unto you, and to be led forth toward Judea of you. When I therefore was thus minded, did I use lightness? or mind I those things which I mind, according to the flesh, that with me should be, Yea, yea, and Nay, nay? Yea, God is faithful, that our word toward you was not Yea and Nay. For the Son of God Jesus Christ, who was preached among you by us, that is, by me, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, was not Yea & Nay: but in him it was Yea. For all the promises of God in him are Yea, and are in him Amen, unto the glory of God through us. And it is God which stablisheth us with you in Christ, and hath anointed us. Who hath also sealed us, and hath given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts. Now, I call God for a record unto my soul, that to spare you, I came not as yet unto Corinthus. Not that we have dominion over your faith, but we are helpers of your joy: for by faith ye stand. But I determined thus in my self, that I would not come again to you in heaviness. For if I make you sorry, who is he then that should make me glad, but the same which is made sorry by me? And I wrote this same thing unto you, lest when I came, I should take heaviness of them, of whom I ought to rejoice: this confidence have I in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all. For in great affliction & anguish of heart I wrote unto you with many tears: not that ye should be made sorry, but that ye might perceive the love which I have, specially unto you. And if any hath caused sorrow, the same hath not made me sorry, but partly (lest I should more charge him) you all. It is sufficient unto the same man, that he was rebuked of many. So that now contrariwise ye ought rather to forgive him, and comfort him, lest the same should be swallowed up with overmuch heaviness. Therefore, I pray you, that you would confirm your love towards him. For this cause also did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye would be obedient in all things. To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also: for verily if I forgave any thing, to whom I forgave it, for your sakes forgave I it in the sight of Christ, lest Satan should circumvent us: for we are not ignorant of his enterprises.

Furthermore, when I came to Troas to preach Christ's Gospel and a door was opened unto me of the Lord, I had no rest in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother, but took my leave of them, and went away into Macedonia. Now thanks be unto God, which always maketh us to triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest the savor of his knowledge by us in every place. For we are unto God the sweet savor of Christ, in them that are saved, and in them which perish. To the one we are the savor of death, unto death, and to the other the savor of life, unto life: and who is sufficient for these things? For we are not as many, which make merchandise of the word of God: but as of sincerity, but as of God in the sight of God speak we in Christ. Do we begin to praise our selves again? or need we as some other, epistles of recommendation unto you, or letters of recommendation from you? Ye are our epistle, written in our hearts, which is understand, and read of all men, in that ye are manifest, to be the Epistle of Christ, ministered by us, and written, not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God, not in tables of stone, but in fleshly tables of the heart. And such trust have we through Christ to God: not that we are sufficient of our selves, to think any thing, as of our selves: but our sufficiency is of God, who also hath made us able ministers of the New testament, not of the letter, but of the Spirit: for the letter killeth, but the Spirit giveth life. If then the ministration of death written with letters and engraven in stones was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not behold the face of Moses, for the glory of his countenance (which glory is done away.) How shall not the ministration of the Spirit be more glorious? For if the ministry of condemnation was glorious, much more doth the ministration of righteousness exceed in glory. For even that which was glorified, was not glorified in this point, that is, as touching the exceeding glory. For if that which should be abolished was glorious, much more shall that which remaineth be glorious. Seeing then that we have such trust, we use great boldness of speech. And we are not as Moses, which put a veil upon his face, that the children of Israel should not look unto the end of that which should be abolished. Therefore their minds are hardened: for until this day remaineth the same covering untaken away in the reading of the old Testament, which veil in Christ is put away. But even unto this day, when Moses is read, the veil is laid over their hearts. Nevertheless when their heart shall be turned to the Lord, the veil shall be taken away. Now the Lord is the Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. But we all behold as in a mirror the glory of the Lord with open face, and are changed into the same image, from glory to glory, as by the Spirit of the Lord. Therefore, seeing that we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not:

but have cast from us the cloaks of shame, and walk not in craftiness, neither handle we the word of God deceitfully: but in declaration of the truth we approve our selves to every man's conscience in the sight of God. If our Gospel be then hid, it is hid to them that are lost. In whom the God of this world hath blinded the minds, that is, of the infidels that the light of the glorious Gospel of Christ, which is the image of God, should not shine unto them. For we preach not our selves, but Christ Jesus the Lord, and our selves your servants for Jesus sake. For God that commanded the light to shine out of darkness, is he which hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of that power might be of God, and not of us. We are afflicted on every side, yet are we not in distress: we are in doubt, but yet we despair not. We are persecuted, but not forsaken: cast down, but we perish not. Every where we bear about in our body the dying of the Lord Jesus that the life of Jesus might also be made manifest in our bodies. For we which live, are always delivered unto death for Jesus sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh. So then death worketh in us, & life in you. And because we have the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken, we also believe, and therefore speak, knowing that he which hath raised up the Lord Jesus, shall raise us up also by Jesus, and shall set us with you. For all things are for your sakes, that that most plenteous grace by the thanksgiving of many, may redound to the praise of God. Therefore we faint not, but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed daily. For our light affliction which is but for a moment, causeth unto us a far most excellent and an eternal weight of glory: while we look not on the things which are seen, but on the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen, are temporal: but the things which are not seen, are eternal. For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle be destroyed, we have a building given of God, that is, an house not made with hands, but eternal in the heavens. For therefore we sigh desiring to be clothed with our house, which is from heaven. Because that if we be clothed, we shall not be found naked. For in deed we that are in this tabernacle, sigh and are burdened, because we would not be unclothed, but would be clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life. And he that hath created us for this thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit. Therefore we are always bold, though we know that whiles we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord. (For we walk by faith, and not by sight.) Nevertheless, we are bold, and love rather to remove out of the body, and to dwell with the Lord. Wherefore also we covet, that both dwelling at home, and removing from home, we may be acceptable to him. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ that every man may receive the things which are done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or evil. Knowing therefore that terror of the Lord, we persuade men, and we are made manifest unto God, and I trust also that we are made manifest in your consciences. For we praise not our selves again unto you, but give you an occasion to rejoyce of us, that ye may have to answer against them, which rejoyce in the face, and not in the heart. For whether we be out of our wit, we are it to God: or whether we be in our right mind, we are it unto you. For that love of Christ constraineth us, because we thus judge, that if one be dead for all, then were all dead, and he died for all, that they which live, should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them, and rose again. Wherefore, henceforth know we no man after the flesh, yea though we had known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more. Therefore if any man be in Christ, let him be a new creature. Old things are passed away: behold, all things are become new. And all things are of God, which hath reconciled us unto himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given unto us the ministry of reconciliation. For God was in Christ, and reconciled the world to himself, not imputing their sins unto them, and hath committed to us the word of reconciliation. Now then are we ambassadors for Christ: as though God did beseech you through us, we pray you in Christ's stead, that ye be reconciled to God. For he hath made him to be sin for us, which knew no sin, that we should be made the righteousness of God in him.

So we therefore as workers together beseech you, that ye receive not the grace of God in vain. For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succored thee: behold now the accepted time, behold now the day of salvation. We give no occasion of offence in any thing, that our ministry should not be reprehended. But in all things we approve our selves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses, in stripes, in prisons, in tumults, in labors, by watching's, by fasting's, by purity, by knowledge, by long suffering, by kindness, by the holy Ghost, by love unfeigned, by the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armor of righteousness on the right hand, and on the left, by honor, and dishonor, by evil report, and good report, as deceivers, and yet true: as unknown, and yet known: as dying, and behold, we live: as chastened, and yet not killed: as sorrowing, and yet always rejoicing: as poor, and yet make many rich: as having nothing, and yet possessing all things. O Corinthians, our mouth is open unto you: our heart is made large. Ye are not kept strait in us, but ye are kept strait in your own bowels. Now for the same recompense, I speak as to my children, Be you also enlarged. Be not unequally yoked with the infidels: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath the believer with the infidel? And what agreement hath the Temple of God with idols? for ye are the Temple of the living God: as God hath said, I will dwell among them, and walk there: and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. Wherefore come out from among them, and separate your selves, saith the Lord, and touch none unclean thing, and

I will receive you. And I will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord almighty. Seeing then we have these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse our selves from all filthinesses of the flesh and spirit, and finish our sanctification in the fear of God. Receive us: we have done wrong to no man: we have corrupted no man: we have defrauded no man. I speak it not to your condemnation: for I have said before, that ye are in our hearts, to die and live together. I use great boldness of speech toward you: I rejoyce greatly in you: I am filled with comfort, and am exceeding joyous in all our tribulation. For when we were come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every side, fighting's without, and terrors within. But God, that comforteth the abject, comforted us at the coming of Titus: and not by his coming only, but also by the consolation wherewith he was comforted of you, when he told us your great desire, your mourning, your fervent mind toward me, so that I rejoiced much more. For though I made you sorry with a letter, I repent not, though I did repent: for I perceive that the same epistle made you sorry, though it were but for a season. I now rejoyce, not that ye were sorry, but that ye sorrowed to repentance: for ye sorrowed godly, so that in nothing ye were hurt by us. For godly sorrow causeth repentance unto salvation, not to be repented of: but the worldly sorrow causeth death. For behold, this thing that ye have been godly sorry, what great care it hath wrought in you: yea, what clearing of yourselves: yea, what indignation: yea, what fear: yea, how great desire: yea, what a zeal: yea, what revenge: in all things ye have shewed yourselves, that ye are pure in this matter. Wherefore, though I wrote unto you, I did not it for his cause that had done the wrong, neither for his cause that had the injury, but that our care toward you in the sight of God might appear unto you. Therefore we were comforted, because ye were comforted: but rather we rejoiced much more for the joy of Titus, because his spirit was refreshed by you all. For if that I have boasted any thing to him of you, I have not been ashamed: but as I have spoken unto you all things in truth, even so our boasting unto Titus was true. And his inward affection is more abundant toward you, when he remembereth the obedience of you all, and how with fear and trembling ye received him. I rejoyce therefore that I may put my confidence in you in all things.

We do you also to wit, brethren, of the grace of God bestowed upon the Churches of Macedonia, because in great trial of affliction their joy abounded, and their most extreme poverty abounded unto their rich liberality. For to their power (I bear record) yea, and beyond their power, they were willing, and prayed us with great instance that we would receive the grace and fellowship of the ministering which is toward the Saints. And this they did, not as we looked for: but gave their own selves, first to the Lord, and after unto us by the will of God, that we should exhort Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also accomplish the same grace among you also. Therefore, as ye abound in every thing, in faith and word, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love towards us, even so see that ye abound in this grace also. This say I not by commandment, but because of the diligence of others: therefore prove I the naturalness of your love. For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that he being rich, for your sakes became poor, that ye through his poverty might be made rich. And I shew my mind herein: for this is expedient for you, which have begun not to do only, but also to will, a year ago. Now therefore perform to do it also, that as there was a readiness to will, even so ye may perform it of that which ye have. For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not. Neither is it that other men should be eased and you grieved: But upon like condition, at this time your abundance supplieth their lack: that also their abundance may be for your lack, that there may be equality: as it is written, He that gathered much, had nothing over, and he that gathered little, had not the less. And thanks be unto God, which hath put in the heart of Titus the same care for you. Because he accepted the exhortation, yea, he was so careful that of his own accord he went unto you. And we have sent also with him the brother, whose praise is in the Gospel throughout all the Churches. (And not so only, but is also chosen of the Churches to be a fellow in our journey, concerning this grace that is ministered by us unto the glory of the same Lord, and declaration of your prompt mind.) Avoiding this, that no man should blame us in this abundance that is ministered by us, providing for honest things, not only before the Lord, but also before men. And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have oft times proved to be diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, for the great confidence, which I have in you. Whether any do inquire of Titus, he is my fellow and helper to you ward: or of our brethren, they are messengers of the Churches, and the glory of Christ. Wherefore shew toward them, and before the Churches the proof of your love, and of the rejoicing that we have of you. For as touching the ministering to the Saints, it is superfluous for me to write unto you. For I know your readiness of mind, whereof I boast my self of you unto them of Macedonia, and say, that Achaia was prepared a year ago, and your zeal hath provoked many. Now have I sent the brethren, lest our rejoicing over you should be in vain in this behalf, that ye (as I have said) be ready: lest if they of Macedonia come with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we may not say, you) should be ashamed in this my constant boasting. Wherefore, I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren to come before unto you, and to finish your benevolence appointed afore, that it might be ready, and come as of benevolence, and not as of niggardliness. This yet remember, that he which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly, and he that soweth liberally, shall reap also liberally. As every man wisheth in his heart, so let him give, not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver. And God is able to make all grace to abound toward you, that ye always having all sufficiency in all things may abound in every good work, (As it is written, He hath sparsed abroad and hath given to the poor: his benevolence remaineth for ever. Also he that findeth seed to the sower, will minister likewise bread for food, and multiply your seed, and increase the fruits of your benevolence,) that on all parts ye may be made rich unto all liberality, which causeth through us thanksgiving unto God. For the ministration of this service not only supplieth the necessities of the Saints, but also abundantly causeth many to give thanks to God, (Which by the experiment of this ministration praise God for your voluntary submission to the Gospel of Christ, and for your liberal distribution to them, and to all men) and in their prayer for you, to long after you greatly, for the abundant grace of God in you. Thanks therefore be unto God for his unspeakable gift.

Now I Paul myself beseech you by the meekness, and gentleness of Christ, which when I am present among you am base, but am bold toward you being absent: and this I require you, that I need not to be bold when I am present, with that same confidence, wherewith I think to be bold against some, which esteem us as though we walked according to the flesh. Nevertheless, though we walk in the flesh, yet we do not war after the flesh. (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God, to cast down holds) Casting down the imaginations, and every high thing that is exalted against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ, and having ready the vengeance against all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled. Look ye on things after the appearance? If any man trust in himself that he is Christ's, let him consider this again of himself, that as he is Christ's, even so are we Christ's. For though I should boast somewhat more of our authority, which the Lord hath given us for edification, and not for your destruction, I should have no shame. This I say, that I may not seem as it were to fear you with letters. For the letters, saith he, are sore and strong, but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech is of no value. Let such one think this, that such as we are in word by letters, when we are absent, such will we be also in deed, when we are present. For we dare not make our selves of the number, or to compare our selves to them, which praise themselves: but they understand not that they measure themselves with themselves, and compare themselves with themselves. But we will not rejoice of things, which are not within our measure, but according to the measure of the line, whereof God hath distributed unto us a measure to attain even unto you. For we stretch not our selves beyond our measure, as though we had not attained unto you: for even to you also have we come in preaching the Gospel of Christ, not boasting of things which are without our measure: that is, of other men's labors: and we hope, when your faith shall increase, to be magnified by you according to our line abundantly, and to preach the Gospel in those regions which are beyond you: not to rejoice in another man's line, that is, in the things that are prepared already. But let him that rejoiceth, rejoice in the Lord. For he that praiseth himself, is not allowed, but he whom the Lord praiseth. Would to God, ye could suffer a little my foolishness, & in deed, ye suffer me. For I am jealous over you, with godly jealousy: for I have prepared you for one husband, to present you as a pure virgin to Christ: but I fear lest as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtlety, so your minds should be corrupt from the simplicity that is in Christ. For if he that cometh, preacheth another Jesus whom we have not preached: or if ye receive another spirit whom ye have not received: either another Gospel, which ye have not received, ye might well have suffered him. Verily I suppose that I was not inferior to the very chief Apostles. And though I be rude in speaking, yet I am not so in knowledge, but among you we have been made manifest to the uttermost, in all things. Have I committed an offence, because I abased my self, that ye might be exalted, and because I preached to you the Gospel of God freely? I robbed other Churches, and took wages of them to do you service. And when I was present with you, and had need, I was not slothful to the hindrance of any man: for that which was lacking unto me, the brethren which came from Macedonia, supplied, and in all things I kept and will keep my self, that I should not be grievous to you. The truth of Christ is in me, that this rejoicing shall not be shut up against me in the regions of Achaia. Wherefore? because I love you not? God knoweth. But what I do, that will I do: that I may cut away occasion from them which desire occasion, that they might be found like unto us in that wherein they rejoice. For such false apostles are deceitful workers, and transform themselves into the Apostles of Christ. And no marvel: for Satan himself is transformed into an Angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing, though his ministers transform themselves, as though they were the ministers of righteousness, whose end shall be according to their works. I say again, Let no man think that I am foolish, or else take me even as a fool, that I also may boast myself a little. That I speak, I speak it not after the Lord: but as it were foolishly, in this my great boasting. Seeing that many rejoice after the flesh, I will rejoice also. For ye suffer fools gladly, because that ye are wise. For ye suffer, even if a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take your goods, if a man exalt himself, if a man smite you on the face. I speak as concerning the reproach: as though that we had been weak: but wherein any man is bold (I speak foolishly) I am bold also. They are Hebrews, so am I: they are Israelites, so am I: they are the seed of Abraham, so am I: they are the ministers of Christ (I speak as a fool) I am more: in labors more abundant: in stripes above measure: in prison more plentifully: in death oft. Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one. I was thrice beaten with rods: I was once stoned: I suffered thrice shipwreck: night and day have I been in the deep sea. In journeying I was often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils of mine own nation, in perils among the Gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren, in weariness and painfulness, in watching often, in hunger and thirst, in fasting's often, in cold and in nakedness. Beside the things which are outward, I am cumbered daily, and have the care of all the Churches. Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?

If I must needs rejoice, I will rejoice of mine infirmities. The God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not. In Damascus the governor of the people under King Aretas, laid watch in the city of the Damascens, and would have caught me. But at a window was I let down in a basket through the wall, and escaped his hands. It is not expedient for me no doubt to rejoice: for I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord. I know a man in Christ above fourteen years ago, (whether he were in the body, I cannot tell, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth) which was taken up into the third heaven. And I know such a man (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth) how that he was taken up into Paradise, and heard words which cannot be spoken, which are not possible for man to utter. Of such a man will I rejoice: of myself will I not rejoice, except it be of mine infirmities. For though I would rejoice, I should not be a fool, for I will say the truth: but I refrain, lest any man should think of me above that he seeth in me, or that he heareth of me. And lest I should be exalted out of measure through the abundance of revelations, there was given unto me a prick in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, because I should not be exalted out of measure. For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me. And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my power is made perfect through weakness. Very gladly therefore will I rejoice rather in mine infirmities, that the power of Christ may dwell in me. Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in anguish for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong. I was a fool to boast myself: ye have compelled me: for I ought to have been commended of you: for in nothing was I inferior unto the very chief Apostles, though I be nothing. The signs of an Apostle were wrought among you with all patience, with signs, and wonders, and great works. For what is it, wherein ye were inferiors unto other Churches, except that I have not been slothful to your hindrance? forgive me this wrong.

Behold, the third time I am ready to come unto you, and yet will I not be slothful to your hindrance: for I seek not yours, but you: for the children ought not to lay up for the fathers, but the fathers for the children. And I will most gladly bestow, and will be bestowed for your souls: though the more I love you, the less I am loved. But be it that I charged you not: yet for as much as I was crafty, I took you with guile. Did I pill you by any of them whom I sent unto you? I have desired Titus, and with him I have sent a brother: did Titus pill you of any thing? walked we not in the self same spirit? walked we not in the same steps? Again, think ye that we excuse our selves unto you? we speak before God in Christ. But we do all things, dearly beloved, for your edifying. For I fear lest when I come, I shall not find you such as I would: and that I shall be found unto you such as ye would not, and least there be strife, envying, wrath, contentions, backbitings, whisperings, swellings and discord. I fear lest when I come again, my God abase me among you, and I shall bewail many of them which have sinned already, and have not repented of the uncleanness, and fornication, and wantonness which they have committed. Lo this is the third time that I come unto you. In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word stand. I told you before, and tell you before: as though I had been present the second time, so write I now being absent to them which heretofore have sinned and to all others, that if I come again, I will not spare, seeing that ye seek experience of Christ, that speaketh in me, which toward you is not weak, but is mighty in you. For though he was crucified concerning his infirmity, yet liveth he through the power of God; we no doubt are weak in him, but we shall live with him, through the power of God toward you. Prove your selves whether ye are in the faith: examine your selves: know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobates? But I trust that ye shall know that we are not reprobates. Now I pray unto God that ye do none evil, not that we should seem approved, but that ye should do that which is honest: though we be as reprobates. For we cannot do any thing against the truth, but for the truth. For we are glad when we are weak, and that ye are strong: this also we wish for, even your perfection. Therefore write I these things being absent, lest when I am present, I should use sharpness, according to the power which the Lord hath given me, to edification, and not to destruction. Finally brethren, fare ye well: be perfect: be of good comfort: be of one mind: live in peace, and the God of love and peace shall be with you. Greet one another with an holy kiss. All the Saints salute you. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the holy Ghost be with you all, Amen.

The second Epistle to the Corinthians, written from Philippi, a city in Macedonia, and sent by Titus and Lucas.

The Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the GALATIANS

Paul an Apostle (not of men, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ, and God the Father which hath raised him from the dead) and all the brethren which are with me, unto the Churches of Galatia: Grace be with you, and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ, which gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us from this present evil world according to the will of God even our Father, to whom be glory forever and ever, Amen.

I marvel that ye are so soon removed away unto another Gospel, from him that had called you in the grace of Christ, which is not another Gospel, save that there be some which trouble you, and intend to pervert the Gospel of Christ. But though that we, or an Angel from heaven preach unto you otherwise, then that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach unto you otherwise, then that ye have received, let him be accursed. For now preach I man's doctrine, or God's? or go I about to please men? for if I should yet please men, I were not the servant of Christ. Now I certify you, brethren that the Gospel which was preached of me, was not after man. For neither received I it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ. For ye have heard of my conversation in time past, in the Jewish religion, how that I persecuted the Church of God extremely, and wasted it, and profited in the Jewish religion above many of my companions of mine own nation, and was much more zealous of the traditions of my fathers. But when it pleased God (which had separated me from my mothers womb, and called me by his grace) to reveal his Son in me, that I should preach him among the Gentiles, immediately I communicated not with flesh and blood: neither came I again to Jerusalem to them which were Apostles before me, but I went into Arabia, and turned again unto Damascus. Then after three years I came again to Jerusalem to visit Peter, and abode with him fifteen days. And none other of the Apostles saw I, save James the Lords brother. Now the things which I write unto you, behold, I witness before God, that I lie not. After that, I went into the coasts of Syria and Cilicia: for I was unknown by face unto the Churches of Judea, which were in Christ. But they had heard only some say, He which persecuted us in time past, now preacheth the faith which before he destroyed. And they glorified God for me.

Then fourteen years after, I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, & took with me Titus also. And I went up by revelation, and declared unto them that Gospel which I preach among the Gentiles, but particularly to them that were the chief, least by any means I should run, or had run in vain: but neither yet Titus which was with me, though he were a Grecian, was compelled to be circumcised, to wit, for the false brethren which were craftily sent in, and crept in privily to spy out our liberty, which we have in Christ Jesus, that they might bring us into bondage. To whom we gave not place by subjection for an hour that the truth of the Gospel might continue with you. But by them which seemed to be great, I was not taught (whatsoever they were in time passed, I am nothing the better: God accepteth no mans person) for they that are the chief, did add nothing to me above that I had. But contrariwise, when they saw that the Gospel over the uncircumcision was committed unto me, as the Gospel over the circumcision was unto Peter: (For he that was mighty by Peter in the Apostleship over the circumcision, was also mighty by me toward the Gentiles) and when James, and Cephas, and John, knew of the grace that was given unto me, which are counted to be pillars, they gave to me and to Barnabas the right hands of fellowship, that we should preach unto the Gentiles, and they unto the Circumcision, warning only that we should remember the poor: which thing also I was diligent to do.

And when Peter was come to Antiochia, I withstood him to his face: for he was to be condemned. For before that certain came from James, he ate with the Gentiles: but when they were come, he withdrew & separated himself, fearing them which were of the Circumcision. And the other Jews played the hypocrites likewise with him, in so much that Barnabas was led away with them by that their hypocrisy. But when I saw, that they went not the right way to the truth of the Gospel, I said unto Peter before all men, If thou being a Jew, live as the Gentiles, and not like the Jews, why constrain thou the Gentiles to do like the Jews? We which are Jews by nature, and not sinners of the Gentiles, know that a man is not justified by the works of the Law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we, I say, have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, & not by the works of the Law, because that by the works of the Law, no flesh shall be justified. If then while we seek to be made righteous by Christ, we ourselves are found sinners, is Christ therefore the minister of sin? God forbid. For if I build again the things that I have destroyed, I make myself a trespasser. For I through the Law am dead to the Law, that I might live unto God. I am crucified with Christ, but I live, yet not I any more, but Christ liveth in me: and in that that I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith in the Son of God, who hath loved me, and given himself for me. I do not abrogate the grace of God: for if righteousness be by the Law, then Christ dyed without a cause.

O foolish Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth, to whom Jesus Christ before was described in your sight, and among you crucified? This only would I learn of you, Received ye the Spirit by the works of the Law, or by the hearing of faith preached? Are ye so foolish, that after ye have begun in the Spirit, ye would now be made perfect by the flesh? Have ye suffered so many things in vain? If so be it be even in vain. He therefore that ministreth to you the Spirit, and worketh miracles among you, doeth he it through the works of the Law, or by the hearing of faith preached? Yea rather as Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for righteousness. Know ye therefore, that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham. For the Scripture foreseeing, that God would justify the Gentiles through faith, preached before the Gospel unto Abraham, saying, In thee shall all the Gentiles be blessed. So then they which be of faith, are blessed with faithful Abraham. For as many as are of the works of the Law, are under the curse: for it is written, Cursed is every man that continueth not in all things, which are written in the book of the Law, to do them. And that no man is justified by the Law in the sight of God, it is evident: for the just shall live by faith. And the Law is not of faith: but the man that shall do those things shall live in them. Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the Law, made a curse for us, (for it is written, Cursed is every one that hangeth on tree) that the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Christ Jesus, that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith. Brethren, I speak as men do: though it be but a mans covenant, when it is confirmed, yet no man doeth abrogate it, or addeth any thing thereto. Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to the seeds, as speaking of many: but, And to thy seed, as of one, which is Christ. And this I say, that the covenant that was confirmed afore of God in respect of Christ, the Law which was four hundredth and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect. For if the inheritance be of the Law, it is no more by the promise, but God gave it freely unto Abraham by promise. Wherefore then serveth the Law? It was added because of the transgressions, till the seed came, unto the which the promise was made: and it was ordained by Angels in the hand of a Mediator. Now a Mediator is not a Mediator of one: but God is one. Is the Law then against the promises of God? God forbid: For if there had been a Law given which could have given life, surely righteousness should have been by the Law. But the Scripture hath concluded all under sin, that the promise by the faith of Jesus Christ should be given to them that believe. But before faith came, we were kept under the Law, as under a garrison, and shut up unto that faith, which should afterward be revealed. Wherefore the Law was our schoolmaster to bring us to Christ that we might be made righteous by faith. But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster. For ye are all the sons of God by faith, in Christ Jesus. For all ye that are baptized into Christ, have put on Christ. There is neither Jew nor Grecian: there is neither bond nor free: there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus. And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abrahams seed, and heirs by promise. Then I say, that the heir as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be Lord of all, but is under tutors and governors, until the time appointed of the Father. Even so, we when we were children were in bondage under the rudiments of the world. But when the fullness of time was come, God sent forth his Son made of a woman, and made under the Law, that he might redeem them which were under the Law, that we might receive the adoption of the sons. And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, which crieth, Abba, Father. Wherefore, thou art no more a servant, but a son: now if thou be a son, thou art also the heir of God through Christ. But even then, when ye knew not God, ye did service unto them, which by nature are not gods: but now seeing ye know God, yea, rather are known of God, how tune ye again unto impotent and beggarly rudiments, whereunto as from the beginning ye will be in bondage again? Ye observe days, and months, and times and years. I am in fear of you, lest I have bestowed on you labor in vain. Be ye as I (for I am even as you) brethren, I beseech you: ye have not hurt me at all. And ye know, how through infirmity of the flesh, I preached the Gospel unto you at the first. And the trial of me which was in my flesh, ye despised not, neither abhorred: but ye received me as an Angel of God, yea, as Christ Jesus. What was then your felicity? for I bear you record, that if it had been possible, ye would have plucked out your own eyes, and have given them unto me. Am I therefore become your enemy, because I tell you the truth? They are jealous over you amiss: yea, they would exclude you, that ye should altogether love them. But it is a good thing to love earnestly always in a good thing, and not only when I am present with you, my little children, of whom I travail in birth again, until Christ be formed in you. And I would I were with you now, that I might change my voice: for I am in doubt of you. Tell me, ye that will be under the Law, do ye not hear the Law? For it is written, that Abraham had two sons, one by a servant, and one by a free woman. But he which was of the servant was borne after the flesh: and he which was of the free woman was borne by promise. By the which things another thing is meant: for these mothers are the two testaments, the one which is Agar of mount Sinai, which gendereth unto bondage. (For Agar or Sinai is a mountain in Arabia, and it answereth to Jerusalem which now is) and she is in bondage with her children. But Jerusalem, which is above, is free: which is the mother of us all. For it is written, Rejoice thou barren that bear no children: break forth, & cry, thou that travail not: for the desolate hath many more children, then she which hath an husband. Therefore, brethren, we are after the manner of Isaac, children of the promise. But as then he that was borne after the flesh, persecuted him that was borne after the Spirit, even so it is now. But what saith the Scripture? Put out the servant and her son: for the son of the servant shall not be heir with the son of the free woman. Then brethren, we are not children of the servant, but of the free woman.

Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage. Behold I Paul say unto you, that if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing. For I testify again to every man, which is circumcised, that he is bound to keep the whole Law. Ye are abolished from Christ: whosoever are justified by the Law, ye are fallen from grace. For we through the Spirit wait for the hope of righteousness through faith. For in Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth any thing, neither uncircumcision, but faith which worketh by love. Ye did run well: who did let you, that ye did not obey the truth? It is not the persuasion of him that calleth you. A little leaven doeth leaven the whole lump. I have trust in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but he that troubleth you, shall bear his condemnation, whosoever he be. And brethren, if I yet preach circumcision, why do I yet suffer persecution? Then is the slander of the cross abolished. Would to God they were even cut off, which do disquiet you. For brethren, ye have been called unto liberty: only use not your liberty as an occasion unto the flesh, but by love serve one another. For all the Law is fulfilled in one word, which is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self. If ye bite and devour one another, take heed least ye be consumed one of another. Then I say, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary one to another, so that ye cannot do the same things that ye would. And if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are not under the Law. Moreover the works of the flesh are manifest, which are adultery, fornication, uncleanness, wantonness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, debate, emulations, wrath, contentions, seditions, heresies, envy, murders, drunkenness, gluttony, and such like, whereof I tell you before, as I also have told you before, that they which do such things, shall not inherit the kingdom of God. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law. For they that are Christ's, have crucified the flesh with the affections and the lusts. If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. Let us not be desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

Brethren, if a man be suddenly taken in any offence, ye which are spiritual, restore such one with the spirit of meekness, considering thy self, least thou also be tempted. Bear ye one another's burden, & so fulfill the Law of Christ. For if any man seem to himself, that he is somewhat, when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself in his imagination. But let every man prove his own work: and then shall he have rejoicing in himself only and not in another. For every man shall bear his own burden. Let him that is taught in the word; make him that hath taught him, partaker of all his goods. Be not deceived: God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption: but he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting. Let us not therefore be weary of well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not. While we have therefore time, let us do good unto all men, but specially unto them, which are of the household of faith.

Ye see how large a letter I have written unto you with mine own hand. As many as desire to make a faire shew in the flesh, they constrain you to be circumcised, only because they would not suffer persecution for the cross of Christ. For they themselves which are circumcised keep not the law, but desire to have you circumcised, that they might rejoice in your flesh. But God forbid that I should rejoice, but in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, whereby the world is crucified unto me, & I unto the world. For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature. And as many as walk according to this rule, peace shall be upon them, and mercy, and upon the Israel of God. From henceforth let no man put me to business: for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus. Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, Amen.

The Epistle of Paul to the EPHESIANS

Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, to the Saints, which are at Ephesus, and to the faithful in Christ Jesus: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. Blessed be God, and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which hath blessed us with all spiritual blessing in heavenly things in Christ, as he hath chosen us in him, before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy, & without blame before him in love: who hath predestinate us, to be adopted through Jesus Christ in himself, according to the good pleasure of his will, to the praise of the glory of his grace, wherewith he hath made us freely accepted in his beloved, by whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins, according to his rich grace: whereby he hath been abundant toward us in all wisdom and understanding, and hath opened unto us the mystery of his will according to his good pleasure, which he had purposed in him, that in the dispensation of the fullness of the times, he might gather together in one all things, both which are in heaven, and which are in earth, even in Christ: in whom also we are chosen when we were predestinate according to the purpose of him, which worketh all things after the counsel of his own will, that we, which first trusted in Christ, should be unto the praise of his glory: in whom also ye have trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, even the Gospel of your salvation, wherein also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with the holy Spirit of promise, which is the earnest of our inheritance, for the redemption of that liberty purchased unto the praise of his glory.

Therefore also after that I heard of the faith, which ye have in the Lord Jesus, and love toward all the Saints, I cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers, that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, that Father of glory, might give unto you the Spirit of wisdom, and revelation through the acknowledging of him, that the eyes of your understanding may be lightened, that ye may know what the hope is of his calling, and what the riches of his glorious inheritance is in the Saints, and what is the exceeding greatness of his power toward us, which believe, according to the working of his mighty power, which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from the dead, and set him at his right hand in the heavenly places, far above all principality, and power, and might, and domination, and every Name, that is named, not in this world only, but also in that that is to come, and hath made all things subject under his feet, and hath given him over all things to be the head to the Church, which is his body, even the fullness of him that filleth all in all things. And you hath he quickened, that were dead in trespasses and sins, wherein, in times past ye walked, according to the course of this world, and after the prince that ruleth in the air, even the spirit, that now worketh in the children of disobedience, among whom we also had our conversation in time past, in the lusts of our flesh, in fulfilling the will of the flesh, and of the mind, and were by nature the children of wrath, as well as others. But God which is rich in mercy, through his great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead by sins, hath quickened us together in Christ, by whose grace ye are saved, and hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, that he might shew in the ages to come the exceeding riches of his grace, through his kindness toward us in Christ Jesus. For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of your selves: it is the gift of God, not of works, least any man should boast himself. For we are his workmanship created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath ordained, that we should walk in them. Wherefore remember that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, and called uncircumcision of them, which are called circumcision in the flesh, made with hands, that ye were, I say, at that time without Christ, and were aliens from the common wealth of Israel, and were strangers from the covenants of promise, and had no hope, and were without God in the world. But now in Christ Jesus, ye which once were far off, are made near by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace, which hath made of both one, and hath broken the stop of the partition wall, in abrogating through his flesh the hatred, that is, the Law of commandments which standeth in ordinances, for to make of twain one new man in himself, so making peace, and that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by his cross, and slay hatred thereby, and came, and preached peace to you which were afar off, & to them that were near. For through him we both have an entrance unto the Father by one Spirit. Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners: but citizens with the Saints, and of the household of God, and are built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief cornerstone, in whom all the building coupled together, groweth unto an holy Temple in the Lord. In whom ye also are built together to be the habitation of God by the Spirit.

For this cause, I Paul am the prisoner of Jesus Christ for you Gentiles, if ye have heard of the dispensation of the grace of God, which is given me to you ward, that is, that God by revelation hath shewed this mystery unto me (as I wrote above in few words, whereby when ye read, ye may know mine understanding in the mystery of Christ) which in other ages was not opened unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy Apostles and Prophets by the Spirit, that the Gentiles should be inheritors also, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ by the Gospel, whereof I am made a minister by the gift of the grace of God given unto me through the effectual working of his power. Even unto me the least of all Saints is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, and to make clear unto all men what the fellowship of the mystery is, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who hath created all things by Jesus Christ, to the intent, that now unto principalities and powers in heavenly places, might be known by the Church the manifold wisdom of God, according to the eternal purpose, which he wrought in Christ Jesus our Lord: by whom we have boldness and entrance with confidence, by faith in him. Wherefore I desire that ye faint not at my tribulations for your sakes, which is your glory. For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, (Of whom is named the whole family in heaven and in earth) that he might grant you according to the riches of his glory, that ye may be strengthened by his Spirit in the inner man, that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith: that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all Saints, what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height: and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye may be filled with all fullness of God. Unto him therefore that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, be praise in the Church by Christ Jesus, throughout all generations forever, Amen.

I therefore, being prisoner in the Lord, pray you that ye walk worthy of the vocation whereunto ye are called, with all humbleness of mind, and meekness, with long suffering, supporting one another through love, endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your vocation. There is one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, one God and Father of all, which is above all, and through all, and in you all. But unto every one of us is given grace, according to the measure of the gift of Christ. Wherefore he saith, When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, & gave gifts unto men. (Now, in that he ascended, what is it but that he had also descended first into the lowest parts of the earth? He that descended, is even the same that ascended, far above all heavens, that he might fill all things) He therefore gave some to be Apostles, and some Prophets, and some Evangelists, and some Pastors, and Teachers, for the repairing of the Saints, for the work of the ministry, and for the edification of the body of Christ, till we all meet together (in the unity of faith and that acknowledging of the Son of God) unto a perfect man, and unto the measure of the age of the fullness of Christ, that we henceforth be no more children, wavering and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the deceit of men, and with craftiness, whereby they lay in wait to deceive. But let us follow the truth in love, and in all things, grow up into him, which is the head, that is, Christ. By whom all the body being coupled and knit together by every joint, for the furniture thereof (according to the effectual power, which is in the measure of every part) receiveth increase of the body, unto the edifying of itself in love. This I say therefore and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in vanity of their mind, having their understanding darkened, and being strangers from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the hardness of their heart: which being past feeling, have given themselves unto wantonness, to work all uncleanness, even with greediness. But ye have not so learned Christ, if so be ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus, that is, that ye cast off, concerning the conversation in time past, that old man, which is corrupt through the deceivable lusts, and be renewed in the spirit of your mind, and put on ye new man, which after God is created unto righteousness, and true holiness. Wherefore cast off lying, and speak every man truth unto his neighbor: for we are members one of another. Be angry, but sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath, neither give place to the devil. Let him that stole, steal no more: but let him rather labor, and work with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give unto him that needeth. Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouths: but that which is good, to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers. And grieve not the holy Spirit of God, by whom ye are sealed unto ye day of redemption. Let all bitterness, and anger, and wrath, crying, and evil speaking be put away from you, with all maliciousness. Be ye courteous one to another, & tender hearted, freely forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake, freely forgave you. Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children, and walk in love, even as Christ hath loved us, and hath given himself for us, to be an offering and a sacrifice of a sweet smelling savor to God. But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not be once named among you, as it becometh Saints, neither filthiness, neither foolish talking, neither jesting, which are things not comely, but rather giving of thanks. For this ye know, that no whoremonger, neither unclean person, nor covetous person, which is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ, and of God. Let no man deceive you with vain words: for, for such things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience. Be not therefore companions with them. For ye were once darkness, but are now light in the Lord: walk as children of light, (For the fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth) approving that which is pleasing to the Lord. And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but even reprove them rather. For it is shame even to speak of the things which are done of them in secret. But all things when they are reprov'd of the light are manifest: for it is light that maketh all things manifest. Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and stand up from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. Take heed therefore that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the season: for the days are evil. Wherefore, be ye not unwise, but understand what the will of the Lord is. And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess: but be fulfilled with the Spirit, speaking unto your selves in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing, and making melody to the Lord in your hearts, giving thanks always for all things unto God even the Father, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, submitting your selves one to another in the fear of God. Wives, submit your selves unto your husbands, as unto the Lord. For the husband is the wives head, even as Christ is the head of the Church, and the same is the savior of his body. Therefore as the Church is in subjection to Christ, even so let the wives be to their husbands in everything. Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ loved the Church, &

gave himself for it, that he might sanctify it, and cleanse it by the washing of water through the word, that he might make it unto himself a glorious Church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing: but that it should be holy and without blame. So ought men to love their wives, as their own bodies: he that loveth his wife, loveth himself. For no man ever yet hated his own flesh, but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord doeth the Church. For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones. For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they twain shall be one flesh. This is a great secret, but I speak concerning Christ, and concerning the Church. Therefore every one of you, do ye so: let everyone love his wife, even as himself, and let the wife see that she fear her husband. Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father & mother (which is the first commandment with promise) that it may be well with thee, and that thou may live long on earth. And ye, fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in instruction and information of the Lord. Servants, be obedient unto them that are your masters, according to the flesh, with fear & trembling in singleness of your hearts as unto Christ, not with service to the eye, as men pleasers, but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart, with good will, serving the Lord, and not men. And know ye that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, that same shall he receive of the Lord, whether he be bond or free. And ye masters, do the same things unto them, putting away threatening: and know that even your master also is in heaven, neither is there respect of person with him.

Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armor of God that ye may be able to stand against the assaults of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, and against the worldly governors, the princes of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness's, which are in the high places. For this cause take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to resist in the evil day, and having finished all things, stand fast. Stand therefore, and your loins girded about with verity, and having on the breast plate of righteousness, and your feet shod with the preparation of the Gospel of peace. Above all, take the shield of faith, wherewith ye may quench all the fiery darts of the wicked, and take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. And pray always with all manner prayer and supplication in the Spirit: and watch thereunto with all perseverance & supplication for all Saints, and for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly to publish the secret of the Gospel, whereof I am the ambassador in bonds, that therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak.

But that ye may also know mine affaires, and what I do, Tychicus my dear brother and faithful minister in the Lord, shall shew you of all things, whom I have sent unto you for the same purpose, that ye might know mine affairs, and that he might comfort your hearts. Peace be with the brethren, and love with faith from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. Grace be with all them which love our Lord Jesus Christ, to their immortality, Amen.

Written from Rome unto the Ephesians, and sent by Tychicus.

The Epistle of Paul to the PHILIPPIANS

Paul and Timotheus the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the Saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with the Bishops, and Deacons: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. I thank my God, having you in perfect memory, (Always in all my prayers for all you, praying with gladness) because of the fellowship which ye have in the Gospel, from the first day unto now. And I am persuaded of this same thing, that he that hath begun this good work in you, will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ, as it becometh me so to judge of you all, because I have you in remembrance that both in my bands, and in my defense, & confirmation of the Gospel you all were partakers of my grace. For God is my record, how I long after you all from the very heart root in Jesus Christ. And this I pray, that your love may abound, yet more and more in knowledge, and in all judgment, that ye may allow those things which are best, that ye may be pure, and without offence until the day of Christ, filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ unto the glory & praise of God. I would ye understood, brethren, that the things which have come unto me, are turned rather to the furthering of the Gospel, so that my bands in Christ are famous throughout all the judgment hall, and in all other places, in so much that many of the brethren in the Lord are boldened through my bands, and dare more frankly speak the word. Some preach Christ even through envy and strife, and some also of good will. The one part preacheth Christ of contention and not purely, supposing to add more affliction to my bands. But the others of love, knowing that I am set for the defense of the Gospel. What then? yet Christ is preached all manner ways, whether it be under a pretence, or sincerely: and I therein joy: yea and will joy. For I know that this shall turn to my salvation through your prayer, and by the help of the Spirit of Jesus Christ, as I fervently look for, and hope, that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all confidence, as always, so now Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life or by death. For Christ is to me both in life, & in death advantage. And whether to live in the flesh were profitable for me, and what to choose I know not. For I am distressed between both, desiring to be loosed and to be with Christ, which is best of all. Nevertheless, to abide in the flesh, is more needful for you. And this am I sure of, that I shall abide, and with you all continue, for your furtherance and joy of your faith, that ye may more abundantly rejoice in Jesus Christ for me, by my coming to you again. Only let your conversation be, as it becometh the Gospel of Christ, that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your matters that ye continue in one Spirit, and in one mind, fighting together through the faith of the Gospel. And in nothing fear your adversaries, which is to them a token of perdition, and to you of salvation, and that of God. For unto you it is given for Christ, that not only ye should believe in him, but also suffer for his sake, having the same fight, which ye saw in me, and now hear to be in me.

If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any compassion and mercy, fulfill my joy, that ye be like minded, having the same love, being of one accord, and of one judgment, that nothing be done through contention or vain glory, but that in meekness of mind every man esteem other better than himself. Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of other men. Let the same mind be in you that was even in Christ Jesus, who being in the form of God, thought it no robbery to be equal with God: but he made himself of no reputation, & took on him the form of a servant, & was made like unto men, and was found in shape as a man. He humbled himself, and became obedient unto the death, even the death of the Cross. Wherefore God hath also highly exalted him, and given him a Name above every name, that at the Name of Jesus should every knee bow, both of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth, and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is the Lord, unto the glory of God the Father. Wherefore my beloved, as ye have always obeyed me, not as in my presence only, but now much more in mine absence, so make an end of your own salvation with fear and trembling. For it is God which worketh in you, both the will and the deed, even of his good pleasure. Do all things without murmuring and reasoning's, that ye may be blameless, & pure, and the sons of God without rebuke in the midst of a naughty and crooked nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world, holding forth the word of life, that I may rejoice in the day of Christ, that I have not run in vain, neither have labored in vain. Yea, and though I be offered up upon the sacrifice, and service of your faith, I am glad, and rejoice with you all. For the same cause also be ye glad, and rejoice with me. And I trust in the Lord Jesus, to send Timotheus shortly unto you, that I also may be of good comfort, when I know your state. For I have no man like minded, who will faithfully care for your matters. For all seek their own, and not that which is Jesus Christ's. But ye know the proof of him, that as a son with the father, he hath served with me in the Gospel. Him therefore I hope to send as soon as I know how it will go with me, and trust in the Lord, that I also myself shall come shortly. But I supposed it necessary to send my brother Epaphroditus unto you, my companion in labor, and fellow soldier, even your messenger, and he that ministered unto me such things as I wanted. For he longed after all you, and was full of heaviness, because ye had heard that he had been sick. And no doubt he was sick, very near unto death: but God had mercy on him, and not on him only, but on me also, least I should have sorrow upon sorrow. I sent him therefore the more diligently, that when ye should see him again, ye might rejoice, and I might be the less sorrowful. Receive him therefore in the Lord with all gladness, and make much of such: because that for the work of Christ he was near unto death, and regarded not his life, to fulfill that service which was lacking on your part toward me.

Moreover, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord. It grieveth me not to write the same things to you, and for you it is a sure thing. Beware of dogs: beware of evil workers: beware of the concision. For we are the circumcision, which worship God in the spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus, and have no confidence in the flesh: though I might also have confidence in the flesh. If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might trust in the flesh, much more I, circumcised the eighth day, of the kindred of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews, by the Law a Pharisee. Concerning zeal, I persecuted the Church: touching the righteousness which is in the Law, I was unrebukeable. But the things that were vantage unto me, the same I counted loss for Christ's sake. Yea, doubtless I think all things but loss for the excellent knowledge sake of Christ Jesus my Lord, for whom I have counted all things loss, and do judge them to be dung, that I might win Christ, and might be found in him, that is, not having mine own righteousness, which is of the Law, but that which is through the faith of Christ, even the righteousness which is of God through faith, that I may know him, and the virtue of his resurrection, & the fellowship of his afflictions, and be made conformable unto his death, if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead: not as though I had already attained to it, either were already perfect: but I follow, if that I may comprehend that for whose sake also I am comprehended of Christ Jesus. Brethren, I count not myself, that I have attained to it, but one thing I do: I forget that which is behind, and endeavor myself unto that which is before, and follow hard toward the mark, for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even the same unto you. Nevertheless, in that whereunto we are come, let us proceed by one rule, that we may mind one thing. Brethren, be followers of me, and look on them, which walk so, as ye have us for an ensample. For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you weeping, that they are the enemies of the Crosse of Christ: whose end is damnation, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is to their shame, which mind earthly things. But our conversation is in heaven, from whence also we look for the Savior, even the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working, whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself. Therefore, my brethren, beloved and longed for, my joy and my crown, so continue in the Lord, the beloved. I pray Euodias, and beseech Syntyche, that they be of one accord in the Lord, yea, and I beseech thee, faithful yokefellow, help those women, which labored with me in the Gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellow labourers, whose names are in the book of life. Rejoice in the Lord always, again I say, rejoice. Let your patient mind be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand. Be nothing careful, but in all things let your requests be shewed unto God in prayer, and supplication with giving of thanks. And the peace of God which passeth all understanding, shall preserve your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus. Furthermore, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are worthy love, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, or if there be any praise, think on these things, which ye have both learned & received, and heard, and seen in me: those things do, and the God of peace shall be with you. Now I rejoice also in the Lord greatly, that now at the last your care for me springeth afresh, wherein notwithstanding ye were careful, but ye lacked opportunity. I speak not because of want: for I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content. And I can be abased, and I can abound: everywhere in all things I am instructed, both to be full, and to be hungry, and to abound, and to have want. I am able to do all things through the help of Christ, which strengtheneth me. Notwithstanding ye have well done, that ye did communicate to mine affliction. And ye Philippians know also that in the beginning of the Gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no Church communicated with me, concerning the matter of giving and receiving, but ye only. For even when I was in Thessalonica, ye sent once, and afterward again for my necessity, not that I desire a gift: but I desire the fruit which may further your reckoning. Now I have received all, and have plenty: I was even filled, after that I had received of Epaphroditus that which came from you, an odor that smelleth sweet, a sacrifice acceptable and pleasant to God. And my God shall fulfill all your necessities through his riches with glory in Jesus Christ. Unto God even our Father be praise for evermore, Amen.

Salute all the Saints in Christ Jesus. The brethren, which are with me, greet you. All the Saints salute you, and most of all they which are of Cesar's household. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all, Amen.

Written to the Philippians from Rome, and sent by Epaphroditus.

The Epistle of Paul to the COLOSSIANS

Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, and Timotheus our brother, to them which are at Colosse, Saints and faithful brethren in Christ: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. We give thanks to God even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, always praying for you: since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus, and of your love toward all Saints, for the hopes sake, which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye have heard before by the word of truth, which is the Gospel, which is come unto you, even as it is unto all the world, & is fruitful, as it is also among you, from the day that ye heard & truly knew ye grace of God, as ye also learned of Epaphras our dear fellow servant, which is for you a faithful minister of Christ: who hath also declared unto us your love in the Spirit. For this cause we also, since the day we heard of it, cease not to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be fulfilled with knowledge of his will in all wisdom, and spiritual understanding, that ye might walk worthy of the Lord, & please him in all things, being fruitful in all good works, and increasing in the knowledge of God, strengthened with all might through his glorious power, unto all patience, and long suffering with joyfulness, giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the Saints in light, who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son, in whom we have redemption through his blood, that is, the forgiveness of sins, who is the image of the invisible God, the first begotten of every creature. For by him were all things created, which are in heaven, and which are in earth, things visible and invisible: whether they be Thrones or Dominions, or Principalities, or Powers, all things were created by him, and for him, and he is before all things, and in him all things consist. And he is the head of the body of the Church: he is the beginning, and the first begotten of the dead, that in all things he might have the preeminence. For it pleased the Father, that in him should all fullness dwell, and through peace made by that blood of that his cross, to reconcile to himself through him, through him, I say, all things, both which are in earth, and which are in heaven. And you which were in times past strangers and enemies, because your minds were set in evil works, hath he now also reconciled, in that body of his flesh through death, to make you holy, and unblameable and without fault in his sight, if ye continue, grounded and established in the faith, & be not moved away from the hope of the Gospel, whereof ye have heard, and which hath been preached to every creature which is under heaven, whereof I Paul am a minister. Now rejoyce I in my sufferings for you, and fulfill the rest of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh, for his bodies sake, which is the Church, whereof I am a minister, according to the dispensation of God, which is given me unto you ward, to fulfill the word of God, which is the mystery hid since the world began, and from all ages, but now is made manifest to his Saints, to whom God would make known what is the riches of his glorious mystery among the Gentiles, which riches is Christ in you, the hope of glory, whom we preach, admonishing every man, & teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus, whereunto I also labor & strive, according to his working which worketh in me mightily.

For I would ye knew what great fighting I have for your sakes, and for them of Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen my person in the flesh, that their hearts might be comforted, and they knit together in love, and in all riches of the full assurance of understanding, to know the mystery of God, even the Father, and of Christ: in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. And this I say, lest any man should beguile you with enticing words: for though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, rejoicing & beholding your order, and your steadfast faith in Christ. As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk in him, rooted and built in him, and established in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving. Beware lest there be any man that spoil you through philosophy, & vain deceit, through the traditions of men, according to the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily. And ye are complete in him, which is the head of all principality and power. In whom also ye are circumcised with circumcision made without hands, by putting off the sinful body of the flesh, through the circumcision of Christ, in that ye are buried with him through baptism, in whom ye are also raised up together through the faith of the operation of God, which raised him from the dead. And you which were dead in sins, and in the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, forgiving you all your trespasses, and putting out the hand writing of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, he even took it out of the way, and fastened it upon the cross, and hath spoiled the Principalities, and Powers, & hath made a shew of them openly, and hath triumphed over them in the same cross. Let no man therefore condemn you in meat and drink, or in respect of an holy day, or of the new moon, or of the Sabbath days, which are but a shadow of things to come: but the body is in Christ. Let no man at his pleasure bear rule over you by humbleness of mind, and worshipping of Angels, advancing himself in those things which he never saw, rashly puffed up with his fleshly mind, and holdeth not the head, whereof all the body furnished and knit together by joints and bands, increaseth with the increasing of God. Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the ordinances of the world, why, as though ye lived in the world, are ye burdened with traditions? As, Touch not, Taste not, Handle not. Which all perish with the using, and are after the commandments and doctrines of men. Which things have in deed a shew of wisdom, in voluntary religion and humbleness of mind, and in not sparing the body, which are things of no value, since they pertain to the filling of the flesh. If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God. Set your affections on things which are above, and not on things which are on the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ which is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory. Mortify therefore your members which are on the earth, fornication, uncleanness, the inordinate affection, evil concupiscence, and covetousness which is idolatry. For the which things sake ye wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience. Wherein ye also walked onetime when ye lived in them. But now put ye away even all these things, wrath, anger, maliciousness, cursed speaking, filthy speaking, out of your mouth. Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his works, and have put on the new, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him, where is neither Grecian nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond, free: but Christ is all, and in all things. Now therefore as the elect of God holy and beloved, put on the bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long suffering: forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel to another: even as Christ forgave, even so do ye. And above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfectness. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which ye are called in one body, and be ye thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you plenteously in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing your own selves, in Psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing with a grace in your hearts to the Lord. And whatsoever ye shall do, in word or deed, do all in the Name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God even the Father by him. Wives, submit yourselves unto your husbands, as it is comely in the Lord. Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter unto them. Children, obey your parents in all things for that is well pleasing unto the Lord. Fathers, provoke not your children to anger, lest they be discouraged. Servants, be obedient unto them that are your masters according to the flesh, in all things, not with eye service as men pleasers, but in singleness of heart, fearing God. And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not to men, knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance: for ye serve the Lord Christ. But he that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong that he hath done: and there is no respect of persons. Ye masters do unto your servants, that which is just, and equal, knowing that ye also have a master in heaven. Continue in prayer, and watch in the same with thanksgiving, praying also for us, that God may open unto us the door of utterance, to speak ye mystery of Christ: wherefore I am also in bonds that I may utter it, as it becometh me to speak. Walk wisely toward them that are without, and redeem the season. Let your speech be gracious always, and powdered with salt, that ye may know how to answer every man.

Tychicus our beloved brother and faithful minister, and fellow servant in the Lord, shall declare unto you my whole state: whom I have sent unto you for the same purpose that he might know your state, & might comfort your hearts, with Onesimus a faithful and a beloved brother, who is one of you. They shall shew you of all things here. Aristarchus my prison fellow saluteth you, and Marcus, Barnabas cousin (touching whom ye received commandments. If he come unto you, receive him) and Jesus which is called Justus, which are of the circumcision. These only are my work fellows unto the kingdom of God, which have been unto my consolation. Epaphras the servant of Christ, which is one of you, saluteth you, and always striveth for you in prayers, that ye may stand perfect, and full in all the will of God. For I bear him record, that he hath a great zeal for you, and for them of Laodicea, & them of Hierapolis. Luke the beloved physician greeteth you, and Demas. Salute the brethren which are of Laodicea, and Nymphas, and the Church which is in his house. And when this Epistle is read of you, cause that it be read in the Church of the Laodiceans also, and that ye likewise read the Epistle written from Laodicea. And say to Archippus, Take heed to the ministry, that thou hast received in the Lord, that thou fulfill it. The salutation by the hand of me Paul. Remember my bands. Grace be with you, Amen.

Written from Rome to the Colossians, and sent by Tychicus, and Onesimus.

The First Epistle of Paul to the THESSALONIANS

Paul, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the Church of the Thessalonians, which is in God the Father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. We give God thanks always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers without ceasing, remembering your effectual faith, and diligent love, and the patience of your hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God even our Father, knowing, beloved brethren, that ye are elect of God. For our Gospel was not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the holy Ghost, and in much assurance, as ye know after what manner we were among you for your sakes. And ye became followers of us, and of the Lord, and received the word in much affliction, with joy of the holy Ghost, so that ye were as ensamples to all that believe in Macedonia and in Achaia. For from you sounded out the word of the Lord, not in Macedonia and in Achaia only: but your faith also which is toward God, spread abroad in all quarters, that we need not to speak anything. For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols, to serve the living and true God, and to look for his son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus which delivereth us from that wrath to come. For ye yourselves know, brethren, that our entrance in unto you was not in vain, but even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully entreated at Philippi, (as ye know) we were bold in our God, to speak unto you the Gospel of God with much striving. For our exhortation was not by deceit, nor by uncleanness, nor by guile. But as we were allowed of God, that the Gospel should be committed unto us, so we speak, not as they that please men, but God, which approveth our hearts. Neither yet did we ever use flattering words, as ye know, nor colored covetousness, God is record. Neither sought we praise of men, neither of you, nor of others, when we might have been chargeable, as the Apostles of Christ. But we were gentle among you, even as a nurse cherisheth her children. Thus being affectionate toward you, our good will was to have dealt unto you, not the Gospel of God only, but also our own souls, because ye were dear unto us. For ye remember, brethren, our labor and travail: for we labored day & night, because we would not be chargeable unto any of you, and preached unto you the Gospel of God. Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily, and justly, and unblameably we behaved our selves among you that believe. As ye know how that we exhorted you, and comforted, and besought every one of you (as a father his children) that ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory. For this cause also thank we God without ceasing, that when ye received the word of God, which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but as it is in deed the word of God, which also worketh in you that believe. For brethren, ye are become followers of the Churches of God, which in Judea are in Christ Jesus, because ye have also suffered the same things of your own countrymen, even as they have of the Jews, who both killed the Lord Jesus & their own Prophets, & have persecuted us away, and God they please not, and are contrary to all men, and forbid us to preach unto the Gentiles, that they might be saved, to fulfill their sins always: for the wrath of God is come on them, to the utmost. For as much, brethren, as we were kept from you for a season, concerning sight, but not in the heart, we enforced the more to see your face with great desire. Therefore we would have come unto you (I Paul, at least once or twice) but Satan hindered us. For what is our hope or joy, or crown of rejoicing? are not even you it in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming? Yes, ye are our glory and joy.

Wherefore since we could no longer forbear, we thought it good to remain at Athens alone, and have sent Timotheus our brother and minister of God, and our labor fellow in the Gospel of Christ, to stablish you, and to comfort you touching your faith, that no man should be moved with these afflictions: for ye your selves know, that we are appointed thereunto. For verily when we were with you, we told you before that we should suffer tribulations, even as it came to pass, and ye know it. Even for this cause, when I could no longer forbear, I sent him that I might know of your faith, lest the tempter had tempted you in any sort, and that our labor had been in vain. But now lately when Timotheus came from you unto us, and brought us good tidings of your faith and love, & that ye have good remembrance of us always, desiring to see us, as we also do you, therefore, brethren, we had consolation in you, in all our affliction and necessity through your faith. For now are we alive, if ye stand fast in the Lord. For what thanks can we recompense to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we rejoyce for your sakes before our God, night and day, praying exceedingly that we might see your face, and might accomplish that which is lacking in your faith? Now God himself, even our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, guide our journey unto you, and the Lord increase you, and make you abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you: to make your hearts stable & unblameable in holiness before God even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his Saints. And furthermore we beseech you, brethren, and exhort you in the Lord Jesus, that ye increase more and more, as ye have received of us, how ye ought to walk, and to please God. For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus. For this is the will of God even your sanctification, and that ye should abstain from fornication, that every one of you should know, how to possess his vessel in holiness and honor, and not in the lust of concupiscence, even as the Gentiles which know not God: that no man oppress or defraud his brother in any matter: for the Lord is avenger of all such things, as we also have told you before time, and testified. For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness. He therefore that despiseth these things, despiseth not man, but God who hath even given you his holy Spirit. But as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write unto you: for ye are taught of God to love one another. Yea, and that thing verily ye do unto all the brethren, which are throughout all Macedonia: but we beseech you, brethren, that ye increase more and more, and that ye study to be quiet, & to meddle with your own business, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you, that ye may behave your selves honestly toward them that are without, and that nothing be lacking unto you.

I would not, brethren, have you ignorant concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not even as other which have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus is dead, and is risen, even so them which sleep in Jesus, will God bring with him. For this say we unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which live, and are remaining in the coming of the Lord, shall not prevent them which sleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, and with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trumpet of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: then shall we which live and remain, be caught up with them also in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore, comfort your selves one another with these words. But of the times and seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you. For ye your selves know perfectly, that the day of the Lord shall come, even as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, Peace, and safety, then shall come upon them sudden destruction, as the travail upon a woman with child, and they shall not escape, but ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day shall come on you, as it were a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, neither of darkness. Therefore let us not sleep as do other, but let us watch and be sober. For they that sleep, sleep in the night, and they that be drunken, are drunken in the night. But let us which are of the day, be sober, putting on the breast plate of faith and love, and of the hope of salvation for an helmet. For God hath not appointed us unto wrath, but to obtain salvation by the means of our Lord Jesus Christ, which died for us, that whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him. Wherefore exhort one another, and edify one another, even as ye do. Now we beseech you, brethren, that ye acknowledge them, which labor among you, and are over you in the Lord, & admonish you, that ye have them in singular love for their works sake. Be at peace among your selves. We desire you, brethren, admonish them that are out of order: comfort the feeble minded: bear with the weak: be patient toward all men. See that none recompense evil for evil unto any man: but ever follow that which is good, both toward your selves, and toward all men. Rejoice evermore. Pray continually. In all things give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus toward you. Quench not the Spirit. Despise not prophesying. Try all things, & keep that which is good. Abstain from all appearance of evil. Now the very God of peace sanctify you throughout: and I pray God that your whole spirit and soul and body, may be kept blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Faithfull is he which calleth you, which will also do it. Brethren, pray for us. Greet all the brethren with an holy kiss. I charge you in the Lord, that this Epistle be read unto all the brethren the Saints. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you, Amen.

The Second Epistle of Paul to the THESSALONIANS

Paul and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the Church of the Thessalonians, which is in God our Father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ: Grace be with you, & peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. We ought to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the love of every one of you toward another, aboundeth, so that we our selves rejoice of you in the Churches of God, because of your patience & faith in all your persecutions & tribulations that ye suffer, which is a manifest token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for the which ye also suffer. For it is a righteous thing with God, to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you, and to you which are troubled, rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall shew himself from heaven with his mighty Angels, in flaming fire, rendering vengeance unto them, that do not know God, and which obey not unto the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, which shall be punished with everlasting perdition, from the presence of the Lord, & from the glory of his power, when he shall come to be glorified in his Saints, and to be made marvelous in all them that believe (because our testimony toward you was believed) in that day. Wherefore, we also pray always for you, that our God may make you worthy of this calling, and fulfill all the good pleasure of his goodness, and the work of faith with power, that the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our assembling unto him, that ye be not suddenly moved from your mind, nor troubled neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter, as it were from us, as though the day of Christ were at hand. Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a departing first, and that that man of sin be disclosed, even the son of perdition, which is an adversary, and exalteth him self against all that is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he doth sit as God in the Temple of God, shewing him self that he is God. Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, I told you these things? And now ye know what withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time. For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he which now withholdeth, shall let till he be taken out of the way. And then shall that wicked man be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the Spirit of his mouth, and shall abolish with the brightness of his coming, even him whose coming is by the effectual working of Satan, with all power, and signs, and lying wonders, and in all deceivableness of unrighteousness, among them that perish, because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And therefore God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe lies, that all they might be damned which believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness. But we ought to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because that God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation, through sanctification of the Spirit, and the faith of truth, whereunto he called you by our Gospel, to obtain the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, brethren, stand fast & keep the instructions, which ye have been taught, either by word, or by our Epistle. Now the same Jesus Christ our Lord; and our God even the Father which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and good hope through grace, comfort your hearts, and stablish you in every word and good work. Furthermore, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free passage and be glorified, even as it is with you, and that we may be delivered from unreasonable and evil men: for all men have not faith. But the Lord is faithful, which will stablish you, and keep you from evil. And we are persuaded of you through the Lord, that ye both do, & will do the things which we warn you of. And the Lord guide your hearts to the love of God, and the waiting for of Christ. We warn you, brethren, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw your selves from every brother that walketh inordinately, and not after the instruction, which he received of us. For ye your selves know, how ye ought to follow us: for we behaved not our selves inordinately among you, neither took we bread of any man for naught: but we wrought with labor and travail night and day, because we would not be chargeable to any of you. Not because we have not authority, but that we might make our selves an ensample unto you to follow us. For even when we were with you, this we warned you of, that if there were any, which would not work, that he should not eat. For we hear, that there are some which walk among you inordinately, and work not at all, but are busy bodies. Therefore them that are such, we warn and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that they work with quietness, and eat their own bread. And ye, brethren, be not weary in well doing. If any man obey not this our saying in this letter, note him, & have no company with him, that he may be ashamed: yet count him not as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother. Now the Lord himself of peace give you peace always by all means. The Lord be with you all. The salutation of me Paul, with mine own hand, which is ye token in every Epistle: so I write, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all, Amen.

The First Epistle of Paul to TIMOTHY

Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the commandment of God our Savior, and of our Lord Jesus Christ our hope, unto Timotheus my natural son in the faith: Grace, mercy, and peace from God our Father, and from Christ Jesus our Lord. As I besought thee to abide still in Ephesus, when I departed into Macedonia, so do, that thou may warn some, that they teach none other doctrine, neither that they give heed to fables and genealogies which are endless, which breed questions rather than godly edifying which is by faith. For the end of the commandment is love out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned. From the which things some have erred, and have turned unto vain jangling. They would be doctors of the Law, and yet understand not what they speak, neither whereof they affirm. And we know, that the Law is good, if a man use it lawfully, knowing this, that the Law is not given unto a righteous man, but unto the lawless and disobedient, to the ungodly, and to sinners, to the unholy, and to the profane, to murderers of fathers and mothers, to manslayers, to whoremongers, to buggerers, to menstealers, to liars, to the perjured, and if there be any other thing, that is contrary to wholesome doctrine, which is according to the glorious Gospel of the blessed God, which is committed unto me. Therefore I thank him, which hath made me strong, that is, Christ Jesus our Lord: for he counted me faithful, and put me in his service: when before I was a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and an oppressor: but I was received to mercy: for I did it ignorantly through unbelief. But the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant with faith and love, which is in Christ Jesus. This is a true saying, and by all means worthy to be received, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief. Notwithstanding, for this cause was I received to mercy, that Jesus Christ should first shew on me all long suffering unto the ensample of them, which shall in time to come believe in him unto eternal life. Now unto the King everlasting, immortal, invisible, unto God only wise, be honor and glory, forever, and ever, Amen.

This commandment commit I unto thee, son Timotheus, according to the prophecies, which went before upon thee, that thou by them shouldest fight a good fight, having faith and a good conscience, which some have put away, and as concerning faith, have made shipwreck. Of whom is Hymeneus, and Alexander, whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they might learn not to blaspheme. I Exhort therefore, that first of all supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men, for Kings, and for all that are in authority, that we may lead a quiet and a peaceable life, in all godliness and honesty. For this is good & acceptable in the sight of God our Savior, who will that all men shall be saved, and come unto the acknowledging of the truth. For there is one God, and one Mediator between God and man, which is the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself a ransom for all men, to be that testimony in due time, whereunto I am ordained a preacher and an Apostle (I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not) even a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and verity. I will therefore that the men pray, everywhere lifting up pure hands without wrath, or doubting. Likewise also the women, that they array themselves in comely apparel, with shamefastness and modesty, not with broided hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly apparel, but (as becometh women that profess the fear of God) with good works. Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection. I permit not a woman to teach, neither to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence. For Adam was first formed, then Eve. And Adam was not deceived, but the woman was deceived, and was in the transgression. Notwithstanding, through bearing of children she shall be saved if they continue in faith, and love, and holiness with modesty.

This is a true saying, If any man desire the office of a Bishop, he desireth a worthy work. A Bishop therefore must be unreprouceable, the husband of one wife, watching, temperate, modest, harberous, apt to teach, not given to wine, no striker, not given to filthy lucre, but gentle, no fighter, not covetous, one that can rule his own house honestly, having children under obedience with all honesty. For if any cannot rule his own house, how shall he care for the Church of God? He may not be a young scholar, lest he being puffed up fall into the condemnation of the devil. He must also be well reported of, even of them which are without, lest he fall into rebuke, and the snare of the devil. Likewise must Deacons be grave, not double tongued, not given unto much wine, neither to filthy lucre, having the mystery of the faith in pure conscience. And let them first be proved: then let them minister, if they be found blameless. Likewise their wives must be honest, not evil speakers, but sober, and faithful in all things. Let the Deacons be the husbands of one wife, and such as can rule their children well, and their own households. For they that have ministered well, get themselves a good degree, and great liberty in the faith, which is in Christ Jesus. These things write I unto thee, trusting to come very shortly unto thee. But if I tarry long, that thou may yet know, how thou ought to behave thy self in the house of God, which is the Church of the living God, the pillar and ground of truth. And without controversy, great is the mystery of godliness, which is, God is manifested in the flesh, justified in the Spirit, seen of Angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the world, and received up in glory.

Now the Spirit speaketh evidently, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, and shall give heed unto spirits of error, and doctrines of devils, which speak lies through hypocrisy, & have their consciences burned with an hot iron, forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats which God hath created to be received with giving thanks of them which believe and know the truth. For every creature of God is good, and nothing ought to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving. For it is sanctified by the word of God, and prayer. If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, which hast been nourished up in the words of faith, and of good doctrine, which thou hast continually followed. But cast away profane, and old wives fables, and exercise thy self unto godliness. For bodily exercise profiteth little: but godliness is profitable unto all things, which hath the promise of the life present, and of that that is to come. This is a true saying, and by all means worthy to be received. For therefore we labor and are rebuked, because we trust in the living God, which is the Savior of all men, specially of those that believe. These things warn and teach.

Let no man despise thy youth, but be unto them that believe, an ensample, in word, in conversation, in love, in spirit, in faith, and in pureness. Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, and to doctrine. Despise not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy with the laying on of the hands of the company of the Eldership. These things exercise, and give thy self unto them, that it may be seen how thou profitest among all men. Take heed unto thy self, and unto learning: continue therein: for in doing this thou shalt both save thy self, & them that hear thee. Rebuke not an Elder, but exhort him as a father, and the younger men as brethren, the elder women as mothers, the younger as sisters, with all pureness. Honor widows, which are widows in deed. But if any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to shew godliness toward their own house, and to recompense their kindred: for that is an honest thing and acceptable before God. And she that is a widow in deed and left alone, trusteth in God, and continueth in supplications and prayers night and day. But she that liveth in pleasure, is dead, while she liveth. These things therefore warn them of, that they may be blameless. If there be any that provideth not for his own, and namely for them of his household, he denieth the faith, and is worse than an infidel. Let not a widow be taken into the number under three score year old, that hath been the wife of one husband, and well reported of for good works: if she have nourished her children, if she have lodged the strangers, if she have washed the Saints feet, if she have ministered unto them which were in adversity, if she were continually given unto every good work. But refuse the younger widows: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry, having damnation, because they have broken the first faith. And likewise also being idle they learn to go about from house to house: yea, they are not only idle, but also prattlers and busybodies, speaking things which are not comely. I will therefore that the younger women marry, and bear children, and govern the house, and give none occasion to the adversary to speak evil. For certain are already turned back after Satan. If any faithful man, or faithful woman have widows, let them minister unto them, and let not the Church be charged, that there may be sufficient for them that are widows in deed. The Elders that rule well, let them be had in double honor, specially they which labor in the word and doctrine, for the Scripture sayeth, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn: and, The laborer is worthy of his wages. Against an Elder receive none accusation, but under two or three witnesses. Them that sin, rebuke openly, that the rest also may fear.

I charge thee before God & the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect Angels, that thou observe these things without preferring one to another, and do nothing partially. Lay hands suddenly on no man, neither be partaker of other men's sins: keep thy self pure. Drink no longer water, but use a little wine for thy stomachs sake, and thine often infirmities. Some men's sins are open before hand, and go before unto judgment: but some men's follow after. Likewise also the good works are manifest before hand, and they that are otherwise, cannot be hid. Let as many servants as are under the yoke, count their masters worthy of all honor, that the Name of God, and his doctrine be not evil spoken of. And they which have believing masters, let them not despise them, because they are brethren, but rather do service, because they are faithful, and beloved, and partakers of the benefit. These things teach and exhort. If any man teach otherwise, and consenteth not to the wholesome words of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the doctrine, which is according to godliness, he is puffed up & knoweth nothing, but doteth about questions & strife of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmising, froward disputations of men of corrupt minds & destitute of the truth, which think that gain is godliness: from such separate thy self. But godliness is great gain, if a man be content with that he hath. For we brought nothing into the world, and it is certain, that we can carry nothing out. Therefore when we have food and raiment, let us therewith be content. For they that will be rich, fall into temptation and snares, and into many foolish and noisome lusts, which drown men in perdition and destruction. For the desire of money is the root of all evil, which while some lusted after, they erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows. But thou, O man of God, flee these things, and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, and meekness. Fight the good fight of faith: lay hold of eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, & hast professed a good profession before many witnesses. I charge thee in the sight of God, who quickeneth all things, and before Jesus Christ, which under Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession, that thou keep this commandment without spot, and unrebukeable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, which in due time he shall shew, that is blessed and Prince only, the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, who only hath immortality, and dwelleth in the light that none can attain unto, whom never man saw, neither can see, unto whom be honor and power everlasting, Amen. Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high minded, & that they trust not in uncertain riches, but in the living God, (which giveth us abundantly, all things to enjoy) that they do good, and be rich in good works, & ready to distribute, and communicate, laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may obtain eternal life. O Timotheus, keep that which is committed unto thee, and avoid profane and vain babblings, and oppositions of science falsely so called, which while some profess, they have erred concerning the faith. Grace be with thee, Amen.

The Second Epistle of Paul to TIMOTHY

Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, according to the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus, to Timotheus my beloved son: Grace, mercy and peace from God the Father, and from Jesus Christ our Lord. I thank God, whom I serve from mine elders with pure conscience, that without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day, desiring to see thee, mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy: when I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice, and am assured that it dwelleth in thee also. Wherefore, I put thee in remembrance that thou stir up the gift of God which is in thee, by the putting on of mine hands. For God hath not given to us the Spirit of fear, but of power, and of love, & of a sound mind. Be not therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, neither of me his prisoner: but be partaker of the afflictions of the Gospel, according to the power of God, who hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given to us through Christ Jesus before the world was, but is now made manifest by that appearing of our Savior Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality unto light through the Gospel. Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and Apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles. For the which cause I also suffer these things, but I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have believed, and I am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him against that day. Keep the true pattern of the wholesome words, which thou hast heard of me in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus. That worthy thing, which was committed to thee, keep through the holy Ghost, which dwelleth in us. This thou know, that all they which are in Asia, be turned from me: of which sort are Phygellus and Hermogenes. The Lord giveth mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus: for he oft refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my chain, but when he was at Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and found me. The Lord grant unto him, that he may find mercy with the Lord at that day, and in how many things he hath ministered unto me at Ephesus, thou know very well. Thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. And what things thou hast heard of me, by many witnesses, the same deliver to faithful men, which shall be able to teach other also. Thou therefore suffer affliction as a good soldier of Jesus Christ. No man that warreth, entangleth himself with the affaires of this life, because he would please him that hath chosen him to be a soldier. And if any man also strive for a Mastery, he is not crowned, except he strive as he ought to do. The husbandman must labor before he receive the fruits. Consider what I say: and the Lord give thee understanding in all things: remember that Jesus Christ, made of the seed of David, was raised again from the dead according to my Gospel, wherein I suffer trouble as an evil doer, even unto bonds: but the word of God is not bound. Therefore I suffer all things, for the elect's sake, that they might also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus, with eternal glory. It is a true saying, For if we be dead together with him, we also shall live together with him. If we suffer, we shall also reign together with him: if we deny him, he also will deny us. If we believe not, yet abideth he faithful: he cannot deny himself. Of these things put them in remembrance, and protest before the Lord, that they strive not about words, which is to no profit, but to the perverting of the hearers. Study to shew thy self approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, dividing the word of truth aright. Stay profane and vain babblings: for they shall increase unto more ungodliness. And their word shall fret as a canker: of which sort is Hymeneus and Philetus, which as concerning the truth have erred from the mark, saying that the resurrection is past already, and do destroy the faith of certain. But the foundation of God remaineth sure, and hath this seal; The Lord knoweth who are his: and, Let every one that calleth on the Name of Christ, depart from iniquity. Notwithstanding in a great house are not only vessels of gold & of silver, but also of wood and of earth, and some for honor, and some unto dishonor. If any man therefore purge him self from these, he shall be a vessel unto honor, sanctified, and meet for the Lord, and prepared unto every good work. Flee also from the lusts of youth, and follow after righteousness, faith, love, and peace, with them that call on the Lord with pure heart, and put away foolish and unlearned questions, knowing that they engender strife. But the servant of the Lord must not strive, but must be gentle toward all men, apt to teach, suffering the evil, instructing them with meekness that are contrary minded, proving if God at any time will give them repentance, that they may acknowledge the truth, and come to amendment out of that snare of the devil, of whom they are taken prisoners, to do his will.

This know also, that in the last days shall come perilous times. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, cursed speakers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce breakers, false accusers, intemperate, fierce, no lovers at all of them which are good, traitors, heady, high minded, lovers of pleasures more then lovers of God, having a shew of godliness, but have denied the power thereof: turn away therefore from such. For of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive simple women laden with sin, and led with divers lusts, which women are ever learning, and are never able to come to the acknowledging of the truth. And as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth, men of corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith. But they shall prevail no longer: for their madness shall be evident unto all men, as theirs also was. But thou hast fully known my doctrine, manner of living, purpose, faith, long suffering, love, patience, persecutions and afflictions which came unto me at Antiochia, at Iconium, and at Lystri, which persecutions I suffered: but from them all the Lord delivered me. Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution. But the evil men and deceivers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived. But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned, and which are committed unto thee, knowing of who thou hast learned them: and that thou hast known the holy Scriptures of a child, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through the faith which is in Christ Jesus. For the whole Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable to teach, to convince, to correct, and to instruct in righteousness, that the man of God may be absolute, being made perfect unto all good works. I charge thee therefore before God, and before the Lord Jesus Christ, which shall judge the quick and dead at that his appearing, and in his kingdom, preach the word: be instant, in season and out of season: improve, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine. For the time will come, when they will not suffer wholesome doctrine: but having their ears itching, shall after their own lusts get them an heap of teachers, and shall turn their ears from the truth, and shall be given unto fables. But watch thou in all things: suffer adversity: do the work of an Evangelist: cause thy ministry to be thoroughly liked of. For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departing is at hand. I have fought a good fight, and have finished my course: I have kept the faith. For hence forth is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord the righteous judge shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love that his appearing. Make speed to come unto me at once: for Demas hath forsaken me, and hath embraced this present world, & is departed unto Thessalonica. Crescens is gone to Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia. Only Luke is with me. Take Mark and bring him with thee: for he is profitable unto me to minister. And Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus. The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou come, bring with thee, and the books, but specially the parchments. Alexander the coppersmith hath done me much evil: the Lord reward him according to his works. Of whom be thou ware also: for he withstood our preaching sore. At my first answering no man assisted me, but all forsook me: I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge. Notwithstanding the Lord assisted me, and strengthened me, that by me the preaching might be fully believed, and that all the Gentiles should hear: and I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion. And the Lord will deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be praise for ever and ever, Amen. Salute Prisca and Aquila, and the household of Onesiphorus. Erastus abode at Corinthus: Trophimus I left at Miletum sick. Make speed to come before winter. Eubulus greeteth thee, & Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren. The Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirit. Grace be with you, Amen.

The second Epistle written from Rome unto Timotheus, the first Bishop elected of the Church of Ephesus, when Paul was presented the second time before the Emperor Nero.

The Epistle of Paul to TITUS

Paul a servant of God, and an Apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of God's elect, and the acknowledging of the truth, which is according unto godliness, unto the hope of eternal life, which God that cannot lie, hath promised before the world began: But hath made his word manifest in due time through the preaching, which is committed unto me, according to the commandment of God our Savior: To Titus my natural son according to the common faith, Grace, mercy and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ our Savior. For this cause left I thee in Creta, that thou should continue to redress the things that remain, and should ordain Elders in every city, as I appointed thee, if any be unreprouable, the husband of one wife, having faithful children, which are not slandered of riot, neither are disobedient. For a Bishop must be unreprouable, as God's steward, not froward, not angry, not given to wine, no striker, not given to filthy lucre, but harberous, one that loveth goodness, wise, righteous, holy, temperate, holding fast that faithful word according to doctrine, that he also may be able to exhort with wholesome doctrine, and convince them that say against it. For there are many disobedient & vain talkers and deceivers of minds, chiefly they of the Circumcision, whose mouths must be stopped, which subvert whole houses, teaching things, which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake. One of themselves, even one of their own prophets said, The Cretians are always liars, evil beasts, slow bellies. This witness is true: wherefore convince them sharply, that they may be sound in ye faith, and not taking heed to Jewish fables and commandments of men, that turn away from the truth. Unto the pure are all things pure, but unto them that are defiled, and unbelieving, is nothing pure, but even their minds and consciences are defiled. They profess that they know God, but by works they deny him, and are abominable & disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate. But speak thou the things which become wholesome doctrine, that the elder men be watchful, grave, temperate, sound in the faith, in love, & in patience: The elder women likewise, that they be in such behavior as becometh holiness, not false accusers, not subject to much wine, but teachers of honest things, that they may instruct the young women to be sober minded, that they love their husbands, that they love their children, that they be temperate, chaste, keeping at home, good & subject unto their husbands, that the word of God be not evil spoken of. Exhort young men likewise, that they be sober minded. In all things shew thy self an ensample of good works with uncorrupt doctrine, with gravity, integrity, and with the wholesome word, which cannot be condemned, that he which withstandeth, may be ashamed, having nothing concerning you to speak evil of. Let servants be subject to their masters, & please them in all things, not answering again, neither pickers, but that they shew all good faithfulness, that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Savior in all things. For that grace of God, that bringeth salvation unto all men, hath appeared, and teacheth us that we should deny ungodliness and worldly lusts, and that we should live soberly and righteously, and godly in this present world, looking for that blessed hope, and appearing of that glory of that mighty God, and of our Savior Jesus Christ, who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purge us to be a peculiar people unto himself, zealous of good works. These things speak, and exhort, and convince with all authority. See that no man despise thee. Put them in remembrance that they be subject to the Principalities and powers, and that they be obedient, and ready to every good work, that they speak evil of no man, that they be no fighters, but soft, shewing all meekness unto all men. For we our selves also were in times past unwise, disobedient, deceived, serving the lusts and divers pleasures, living in maliciousness and envy, hateful, and hating one another: But when that bountifulness & that love of God our Savior toward man appeared, not by the works of righteousness, which we had done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of the new birth, and the renewing of the holy Ghost, which he shed on us abundantly, through Jesus Christ our Savior, that we, being justified by his grace, should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life. This is a true saying, and these things I will thou should affirm, that they which have believed God, might be careful to shew forth good works. These things are good and profitable unto men. But stay foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and brawling about the Law: for they are unprofitable and vain. Reject him that is an heretic, after once or twice admonition, knowing that he that is such, is perverted, and sinneth, being damned of his own self. When I shall send Artemas unto thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come to me unto Nicopolis: for I have determined there to winter. Bring Zenas the expounder of the Law, and Apollos on their journey diligently, that they lack nothing. And let ours also learn to shew forth good works for necessary uses, that they be not unfruitful. All that are with me, salute thee. Greet them that love us in the faith. Grace be with you all, Amen.

The Epistle of Paul to PHILEMON

Paul a prisoner of Jesus Christ, and our brother Timotheus, unto Philemon our dear friend, and fellow helper, and to our dear sister Apphia, and to Archippus our fellow soldier, and to the Church that is in thine house: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. I give thanks to my God, making mention always of thee in my prayers, (When I hear of thy love & faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all Saints) that the fellowship of thy faith may be made effectual, and that whatsoever good thing is in you through Christ Jesus, may be known. For we have great joy and consolation in thy love, because by thee, brother, the Saints bowels are comforted. Wherefore, though I be very bold in Christ to command thee that which is convenient, yet for loves sake I rather beseech thee, though I be as I am, even Paul aged, and even now a prisoner for Jesus Christ. I beseech thee for my son Onesimus, whom I have begotten in my bonds, which in times past was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable both to thee and to me, whom I have sent again: thou therefore receive him, that is mine own bowels, whom I would have retained with me, that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the Gospel. But without thy mind would I do nothing, that thy benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly. It may be that he therefore departed for a season, that thou should receive him for ever, not now as a servant, but above a servant, even as a brother beloved, specially to me: how much more then unto thee, both in the flesh and in the Lord? If therefore thou count our things common, receive him as my self. If he hath hurt thee, or oweth thee ought, that put on mine accounts. I Paul have written this with mine own hand: I will recompense it, albeit I do not say to thee, that thou owe moreover unto me even thine own self. Yea, brother, let me obtain this pleasure of thee in the Lord: comfort my bowels in the Lord. Trusting in thine obedience, I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt do even more then I say. Moreover also prepare me lodging: for I trust through your prayers I shall be freely given unto you. There salute thee Epaphras my fellow prisoner in Christ Jesus, Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas and Luke, my fellow helpers. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, Amen.

The Epistle to the HEBREWS

At sundry times and in divers manners God spake in the old time to our fathers by the Prophets: in these last days he hath spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath made heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds, who being the brightness of the glory, and the engraved form of his person, and bearing up all things by his mighty word, hath by himself purged our sins, and sitteth at the right hand of the Majesty in the highest places, and is made so much more excellent then the Angels, in as much as he hath obtained a more excellent Name then they. For unto which of the Angels said he at any time, Thou art my Son, this day begat I thee? and again, I will be his Father, and he shall be my Son? And again, when he bringeth in his first begotten Son into the world, he saith, And let all the Angels of God worship him. And of the Angels he saith, He maketh the spirits his messengers, and his ministers a flame of fire. But unto the Son he saith, O God, thy throne is for ever and ever: the scepter of thy kingdom is a scepter of righteousness. Thou hast loved righteousness & hated iniquity. Wherefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows. And, Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast established the earth, and the heavens are the works of thine hands. They shall perish, but thou dost remain: and they all shall wax old as doth a garment. And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail. Unto which also of the Angels said he at any time, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool? Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister, for their sakes which shall be heirs of salvation? Wherefore we ought diligently to give heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we run out. For if the word spoken by Angels was steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward, how shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation, which at the first began to be preached by the Lord, and afterward was confirmed unto us by them that heard him, God bearing witness thereto, both with signs and wonders, & with divers miracles, and gifts of the holy Ghost, according to his own will? For he hath not put in subjection unto the Angels the world to come, whereof we speak. But one in a certain place witnessed, saying, What is man, that thou should be mindful of him? Or the son of man, that thou would consider him? Thou made him a little inferior to the Angels: thou crown him with glory & honor, and hast set him above the works of thine hands. Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet; in that he hath put all things in subjection under him, he left nothing that should not be subject unto him. But we yet see not all things subdued unto him, but we see Jesus crowned with glory and honor, which was made little inferior to the Angels, through the suffering of death, that by God's grace he might taste death for all men. For it became him, for whom are all these things, and by whom are all these things, seeing that he brought many children unto glory, that he should consecrate the Prince of their salvation through afflictions. For he that sanctifieth, and they which are sanctified, are all of one: wherefore he is not ashamed to call them brethren, saying, I will declare thy Name unto my brethren: in the midst of the Church will I sing praises to thee. And again, I will put my trust in him; again, Behold, here am I, and the children which God hath given me. Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part with them, that he might destroy through death, him that had the power of death, that is the devil, and that he might deliver all them, which for fear of death were all their life time subject to bondage. For he in no sort took on him the Angels nature, but he took on him the seed of Abraham. Wherefore in all things it behooved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be merciful, and a faithful high Priest in things concerning God, that he might make reconciliation for the sins of the people. For in that he suffered, and was tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted.

Therefore, holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly vocation, consider the Apostle and high Priest of our profession Christ Jesus: Who was faithful to him that hath appointed him, even as Moses was in all his house. For this man is counted worthy of more glory than Moses, inasmuch as he which hath built the house, hath more honor than the house. For every house is built of some man; and he that hath built all things is God. Now Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as a servant, for a witness of the things which should be spoken after. But Christ is as the Son, over his own house, whose house we are, if we hold fast that confidence and that rejoicing of that hope unto the end. Wherefore, as the holy Ghost saith, Today if ye shall hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, according to the day of the temptation in the wilderness, where your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years long. Wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, They err ever in their heart, neither have they known my ways. Therefore I swear in my wrath, If they shall enter into my rest. Take heed, brethren, lest at any time there be in any of you an evil heart, and unfaithful, to depart away from the living God. But exhort one another daily, while it is called today, lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. For we are made partakers of Christ, if we keep sure unto the end that beginning, wherewith we are upholden, so long as it is said, Today if ye hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation. For some when they heard, provoked him to anger: howbeit, not all that came out of Egypt by Moses. But with whom was he displeased forty years? Was he not displeased with them that sinned, whose carcasses fell in the wilderness? And to whom swore he that they should not enter into his rest, but unto them that obeyed not? So we see that they could not enter in, because of unbelief. Let us fear therefore, lest at any time by forsaking the promises of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to be deprived. For unto us was the Gospel preached as also unto them: but the word that they heard, profited not them, because it was not mixed with faith in those that heard it. For we which have believed, do enter into rest, as he said to the other, As I have sworn in my wrath, If they shall enter into my rest: although the works were finished from the foundation of the world. For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, And God did rest the seventh day from all his works. And in this place again, If they shall enter into my rest. Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, & they to whom it was first preached, entered not therein for unbeliefs sake: Again he appointed in David a certain day, by Today, after so long a time, saying, as it is said, This day, if ye hear his voice, harden not your hearts. For if Jesus had given them rest, then would he not after this have spoke of another day. There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God. For he that is entered into his rest, hath also ceased from his own works, as God did from his. Let us study therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same ensample of disobedience. For the word of God is lively, and mighty in operation, & sharper than any two edged sword, and entereth through, even unto the dividing asunder of the soul and the spirit, and of the joints, and the marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts, and the intents of the heart. Neither is there any creature, which is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and open unto his eyes, with whom we have to do. Seeing then that we have a great high Priest, which is entered into heaven, even Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession. For we have not an high Priest, which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, but was in all things tempted in like sort, yet without sin. Let us therefore go boldly unto the throne of grace that we may receive mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. For every high Priest is taken from among men, and is ordained for men, in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins, which is able sufficiently to have compassion on them that are ignorant, and that are out of the way, because that he also is compassed with infirmity, and for the sames sake he is bound to offer for sins, as well for his own part, as for ye peoples. And no man taketh this honor unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron. So likewise Christ took not to himself this honor, to be made the high Priest, but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, this day begat I thee, gave it him. As he also in another place speaketh, Thou art a Priest forever, after the order of Melchisedec. Who in the days of his flesh did offer up prayers and supplications, with strong crying and tears unto him, that was able to save him from death, and was also heard in that which he feared. And though he were ye Son, yet learned he obedience, by the things which he suffered. And being consecrate, was made the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him: And is called of God an high Priest after the order of Melchisedec. Of whom we have many things to say, which are hard to be uttered, because ye are dull of hearing. For when as concerning the time ye ought to be teachers, yet have ye need again that we teach you what are the first principles of the word of God: and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat. For every one that useth milk, is inexpert in the word of righteousness: for he is a babe. But strong meat belongeth to them that are of age, which through long custom have their wits exercised, to discern both good and evil. Therefore, leaving the doctrine of the beginning of Christ, let us be led forward unto perfection, not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, & of faith toward God, of the doctrine of baptisms, and laying on of hands, & of the resurrection from the dead, and of eternal judgment. And this will we do if God permit. For it is impossible that they which were once lightened, & have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the holy Ghost, and have tasted of the good word of God, and of the powers of the world to come, if they fall away, should be renewed again by repentance: seeing they crucify again to themselves the Son of God, & make a mock of him. For the earth which drinketh in the rain that commeth oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them by whom it is dressed, receiveth blessing of God. But that which beareth thorns and briars, is reprov'd, and is near unto cursing, whose end is to be burned. But beloved, we have persuaded our selves better things of you, and such as accompany salvation, though we thus speak. For God is not unrighteous, that he should forget your work, and labor of love, which ye shewed toward his Name, in that ye have ministered unto the Saints, and yet minister. And we desire that every one of you shew the same diligence, to the full assurance of hope unto the end, that ye be not slothful, but followers of them, which through faith and patience, inherit the promises. For when God made the promise to Abraham, because he had no greater to swear by, he sware by himself, saying, Surely I will abundantly bless thee and multiply thee marvelously. And so after that he had tarried patiently, he enjoyed the promises. For men verily swear by him that is greater than themselves, and an oath for confirmation is among them an end of all strife. So God, willing more abundantly to shew unto the heirs of promises the stableness of his counsel, bound himself by an oath, that by two immutable things, wherein it is impossible that God should lie, we might have strong consolation, which have our refuge to lay hold upon that hope that is set before us, which hope we have, as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and it entereth into that which is within the vail, whither the forerunner is for us entered in, even Jesus that is made an high Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec. For this Melchisedec was King of Salem, the Priest of the most high God, who met Abraham, as he returned from the slaughter of the Kings, and blessed him: To whom also Abraham gave the tithe of all things: who first is by interpretation King of righteousness: after that, he is also King of Salem, that is, King of peace, without father, without mother, without kindred, and hath neither beginning of his days, neither end of life: but is likened unto the Son of God, and continueth a Priest forever. Now consider how great this man was, unto whom even the Patriarch Abraham gave the tithe of the spoils. For verily they which are the children of Levi, which receive the office of the Priesthood, have a commandment to take, according to the Law, tithes of the people (that is, of their brethren) though they came out of the loins of Abraham. But he whose kindred is not counted among them, received tithes of Abraham, and blessed him that had the promises. And without all contradiction the less is blessed of the greater. And here men that die, receive tithes: but there he receiveth them, of whom it is witnessed, that he liveth. And to say as the thing is, Levi also which receiveth tithes, paid tithes in Abraham. For he was yet in the loins of his father Abraham, when Melchisedec met him. If therefore perfection had been by the Priesthood of the Levites (for under it the Law was established to the people) what needed it furthermore, that another Priest should rise after the order of Melchisedec, and not to be called after the order of Aaron? For if the Priesthood be changed, then of necessity must there be a change of the Law. For he of whom these things are spoken, pertaineth unto another tribe, whereof no man served at the altar. For it is evident, that our Lord sprung out of Judah, concerning the which tribe Moses spake nothing, touching the Priesthood. And it is yet a more evident thing, because that after the similitude of Melchisedec, there is risen up another Priest, which is not made Priest after the Law of the carnal commandment, but after the power of the endless life. For he testifieth thus, Thou art a Priest forever, after the order of Melchisedec. For the commandment that went afore, is disannulled, because of the weakness thereof, and unprofitableness. For the Law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope made perfect, whereby we draw near unto God. And for as much as it is not without an oath (for these are made Priests without an oath: But this is made with an oath by him that said unto him, The Lord hath sworn, and will not repent, Thou art a Priest forever, after the order of Melchisedec) by so much is Jesus made a surety of a better Testament. And among them many were made Priests, because they were not suffered to endure, by the reason of death. But this man, because he endureth ever, hath a Priesthood, which cannot pass from one to another. Wherefore, he is able also perfectly to save them that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth, to make intercession for them. For such an high Priest it became us to have, which is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made heir then the heavens: Which needeth not daily as those high Priests to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the peoples: for that did he once, when he offered up himself. For the Law maketh men high Priests, which have infirmity: but the word of the oath that was since the Law maketh the Son, who is consecrated for evermore.

Now of the things which we have spoken, this is the sum, that we have such an high Priest, that sitteth at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in heavens, and is a minister of the Sanctuary, and of that true Tabernacle which the Lord pight, and not man. For every high Priest is ordained to offer both gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it was of necessity that this man should have somewhat also to offer. For he were not a Priest, if he were on the earth, seeing there are Priests that according to the Law offer gifts, who serve unto the pattern and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was warned by God, when he was about to finish the Tabernacle. See, said he, that thou make all things according to the pattern, shewed to thee in the mount. But now our high Priest hath obtained a more excellent office, in as much as he is the Mediator of a better Testament, which is established upon better promises. For if that first Testament had been unblameable, no place should have been sought for the second. For in rebuking them he saith, Behold, the days will come, saith the Lord, when I shall make with the house of Israel, & with the house of Judah a new Testament: Not like the Testament that I made with their fathers, in the day that I took them by the hand, to lead them out of the land of Egypt: for they continued not in my Testament, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

For this is the Testament that I will make with the house of Israel, After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my Laws in their mind, and in their heart I will write them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people, and they shall not teach every man his neighbor and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least of them to the greatest of them. For I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, and I will remember their sins and their iniquities no more. In that he saith a new Testament, he hath abrogate the old: now that which is disannulled and waxed old, is ready to vanish away. Then the first Testament had also ordinances of religion, and a worldly Sanctuary. For the first Tabernacle was made, wherein was the candlestick, and the table, and the shewbread, which Tabernacle is called the Holy places. And after the second veil was the Tabernacle, which is called the Holiest of all, which had the golden censer, and the Ark of the Testament overlaid round about with gold, wherein the golden pot, which had Manna, was, and Aarons rod that had budded, and the tables of the Testament. And over the Ark were the glorious Cherubim's, shadowing the mercy seat: of which things we will not now speak particularly. Now when these things were thus ordained, the Priests went always into the first Tabernacle, and accomplished the service. But into the second went the high Priest alone, once every year, not without blood which he offered for himself, and for the ignorance's of the people. Whereby the holy Ghost this signified, that the way into the Holiest of all was not yet opened, while as yet the first tabernacle was standing, which was a figure for that present time, wherein were offered gifts and sacrifices that could not make holy, concerning the conscience, him that did the service, which only stood in meats and drinks, and divers washings, and carnal rites, which were enjoined, until the time of reformation.

But Christ being come an high Priest of good things to come, by a greater and a more perfect Tabernacle, not made with hands, that is, not of this building, neither by the blood of goats and calves: but by his own blood entered he in once unto the holy place, and obtained eternal redemption for us. For if the blood of bulls and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer, sprinkling them that are unclean, sanctifieth as touching the purifying of the flesh, how much more shall the blood of Christ which through the eternal Spirit offered himself without fault to God, purge your conscience from dead works, to serve the living God? And for this cause is he the Mediator of the new Testament, that through death which was for the redemption of the transgressions that were in the former Testament, they which were called, might receive the promise of eternal inheritance. For where a Testament is, there must be the death of him that made the Testament. For the Testament is confirmed when men are dead: for it is yet of no force as long as he that made it, is alive. Wherefore neither was the first ordained without blood. For when Moses had spoken every precept to the people, according to the Law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, with water and purple wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people, saying, This is the blood of the Testament, which God hath appointed unto you. Moreover, he sprinkled likewise the Tabernacle with blood also, and all the ministering vessels. And almost all things are by the Law purged with blood, and without shedding of blood is no remission. It was then necessary, that the similitudes of heavenly things should be purified with such things: but the heavenly things them selves are purified with better sacrifices then are these. For Christ is not entered into the holy places that are made with hands, which are similitudes of the true Sanctuary: but is entered into very heaven, to appear now in the sight of God for us, not that he should offer himself often, as the high Priest entered into the Holy place every year with other blood, (For then must he have often suffered since the foundation of the world) but now in the end of the world hath he been made manifest, once to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. And as it is appointed unto men that they shall once die, and after that cometh the judgment: So Christ was once offered to take away the sins of many and unto them that look for him, shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation. For the Law having the shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices, which they offer year by year continually, sanctify the comers thereunto. For would they not then have ceased to have been offered, because that the offerers once purged, should have had no more conscience of sins? But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again of sins every year. For it is impossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sins. Wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith, Sacrifice and offering thou would not: but a body hast thou ordained me. In burnt offerings, and sin offerings thou hast had no pleasure. Then I said, Lo, I come (In the beginning of the book it is written of me) that I should do thy will, O God. Above, when he said, Sacrifice and offering, and burnt offerings, and sin offerings thou would not have, neither hadst pleasure therein (which are offered by the Law) then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God, he taketh away the first, that he may stablish the second. By the which will we are sanctified, even by the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once made. And every Priest standeth daily ministering, and oft times offereth one manner of offering, which can never take away sins: But this man after he had offered one sacrifice for sins sitteth for ever at the right hand of God, and from henceforth tarieth, till his enemies be made his footstool. For with one offering hath he consecrated for ever them that are sanctified. For the holy Ghost also beareth us record: for after that he had said before, this is the Testament that I will make unto them after those days, saith the Lord, I will put my Laws in their heart, and in their minds I will write them. And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more. Now where remission of these things is, there is no more offering for sin. Seeing therefore, brethren, that by the blood of Jesus we may be bold to enter into the Holy place, by the new and living way, which he hath prepared for us, through the vail, that is, his flesh: And seeing we have an high Priest, which is over the house of God, let us draw near with a true heart in assurance of faith, our hearts being pure from an evil conscience, and washed in our bodies with pure water, let us keep the profession of our hope, without wavering, (for he is faithful that promised) and let us consider one another, to provoke unto love, and to good works, not forsaking the fellowship that we have among our selves, as the manner of some is: but let us exhort one another, and that so much the more, because ye see that the day draweth near. For if we sin willingly after that we have received & acknowledged that truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, but a fearful looking for of judgment, and violent fire, which shall devour the adversaries. He that despiseth Moses Law, dieth without mercy under two, or three witnesses: Of how much sorer punishment suppose ye shall he be worthy, which treadeth under foot the Son of God, and counteth the blood of the Testament as an unholy thing, wherewith he was sanctified, and doth despite the Spirit of grace? For we know him that hath said, Vengeance belongeth unto me: I will recompense, saith the Lord; again, The Lord shall judge his people. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God. Now call to remembrance the days that are passed, in the which, after ye had received light, ye endured a great fight in afflictions, partly while ye were made a gazing stock both by reproaches & afflictions, and partly while ye became companions of them which were so tossed to and fro. For both ye sorrowed with me for my bonds, and suffered with joy the spoiling of your goods, knowing in your selves how that ye have in heaven a better, and an enduring substance. Cast not away therefore your confidence which hath great recompense of reward. For ye have need of patience, that after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promises. For yet a very little while, and he that shall come, will come, and will not tarry. Now the just shall live by faith: but if any withdraw himself, my soul shall have no pleasure in him. But we are not they which withdraw our selves unto perdition, but follow faith unto the conservation of the soul.

Now faith is the ground of things which are hoped for, and the evidence of things which are not seen. For by it our elders were well reported of. Through faith we understand that the world was ordained by the word of God, so that the things which we see are not made of things which did appear. By faith Abel offered unto God a greater sacrifice then Cain, by the which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts: by the which faith also he being dead, yet speaketh. By faith was Enoch translated, that he should not see death: neither was he found: for God had translated him: for before he was translated, he was reported of that he had pleased God. But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God, must believe that God is, and that he is a rewarder of them that seek him. By faith Noe being warned of God of the things which were as yet not seen, moved with reverence, prepared the Ark to the saving of his household, through the which Ark he condemned the world, and was made heir of the righteousness, which is by faith. By faith Abraham, when he was called, obeyed God, to go out into a place, which he should afterward receive for inheritance, and he went out, not knowing whither he went. By faith he abode in the land of promises, as in a strange country, as one that dwelt in tents with Isaac and Jacob heirs with him of the same promises. For he looked for a city having a foundation, whose builder and maker is God. Through faith Sara also received strength to conceive seed, and was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful which had promised. And therefore sprang there of one, even of one which was dead, so many as the stars of the sky in multitude, and as the land of the sea shore which is innumerable. All these died in faith, and received not the promises, but saw them a far off, and believed them, and received them thankfully, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth. For they that say such things, declare plainly, that they seek a country. And if they had been mindful of that country, from whence they came out, they had leisure to have returned. But now they desire a better, that is an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed of them to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city. By faith Abraham offered up Isaac, when he was tried, and he that had received the promises, offered his only begotten son. (To whom it was said, In Isaac shall thy seed be called.) For he considered that God was able to raise him up even from the dead: from whence he received him also after a sort. By faith Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau, concerning things to come. By faith Jacob when he was a dying, blessed both the sons of Joseph, and leaning on the end of his staff, worshipped God. By faith Joseph when he died, made mention of the departing of the children of Israel, and gave commandment of his bones. By faith Moses when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw he was a proper child, neither feared they the kings commandment. By faith Moses when he was come to age, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, and chose rather to suffer adversity with the people of God, then to enjoy the pleasures of sins for a season, esteeming the rebuke of Christ greater riches then the treasures of Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompense of the reward. By faith he forsook Egypt, and feared not the fierceness of the king: for he endured, as he that saw him which is invisible. Through faith he ordained the Passover and the effusion of blood, least he that destroyed the first borne, should touch them. By faith they passed through the red sea as by dry land, which when the Egyptians had assayed to do, they were swallowed up. By faith the walls of Jericho fell down after they were compassed about seven days. By faith the harlot Rahab perished not with them which obeyed not, when she had received the spies peaceably. And what shall I more say? for the time would be too short for me to tell of Gideon, of Barak, and of Sampson, and of Jephte, also of David, and Samuel, and of the Prophets: Which through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained the promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, of weak were made strong, waxed valiant in battle, turned to flight the armies of the aliens. The women received their dead raised to life:

other also were racked, and would not be delivered, that they might receive a better resurrection. And others have been tried by mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover by bonds and prisonment. They were stoned, they were hewn asunder, they were tempted, they were slain with the sword, they wandered up and down in sheeps skins, and in goats skins, being destitute, afflicted, and tormented: Whom the world was not worthy of: they wandered in wildernesses and mountains, and dens, and caves of the earth. And these all through faith obtained good report, and received not the promises, God providing a better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect.

Wherefore, let us also, seeing that we are compassed with so great a cloud of witnesses, cast away everything that presseth down, and the sin that hangeth so fast on: let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, and despised the shame, and is set at the right hand of the throne of God. Consider therefore him that endured such speaking against of sinners, lest ye should be wearied and faint in your minds. Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin. And ye have forgotten the consolation, which speaketh unto you as unto children, My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord, neither faint when thou art rebuked of him. For whom the Lord loveth, he chasteneth: and he scourgeth every son that he receiveth: If ye endure chastening, God offereth himself unto you as unto sons: for what son is it whom the father chasteneth not? If therefore ye be without correction, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons. Moreover we have had the fathers of our bodies which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: should we not much rather be in subjection unto the father of spirits, that we might live? For they verily for a few days chastened us after their own pleasure: but he chasteneth us for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness. Now no chastising for the present seemeth to be joyous, but, grievous: but afterward, it bringeth the quiet fruit of righteousness unto them which are thereby exercised. Wherefore lift up your hands which hang down, and your weak knees, and make straight steps unto your feet, lest that which is halting, be turned out of the way, but let it rather be healed. Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without the which no man shall see the Lord. Take heed, that no man fall away from the grace of God: let no root of bitterness spring up and trouble you, lest thereby many be defiled. Let there be no fornicator, or profane person as Esau, which for one portion of meat sold his birthright. For ye know how that afterward also when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no place to repentance, though he sought that blessing with tears. For ye are not come unto the mount that might be touched, nor unto burning fire, nor to blackness and darkness, and tempest, neither unto the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words, which they that heard it, excused themselves, that the word should not be spoken to them any more, (For they were not able to abide that which was commanded, yea, though a beast touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart: And so terrible was the sight which appeared, that Moses said, I fear and quake.) but ye are come unto the mount Sion, and to the city of the living God, the celestial Jerusalem, and to the company of innumerable Angels, and to the assembly and congregation of the first born, which are written in heaven, and to God the judge of all, and to the spirits of just and perfect men, and to Jesus the Mediator of the new Testament, and to the blood of sprinkling that speaketh better things than that of Abel. See that ye despise not him that speaketh: for if they escaped not which refused him, that spake on earth: much more shall we not escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven. Whose voice then shook the earth and now hath declared, saying, Yet once more will I shake, not the earth only, but also heaven. And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things which are shaken, as of things which are made with hands, that the things which are not shaken, may remain. Wherefore seeing we receive a kingdom, which cannot be shaken, let us have grace whereby we may so serve God, that we may please him with reverence and fear. For even our God is a consuming fire. Let brotherly love continue. Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have received Angels into their houses unawares. Remember them that are in bonds, as though ye were bound with them: and them that are in affliction, as if ye were also afflicted in the body. Marriage is honorable among all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge. Let your conversation be without covetousness, and be content with those things that ye have, for he hath said, I will not fail thee, neither forsake thee: So that we may boldly say, The Lord is mine helper, neither will I fear what man can do unto me. Remember them which have the oversight of you, which have declared unto you the word of God: whose faith follow, considering what hath been the end of their conversation. Jesus Christ yesterday, and today, the same also is forever. Be not carried about with divers & strange doctrines: for it is a good thing that the heart be stablished with grace, and not with meats, which have not profited them that have been occupied therein. We have an altar, whereof they have no authority to eat, which serve in the tabernacle. For the bodies of those beasts whose blood is brought into the Holy place by the high Priest for sin, are burnt without the camp. Therefore even Jesus that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, suffered without the gate. Let us go forth to him therefore out of the camp, bearing his reproach. For here have we no continuing city: but we seek one to come.

Let us therefore by him offer the sacrifice of praise always to God, that is, the fruit of the lips, which confess his Name. To do good, and to distribute forget not: for with such sacrifices God is pleased. Obey them that have the oversight of you, and submit your selves: for they watch for your souls, as they that must give accounts, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you. Pray for us: for we are assured that we have a good conscience in all things, desiring to live honestly. And I desire you somewhat the more earnestly, that ye so do, that I may be restored to you more quickly. The God of peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting Covenant, make you perfect in all good works, to do his will, working in you that which is pleasant in his sight through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise for ever and ever, Amen. I beseech you also, brethren, suffer the words of exhortation: for I have written unto you in few words. Know that our brother Timotheus is delivered, with whom (if he come shortly) I will see you. Salute all them that have the oversight of you, and all the Saints. They of Italy salute you. Grace be with you all, Amen.

The General Epistle of JAMES

James a servant of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve Tribes, which are scattered abroad, salutation. My brethren, count it exceeding joy, when ye fall into divers temptations, knowing that the trying of your faith bringeth forth patience, and let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect & entire, lacking nothing. If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, which giveth to all men liberally, & reproacheth no man, and it shall be given him. But let him ask in faith, and waver not: for he that wavereth, is like a wave of the sea, tossed of the wind, and carried away. Neither let that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord. A double minded man is unstable in all his ways. Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted: Again he that is rich, in that he is made low: for as the flower of the grass, shall he vanish away. For as when the sun riseth with heat, then the grass withereth, and his flower falleth away, and the goodly shape of it perisheth: even so shall the rich man wither away in all his ways. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him. Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man. But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away by his own concupiscence, and is enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin, and sin when it is finished, bringeth forth death. Ere not, my dear brethren. Every good giving, and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be as the first fruits of his creatures. Wherefore my dear brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, and slow to wrath. For the wrath of man doth not accomplish the righteousness of God. Wherefore lay apart all filthiness, and superfluity of maliciousness, and receive with meekness the word that is grafted in you, which is able to save your souls. And be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if any hear the word and do it not, he is like unto a man that beholdeth his natural face in a glass. For when he hath considered himself, he goeth his way, and forgetteth immediately what manner of one he was. But who so looketh in the perfect Law of liberty, and continueth therein, he not being a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, shall be blessed in his deed. If any man among you seem religious, and refraineth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain. Pure religion & undefiled before God, even the Father, is this, to visit the fatherless, and widows in their adversity, and to keep himself unspotted of the world.

My brethren, have not the faith of our glorious Lord Jesus Christ in respect of persons. For if there come into your company a man with a gold ring, and in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment, and ye have a respect to him that weareth the gay clothing; and say unto him, Sit thou here in a goodly place, and say unto the poor, Stand thou there, or sit here under my footstool, are ye not partial in your selves, and are become judges of evil thoughts? Hearken my beloved brethren, hath not God chosen the poor of this world, that they should be rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom which he promised to them that love him? But ye have despised the poor. Do not the rich oppress you by tyranny, and do not they draw you before the judgment seats? Do not they blaspheme the worthy Name after which ye be named? But if ye fulfill the royal Law according to the Scripture, which saith, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self, ye do well. But if ye regard the persons, ye commit sin, and are rebuked of the Law, as transgressors. For whosoever shall keep the whole Law, and yet faileth in one point, he is guilty of all. For he that said, Thou shalt not commit adultery, said also, Thou shalt not kill. Now though thou doest none adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art a transgressor of the Law. So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the Law of liberty. For there shall be condemnation merciless to him that sheweth not mercy, and mercy rejoiceth against condemnation. What availeth it, my brethren; though a man saith he hath faith, when he hath no works? can that faith save him? For if a brother or a sister be naked and destitute of daily food, and one of you say unto them, Depart in peace: warm your selves, and fill your bellies, notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body, what helpeth it? Even so the faith, if it have no works, is dead in itself. But some man might say Thou hast the faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith out of thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works. Thou believe that there is one God: thou doest well: the devils also believe it, and tremble. But wilt thou understand, O thou vain man, that the faith which is without works, is dead? Was not Abraham our father justified through works, when he offered Isaac his son upon the altar? See thou not that the faith wrought with his works? and through the works was the faith made perfect. And the Scripture was fulfilled which sayeth, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the friend of God. Ye see then how that of works a man is justified, and not of faith only. Likewise also was not Rahab the harlot justified through works, when she had received the messengers, & sent them out another way? For as the body without the spirit is dead, even so the faith without works is dead.

My brethren, be not many masters, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation. For in many things we sin all. If any man sin not in word, he is a perfect man, and able to bridle all the body. Behold, we put bitts into the horses mouths, that they should obey us, and we turn about all their body. Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small rudder, whither soever the governor listeth. Even so the tongue is a little member, and boasteth of great things: behold, how great a thing a little fire kindleth. And the tongue is fire, yea, a world of wickedness: so is the tongue set among our members, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature, and it is set on fire of hell. For the whole nature of beasts, & of birds, and of creeping things, and things of the sea is tamed, and hath been tamed of the nature of man. But the tongue can no man tame. It is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison. Therewith bless we God even the Father, and therewith curse we men, which are made after the similitude of God. Out of one mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing: my brethren, these things ought not so to be. Doth a fountain send forth at one place sweet water and bitter? Can the fig tree, my brethren, bring forth olives, either a vine figs? so can no fountain make both salt water and sweet. Who is a wise man & endued with knowledge among you? let him shew by good conversation his works in meekness of wisdom. But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hearts, rejoyce not, neither be liars against the truth. This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, sensual, and devilish. For where envying and strife is, there is sedition, and all manner of evil works. But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy & good fruits, without judging, and without hypocrisy. And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace, of them that make peace.

From whence are wars and contentions among you? are they not hence, even of your pleasures, that fight in your members? Ye lust, and have not: ye envy, and desire immoderately, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, and get nothing, because ye ask not. Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye might lay the same out on your pleasures. Ye adulterers and adulteresses know ye not that the amity of the world is the enmity of God? Whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world maketh himself the enemy of God. Do ye think that the Scripture saith in vain, The spirit that dwelleth in us, lusteth after envy? But the Scripture offereth more grace, and therefore saith, God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble. Submit your selves to God: resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw near to God, and he will draw near to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners, and purge your hearts, ye double minded. Suffer afflictions, and sorrow ye, and weep: let your laughter be turned into mourning, and your joy into heaviness. Cast down your selves before the Lord, and he will lift you up. Speak not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, or he that condemneth his brother, speaketh evil of the Law, and condemneth the Law: and if thou condemn the Law, thou art not an observer of the Law, but a judge. There is one Lawgiver, which is able to save, and to destroy. Who art thou that judge another man? Go to now ye that say, Today or tomorrow we will go into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy and sell, and get gain, (And yet ye cannot tell what shall be tomorrow. For what is your life? It is even a vapor that appeareth for a little time, and afterward vanisheth away) for that ye ought to say, If the Lord will, and, if we live, we will do this or that. But now ye rejoice in your boastings: all such rejoicing is evil. Therefore, to him that knoweth how to do well, and doeth it not, to him it is sin. Go to now, ye rich men: weep, and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. Your riches are corrupt, and your garments are moth eaten. Your gold and silver is cankered, & the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh, as it were fire. Ye have heaped up treasure for the last days. Behold, the hire of ye laborers, which have reaped your fields (which is of you kept back by fraud) crieth, and the cries of them which have reaped, are entered into the ears of the Lord of hosts. Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and in wantonness. Ye have nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter. Ye have condemned and have killed the just, and he hath not resisted you. Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the former, and the latter rain. Be ye also patient therefore and settle your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth near. Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: behold, the judge standeth before the door. Take, my brethren, the Prophets for an ensample of suffering adversity, and of long patience, which have spoken in the Name of the Lord. Behold, we count them blessed which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have known what end the Lord made. For the Lord is very pitiful and merciful. But before all things, my brethren, swear not, neither by heaven, nor by earth, nor by any other oath: but let your yea, be yea, and your nay, nay, lest ye fall into condemnation. Is any among you afflicted? Let him pray. Is any merry? Let him sing. Is any sick among you? Let him call for the Elders of the Church, and let them pray for him, and anoint him with oil in the Name of the Lord. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up: and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him. Acknowledge your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed: for the prayer of a righteous man availeth much, if it be fervent. Helias was a man subject to like passions as we are, and he prayed earnestly that it might not rain, and it rained not on the earth for three years and six months. And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit. Brethren, if any of you hath erred from the truth, and some man hath converted him, let him know that he which hath converted the sinner from going astray out of his way, shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins.

The FIRST Epistle General of PETER

Peter an Apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers that dwell here and there throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia, elect according to the foreknowledge of God ye Father unto sanctification of the Spirit, through obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace and peace be multiplied unto you.

Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance immortal and undefiled, and that withereth not, reserved in heaven for us, which are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, which is prepared to be shewed in the last time. Wherein ye rejoice, though now for a season (if need require) ye are in heaviness, through manifold temptations, that the trial of your faith, being much more precious than gold that perisheth (though it be tried with fire) might be found unto your praise, and honor and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ: Whom ye have not seen, and yet love him, in whom now, though ye see him not, yet do you believe, and rejoice with joy unspeakable and glorious, receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls. Of the which salvation the Prophets have inquired and searched, which prophesied of the grace that should come unto you, searching when or what time the Spirit which testified before of Christ which was in them, should declare the sufferings that should come unto Christ, and the glory that should follow. Unto whom it was revealed, that not unto themselves, but unto us they should minister the things, which are now shewed unto you by them which have preached unto you the Gospel by the holy Ghost sent down from heaven, the which things the Angels desire to behold. Wherefore, gird up the loins of your mind: be sober, and trust perfectly on that grace that is brought unto you, in the revelation of Jesus Christ, as obedient children, not fashioning your selves unto the former lusts of your ignorance: But as he which hath called you, is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; because it is written, Be ye holy, for I am holy. And if ye call him Father, which without respect of person judgeth according to every mans work, pass the time of your dwelling here in fear, knowing that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation, received by the traditions of the fathers, but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a Lamb undefiled, and without spot. Which was ordained before the foundation of the world, but was declared in the last times for your sakes, which by his means do believe in God that raised him from the dead, and gave him glory, that your faith and hope might be in God, having purified your souls in obeying the truth through the spirit, to love brotherly without feigning, love one another with a pure heart fervently, being born anew, not of mortal seed, but of immortal, by the word of God, who liveth and endureth for ever. For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man is as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower falleth away. But the word of the Lord endureth for ever: and this is the word which is preached among you. Wherefore, laying aside all maliciousness, and all guile, and dissimulation, and envy, and all evil speaking, as new born babes desire that sincere milk of the word that ye may grow thereby, because ye have tasted that the Lord is bountiful. To whom coming as unto a living stone disallowed of men, but chosen of God and precious, ye also as lively stones, be made a spiritual house, an holy Priesthood to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. Wherefore also it is contained in the Scripture, Behold, I put in Sion a chief corner stone, elect and precious: and he that believeth therein shall not be ashamed. Unto you therefore which believe, it is precious: but unto them which be disobedient, the stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner, and a stone to stumble at, and a rock of offence, even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient, unto the which thing they were even ordained. But ye are a chosen generation, a royal Priesthood, an holy nation, a people set at liberty, that ye should shew forth the virtues of him that hath called you out of darkness into his marvelous light, which in time past were not a people, yet are now the people of God: which in time past were not under mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

Dearly beloved, I beseech you, as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which fight against the soul, and have your conversation honest among the Gentiles, that they which speak evil of you as of evil doers, may by your good works which they shall see, glorify God in the day of visitation. Therefore submit your selves unto all manner ordinance of man for the Lords sake, whether it be unto the King, as unto the superior, or unto governors, as unto them that are sent of him, for the punishment of evil doers, and for the praise of them that do well. For so is the will of God, that by well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of the foolish men, as free, and not as having the liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God. Honor all men: love brotherly fellowship: fear God: honor the King. Servants, be subject to your masters with all fear, not only to the good and courteous, but also to the froward. For this is thank worthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully. For what praise is it, if when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye take it patiently? but and if when ye do well, ye suffer wrong and take it patiently, this is acceptable to God. For hereunto ye are called: for Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an ensample that ye should follow his steps. Who did no sin, neither was there guile found in his mouth. Who when he was reviled, reviled not again: when he suffered, he threatened not, but committed it to him that judgeth righteously. Who his own self bare our sins in his body on the tree that we being dead to sin, should live in righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed. For ye were as sheep going astray: but are now returned unto the shepherd and Bishop of your souls. Likewise let the wives be subject to their husbands, that even they which obey not the word, may without the word be won by the conversation of the wives, while they behold your pure conversation, which is with fear. Whose appareling, let it not be that outward, with broided hair, and gold put about, or in putting on of apparel: but let it be the hidden man of the heart, which consisteth in the incorruption of a meek and quiet spirit, which is before God a thing much set by. For even after this manner in time past did the holy women, which trusted in God, tire them selves, and were subject to their husbands. As Sara obeyed Abraham, and called him Sir: whose daughters ye are, while ye do well, not being afraid of any terror. Likewise ye husbands, dwell with them as men of knowledge, giving honor unto the woman, as unto the weaker vessel, even as they which are heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers be not interrupted. Finally, be ye all of one mind: one suffer with another: love as brethren: be pitiful: be courteous, not rendering evil for evil, neither rebuke for rebuke: but contrariwise bless, knowing that ye are thereunto called, that ye should be heirs of blessing. For if any man long after life, and to see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile. Let him eschew evil, and do good: let him seek peace, and follow after it. For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, & his ears are open unto their prayers: and the face of the Lord is against them that do evil. And who is it that will harm you, if ye follow that which is good? Notwithstanding blessed are ye, if ye suffer for righteousness sake. Yea, fear not their fear, neither be troubled. But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you, with meekness and reverence, having a good conscience, that when they speak evil of you as of evil doers, they may be ashamed, which slander your good conversation in Christ. For it is better (if the will of God be so) that ye suffer for well doing, then for evil doing. For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, and was put to death concerning the flesh, but was quickened by the spirit. By the which he also went, and preached unto the spirits that are in prison. Which were in time passed disobedient, when once the long suffering of God abode in the days of Noah, while the Ark was preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved in the water. Whereof the baptism that now is, answering that figure, (which is not a putting away of the filth of the flesh, but a confident demanding which a good conscience maketh to God) saveth us also by the resurrection of Jesus Christ, which is at the right hand of God, gone into heaven, to whom the Angels, and Powers, and might are subject. Forasmuch then as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh, arm your selves likewise with the same mind, which is, that he which hath suffered in the flesh, hath ceased from sin, that he hence forward should live (as much time as remaineth in the flesh) not after the lusts of men, but after the will of God. For it is sufficient for us that we have spent the time past of the life, after the lust of the Gentiles, walking in wantonness, lusts, drunkenness, in gluttony, drinking's, & in abominable idolatries. Wherein it seemeth to them strange, that ye run not with them unto the same excess of riot: therefore speak they evil of you, which shall give accounts to him, that is ready to judge quick and dead. For unto this purpose was the Gospel preached also unto the dead, that they might be condemned, according to men in the flesh, but might live according to God in the spirit. Now the end of all things is at hand. Be ye therefore sober, and watching in prayer. But above all things have fervent love among you: for love shall cover the multitude of sins. Be ye barbarous one to another, without grudging. Let every man as he hath received the gift, minister the same one to another, as good disposers of the manifold grace of God. If any man speak, let him speak as the words of God. If any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God ministereth, that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom is praise and dominion forever, and ever, Amen.

Dearly beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial, which is among you to prove you, as though some strange thing were come unto you: but rejoice, in as much as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings, that when his glory shall appear, ye may be glad and rejoice. If ye be railed upon for the Name of Christ, blessed are ye: for the spirit of glory, and of God resteth upon you: which on their part is evil spoken of: but on your part is glorified. But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or an evil doer, or as a busybody in other men's matters. But if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed: but let him glorify God in this behalf. For the time is come, that judgment must begin at the house of God. If it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them which obey not the Gospel of God? And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? Wherefore let them that suffer according to the will of God, commit their souls to him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator. The elders which are among you, I beseech which am also an elder, and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed, feed the flock of God, which dependeth upon you, caring for it not by constraint, but willingly: not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind: not as though ye were lords over God's heritage, but that ye may be ensamples to the flock. And when that chief shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive an incorruptible crown of glory. Likewise ye younger, submit your selves unto the elders, & submit your selves every man, one to another: deck your selves inwardly in lowliness of mind: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble. Humble your selves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time. Cast all your care on him: for he careth for you. Be sober, and watch: for your adversary the devil as a roaring lion walketh about, seeking whom he may devour: whom resist steadfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren which are in the world. And the God of all grace, which hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a little, make you perfect, confirm, strengthen and stablish you. To him be glory and dominion forever and ever, Amen.

By Sylvanus a faithful brother unto you, as I suppose, have I written briefly, exhorting and testifying how that this is the true grace of God, wherein ye stand. The Church that is at Babylon elected together with you saluteth you, and Marcus my son. Greet ye one another with the kiss of love. Peace be with you all which are in Christ Jesus, Amen.

The SECOND Epistle General of PETER

Simon Peter a servant and an Apostle of Jesus Christ, to you which have obtained like precious faith with us by the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ: Grace and peace be multiplied to you, through the acknowledging of God, and of Jesus our Lord, according as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the acknowledging of him that hath called us unto glory and virtue. Whereby most great and precious promises are given unto us, that by them ye should be partakers of the divine nature, in that ye flee the corruption, which is in the world through lust. Therefore give even all diligence thereunto: join moreover virtue with your faith: and with virtue, knowledge: and with knowledge, temperance: and with temperance, patience: and with patience, godliness: and with godliness, brotherly kindness: and with brotherly kindness, love. For if these things be among you, and abound, they will make you that ye neither shall be idle, nor unfruitful in the acknowledging of our Lord Jesus Christ: for he that hath not these things, is blind, and cannot see far off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins. Wherefore, brethren, give rather diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall. For by this means an entering shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Wherefore, I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, though that ye have knowledge, & be stablished in the present truth. For I think it meet as long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you up by putting you in remembrance, seeing I know that the time is at hand that I must lay down this my tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed me. I will endeavor therefore always, that ye also may be able to have remembrance of these things after my departing. For we followed not deceivable fables when we opened unto you the power, and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but with our eyes we saw his majesty: for he received of God the Father honor and glory, when there came such a voice to him from that excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. And this voice we heard when it came from heaven, being with him in the Holy mount. We have also a most sure word of the Prophets, to the which ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts. So that ye first know this, that no prophecy of the Scripture is of any private interpretation. For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the holy Ghost. But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you: which privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord, that hath bought them, and bring upon themselves swift damnation. And many shall follow their destructions, by whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of, and through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you, whose condemnation long since resteth not, and their destruction slumbereth not. For if God spared not the Angels that had sinned, but cast them down into hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be kept unto damnation: neither hath spared the old world, but saved Noe the eight person a preacher of righteousness, and brought in the flood upon the world of the ungodly, and turned the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into ashes, condemned them and overthrew them, and made them an ensample unto them that after should live ungodly, and delivered just Lot vexed with the uncleanly conversation of the wicked: (For he being righteous, and dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds.) The Lord knoweth to deliver the godly out of temptation, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment under punishment. And chiefly them that walk after the flesh, in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government, which are bold, and stand in their own conceit, and fear not to speak evil of them that are in dignity. Whereas the Angels which are greater both in power and might, give not railing judgment against them before the Lord. But these, as natural brute beasts, led with sensuality and made to be taken, and destroyed, speak evil of those things which they know not, and shall perish through their own corruption, and shall receive the wages of unrighteousness, as they which count it pleasure daily to live deliciously. Spots they are and blots, delighting them selves in their deceivings, in feasting with you, having eyes full of adultery, and that cannot cease to sin, beguiling unstable souls: they have hearts exercised with covetousness, they are the children of curse: which forsaking the right way, have gone astray, following the way of Balaam, the son of Bosor, which loved the wages of unrighteousness. But he was rebuked for his iniquity: for the dumb beast speaking with man's voice, forbade the foolishness of the Prophet. These are wells without water, and clouds carried about with a tempest, to whom the black darkness is reserved for ever. For in speaking swelling words of vanity, they beguile with wantonness through the lusts of the flesh them that were clean escaped from them which are wrapped in error, promising unto them liberty, & are themselves the servants of corruption: for of whomsoever a man is overcome, even unto the same is he in bondage. For if they, after they have escaped from the filthiness of the world, through the acknowledging of the Lord, and of the Savior Jesus Christ, are yet tangled again therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them then the beginning. For it had been better for them, not to have acknowledged the way of righteousness, then after they have acknowledged it, to turn from the holy commandment given unto them. But it is come unto them, according to the true Proverb, The dog is returned to his own vomit: and, The sow that was washed, to the wallowing in the mire.

This second Epistle I now write unto you, beloved, wherewith I stir up, and warn your pure minds, to call to remembrance the words, which were told before of the holy Prophets, and also the commandment of us the Apostles of the Lord and Savior. This first understand, that there shall come in the last days, mockers, which will walk after their lusts, and say, Where is the promise of his coming? For since the fathers died, all things continue alike from the beginning of the creation. For this they willingly know not, that the heavens were of old, and the earth that was of the water and by the water, by the word of God. Wherefore the world that then was, perished, overflowed with the water. But the heavens and earth, which are now, are kept by the same word in store, and reserved unto fire against the day of condemnation, and of the destruction of ungodly men. Dearly beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord, as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day. The Lord of that promise is not slack (as some men count slackness) but is patient toward us, and would have no man to perish, but would all men to come to repentance. But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night, in the which the heavens shall pass away with a noise, and the elements shall melt with heat, and the earth with the works that are therein, shall be burnt up. Seeing therefore that all these things must be dissolved, what manner persons ought ye to be in holy conversation and godliness, looking for, and hasting unto the coming of that day of God, by the which the heavens being on fire, shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with heat? But we look for new heavens, and a new earth, according to his promise, wherein dwelleth righteousness. Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot and blameless. And suppose that the long suffering of our Lord is salvation, even as our beloved brother Paul according to the wisdom given unto him wrote to you, as one, that in all his Epistles speaketh of these things: among the which some things are hard to be understand, which they that are unlearned and unstable, wrest, as they do also other Scriptures unto their own destruction. Ye therefore beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware, lest ye be also plucked away with the error of the wicked, and fall from your own steadfastness. But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ: to him be glory both now and for evermore. Amen.

The FIRST Epistle General of JOHN

That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with these our eyes, which we have looked upon, and these hands of ours have handled of that Word of life, (For that life was made manifest, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was made manifest unto us) that, I say, which we have seen and heard, declare we unto you, that ye may also have fellowship with us, and that our fellowship also may be with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ. And these things write we unto you, that that your joy may be full. This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness. If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not truly: but if we walk in the light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin. If we say that we have no sin, we deceive our selves, and truth is not in us. If we acknowledge our sins, he is faithful and just, to forgive us our sins, & to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. If we say we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not: and if any man sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the Just. And he is the reconciliation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world. And hereby we are sure that we know him, if we keep his commandments. He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. But he that keepeth his word, in him is the love of God perfect in deed: hereby we know that ye are in him. He that saith he remaineth in him, ought even so to walk, as he hath walked. Brethren, I write no new commencement unto you: but an old commandment, which ye have had from the beginning: this old commandment is that word, which ye have heard from the beginning. Again, a new commandment I write unto you, that which is true in him, and also in you: for the darkness is past, & that true light now shineth. He that saith that he is in that light and hateth his brother is in darkness until this time. He that loveth his brother abideth in that light, & there is none occasion of evil in him. But he that hateth his brother, is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes. Little children, I write unto you, because your sins are forgiven you for his Names sake. I write unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young men, because ye have overcome that wicked one. I write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father. I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him, that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome that wicked one. Love not this world, neither the things that are in this world. If any man love this world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in this world (as the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life) is not of the Father but is of this world. And this world passeth away, & the lust thereof: but he that fulfilleth the will of God abideth ever. Little children, it is the last time, and as ye have heard that Antichrist shall come, even now are there many Antichrists: whereby we know that it is the last time. They went out from us, but they were not of us: for if they had been of us, they should have continued with us. But this cometh to pass, that it might appear, that they are not all of us. But ye have an ointment from that Holy one, and know all things. I have not written unto you, because ye know not the truth: but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth. Who is a liar, but he that denieth that Jesus is that Christ? the same is that Antichrist that denieth the Father and the Son. Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father. Let therefore abide in you that same which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning, shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father. And this is the promise that he hath promised us, even that eternal life. These things have I written unto you, concerning them that deceive you. But that anointing, which ye received of him, dwelleth in you: and ye need not that any man teach you: but as the same Anointing teacheth you of all things, and it is true, and is not lying, and as it taught you, ye shall abide in him. And now, little children, abide in him, that when he shall appear, we may be bold, and not be ashamed before him at his coming. If ye know that he is righteous, know ye that he which doeth righteously, is borne of him.

Behold, what love the Father hath given to us, that we should be called the sons of God: for this cause this world knoweth you not, because it knoweth not him. Dearly beloved, now are we the sons of God, but yet it is not made manifest what we shall be: and we know that when he shall be made manifest, we shall be like him: for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him, purgeth himself, even as he is pure. Whosoever commiteth sin, transgresseth also the Law: for sin is the transgression of the Law. And ye know that he was made manifest, that he might take away our sins, and in him is no sin. Whosoever abideth in him, sinneth not: whosoever sinneth, hath not seen him, neither hath known him. Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, as he is righteous. He that commiteth sin, is of the devil: for the devil sinneth from the beginning: for this purpose was made manifest that Son of God, that he might loose the works of the devil. Whosoever is borne of God, sinneth not: for his seed remaineth in him, neither can he sin, because he is borne of God. In this are the children of God known, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness, is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother. For this is the message, that ye heard from the beginning, that we should love one another, not as Cain which was of that wicked one, and slew his brother: and wherefore slew he him? because his own works were evil, and his brothers good. Marvel not, my brethren, though this world hate you. We know that we are translated from death unto life, because we love the brethren: he that loveth not his brother, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a manslayer: and ye know that no manslayer hath eternal life abiding in him. Hereby have we perceived love that he laid down his life for us: therefore we ought also to lay down our lives for the brethren. And whosoever hath this worlds good, and seeth his brother have need, & shutteth up his compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him? My little children let us not love in word, neither in tongue only, but in deed and in truth. For thereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall before him assure our hearts. For if our heart condemn us, God is greater then our heart, and knoweth all things. Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, then have we boldness toward God. And whatsoever we ask we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things which are pleasing in his sight. This is then his commandment, That we believe in the Name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another as he gave commandment. For he that keepeth his commandments, dwelleth in him, and he in him: and hereby we know that he abideth in us, even by that Spirit which he hath given us.

Dearly beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: for many false prophets are gone out into this world. Hereby shall ye know the Spirit of God, Every spirit which confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is of God. And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is not of God: but this is the spirit of Antichrist, of whom ye have heard, how that he should come, and now already he is in this world. Little children, ye are of God, and have overcome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in this world. They are of this world, therefore speak they of this world, and this world heareth them. We are of God, he that knoweth God, heareth us: he that is not of God, heareth us not. Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error. Beloved, let us love one another: for love cometh of God, & every one that loveth, is borne of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not, knoweth not God: for God is love. Herein was that love of God made manifest amongst us, because God sent that his only begotten son into this world, that we might live through him. Herein is that love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be a reconciliation for our sins. Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfect in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, & he in us: because he hath given us of his Spirit. And we have seen, & do testify, that the Father sent that Son to be the Savior of the world. Whosoever confesseth that Jesus is the Son of God, in him dwelleth God, & he in God. And we have known, & believed the love that God hath in us. God is love, and he that dwelleth in love, dwelleth in God, & God in him. Herein is that love perfect in us, that we should have boldness in the day of judgment: for as he is, even so are we in this world. There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear: for fear hath painfulness: and he that feareth, is not perfect in love. We love him, because he loved us first. If any man say, I love God, and hate his brother, he is a liar: for how can he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, love God whom he hath not seen? And this commandment have we of him, that he that loveth God, should love his brother also. Whosoever believeth that Jesus is that Christ, is borne of God: and every one that loveth him, which begat, loveth him also which is begotten of him. In this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments. For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not burdenous. For all that is borne of God, overcometh this world: and this is that victory that hath overcome this world, even our faith. Who is it that overcometh this world, but he which believeth that Jesus is that Son of God? This is that Jesus Christ that came by water and blood: not by water only, but by water and blood: and it is that Spirit that beareth witness: for that Spirit is truth. For there are three, which bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one. And there are three, which bear record in the earth, the spirit, and the water and the blood: and these three agree in one. If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God, which he testified of his Son. He that believeth in that Son of God hath the witness in himself: he that believeth not God, hath made him a liar, because he believed not the record, that God witnessed of that his Son. And this is that record, to wit, that God hath given unto us eternal life, and this life is in that his Son. He that hath that Son hath that life: and he that hath not that Son of God hath not that life. These things have I written unto you that believe in the Name of that Son of God, that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe in the Name of that Son of God. And this is that assurance that we have in him, that if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us. And if we know that he heareth us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we have desired of him. If any man see his brother sin a sin that is not unto death, let him ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: I say not that thou shouldest pray for it. All unrighteousness is sin, but there is a sin not unto death. We know that whosoever is borne of God, sinneth not: but he that is begotten of God, keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not. We know that we are of God, and this whole world lieth in wickedness. But we know that that Son of God is come, & hath given us a mind to know him, which is true: & we are in him that is true, that is, in that his Son Jesus Christ: this same is that very God, and that eternal life. Little children, keep yourselves from idols, Amen.

The SECOND Epistle of JOHN

The Elder to the elect Lady, and her children, whom I love in the truth: and not I only, but also all that have known the truth, for the truths sake which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever: Grace be with you, mercy and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ the Son of the Father, with truth and love. I rejoiced greatly, that I found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a commandment of the Father. And now beseech I thee, Lady, (not as writing a new commandment unto thee, but that same which we had from the beginning) that we love one another. And this is that love, that we should walk after his commandments. This commandment is, that as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it. For many deceivers are entered into this world, which confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. He that is such one, is a deceiver and an Antichrist. Look to your selves, that we lose not the things which we have done, but that we may receive full reward. Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that continueth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son. If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not to house, neither bid him, God speed: For he that biddeth him, God speed, is partaker of his evil deeds. Although I had many things to write unto you, yet I would not write with paper & ink: but I trust to come unto you, & speak mouth to mouth, that our joy may be full. The sons of thine elect sister greet thee, Amen.

The THIRD Epistle of JOHN

The Elder unto the beloved Gaius, whom I love in the truth. Beloved, I wish chiefly that thou prosper and fare well as thy soul prospereth. For I rejoiced greatly when the brethren came, and testified of the truth that is in thee, how thou walk in the truth. I have no greater joy then these, that is, to hear that my sons walk in verity. Beloved, thou does faithfully, whatsoever thou does to the brethren, and to strangers, which bare witness of thy love before the Churches. Whom if thou bring on their journey as it beseemeth according to God, thou shalt do well, because that for his Names sake they went forth, and took nothing of the Gentiles. We therefore ought to receive such, that we might be helpers to the truth. I wrote unto the Church: but Diotrephes which loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not. Wherefore if I come, I will call to your remembrance his deeds which he doeth, prattling against us with malicious words, and not therewith content, neither he himself receiveth the brethren, but forbiddeth them that would, and thrusteth them out of the Church. Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good: he that doeth well, is of God: but he that doeth evil, hath not seen God. Demetrius hath good report of all men, and of the truth itself: yea, and we ourselves bear record, and ye know that our record is true. I have many things to write: but I will not with ink and pen write unto thee: For I trust I shall shortly see thee, & we shall speak mouth to mouth. Peace be with thee. The friends salute thee. Greet the friends by name.

The General Epistle of JUDE

Jude a servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them which are called and sanctified of God the Father, and returned to Jesus Christ: Mercy unto you, and peace and love be multiplied. Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salutation, it was needful for me to write unto you to exhort you, that ye should earnestly contend for the maintenance of the faith, which was once given unto the Saints. For there are certain men crept in, which were before of old ordained to this condemnation: ungodly men they are which turn the grace of our God into wantonness, and deny God the only Lord, and our Lord Jesus Christ. I will therefore put you in remembrance, forasmuch as ye once knew this, how that the Lord, after that he had delivered the people out of Egypt, destroyed them afterward which believed not. The Angels also which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day. As Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities about them, which in like manner as they did, committed fornication, and followed strange flesh, are set forth for an ensample, and suffer the vengeance of eternal fire. Likewise notwithstanding these sleepers also defile the flesh, and despise government, and speak evil of them that are in authority. Yet Michael the Archangel, when he strove against the devil, and disputed about the body of Moses, durst not blame him with cursed speaking, but said, The Lord rebuke thee. But these speak evil of those things, which they know not: & whatsoever things they know naturally, as beasts, which are without reason, in those things they corrupt them selves. Woe be unto them: for they have followed the way of Cain, and are cast away by the deceit of Balaam's wages, and perish in the gainsaying of Core. These are rocks in your feasts of charity when they feast with you, without al fear, feeding themselves: clouds they are without water, carried about of winds, corrupt trees & without fruit, twice dead, and plucked up by the roots. They are the raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame: they are wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever. And Enoch also the seventh from Adam, prophesied of such, saying, Behold, the Lord cometh with thousands of his Saints, to give judgment against al men, and to rebuke all the ungodly among them of all their wicked deeds, which they have ungodly committed, and of all their cruel speakings, which wicked sinners have spoken against him. These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts: Whose mouths speak proud things, having men's persons in admiration, because of advantage. But, ye beloved, remember the words which were spoken before of the Apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, how that they told you that there should be mockers in ye last time, which should walk after their own ungodly lusts. These are they that separate them selves from other, natural, having not the Spirit. But, ye beloved, edify your selves in your most holy faith, praying in the holy Ghost, and keep your selves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ, unto eternal life. And have compassion of some, in putting difference: and other save with fear, pulling them out of the fire, & hate even that garment which is spotted by the flesh. Now unto him that is able to keep you, that ye fall not, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with joy, that is, to God only wise, our Savior, be glory, and majesty, and dominion, and power, both now and for ever, Amen.

The REVELATION Of Saint John the Apostle

The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly be done: which he sent, and shewed by his Angel unto his servant John, who bare record of the word of God, & of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw. Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand.

John, to the seven Churches which are in Asia, Grace be with you, and peace from him, Which is, and Which was, and Which is to come, & from the seven Spirits which are before his Throne, and from Jesus Christ, which is that faithful witness, and that first begotten of the dead, & that Prince of the Kings of the earth, unto him that loved us, & washed us from our sins in his blood, and made us Kings and Priests unto God even his Father, to him I say be glory, and dominion for evermore, Amen. Behold, he cometh with clouds, and every eye shall see him: yea, even they which pierced him through: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail before him, Even so, Amen. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, Which is, and Which was, and Which is to come, even the Almighty.

I John, even your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was in the isle called Patmos, for the word of God, & for the witnessing of Jesus Christ. And I was ravished in spirit on the Lords day, and heard behind me a great voice, as it had been of a trumpet, saying, I am Alpha and Omega, that first and that last: & that which thou sees, write in a book, and send it unto the seven Churches which are in Asia, unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamus, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea. Then I turned back to see the voice, that spake with me: and when I was turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks, and in the midst of the seven candlesticks, one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the feet, and girded about the pappes with a golden girdle. His head, & hairs were white as white wool, and as snow, and his eyes were as a flame of fire, and his feet like unto fine brass, burning as in a furnace: and his voice as the sound of many waters. And he had in his right hand seven stars: and out of his mouth went a sharp two edged sword: and his face shone as the sun shineth in his strength. And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead: then he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not: I am that first and that last, and am alive, but I was dead: and behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen: and I have the keys of hell and of death. Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, & the things which shall come hereafter. The mystery of the seven stars which thou saw in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks, is this, The seven stars are the Angels of the seven Churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou saw, are the seven Churches.

Unto the Angel of the Church of Ephesus write, These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, and walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks. I know thy works, and thy labor, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear with them which are evil, and hast examined them which say they are Apostles, & are not, & hast found the liars. And thou wast burdened, & hast patience, and for my Names sake hast labored, & hast not fainted. Nevertheless, I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love. Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works: or else I will come against thee shortly, & will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou amend. But this thou hast, that thou hate the works of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. Let him that hath an ear, hear, what the Spirit saith unto the Churches, To him that overcometh, will I give to eat of the tree of life which is in the midst of the Paradise of God. And unto the Angel of the Church of the Smyrnians write, These things saith he that is first, and last, which was dead and is alive. I know thy works and tribulation, and poverty (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of them, which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the Synagogue of Satan. Fear none of those things, which thou shalt suffer: behold, it shall come to pass, that the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried, and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto the death, and I will give thee the crown of life. Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith to the Churches. He that overcometh, shall not be hurt of the second death. And to the Angel of the Church, which is at Pergamus write, This saith he which hath that sharp sword with two edges. I know thy works and where thou dwells, even where Satan's throne is, and thou keep my Name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days when Antipas my faithful martyr was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth. But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that maintain the doctrine of Balaam, which taught Balac to put a stumbling block before the children of Israel that they should eat of things sacrificed unto Idols, and commit fornication. Even so hast thou them, that maintain the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate. Repent thy self, or else I will come unto thee shortly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches. To him that overcometh, will I give to eat of the Manna that is hid, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it. And unto the Angel of the Church which is at Thyatira write, These things saith the Son of God, which hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet like fine brass. I know thy works and thy love, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works, and that they are more at the last, then at the first. Notwithstanding, I have a few things against thee, that thou sufferest the woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to deceive my servants to make them commit fornication, and to eat meats sacrificed unto idols. And I gave her space to repent of her fornication, and she repented not. Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and

them that commit fornication with her, into great affliction, except they repent them of their works. And I will kill her children with death: and all the Churches shall know that I am he which search the reins and hearts: and I will give unto every one of you according unto your works. And unto you I say, the rest of them of Thyatira, As many as have not this learning, neither have known the deepens of Satan (as they speak) I will put upon you none other burden. But that which ye have already, hold fast till I come. For he that overcometh & keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over nations, and he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and as the vessels of a potter, shall they be broken. Even as I received of my Father, so will I give him the morning star. Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith to the Churches. And write unto the Angel of the Church which is at Sardis, These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars, I know thy works: for thou hast a name that thou lives, but thou art dead. Be awake, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God. Remember therefore, how thou hast received and heard, & hold fast & repent. If therefore thou wilt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. Notwithstanding thou hast a few names yet in Sardis, which have not defiled their garments: and they shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy. He that overcometh shall be clothed in white array, and I will not put out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father, and before his Angels. Let him that hath an ear, hear, what the Spirit saith unto the Churches. And write unto the Angel of the Church which is of Philadelphia, These things saith he that is Holy, and True, which hath the key of David, which openeth and no man shutteth, & shutteth & no man openeth, I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my Name. Behold, I will make them of the Synagogue of Satan, which call themselves Jews, and are not, but do lie: behold, I say, I will make them, that they shall come and worship before thy feet, and shall know that I have loved thee. Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, therefore I will deliver thee from the hour of temptation, which will come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth. Behold, I come shortly: hold that which thou hast, that no man take thy crown. Him that overcometh, will I make a pillar in the Temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the Name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is the new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God, and I will write upon him my new Name. Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches. And unto the Angel of the Church of the Laodiceans write, These things saith Amen, the faithful and true witness, that beginning of the creatures of God. I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou were cold or hot. Therefore, because thou art lukewarm and neither cold nor hot, it will come to pass, that I shall spew thee out of my mouth. For thou says, I am rich and increased with goods, and have need of nothing, and knows not how thou art wretched and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked. I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried by the fire, that thou may be made rich: and white raiment, that thou may be clothed, and that thy filthy nakedness do not appear: and anoint thine eyes with eye salve, that thou may see. As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore and amend. Behold, I stand at the door, & knock. If any man hear my voice & open the door, I will come in unto him, and will sup with him, & he with me. To him that overcometh, will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I overcame, and sit with my Father in his throne. Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.

After this I looked, and behold, a door was open in heaven, and the first voice which I heard, was as it were of a trumpet talking with me, saying, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be done hereafter. And immediately I was ravished in the spirit, and behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat upon the throne. And he that sat was to look upon, like unto a jasper stone, and a sardine, and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like to an emerald. And round about the throne were four and twenty seats, and upon the seats I saw four and twenty Elders sitting, clothed in white raiment, and had on their heads crowns of gold. And out of the throne proceeded lightnings, and thunderings, and voices, and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven spirits of God. And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne & round about the throne were four beasts full of eyes before and behind. And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, & the third beast had a face as a man, & the fourth beast was like a flying Eagle. And the four beasts had each one of them six wings about him, and they were full of eyes within, and they ceased not day nor night, saying, Holy, holy, holy Lord God almighty, Which Was, and Which Is, and Which Is to come. And when those beasts gave glory, and honor, and thanks to him that sat on the throne, which liveth forever and ever, the four and twenty Elders fell down before him that sat on the throne and worshipped him that liveth for evermore, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor, and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy wills sake they are, and have been created. And I saw in the right hand of him that sat upon the throne, a Book written within, and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. And I saw a strong Angel which preached with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the Book, neither to look thereon. Then I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open, and to read the Book, neither to look thereon. And one of the Elders said unto me, Weep not: behold, that Lion which is of the tribe of Judah, that root of David, hath obtained to open the Book, and to loose the seven seals thereof. Then I beheld, and lo, in the midst of the throne, & of the four beasts, and in the midst of the Elders, stood a Lamb as though he had been killed, which had seven horns, & seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God, sent into all the world. And he came, and took the Book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne. And when he had taken the Book, the four beasts and the four & twenty Elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one harps & golden vials full of odors, which are the prayers of the Saints, and they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the Book, and to open the seals thereof, because thou wast killed, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation, and hast made us unto our God Kings and Priests, and we shall reign on the earth. Then I beheld, & I heard the voice of many Angels round about the throne, & about the beasts and the Elders, & there were ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousand thousands, saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was killed to receive power, & riches, & wisdom, & strength, & honor, & glory, and praise. And all the creatures which are in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I, saying, Praise, & honor, and glory, and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne and unto the Lamb for evermore. And the four beasts said, Amen, & the four and twenty Elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for evermore.

After, I beheld when the Lamb had opened one of the seals, & I heard one of the four beasts say, as it were the noise of thunder, Come and see. Therefore I beheld, & lo, there was a white horse, and he that sat on him, had a bow, and a crown was given unto him, and he went forth conquering that he might overcome. And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say, Come and see. And there went out another horse, that was red, & power was given to him that sat thereon, to take peace from the earth & that they should kill one another, & there was given unto him a great sword. And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come and see: Then I beheld, and lo, a black horse, & he that sat on him, had balances in his hand. And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, A measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny, & oil, and wine hurt thou not. And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, Come & see. And I looked, and behold, a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed after him, & power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with beasts of the earth. And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were killed for the word of God, and for the testimony which they maintained. And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, Lord, which art holy and true! does not thou judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And long white robes were given unto every one, and it was said unto them, that they should rest for a little season until their fellow servants, and their brethren that should be killed even as they were, were fulfilled. And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and lo, there was a great earthquake, and the sun was as black as sackcloth of hair, & the moon was like blood. And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, as a fig tree casteth her green figs when it is shaken of a mighty wind. And heaven departed away, as a scroll, when it is rolled, and every mountain and isle were moved out of their places. And the Kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in dens, & among the rocks of the mountains, and said to the mountains & rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the presence of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb. For the great day of his wrath is come, and who can stand? And after that, I saw four Angels stand on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the winds should not blow on the earth, neither on the sea, neither on any tree. And I saw another Angel come up from the East, which had the seal of the living God, and he cried with a loud voice to the four Angels to whom power was given to hurt the earth, & the sea, saying, Hurt ye not the earth, neither the sea, neither the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. And I heard the number of them, which were sealed, and there were sealed an hundredth and four and forty thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel. Of the tribe of Judah were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Ruben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Nephthali were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Issachar were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand. After these things I beheld, and lo a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with long white robes, and palms in their hands. And they cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation cometh of our God that sitteth upon the throne and of the Lamb. And all the Angels stood round about the throne, and about the Elders, and the four beasts, and they fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God, saying, Amen. Praise, and glory, and wisdom, and thanks, and honor, and power, and might be unto our God for evermore, Amen. And one of the Elders spake, saying unto me, What are these which are arrayed in long white robes? and whence came they? And I said unto him, Lord, thou knows; he said to me, These are they, which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their long robes, and have made their long robes white in the blood of the Lamb. Therefore are they in the presence of the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his Temple, and he that sitteth on the throne, will dwell among them. They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them, neither any heat. For the Lamb, which is in the midst of the throne, shall govern them, and shall lead them unto the lively fountains of waters, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about half an hour. And I saw the seven Angels, which stood before God, and to them were given seven trumpets. Then another Angel came and stood before the altar having a golden censer, and much odors was given unto him, that he should offer with the prayers of all Saints upon the golden altar, which is before the throne. And the smoke of the odors with the prayers of the Saints went up before God, out of the Angels hand. And the Angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth, and there were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, and earthquake.

Then the seven Angels, which had the seven trumpets, prepared themselves to blow the trumpets. So the first Angel blew the trumpet, and there was hail & fire, mingled with blood, and they were cast into the earth, and the third part of trees was burnt, and all green grass was burnt. And the second Angel blew the trumpet, and as it were a great mountain, burning with fire, was cast into the sea, and the third part of the sea became blood. And the third part of the creatures, which were in the sea, and had life, died, and the third part of ships were destroyed. Then the third Angel blew the trumpet, and there fell a great star from heaven, burning like a torch, and it fell into the third part of the rivers, and into the fountains of waters. And the name of the star is called wormwood: therefore the third part of the waters became wormwood, and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter. And the fourth Angel blew the trumpet, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars, so that the third part of them was darkened: and the day was smitten, that the third part of it could not shine, and likewise the night. And I beheld, and heard one Angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, Woe, woe, woe to the inhabitants of the earth, because of the sounds to come of the trumpet of the three Angels, which were yet to blow the trumpets. And the fifth Angel blew the trumpet, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth, and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit. And he opened the bottomless pit, and there arose the smoke of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace, and the sun, and the air were darkened by the smoke of the pit. And there came out of the smoke Locusts upon the earth, and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. And it was commanded them, that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree: but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads. And to them was commanded that they should not kill them, but that they should be vexed five months, & that their pain should be as the pain that cometh of a scorpion, when he hath stung a man. Therefore in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it, and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them. And the form of the locusts was like unto horses prepared unto battle, and on their heads were as it were crowns, like unto gold, and their faces were like the faces of men. And they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as the teeth of lions. And they had habergeons, like to habergeons of iron: and the sound of their wings was like the sound of chariots when many horses run unto battle. And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails, and their power was to hurt men five months. And they have a King over them, which is the Angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, and in Greek he is named Apollyon, that is, destroying. One woe is past, and behold, yet two woes come after this. Then the sixth Angel blew the trumpet, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar, which is before God, saying to the sixth Angel, which had the trumpet, Loose the four Angels, which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four Angels were loosed, which were prepared at an hour, at a day, at a month, and at a year, to slay the third part of men. And the number of horsemen of war were twenty thousand times ten thousand: for I heard the number of them. And thus I saw the horses in a vision, & them that sat on them, having fiery habergeons, and of Jacinth, and of brimstone, and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions: and out of their mouths went forth fire and smoke and brimstone. Of these three was the third part of men killed, that is, of the fire, and of the smoke, and of the brimstone, which came out of their mouths. For their power is in their mouths, and in their tails: for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, wherewith they hurt. And the remnant of the men which were not killed by these plagues, repented not of the works of their hands that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold and of silver, and of brass, and of stone, and of wood, which neither can see, neither hear nor go. Also they repented not of their murder, and of their sorcery, neither of their fornication, nor of their theft. And I saw another mighty Angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud, and the rainbow upon his head, and his face was as the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire. And he had in his hand a little book open, and he put his right foot upon the sea, and his left on the earth, and cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth: and when he had cried, seven thunders uttered their voices. And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: but I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Seal up those things which the seven thunders have spoken, and write them not. And the Angel which I saw stand upon the sea, and upon the earth, lift up his hand to heaven, and swear by him that liveth for evermore, which created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things that therein are, that time should be no more. But in the days of the voice of the seventh Angel, when he shall begin to blow the trumpet, even the mystery of God shall be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the Prophets.

And the voice which I heard from heaven, spake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open in the hand of the Angel, which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth. So I went unto the Angel, and said to him, Give me the little book; he said unto me, Take it, and eat it up, and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth as sweet as honey. Then I took the little book out of the Angels hand, and ate it up, and it was in my mouth as sweet as honey: but when I had eaten it my belly was bitter. And he said unto me, Thou must prophecy again among the people and nations, and tongues, and to many Kings. Then was given me a reed, like unto a rod, and the Angel stood by, saying, Rise and mete the Temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein. But the court which is without the temple cast out, and mete it not: for it is given unto the Gentiles, and the holy city shall they tread under foot, two and forty months. But I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophecy a thousand two hundredth and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth. These are two olive trees, and two candlesticks, standing before the God of the earth. And if any man will hurt them, fire proceedeth out of their mouths, and devoureth their enemies: for if any man would hurt them, thus must he be killed. These have power to shut heaven that it rain not in the days of their prophesying, and have power over waters to turn them into blood, and to smite the earth with all manner plagues, as often as they will. And when they have finished their testimony, the beast that cometh out of the bottomless pit, shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them. And their corpses shall lie in the streets of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where our Lord also was crucified. And they of the people and kindreds, and tongues, and Gentiles shall see their corpses three days and an half, and shall not suffer their carcasses to be put in graves. And they that dwell upon the earth, shall rejoice over them and be glad, and shall send gifts one to another: for these two Prophets vexed them that dwelt on the earth. But after three days and an half, the spirit of life coming from God, shall enter into them, and they shall stand up upon their feet: and great fear shall come upon them which saw them. And they shall hear a great voice from heaven, saying unto them, Come up hither; they shall ascend up to heaven in a cloud, and their enemies shall see them. And the same hour shall there be a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city shall fall, and in the earthquake shall be slain in number seven thousand: and the remnant were sore feared, and gave glory to the God of heaven. The second woe is past, and behold, the third woe will come anon. And the seventh Angel blew the trumpet, and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are our Lords, and his Christ's, and he shall reign for evermore. Then the four and twenty Elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God, saying, We give thee thanks, Lord God almighty, Which art, and Which wast, and Which art to come: for thou hast received thy great might, and hast obtained thy kingdom. And the Gentiles were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou should give reward unto thy servants the Prophets, and to the Saints, and to them that fear thy Name, to small and great, and should destroy them, which destroy the earth. Then the Temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his Temple the Ark of his covenant: and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and earthquake, and much hail.

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven: A woman clothed with the sun, & the moon was under her feet and upon her head a crown of twelve stars. And she was with child, and cried travailing in birth, and was pained ready to be delivered. And there appeared another wonder in heaven: for behold, a great red dragon having seven heads, and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads: And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and cast them to the earth; the dragon stood before the woman, which was ready to be delivered, to devour her child, when she had brought it forth. So she brought forth a man child, which should rule all nations with a rod of iron: and that her child was taken up unto God and to his throne. And the woman fled into wilderness where she hath a place prepared of God that they should feed her there a thousand, two hundredth and three score days. And there was a battle in heaven, Michael and his Angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels. But they prevailed not, neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon, that old serpent, called the devil and Satan, was cast out, which deceiveth all the world: he was even cast into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. Then I heard a loud voice in heaven, saying, Now is salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night. But they overcame him by that blood of that Lamb, and by that word of their testimony, and they loved not their lives unto the death. Therefore rejoice ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabitants of the earth, and of the sea: for the devil is come down unto you, which hath great wrath, knowing that he hath but a short time. And when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted the woman which had brought forth the man child. But to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished for a time, & times, and half a time, from the presence of the serpent. And the serpent cast out of his mouth water after the woman, like a flood, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood. But the earth helped the woman, & the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood, which the dragon had cast out of his mouth. Then the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went and made war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ.

And I stood on the sea sand. And I saw a beast rise out of the sea, having seven heads, and ten horns, and upon his horns were ten crowns, and upon his heads the name of blasphemy. And the beast which I saw was like a Leopard, and his feet like a bears, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and the dragon gave him his power and his throne, and great authority. And I saw one of his heads as it were wounded to death, but his deadly wound was healed, and all the world wondered and followed the beast. And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast, & they worshipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast! Who is able to war with him! And there was given unto him a mouth, that spake great things and blasphemies, and power was given unto him, to do two and forty months. And he opened his mouth unto blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his Name, and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven. And it was given unto him to make war with the Saints, and to overcome them, & power was given him over every kindred, and tongue, and nation. Therefore all that dwell upon the earth, shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of that Lamb, which was slain from the beginning of the world. If any man have an ear, let him hear. If any lead into captivity, he shall go into captivity: if any kill with a sword, he must be killed by a sword: here is the patience and the faith of the Saints. And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth, which had two horns like the Lamb, but he spake like the dragon. And he did all that the first beast could do before him, and he caused the earth, and them which dwell therein, to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed. And he did great wonders, so that he made fire to come down from heaven on the earth, in the sight of men, and deceived them that dwell on the earth by the signs, which were permitted to him to do in the sight of the beast, saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make the image of the beast, which had the wound of a sword, and did live. And it was permitted to him to give a spirit unto the image of the beast, so that the image of the beast should speak, and should cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast, should be killed. And he made all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand or in their foreheads, and that no man might buy or sell save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. Here is wisdom. Let him that hath wit, count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man, and his number is six hundredth threescore and six.

Then I looked, and lo, a Lamb stood on mount Sion, and with him an hundredth, forty and four thousand, having his Father's Name written in their foreheads. And I heard a voice from heaven, as the sound of many waters, and as the sound of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps. And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the Elders: and no man could learn that song, but the hundredth, forty and four thousand, which were bought from the earth. These are they, which are not defiled with women: for they are virgins: these follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth: these are bought from men, being the first fruits unto God, and to the Lamb. And in their mouths was found no guile: for they are without spot before the throne of God.

Then I saw another Angel fly in the midst of heaven, having an everlasting Gospel, to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him: for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven & earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters. And there followed another Angel, saying, Babylon that great city is fallen, it is fallen: for she made all nations to drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication. And the third Angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or on his hand, the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, yea, of the pure wine, which is poured into the cup of his wrath, and he shall be tormented in fire and brimstone before the holy Angels, and before the Lamb. And the smoke of their torment shall ascend evermore: and they shall have no rest day nor night, which worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the print of his name. Here is the patience of Saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus. Then I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Write, The dead which die in the Lord, are fully blessed. Even so saith the Spirit: for they rest from their labors and their works follow them. And I looked, and behold, a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sitting like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle. And another Angel came out of the Temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, Thrust in thy sickle & reap: for the time is come to reap: for the harvest of the earth is ripe. And he that sat on the cloud, thrust in his sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped. Then another Angel came out of the Temple, which is in heaven, having also a sharp sickle. And another Angel came out from the altar, which had power over fire, and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, & said, Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vineyard of the earth: for her grapes are ripe. And the Angel thrust in his sharp sickle on the earth, and cut down the vines of the vineyard of the earth, and cast them into that great wine press of the wrath of God. And the wine press was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the wine press, unto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundredth furlongs.

And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvelous, seven Angels, having the seven last plagues: for by them is fulfilled the wrath of God. And I saw as it were a glassy sea, mingled with fire, and them that had gotten victory of the beast, and of his image, and of his mark, and of the number of his name, stand at the glassy sea, having the harps of God, and they sang the song of Moses the servant of God, & the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvelous are thy works, Lord God almighty: just and true are thy ways, King of Saints. Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy Name! for thou only art holy, and all nations shall come and worship before thee: for thy judgments are made manifest. And after that, I looked, and behold, the Temple of the tabernacle of testimony was open in heaven. And the seven Angels came out of the Temple, which had the seven plagues, clothed in pure and bright linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles. And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven Angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, which liveth for evermore. And the Temple was full of the smoke of the glory of God and of his power, and no man was able to enter into the Temple, till the seven plagues of the seven Angels were fulfilled. And I heard a great voice out of the Temple, saying to the seven Angels, Go your ways, and pour out the seven vials of the wrath of God upon the earth. And the first went & poured out his vial upon the earth: and there fell a noisome, & a grievous sore upon the men, which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image. And the second Angel poured out his vial upon the sea, and it became as the blood of a dead man: and every living thing died in the sea. And the third Angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters, and they became blood. And I heard the Angel of the waters say, Lord, thou art just, Which art, and Which wast: and Holy, because thou hast judged these things. For they shed the blood of the Saints, & Prophets, and therefore hast thou given them blood to drink: for they are worthy. And I heard another out of the Sanctuaries say, Even so, Lord God almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments. And the fourth Angel poured out his vial on the sun, and it was given unto him to torment men with heat of fire, and men boiled in great heat, and blasphemed the Name of God, which hath power over these plagues, and they repented not, to give him glory. And the fifth Angel poured out his vial upon the throne of the beast, and his kingdom waxed dark, and they gnawed their tongues for sorrow, and blasphemed the God of heaven for their pains, and for their sores, and repented not of their works. And the sixth Angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates, and the water thereof dried up, that the way of the Kings of the East should be prepared. And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of that dragon, and out of the mouth of that beast, and out of the mouth of that false prophet. For they are the spirits of devils working miracles to go unto the Kings of the earth and of the whole world to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty. (Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth and keepeth his garments, least he walk naked, and men see his filthiness) And they gathered them together into a place called in Hebrew Arma-gedon. And the seventh Angel poured out his vial into the air: and there came a loud voice out of the Temple of heaven from the throne, saying, It is done. And there were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, even so mighty an earthquake. And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and that great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath. And every isle fled away, and the mountains were not found. And there fell a great hail, like talents, out of heaven upon the men, and men blasphemed God, because of the plague of the hail: for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

Then there came one of the seven Angels, which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come: I will shew thee the damnation of the great whore that sitteth upon many waters, with whom have committed fornication the Kings of the earth, and the inhabitants of the earth are drunken with the wine of her fornication. So he carried me away into the wilderness in the Spirit, and I saw a woman sit upon a scarlet colored beast, full of names of blasphemy, which had seven heads, and ten horns. And the woman was arrayed in purple & scarlet, and gilded with gold, and precious stones, and pearls, and had a cup of gold in her hand, full of abominations, and filthiness of her fornication. And in her forehead was a name written, A mystery, that great Babylon, that mother of whoredomes, and abominations of the earth. And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of Saints, and with the blood of the Martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, I wondered with great marvel. Then the Angel said unto me, Wherefore marvels thou? I will shew thee the mystery of that woman, and of that beast, that beareth her, which hath seven heads, and ten horns. The beast that thou hast seen, was, and is not, and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and shall go into perdition, and they that dwell on the earth, shall wonder (whose names are not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world) when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is. Here is the mind that hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, whereon the woman sitteth: they are also seven Kings. Five are fallen, and one is, and another is not yet come: and when he cometh, he must continue a short space. And the beast that was, and is not, is even the eight, and is one of the seven, and shall go into destruction. And the ten horns which thou saw are ten Kings, which yet have not received a kingdom, but shall receive power, as Kings at one hour with the beast. These have one mind, and shall give their power, and authority unto the beast. These shall fight with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: for he is Lord of Lords, and King of Kings: and they that are on his side, called, and chosen, and faithful. And he said unto me, The waters which thou saw, where the whore sitteth, are people, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues. And the ten horns which thou saw upon the beast are they that shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate and naked, & shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire. For God hath put in their hearts to fulfill his will, and to do with one consent for to give their kingdom unto the beast, until the words of God be fulfilled. And that woman, which thou saw, is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth. And after these things, I saw another Angel come down from heaven, having great power, so that the earth was lightened with his glory, and he cried out mightily with a loud voice, saying, It is fallen, it is fallen, Babylon that great city, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of all foul spirits, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. For all nations have drunken of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the Kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich of the abundance of her pleasures. And I heard another voice from heaven say, Go out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins are come up into heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities. Reward her, even as she hath rewarded you, and give her double according to her works: and in the cup that she hath filled to you, fill her ye double. In as much as she glorified herself, and lived in pleasure, so much give ye to her torment & sorrow: for she saith in her heart, I sit being a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no mourning. Therefore shall her plagues come at one day, death, and sorrow, and famine, and she shall be burnt with fire: for that God which condemneth her, is a strong Lord. And the kings of the earth shall bewail her, and lament for her, which have committed fornication, and lived in pleasure with her, when they shall see that smoke of that her burning, and shall stand a far off for fear of her torment, saying, Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city: for in one hour is thy judgment come. And the merchants of the earth shall weep and wail over her: for no man buyeth their ware any more. The ware of gold, and silver, and of precious stone, and of pearls, and of fine linen, and of purple, and of silk, and of scarlet, and of all manner of Thine wood, and of all vessels of ivory, and of all vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and of iron, and of marble, and of cinnamon, and odors, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and servants, and souls of men. (And the apples that thy soul lusted after are departed from thee, and all things which were fat and excellent, are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more) The merchants of these things which were waxed rich shall stand a far off from her, for fear of her torment, weeping and wailing, and saying, Alas, alas, that great city, that was clothed in fine linen and purple, and scarlet, and gilded with gold, and precious stones, and pearls. For in one hour so great riches are come to desolation; every shipmaster, and all the people that occupy ships, and shipmen, and whosoever traffic on the sea, shall stand a far off, and cry, when they see that smoke of that her burning, saying, What city was like unto this great city? And they shall cast dust on their heads, and cry, weeping, and wailing, and say, Alas, alas, that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships on the sea by her costliness: for in one hour she is made desolate. O heaven, rejoice of her, and the holy Apostles and Prophets: for God hath punished her to be revenged on her for your sakes. Then a mighty Angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, With such violence shall that great city Babylon be cast, and shall be found no more. And the voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters shall be heard no more in thee, and no craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee: and the sound of a millstone shall be heard no more in thee. And the light of a candle shall shine no more in thee: and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more in thee: for thy merchants were the great men of the earth: and with thine enchantments were deceived all nations. And in her was found the blood of the Prophets, and of the Saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth.

And after these things I heard a great voice of a great multitude in heaven, saying, Hallelu-iah, salvation, and glory, and honor, and power be to the Lord our God. For true and righteous are his judgments: for he hath condemned that great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hath avenged the blood of his servants shed by her hand. And again they said, Hallelu-iah: and that her smoke rose up for evermore. And the four & twenty Elders and the four beasts fell down and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, Amen, Hallelu-iah. Then a voice came out of the throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great. And I heard like a voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of strong thunderings, saying, Hallelu-iah: for the Lord that God that almighty God hath reigned. Let us be glad and rejoice, and give glory to him: for the marriage of that Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready. And to her was granted, that she should be arrayed with pure fine linen and shining, for the fine linen is the righteousness of Saints. Then he said unto me, Write, Blessed are they which are called unto the Lambs supper; he said unto me, These words of God are true. And I fell before his feet, to worship him: but he said unto me, See thou do it not: I am thy fellow servant, and one of thy brethren, which have the testimony of Jesus. Worship God: for the testimony of Jesus is the Spirit of prophecy. And I saw heaven open, and behold, a white horse, and he that sat upon him, was called, Faithfull and true, and he judgeth & fighteth righteously. And his eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns: and he had a name written, that no man knew but himself. And he was clothed with a garment dipped in blood, and his name is called The word of God. And the hosts, which wherein heaven, followed him upon white horses clothed with fine linen white and pure. And out of his mouth went out a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the heathen: for he shall rule them with a rod of iron: for he it is that treadeth the wine press of the fierceness and wrath of almighty God. And he hath upon his garment and upon his thigh a name written, The King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. And I saw an Angel stand in the sun, who cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowls that did fly by the midst of heaven, Come, and gather your selves together unto the supper of the great God, that ye may eat the flesh of Kings, and the flesh of his Captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all freemen, and bondmen, and of small and great. And I saw the beast, and the Kings of the earth, and their hosts gathered together to make battle against him that sat on the horse, and against his army. But the beast was taken, & with him that false prophet that wrought miracles before him, whereby he deceived them that received the beasts mark, and them that worshipped his image. These both were alive cast into a lake of fire, burning with brimstone. And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sitteth upon the horse, which cometh out of his mouth, and all the fowls were filled full with their flesh.

And I saw an Angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit, and a great chain in his hand. And he took the dragon that old serpent, which is the devil and Satan, and he bound him a thousand years: And cast him into the bottomless pit, and he shut him up, and sealed the door upon him, that he should deceive the people no more, till the thousand years were fulfilled: for after that he must be loosed for a little season. And I saw seats: & they sat upon them, & judgment was given unto them, & I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, & which did not worship the beast, neither his image, neither had taken his mark upon their foreheads, or on their hands: and they lived, & reigned with Christ a thousand year. But the rest of the dead men shall not live again, until the thousand years be finished: this is the first resurrection. Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: for on such the second death hath no power: but they shall be the Priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand year. And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, and shall go out to deceive the people, which are in the four quarters of the earth: even Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle, whose number is as the sand of the sea. And they went up into the plain of the earth, and they compassed the tents of the Saints about, & the beloved city: but fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them. And the devil that deceived them was cast into a lake of fire and brimstone, where that beast and that false prophet are, and shall be tormented even day and night for evermore. And I saw a great white throne, and one that sat on it, from whose face fled away both the earth and heaven, and their place was no more found. And I saw the dead, both great & small stand before God: and the books were opened, & another book was opened, which is the book of life, & the dead were judged of those things, which were written in the books, according to their works. And the sea gave up her dead, which were in her, and death and hell delivered up the dead, which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works. And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire: this is the second death. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire.

And I saw a new heaven, and a new earth: for the first heaven, & the first earth were passed away and there was no more sea. And I John saw the holy city new Jerusalem come down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride trimmed for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, Behold, the Tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them: and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be their God with them. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes: and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, neither crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the first things are passed. And he that sat upon the throne, said, Behold, I make all things new: and he said unto me, Write: for these words are faithful and true. And he said unto me, It is done, I am Alpha & Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give to him that is a thirst, of the well of the water of life freely. He that overcometh, shall inherit all things, and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. But the fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, & all liars shall have their part in the lake, which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the second death.

And there came unto me one of the seven Angels, which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come: I will shew thee the bride, the Lambs wife. And he carried me away in the spirit to a great: and an high mountain, and he shewed me that great city, that holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God: and her shining was like unto a stone most precious, as a Jasper stone clear as crystal, and had a great wall and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve Angels, & the names written, which are the twelve tribes of the children of Israel. On the East part there were three gates, and on the Northside three gates, on the Southside three gates, and on the Westside three gates. And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and in them the Names of the Lambs twelve Apostles. And he that talked with me had a golden reed, to measure the city withal, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof. And the city lay four square, and the length is as large as the breadth of it, and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs: and the length, and the breadth, & the height of it are equal. And he measured the wall thereof, an hundredth forty and four cubits, by the measure of man, that is, of the Angel. And the building of the wall of it was of Jasper: and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass. And the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones: the first foundation was Jasper: the second of Sapphire: the third of a Chalcedony: the fourth of an Emerald: The fifth of a Sardonyx: the sixth of a Sardis: the seventh of a Chrysolite: the eighth of a Beryl: the ninth of a Topaz: the tenth of a Chrysoprasus: the eleventh of a Jacinth: the twelfth an Amethyst. And the twelve gates were twelve pearls, and every gate is of one pearl, and the street of the city is pure gold, as shining glass. And I saw no Temple therein: for the Lord God almighty and the Lamb are the Temple of it. And this city hath no need of the sun, neither of the moon to shine in it: for the glory of God did light it: and the Lamb is the light of it. And the people which are saved, shall walk in the light of it: and the Kings of the earth shall bring their glory and honor unto it. And the gates of it shall not be shut by day: for there shall be no night there. And the glory and honor of the Gentiles shall be brought unto it. And there shall enter into it none unclean thing, neither whatsoever worketh abomination or lies: but they which are written in the Lambs book of life. And he shewed me a pure river of water of life clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. In the midst of the street of it, and of either side of the river, was the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and gave fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree served to heal the nations with. And there shall be no more curse, but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and his servants shall serve him. And they shall see his face, and his Name shall be in their foreheads. And there shall be no night there, and they need no candle, neither light of the sun: for the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign for evermore. And he said unto me, These words are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the holy Prophets sent his Angel to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be fulfilled. Behold, I come shortly. Blessed is he that keepeth the words of the prophecy of this book. And I am John, which saw and heard these things: and when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the Angel which shewed me these things. But he said unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the Prophets and of them which keep the words of this book: worship God. And he said unto me, Seal not the words of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand. He that is unjust, let him be unjust still and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. And behold, I come shortly, and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last. Blessed are they that do his commandments that their right may be in the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city. For without shall be dogs and enchanters, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth or maketh lies. I Jesus have sent mine Angel, to testify unto you these things in the Churches: I am the root and the generation of David, and the bright morning star. And the Spirit and the bride say, Come; let him that heareth, say, Come: and let him that is a thirst, come: and let whosoever will, take of the water of life freely. For I protest unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues, that are written in this book: And if any man shall diminish of the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the Book of life, and out of the holy city, and from those things which are written in this book. He which testifieth these things, saith, Surely, I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come Lord Jesus. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all, Amen.
